MONETARY CONFERENCE

A CURRENCY CRISIS EXPECTED IN THE UNITED STATES.

Archbishop Walsh Believes in the Practicability of Bi-Metallism—He Says the Appreciation of Gold Increases the Burdens of the Irish Tenantry.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 1.—The delegates to the Monetary Conference are greatly interested in Archbishop Walsh's declaration in favor of bi-metallism, the adoption of which he advocates as necessary to save the Irish tenant from ruin.

Sir G. L. Molesworth, who is an Irish landlord, said to an Associated Press representative this evening:

"Archbishop Walsh is perfectly right. I, myself, have contended for many years that the Irish difficulty is greatly due to the appreciation of gold, the value of which has increased 50 per cent. since 1871. The Irish farmers contract to pay their rent in gold, but now, owing to the increased purchasing power of the sovereign, they must raise more produce in order to earn the rent money.

"Landlords also suffer as mortgagees and the like and must be satisfied with the appreciated standard. The substantial reductions in rents in the past generation have been made inadequate to meet the difficulty, because the reductions have not kept pace with the appreciation of gold. The adoption of a bi-metallic monetary standard would lead to a slight rise in prices, and a severe fall in the rate of interest, which would result in increased commercial activity throughout the world."

A CRISIS IN CURRENCY.

Is Bound to Occur in the United States—Why Bi-Metallism Is Wanted.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The News' financial article yesterday discusses the pros and cons of the Rothschild scheme.

Opponents of the scheme, it says, take two grounds; first, that it would be wrong to prolong the artificial support of silver, and second, that a currency crisis is bound to occur in America whether Europe bolsters up silver or not.

The News admits the necessity of avoiding a commercial panic is a strong reason for the adoption of the scheme, and says that perhaps a year would suffice for America to turn round and quietly permit commerce to adjust itself to the fall of silver.

The real doubt, The News adds, is whether the threat of an American crisis is grave enough to excuse a temporary and unscientific experiment in currency.

It is regarded as certain that the committee having in charge the Rothschild silver proposals will recommend the adoption of the plan with some important modifications, including a suggestion that the limit for the purchase of silver be reduced to three years.

It is understood that this is not the unanimous report of the committee. The American delegates, although they invite discussion of the Rothschild and other plans, intend to have their own scheme of international bi-metalism thoroughly debated.

Panama Canal Workers Hopeful.

PANAMA, Dec. 1.— Canal affairs are beginning to look more hopeful. Arrivals here, and the arrival of Ex-Director-General Mange was the occasion of numberless conjectures as to the object of his visit.

Information received from most reliable sources states that this gentleman has come to the Isthmus on a special commission from M. Monchicourt to report on the exact state of the immovable property and materials of the company in view of the possibility of the early resumption of work.

The Panama Canal Investigating Committee ordered its inquiry to-day.

M. Flory, auditor in bankruptcy, was called upon to give testimony as to how the money of the company had been expended, but refused.

The committee then heard the evidence of M. Rossignot, M. Flory's predecessor.

M. Rossignot confirmed the statement that Baron Reinach had received 9,000,000 francs from the Panama Canal Company, of which 4,000,000 francs had been described as used for advertising.

M. Boudet, a former secretary of the Panama Canal Company, confirmed the statements of M. Rossignot.

M. Thierree, manager of a Coulisse firm, testified that Baron de Reinach had paid 3,900,000 francs into the firm's account in the Bank of France, and on that security the firm had issued 27 checks. The witness refused to say, however, to whom the checks were made payable.

The committee thereupon appointed three of its members to accompany M. Thierree to the Coulisse firm's office, with instructions to examine books and make a copy of numbers of the checks in question and amounts for which they were drawn.

The committeemen reported that M. Thirree refused to show the checks.

The committee then requested M. Ricard, Minister of Justice, to have the checks seized. M. Ricard promised to send the request to the public procurator.

To-day's session, especially in view of the evidence given by M. Thierree, is regarded as the most important yet held by the committee. The public prosecutor has written to M. Brisson, president of the committee, protesting against the committee's interference in judicial matters.

The Rise in Cotton.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The Times publishes a statement from what it deems a trustworthy source, intended to show that the present rise in cotton is without a precedent, except during the American Civil war, and that the movement is wholly speculative.

Middlemen, it says, are buying as fast as they can in the teeth of a bad state of trade and the strike in Lancashire, and in the absence of any proof of diminution in supplies the estimate of an American crop of 65,000,000 bales is probable, as was the case last year, greatly under ratio. The article continues: "A private telegram from a reliable house says the crops in Texas are much larger than is generally thought, the total visible supply of cotton being scarcely 100,000 bales under the yield of 1891." In conclusion, the article says at least 5,000,000 bales must have changed hands in gambling operations during the past week.

Religion Against Marriage.

ROME, Dec. 1.—The Holy See has declined to sanction the marriage of Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria to the daughter of the ex-Duke of Parma, because in asking the Papal consent Prince Ferdinand stipulated that the issue of the marriage should be trained as members of the Greek orthodox church.

The ex-Duke has therefore refused to assent to his daughter's marriage to Ferdinand.

Justin McCarthy's Health.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The health of Justin McCarthy has so improved that he has abandoned his intention of going to the south of France.

OVER THE PANAMA CANAL.

The Liquidator Anticipates Trouble Between France and the United States.

PARIS, Dec. 1.— Everything that has occurred within the past three weeks has been in consequence of M. Constans' desire to become president of the republic and to revenge himself on the ministers, his late colleagues. To bring about their fall he first attacked M. Floquet.

He will soon attack President Carnot in the person of his relative. M. Constans accuses him of not having shown due care in scrutinizing the report of one of the engineers sent to Panama.

He reckons upon his investigation committee to make it difficult for M. Rouvier, Minister of Finance, and M. Roche, Minister of Commerce, his colleagues, who did not resign, to continue to hold their portfolios.

When M. Constans set about it he found means to compromise all in the Panama Canal affair. It is known how Gen. Boulanger, who was looking out for opportunities, was made corrupt. At the house of the late Baron Reinach is a volume containing copies of letters. This book was found in a trunk in which were the papers of Boulanger, which brought about his condemnation.

M. Constans, seeing that they had not sufficient political importance for a fight against Boulanger, kept a copy of the letters. These and the documents which have originated all this scandal. This is the actual cause of the ministerial crisis.

At present there are less than a hundred deputies compromised. For all that, there will soon be a presidential crisis, just because M. Constans wants to be avenged and to become president.

The Panama Canal matter continues to absorb the attention of everybody. M. Monchicourt, the liquidator of the Canal Company, replies to M. Lauterbach in an interview, and protests against the intention of the pronunciamento. He asserts that the renewal of the contract between the Panama Railway Company and the Pacific Mail Railway was impossible, because the conditions imposed upon the Pacific Mail Company were too burdensome.

Nevertheless the Panama company continues to put forth all its efforts "to assure transit to all points covered by the Pacific Mail Company on the most favorable conditions to American and European commerce."

Europe considers the theory advanced as equivalent to an embargo on European capital for the benefit of American commerce. It finds the theory of the Monroe doctrine, already a difficult one on political grounds, is absolutely impracticable on economical grounds.

The Panama question is decidedly destined to cause anarchy in many minds, and to menace the relations of countries which up to the present time have been most harmonious.

LATEST TRIPLE ALLIANCE.

A Paris Journal Evidently Imagines It Has a Big Scoop.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The Paris Journal, a recently established paper, which goes in for sensation commercials and in no way to be confounded with The Petit Journal, tried to create a new sensation to-day by publishing what it asserts is to be the text of the latest triple alliance treaty.

"We do not state how we procure it," it says solemnly, but we have it here in columns. The story is ridiculed here as a pure fabrication.

This alleged treaty, says The Journal, is in German and was signed by Emperor William and Count Caprivi in May and by King Humbert, June 5, 1891, and is a continuance of the dreibund for six years.

In its articles it provides for co-operation through diplomacy and by "material assistance on land and water" between the several countries in carrying out their several foreign policies. It provides for keeping the several armies on a war footing and for the maintenance of the status quo.

7th—(A) In case of conflict between Germany and Russia Austria agrees to mobilize her armies and declare war against Russia, acting in harmony with the staff of the German army, Italy meanwhile mobilizing her army on the French frontier. In case France should side with Russia Italy would declare war against France, her army entering that country, her base of operations being Savoy.

(B) In case of conflict between Germany and France, Italy will act as above indicated. In such event Austria would mobilize her army on the Russian frontier and declare war against Russia in case the latter should interfere in the conflict and side with France. In such case Austria would act as indicated in paragraph A.

(C) In case of conflict between Austria and Russia, Germany is to mobilize her army and declare war against Russia, sending two army corps into Austria. Italy would mobilize her army on the French frontier and act as indicated in paragraph and in case France should assist Russia.

(D) In case of conflict between Italy and France in Europe or in the colonies Germany would mobilize her army and act conjointly with Italy, while Austria would mobilize her army on the Russian frontier ready to assume the offensive in case Russia should side with France.

The Deacons Still At It.

PARIS, Dec. 1.—A representative of the Associated Press yesterday had an interview with Mrs. Deacon in regard to the threats made by her husband that if his wife's appeal at Aix was delayed he would sue for a divorce in New York.

Deacon made no reference to his wife's relations with Abeille as affording grounds for the granting of a divorce in New York, but declared he would name as co-respondents Prince Lemex Cotte Rochefoucald and Leon Renault.

Mrs. Deacon declared that this was the first time she had heard these names connected with hers. She added: "My acquaintance with the gentleman mentioned is most formal. I know their wives slightly, but the husbands have never been in my house. This is, alas, only another instance of Mr. Deacon's infamy."

Fired His Cantilian Blood.

MADRID, Dec. 1.—Senor Silvela, Minister of the Interior, tendered his resignation yesterday because the Prime Minister would not assent to his demands that the municipal council be suspended from office on account of the recent municipal scandals.

Quinsy Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—I used to be troubled with quinsy, having an attack every winter. About five years ago I tried Hagyard's Yellow Oil, applying it inside my throat with a feather. It quickly cured me and I have not since been troubled. I always keep it in the house.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at the time travelling for Messrs Walter Woods & Co. Hamilton, and I was treated by one of the best physicians in this country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Nor hrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure was complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY believing that the persistent use of it will cure Dyspepsia.
Signed, T. S MCINTEE.

Some people have taken to putting crape on their walking sticks as well as on their arms.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough or cold which is easily cured in its early stages, but becomes, when left to itself, the fore runner of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the delicate tissue of the lungs and bronchial tubes, travels with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, get a bottle of Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that grasps this formidable foe from the human body, and drives it from the system. This medicine promotes a free and easy expectoration, subdues the cough, heals the diseased parts, and exerts a most wonderful influence in curing consumption, and other diseases of the throat and lungs. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and when over a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

MR. T. J. HUMES, Columbus, Ohio, writes: 'I have been afflicted for some time with Kidney and Liver Complaint, and find Parmelee's Pills the best medicine for these diseases. These pills do not cause pain or griping, and should be used when a cathartic is required. They are Gelatine coated and rolled in the finest of licorice to preserve their purity, and give them a pleasant agreeable taste.

THE UNITED STATES FEARS CANADA'S AGGRANDISEMENT.

Admiral Seymour of the British Navy Said to Have Been Sent to Niagara Falls to Arrange a Vantage Railway Line for War Purposes.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 1.—A Lewiston, N.Y., special to The News says:

An important piece of inside news has been privately received here regarding the Canadian Pacific Railway's new branch on the Canadian side of the Niagara River.

Last summer Admiral Seymour of the British Navy visited Lewiston, traveling over the New York Central in an observation car.

During the trip he carefully examined the Canadian side through a field glass, making remarks about the then proposed route.

It has now transpired that Admiral Seymour is one of a commission appointed by the British Government to report on the feasibility of the C.P.R. route as a military highway for British sailors, mariners and soldiers.

The report will be presented next month and will be in favor of the C.P.R.

Toronto military men consider the Niagara branch very important for war purposes.

MAINTAINING RATES.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—A meeting of the presidents and general managers of the railroads in the territory of the Central Traffic Association has been held for the purpose of taking action in conformity with that of the Trunk Line Association in New York two weeks ago. There was a full attendance and the utmost harmony prevailed.

A resolution was adopted providing for a complete restoration of all eastbound rates to the last agreed tariff basis, to take effect to-morrow, Dec. 1.

It was decided to recommend that the officers of the joint committee shall hereafter be three in number instead of two, that Aldace F. Walker shall be chairman, J. F. Goddard, eastern vice-chairman, and George R. Blanchard, western vice-chairman, and that these three shall constitute a board to deal with all questions to be arbitrated.

When the question of pooling came up, a resolution was adopted recommending that the three officers of the joint committee be commissioned to represent to the Interstate Commerce Commission and to Congress the defects of the present law and remedies suggested.

One of the remedies, in the judgment of meeting, should be a restoration of right to pool, under such restrictions as might be deemed advisable for the proper protection of the public.

One of the most important actions taken by the meeting was the adoption of a resolution providing for an absolute maintenance of passenger rates and pledging all the roads to pay no commissions on passenger business after this date. This, however, does not prohibit their agents from receiving commissions from other roads.

Developing Morality.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 1.— Chief Brown of the Department of Public Safety issued an order closing all houses of ill-repute in this city.

All women found in the houses after 10 o'clock to-night will be arrested. The order was issued by direction of Mayor Gourley and is a result of a movement against the social evil recently started by the ministers of Pittsburg.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY DEC. 1

NO ROOM FOR COMPLAINT.

MR. HAL B. DONLY, of the Norfolk Reformer, should now be put on the Conservative pay-roll. An evidently colored dispatch from Simcoe declares that the Liberal Association of that county has by a standing vote declared for political union with the United States. It is not its opponents that the Liberal party has always had most reason to fear.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

That's as true as Gospel. What with annexationists like Hal Donly and secessionists like the editor of the Sentinel-Review, in the Grit party, the good old, loyal Conservative party won't have much to do to remain in power until the world's end.—Hamilton Spectator.

And, after all, what right has the Sentinel-Review, or any other advocate of unrestricted reciprocity, to censure Donly and the other annexationists of South Norfolk? In doing so they have only carried the U. R. fad to its logical conclusion, and have been more honest than those advocates of the fad who have been teaching "veiled treason," and recoil in pretended horror on the removal of the veil. Mr. Blake's warning was not sufficient to prevent his former followers from wrecking their prospects on the rock of annexation. The waters of oblivion will soon close over them.

The Police Magistracy of Deseronto.

At this morning's session of the County Council, Mr. George Mongo, 1st Deputy Reeve of Tyendinaga, asked about the appointment of a Police Magistrate for the town of Deseronto.

Mr. Aylsworth said that the statement which had been published in connection with the matter that he was an applicant for the position was not true. He was not looking for the position, neither did he wish it. He was not responsible for the statements which had been published. A petition had been circulated asking that Mr. McCullough be appointed to the position, but he (the speaker) had not signed the petition. If Mr. McCullough was appointed it would conflict with the duties of Mr. Flint, Police Magistrate of Belleville, as Deseronto was not a separate municipality, and Mr. Flint already had jurisdiction to try cases there.

Mr. Vermilyea said that the petition signed in Deseronto simply asked the Ontario Government to appoint a Police Magistrate for Deseronto without salary, and that the petitioners could not have desired to strike a blow at Mr. Aylsworth, as he was not seeking it or any similar office.

Nothing further was said, neither was any action taken upon the matter.

Palatable and Potent,

The great objection to cod liver oil has been its nauseous taste. This has been entirely removed by the process of preparing "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, which is combined with hypophosphites of lime and soda, the great creator of new blood in the world. It has cured thousands of consumptives by rebuilding their constitutions. Everybody is talking of the wonderful power of this Emulsion. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00 at all Drug Stores.

Principal Grant on Sir John Thompson.

KINGSTON, Nov. 29.—Shortly after Principal Grant returned from Ottawa he was interviewed regarding the selection of Sir John Thompson as Premier. After stating that Sir John was the only man who could have been called in to form a Ministry, and that during the last two sessions he proved he knew how to lead, the Principal said: "Sir John is a true Canadian, a friend of British connection, a man of undoubted purity in private life, one whom the office has sought instead of his seeking the office, and whose whole character, as well as his life as a judge, must make him strongly in favor of gathering round him men of integrity and ability. If the constituencies have no able men to send, or decline to send them, it is unfair to blame a Premier because he selects second-rate men."

In referring to Sir John's religion the principal said: "The men whom Protestants most honor were brought up in the Roman Catholic Church, and they exercise the ordinary rights of reason and conscience when they protested against what they believed to be abuses in the church. How can we deny to any man the right to leave one church for another that he may consider better? When we do that we cease to be Protestants. Sir John Thompson in the opinion of those who have known him longest and most intimately. If he allowed his church connection to influence his political action in any matter he would be dishonest. As to the fact of his change on the mind of others, that, of course, is a question that cannot be answered positively. There are Protestant bigots and Roman Catholic bigots. I think, for instance, that Mr. Chapleau turned Protestant, Quebec would not welcome him very cordially as a governor; or that if Mr. Laurier turned Protestant, he would not have his present following from the province of Quebec. Why, then, should we wonder if there are some Protestants so ignorant as to object to Sir John Thompson on the ground of his being a convert. I should hope for our credit that there are not many such. Of course, he will be watched very closely for the next two or three years, and a glorious opportunity is given him of showing to Canadians that Roman Catholics can be as in political matters as Protestants. It is a good thing to trust men, especially when they have shown themselves worthy of trust. We should not forget that the admiral appointed by Queen Elizabeth to meet the Grand Armada of Spain was a Roman Catholic. He was, however, an Englishman first and a Roman Catholic second. Every man in public life in this country must be a Canadian, first, last and all the time. Sir John Thompson knows that as well as any man, and he would not have taken the office had he not felt that he could take it as a free man. I am inclined to think that he will be tested on the Manitoba school question by the people more than on any other. We could not trust Quebec on the Jesuit estates question. Men who felt that the Act was bad in itself and insulting in form, opposed the Parliament of Canada interfering with it

ON THE GROUND OF PROVINCIAL RIGHTS.

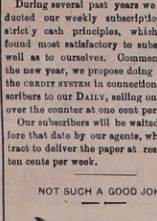

Substantially on the same ground we cannot check Manitoba. I do not know whether the Roman Catholics of Manitoba have been hardly dealt with in the recent legislation or not, but if they have, the appeal must be taken to the people of Manitoba themselves. Any attempt to coerce Manitoba from outside, would rouse such a spirit in the province as would effectually prevent remedial measures for half a century, and would also rouse such a spirit in the other provinces that compromises, which are now accepted and which are working satisfactorily, would very likely be swept away, and bitter feelings thereby engendered that sadly would hinder our unification as a people."

TO SUBSCRIBERS,

During several past years we have conducted our weekly subscription list on strictly cash principles, which we have found most satisfactory to subscribers as well as to ourselves. Commencing with the new year, we propose doing away with the CREDIT SYSTEM in connection with subscribers to our DAILY, selling only for cash over the counter at one cent per copy.

Our subscribers will be waited upon before that date by our agents, who will contract to deliver the paper at residences for ten cents per week.

OTTAWA TONGUES WAG,

BUT THE POLITICAL SITUATION IS NOT CHANGED.

A Slight Ripple On the Political Sea Caused By Rumors of De Boucherville's Objection to Chapleau as Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec.

OTTAWA, Dec. 1.—A slight ripple on the political sea was caused yesterday by rumors that Hon. Mr. De Boucherville has raised serious objection to the appointment of Hon. Mr. Chapleau to the Lieutenant-Governorship of Quebec, and that he has written to Sir John Thompson threatening to resign if the appointment is made.

Of course no denial of or confirmation of the rumor can be obtained from the parties most interested, but the statement that Chapleau and De Boucherville do not pull well together is not new, and it has always been understood that Chapleau's appointment to the Lieutenant-Governorship would not please De Boucherville.

Last night the talk about the Russell House is that Chapleau will not go to Quebec at all, but will remain in the Cabinet at least until after next session. Indeed, the talk last night was that beyond filling the vacancy in the Quebec representation caused by the retirement of Sir John Abbott, there will be no change whatever in the personnel of the Cabinet until after next session.

A prominent Quebec politician, who came up from Montreal last night, says that it is nonsense to talk of Angers entering the ministry and taking a seat in the Commons, in the event of Mr. Chapleau going to Spencerwood, as the Liberals have sworn with a big, big D that he shall not be elected for any seat in that province, no matter how much it costs to elevate the standard of purity and put down bribery and corruption.

The irrepressible J. Israel Tarte said yesterday that, no matter what constituency Angers ran in, he would be opposed, and that he, as the immaculate J. Israel, could raise $10,000 in 10 minutes and $100,000 in a week to defeat him.

If Angers enters the Ministry at all he will probably enter the Senate and lead that body, but there is a strong possibility that he will not enter the Ministry at present.

R. S. White, M.P., and Senator Drummond arrived here at noon yesterday from Montreal, had an interview with Sir John Thompson and left again for Montreal by the 4 o'clock train. This set the tongues of the quidnuncs wagging and a rumor was started that the Quebec difficulty may be settled by Senator Drummond taking a portfolio as Protestant representative from Quebec and assuming the seat in the Senate.

Deputy-Speaker Bergeron came up from Montreal this evening, but declined to talk about the situation.

Half a dozen rumors of various kinds was afloat yesterday, and indeed more people seem to have been at work cabinet-making to-day than on any day since Sir John Abbott's resignation was received, and about the only man who gives no sign of being in the business is Sir John Thompson, who keeps at work in his department, submits patiently to the interviews of newspaper correspondents, the office are last night and will be despatched by the steamer Labrador with a steady and a pleasant smile which breaks some of the searchers after knowledge all up.

Hon. T. M. Daly arrived from Winnipeg yesterday and carefully took his broken ankle to bed in the Russell House, where a newspaper representative found him last night enjoying a pipe and a chat with Dr. Ferguson, M.P. The Hon. Tom looks not one whit the worse for his accident and hopes to be at the Department of the Interior to-day, although he will have to use crutches for some time yet. Both the small bones of the ankle were broken, and the break is still enclosed in plaster, but he expects that will be taken off to-day. Of course, like all the other ministers, he declines to talk politics, but is very pronounced in his expression of satisfaction with the manner in which he was received in the Northwest.

Mrs. Daly did not come through with him, but stopped off at Stratford for a few days.

A SILENCED BATON.

Bandmaster Carey, Sr., Will No Longer Wield It—He Was Out on Sunday

TORONTO, Dec. 1.—William Carey, master of the 14th batt. band, Kingston, for the past 12 years, died at his residence in that city yesterday, from congestion of the brain. Deceased was up and out for a walk on Sunday, but in the evening complained of a headache, a thing he never had before. The bursting of a small blood vessel was the signal of death. Deceased was unconscious during the greater part of his sickness. Deceased was born in Portsmouth and was 61 years old.

The deceased was the son of the bandmaster of the 1st Royal Dragoons, England. His grandfather was the leader of the 28th and 8th regimental bands. The dominant characteristics of the fathers descended to the son. The deceased wandered over Europe with the regiment his father was attached to, and in 1837 came to Chambly, Que. In 1843 young Carey joined the Royal Horse Guards, and as one of the finest bugle cavalry did duty to Her Majesty. In 1855 he was bandmaster of the 9th Regiment at Winchester, and was through the Crimean war. His band played before the Sultan at the memorable parade of all the forces. The bands led by his father, his brother and himself played at the burial of Lord Raglan. In 1856 Mr. Carey came to Canada and in 1859 attached himself to the Royal Canadian Rifles, remaining with it until 1870. He accepted the bandmastership of Prince Consort's Own Rifle Brigade, England, and in 1874 took charge of the G.T.R. Band, Toronto. He reorganized the Queen's Own Band, and in 1880 came to Kingston, and has since been bandmaster of the 14th Battalion. Mr. Carey played before Her Majesty, and was complimented for his work. Mr. Carey was known as a skilful musician, and some of the best bandsmen in Canada passed through his hands. He was of large stature, with pleasant round face and a whitish mustache and goatee. He was a very genial man.

An Old Servitor Dead.

MONTREAL, Dec. 1.— George McRae, Q.C., chief accountant and chairman of the Grand Trunk Railway, died yesterday aged 70. Mr. McRae, who was well known in Montreal and had been in the employ of the Grand Trunk Railway since its infancy, had been ill only since Thursday last, his death being due to a complication of troubles.

Blaine is Recovering.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.— Ex-Secretary Blaine is gradually recovering from his recent attack of illness. He is up and about the house every day and is rapidly regaining his strength.

Telegraphers Satisfied.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—The Jersey Central Committee of Telegraphers had a second day's conference with the management of the road at President Maxwell's office to-day. D. A. Poorhees, chairman of the committee, declined to say what the result was, except matters had been satisfactorily adjusted.

Foxhall Keen to Marry.

He said he would be married on Dec. 14, and said the same day for England, where he has taken a house at Melton for the winter.

Too Much on His Brain.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 1.—B. F. Rynd, the Allegheny lumber merchant who recently failed for over $100,000 and who is charged with having committed forgeries aggregating nearly $50,000, is confined in an asylum suffering from a probably incurable case of paresis.

DROVE TO THEIR DEATH

A Locomotive Runs in Its Pilot Three Crushed and Mangled Bodies.

ELMIRA, N.Y., Dec. 1.—One of the most terrible railroad crossing accidents that has occurred here in years took place at the Pennsylvania avenue crossing of the Erie in the fifth ward at 11.05 last night.

Five persons were returning to their home in the town of Southport from the city in a wagon.

They were William Conklin and wife, Edward Blanchard and wife and Mrs. Maggie Pitts.

The crossing is a dangerous one. No one knows just how the accident occurred, but the wagon was struck by Erie express mail train No. 5, running at a high rate of speed.

The engineer says he did not know he had struck anything, and the first knowledge of the accident by the trainmen was when the train halted at the station, nearly a half-mile from the crossing. At 11.30 word into the station the locomotive bore in its pilot the ghastly burden of three crushed and mangled bodies.

They were those of Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard and Mrs. Conklin. The wagon was shattered among the ties, some of it dropping off at Water-street crossing on the north side of the Chemung River.

The body of Mrs. Pitts and the mangled form of William Conklin, still alive, were picked up about 100 yards from the crossing. Mr. Conklin is in a serious state in the hospital. The extent of his injuries are as yet unknown.

All of the killed had their heads crushed.

LIZZIE ACTS LUNEY.

The Borden Case Requires the Work of Experts in Insanity.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Dec. 1.—Much to the surprise of the community the grand jury investigating the Borden murder case suddenly adjourned on Nov. 21 to come in again on Dec. 1.

The Mercury yesterday stated on the best of authority that the true reason for this hasty adjournment is that Attorney-General Gillsburg believes that Lizzie Borden is insane.

During the recess an examination has been made in regard to Miss Borden's sanity, and when the grand jury comes in again it will listen to the testimony of experts upon this question.

UNTRUE TO HIS TRUST.

He Allowed Sneak thieves to Raid the Village of Niagara Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 1.—Burglars were on the warpath here last night. Several places were entered, although a nightwatchman patrolled the streets.

Amongst the several places burglarized was Pew & Pew's meat market, where some $50 worth of smoked meats were stolen and carted off from the front door on a principal street.

Ald. Davis' photo gallery was entered. Several clothes lines were stripped. Thieves unknown.

BRITISH MAILS.

Despatched by the Trans-Canadian Route to and From the Orient.

HALIFAX, Dec. 1.—The first English mail from China and Japan via Vancouver arrived at the postoffice here last night and will be despatched by the steamer Labrador Saturday to its destination.

The first mail from England for China and Japan is expected here by steamer due Saturday and will be despatched Monday to make connection with the C.P.R. steamer leaving Vancouver Dec. 12 for the East.

WORSE THAN CURFEW

A Convent Bell That Refuses to Be Silent.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 1.—For a week there has been great consternation among the sisters of Notre Dame, who occupy a picturesque convent adjoining St. Ann's Church in the York road, because of the mysterious ringing of the bell at all hours of the day and night.

It kept ringing all night and deprived the sisters of sleep. It was heard in the church during high mass on Sunday, and the sexton cut the wire, but the bell rang all the louder. Then the wire was entirely detached from the bell, and it made still more noise.

"Take it down," was the next order. The bell was removed and was hung up for two days in Father Bartlett's house, but did not ring there. It was then replaced in the convent, whereupon it began to ring again violently. The bell was taken down and put up in a different manner. It kept on ringing and nobody could stop it.

It rang so violently that the spiral steel spring was stretched straight out and the bell oscillated with such force that it beat against the ceiling. Sexton Helmeany now places it in position every morning and removes it at night.

Spain Will Send a Lonja.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—A cable message received here brings the news that Spain will be represented at the World's Fair in a manner proper for the nation which made possible the discovery of America.

The Government of Spain will erect on the World's Fair Grounds a reproduction of the famous Lonja at Valencia, said to be the finest specimen of pure Spanish architecture in existence.

The Government has decided to appropriate $200,000 for its exhibit at the World's Fair, instead of $150,000 as proposed about 10 days ago.

An Official Slammer.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—H. W. Spofford of Washington, D.C., who has been appointed by Congress to investigate the slums of all the cities in the United States having a population of over 200,000, started out today with Police Inspector Ross to commence a preliminary investigation of the slums of Chicago.

A large number of sweating shops and tenement houses were visited. This investigation is but a preliminary one in order to give Mr. Spofford an idea of how many assistants he will need.

The real investigation will not commence until January. New York will be the first city looked into.

Incendiaries in Sandwich.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 1.—The inhabitants of Sandwich are again in terror through the workings of firebugs who seem determined to wipe the place out of existence. The last one to suffer is Constable Masters. Early yesterday morning his barn, together with its entire contents, including a horse, buggy and cutter, was destroyed. Loss, about $700; partly insured. It is stated on good authority that the insurance companies will cancel all risks in the town.

Train Wrecked in Arkansas.

ARKANSAS CITY, Ark., Dec. 1.—The north bound Missouri Pacific passenger train, leaving here at 12.45 p.m. yesterday, jumped the track about 1½ miles from this city.

The baggage car and two coaches left the track. The coach next to the baggage car rolled down an embankment of about 12 feet and turned over, a total wreck, injuring 12 passengers.

Heavy Weights Married.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Chauncey Morlan and Annie Bell were married yesterday in a 14th-street museum, in the presence of a large crowd.

The groom is 21 years old and weighs 442 pounds. The bride is a year younger and weighs 570.

Both are fairly good looking. The Episcopal marriage ceremony was performed.

Firing the Furnaces.

READING, Pa., Dec. 1.— The large furnace at EMMAS, after a long idleness, is being put in readiness for resumption this week, and No. 2 furnace of the Brooke Iron Company at Birdsboro, after an idleness of some time, will resume by Jan. 1. Wagner's forge, near St. Peters, Pa., which has been idle six months resumed operations to-day with large orders on hand.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for Constipation and Headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family medicine. It is said to be the Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water into the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy with ladies for clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c and $1.

A fact which even political economists are apt to forget is that a manufacturer's rate of profit is not the only essential element to success; the aggregate profit at the end of the year is of far greater importance and this in most cases is greater out of a low rate of profit than out of a high rate, because of the increased business, which the low price gives rise to. It was on this principle that Messrs. Tuckett & Son acted in introducing their now famous "Myrtle Navy" tobacco, and to this principle they have ever since adhered. This is one of reasons why people of Canada are smoking the best tobacco which can be produced, at a cheaper price than any other people can buy a similar article.

PAID THE PENALTY!

"Buck," the Murderer, Hanged at Dorchester, N. B.

HE MADE NO CONFESSION.

His Death Was Almost Instantaneous.

DORCHESTER, N.B., Dec. 1.—Robert Olsen, alias "Buck," who was found guilty of the murder of Police Constable Steadman, at Moncton, N.B., on Aug. 1 last, was hanged here this morning.

He passed the night easily, and when he arose at seven o'clock he partook heartily of breakfast.

At 9 30 the gaol officials and entered the doomed man's cell. He shook hands all round, after which his arms were pinioned and the procession was formed.

Buck's spiritual attendants, Fathers Cormier and L'Abbe, walked by his side reading the prayers for the dying.

On his arrival at the scaffold Buck shook hands with the hangman and the priests, after which his legs were pinioned, and the last rites of the church administered. As the black cap was being adjusted it did not appear to go on easily, and the doomed man laughed. When it was finally adjusted and the noose placed around his neck, he shouted

"GOOD BYE, EVERYBODY!"

There being some delay in the giving of the signal, Buck shouted

"LET HER GO."

These were his last words, the weight being released almost immediately. Seven minutes afterwards the pulse ceased to beat. It is believed that death resulted within 30 seconds.

["Buck" is reported to have lived for some years in this district. His companion "Jim," who was sentenced to a long term in penitentiary, stated that he had several years ago attended college in Belleville.—ED. INT.]

County Council.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

Council met at 2 p.m., the Warden in the chair.

Moved by R. S. Tivy, seconded by Mr. P. P. Clark, that permission be given to establish a 40 foot road in the south-west corner of lot 14, in the 8th concession of the township of Wollaston, so as to intersect the Government road allowance on the north shore of Eagle Lake at Johnson's saw mill.—Carried.

On motion, the committee of the whole on Ways and Means resumed, Mr. Holgate presiding.

Moved by A. McGowan, seconded by Mr. P. Murphy, that $115 be granted to the village of Tweed to assist them in building a sidewalk in connection with the new bridge.—Carried.

Moved by Jas. Clare, seconded by Mr. Murphy, that $25 be paid to the secretary of the East Hastings Farmers' Institute.—Carried.

A number of accounts were read and ordered to be paid.

The petition of a number of ratepayers of the township of Marmora, asking the county to rebuild a bridge over Lilly creek in said township, was read.

Mr. Pearce said that the bridge was on the Madoc road. The bridge was rather large, and too much expense would be entailed upon the township of Marmora to rebuild it, and the Council wished the County to rebuild it.—Laid over to the January session.

Mr. Aylsworth moved, seconded by Mr. Murphy, that a roller desk be provided for the Clerk's office, at an expense not to exceed $40. Mr. Aylsworth said that the desk was a necessity, as the one now in use by the Clerk was an old one, and the expenditure was not too great for such an official.

The motion prevailed.

Mr. Wm. Lumb, a farmer of Tudor, addressed the Council, asking compensation for cattle killed on the Central Ont. R'y; the Company did not keep up the fence along the line.

Mr. Tivy said that a number of cattle were killed on this railway in the township of Tudor.

In connection with this matter Mr. Montgomery asked if the Railway Comp'y were placed in the same position with settlers as to neighbors living side by side?

Mr. Aylsworth said they were.

Mr. Montgomery asked the question, Has each Township Council the power to pass a by law defining a lawful fence in their own township, or is it provided for by statute?

Mr. Aylsworth said that each Township has the ruling of its own fence law.

Mr. Aylsworth said that the railway Act says that cattle shall not be allowed to run at large within half a mile of the track.

He did not believe that the railway law would be changed. He did not think the council could in this instance do anything for Mr. Lumb.

Nothing was done in the matter.

The communication of Mr. Boyle in reference to preparing a large map to show the mines and minerals of this county was considered.

Mr. Vermilyea moved that no action be taken upon the matter.

The Warden said the mineral resources of this county were not known. $100 was a small sum and he thought it would be of much benefit to the county. The mineral wealth of this county should in his opinion be more widely known.

Mr. McGargar stated that he had a conversation with Mr. W. H. Biggar, M.P.P., and that gentleman was of the opinion that the map would do good. Samples of the minerals could also be exhibited and the map placed above them.

Mr. Aylsworth was not in favor of the scheme. He did not believe that the map could be executed for the amount named. Minerals from Hastings County would be exhibited at the fair and would be labelled, telling the Township they were obtained from. He seconded Mr. Vermilyea's motion, which was carried.

The committee rose, reported progress, and asked leave to sit again.—Granted.

Moved by Mr. Lancaster, seconded by Mr. Harvey, that the permission of this Council be given to the Township of Dungannon to establish a highway of 40 feet in width.—Carried.

The Council adjourned until 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

Charged With Embezzlement.

Chief Newton yesterday received a circular from Chief Grasett, of Toronto, asking for the apprehension of John Lindsay, of this city, who is accused of embezzling. It appears that Lindsay, who is a young man 20 years of age, was working in Toronto for an express man named Wm. Bacon, and it is alleged that he collected money belonging to his employer and used it for his own purpose. Detective McGrath arrived at noon to-day and took Lindsay to Toronto.

A Correction.

In a note appended to our report of Dr. Faulkner's remarks on the High School examinations, an error was inadvertently made about the number who were successful at the July second class (Junior leaving). Forty per cent. (not 40) were successful.

ST. ANDREW'S DAY

Fittingly Celebrated by Scotchmen and Their Friends.

A Dinner Held Last Night—A Large and Representative Gathering.

The St. Andrew's Society of this city this year celebrated the anniversary of their patron saint by a public dinner, which took place last night at the Anglo American hotel. The gathering of Scotchmen and their friends was one of the largest which they have ever held. The large dining hall was filled. Mr. Daniel Coyle, proprietor, had two large tables extending the whole length of the large dining hall. These were filled with all the delicacies of the season, and the spread was without doubt one of the best which has ever been made in the city. The room was also tastefully decorated for the occasion; the west end, to the rear of the President's chair, was richly draped with the Union Jack and the flags of the Society, also the motto "God save the Queen." At the eastern end of the room was an appropriate motto, namely, "Prosperity to our city." The sides of the room were literally covered with mottoes and banners, among which were: "A man's a man for a' that." "The land we left and the land we live in." "The day and all who honor it." "Should auld acquaintance be forgot." "Sweethearts, wives and bairns." There were also such famous names as Scott, Burns, Miller, Watts, Wallace, and others. Streamers of red, white, and blue were also draped from the ceiling. The scene was indeed an inspiring one.

After justice had been done to the spread the following toasts were responded to:

The President made a few remarks congratulating the Society upon the auspicious occasion, and he also welcomed all present.

"The Volunteers"—A Song, "The Union Jack of old England," by S. Burrows.

This toast was also ably responded to by Lt.-Col. Brown, of the 49th Battalion, and Lt.-Col. Lazier, of the 15th Battalion. Both of these gentlemen spoke eloquently of the brave deeds which have been done by the British army, and also the volunteers of Canada. The speeches of these gentlemen evoked much enthusiasm.

Song, "God Bless the Prince of Wales," by Mr. R. J. Hulme.

"The Governor General and the Lieut. Governor of Ontario." Song by R. C. Hulme.

"The day and all who honor it, and the land we left." Song by Mr. J. McIntosh. This toast was responded to by Mr. Hugh Walker. St. Andrew, the fisherman, the first called of the disciples, the brotherloving Andrew, the earnest, successful missionary, the saint and martyr, whose entire life was without blot or blemish, has been accepted by the Scottish people as their representative. They set him before themselves as an example worthy of imitation, and it is impossible to realize how much the country owes its present proud position among the nations of the world to this high ideal of excellence. St. Andrew is in reality typical of Scotland—clannish, brotherloving—and when the Scot abroad meets Scot, and they gather to celebrate "the Day," as is being done all over the world, whether in cities or our own land or in the neighboring Republic, in prairie homes in the far west, British Columbia, Australia, India, China, the diamond fields of Africa, in fact, wherever Scotchmen are to be found, they are using the name of this disciple to recall the glories of our country, and the memories of "auld lang syne."

"The Dominion House of Commons, and Legislature of Ontario." Song by Mr. S. Roughton.

Mr. W. B. Northrup, M.P., responded to the toast on behalf of the House of Commons. He referred to the many advantages which this country possesses—its minerals, fisheries, etc. He believed that both political parties would legislate in the interest of the country although they might take different means. All were imbued with the idea of maintaining the liberties which we enjoy. The Dominion House of Commons was in his opinion doing what it could in this direction. This country was destined to be a great country and the best way to accomplish such a result was along the lines of British connection.

Messrs. W. H. Biggar and W. H. Biggar, members of the Local Legislature, spoke on behalf of that body. Both gentlemen did honor to the toast. The latter gentleman paid a high tribute to Mr. W. R. Meredith, the leader of the opposition. His influence was felt in every act which was passed by the house. He had every quality to make him a successful leader. Both gentlemen spoke strongly in support of maintaining our present relations with the mother country.

Song by Mr. R. Weatherspoon, "The Land we Live In."

Song by Mr. W. H. Campbell, "The Maple Leaf."

Dr. Wright responded to the toast, and did so in an able manner, extolling the many brave acts of Scotchmen of this country. He referred in a feeling, yet eloquent manner to the late Premier, Sir John Macdonald, whose name would ever be associated with this Dominion's history.

"Burns and the poets of Scotland."

A song by Mr. Bridge.

Ald. Fenton replied to the toast and his speech was one of the finest during the evening.

"The Mayor and the corporation of the city." Responded to by Mayor Bogart, and Ald. Walmsley and Starling.

"Our Guests." Responded to by Warden Cross, Mr. W. R. Aylsworth and ex-Ald. J. W. Johnson.

"The Press." Responded to by ex-Ald. Anderson.

Song by Mr. D. B. Robertson.

"The Ladies." Responded to by Ald. Starling.

The gathering was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

BELLEVILLE.

Interior Decorations.

Since taking possession of the late Kyle House, Mr. Huffman, with his usual enterprise, has been making many changes in this popular hostelry. Besides christening it with the name, Huffman House, he has turned his attention to beautifying the building, commencing with the interior, so as to give his guests the comforts and luxuries to be found only in hotels of the better class.

It is not many weeks ago since the wine room was beautifully painted, and since then a staff of decorators have been busily engaged upon the walls and ceiling of the dining room, and we venture to say that there are few hotels in Canada where one could enjoy a meal in greater comfort.

The style of decoration employed consists of a panelled treatment of walls and ceiling of the Louis XIV period. There are 14 different colorings and patterns used, and the effect is a soft, harmonious blending of colors that is very pleasing and restful to the eye.

The side wall consists of a terra cotta ingrain style, fire gilt, figured, panel filler and panel moulding, 22 inch hand made terra cotta and crimson friezs, "the apple" and a deeper shade of terra cotta ingrain as a cove which extends upon the ceiling; next comes a 22 in figures and floral ceiling extension, then a salmon and gold style, then terra cotta, crimson and gold moulding enclosing in the smaller panels, an Oriental figured filler, and in the large panels, a conventional geometrical design. Four gas pendants, suspended from terra cotta and gold plaster paris centres, complete a handsome ceiling. There is a special decorative effect produced over each window and door, the decorator with rare skill having brought out, in various shades of terra cotta, crimson and gold, a correct representation of a fan.

Mr. John Cornellus and his staff of decorators have done a very artistic job from designs furnished by B. F. Dickens, manager of C. B. Scantlebury's wall paper department. The decorations and hangings were furnished entirely by Mr. C. B. Scantlebury. Mr. and Mrs. Huffman deserve great credit for catering so successfully to the wants of the travelling public, and also for recognizing home talent.

AMUSEMENTS

OPERA HOUSE.

Last night's play and the vocalization of Miss Palmer, Herbert O'Neill, and little Eshel, caught the house, which increases in volume daily. To-night, Tennyson's beautiful dramatic poem—in fact the only successful stage play the Laureate has left behind, entitled Lora. There will be a double bill, as Mr. Lindley appears in farce, and Mr. O'Neill also vocalizes. Saturday afternoon there is a presentation matinee, when sleighs, dolls, skates, &c. will be presented. At night, grand double bill, and the one will produce the finale of some other family. The Three Students Friday night.

Walked Through a Window.

Shortly before noon to day, a number of workmen were engaged in putting a plate-glass window in the office of Mr. T. Stewart, coal and grain merchant, Bridge St., when an accident occurred. One end of the glass was upon the casing of the window and the larger portion of it across the sidewalk. A man came down the street, and not noticing where he was going, walked against the glass, causing it to break into a number of pieces. One of the men holding it, Mr. John Cargill, received a severe cut on the head, and two others were cut upon the hands. The window was 6x12 ft.

MONEY may be scarce, but if you have a little of it to spare, it will pay to buy a few shoes ahead. Just now sixty one large cases of boots and shoes, bought at auction at the sale of the Ontario Shoe Factory stock in Berlin, besides the balance of the Fuller bankrupt stock, are now being sold off by Haines & Leach at the Fuller store, next to the Anglo American Hotel. The whole stock must be sold, and you can get some good bargains.

(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

'No, dear. We lived further west, in a street near Portman Square. I believe that Mr. Brooke finds Bloomsbury a convenient district for the kind of work that he has to do.'

She spoke very formally of her husband; but Lesley began to notice an under-current of resentment, of something like contempt, in her voice when she spoke of him. Lady Alice tried in vain to simulate an indifference which she did not feel, and the effort roughened her voice and sharpened her accent in a way of which she was unconscious. The effect on a young girl, who had not seen much of human emotion, was to induce a passing doubt of her mother's judgment, and a transient wonder as to whether her father had always been so much in the wrong. The sensation was but momentary, for Lesley was devotedly attached to her mother, and could not believe her to be mistaken. And, while she was repenting of her hasty injustice, the carriage stopped between the white globes of electric light that fronted a great hotel, and Lesley was obliged to give her attention to the things around her rather than to her own thoughts and feelings.

The waiter conducted the mother and daughter up one flight of stairs and consigned them to the care of a chambermaid. The chambermaid led them to the door of a suite of rooms, where they were met by Dayman, Lady Alice's own woman, whose stolid face relaxed into a smile of pleasure at the sight of Lesley.

'Take Miss Brooke to her own room and see that she is made nice for dinner,' said her mistress. 'His Lordship has ordered dinner in our own rooms, I suppose?'

'Yes, my lady. Covers for four—Captain Duchesne is here.'

'Oh,' said Lady Alice, with an accent of faint surprise, 'oh—well—Lesley, dear, we must not be late.'

To Lesley it seemed hardly worth while to unpack her boxes and dress herself for that one evening in the soft embroidered white muslin which had hitherto served as her best Sunday frock. But Mrs Dayman insisted on a careful toilette, and was well satisfied with the result.

'There, Miss Lesley,' she said 'you have just your mamma's look—a sort of finished look, as if you were perfect outside and in.'

Lesley laughed. 'That compliment might be taken in two ways, Dayman,' she said, as she turned to meet her mother at the door. And in a few minutes she was standing in the gay little French salon, where the earl was conversing with a much younger man in the glare of wax lights.

Lord Courtleroy was a stately-looking man, with perfectly snow white hair and beard, an upright carriage, and bright, piercing, blue eyes. A striking man in appearance, and of exceedingly well-married characteristics. The family pride which he had long been noted seemed to show itself in his bearing and in every feature as he greeted his granddaughter, and yet it was softened by a touch of personal affection with which family pride had nothing whatever to do. For Lord Courtleroy's feelings towards Lesley were mixed. He saw in her the child of a man whom very name he detested, who stood as a type to him of all that was hateful in the bourgeois class. But he also saw in her his own granddaughter, 'poor Alice's girl,' whom fate used so unkindly in giving her Caspar Brooke as a father. The earl had next to no knowledge of Caspar Brooke. They had not met since the one sad and stormy interview which they had held together when Lady Alice had left her husband's house. And Lord Courtleroy was wont to declare that he did not want to know anything more of Mr. Brooke. That he was a Radical journalist, and that he had treated a daughter of the Courtleroys with shameful unkindness and neglect, was quite enough for the earl. And his manner to Lesley varied accordingly as his sense of her affinity with his own family or his remembrance of her kinship with Mr. Brooke was uppermost.

Lesley was too simply filial in disposition to resent or even to remark on his changes of mood. She admired her grandfather immensely, and was pleased to hear him comment on her growth and development since she saw him last. And their visitor was introduced to her; and to Lesley's interest and surprise she saw that he was a young man.

Young men were an unknown quantity to Lesley. She could not remember that she had ever spoken to a man so young and so good looking before! Captain Henry Duchesne was tall, well made, well-dressed; he was very dark in complexion, and had a rather heavy jaw; but his dark eyes were pleasant and honest, and he had a very attractive smile. The length of his moustache was almost the first thing that struck Lesley; it seemed to her so abnormally lengthy, with such very stiffly waxed ends, that she could scarcely avert her eyes from them. She was not able to tell, save from instinct, whether a man were well or ill dressed, but she felt sure that Captain Duchesne's air of smartness was due to the perfection of every detail of his attire. She liked his manner; it was easy, well-bred, and unassuming; and she felt glad that he was present. For after the communication made to her by her mother, the evening might have proved an occasion of embarrassment. It was a relief to talk to some one for a little while who did not know her present circumstances and position.

And Lady Alice watched the two young people with a little dawning trouble in her sad eyes. She had known and liked Harry Duchesne since his childhood, and she had had not been free from certain hopes and visions of his future, which affected Lesley also, but she thought that her father's invitation had been premature. Especially when she heard Captain Duchesne say to the girl in the course of the evening—

'Are you going to London to-morrow?'

'Yes, I believe so,' said Lesley, looking down.

'And you will be in town during the winter, I hope?'

Lady Alice thought it well to interpose. 'My daughter will not be staying with me. She goes to a relation's house for a few months, and will lead a very quiet life indeed. When she comes back to Courtleroy it will be time enough for her to commence a round of galeties.' This with a smile; but, as Henry Duchesne knew well enough, with Lady Alice a smile sometimes covered a very serious purpose. His quick perceptions showed him that he was not wanted to call on Miss Brooke during her stay in London and he adroitly changed the subject.

'Unfashionable relations, I suppose,' he said to himself, reflecting on the matter an hour later in the evening. 'Upon my word I shouldn't have thought that Lady Alice was so worldly-minded! She certainly didn't want me to know where Miss Brooke was going. To some relation of that disreputable father of hers, I should fancy. Poor girl!'

For, like many other persons in London society, Captain Duchesne knew only the name and nothing of the character of the man whom Lady Alice had married and left. It was vaguely supposed that he was not a very respectable character, and that no woman of spirit would have submitted to live with him any longer. Lady Alice's reputation stood so high that it could not be supposed that any one except her husband was in fault. Brooke is not an uncommon name. In certain circles the name of Caspar Brooke was known well enough; but was not often identified with the man who had run away with an earl's daughter. He had other claims to repute, but in a world to which Lady Alice had not the right of entry.

When Harry Duchesne had departed Lady Alice went with Lesley to her bedroom. Mother and daughter sat down together, clasping each other's hands, and looking wistfully into each other's faces, but saying very little. The wish to ask questions faded out of Lesley's mind. She could not ask any more than her mother chose to tell her.

But Lady Alice thought she had already said too much, and restrained her tongue. It was after a long and pregnant silence that she murmured—

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Hor & Co.," Brockville, Ont.

A Dangerous Cold.

DEAR SIRS,—My little girl last winter had a very bad cold which almost resulted in congestion of the lungs. After doctoring with her for three months without success I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, and two bottles of it cured her. She is now strong and healthy.

Acting Pains Removed,

GENTLEMEN:—I cannot but praise B. B. B. for it has revived me wonderfully. I was completely run down, had aching pains in my shoulders, a tired feeling in my limbs, low spirits, in fact I was in misery. Being recomended to try B.B.B. I did so, with the use of only one bottle I am to-day strong and healthy. I prize it highly.

MRS B. TUCKER, Toronto, Ont.

Is there anything more annoying than having your corn stepped on? Is there anything more delightful than to get rid of it? Holloway's Corn Cure will do it. Try it and be convinced.

Rose pink and mauve, blue and primose, emerald green and red, black, gold, or nasturtium are all considered good combinations.

Much distress and sickness in children is caused by worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator gives relief by removing the cause. Give it a trial and be convinced.

If your hair is gray and thin use Dr. Dorenwend's Hair Magic, and you will soon discover that it is improving the growth, thickness and color. For sale by all first-class druggists; $1.00 a bottle or 6 for $5.00

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINGSLEOR,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

A GERMAN SPY IN FRANCE

THIS WILL GIVE ANOTHER CAUSE FOR TROUBLE.

Letters and Documents Found in His Possession Tend to Prove the Truth of the Charge—He Was Shadowed Through Italy, Austria, Russia and Germany.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The Paris correspondent of the Times reports the arrest in Paris yesterday of a German of the name of Luskina on the charge of being a foreign spy.

Letters and documents found in his possession tend to prove the truth of the charge.

Detectives had shadowed him through Italy, Austria, Russia and Germany until he arrived in France.

THE PANAMA BUNGLE.

There Are Now Better Prospects of a Settlement of the Crisis.

PARIS, Dec. 2.—Figaro says an important group of Jurisconsults in the Senate, at a meeting held to consider the Panama affair, unanimously agreed that the amendment made by Magistrate Privel before Panama Canal Commission rendered the summonses served upon the directors of the company null and void. Fresh citations must therefore be issued and the hearing of the case will necessarily have to be postponed.

An interview between Mm. Brisson and Bourgeois has resulted in a better prospect of a settlement of the crisis. M. Bourgeois is willing to continue as Minister of Education provided the difficulty in the attitude of the Panama Canal Investigating Committee is satisfactorily settled.

It is said that M. Brisson is purposely prolonging negotiations in order to profit by an abatement of the excitement.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The Paris correspondent of The Morning Post gives a list of the sums of money paid to newspapers and newspaper directors by the Panama Canal Company. The list was prepared by M. Ressigal. The list is as follows:

Petit Journal, 300,000 francs; Telegraphe, 120,000 francs; M. Jesienski, director of the Telegraphe 120,000 francs; Martin, 50,000 francs; Gaulois, 15,000 francs; M. Meyer, Gaulois, 30,000 francs; Radical, 100,000 francs; Senator Magnier, director of L'Evenement, 50,000; M. Patinot, director of the Journal Des Debats, 40,000 francs.

The Journal Des Debats denies having received any money. The other papers make no reference to M. Rossiguals testimony.

Three members of the Panama Canal Investigating Committee visited the Bank of France to-day to verify the payment of the checks which M. Thierree yesterday testified had been deposited by Baron Reinach in the bank to the credit of a "Coulisse" firm.

They found that the bank had registered only the names of the houses which drew the checks, of which two were for a million francs each, drawn in favor of the Rothschilds, to whom Reinach was debtor.

The Rothschilds have written to the committee explaining that the checks they endorsed on their account were received at their Frankfort branch and transmitted to their Paris house, which cashed them at the bank.

M. Monchicourt, the liquidator of the Panama Canal Company, refused to testify before the committee on the ground of professional secrecy.

Public Prosecutor Beaupaire is executing M. Ricard's order to seize the Thieree checks, but it is doubtful whether he will forward them to the committee or to the legal authorities.

At a meeting of the Royalist members of the Chamber of Deputies it was resolved to urge the committee to ask the Chamber for the necessary power to carry out the fullest possible enquiry.

A Secret Judgment.

MADRID, Dec. 2.—The military tribunal at Jerez, before which the Anarchists who took part in the recent attack upon the jail at the place Jarazon last were tried, has delivered a secret judgment.

It is reported that several of the prisoners will get penal servitude for life, while the others will be imprisoned for periods ranging from 12 to 15 years.

Wants to Stop Piracy.

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—In the Reichstag today Herr Baumbach moved a motion that the Government take steps to convene an international conference with the object of securing protection of the inviolability of private property at sea in time of war.

Cholera In France.

PARIS, Dec. 2.—Cholera has again appeared at Cherbourg. Four deaths from the disease have occurred there Tuesday. Two fatal cases are reported from Gounouville and the adjacent villages of Tourlaville and Octeville are suffering badly from the scourge. Many children in these places are ill.

A Decorative Artist Dead.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The Paris correspondent of The Times announces the death of Pierre Galland, the world-renowned decorative artist.

Against the Government.

VIENNA, Dec. 2.—Herr Plenen announces in the Reichsrath the withdrawal of their support of the Government by the German Liberals.

CLOTHING STOLEN.

The Nightwatchman Was Sleeping Within Twenty Feet of the Thieves.

RIDGETOWN, Ont., Dec. 2.—A robbery occurred here last night at Thomas Craig's clothing department. The thieves secured several fine ordered suits and a dozen or more of ready-made overcoats besides other clothing valued at about $500.

An entrance was effected by prying the back window with an ax. They did not make much noise, as Walter Olosn, nightwatchman, who was sleeping not over 20 feet away, did not hear their movements.

The matter is in the hands of the police, who are doing their utmost to capture the burglars.

Rev. Dr. Scott's Funeral.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The funeral of Rev. Dr. Scott, father-in-law of President Harrison, was held from the White House at 3 o'clock yesterday. Only the relatives and intimate friends were present. The services were very simple.

This evening the body was borne to the Pennsylvania Depot by the ushers of the White House, and about 7 o'clock a special train left conveying the President, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Harrison, Mrs. McKee, Lieut. and Mrs. Parker and Russell Scott, who accompanied the remains to Washington, Pa., where the interment will take place to-morrow.

Kremlin's Failure.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 2.—Kremlin made another attempt to regain the stallion record. He made a mile in 2.06. A bad break in the stretch ruined his chances. It is not likely that he will be started again this season.

FIRE IN TORONTO.

For the Third Time in a Year the Same Premises Burned.

TORONTO, Dec. 2.—Fire seems to have a special liking for the building Nos. 33 to 37 Adelaide-street west.

The firemen were called out last night for the third time to extinguish a blaze therein. The previous fire took place about two months ago.

The fire was discovered about 11 o'clock last night by Nightwatchman John Calbeck. It was located in a room at the southwest corner of the third flat, occupied by the Name Plate Manufacturing Company, Mr. William Kissinger being manager. The room had only moved in a day or so before. The flames soon spread to the eastern part of the flat, occupied by Alexander Anderson, electrical supplies. Although the fire had gained good headway when the firemen arrived on the scene they confined it to the top flat, which was badly gutted.

The ground floor is occupied by Alexander Rogers, organ; Toronto Electrical Supplies Company; H. S. Thornbery, manager Zock & Lorie, manufacturing jewelers, and H. McLaren & Son, dental manufacturers, occupy the second floor. All these occupants had their property more or less damaged by water, which percolated through the ceilings as if from a sieve. The loss to Zock & Lorie appears to be particularly heavy and Mr. Rogers places the damage to his stock at about $500.

The building is an old one and $1000 will probably cover the loss to it, but it will take several thousand dollars to repair the damage caused to the stock of the different tenants. The loss is understood to be covered by insurance. The building is owned by E. & C. Gurney.

The clear head of the motor-man on a down Yonge-street car averted what promised to be a disastrous accident. The big truck of the Lombard-street hall was tearing along Adelaide-street to the fire. When it got to Yonge-street the electric car was speeding south, and to avert a crash seemed impossible. But the motorman stuck to his post and applied the brakes, while he turned all the wheel controlling the rear of the truck dexterously turned the hind wheels and the truck bounded past, narrowly missing the car.

THE PACIFIC SQUADRON.

The New Admiral Commanded a Gun Boat at the Battle of Pekin Road.

TORONTO, Dec. 2.—Mr. John Shirley, an officer of the Royal Navy, was in the city recently, on his way to Hamilton, in the vicinity of which city his friends reside. After a visit there he goes to Victoria, B.C., where he will assume a position in the naval department. Mr. Shirley states that some new types of naval vessels are to be assigned to the Pacific squadron, the Hawke, a vessel much similar to the Blake, having been named as the flagship in place of the Warspite, which is going out of commission. Two new cruisers and a torpedo vessel of the Tartar and Mohawk type were also to be sent.

In the course of the remarks Mr. Shirley said that the successor to Admiral Hobart as commander on the station would be Rear Admiral H. F. Stephenson, C.B. This officer is well known in Canada, and will be remembered as the commander of the Heron, a gunboat which was sent up the St. Lawrence during the days during the Fenian disturbances. She was at Toronto at the time of Confederation, and fired the salute on the occasion of the installation of the first civil lieutenant-governor of Ontario, now Sir W. P. Howland. Then it was Mr. Shirley became struck with a seafaring life and joined the Queen's Navies. The rear admiral also commanded a ship during the Arctic expedition of 1875.

CENTRE FOR IMMIGRANTS.

Thirty-Six Thousand New Prairie Wrestlers in the Past Eleven Months.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 2.—Nearly 1200 settlers arrived in Manitoba and the Northwest during the past month, making a total for 11 months this year of over 36,000.

November is not considered a phenomenal month for land sales, but during the last 30 days the C.P.R. land department have disposed of 38,500 acres in Manitoba and the Territories, on which they have realized $124,000. For the corresponding period of 1891 $44,000 was the total amount received for land by the company. November sales, as compared with a year ago, show an increase of about 300 per cent.

Those who have been agitating to make the Red River navigable are delighted over the report of Prof. Nelson Daughters, an explorer and scientist, who says he has a feasible scheme for diverting the waters of Lake of the Woods through Red Lake into Red River, thus increasing its height by four feet and making it navigable.

A FIRE-EATER.

And He Threatened to Blow Out His Brother's Brains.

HAMILTON, Dec. 2.—Yesterday Constable Campbell arrested a young colored man named John Vaupatter on a charge of threatening to blow out the brains of his brother Charles.

The prisoner is a showman—the great fire-eater. He arrived in the city only last night, to open his show here, and, if his story is correct, the brother and not he is to blame.

The fire-eater was attired in a long Persian lamb coat and wore a glossy silk tile. He is quite a young man and his people belong to this city.

HONORING HIS MEMORY.

Arranging a Big Convention on the Late Sir John Macdonald's Birthday.

MONTREAL, Dec. 2.—An important meeting of the Conservative Club and the Sir John A. Macdonald Club was held yesterday and preliminary arrangements made for calling a convention of all the Conservative clubs in the Dominion to be held in this city on Jan. 11, 1893, the birthday of the late premier.

Mr. Jacobs, the secretary of the club, has been deputed to visit other clubs in the Dominion in connection with the event.

Died On The Train.

TORONTO, Dec. 2.—A family by the name of Gay, who formerly lived at St. Eleanor's, Prince Edward Island, passed through Toronto. When they left Montreal the man, accompanied by his wife and three children, were going to visit his mother, an aged woman residing on the island. Shortly after leaving Toronto their youngest child, aged 7 months, took a cold and was seized with inflammation. The child became so much worse that it died as the train was entering Montreal station.

An Old Railroader Dead.

PORT STANLEY, Dec. 2.—William Fraser of the Fraser House has received a message from Kamloops, B.C., announcing the death of his brother Angus.

The deceased was well known all along the line of the G.W.R. Many years ago he was employed by the G.W.R. Company in superintending the construction of the line.

About 15 years ago he went west, and at the time of his death was employed by the C.P.R. at Kamloops. His death resulted from a severe cold.

He Will See Dark Life.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Mr. Portal has been appointed British Commissioner to Uganda.

Quinsy Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—I used to be troubled with quinsy, having an attack every winter. About five years ago I tried Hagyard's Yellow Oil, applying it inside my throat with a feather. It quickly cured me and I have not since been troubled. I always keep it in the house.

Untold Misery—What a Well Known Commercial Traveller Suffered And How He Was Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at the time travelling for Messrs Walter Woods & Co. Hamilton, and I was tired of by one of the best physicians in this country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure was complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend N. Hance & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY believing that the persistent use of it will cure D spepsia.

Signed, T. S McINTEE.

Some people have taken to putting crape on their walking sticks as well as on their arms.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough or cold which is easily subdued in time, but becomes, when left to itself, the fore runner of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the delicate tissues of the lungs and bronchial tubes, travels with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, get a bottle of Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that grasps this formidable foe from the human body, and drives it from the system. This medicine promotes a free and easy expectoration, subdues the cough, heals the diseased parts, and exerts a most wonderful influence during each sumption, and other diseases of the throat and lungs If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxi-ty, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup, and when ever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

MONETARY CONFERENCE

ROTHSCHILD'S PLAN BELIEVED NOT WORKABLE.

The Whole Work of the Meeting Will Be Devoted to the Question of International Bi-Metallism—Americans Will Have it Discussed.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The Brussels correspondent of The Times confirms the report that the committee on the Rothschild scheme has failed to come to a decision. He says, however, that a majority of the members assented to the minor points.

It was understood last evening that a report has been drawn up by Mr. Raffalovitch of the Russian delegation, which will explain that the committee has not come to a formal decision and that the views of the individual members of the committee will be given.

These are generally not favorable to De Rothschild's plan. The chief difficulties encountered were the question at which silver should be purchased, the duration of the proposed agreement and the attitude of the Latin unions.

Nobody now believes that Rothschild's plan will lead to a working scheme, nor is anything expected from the plan which C. F. Bergen, the Danish delegate, will probably submit.

The whole work of the congress will be devoted to the question of international bi-metallism, which the Americans are determined shall be thoroughly discussed.

THE BORDEN CASE.

It Is Said the Last Insanity Story Is All Bosh.

TAUNTON, Mass., Dec. 2.—The grand jury resumed its session yesterday and began the examination of more witnesses in the Borden case.

Detective McHenry and wife, who were mixed up with the sensational publication a few weeks since, are among the witnesses who are to testify.

District Attorney Knowlton stated yesterday that the last insanity story was all bosh.

The Grand Jury called for the blood spattered pillow shams and linen taken from the room where Mrs. Borden was found murdered, with the axe beside of the victims, were once more submitted to inspection in the jury-room.

Mrs. Peckham and Mrs. Hall of Fall River, were two new witnesses before the Grand Jury yesterday. It is intimated their testimony was in the line of new evidence obtained during the recent recess.

Hailed President of Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 2.—Gen. Diaz, who in June last was elected to the presidency of Mexico for another term, was formally inaugurated yesterday morning.

Both houses of congress assembled in the Chamber of Deputies and Gen. Diaz entered the chamber escorted by the members of his cabinet and staff.

A committee composed of members of both houses advanced to meet the president-elect, and the president of the House of Deputies then administered the oath.

After the ceremony the president went to the National Palace, where he received congratulations from members of the House of Deputies.

Telegrams received here show that in all the states of the Republic were held celebrations in honor of the inauguration.

A Giant Whaleback.

CHICAGO, Dec 2.—The giant whaleback steamship Christopher Columbus, which will be the largest vessel carrying passengers between this city and the World's Fair grounds next summer, will be launched at West Superior, Wis., on Saturday next. It will be about 4000 tons burden and capable of carrying 5000 persons.

U.S. Internal Revenue.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The annual report of John W. Mason, commissioner of Internal Revenue, was made public yesterday.

The total collections from all sources of internal revenue during the fiscal year ended June 30 last were $153,857,544. The net cost of collection for the past fiscal year was $4,315,046, a percentage of 280 per cent.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, DEC. 2

WILL REAP AS THEY HAVE SOWN.

The Grit leaders, having sown the wind of Unrestricted Reciprocity, may soon reap the whirlwind of Annexation sentiment that will scatter their following like chaff. Sir Oliver Mowat attempted to stave off the inevitable by dismissing an annexationist office holder of his own appointment; but the expedient was unsuccessful. The preaching of annexation under the guise of unrestricted trade, which pernicious doctrine Sir Oliver accepted whilst denouncing it, had struck too deeply into the minds of certain members of the Grit party to be easily eradicated, and Mr. Laurier, Sir Richard Cartwright, Sir Oliver Mowat, and the Globe and Mail, find themselves confronted by the fact that the Reform Associations of Lincoln and South Norfolk have declared in favor of annexation as the policy of their party.

Not only that, but an attempt is being made by traitors in our midst to induce the Democratic party in the United States to continue the attempt made by the Republicans to force or starve us into annexation by the extension of legislation hostile to our interests. This crusade is being actively conducted by the journalistic bravo Farrer, who, debarred by the mandate of Sir Oliver Mowat from stabbing a political opponent under the fifth rib every morning in the Globe, is now devoting his talents to teaching a foreign nation how most effectually to thrust at the vitals of the country which he insults with his presence. According to the Toronto Evening Star, Sir Richard Cartwright's nominee to the editorship of the Globe, occupied a whole page in the New York Sun in explaining the hopeless condition of Canada, and in showing that her only chance for prosperous existence lies in annexation to the United States. He alleges that political union would long since have been an actuality had not the United States entered into reciprocal trade relations with Canada at different periods, and thus prevented the commercial collapse which would have caused her to throw over British connection for a more profitable union with the States. In other words that if the States had put on the tariff screws, and kept them on, Canada would have been squeezed into the union long ago, and he suggests if he does not advise the States to make no tariff concessions now to Canada or the lion's whelp will again fatten on the eagle. He asserts that the Canadian people are living in expectation that Mr. Cleveland's tariff reform will admit Canadian agricultural products free into the States, and he tells his American readers in effect that if they wish to assist the annexation movement in Canada and the annexationists on the other side of the line, they would do well to withhold from Canada any tariff reduction whatever.

The Detroit News, an Anglophobic paper, in an article published a few days ago, endorses the starvation theory. It warns Canadians that the Democrats will not enter into a reciprocity treaty, and repeats Mr. Blaine's declaration of several years ago that if Canadian producers want the commercial advantages of states in the union they must cast in their lot with their neighbors. This article, we may add, is being scattered broadcast over this country by the annexationists, with the object of frightening Canadians into transforming themselves into Yankees. What a pitiful set of fools the traitors must be! Even the Globe musters up spirit enough to turn upon them and tell them that "those who "think that Canada can be starved or "secluded into political union must be "strangely ignorant of human nature, and "especially of the characteristics of the race "who form a large element of both nations. "No self-respecting Canadian will complain "of the American doing the best he can "for himself; but a policy framed, not in "the interests of the United States, but for "the purpose of coercing Canada, would "have no effect but to foster ill-will be-"tween the two countries."

We must not be understood as attaching any weight to this annexation propaganda, or as holding that the great majority of the Liberal party are otherwise than heartily loyal to British connection. Canada has had many annexation movements, but they never were of serious moment, and none of them was so contemptible as that which it is now attempted to boom.

By paltering with treason, the Grit leaders have become responsible for its open avowal by two of their party organs and two of their party organizations. The time has come when they must take a stand. Let them either repudiate and condemn these organizations and organs, or accept the responsibility of declaring themselves disloyal. They "had better speak now."

Palatable and Potent.

The great objection to cod liver oil has been its nauseous taste. This has been entirely removed by the process of preparing "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," which is combined with hypophosphites of lime and soda, the great creator of new blood in the world. It has cured thousands of consumptives by rebuilding their constitutions. Everybody is talking of the wonderful power of this Emulsion. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00 at all Drug Stores.

A "Grand Old Man."

In the DAILY INTELLIGENCER of November 21st, there is an account of a sermon preached on the Sabbath previous at the Bridge Street church, Belleville by the venerable Rev. Dr. Jeffers. The doctor took for his text John XVII 3, and thereon preached a most powerful and eloquent sermon. To those who have listened to Dr. Jeffers, and felt the Demosthenic force of his "reason and passion fused," that any sermon preached by him was powerful would not be a surprise. Dr. Jeffers has done comparatively little pulpit work during the past few years, and the occasion referred to was no doubt gladly taken advantage of to hear the veteran divine and orator. Rev. Dr. Jeffers has been for many years a great master of extempore speech. The size and cogency of his argumentative powers would have made him a marked figure in any of the great deliberative assemblies of the world. The interest excited by his recent appearance is indicated by the following extract from the paper above mentioned: "The day had been specially set apart as 'old men's day,' and it was with particular fitness that the Rev. Mr. Baker urged on Dr. Jeffers (who had been twice their pastor—in 1841 and 1880 to minister to them. Old members of the congregation who had scarce been at church for years were brought in carriages; for them the old time hymns to the old familiar tunes were sung, and special benedictions invoked upon them." The many friends of our venerable brother will join with us in the prayerful wish that his declining years will continue to be filled with the peace of mind which comes from duty well and nobly done, and that they may be cheered and illuminated by the hope which looks beyond.—Christian Guardian.

AMUSEMENTS

OPERA HOUSE.

A very pretty reminder of Poet Laureate entitled "Dora" in which Miss Flint and Mr. Chapman were thoroughly efficient, pleased everybody last evening, and laughter was never repeated so uninterruptedly as in a farce by Mr. and Mrs. Lindley. To night will see a full house as the company produce R. King Curlett's play of the "Three Students." John Mackie appears in his original character and Mr. Lindley essays the tragic role. The scenery as originally presented will be given together with the steamboat and other features. At the matinee to-morrow little Ethel sings Polly O Neil, and presents of sleighs, dolls, etc., will be donated. To-morrow the cow says farewell to its present owners.

Carnot Always Spotlessly Attired.

No president of the French republic has undertaken so many journeys up and down France as M. Carnot. Thanks to his scientific training, the chief of the state is able to model all his trips on the same methodical plan and no hitches of any kind occur during any of his tours. The trips are carefully mapped out long before they begin, nothing being left to whim or caprice. A day is fixed for the departure, a special train is prepared and the president starts punctually at the appointed time. His travelling outfit is arranged on the same simple and orderly plan. In two large boxes are stowed away three dress suits, eleven shirts, three cordons of the legion, four pairs of varnished boots, and dozens of socks, cravats, and white gloves, with two buttons in each of them. If his dress clothes be even slightly damaged by dust or rain the president changes at once without delay, so that he is able to walk as spick and span as if he had just come out of the Elysee into a banquet or reception room. While travelling the president talks to his entourage nearly all the time, never giving himself up to a reverie or to reading. He devotes himself altogether, in fact, to those around him.

M. Grevy was less methodical but equally simple in his arrangements for his annual trip to Montsous-Vaudrey. Marshal MacMahon was also simplicity itself, his chief preoccupation in travelling being his gloves, which were always spotlessly white. M. Thiers invariably superintended his own travelling arrangements, and never went anywhere without his bed—a small military one. On a recent occasion M. Carnot was visiting a provincial town and attended a review at which everybody, himself included, was drenched by a sudden and furious downpour of rain. The presidential carriage took him to the prefecture, where he was staying, in a very bedraggled condition. Several hundred guests had been asked to assemble at 4:30, to meet him, and as it was nearly twenty minutes past when he drove up from the review everybody expected to see him come in with limp collar and spotted garments—like most of the people present. But on the strike of 4:30 the little president strutted in, immaculate as if he just stepped out of a bandbox. His valet had prepared one of the reserve suits and long habit has enabled the president to dress in ten minutes, decorations and all.

Some Turkish Proverbs.

Sit down crooked if you like, but talk straight.

If you come empty-handed they will tell you: "The effendi is asleep." If you come with a present they will say: "Effendi, pray step in."

ATTACKED THE BRITISH.

THE SAMOANS ARE AGAIN ON THE WARPATH.

The Commander of the Australian Squadron Ordered to Send a Warship to Apia Without Delay—The Affair is Probably a U. S. Business Dodge.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company says that news has been received from Samoa to the effect that the native insurgents have attacked English residents.

Orders have been telegraphed to the commander of the Australian squadron to send the warship Ringarooma to Apia without delay.

THE LIBERALS.

Want the Germany Army Bill Pruned To Practicability.

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—During the debate on the budget, which was continued yesterday, Dr. Buhl, a leader of the National Liberals, said that his party would vote for the demands made by the Government for military purposes so far as was compatible with the vital interests of the Empire, but the carrying out of the provisions of the Army Bill to their full extent was impracticable.

In the course of his speech Dr. Buhl complained of the inadequate share Germany had taken in the celebration in honor of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America.

Chancellor von Caprivi, in reply to Dr. Buhl, said that Germany had been worthily represented in the Columbus fetes at Genoa and the celebrations in Spain. The Government, he added, had received the warmest thanks from Italy and Spain for the part it had taken in their respective celebration.

GULLING THE INNOCENTS.

Wholesale Forgery of Autograph Literary and Historic Documents.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Considerable of a sensation has been created in the literary world by the discovery at Edinburgh of a system of wholesale forgery of autograph literary and historic documents. The discovery was due to the publication of an alleged manuscript poem by Burns. This poem was found to be a reprint from a fugitive magazine of poetry that appeared when Burns was only 7 years old. A number of antiquarian booksellers of the highest repute have unconsciously circulated the forgeries, which include a parchment copy of "The Solemn League and Covenant," which, if genuine, would be of untold value; letters purporting to have been written by Burns, Scott, Thackeray, Burke, Cromwell, Carlyle and Mary, Queen of Scots.

There is no reason to suspect that the collection of manuscripts of Burns' poems presented in 1890 to the city of Edinburgh by Mr. Kennedy, the New York banker, are not genuine.

THE STRIKERS RAN.

After Exchanging Volleys From Revolvers With the Police.

LIEGE, Belgium, Dec. 2.—The strikers at the Horlez mines excitedly paraded the streets causing a tumult, which led the authorities to prohibit assemblages.

Thereupon the strikers stoned the gendarmes, who ordered them to disperse.

For reply they received a volley from revolvers.

The gendarmes then fired on the miners, killing one and wounding three, including a woman. The strikers then fled.

85 Lives Lost.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—A despatch from Nagaisaki states 85 lives were lost by the sinking of the Japanese war ship Chishimarukan, which was in collision in the Inland Sea with the British steamer Ravenna.

The vessel filled and sank so rapidly there was no opportunity afforded to lower the boats. Some of the lost went down in the ship, while others were drowned before assistance could reach them from the Ravenna. The latter was badly damaged, her bow being stove in, and it required the utmost effort to keep her afloat.

Bluffing the Government.

MADRID, Dec. 2.—The Marquis de Cubas, the new mayor of Madrid, has resigned on account of the complications arising from the prosecution of the municipal officers. The shops of the city are generally closed as a demonstration of sympathy with the mayor. The civil governor and the director of posts and telegraphs will tender their resignations unless the Government yields to the demands that the prosecution of the municipal authorities be immediately stopped.

The police yesterday forbade a popular demonstration in favor of the late Mayor, Marquis De Cubas. A mob paraded the streets headed by a woman carrying a black flag. There was great excitement.

Stopped the Procession.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—About 300 persons, mostly youths of London unemployed, started at Tower Hill last night to carry out their pre-announced intention to hold a midnight procession. The police were out in large numbers. They permitted the paraders to proceed as far as Temple Bar, where they easily dispersed them.

The New Edition of Goethe.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The Post's Berlin correspondent says that a hundred unpublished epigrams of Goethe and Schiller, discovered in the Goethe archive at Weimar, will be included in Prof. Schmidt's new edition of Goethe.

Two Steamers Wrecked.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—A telegram from Athens announces the loss of two British steamers, one the Arabian Prince, Capt. Milburn, which was wrecked off the Island of Euboa, and the other the Sir Francis Drake, which was wrecked off Cape Matila on the southern coast of the Morea. No loss of life is reported in either case.

A Western Bar Meeting.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Lawyers from all the counties of this part of the province have formed the Bar Association of Western Ontario. John Idington, Q.C., Stratford, is president and J. P. Moore, London, secretary.

LONDON, Dec 2.—William Waldorf Astor has taken Cliveden, the Duke of Westminster's seat, for five months from December to April.

CARS RUN AMUCK.

GREENVILLE, Pa., Dec. 2.—At Shenango yesterday two freight cars broke loose on a steep grade and started towards the station at a terrific rate, having a clear piece of track two miles long.

As the train approached Shenango the switch engine happened on the track the runaway cars were travelling. Before the men in the cab could escape the cars were upon them with an awful crash. The wreck of both cars and engine was complete, and James Dunley and Charles McDowell, engineer and fireman on the switcher, were both killed.

Killed While on Duty.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Dec. 2.—Engine 542 of the Lehigh division of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway exploded its boiler last night at Brownsville. Engineer Will Barry was instantly killed, and Simon Neifer, a fireman, was badly scalded and may die.

MEANS A FRESH APPEAL.

To the Country if Gladstone's Home Rule Bill is Accepted Or Rejected

LONDON, Dec. 2.—It is stated Michael Davitt desires to resign his present seat in Parliament, and to run again without priestly assistance, but under the charges of undue clerical influence he will not be permitted to accept the Chiltern Hundreds.

The Daily News hints that the tenantry of Mr. Fullam in South Meath, on account of Bishop Nulty's unwise pastoral, must make Davitt uncomfortable.

The Times says: "This is a point of some importance, for it is to be to the vote of the Irish clericals that the Gladstone Government owes its precarious life. The votes of the Irish clericals now dominate the policy of the British Empire. The South Meath petition has shown us something of the powers which in turn dominate them."

The Chronicle says: "The result in South Meath may be useful to the Irish party, if it teaches them to curb their priests and to imitate O'Connell in repudiating politics from Rome. Bishop Nulty tried to aid Davitt as he aided Fullam, and it is feared Davitt will also be unseated. At the same time we must avow that if we began to tackle the thorny subject of spiritual intimidation, we shall find ourselves involved in all the troubles of continental politics."

The opinion prevails in Dublin that the McCarthyites are certain to regain the South Meath seat by an increased majority. Modifications will be made in the measure of 1886 as follows:

Clause 4, restricting the powers of the Irish Legislature, is enlarged by further defining the limitation of the powers of the Legislature to interfere with the endowment of religion or to impose disability or confer privilege on account of religious belief.

Further guarantees relating to denominational education are provided. Next the constitution of the legislative body will be modified by raising the number of members of the first order in the Upper House, who, as in the first bill, shall hold office for 10 years.

The much-disputed clause 27, removing the Irish peers from the House of Lords and the Irish members from the House of Commons, disappears in the new bill, the representation of Ireland in the Imperial Parliament remaining the same as at present.

To meet the threatened active refusal or passive resistance of the Ulsterites to the Irish Parliament by the non-payment of taxes, sub-section 4 of clause 19 is to be extended so as to insure the employment of the police and military forces to enforce the payment of all taxes leviable by the Irish Parliament.

Another alteration relates to disputes arising between the Irish Legislature and the Imperial Parliament.

If Mr. Gladstone passes the bill in the House of Commons, it is certain to be rejected by the House of Lords. This will involve a fresh appeal to the country.

Even if the peers are at once submissive to the will of the people and allow the measure to become a law, the alteration of the representation in the Imperial Parliament consequent thereon will require another general election, while the initiation of the new Irish administration will draw heavily upon Mr. Gladstone's energies.

A DAHOMEYAN NERVE.

Three Masked Burglars in Chicago Bluffed by a Woman.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2—Mrs. Mena Berger, while cleaning her husband's saloon this morning, was suddenly confronted by three masked burglars.

Similar apparitions have been numerous recently and the gritty woman, who had thought out before what to do in such a case, quickly pulled out a revolver and commenced shooting. One of the trio was wounded, but all escaped.

An Express Combine.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The initial movement in what seems to be a war for express business in New England between the American Express Company and the Adams Express Company began yesterday, when negotiations looking to the control of express business of the New England road by the American were closed and the Adams cut off.

With this statement came an announcement that the New England road had been enjoined from entering into a contract with the American Express Company. The American Express is doing New England business under its contract, despite the legal complications.

Western Flour Market Dull.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 2.—The Northwestern Miller says: Although considerable time was lost last week through a shortage of water the flour output nearly equalled that of the previous week.

The production was 184,315 barrels against 186,790 barrels the week before.

The flour market is pretty dull and it is hard to sell flour except on a consumptive basis, and then exceedingly low quotations have to be made. For a week back most of the local firms have worked off all the patent and low grades they made, and the business was chiefly done in domestic markets.

There is still a good demand for red dog for feed and prices are firm. Export trade continues very dull. Direct export shipments last week were 40,180 barrels against 61,200 barrels the preceding week.

Telegraphers' Grievances.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Officials of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific and the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroads confidently assert that there will be no strike of the telegraphers employed by those companies.

The Executive Board of the Rock Island branch of the order of Railway Telegraphers had a conference yesterday with officers of the company and asked for a new schedule of wages for the operators on that system. What they want is payment for overtime and a minimum salary of $45 per month.

A further hearing will be given the committee next Monday. Members of the order say that no strike is contemplated.

The Storm at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—The rainstorm which began here Saturday night has continued and has been accompanied by winds from the southeast and southwest that have done some damage. The ferry boats were prevented yesterday from running for a time, and steamers which make weekly trips to points north and south on the coast did not put to sea. Considerable damage was done among vessels in the harbor.

A report was received last evening that several fishing boats had been capsized near West Berkeley and seven Italian fishermen drowned.

A Grain Blockade.

SIOUX FALLS, S.D., Dec. 2.—Reports from all points in the State indicate that the grain blocade is growing serious. There are at least 2,500,000 bushels of grain in elevators and in many places warehouses, vacant stores and even residences are filled.

The railroads do not seem able to cope with the blockade and the railway commission fear that for the next three weeks, with good weather, the blockade will grow worse.

Storms in Scotland.

DUNDEE, Dec. 2.—A severe gale has been prevailing over Scotland since Sunday.

Heavy snowstorms are reported in the far north.

A quantity of wreckage has drifted ashore at Ullapool on the west coast. It is judged from the wreckage that a large steamer bound from a German port for New York has been lost.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and sure cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50 cents a package.

A fact which even political economists are apt to forget is that a manufacturer's rate of profit is not the only essential element to success; the aggregate profit at the end of the year is of far greater importance and this in most cases is greater out of a low rate of profit than out of a high rate, because of the increased business, which the low price gives rise to. It was on this principle that Messrs. Tuckett & Son acted in introducing their now famous "Myrtle Navy" tobacco, and to this principle they have ever since adhered. This is one of reasons why people of Canada are smoking the best tobacco which can be produced, at a cheaper price than any other people can buy a similar article.

WAS SHE KIDNAPPED?

A GIRL RUSHED OFF IN A HACK.

A Strange Woman Claiming to be Her Mother Says the Girl is Heir to 40,000 Dollars, and Takes Her Away in the Night.

The sensation of the town to day is the account of the sudden appearance in the city of a strange woman, who claimed a waiting girl in one of the hotels and takes her away in the night through the aid of a policeman, and people are naturally anxious to know if there is any FOUL PLAY.

Some time since a girl engaged at one of the hotels as a waitress, giving her name as Maggie May, and on the night of Nov. 30 a woman arrived at the hotel off the midnight claiming to be the mother of the girl in question whom she said she had not seen for ten years. As it was long past midnight the hotel proprietor naturally asked the woman to remain until morning when she could upon which the woman became very demonstrative, and offered $25 for the production of the girl at once, which made the matter look suspicious. The woman left, and returned with Constable Downs, who demanded that the girl be produced. The girl was aroused from a sound sleep, and came out

MORE ASLEEP THAN AWAKE.

Upon seeing the girl, the woman said she was not her child, yet claimed her, when Constable Downs bundled the woman and girl into a cab, which drove off; and now the question is, was the woman the girl's rightful guardian, or was the GIRL KIDNAPPED?

The woman is said to have been known in the city at one time as Mrs. Jubert, the wife of a saloon keeper, who since died, when she is said to have married a rich man in Indianapolis, and claimed when here that the girl was heir to $40,000. As a woman has been prowling around Peterboro' and Cobourg securing girls for immoral purposes, an air of suspicion surrounds this case, which needs an investigation.

The Trenton Fire.

Further Particulars—An Investigation to be Held.

The Trenton Advocate gives the following particulars regarding the fire in that town on Wednesday morning, at which a life was sacrificed:

Mrs. Westfall, who lived in the building and who inhaled a large quantity of smoke and heat, is in a precarious condition. The west half of the block was insured for $800 and the east half for $400. The stock which was valued at from $3,000 to $3,500 was insured for $1,700. We understand there was no insurance on Mrs. Westfall's household effects. The cause of the fire is unknown, but is believed on all sides to have been a deliberate case of incendiarism. A few weeks ago the building was fired in the same spot. This time the match was successful. Everything in the Salvation Army barracks was lost.

On being informed of the facts of the case, County Crown Attorney Henderson requested Coroner Moran to hold an inquest.

The whole matter we understand will be most searchingly inquired into. At 2 p.m. Wednesday the Coroner had the following jury empanneled: Messrs. R. J. Irving, foreman; H. Bull, G. Stoneburg, J. Crowe, J. A. Pence, J. Burtt, R. Foster, J. H. Dickey, T. H. James, W. H. Ireland, Dr. Preston, H. H. Day, S. Solmes, J. Hetherington, G. Ireland, J. Funnell and S. B. McClung. The Coroner addressed the jury in reference to the matter under investigation, and after viewing the body of Mrs. Rawe, the inquest was adjourned until Friday at 2:00 p.m.

Jay Gould Dead

The Famous Capitalist Passes Away this Morning.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Jay Gould died at 9:15 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Gould's life for the past few months had been a constant battle against the inevitable, and all that medical skill and the interest of friends and relatives could suggest, were employed to prolong the great financier's life. The direct cause of death, it is stated, was pulmonary consumption. Mr. Gould died surrounded by his children.

THE DEAD MAN'S MILLIONS

Over his own telegraph wire, the Western Union, the announcement is made this morning that the great financier, Jay Gould, is dead, a fact that will electrify the commercial world. It was supposed that his death would break the price of stocks, but it had the opposite effect, as removing from the commercial atmosphere a disturbing element. Probably during his brief life of less than three score years, he has amassed a larger fortune than any single individual, but much of it has been made through the wrecking of the fortunes of others. A short time since he lost his wife, and in his devotion to her bed side through a long sickness, he exhibited a lovering kindness, unexpected by the commercial world, which he fought so successfully. He left a family well capable of taking charge of his accumulated wealth, and the world is busy to-day reckoning up the dead man's millions.

Tweed Methodist Church.

TWEED, Dec 1.—The new Methodist church here was dedicated to-day by Rev. Dr. Potts of Toronto who preached an able and stirring sermon from the subject "Walk About Zion." Rev. Mr. Pearson, Rev. Jolliffe and others took part in the services. A tea meeting was held in the evening, after which addresses were given by the Rev. W. Jolliffe of Tamworth, Rev. M. L. Pearson of Brampton and Rev. Dr. Potts of Toronto. The church is a beautiful stone structure, 54 by 75 feet, and has a seating capacity of 600. It cost $11,000, towards which the trustees have previously raised $5,500, while the proceeds of the dedication services amount to $2,500.

County Council.

THURSDAY MORNING.

Council met at 10 a.m., Warden Cross presiding.

The minutes of Wednesday's session were read and confirmed.

Mr. Dench enquired what the committee which was appointed to interview the Legislature in reference to Colonization roads had done.

Mr. Vermilyea stated that he and Mr. Murphy had been at Toronto, but did not get any money at the time, but it would no doubt be given at the next session. If not, they would again go to Toronto at their own expense.

The Council went into committee of the whole on special communications, Mr. Murphy in the chair.

The communication of Mr. R. J. Graham, asking that his brother be sent to the Agricultural College as a County student, was considered.

Mr. Haggerty said that he had a son who wished to attend the college, but if Mr. Graham wanted his brother to attend, he, Mr. Haggerty, would wait until October next.

Mr. Aylsworth moved, seconded by Mr. Dench, that W. R. Graham be sent as a student.—Carried.

The petition from the County Council of Northumberland and Durham, asking the co-operation of Hastings Council in petitioning the Legislature in reference to reducing the number of county councillors, was considered.

Mr. Aylsworth moved, seconded by Mr. Thompson: Of all the propositions so far made that we have seen for reducing the number of County Councillors, there is none so far that wholly commends itself to us, and we think the business of the County Councils can in all ordinary years be done at three short sessions, consequently there is no urgent need for reducing the number of Councillors; and as a matter of fact, the County Council is an educator of members for usefulness in the smaller Councils of the minor municipalities; hence we do not at present care to ask for a reduction in the number of our County Councillors.

The mover said that no scheme which he had seen was really practicable. The County Council was an educator to the members. They got a better knowledge of municipal matters by attending the County Council. The municipality should, in his opinion, be represented in accordance with its assessed value.

Mr. Vermilyea said he did not altogether agree with the resolution. He was in favor of reducing the number of members. The representation should, in his opinion, be according to population. Two members from Thurlow would, in his opinion, be enough, instead of four. The expense would then be lessened considerably. Our expenses were growing above what people were able to pay. It was the duty of the Legislature to take this matter into consideration, and find a scheme which would meet with approval.

The Warden did not think that anything would be gained if a reduction was made in the number of councillors. It would be a great mistake to make a change. The expense was not great for the information which was obtained.

Mr. Farley thought the council should express an opinion. The number of councillors should be reduced. Those who were in favor of a reduction should express their opinion even if a definite scheme was not proposed.

Mr. Murphy said he would support the motion, which was carried.

A petition was presented from the Council of Lanark County in reference to market fees.

Mr. Aylsworth was of the opinion that a free market would work against the farmer. Deseronto had a free market, and as a consequence the market was flooded, and prices were not as good.

Mr. Dench, as an agriculturist, was not in favor of abolishing the fees. There would not be so good a market. It was not in the interest of the farmers to do away with the fees, but they might be reduced.

Mr. Hurley said it would not be fair to abolish the fees where there were good accommodations for the sellers of produce.

Mr. Vermilyea thought there were wrongs which might be righted. The fees were, in his opinion, too high.

Mr. Aylsworth moved, seconded by Mr. Dench, that no action be taken on the communication.

Mr. Holgate said that it was the duty of the County to do something in reference to this matter. There were grievances which should be remedied.

Mr. Aylsworth said that the city of Belleville should modify their by-law. A committee should be appointed to wait upon the City Council in reference to the matter.

The motion of Mr. Aylsworth prevailed.

The petition from Ontario County, asked the co-operation of Hastings Council in memorializing the Ontario Legislature in reference to the appointment of a referee to try actions for damages which may arise on account of the non repair of highways, was brought up.

Mr. Aylsworth did not think that it would be in the interest of the County to have referees appointed. It would not be favorable. This County had been rather fortunate in the settlement of claims for damages which had been made.

On motion no action was taken upon the communication.

The committee rose and reported progress, and asked leave to sit again.—Granted.

It being the hour of noon, the Warden left the chair.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

Council resumed at 2 p. m., the Warden in the chair.

Mr. Vermilyea, chairman of the Finance and Public Property committee, presented the following report:

Your committee have built a new fence at the north side of Court House property, have removed the fence at the front, and have ordered the removal of the fence at the south of Shire Hall.

The trees upon the court house grounds and along the streets at both sides, have been trimmed.

The Registry office has been cleaned, kalsomined, painted, and matting and carpets put upon the floor.

We recommend George Evans as caretaker of the County property on Front St. taken over from the Ponton estate, and that Jordy Cook be appointed caretaker of that upon Bridge St. west, without salary; and that suitable tables and desks be supplied for the Registry office.

On motion, the report was adopted.

Mr. Haggerty presented a report regarding the claim of Revd Tobias Meyers, for land taken by the County to widen the road near Rose corners, which was referred to the Roads and Bridges committee at the June session. The committee recommend that $60 be paid him for the same, when he furnishes the County Treasurer with clear title and deed of the land. The land taken was 37 rods long, and 1 rod wide.

On motion this was adopted and referred to the Ways and Means Committee for an appropriation.

On motion the Ways and Means Committee resumed, Mr. Holgate in the chair.

Mr. Henry Totten, provincial auditor, sent in a communication stating that he was about to issue a new manual of tariff fees, and asking the Council if they wished to procure some copies. They would cost $1 each.

Mr. Aylsworth said that it was well to purchase some of these new works. He moved that the Treasurer be authorized to sign a requisition for the purchase of 35 copies.

Mr. Vermilyea said Mr. Totten was an efficient officer and his work was thorough.

The motion prevailed.

A number of accounts were presented and ordered to be paid.

On motion the committee rose and reported progress and asked leave to sit again.—Granted.

The committee of the whole on communications had reported but a motion was made that the committee resume, which was carried. The committee resumed, Mr. Murphy in the chair.

Mr. Haggerty moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that the name of Jas. W. Haggerty be inserted instead of W. R. Graham as a County student to the Agricultural College at Guelph, and that the Clerk furnish the necessary certificate.—Carried.

The committee rose and reported. The report was received and adopted.

Moved by Mr. Dench, seconded by Mr. Olare, that the Reeve of Thurlow and the 1st Deputy of Sidney be a committee to confer with the Council of the city of Belleville, and make such arrangements with them in the matter of market fees that will give better satisfaction in the future than it has in the past, to the ratepayers of this county, as it is in the opinion of this Council that they have exacted more than they should, and to report at the January session.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Montgomery, seconded by Mr. Vermilyea, that this Council place on record its sense of the high, personal and representative character of the late C. Williams, 1st Deputy Reeve of Rawdon, and express their sincere condolence to his widow and family, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to Mrs. Williams by the Clerk.

The mover said he had known the late Mr. Williams for some time, and he was a man who was much respected. The resolution was, in his opinion, a proper one.

Mr. Vermilyea said the deceased was a man who did his duty. His record was an honorable one. He aimed to do what was right in all matters.

Mr. Aylsworth said he had known the late Mr. Williams for some years, and had found him to be a man who was well versed in municipal affairs. The resolution was a proper one.

Mr. Paul Kingston spoke feelingly upon the motion. He said that the deceased and himself had had many warm contests for a seat in the Council, but they had always remained true friends. No one regretted his death more than the speaker, and no one felt his loss more. By his death, the Council had lost a valuable member and he (the speaker) a trusty friend. He heartily approved of the motion.

Mr. Bateman concurred in the resolution. He had also lost a faithful friend. For nearly 13 years he had sat in the Council with Mr. Williams, and found him conscientious in all his dealings. The deceased was very much esteemed.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

On motion, the Council adjourned until 9:30 Friday morning.

BELLEVILLE.

An Old Soldier Gone.

Alexander Forbes, late sergeant in the gallant "Forty-two," the Black Watch Highlanders, who was left for dead on the field of Alma, passed away at the Hospital this morning, after a brief illness. He was well known in Wollaston and Limerick, where he resided for several years, and had many friends in Belleville who will miss the old veteran's half-yearly visits and the tales he told of battles fought and won. He was in the proud possession of two medals and clasps, and four good conduct, badges with pensions. The late Alexander Watters and Alex. Forbes were boys together at Newton, parish of Walthem, Scotland, and often recalled in Belleville the by gone days. They fought side by side, but in different regiments, Sandy Watters having served in the 93rd Sutherland Highlanders. The funeral will be conducted under the auspices of St. Andrew's Society, at 3:30 p.m. to morrow (Saturday), from the Hospital.

BROOKE'S DAUGHTER.

BY

ADELINE SERGEANT,

Author of "A True Friend," etc., etc.

(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

'Lesley, my child, I want you to promise me something.'

'Oh, yes, mamma!'

'I feel like one who is sending a lamb forth into the midst of wolves. Not that Mr. Brooke is a wolf—exactly,' said Lady Alice, with a forced laugh, 'but I mean that you are young and—and—unsophisticated, and there may be a mixture of people at his house.'

Lesley was silent; she did not quite know what 'a mixture of people' would be like.

'I am so afraid for you, darling,' said her mother pleadingly. 'Afraid lest you should be drawn into relationships and connections that you might afterwards regret. Do you understand me? You promise me not to make no vows of any sort while you are away from me? Only for one year my child —promise me for the year.'

'I don't think I quite understand you, mamma.'

'Must I put it so plainly? I mean this Lesley. Don't engage yourself to be married while you are in your father's house.'

'Oh, that is easily promised!' said Lesley with a smile of frank amusement and relief.

'It may not be so easy to carry out as you think. Give me your word, darling. You promise me before you say engagement of marriage for a year? You promise me that?'

'Oh, yes, mamma, I promise,' said the girl, so lightly that Lady Alice almost thought that she had done an unwarrantable thing in exacting a promise only half understood. But she would feel her way cautiously, as I went on, as if exculpating herself—

'It is a safeguard. I do not ask you to marry only a man that I approve—but simply ask you to wait until I can help you with my advice. It will be no loss to you in any way. You are too young to think of these things yet; but it is on the young that unscrupulous persons love to prey—and therefore give you a warning.'

'I am quite sure that I shall not need it,' said Lesley confidently; 'and if I did, I could write to you and ask your advice—'

'No, no! Oh, how could I forget to tell you! You are not to write to me while you are in your father's house.'

'Oh, mamma that is cruel.'

'It is his doing, not mine. Intercede with him, if you like. That was one of the conditions—that for this one year you should hold no intercourse with me. And for the next year you hold no intercourse with him. And after that you may choose for yourself.'

But this deprivation of correspondence affected Lesley more than even the prospect of separation—to which she was used already. She threw herself into her mother's arms and wept bitterly for a few moments. Then it occured to her that she was acting neither thoughtfully nor courageously, and that her grief would grieve her mother, and could remedy nothing. So she sat up and dried her eyes and tried to respond cheerfully when Lady Alice spoke a few cheering words. But in the whole course of her short life Lesley had never been so miserable as she was that night.

The bustle of preparation which had to be gone through next day prevented her, however, from thinking too much about her troubles. She and Lady Alice, with the faithful Dayman, were to leave Paris late in the afternoon; and the morning was spent in hurried excursions to shops, interviews with milliners and dressmakers, eager discussions on color, shapes, and fitness. Lesley was glad to see that she was not to be sent to London with anything over fine in the way of clothes. The gowns chosen were simple but in good taste; and the modiste promised that they should be sent after the young lady in the course of a few days. There was some argument as to whether Lesley would require a ball dress, or dinner dresses. Lady Alice thought not. But, although nothing that could actually be called a ball-dress was ordered, there were one or two frocks of lovely shimmering hue and delightfully soft texture that would serve for any such festivity.

'Though in my day,' said Lady Alice, 'we did not go to balls in Bloomsbury. But, of course, I don't know what society Mr. Brooke sees now.'

Lesley was conscious of the sarcasm.

The earl remained in Paris, while Lady Alice went with her daughter from Havre to Southampton, and thence to London. Dayman travelled with them; and a supplementary escort appeared in the person of Captain Duchesne, 'who happened to be travelling that way.' Lady Alice was not displeased to see him, although she had a guilty sense of stealing a march upon her husband in providing Lesley with a standard of youthful good-breeding and goodlooks. It might tend to preserve her from forming any silly attachment in her father's circle, Lady Alice thought. As a matter of fact, she was singularly ignorant of what that circle might comprise. She had left him before his more prosperous days began to dawn, and she continued therefore to picture him the struggling journalist in murky lodging—the melancholy literary man who smoked strong tobacco far into the night, and talked of things in which she had no interest at all. If matters were changed with Caspar Brooke since then Lady Alice did not know it.

She had ascertained that Mr. Brooke's sister was living in his house, and that she was capable of acting in some way as Lesley's chaperon. Then, a connection of the earl's was rector of a church close to Upper Woburn Place—and he had promised to take Miss Brooke under his especial pastoral care—although, as he mildly insinuated he was not in the habit of visiting at Number Fifty. And with these recommendations and assurances, Lady Alice was forced to be content.

She parted from her daughter at Waterloo Station. It did not seem possible to her to drive up to her husband's house in a cab and drive away again. She committed her, therefore, to the care of Dayman, and put the girl and her maid into a four-wheeler, with Lesley's luggage on the top. Then she established herself in the ladies' waiting room until such time as Dayman should return.

With beating heart and flushing cheek Lesley drove through the rapidly darkening streets to her father's house. She was terribly nervous at the prospect of meeting him. And, even after the history that she had learnt from her mother, she felt that she had not the slightest notion as to what manner of man Caspar Brooke might turn out to be.

CHAPTER IV.

THE MANNER OF MAN.

On the day preceding Lesley Brooke's arrival in London, a tall, broad-shouldered man was walking along Southampton Row. He was a big man—a man whom people turned to look at—considerably taller and broader than the average of his fellows; he was wide-chested and muscular, though without any inclination to stoutness; and he had a handsome sunburned face, with a short board and deep-set, dark-brown eyes. His hair was cut not quite to the conventional shortness, perhaps; there was a look that would fall in an unruly manner across the broad brow with an obstinacy no hairdresser could subvert. But, in all respects, he was very much as other men; he dressed well if rather carelessly, and presented to the world a somewhat imposing personality. He did not wear gloves, and he had no flower at his button-hole; but the respectability of his silk hat and well-made coat was unimpeachable, and all the air of easy command which is so characteristic to the well-bred Englishman. The slight roughness about him was as inseparable from his build and character as it is to the best-groomed and best-fed staghound or mastiff of the highest race.

HE DRINKS COAL OIL.

How an Inebriate Slakes His Thirst in the Morning.

When Billie Smith crawled out of his bunk yesterday morning he was consumed with a raging thirst for liquor, but like the majority of his species he was minus the price. After carefully overhauling his wardrobe in the hope of finding a fifty cent piece, but without success, he set out in search of a friend. He made the rounds of the Clay, Montgomery and Leidendorff street resorts without discovering a good samaritan or anything to drink more tempting than water. At last, made desperate by the fire raging within him, Smith went into a Clay street printing office, removed the top from a coal oil can, poured out nearly half a pint and gulped the liquid at a draught.

"There," he remarked, smacking his lips, "what's better than nothing." Smith says that coal oil isn't a bad drink when you get used to it. The worst trouble is in getting over it, and the next morning after a coal-oil debauch his mouth tastes like a hot box. On more than one occasion Smith declares that he had turned the top off the lamp for an eye-opener before getting out of bed. But there is more twang to the oil taken direct from the can, which seems to strike the right spot several minutes in advance of the other. If Smith persists in drinking this peculiar tipple he will turn the taste to advantage by swallowing a yard of wicking with each drink and hiring himself out as an incandescent light, or pose as a horrible example enlightening the world.—San Francisco Call.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may try to palm upon you. For sal by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Hor & Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Dangerous Cold.

DEAR SIRS,—My little girl last winter had a very bad cold which almost resulted in congestion of the lungs. After doctoring with her for three months without success I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, and two bottles of it cured her. She is now strong and healthy.

Aching Pains Removed.

GENTLEMEN:—I cannot but praise B. B. B. for it has revived me wonderfully. I was completely run down, had aching pains in my shoulders, a tired feeling in my limbs, low spirits, in fact I was in misery. Being recomended to try B.B.B. I did so, with the use of only one bottle I am to-day strong and healthy. I price it highly.

Is there anything more annoying than having your corn stepped on? Is there anything more delightful than to get rid of it? Holloway's Corn Cure will do it. Try it and be convinced.

Rose pink and mauve, blue and primose, emerald green and red, black, gold, or magenta are all considered good combinations.

Much distress and sickness in children is caused by worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator gives relief by removing the cause. Give it a trial and be convinced.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at the time traveling for Messrs Walter Woods & Co Hamilton, and I was treated by some of the best physicians in this country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure was complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY believing that the persistent use of it will cure Dyspepsia.

Signed, T. S MCINTEE.

Some people have taken to putting crape on their walking sticks as well as on their arms.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough or cold which is easily subdued if taken in time, but becomes, when left to itself, the fore runner of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the delicate tissue of the lungs and bronchial tubes, travels with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, get a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that grasps this formidable foe from the human body, and drives it from the system. This medicine promotes a free and easy expectoration, subdues the cough, heals the diseased parts, and exerts a most wonderful influence in curing consumption, and other diseases of the throat and lungs. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

Mr. T. J. Humes, Columbus, Ohio, writes: "I have been afflicted for some time with Kidney and Liver Complaint, and find Parmalee's Pills the best medicine for these diseases. These pills do not cause pain or griping, and should be used when a cathartic is required. They are Gelatine coated and rolled in the flour of licorice to preserve their purity, and give them a pleasant agreeable taste.

For Bronchitis

"I never realized the good of a medicine so much as I have in the last few months, during which time I have suffered intensely from pneumonia, followed by bronchitis. After trying various remedies without benefit, I began the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and the effect has been marvelous, a single dose relieving me of choking, and securing a good night's rest."—T. A. Higginbotham, Gen. Store, Long Mountain, Va.

La Grippe

"Last Spring I was taken down with la grippe. At times I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breast seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and no sooner had I begun taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid."—W. H. Williams, Cook City, S. Dak.

Lung Trouble

"For more than twenty-five years, I was a sufferer from lung trouble, attended with coughing so severe at times as to cause hemorrhage, the paroxysms frequently lasting three or four hours. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after taking four bottles, was thoroughly cured. I can confidently recommend this medicine."—Franz Hofmann, Clay Centre, Kans.

WHEN THE CORN IS RIPE

THEN SHOULD THE NATIONS GIVE THANKS TO THE LORD.

Talmage's Thanksgiving Sermon — He Points Out the Analogy Between Husking Time and the Great Re-Union That Will Take Place in Heaven—A Shock of Corn.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Nov. 27th.—Rev. Dr. Talmage to-day chose for his subject of discourse one eminently suited to the time following the ingathering of the harvests, and to the Thanksgiving season. The decorations of the Thanksgiving Day still remained on the platform and the galleries, and long rows of yellow and white corn on the front and back of the platform was in accord with the sermon. The text selected was "As a Shock of Corn Cometh in in His Season." (Job 5; 26.)

This is the time of the year for husking corn. If you have recently been in the fields of Pennsylvania, or New Jersey, or New York, or New England, or in any of the country districts, you know that the corn is all cut. The sharp knife struck through the stalks and left them all along the fields until a man came with a bundle of straw and twisted a few of these wisps of straw into a band, and then gathering up as much of the corn as he could compass with his arms, he bound it with this wisp of straw and then stood it in the field in what is called a shock. There are now at least two billion bushels of corn either standing in the shock, or having been already husked. The farmers gather, one day on one farm, and then another day on another farm, and they put on their rough husking apron, and they take the husking peg, which is a piece of iron with a leathern loop fastened to the hand, and with it unsheath the corn from the husk and toss it into the golden heap. Then the wagons come along and take it to the corn-crib.

About corn as an important cereal or corn as a metaphor the Bible is constantly speaking. You know about the people in famine coming to buy corn of Joseph, and the foxes on fire running into the "standing corn," and about the oxen treading out the corn, and about the seven thin ears of corn that in Pharaoh's dream devoured the seven good ears, and the "parched corn" handed to beautiful Ruth by the harvesters of Bethlehem, and Abigail's five measures of "parched corn" with which she hoped to appease the enemies of her drunken husband, and David's description of the valleys "covered over with corn," and "the handful of corn in the earth," and "the full corn in the ear," and Christ's Sabbath morning walk through corn-fields, and the disciples "plucking ears of corn," and so I am not surprised to find corn-husking time referred to in my text: "As a shock of corn cometh in in his season."

How vividly to all those of us who were born in the country comes the remembrance of husking time. We waited for it as for a gala day of the year. It was called a frolic. The trees having for the most part shed their foliage, the farmers waded through the fallen leaves and came through the keen morning air to the gleeful company. The frosts which had silvered everything during the night began to melt off the top of the corn-shocks. While the farmers are waiting for others, they stood blowing their breath through their fingers, or thrashing their arms around their body to keep up warmth of circulation. Roaring mirth greeted the late farmer as he crawled over the fence. Joke and repartee and rustic salutation abounded. All ready, now? The men take hold of the shock of cork and hurl it prostrate, while the moles and mice which have secreted themselves there for warmth, attempt escape. The withe of straw is unwound from the cornshock and the stalks heavy with the wealth of grain are rolled into two bundles between which the husker sits down. The husking peg is thrust in until it strikes the corn, and then the fingers rip off the sheathing of the ear, and there is a crack as the root of the corn is snapped off from the husk, and the grain disimprisoned is hurled up into the sunlight. The air is so tonic, the work is so very exhilarating, the company is so blithe, that some laugh, and some shout, and some sing, and some banter, and some tease a neighbor for a romantic ride along the edge of the woods in an eventide, in a carriage that holds but two, and some prophesy as to the number of bushels to the field, and others go into competition as to which shall rifle the most corn-shocks before sun-down. After a while, the dinner-horn sounds from the farm-house, and the table is surrounded by a group of jolly and hungry men. From all the pantries and the cellars and the perches of fowl on the place the richest dainties come, and there is carnival and neighborhood reunion, and a scene which fills our memory, part with smiles but more with tears, as we remember that the farm belongs now to other owners, and other hands gather in the field, and many of those who mingle in that merry husking scene have themselves been reaped, "like as a shock of corn cometh in in his season."

There is a difference of opinion as to whether the Orientals knew anything about the corn as it stands in our fields; but recent discoveries have found out that the Hebrew knew all about Indian maize; for there have been grains of corn picked up out of ancient crypts and exhumed from hiding-places where they were put down many centuries ago, and they have been planted in our time and have come up just such Indian maize as we raise in New York and Ohio; so I am right when I say my text may refer to a shock of corn just as you and I bound it, just as you and I threw it, just as you and I husked it. There may come some practical and useful and comforting lessons to all our souls, while we think of coming in at last "like a shock of corn coming in in his season."

It is high time that the King of Terrors were thrown out of the Christian vocabulary. A vast multitude of people talk of death as though it were the disaster of disasters, instead of being to a good man the blessing of blessings. It is moving out of a cold vestibule into a warm temple. It is migrating into groves of redolence and perpetual fruitage. It is a change from bleak March to roseate June. It is a change of manacles for garlands. It is the transmuting of the iron handcuffs of earthly incarceration into the diamonded wristlets of a bridal party; or, to use the suggestion of my text, it is only husking time. It is the tearing off of the rough sheath of the body that the bright and the beautiful soul may go free. Coming in "like a shock of corn cometh in in his season." Christ broke up a funeral procession at the gate of Nain by making a resurrection day for a young man and his mother. And I would that I could break up your sadnesses and halt the long funeral procession of the world's grief by some cheering and cheerful view of the last transition.

We all know that husking time was a time of frost. Frost on the fence. Frost on the stubble. Frost on the ground. Frost on the bare branches of the trees. Frost in the air. Frost on the hands of the huskers. You remember we used to hide between the corn-stacks so as to keep off the wind, but still you remember how shivering was the body and how painful was the cheek, and how benumbed were the hands. But after a while the sun was high up and all the frosts went out of the air, and hilarities awakened the echoes, and joy from one corn-shock went up, "Aha, aha!" and was answered by joy from another corn-shock, "Aha, aha!" So we all realize that the death of our friend is the nipping of many expectations, the freezing, the chilling, the frosting of many of our hopes. It is far from being a south wind. It comes out of the frigid north, and when they go away from us we stand benumbed in body and benumbed in mind, and benumbed in soul. We stand among our dead neighbors, our dead families, and we say, "will we ever get over it?" Yes, we will get over it amid the shoutings of heavenly re-union, and we will look back to all those distresses of bereavement only as the temporary distresses of husking time. "Weeping may endure for a night but joy cometh in the morning." "Light, and but for a moment," said the apostle as he clapped his hands, "light, and but for a moment." The chill of the frosts followed by the gladness that cometh in "like a shock of corn cometh in in his season."

Of course the husking time made rough work with the ear of corn. The husking peg is to be thrust in and the hard thumb of the husker had to come down on the swathing of the ear, and then there was a pull and there was a ruthless tearing, and then a complete snapping off before the corn was free, and if the husk could have spoken it would have said: "Why do you lacerate me? Why do you wrench me?" Ah! my friends, that is the way God has arranged that the ear and husk shall part, and that is the way he has arranged that the body and soul shall separate. You can afford to have your physical distresses when you know that they are only forwarding the soul's liberation. Every rheumatic pain is only a plunge of the husking peg. Every neuralgic twinge is only a twist by the husker. There is good in you that must come out. Some way the shackle must be broken. Some way the ship must be launched for heavenly voyage. You must let the Heavenly Husbandman husk off the mortality from the immortality. There ought to be great consolation in this for all who have chronic ailments, since the Lord is gradually and more mildly taking away from you that which hinders your soul's liberation, doing gradually for you what for many of us in robust health perhaps he will do in one fell blow at the last. At the close of every illness, at the close of every paroxysm you ought to say, "Thank God, that is all past now; thank God, I will never have to suffer that again; thank God, I am so much nearer the hour of liberation." You will never suffer the same pain twice. You may have a new pain in an old place, but never the same pain twice. The pain does its work and then it dies. Just so many plunges of the crowbar to free the quarry-stone for the building. Just so many strokes of the chisel to complete the statute. Just so many pangs to separate the soul from the body. You who have chronic ailments and disorders, are only paying in instalments that which some of us will have to pay in one payment when we pay the debt of nature. Thank God, therefore, ye who have chronic disorders that you have so much less suffering at the last. Thank God, that you will have so much less to feel in the way of pain at the hands of the Heavenly Husbandman when "the shock of corn cometh in in his season."

Perhaps now this may be an answer to a question which I asked one Sabbath morning, but did not answer: Why is it that so many really good people have so dreadfully to suffer! You often find a good man with enough pains and aches and distresses, you would think, to discipline a whole colony, while you will find a man who is perfectly useless going about with easy digestion and steady nerves and shining health, and his exit from the world is comparatively painless. How do you explain that? Well, I noticed in the husking time that the husking-peg was thrust into the corn, and then there must be a stout pull before the swathing was taken off the ear, and the full, round healthy, luxuriant corn was developed; while, on the other hand, there was corn that hardly seemed worth husking. We threw that into a place all by itself, and we called it "nubbins." Some of it was mildewed, and some of it was mice nibbled, and some of it was great promise and no fulfilment. All cobs and no corn. Nubbins! After the good corn had been driven up to the barn, we came around with the corn-basket and picked up these nubbins. They were worth saving, but not worth much. So all around us there are people who amount to comparatively nothing. They develop into no kind of usefulness. They are nibbled on one side by the world, and nibbled on the other side by the devil, and mildewed all over. Great promise and no fulfilment. All cobs and no corn. Nubbins! They are worth saving. I suppose many of them will get to heaven, but they are not worthy to be mentioned in the same day with those who went through great tribulation into the kingdom of our God. Who would not rather have the pains of this life, the misfortunes of this life—who would not rather be torn, and wounded, and lacerated, and wrenched, and husked, and at last go in amid the very best grain of the granary, than to be pronounced not worth husking at all? Nubbins! In other words, I want to say to you people who have distress of body, and distress in business, and distress of all sorts, the Lord has not any grudge against you. It is not derogatory, it is complimentary. "Whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth," and it is proof positive that there is something valuable in you, or the Lord would not have husked you.

You remember, also, that in the time of husking it was a neighborhood reunion. By the great fireplace in the winter, the fires roaring around the glorified back-logs on an old-fashioned hearth, of which the modern stoves and registers are only the degenerate descendants, the farmers used to gather and spend the evening, and there would be much sociality; but it was not anything like the joy of the husking time, for then all the farmers came, and they came in the very best humor, and they came from beyond the meadow, and they came from beyond the brook, and they came from regions two and three miles around. Good spirits reigned supreme, and there were great handshakings, and there was carnival, and there was the recital of the brightest experiences in all their lives, and there was a neighborhood reunion, the memory of which makes all the nerves of my body tremble with emotion as the strings of a harp when the fingers of the player have swept the chords. The husking time was the time of neighborhood reunion, and so heaven will be just that. There they come up! They slept in the old village churchyard. There they come up! They reclined amid the fountains and the sculpture and the parterres of a city cemetery. There they come up! They went down when the ship foundered off Cape Hatteras. They come up from all sides—from Potter's Field and out of the solid masonry of Westminster Abbey. They come up! They come up! All the hindrances to their better nature husked off. All their spiritual despondencies husked off. All their hindrances to usefulness husked off. The grain, the golden grain, the God-fashioned grain, visible and conspicuous. Some of them on earth were such disagreeable Christians you could hardly stand it in their presence. Now in heaven they are so radiant you hardly know them. The fact is, all their imperfections have been husked off. They did not mean on earth to be disagreeable. They meant well enough, but they told you how sick you looked, and they told you how many hard things they had heard about you, and they told you how often they had to stand up for you in some battles until you wished almost that they had been slain in some of the battles. Good, pious, consecrated, well-meaning disagreeables. Now, in Heaven all their offensiveness has been husked off. Each one is as happy as he can be. Every one he meets as happy as he can be. Heaven one great neighborhood reunion. All kings and queens, all songsters, all millionaires, all banqueters. God, the Father, with his children all around him. No "good-by" in all the air. No grave cut in all the hills. River of crystal rolling over bed of pearl, under arch of chrysoprase, into seas of glass mingled with fire. Stand at the gate of the granary and see the grain come in; out of the frosts into the sunshine, out of the darkness into the light, out of the tearing and the ripping and twisting and the wrenching and lacerating and the husking time of earth into the wide open door of the King's granary, "like as a shock of corn cometh in in his season."

Yes, Heaven is a great sociable, with joy like the joy of the husking time. No one there feeling so big he declines to speak to someone that is not so large. Archangel willing to listen to smallest cherub. No bolting of the door of caste at one heavenly mansion to keep out the citizen of a smaller mansion. No clique in one corner whispering about a clique in another corner. David taking none of the airs of a giant-killer. Joshua making no one halt until he passes, because he made the sun and moon halt. Paul making no assumption over the most ordinary preacher of righteousness. Naaman, captain of the Syrian host, no more honored than the captive maid who told him where he could get a good doctor. O my soul, what a country! The humblest man a king. The poorest woman a queen. The meanest house a palace. The shortest lifetime eternity. And what is more strange about it all is we may all get there. "Not I," says someone standing back under the galleries. Yes, you. "Not I," says some one who has not been in church in fifteen years before. Yes, you. "Not I," says someone who has been for fifty years filling up his life with all kinds of wickedness. Yes, you. There are monopolies on earth, monopolistic railroads, and monopolistic telegraph companies, and monopolistic grain dealers, but no monopolies in religion. All who want to be saved may be saved, "without money and without price." Salvation by the Lord Jesus Christ for all the people. Of course, use common sense in this matter. You cannot expect to get to Charleston by taking the ship for Portland, and you cannot get to heaven by going in an opposite direction. Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved. Through that one gate of pardon and peace all the race may go in.

"But," says some one, "do you really think I would be at home in that supernal society if I could reach it?" I think you would. I know you would. I remember that in the husking time there was great equality of feeling among the neighbors. There at one corn-shock a farmer would be at work who owned two hundred acres of ground. The man whom he was talking with at the next corn-shock owned but thirty acres of ground, and perhaps all that covered by a mortgage. That evening, at the close of the husking day, one man drove home a roan span so frisky, so full of life, they got their feet over the traces. The other man walked home. Great difference in education, great difference in worldly means; but I noticed at the husking time they all seemed to enjoy each other's society. They did not ask any man how much property he owned, or what his education had been. They all seemed to be happy together in those good times. And so it will be in Heaven. Our Father will gather His children around him, and the neighbors will come in, and the past will be rehearsed. And some one will tell the victory, and we will all celebrate it. And some one will tell of great struggle, and we will all praise the grace that fetched him out of it. And some one will say, "Here is my old father that I put away with heartbreak; just look at him, he is as young as any of us!" And some one will say, "Here is my darling child that I buried in Greenwood, and all the after years of my life were shadowed with desolation—just look at her! She doesn't seem as if she had been sick a minute. Great sociality. Great neighborhood kindness. Go in and dine. What though John Milton sit down on one side and John Howard sit down on the other side. No embarrassment. What though Charlotte Elizabeth sit down on one side and Hannah More sit down on the other side? No embarrassment. A monarch yourself, why be embarrassed among monarchs? A songster yourself, why be embarrassed among glorified songsters? Go in and dine.

Bradstreet's Report.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—At Montreal general distributive trade will not be quite so active now that navigation has closed, and, except with dealers in holiday goods, business is expected to be of moderate proportions until after New Year's.

Shipments from Toronto in wholesale lines are fairly active and prices firm. Demand for heavyweight drygoods has increased, as has that for dried fruit and sole leather on eastern account.

Total bank clearings at Halifax, Montreal, Toronto and Hamilton amount to $19,564,000 this week, a decrease of 17 per cent. from the week before and of 5 per cent. from the total in the like week of 1891.

Montreal banks disbursed $1,250,000 in dividends on Thursday and the tendency of the money market is towards greater ease.

The Dominion reports 35 business failures this week. In the week before the total was 27 and one year ago 35.

He Was Ill-Fated.

ERIE, PA., Dec. 3.—Joseph Kane, a Lake Shore employe, went on a long spree some days ago and his wife had him arrested. Promises of reform secured his release yesterday.

He hunted up his wife, and at once emptied the contents of a revolver into her body. Kane then ran down a steep grade on the Philadelphia and Erie Road, uncoupled the rear car of a train, gave it a push and sprang in front of it.

He laid his neck on the rail and his head was severed. Four little children are orphaned by the tragedy. Kane lost his father and three brothers in railroad accidents and considered himself ill-fated.

Has Not Yet Resigned.

QUEBEC, Dec. 3.—Premier De Boucherville consulted the members of his Cabinet yesterday on his intention of resigning his portfolio, but the honorable gentleman has not yet resigned.

His colleagues urged upon him to await further events. However, his resignation may be looked upon as certain if Hon. Mr. Chapleau's appointment as lieutenant governor of Quebec is maintained.

GAZETTE NOTICES.

J. J. Harding of London an Applicant for Divorce.

OTTAWA, Dec. 3.—To-day's Canada Gazette will contain notices of appointment of John Evers Cuff of St. Catharines as Collector of Customs, and J. Wesley Holt of Blissville, N.B., as sub-Collector of Customs.

Letters patent have been granted incorporating the Central Electric Light Company of Montreal, with capital of half a million.

Notices of application for letters patent of incorporation are given by the Gurney Foundry Company, limited, for the purpose of purchasing the Toronto business of the E. & C. Gurney Co., limited, with capital $40,000; headquarters at Toronto. And by the Chaudiere Electric Light and Power Company, limited, of Ottawa for power to increase its capital stock to one million and to have power to amalgamate with any other company doing a similar business.

John James Harding of London, Ont., gives notice of application for divorce from his wife, Janet Harding, now of Grand Rapids, Mich., on the grounds of adultery and desertion.

The Grand Trunk Railway Company gives notice of application to Parliament for an act to confirm the agreement made with 14 other companies for amalgamation under the name of the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada.

Notice is given of application to Parliament for an act to wind up the Montreal Mining Company.

The revenue cutter Constance is still patrolling the lower St. Lawrence, on the lookout for smugglers, and will remain out as long as possible, as this is the time of the year when that class of gentry is usually most active.

Hon. Peter White, Speaker of the House of Commons, was here yesterday. He says that the vacancies in the accountant's branch will be filled by him shortly, and intimated pretty clearly that the appointment would not be from members of the House of Commons staff, but would be made from outsiders. The appointments rest entirely with the Speaker, although the committee on the internal economy of the House fix the salary, which will probably be considerably lower in the case of the accountant than what Mr. Brewer was receiving. Mr. Bolton was only appointed last year as a second class clerk, and his successor will most likely receive the same position.

The Department of Marine, having received information that the last grain barges for Montreal had arrived, instructions were to-day given to the contractors to take the light ships in Lake St. Louis into winter quarters and lift the buoys. All the light ships and buoys between Montreal and Quebec have been taken up and navigation of the St. Lawrence may be considered as closed, except between Montreal and Sorel, where the shore lights will be kept up for another week to accommodate the steamers still running between those two places.

All the fisheries protective cruisers are now laid up for the winter, except the Curlew, which is still in the Bay of Fundy, and Vigilant, which is cruising along the Nova Scotia coast. Repairs to the Government steamer Newfield have been completed and she has been taken from the dry dock at Halifax and is now at the Government wharf at that place. The Government steamer Le Canadien is still running between Quebec and Grosse Isle, and will continue to do so as long as her services are needed in connection with the quarantine service. The Government steamer Stanley yesterday commenced her regular winter service between Charlottetown and Pictou.

The steam disinfector which was obtained by the Government from Toronto for use at Grosse Isle during the cholera scare has been removed to Halifax and will be used there if necessary while the new disinfector ordered for that place is being made.

Hon. J. C. Patterson returned to the city last night with his family and has taken up his residence in the house purchased by him from the estate of the late F. N. Gisborne.

CANADIAN RAILWAY PROGRESS.

In no branch of development has Canada made greater strides than in that of railway creation and extension, says the Empire in a recent issue. Conservatives have special reason for sentiments of pride in this connection, and can fully realize to-day that when fighting in the past for iron roads between the provinces, and across the Dominion, they were battling for the best and highest interests of their country. Forty years ago there were but 17 miles in operation. At Confederation there were only 2,258, whilst to-day there are over 14,000.

These figures meant much for Canada in the past, and will mean still more in the future. They represent a reasonably steady growth of prosperity, in spite of American fiscal hostility and the hard times which ended in 1878; ability to hold our own with the United States in the development of our resources and the opening up of our country; a capacity to produce greater internal trade and travel; and the presentation of facilities for the promotion of immigration and the extension of commerce through subsidiary steamship lines, which would otherwise have been impossible. Since 1878, this progress has been especially remarked, as the following figures show:

Miles in operation	5,143	14 900
Train Mileage	13,660,447	43,200,178
No. of passengers	5,443,924	13,222,568
Tons of freight	7,883,472	21,753 021
Earnings	$20,526,878	$48,192,099
Working expenses	$16,100,102	$34,960,449

The capital of railways from all sources was $160,000,000 in 1868, and is now $816,000,000. Of this latter sum $142,000,000 is aid from the Dominion Governments, $25,000,000 from Provincial Governments, and $15,000,000 from municipalities. It is gratifying to know in this connection that the cost per mile of Canadian roads is $55,809, or only $1,500 more than the American cost, in spite of the immeasurably greater difficulties we had to encounter, and far less than that of the United Kingdom ($216,479 per mile), Belgium, France, Germany, India, Russia, Austria, Victoria or New South Wales.

It must be remembered, too, that in Australasia and India the railways have been chiefly built by the Government with public money, but that in Canada the only roads thus built are the Intercolonial and Prince Edward Island railways. The Dominion has, however, been exceedingly liberal in subsidizing important or necessary roads, and the broad thus thrown upon the waters within a decade or so, is now coming back to us in the shape of a great and growing interprovincial trade, a sentiment of unity amongst the provinces, and the development of our resources through their being seen by the world at large, or by such portions of it as least as may travel on the North American continent.

Compared with the railways of the United States in financial management or business progress, those of Canada are far superior. Canadian roads are solvent, and generally prosperous, as the figures given below will indicate:

Railways, 1891.	Earnings.	Expenses.
Canada Atlantic	$ 558,832	$ 337,754
Canada Southern	4,468,264	3,161,364
Canada Pacific System	18,072,174	11,536,134
Grand Trunk	17,423,800	12,621,478
Intercolonial	2,977,266	2,953,249
Other lines	4,159,874	3,639,396
	$48,182,099	$34,960,449

The bonded debt is, in round numbers, $266,000,000, or $63 per head of our population, while that of American railways ('89) is $4,828,000,000, or $80 per capita. The interest paid out by United States roads is $171,000,000, whilst their dividends only amount to $79,000,000. Writing in reference to the disastrous condition of American railways, in the Forum, October 1888, Mr. Adalbert Hamilton said:

"Data are not accessible prior to 1876, but since then over 460 American companies operating more than 35,000 miles of railroad have been insolvent, and the relations of two billions of capital stock and indebtedness have been readjusted under foreclosures. * * * So far from railway insolvency being matter of surprise it does not seem inaccurate to say, in view of our railway history, that the dominant American railway policy is to cumulate indebtedness to the uttermost limit, without setting bounds to borrowing, without providing means of payment, and with the most complacent view of insolvency."

But Canada has done even more than provided herself, largely under Conservative auspices, with a magnificent chain of railway communication, a great canal system, and splendid facilities for other travel. She has paved the way for snatching the supremacy of the continent in transportation matters from the United States.

County Council.

FRIDAY MORNING.

Council met at 9:30, the Warden presiding.

The minutes of Thursday's sessions were read and confirmed.

Mr. Haggerty, chairman of the Gravel roads and Bridges Committee, presented the following report:

That the Chairman and Superintendent and the Reeve of Tyendinaga be authorized to settle with C. Long for stone used in the building of Bell's bridge in Tyendinaga.

That W. Fox be paid $20 for damages sustained by the breaking down of Keller's bridge in Madoc township.

That the Chairman and Supt. settle with R. McDerby for damages sustained by defect of bridge in Thurlow township, if it does not exceed $5.

That the Chairman and Messrs Farley and Hurley be a committee to examine the county road through the village of Frankford as to the advisability of drainage.

That no action be taken on the petition asking to have the old Hastings road assumed as a County gravel road, as the minor municipalities have not complied with the act relating to such assumption.

That the account of Hon. Bills Flint for stone used be not entertained, as he has already been compensated for the labor in blasting out the stone used.

That the tender of the Central Bridge Company, of Peterborough, for the erection of a steel bridge at Tweed, at a cost of $2,326 be accepted, the village of Tweed to pay $114 as their proportion for the building of the sidewalk in connection with said bridge, and that the chairman be authorized to enter into a contract with said company.

That the action of the Warden and chairman in reference to accepting the tender of the Central Bridge Company, of Peterborough for a bridge over Deer river, on the boundary between Hastings and Peterborough counties, be confirmed.

That the County Solicitor be requested to notify the city Water Works Company at once to put the grade of the road leading from the city limits to the Deaf and Dumb Institute in a good repair, as it was before they laid their water pipes to said institute, and if necessary, take action to have same performed.

That the Supt. pay Mr. Lumb $20 when he gets certificate from the Reeve of Tudor that he moved his fence, near Millbridge, off the County road, as required by the chairman and Supt.

That George Henderson be paid $5 for gravel pit on lot 25, 1st con. Hungerford.

That the Supt. pay Wm. Baker $7.30 for gravel used upon road between Maribank and Stoco.

That the chairman and Supt. examine the road near John McKinnon's farm, in Madoc, and consider the advisability of having the rock in the ditch blasted out.

That the chairman and Supt. have material for the use of County roads banked in such places as they deem in the interest of the Council.

The report was on motion adopted.

On motion, the committee of the whole on Ways and Means resumed, Mr. Holgate in the chair.

Moved by Mr. English, seconded by Mr. Thompson, that a grant of $100 be given to the Madoc Model school.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Deroo, seconded by Mr. Aylsworth, that the Treasurer be authorized to forward to the clerks of the minor municipalities at least six copies of the list of lands to be sold for taxes, at the time they are advertised in the weekly papers. —Carried.

On motion, the committee rose and reported. Report received and adopted.

A report was also presented by Mr. Haggerty which showed that, during the year, $3,074 had been expended on bridges. There had been 14 new bridges erected, and 30 repaired.

The following amounts were expended upon gravel roads during the year, in the various municipalities:

Tyendinaga	$ 953 57
Huntingdon	389 56
Rawdon	328 94
Marmora, including labor on Wolf creek and Talley's bridge	756 87
Hungerford	814 80
Sidney	222 32
Thurlow	1146 50
Elzevir	95 80
Tudor	310 00
Limerick	100 00
Madoc	720 07
Paid for plough	15 50
	$6553 93

On motion the Warden vacated the chair and Mr. English was voted in.

Mr. Deroo moved, seconded by Mr. Martin, that the Council hereby bear cheerful testimony of the faithful, efficient and impartial manner in which his Honor, Thos. Cross, Esq., has presided over the deliberations of this body during the current year.

The mover and seconder and Messrs. Farley, Hurley, Holgate, Pearce, McLaren, Montgomery, Vermilyea, Aylsworth and English spoke to the resolution, all of whom spoke in high term of the Warden.

The resolution was adopted by a standing vote.

His Honor replied briefly, thanking the Council for the resolution so unanimously adopted. He did not intend to return to the Council, as his business required his attention. For over 20 years he had been in the Council, and it was with feelings of regret he retired. He was certain that all were his personal friends.

The minutes of the session were read and the Council adjourned sine die.

THAT SILVER PROBLEM.

ROTHSCHILD'S PLAN IS NOT GENERALLY ACCEPTABLE.

An American Asserts that Europeans Are Much More Interested Than Americans in the Working of United States Mines.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 3.—The report of the committee to the conference on the proposals submitted commenced by explaining that the opinions expressed are given on the individual responsibility of the members of the committee, and continues by setting forth that a necessary preliminary for a proper examination of any of the proposals was a precise understanding.

First, as to the legislative measures likely to be taken by the countries producing silver.

Second, existing probabilities of the future production of silver in the United States and Mexico.

Third, the policy of the United States as to the purchase of silver.

Fourth, the policy of India regarding the mintage of silver.

Regarding the first question, United States Delegate Henry W. Cannon stated that the question of limiting silver had been considered in the United States and it was recognized that under existing legislation there were no means for attaining that object and that the modification of the present law in that direction was improbable. The Federal Government had no direct or indirect interest in the working of the silver mines. European capitalists were, moreover, greatly interested in the American mines, making the problem more complicated.

The value of the silver extracted from the American mines was insignificant compared with the annual total of the general production.

Mexican Delegate Casasus, in behalf of the Mexican Government, declared that the production of silver in Mexico had perhaps reached the maximum.

As silver was the chief article of export it was not to the interest of the Government to interfere with the industry, and under the constitution no means existed to restrict the output or to prohibit its export.

Regarding the third question Mr. Cannon said that the American Democrats and Republicans, besides the great bankers, advised a repeal of the Silver Purchase Act of 1890.

Should the conference fail to make some disposition of the questions at issue it was more than probable that America would not be willing to continue the purchase of $4,000,000 worth of silver annually.

India Wants Bi-Metallism.

Sir Guilford Molesworth, one of the delegates from India, in speaking on the fourth question said that while there was hope of an international entente India would hesitate to modify her present system.

The adoption of a gold standard in India, though difficult, would be attended by more disastrous results in gold-using countries than in India. The only satisfactory solution would be international bi-metallism, in which India would join with the Latin union and America.

Rothschild's Scheme Paltry.

CALCUTTA, Dec. 3.—The Calcutta Englishman attacks Rothschild's proposal and declares it to be too paltry to have great effect.

Beyond revealing the anxiety of the British Government to arrive at a settlement, the proposals are practically valueless.

ROTHSCHILD'S SCHEME.

The American Delegates Have Reported Liberalizing Modifications.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Secretary Charles Foster said yesterday that he has private advices in regard to the proceedings of the International monetary conference at Brussels to the effect that the committee to which the Rothschild silver plan was referred has reported modifications, liberalizing that plan, but that the conference has decided to first consider the general question of bi-metallism.

The secretary expressed his belief that the conference has already accomplished some good, but he would not commit himself on the subject.

It is learned from another source, however, that the American delegates to the conference are not altogether satisfied with the Rothschild plan and will endeavor to secure further concessions in the same direction.

BOOKS OF BUSINESS MEN.

Are Freely Opened to the American Bureau of Labor.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Dr. E. L. Gould of the American Labor Department testified yesterday before the Royal Labor Commission. He said that he was studying the housing of working people, the Scandinavia liquor laws and other matters pertaining to the welfare of the masses.

"The American Bureau," he added, "had undoubtedly been instrumental in curtailing the number of strikes. Probing industrial matters helped to improve the intelligence and standard of life of workingmen.

"The department at first had difficulty in getting information from employers. That was all changed now."

Business books are freely opened to the bureau, which, Dr. Gould declared, had not only benefited workingmen but the trade of the whole country.

A £200 Poem.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Mr. William Watson, the poet who wrote the best obituary poem on Lord Tennyson, has been offered £200 from the Royal bounty, leaving the question of pension in abeyance.

Rum at a Funeral.

BRIDGETON, N.Y., Dec. 3.—James Beck, an aged resident of this place, was buried yesterday. John and Anthony Beck, sons of the dead man, stopped the funeral services by attempting to thrash the minister.

The clergyman had destroyed a small bottle of rum he found in the house. This enraged the Becks so that they threatened to thrash the preacher, and were only prevented by sheer force. After the men had been locked up in a side room the services were concluded.

A Mining Trouble.

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Dec. 3.—James Burton and F. Burton, brothers, were killed yesterday by Bill and Charles Gibson at Kernville, in the mountains 80 miles from here. The Gibsons came to Bakersfield and gave themselves up. The trouble was about the possession and working of mines.

Short of Funds.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—J. Ross Faulkner, aged 24, of Dansville, son of the late State Assemblyman Lester B. Faulkner, poisoned himself at Bellevue Hospital where he was studying medicine. No cause is known for Faulkner's suicide except that he was short of funds and had not enough money to complete his studies.

Must Get Up And Dust.

VALPARAISO, Dec. 3.—The Chilian Government has accepted the parole of General Velasquez, who has been confined aboard of a warship, and permits him to return to his estates near Quillota.

It is reported that it is the intention of the Government to notify the chief officers of the late rebel, Balmaceda's, army who are now in prison at Santiago, to leave the country within eight days.

A Southern Railway Scheme.

VALPARAISO, Dec. 3.—News comes from Rio Janeiro that a scheme has been presented to Congress for the building of a railway from Rio to Pernambuco, thus shortening the voyage to Europe to six days. The Rothschilds are said to be back of the scheme.

A Coal Strike Expected.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 3.—A special from Coal Creek says a serious outbreak is expected among the miners in a few days.

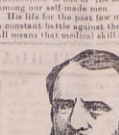

JAY GOULD IS DEAD.

He Controlled About 13,000 Miles of Railway Lines.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Jay Gould died at 9.15 yesterday morning.

The history of Jay Gould from the barefooted boy who wandered over the rough hills of Delaware County to the railroad king whose wealth was estimated at $60,000,000 is one of the most remarkable among our self-made men.

His life for the past few months has been a constant battle against the inevitable and all means that medical skill and the interest that friends and relatives could suggest were employed to prolong the financier's life. He was taken about in private luxurious cars to places where milder air and the absence of business excitement might be expected to work a recuperation of his energies. But to no avail.

Mr. Gould controlled about 13,000 miles of railway lines.

The direct cause of his death, as stated at the house this morning, was pulmonary consumption.

No two estimates agree as to the amount of Mr. Gould's fortune. The most conservative estimates place it at about $60,000,000, while some people in Wall-street, who think they know something about his accumulations, figure that he must have gotten together fully $100,000,000.

THE PANAMA AFFAIR.

No One Wishes Any Longer to Become a Cabinet Minister in France.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The Herald's Paris correspondent says: The Panama scandal continues with such violence that no one is interested any longer in the Ministerial crisis, which, however, still lasts. No one wishes any longer to become a Cabinet Minister—a new phenomenon in France.

Another fact, according to reliable people who tell the story, is that the Baron de Reinich had for visitors on the eve of his suicide a very well-known minister and a deputy also well known. All three worked together burning documents from 9 o'clock in the evening till midnight. Two hours later Baron de Reinich was found dead. If this fact is correct no one can guess the gravity of the situation.

It is certain a general reorganization of things as they exist will ensue. If the republic stands it is because there is nothing to take its place.

The Clergy Dragged In.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The Paris correspondent of The News says: M. Brisson hopes to reveal the part the clergy took in assisting Count de Lesseps to float the Panama Canal bonds. De Lesseps and family were conspicuous for their regular attendance at high mass at the Church of the Madeleine all the time the bubble was being blown. Each christening in his family became a public event.

Speculation in Panama options went on at the Vatican, and the clergy got heavy commissions for advising the members of their flocks to invest in Panama bonds. The priestly run on the Panama Canal offices was so great that just prior to the collapse a special office and staff was about to be established to receive them. Count de Lesseps sent some nuns in the most sensational way to the hospital at the scene of the canal works.

He made an appeal one night through a religious paper to the devotion and zeal of the Daughters of St. Vincent de Paul and 38 of them volunteered to go to the Isthmus the next day. The eyes of the Catholic world were riveted upon the poor heroines, who were forgotten until another batch was wanted to replace the ravages of the yellow fever.

The event of the day is the publication of a fac-simile of a letter written by Baron Reinich to M. Proust, dated in July, 1888, notifying him of a gift of 1000 Panama Canal bonds.

A LIFE BOAT.

Drifted Ashore With a Crew of Three Dead Bodies.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—A lifeboat belonging to the British steamer Wilhelm, which sank in the Elbe on Wednesday last, containing three dead bodies, drifted ashore this morning. One of the bodies was that of Chief Engineer Evans.

The crew of the Greystoke numbered 21 all told. It is believed that all on board the steamer were lost.

Berlin's Unemployed.

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—A great meeting of Berlin's unemployed was held in the Friedrichshain quarter this afternoon. The police had taken great precautions to preserve order, as a similar meeting preceded last winter's riots.

A number of speakers used incendiary language and were warned by the police. As no heed was paid to the warning the assemblage was ordered to disperse.

All present then formed in procession and marched back to the city. At the Konigs-Thor a slight disturbance arose, which was quickly suppressed.

Bandmaster Carey's Funeral.

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 3.—The funeral of the late Bandmaster Carey took place yesterday. The military turnout, which was very imposing, included the firing party, composed of non-commissioned officers of the Prince of Wales' Own Rifles, the bands of the 14th Battalion and A Battery, the Battery men and Royal Military College Cadets.

Immigration in the United States.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The annual report of W. D. Owen, Superintendent of Immigration, shows that 579,663 emigrants arrived in this country during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1892; 2801 came in violation of law and were returned to their homes. Of this number 1763 were contract laborers.

The distressed condition of labor throughout Europe, the report asserts, tends to increase emigration to America, and the number of landings would have been increased enormously but for the restrictive features of the law of March 3, 1891.

Satisfied With the Theory.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Dec. 3.—The final experiment of producing rain by means of concussions was concluded here yesterday. There were 12 hours of continuous bombardment, but no satisfactory results were obtained from a practical point of view, although Gen. Dyrenforth and Prof. Ellis claim that the scientific correctness of the theory has been proved.

Indicted on Three Counts.

TAUNTON, Mass., Dec. 3.—Lizzie Borden has been indicted by the grand jury on three counts.

It is understood that Miss Borden will not be immediately arraigned to plead, but that the indictments will be served on her at her quarters in Taunton jail. She was notified to-day by friends of the return of the indictments by the grand jury, and is said to have preserved the same stolid demeanor which has marked her course during the trial.

An Overdue Steamer.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The steamship Spree, from Bremen, was 42 hours overdue at noon yesterday.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for Constipation and Headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family medicine. It is said to be the Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water into the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy with ladies for clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c and $1.

Palatable and Potent

The great objection to cod liver oil has been its nauseous taste. This has been entirely removed by the process of preparing "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," which is combined with hypophosphites of lime and soda, the great creator of new blood in the world. It has cured thousands of consumptives by rebuilding their constitutions. Everybody is talking of the wonderful power of the Emulsion. Large big bottles, 50c and $1.00 at all Drug Stores.

DISORDERED liver set right by BEECHAM'S PILLS.

Thousands of lives are saved annually by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. In the treatment of croup and whooping cough, the Pectoral has a most marvelous effect. It allays inflamation, frees the obstructed air passages, and controls the desire to cough.

When kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull ache ache is the kidney's cry for relief. If cold's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney disease that a persistant use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

A fact which even political economists are apt to forget is that a manufacturer's rate of profit is not the only essential element to success; the aggregate profit at the end of the year is of far greater importance and this in most cases is greater out of a low rate of profit than out of a high rate, because of the increased business, which the low price gives rise to. It was on this principle that Messrs. Tuckett & Son acted in introducing their now famous "Myrtle Navy" tobacco, and to this principle they have ever since adhered. This is one of reasons why people of Canada are smoking the best tobacco which can be produced, at a cheaper price than any other people can buy a similar article.

There was considerable poultry offered for sale. Chickens, 40 to 60c per pair; ducks, 60 to 75c per pair; geese, 40 to 50c each; turkeys, 75 to $1.00; butter, 18 to 22c and eggs, 16 to 20c.

THE ALLEGED ABDUCTION

Statements by the Chief and Sergt. Downs.

AN INVESTIGATION TO BE HELD

The taking away of the girl Maggie from an hotel on the morning of Wednesday, 30th ult., is causing considerable indignation to be expressed. From the Chief of Police of the affair has been learned. He stated that at about two o'clock on Wednesday morning he was awakened by a hackman, who stated that he had a woman with him who was desirous of getting her daughter, but that she was at an hotel and could not be obtained, they refusing to give her up. The Chief stated that he could do nothing in the matter unless the mother procured a warrant. This was all that was done at his house. The woman was then driven down street, and near the police station Sergeant Downs was encountered. The circumstances of the case were related to him and he accompanied the man and woman to the hotel. The man gave his name as Clayton, and stated that he was a detective and resided at Aylmer, Ont. The woman gave her name as Mrs. Roche. She was a large woman, weighing about 200 lbs, aged 40 years, had dark hair and was fairly well dressed. When the officer arrived at the hotel

THE GIRL WAS DRESSING.

After she had completed her toilet she came into the presence of the woman, who said "Is that you, May?" and threw her arms about the girl's neck and caressed her. When told by the woman what the object of her visit was, and that she was her mother,

SHE DID NOT HESITATE TO GO WITH HER.

The woman represented to the officer that her home was in Detroit, Mich., that she had recently married a wealthy man, and that he had wished her to find her daughter, no matter what the expense was. It has also been learned that the detective was in the city some days ago, and then went west, where he met the woman, and came in company with her to the city. The three left on the early train in the morning, bound for Detroit.

It having been asserted that Sergt. Downs was for his services, he emphatically denies that he received any money, or was even promised any.

Public opinion has been so strongly aroused in connection with the supposed abduction, that the Police Commissioners will at once hold an inquiry into the conduct of Sergt. Downs, and will endeavor to to the bottom. With this object the Police Magistrate has telegraphed the alleged provincial detective Clayton, who was mixed up in the matter, with the object of obtaining from him such particulars of the affair as he can furnish.

WHO WAS THE GIRL?

It is reported that the girl had been in a Reformatory, and went thence to work for a farmer in Prince Edward. Shortly afterwards she came to town and, after serving in a private family, found employment at the Huffman House. Her personality has yet to be learned.

Eloquent and Instructive Address at Belleville Business College.

Yesterday afternoon the teachers and students at this institution were given a rare intellectual treat. Mr. Bogie, the popular manager, in a few well chosen remarks, introduced the speaker, Mr. Gilbert Parker, to the large audience.

In an address of 35 minutes duration the learned speaker gave his hearers many gems of thought, the outcome of long years of mental toil and study in the great field of literature in which he now shines so brightly. It would be an exceedingly phlegmatic and unemotional nature indeed that would not be aroused to enthusiasm by the glowing eloquence and lofty thoughts of the speaker, nor feel the fires of ambition glowing within him to make the most of his God-given powers and the opportunities within his reach for his advancement, intellectually, morally and spiritually.

The address was taken verbatim by the senior students of the Shorthand Department, and we regret that we cannot publish it in full. At its close the delighted audience showed its appreciation of the sentiments expressed by most hearty applause.

The students of B. B. C. were indeed highly favored in having such a distinguished and talented gentleman as Mr. Parker to address them, and should he ever repeat his visit here he may be assured of a hearty welcome.

SOCIAL & PERSONAL

Mrs. J. G. Deans is in the city, visiting her daughter, Mrs. Huffman.

Mr. Cowan, Telegraph operator at the station, has been removed to Napanee, and will leave to-night to assume his duties.

Mrs. Arthur Poplar, of Belleville, has been visiting her sisters, Mesdames A. W. Grange and F. S. Richardson, this week.

Miss Mary Hunter has gone to Belleville to spend a few weeks.

Mrs. John L. McGuire, of Belleville, is visiting at her father's, E. R. Ellis, Esq., ex-clerk of the township of South Fredericksburg.—Bescer.

Mr. Armstrong, of Belleville, has been engaged to assist Mr. Hopper, at Wilson's drug store. Mr. Armstrong is a genial gentleman as well as an experienced chemist, and will doubtless soon make many friends in Port Hope.—Times.

Royal Templars of Temperance.

At the meeting Thursday night of Belleville Council No. 207, Royal Templars of Temperance, the officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: S.C., Geo. E. Mims; V.C., Miss Maggie McKim; Chap., J. T. Burns; Rec. Sec., Miss B. Richards; Asst. Rec. Sec., Miss Nettie Yeomans; Fin. Sec., W. J. Magrath; Treas., W.S. Clarke; Herald, Chas. Clapp; Dep. Herald, Miss S. Richards; Guard, W. Hanna; Sent., J. Biggs; Trustee, J. G. Vandusen.

Popular Parties.

The popular parties led by the Canadian Pacific Railway, leave Toronto for British Columbia every Friday. The train is provided with a transit car beautifully upholstered, is in strict charge of a competent porter, and runs through from Toronto without change. The rates are second class, and the charge for double berth to Vancouver is only five dollars. Rates, tickets and information, secured at S. Burrows' ticket office, Front St., Belleville.

Large Hogs.

Dressed hogs were offered in large numbers to day, and the prices paid were from $6 to $6.25 per 100 lbs. Four hogs that were purchased by Mr. John Panter from Mr. James Potts, of Rawdon, who bred and fed them, were worthy of special notice. Their weight was 1,560 pounds and the heaviest weighed 483 pounds. The animals were a year and a half old.

FIRE AT PICTON.

Skating Rink and Bowling Alley Destroyed.

4,000 Bushels of Peas Burned, also the 15th Batt. Band Instruments and Uniforms. —The Losses and Insurances.

PICTON, Dec. 3.—Shortly before 4 o'clock this morning, fire broke out in the skating rink, and had made such headway when discovered that it was impossible to check the fire, and in a few minutes the rink and bowling alley attached were completely enveloped in flames, and totally consumed.

The rink and bowling alley is owned by the Picton Rink Company, and during the summer is leased by the Cleveland Seed Co. to store their surplus peas.

There were about 5,000 bushels of valuable peas burned. Total loss about $11,000; insured as follows: skating rink $2,500, in the British American; bowling alley, $1,100, in the Imperial. The Cleveland Seed Co. had $5,000 on peas, in the North British and Mercantile.

The Caverly Failure.

Meeting of Creditors. The Estate to be Wound Up.

A meeting of the creditors of Caverly Bros. was held at Madoc yesterday, as advertised, and all of the large creditors were represented. The liabilities amounted to $41,000. The assets, as valued by the Caverly Bros., $25,000—although the creditors were of opinion that this was a low value.

A. W. Coe was confirmed in his appointment as Assignee.

E. D. O'Flynn and N. B. Falkiner were appointed Inspectors, one representing the secured and the other unsecured creditors.

The Insolvents did not put in an appearance at the meeting. A. A. McDonald, Esq., as Solicitor for the Insolvents, offered 20cts. on the dollar at 3, 6 and 9 months, without interest, which was refused. The Assignee and Inspectors are authorized to wind up the estate. It is expected that a better offer will be made. A large claim for wages was put in by a number of relatives of the insolvents. E. D. O'Flynn & Sons, private bankers, and Miss Burdett are well secured.

AMUSEMENTS

OPERA HOUSE.

We congratulate Mr. Lindley on his production of The Three Students last evening. There was some curiosity to see how the late Mr. King Curlett's work would go in the hands of a regular company. The play, as presented, was all the work of the lamented author, and therefore seemed a new drama to the spectators. The scene previously obliterated, viz the "Boarding House" with The Three Students, commenced and finished with roars of laughter. It is a complete farce, full of fun and humour. If there is any fault in the play, it is in the length. Some of the scenes—noticeably the scene between Joseph Appleby and the mother—might be eliminated advantageously, but the characters are well drawn and the interest unceasing, whilst the stage pictures are not forgotten. To night is the last appearance of the company, when, as they deserve, a full house will result. Hosts of volunteers grace the occasion, and the cow, which has been parading our streets, finds a new home.

The New Administration.

The following is given by the Empire and the World as the probable composition of Sir John Thompson's Administration:

Sir John Thompson, Premier and Minister of Justice.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Trade and Commerce and Leader in Senate.

Hon. G. E. Foster, Minister of Finance.

Hon. J. G. Haggart, Minister of Railways.

Hon. A. R. Angers, Minister of Agriculture, with seat in Senate.

Hon. J. A. Ouimet, Minister of Public Works.

Hon. C. H. Tupper, Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

Hon. T. M. Daly Minister of Interior.

Hon. J. C. Patterson, Minister of Militia

Sir A. P. Caron, Postmaster-General.

Hon. John Costigan, Secretary of State.

Mr. W. B. Ives, President Privy Council.

Mr. J. J. Curran, Solicitor-General.

Mr. Clarke Wallace, Comptroller of Customs.

Mr. D. Tisdale, Comptroller of Inland Revenue.

Sir John Abbott, Minister without portfolio.

Albert College.

Rev. E. N. Baker, M.A., B.D., pastor of Bridge street church, last evening lectured at the College. His subject was "Ramsday in Rome," and as the Rev. gentleman has visited the place, it was of much more interest. It was an exceedingly instructive and pleasing address. Rev. A. Campbell occupied the chair. The college chapel was filled with students and friends.

On Wednesday evening next Rev. J. C. Ferguson, B.A., who has for the past five years been in the missionary work in India, will give an address in the College chapel, detailing the work in which he is engaged. The Rev. gentleman is a graduate of the College, and a son of the Rev. John Ferguson. A large number of students are at present in attendance at this institution.

You Cannot Afford to be Without Them

Rigby suitings and pantings can now be had of all first class tailors in the newest designs, intended for Spring wear. Gentlemen can defy the elements when habited in Rigby proofed garments. These can be had at a trifle extra in price over materials which have not been proofed.

Rigby waterproofs can be had in men's and boys' overcoats and ulsters, with and without capes, and can also be had by the yard for Ladies' and Gentlemen's wear.

When ordering your outfit see that your tailor or clothier supplies you with Rigby waterproofed materials.

New Hose Waggon.

The new hose waggon, which has been built by the St. Charles Omnibus Company of this city, was yesterday afternoon taken out upon the street. It is a fine waggon, and from appearances will answer every purpose for which it was manufactured. Ald Fowell, Chairman of the Fire Committee, is doing all he can to supply the department with appliances that will assist them in the performance of their duties. At 4 o'clock on Monday afternoon a public test will be made on Front street.

A Large Stone.

We were to-day shown a large stone which was taken out of the Point Ann quarry. It was 4x6 feet square and 2 feet in thickness, weighing 4 tons. It is to be used as a base for a monument for the late Wm. Coe, of Madoc. It was obtained by the Weese Bros.

BELLEVILLE.

Women's Missionary Meeting.

Interest in missionary work is evidently increasing in Belleville, as the large gathering in the lecture room of Bridge Street Church yesterday afternoon evidenced.

Mrs. Elliot, President of Bridge street Auxiliary, occupied the chair, and was ably supported by Mrs. Maybee and Miss Wilson, Presidents of the Tabernacle and Holloway street Auxiliaries respectively.

Reports from these three Auxiliaries, and from no less than eight Mission Bands, the whole representing nearly 300 members, were read, and listened to with the greatest pleasure, as all noted increase in members, money and interest in this great work for humanity, and for the extension of Christ's Kingdom on the earth.

Not only foreign work was reported, but by some of the bands home mission work in the hospital, and among the poor of the city was mentioned, some homes and children having been made happier by the efforts of these young ladies.

A pleasing programme was presented to the audience, in which a paper by Miss Nettie Swayze, on the responsibility of christian women towards those of heathen lands, the need of greater liberality on the part of christians, and of sympathy and prayer for converts from heathenism; a concise and interesting report of the general board lately held in Brantford, by Mrs. Elliott, and appropriate songs, by the several Mission bands, were the principal features. Some facts were stated in reference to the recent persecution of missionaries in China, that elicited strong sympathy, and a desire to help those who suffer thus for Christ's sake. The spirit of the meeting throughout betokened an earnest determination to "push the battle to the gates," and to help in winning "the world for Jesus."

Monthly Prizes for Boys and Girls.

The "Sunlight" Soap Co., Toronto, offer the following prizes every month till further notice, to boys and girls under 16, residing in the Province of Ontario, who send the greatest number of "Sunlight" wrappers: $10; 2nd, $6; 3rd, $3; 4th, $1; 5th to 14th, a Handsome Book; and a pretty picture to those who send not less than 12 wrappers. Send wrappers to "Sunlight" Soap Office, 43 Scott St., Toronto not later than 20th of each month, and marked "Competition"; also give full name, address, age, and number of wrappers. Winners' names will be published in The Toronto Mail on first Saturday in each month.

Increasingly Prosperous.

The past week has been a remarkable one at Ontario Business College, for a period so early in the season. Within the week students entered from New Hampshire, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and many sections of Ontario; Hastings and Prince Edward counties contributing a larger number than any previous November. The additional new rooms and the additional new Bridge St. entrance, will be in use next week.

The Potato Case.

The case against Joseph Green for selling potatoes unfit for use, after several enlargements, was decided to day by the Police Magistrate. Green was convicted and fined $11 and costs. A great many authorities were gone into, as the case was a test one. W. C. Mikel for the prosecution; E. Guss Porter for defendant.

A Tea.

On Monday night the 12th inst., the ladies of St. Andrew's church will give a tea in the lecture room of the church.

A Wife Seeks Alimony.

What is the Least a Woman can Live On?

The following appeared in the Toronto News of Friday: Farmer Milligan, who lives near Belleville, has fleagreed with his wife, and they have separated after having lived together twenty years. She is suing for alimony.

Douglas Armour asked Mr. Winchester to order an interim allowance of $4 a week.

"I am not able to plow any more," said the defendant in his affidavit.

C. A. Mastin said the farmer was unable to pay more than $2.50.

The Court—The woman would starve.

"Some one must starve," rejoined Mr. Mastin.

"Well, let the man starve," responded Mr. Winchester.

"Board can be had for $2.50 a week in country places," persisted Mr. Mastin.

"That was before the National Policy," ejaculated Mr. Armour.

Mr. Winchester said that no woman could live for less than $4 a week, and she got it.

Nearly Suffocated.

At the gas works this morning about 10 o'clock a workman went to clean out the receiver, when he was surprised to find therein a man, who, on being taken out, proved to be John Hurley, better known as "Salty." He was unconscious from inhaling the fumes and to all appearance lifeless. A physician was, however, summoned, and with the aid of restoratives he was soon brought round. Had he not been discovered he would have been suffocated. The man, who is about forty years of age, is a well-known character in the lower part of city.

Municipal Election.

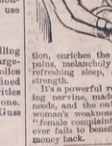

The municipal election nominations came on early this year. Nominations take place on Monday, Dec. 26th, the day which will be duly celebrated as Christmas, owing to that day coming on Sunday. The elections will take place on Monday, January 2nd, the date rightfully observed as New Year's.

She has taken two bottles of Dr Thomas' Eclectric Oil and is perfectly cured. She strongly recommends it and wishes to act as agent among her neighbors.

Among the wealthy classes of Japan it is considered undignified to ride a horse going faster than a walk.

It would be a gross injustice to confound that standard healing agent—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil—with ordinary ung uents, liniments and salves. They are oftentimes inflamatory and astringent. This Oil on the contrary is soothing when applied externally to pain, and powerfully remedial when swallowed.

WHIPS REFUSE TO WORK

PARTY POLITICS RUN HIGH IN GREAT BRITAIN.

The Conservatives Will Offer a Bill Making It Illegal for Priests to Represent Tenants—Voters—Revision of Rents Imperative.

London, Dec. 5.—Although the opening of Parliament is still eight weeks distant, the Conservative party is already on the scene with three amendments to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

One amendment attacks the Irish Evicted Tenants' Commission. Another relates to the distress of the agricultural classes, and the third relates to the wavering policy of the Government with regard to Uganda.

Besides these there are other amendments under discussion. These amendments will prolong the discussion on the address, thus obstructing the work of Parliament, and the object is to test the strength of the Government.

A prominent Liberal member of Parliament said to an Associated Press representative yesterday:

"We are now in the warmest time any Parliament has seen since the discussion of the Reform Bill of 1832. What threatens to make matters worse than ever before is that the fact that the relations between the parties are so embittered that the party whips decline to try to arrange pairs.

The Government's Narrow Majority.

"The Opposition will pair with Liberals. The result will be that every member will be kept in constant attendance in the House of Commons for fear the Government's narrow majority may be submerged by some snatch vote."

"Housekeeping," accurately represents the advice of the Ministerials, who, however, continue to be confident of weathering the divisions on the address, and even hopeful of passing the Home Rule bill.

There is reason for belief that the party whips will bring every man to the House on the opening of Parliament, and will keep all there until Home Rule is decided one way or the other.

The Conservatives, apropos of priestly intimidation in Ireland and the unseating of Mr. Fullam, intend to introduce a bill making it illegal for priests to act as agents for illiterates or otherwise at polling stations.

Another trouble before the Government is renewed agitation of Irish tenant farmers for an abatement of judicial rents fixed four years ago. The tenants declare that the fall in prices of live stock and of farm products generally makes a revision of rents imperative.

A temporary clause of the act of 1887 empowered the Land Commission to reduce rents in ratio of decline in agricultural prices. The clause was operative for only three years and expired at a time when it would have done most good. The Government will ask Parliament to restore the clause exactly as it was.

Couldn't Form a Cabinet.

Paris, Dec. 3.—M. Brisson, who was selected by President Carnot to form a new Ministry, has abandoned the undertaking, and the political situation is more mixed than ever. Brisson, in explanation of his failure, says he desired to form a Cabinet that would co-operate with all the factions, but the refusal of M. Perier to enter the combination and the declination of M. Bourgeois to accept the portfolio of the interior forced him to abandon his task.

Mrs. Deacon After Damages.

Paris, Dec. 3.—Mrs. Deacon has brought an action for slander against The Gaulois and Messenger. The alleged slander consisted in the publication of a report that Mrs. Deacon in the middle of November agreed to surrender her child and to authorize Mr. Deacon to secure a divorce from her in Paris, providing he abandoned the criminal action now pending at Grasse against her for adultery.

According to the paper Mr. Deacon had accepted these conditions.

Anti-Semitics At Work.

London, Dec. 3.—The Standard's Berlin correspondent says that in a draft of the Conservative platform the first paragraph reads:

"We combat Jewish influence in our national life, on which it acts with disintegrating effect. We demand Christian governments, Christian officials, Christian teachers for Christian pupils; we condemn the excesses of anti-Semitism."

The Austrian Secret Service Credit.

Vienna, Dec. 3.—The Reichsrath on Friday by a vote of 167 to 146 refused to grant the credit asked for secret service purposes. The vote was a party one against the credit was made up of German Liberals, German Nationals and Young Czechs.

The Suzerainty of Chitral.

Calcutta, Dec. 3.—Sher Afzul Khan, the usurping ruler of Chitral, has recognized the Ameer of Afghanistan as Suzerain of Chitral. Goods in transit from India through Chitral will henceforth pay duty to the Ameer.

Fired On Europeans.

Tangier, Dec. 3.—Excitement was caused here yesterday by a Moorish police guard firing upon four Europeans, killing one and wounding another.

BREACH OF PROMISE.

Erastus Wiman Vouches for the Fair Petitioner.

New York, Dec. 3.—In an action of Albertina La Belle, 21 years old, to recover $20,000 damages from Samuel B. Moore for alleged breach of promise of marriage, Moore was arrested yesterday on an order of Justice Andrews of the Supreme Court. He gave the $5000 bail required and was released.

Albertina lives with her sisters at New Brighton, S.I., but her family comes from Montreal. She became acquainted with Moore while both were residing at the Colonnade Hotel in November, 1891. She says he engaged to marry her on January 1 last. Moore denies the promise of marriage.

The arrest was partly based on an affidavit of Erastus Wiman, who says he was informed by Mr. Brennan of Hornthal, Whitehead & Co., who employ the defendant, that Moore had arranged to go to Virginia to reside permanently about Dec. 1.

Mr. Wiman says he knows the family of Albertina in Montreal, and that it is respectable and influential. "It is well-known there," he says, "and enjoys the respect and esteem of good people." He had been introduced into the family himself, and believes the statement of Albertina about her relations with Moore.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS.

One-Third of An Island Split Off By An Earthquake.

San Francisco, Dec. 3.—The steamer City of Panama brings further news of the earthquake in San Salvador, October 18.

Signs of activity were noticed about the crater of the Conchequa volcano, near La Union, in the Gulf of Fonseca. At 10 o'clock that night a violent earthquake and the 5000 inhabitants of La Uni ed to the beach.

Shock after shock struck the city and the older buildings were tumbled in ruins. The stone cathedral was reduced to a formless heap and 50 or 60 other buildings were wrecked. Twenty-four persons were injured.

One-third of the island of Conchequa in the Gulf of Fonseca, seven miles from Latenaire, was split off by the shock, and suddenly sank out of sight. The crater of Conchequa did not break forth again, but it shows signs of coming eruptions.

QUEERLY COME BY.

Odd Things Discovered by Fortunate Finders.

London Answers has been collecting from its correspondents stories of "curious finds." Here are the best of the dozen stories sent in:

In 1883 a young bandsman named Chappell, serving in the Durham Light Infantry (106th) stationed at the Buena Vista Barracks, Gibraltar, was accidentally killed by a fall of about 200ft. over an almost perpendicular though rugged cliff 300 ft. high.

The accident was observed by a number of people who were bathing in Camp Bay, a bathing resort below the cliff. On the alarm being given, Corporal Hammond, Medical Staff Corps, and myself commenced to climb the almost inaccessible cliff to where the body lay, and when about 140 ft. high Corporal Hammond, who was a few feet in front of me, placed his hand, whilst in the act of reaching another ledge, upon what turned out afterwards to be a gold watch in fairly good preservation, which it is supposed must have been there several years, as no owner for it could be found.

A Strange Nest Egg.

It is six years ago since I met with my lucky friend.

I was then living at Hoe Lane, Enfield Highway, and was on my way to St. James' Boys School, when I saw a bird's nest up in a high willow tree.

I climbed the tree, and reached the nest, but instead of finding eggs or young ones, as I expected, to my surprise I discovered a gold ring.

At the Bottom of the Sea.

In June, 1866, when I was in command of the ship Thunderbolt, of London, on a passage from London to Shanghai, we were taking sounding during the fog in the Formosa Channel.

In the centre of the arming of tallow, which is placed on the lead to ascertain the nature of the bottom, we found a Chinese coin after striking the bottom at a depth of sixty-eight fathoms.

His Head Crushed In.

Lindsay, Dec. 3.—On Tuesday evening a fatal accident occurred on the farm of Mr. Frank Chambers, Fenelon, on the boundary between Mariposa and Fenelon, west of the village of Cambray. A young Joseph Wells, a young man of 23 years of age, lost his life.

Mr. Wells, who owned and ran a steam threshing machine, had been threshing for Mr. Chambers, and, having got through, got on top of the engine to lower the smoke stack, when he slipped, falling between the fly-wheel and the boiler. Death was instantaneous, his head being crushed in as well as the body being more or less mangled. The deceased was a son of Mr. Robert Wells of Mariposa and was universally respected.

Shocked for Ten Seconds.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Dec. 3.—An earthquake shock was felt here yesterday. The vibrations lasted 10 seconds. The shock was not so severe as the one which first shook Charleston in 1886, but was like the lesser shocks which followed several days afterward.

Behring Sea Negotiations.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 3.—It was announced that Prof. E. J. Phelps of Yale, ex-Minister to Great Britain, has been appointed by President Harrison to continue his work in connection with the Behring Sea negotiations.

Robbery in Kingston.

Kingston, Dec. 3.— Yesterday morning a daring burglary was committed in John Marshall's residence, notwithstanding there were seven people asleep in the house. The burglars went upstairs and they carried a desk belonging to Mrs. Marshall, or, downstairs to a shed at the rear. The desk being locked they had to pry it open and found inside $31.25. A bag containing a handsome gold watch was also in the desk, but they did not consider it safe to take jewelry.

Mr. Marshall, brother-in-law was first awakened by dogs barking and he called Mr. Marshall, who ran downstairs an I found the back door open and the desk in the shed. The robbers could not be seen.

Drifted Five Days.

New York, Dec. 3.—The British steamer Cynthiana from Hamburg arrived last night, having on board Capt. Lorimer and his crew of 23 men of the steamer Lincolnshire, which sailed from Philadelphia Oct. 31 for Copenhagen and was found sinking in mid-ocean.

She had drifted five days with her engines broken down and leaking badly. She went down soon after all on board were rescued.

Mrs. Maybrick Again.

Panama, Dec. 3.—The American residents of Colon have sent an appeal to the British Home Secretary on behalf of Mrs. Maybrick.

Emile Zola is now paid for the right to publish his novels serially at the rate of three cents a word. That beats Alexandre Dumas's seven cents a line.

Dorcons Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely imitate the original in appearance and name. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasa Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and d not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sal , all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Hor & Co.' Brockville, Ont.

A Dangerous Cold.

Dear Sirs,—My little girl last winter had a very bad cold which almost resulted in congestion of the lungs. After doctoring with her for three months without success I tried Hagyard's Pectorial Balsam, and two bottles of it cured her. She is now strong and healthy.

Mrs. Samuel Mulholland, Hamilton, Ont

Aching Pains Removed.

Gentlemen,—I cannot but praise B. B. B. for it has revived me wonderfully. I was completely run down, had aching pains in my shoulders, a tired feeling in my limbs, low spirits, in fact I was in misery. Being recomended to try B.B.B. I did so, with the use of only one bottle I am to day strong and healthy. Price $1 per bottle.

Mrs B. Tucker, Toronto, Ont.

Is there anything more annoying than having your corn stepped on! Is there anything more delightful than to get rid of it? Holloway's Corn Cure will do it. Try it and be convinced.

Rose pink and mauve, blue and primose, emerald green and red, black, gold, or magenta are all considered good combinations.

Much distress and sickness in children is caused by worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator gives relief by removing the cause. Give it a trial and be convinced.

What is
CASTORIA
Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.
"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
Dr. G. C. Osgood, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
Dr. J. F. Kincheloe, Conway, Ar

Castoria.
"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
United Hospital and Dispensary, Boston, Mass.

For Bronchitis
"I never realized the good of a medicine so much as I have in the last few months, during which time I have suffered intensely from pneumonia, followed by bronchitis. After trying various remedies without benefit, I began the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and the effect has been marvellous; a single dose relieving me of choking, and securing a good night's rest."—T. A. Higginbotham, Gen. Store, Long Mountain, Va.
La Grippe
"Last Spring I was taken down with la grippe. For weeks I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breath seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and no sooner had I began taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid."—W. H. Williams, Cook City, S. Dak.
Lung Trouble
"For more than twenty-five years, I was a sufferer from lung trouble, attended with coughing so severe at times as to cause hemorrhage, the paroxysms frequently lasting three or four hours. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after taking four bottles, was thoroughly cured. I can confidently recommend this medicine."—Frank Hofmann, Clay Centre, Kans.

Daily Intelligencer.

DOWN WITH CIVIL WAR,

THREE POWERFUL NATIONS JUMP ON SAMOA.

Local Differences Over Racial Opposition For Business In Hawaii Must No Longer Cause Civil Wars—Order Must be Restored.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The Berlin correspondent of The Daily News has learned that the Governments of England, Germany and the United States have agreed to common action to restore order in Samoa.

Murderer Neill's Will.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—It is known that Thomas Neill made a will disposing of his property, but the question arises, is it valid? Discussing this point The Law Journal seems to think that the act by which the crown may appoint administrators of the possessions of any convict does not cover the case of a convict on whom the capital sentence has been carried out.

The crown may, therefore, so far interfere as to pay through its administrators the cost of the dead convict's prosecution and of his defence, defray his debts and pay compensation to persons injured by his criminal acts.

FOREIGN BUSINESS.

The Trade of France Has Not Been Flourishing For a Long Time.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Latest discount quotations yesterday were 2 for three months and 1¼ for short. Rates were firm at the beginning of the week, but relapsed largely owing to banks repaying some loans to the market.

Business on the stock exchange was fairly active. The leading feature was a heavy drop in South American securities. British, Colonial and Indian funds were slightly higher.

In European stocks little business was transacted. English railways advanced slightly. The unusual efflux of gold from America had a depressing effect on American railways, but there was a partial recovery in the last dealings of the day.

The week's variations include an increase in Louisville and Nashville of 1¼, and the following decreases: New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, 3; Wabash mortgage, Missouri & Kansas and Lake Shore, 1 each. Atchison mortgage, Northern Pacific preferred and Ohio and Mississippi, 2 each; Atchison shares, Norfolk and Western preferred and Union Pacific ¼ each. Grand Trunks were in better favor, first and second preference closed 3 higher and do. guaranteed 2 higher.

France's Difficulties.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—Prices on the bourse opened higher, but declined owing to the ministerial crisis. The tone was rather better yesterday. Rentes withstood the prevailing depression better than was expected. Investors still hold aloof. Men competent to judge are of the opinion that a continuance of the recent violent changes of Government will have a serious effect upon the trade of France, which has not been in a flourishing condition for a long time.

Unless the outlook improves soon, failures in many quarters are inevitable. International funds showed a slight upward movement.

Credit Foncier closed 26 1-4 lower owing to criticisms in the chamber shaking the confidence of shareholders. Suez Canal was slightly higher. Rio Tinto closed at 410. Railways show an average decline of 10 francs.

Foreign Securities Firm.

BERLIN, Dec. 5.—Prices on the bourse during the past week were firm, especially in the case of foreign securities, and the movements were only fractional. Iron and coal shares were dull. The final quotations included: Prussian fours, 107; Austrian credit, 167.75; Deutsche bank, 158.90; private discount, 2⅜.

A Steady Exit.

FRANKFORT, Dec. 5.—Prices were steady on the bourse during the past week. International funds were quiet, Hungarian gold rentes closed at 96, Austrian credit at 267 and Austrian gold rentes at 98.

A HARD TASK.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—M. Perier, who was summoned Saturday by President Carnot to form a Cabinet, after M. Brisson had abandoned the undertaking, has also given up the task, finding it impossible to get the men he wanted to accept the portfolios he offered them.

M. Constans has written a letter to the President of the Panama Canal Investigation Committee denying the statements made by a witness before the committee that he (Constans) brought papers relating to the Panama Company.

M. Bonaparte Wyse, a well-known French Engineer who negotiated the new Colombian concession to the Panama Canal Company, died at Cannes yesterday.

Necessary Action.

MADRID, Dec. 5.—Royal decrees are published permitting the free importation of American vines to repair the losses caused by the phylloxera in the vine-growing districts of Spain.

Gladstone's Welcome To Liverpool.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The freedom of the city of Liverpool was conferred Saturday on the Right Hon. William E. Gladstone. The streets were thronged with about 250,000 people, and Mr. Gladstone received a most cordial ovation on his way to the town hall, where he delivered an address.

More Effective Than Shillalahs.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The new council of the Irish National Federation will consist of 30 county delegates, 13 civic delegates and 71 anti-Parnellite members of the House of Commons.

Snow in Great Britain.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Heavy snowstorms are reported throughout the kingdom. The mails are delayed and many sheep have died.

An Editor Killed by His Wife.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 5.—Thomas Henderson Boyd, editor of The Olympian at Olympia, was shot and killed at a late hour last night by his wife, who lives here and who was formerly a notorious woman at Olympia. She says he had ceased to love her. She is under arrest. Boyd was the son of Col. A. P. Boyd of Philadelphia, at one time Vice-President of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Her Character Cleared.

HAMILTON, Dec. 5.—Julia Smith, charged with stealing wearing apparel and bedding from Blasse's saloon, was exonerated in the Police Court yesterday.

The Manitoba Legislature.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 5.—It is understood that the Manitoba Legislature will be called together Jan. 26.

GAMBLING STOPPED

Montreal Has Closed the Racket Shops in a Determined Way

MONTREAL, Dec. 5.—The turf commission room, 201 St. James street, about which so much has been said and written, is closed. The Gazette says: What the law failed to do Montreal's sporting public has very quickly accomplished in a very few months. The professional gamblers has been sucked dry, and what wealth he possessed has passed into the pockets of those Canadian "suckers" in whose verdancy he confidently expected to find a bonanza.

The pool-room, once thronged with sporting men and reeking with tobacco smoke, is cold and empty.

Its glory has departed. The Montreal public has proved too much for each of the successive syndicates who have attempted to operate it, and now the place will remain vacant and deserted until some new organization can be tempted to bank the tiger.

When its first owner, Mr. J. Gleason of New York, found that the Montreal end of his poolroom circuit was a losing concern he sold out to a syndicate of local gamblers. As each of these successively dropped what money he had and got out fresh players were taken in, until within the last few months over 10 partners have invested their "stuff" and lost it in the rooms. Gradually the "takes" became afraid of the place. Nearly all of the original syndicate had dropped out one by one until a Toronto betting man, who formerly operated a room farther down in St. James street, an ex-saloon-keeper and a French-Canadian sport, became the leading spirits. Betting men became afraid of their chances of getting what they won. Payment was made in cash tickets and the syndicate had to draw in their horns. Large bets were refused. One sporting man was left desired to lay 100 to 3 and his bet declined; and it was palpable that the end was not far off. Still they struggled along until Thursday, when, the Gutenberg race being postponed, they played the Gloucester races instead. Unfortunately for the sporting public had put their races down "pat," and the room was hit right and left. The result was that on Friday the room was closed. Whether it will open again or not is a question. It is rumored that some Toronto sporting men have been persuaded to take hold of it, but it is doubtful if any syndicate with only a few thousand dollars to lose can make money where Jimmy Gleason with all his capital and experience proved a failure. Should it open again it will not likely last long, and thus, fortunately one moral plague spot and the law could not touch will be finally eradicated from our fair city of Montreal.

GRAND TRUNK RUMORS.

It is Said That Two High Officials Will Be Asked to Resign.

STRATFORD, Ont., Dec. 5.—The latest and most startling rumor since the Grand Trunk's policy of retrenchment has been put into force gained currency Saturday. It was to the effect that General Manager Seargeant and Mechanical Superintendent Wallis had been asked to resign. It was said a private message to that effect had gone over the G.T.R. wires, but careful enquiry failed to confirm the report. Everyone of course had heard the rumor, but that was all. Mr. Wallis is at present in Chicago attending a convention of mechanical superintendents.

The rumor dint not stay at having Messrs. Seargeant and Wallis asked to resign, but General Manager W.J. Spicer and Mechanical Superintendent H. Roberts of the Chicago and Grand Trunk were named as successors, the entire system from Chicago to Portland being placed under the one management by the rumor. General Manager Spicer of the Chicago and Grand Trunk has just returned from the Old Country, and his private car went to Montreal the other day to meet him. Those two occurrences are looked upon as perhaps significant.

HE IS AN ARCHITECT.

An Omaha Embezzler Sent to Penitentiary For a Year.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 5.—Sidney Smith, who was arrested in Toronto three months ago and brought back to Omaha for forgery, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

Smith was arrested by Detective McGrath in King-street on Oct. 31. He was living at 172 Mutual-street under the name of Henry Thomas. He had not been working while in Toronto, but had called on a number of architects as he was an architect himself. He expressed a willingness, if not anxiety, to go back to Omaha, and after he had left it was learned that he had married a young woman here, despite the fact that he had a wife living in Omaha. Rev. Mr. Smith of the Metropolitan performed the ceremony. The Toronto girl met him in a boarding house in which they were living. She is now living with friends in Oakville.

WANTED TO DIE.

An Immigrant Woman Refuses Food Because She Is Not Allowed to Remain in the United States.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—At the immigrant station on Ellis Island is a pale-faced, lump-backed woman, who seems bent on starving herself to death. She is Christina Schoefflerberger and 48 years old.

She arrived last Wednesday, and since then has steadfastly refused to take any food. She said, "There is no more peace for me in this world, and I might as well die now as I must die going back over the ocean."

She is to be sent back on Tuesday on the steamer Westernland, by order of Col. Weber. She came here with her man, Knupper, to act as his housekeeper. The man was allowed to land, but she was barred.

A Plain Funeral for Gould.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—It was decided Saturday to have the funeral services of Jay Gould at the house this afternoon at 4 o'clock. There will be no pallbearers and no addresses. After the service the friends of the family will have an opportunity to view the body in the front parlor on the 47th street side. The casket has been prepared. It is of plain oak, covered with black broadcloth, and having oxydized silver handles and an oxydized silver plate. A number of telegrams of condolence have been received by the family.

Captured the Desperadoes.

GRAND FORKS, Dakota, Dec. 5.—Four of the desperadoes who held up the Great Northern train Tuesday near Malta were captured yesterday. They are Alexander Black, Henry Bass, W. C. Hunt and W. T. Baugh.

An Important Position.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Monsignor Satolli, the papal delegate, has been empowered by the Pope to decide without appeal all religious questions between bishops and priests in the United States.

"It Cured Mother."
A Man Made Happy.
GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have terrible dreams, and my life became very miserable as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady custom er of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat any thing and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several antiseptics which exert a specific influence upon the blood, stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and skin, thereby producing the most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsy, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

The Railway Temperance Movement.

The white button movement among railway men is the subject of an appeal to railway officials set forth in a letter to a well-known technical journal, the Railroad Gazette, from which we quote:

The object of the movement is to foster and encourage temperance, or rather total abstinence, among railway officials and workingmen, by a manifestation of mutual sympathy and support. To this end all total abstainers and temperance men among railway employees are asked to wear a white button as at once a badge of their principle, a guarantee of their constant sobriety and an encouragement to others to become and to remain total abstainers. We suppose that every one but drink-makers and sellers agree that all men who have anything to do with the management and care and working of railways should be habitually sober men should, in fact, be total abstainers. Men upon whose careful performance of duty the lives of passengers daily depend should, above all others, be careful not to put an enemy in their mouths to steal away their brains. The Railway Companies and the travelling public are coming more and more to demand strictly temperate If not altogether teetotal workingmen on the railroad. The railway temperance associations are becoming very strong in point of numbers, and the companies as well as the Labor associations are encouraging the men to become abstainers. Why some railway companies connive at and even protect the existence of liquor saloons on their lines in view of the losses that drinking at such places must entail is a mystery unless they are penny wise and pound foolish in their policy. That railway companies will take on a total abstainer in preference to a moderate drinker every time, all else being anywhere near equal, is, however, certain. The writer of the letter published is soon her column requests the officials of roads to don the white button as an incentive and encouragement to the employees and prospective employees to become wearers of the same in good faith. Such badges are found by many temperance societies and religious associations to be very effective, and there is little doubt the movement will have a good effect among railway employees. Probably the great majority of travellers would regard with favor the white button employees, as well as the lines upon which most men wore the white buttons. There is danger, of course, that the badge may be worn by hypocrites and deceivers. Such wearers of the white button would, however, soon be marked men among the employees, and would by their lyy cring soon make their own positions untenable.

THE CITY'S SEWERAGE.

One of Belleville's "wants" has long been a sewerage system, but very little has been done towards it, the inevitably large expense being the restraining influence. The City Council of the present year has, however, taken a useful step in obtaining from Mr. W. J. Smith, Architect and C.E., of Toronto, the able gentleman who constructed the new sewerage system at the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, a sketch of such a system as would best meet the city's wants and an estimate of the cost.

Mr. Smith's report is published in our issue of to-day, and will be found worthy of a careful perusal. He maps out two plans for the disposal of the city's sewage, and furnishes estimates of the cost, so that we now know the extent of the undertaking.

The subject will, no doubt, be carefully considered by the Council and by the people.

TORONTO, Dec. 2.

COURT OF APPEAL.

Before Haggerty, C.J.O., Burton, Osler and Maclennan, J.J.A.

Howard v. Herrington.—J. W. Gordon (Brighton) for the defendant, appealed from the judgment of the county court of Hastings in favor of the plaintiff in an action of replevin for goods seized by the defendant as bailiff of taxes. The defendant was the tax collector for the township of Brighton. The plaintiff alleged that the seizure for taxes was illegal because the taxes had been paid or remitted by the council. The defendant appeals on the ground that the taxes were due at the time of seizure, and that the defendant was entitled to notice of action, which he did not receive. The defendant also appealed on the ground that the county court of Hastings had no jurisdiction in this action of replevin, the goods having been seized in another county and the amount being being beyond the jurisdiction. C. E. Lyons, for the plaintiff, contra. Reserved.

The sittings of the court then ended.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and sure cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for cleaning up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50 cents a package.

SITUATION AT OTTAWA.

A Slight Relief in the Political Tension.

The New Department of Trade and Commerce Called Into Being.

(Ottawa Corr. The Empire.)

OTTAWA, Dec. 4.—The political tension of the past few day is relieved somewhat by the official announcement of the establishment of the new department of Trade and Commerce. The Cabinet met at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when there were present: Sir John Thompson, Hon. Messrs. Bowell, Costigan, Haggart, Daly, Ouimet, Patterson and Sir. A. P. Caron. It is understood that a decision was reached to advise His Excellency to issue his proclamation bringing into force the Acts of 1887 creating the Department of Trade and Commerce, and making the Departments of Customs and Inland Revenue subsidiary thereto. An extra of The Canada Gazette will, therefore, be issued to-morrow containing the proclamation. Council rose at 5 o'clock, and Sir John Thompson went down to the Union station to meet His Excellency on the arrival of the Toronto train.

Apart from the foregoing, nothing definite in regard to the political situation can be said to-night. It is not yet known whether the Premier will wait upon His Excellency to-morrow or Tuesday. It is rumored to-night that the appointments are for Tuesday. However, nothing definite is known.

The work which will fall to the Department of Trade and Commerce will be allotted to it by His Excellency in council. Judging from the experience of other countries, the head of the new department has a great field of labor before him. Such subjects as the issue of trade bulletins, the supervision of harbor commissions, the various Government appointments vested in Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade, the regulation of pilots, the publication of statistical information, supervision of and correspondence with Government agents in other countries; these and a dozen other matters will readily suggest themselves as coming properly within the functions of the new department.

Mr. John F. Wood, M.P. for Brockville, not Col. Tisdale of Norfolk, is to be the Comptroller of Inland Revenue.—ED. INT.]

A FATAL JUMP.

A Young Commercial Traveler Killed at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Dec. 5.—The first fatal accident which has occurred on the Grand Trunk Railway in the vicinity of the station here occurred Saturday, Henry Melzar, a young man who was on his way to this city a week, meeting his death in trying to board a moving train. Melzar is a commercial traveler, his line of business being with the shoe trade. He arrived here on Saturday, Nov. 26, just one week ago to-day, and registered at the Royal Hotel.

Saturday he started for the station to board the 9.25 train for the west. As he got to the platform the train started. The platform was slippery after the night's rain and frost, but Melzar made a good run, and after passing two cars attempted to get upon the third—the one behind the smoker. He had a regular traveler's valise in his right hand, and with this hand he caught the hind hand rail, and at the same time catching at the front hand rail with his left hand he jumped for the step. It was a fatal leap. He missed the front hand rail, and having no support, he was swung around backwards between the two cars and fell.

The wheels of the car did not go over him, but he was terribly crushed diagonally across the stomach by being squeezed between the truck beams and the roadbed. His left arm was broken in three or four places and his head was bruised. The skin was not broken in any place. Deceased was a well-built, handsome and steady young man of about 28 or 30 years. He has no relatives here, and as far as is known this was his first business trip to this city.

The body was removed to Blachford's undertaking establishment, where it was identified by Mr. Hood. Deceased had left instructions at the hotel to have his mail forwarded to Eler P. Melzar, No. 628 Ridge-avenue, Evanston, Ill. A telegraphic message was at once sent to this address, carrying the terrible news. In his valise was found an envelope, judged, from a note across the front of it, to contain papers. It was addressed to Mrs. Henry G. Trickey, 34 Monadnock-street, Dorchester district, Boston, Mass. In the note on the face of the envelope was a reference to "Gertie," evidently a young girl and a relative. A portion of a key-ring was also found, on the corner of which was the business address of the American Shoe Tip Company, Boston.

THE FISCAL POLICY.

A General Convention to Be Held in Montreal in January.

MONTREAL, Dec. 5.—At a meeting of the members of the Club National held Saturday evening notice was given that at the next meeting a motion will be made to call a general convention of all the commercial, political, university, labor and other organizations in the Dominion, to be held in Montreal in the course of January next, to discuss the opportunity of adopting some means to change the political and economical condition of the country. The question will be fully discussed at the next meeting of the club. The movers and seconders base their motion on the fact of serious dissatisfaction manifested in different parts of the country with the present regime.

A Small Boy Accidentally Shoots Himself.

HAMILTON, Dec. 5.—A terrible accident occured early Saturday to a little boy named George Humphreys, son of Mr. Joseph Humphreys, who resides at 219 Picton-street east. The little fellow, who is only 3 years old, was playing with a loaded gun belonging to his father, and the weapon went off, the charge lodging in the lad's left thigh. An awful wound was the result, the gun being heavily loaded with buck shot. Some little time elapsed before medical aid could be procured. Dr. White was called through the telephone, but was not at his surgery. Subsequently he saw the injured boy, and it is feared that the injuries will prove fatal.

He Bled to Death.

KINGSTON, Dec. 5.—James Kerr, while engaged in doing chores for James Stanton, Clear Lake, fell and broke an artery in his leg, bleeding to death before medical aid could be summoned.

A Royal Pass.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 5.—C. K. Royal, son of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Northwest, was yesterday admitted to the bar of Manitoba. He is the first French-Canadian lawyer to pass the course in this province.

A Printer Suicides.

The Toronto Home for Incurables.

PARKDALE, Ont., Feb. 27th, 1888 — Gentlemen, it gives me pleasure to let you know I have derived great benefit from the use of Norviline. I have been a great sufferer from Neuralgia in the face, and last two years was quite a martyr to the malady. So soon as I observed the Norvilline advertised I obtained a bottle from our druggists Messrs. John Gray & Co., Parkdale, and the effect was marvellous; pain ceased and I can enjoy sound sleep at night, and rise refreshed. I cannot speak too highly of it and heartily recommend it. ROTHSCHILD'S SUPPORT

IS FELT AT THE MONETARY CONFERENCE BUT LITTLE.

Delegates From the Countries in the Latin Union Favor International Free Coinage—A British Currency Association Gives Its Views.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 5.—The rejection of the Rothschild plan by the committee of the International Monetary Conference does not finally dispose of Rothschild's proposals. The minority of the committee who supported the plan are feeling their way to taking a vote of the conference on the scheme with the amendments offered by the committee that no limitation be made on the price of the proposed annual European purchase of 30,000,000 ounces of silver; that the purchases be overt and above the ordinary purchases for token coinage and metal, and that the purchases be employed as money either by coinage or as a metallic basis of notes to be issued. These modifications increase the value of the plan in the eyes of the bi-metallists.

When the conference resumes its session on Tuesday Sir William Houldsworth, one of the British delegates, will bring forward further amendments to Rothschild's proposals, as the committee recommended a discussion of the whole question before the full conference. The proceedings on Tuesday will probably continue on the lines of yesterday's meetings, unless the American delegates decide to ask the Conference to proceed without delay to discuss the question of international bi-metallism.

Want International Free Coinage.

It has transpired that the delegates of the countries belonging to the Latin Union voted against the Rothschild proposals on the ground that they were not able to recommend their governments to increase their stocks of silver under the limited purchase scheme, and because the countries in the Latin Union could not increase their present silver currency without international free coinage being established.

With regard to the plan of Moritz Lavy, which includes the withdrawal of all gold coins under the value of 20 francs, Sir C. Fremantle, deputy master of the British mint, declared he could not promise the consent of the British Government to the withdrawal of the half-sovereign pieces.

The British and International Currency Association will send a memorial to Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, asking him to instruct the British delegates to the International Monetary Conference to entertain any reasonable proposals for establishment of an international currency.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The leading financial papers, The London Economist and Statist, disapprove of the Rothschild scheme and refer to their prediction that the conference would not adopt anything practical. An eminent authority writes to The Statist that he advocated the Rothschild plan for the sole reason that a delay in the silver collapse in the United States would enable India and other countries to arrange their financial systems.

A PLUTOCRAT'S WEALTH.

It Was Purchased at Too High a Price for the Country.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—The Herald editorially says:

It is said of Mr. Gould that within the limits of the family circle he was beyond the reach of criticism. But Mr. Gould was also a public man. He exercised a large influence over the careers of many who had commercial aspirations, and that influence tended to lower the moral tone of business transactions.

The example he set is a dangerous one to follow. The methods he adopted are to be avoided. His financial success, judged by the means by which it was attained, is not to be envied. His great wealth was purchased at too high a price. The respect of the community is the guinea's stamp, and all coin is counterfeit unless thus stamped. Mr. Gould's policy has not been found. It is hidden under cover of an emphatic negative to the question, "Am I my brother's keeper"

He played the game of life to win, and he reckoned the possible ruin of thousands as a matter with which he had no concern. In strategy he was a genius, in financial tactics he was without a peer, in utter disregard of consequences he stood alone. To those who fell under the crushing weight of the avalanche which he started he had only the old-time answer, "I am not my brother's keeper."

He has, therefore, left untold millions and an example. The millions will be inherited, but the example will be repudiated. "Do as I have done and do likewise" is the lesson of a life.

The World says, editorially: But few very rich men have ever been more morally indifferent than he to the truth that wealth has obligations. Mr. Gould could have done for New York what George Peabody did for London.

He could have emulated and far surpassed the noble service of Peter Cooper to this city. He could have done vast good in many directions. He has done nothing but to heap up money, often by dishonorable means, and leave it in trust for his children.

It is not a great career. It is not an admirable character. It is not a death that will cause any public sorrow.

Suffering In Nova Scotia.

HALIFAX, Dec. 5.—The almost entire failure of the fisheries along the western coast of Nova Scotia has even thus early in the winter occasioned a great deal of destitution.

When the fish struck in there was no bait and when bait arrived the fish had gone. As the inhabitants are dependent upon the fisheries their condition is most distressing. Unless aid is furnished by the Government great suffering must ensue.

Hippolyte's Hand at the Helm.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—The steamer Prince Frederick Hendrick, which arrived yesterday, reports all quiet at Port au Prince. There was no danger of an outbreak, Hippolyte having everything well in hand. Business was in excellent condition.

Caused 1000 Men To Be Idle.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 5.—The South 15th-street mills of the Oliver Iron and Steel Company have closed down in all departments, throwing 1000 men out of work. The suspension of operations was a surprise to the workmen and the only explanation given was an overstocked mill and lack of orders.

Her Mission Work Ended.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—The W.C.T.U. National headquarters received a cablegram from Tokyo, Japan, stating that Miss Mary Allen West, who has been doing temperance work in that country for the past year, died in Tokyo Thursday.

Suicide of a Jockey.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 5.—Bob Maynard, the well-known jockey, committed suicide here Saturday morning by shooting himself through the heart. Tom Grims, one of Maynard's friends, was reading a letter to him at the time concerning some property he had sold in Southwest Georgia. No cause for suicide is known. Maynard's body will leave for Atlanta by the 3.45 train to-day.

Robbed the Poor Boxes.

KINGSTON, Dec 5.—Burglars resumed work Saturday. McDonell's music store suffered to the extent of about $100 and the poor boxes in St. Mary's Cathedral were broken open and robbed of their contents. No arrests made.

Charged With Incest.

ROCKWOOD, Ont., Dec. 5.—John Carter, the constable, was arrested yesterday on a charge of incest, laid by his eldest daughter Sarah. He was tried by Squire Strange and sent up to stand his trial. Acting Constable Soper conducted him to Guelph jail.

THE SPREE IN MID-OCEAN.

A PASSENGER LOST HIS WITS AND WENT OVERBOARD.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 5.—The North German Lloyd steamship Spree, which left Southampton on Nov. 23 and was due in New York on Nov. 30, arrived at Queenstown yesterday in tow of the British steamship Lake Huron, which sailed from Montreal Nov. 19 for Liverpool.

The Spree's main shaft broke down on Nov. 26. Part of the machinery went through her bottom under the second cabin, which immediately filled with water. The passengers thought the vessel was going to the bottom and crowded on deck. For a time a panic prevailed. The water could be heard rushing through the hole in the bottom, and in a short time the vessel began to settle. The passengers ran about the ship in wild confusion, but when they saw that the vessel was not going to the bottom the counsels of the officers and the more cool-headed among their own number prevailed and a semblance of order was restored. Life preservers were in great request and many of the passengers were close at hand even when it became known that there was no immediate danger.

As soon as the accident occurred the boats' crews were piped to their stations, and everything was placed in readiness for the abandonment of the vessel should such a course be deemed necessary. The stewards busied themselves in getting provisions into the boats, and everything that prudent seamanship would dictate was done.

The Bulkheads Saved the Vessel.

It was shortly seen, however, that the water-tight bulkheads were answering the purpose for which they were constructed, and that though the water was pouring into the compartment beneath the second cabin very little was getting into the other compartments. With only one compartment filled the steamer had little of her buoyancy, and when it was stated by the officers that all danger of sinking was passed the passengers became calm.

When the accident occurred the Spree was about 1000 miles from Queenstown. The Lake Huron towed her the entire distance back. The Spree leaked so badly that it was impossible for the pumps to gain on the water, which is still 30 feet deep in the after compartment.

The shaft broke at 6.30 in the morning, at that early hour few of the passengers had arisen and when the noise made by the pounding of the broken shaft aroused them they were thrown into great alarm. Many of them rushed on deck in their night clothing, mothers clasping their babes in their arms, and a second-class passenger named named Paul Kelson was so terribly frightened that he jumped overboard and was drowned. The other passengers are all well.

DAVITT WILL RESIGN.

He Wishes to Avoid the Trial of the Parnellites Against Him.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The Parnellites were jubilant when they succeeded in having Fullam, the anti-Parnellite, who was elected to represent South Meath in Parliament, deprived of his seat and there is a prospect that they will have further cause for joy in the case of Michael Davitt, who against whose return from North Meath a petition has been presented. As in the case of Mr. Fullam, clerical intimidation in favor of Mr. Davitt is charged. It is expected that the judges, after unseating Mr. Davitt, will report Bishop Nulty of Meath and several priests of that diocese to Parliament as guilty of intimidation.

It has been stated that Mr. Davitt desires to resign his seat to-day and again for election without priestly assistance, but under the charge of undue clerical influence he would not be allowed to accept the Chiltern Hundreds.

Should the election petition judges send to Parliament a presentment against Bishop Nulty and the priests who are accused, the Irish executive would have no alternative but to prosecute them.

The Irish Catholic Bishops have already decided to convene a meeting to discuss the situation as bearing on future political manifestoes which it is likely will be more carefully worded than those heretofore issued by bishops.

The Worcestershire election petition has been rejected with costs against the petitioners, who are Liberals.

THE SEAL QUESTION.

The Arbitration Tribunal Will Meet in Paris in February.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—It is ascertained at the State Department that the Behring Sea Arbitration Tribunal will hold its first meeting in Paris on Feb. 23 next.

By the terms of the treaty the case of each Government was delivered Sept. 1 last and the counter-cases on each side should have been delivered Dec. 1, but taking advantage of a provision of the treaty to that effect the British Government asked for an extension of time of 60 days, which postponed the time for the delivery of the counter-cases to Feb. 3, and the meeting of the Tribunal of Arbitration to Feb. 23 next.

Very Fresh Students.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 5.—The celebration of Yale freshmen Saturday was carried to excess. Besides breaking up a play at the Opera House they broke into a dime museum and played havoc with the proprietor's chattels.

Four of the party were arrested. The Yale faculty will investigate the matter and a number of expulsions are inevitable.

Ben Is To Settle the Trouble.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—The steamer Vigilancia arrived here yesterday from Brazilian ports and brought three of the Brazilian commissioners to serve in the settlement of the Missions boundary case, which, by agreement between the Brazilian Government and the Argentine Republic, is to be left to the decision of President Harrison.

Unusual courtesies were extended to the commissioners by the customs inspectors under orders from the Treasury Department.

Another Express Man Gone.

TROY, N.Y., Dec. 5.—Captain E. H. Virgil, who established the National Express, died here yesterday. He was born in 1808.

The captain was one of the originators of the British and American Express Company operated in Canada.

QUEBEC'S PREMIER.

Mr. Taillon May Be Asked to Form a Ministry for That Province.

MONTREAL, Dec. 5.—The provincial crisis consequent upon De Boucherville's resignation was fully discussed at a meeting of Conservatives here Saturday, and it was decided, in the event of Mr. De Boucherville's resignation being accepted, to appoint Mr. Taillon leader.

It is understood that Mr. Taillon will be asked to form a Ministry.

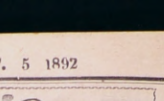

Leading Conservatives express the opinion that Mr. De Boucherville's resignation will strengthen the Government.

A BLOCK CREMATED.

SIMCOE, Ont., Dec. 5.—A serious fire occurred here yesterday about 4 o'clock, by which Perry's block was totally consumed. The losses are:

G. B. Perry, art gallery and building, $20,000, insurance $14,200; J. S. Collins, gents' furnishings, stock $5000, insurance $2000; O. Hendry, druggists, stock badly damaged by water, insured for $5000; A.W. Smith, dentist, loss on furniture $200; Board of Trade rooms, total loss.

"When your heart is bad, and your head is bad, and you are bad clean through, what is needed?" asked a Sunday-school teacher to her class. "I know—Ayer's Sarsaparilla," spoke up a little girl, whose mother had recently been restored to health by that medicine.

When kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull ache ache is the kidney's cry for relief. If cold's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney disease that a perslstant use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

The general verdict of the smokers of Canada is that "Myrtle Navy" is the finest tobacco they have ever used. There can be no mistake upon this point, for it is proved by this tangible evidence. The large demand for this tobacco shows it to be true, and the character of the demand gives further proof. It has never been of the spasmodic kind, up one month and down the next. It has been a sustained and constantly increasing demand. The unsurpassed quality of the tobacco accounts for this.

It is Feared That "Ding" Finkle Has Been Drowned.

The Toronto World of Saturday last says: "The friends of Isaiah, or "Ding," Finkle, who resided at 6 Fenelon street, this city, are in a state of anxiety over his mysterious disappearance. The young man, who was 27 years of age, left Toronto on Oct. 21 for Buffalo, intending to ship on a vessel for the south. He has not been heard from since, and as he has always been very regular in his correspondence it is feared that he was on board the steamer Gilcher, which foundered on Lake Michigan on Nov. 1 with all hands on board."

Mr. Finkle was born in this city and resided here nearly all his life. He was well known, and all his friends would regret to hear of his untimely death if such should prove to be the case.

It was that his father owed Mr. Jones $30, of which but $10 had been paid, and that he had been instructed to pay the balance, which he did. When asked about the debt he said that it was contracted some 30 years ago.

Confirmation Services.

ST. THOMAS.

Confirmation services were conducted yesterday morning at St. Thomas' church by His Lordship Bishop Sweatman, D.D., of Toronto. There was a large congregation present to participate in this sacred service. Some 30 were confirmed. The Bishop gave an address which was replete with instruction and admonition to those who were confirmed.

ST. JOHN'S

St. John's church was crowded to its utmost capacity last night, on the occasion of a visit from the Lord Bishop of Toronto to administer the sacred rite of Confirmation. The church itself looked very pretty, with its white hangings and altar frontal, and a lovely cross of white chrysanthemums. The service was semi-choral, and all the music was appropriate, and nicely rendered by a full choir. A class of twenty three candidates was presented to the Bishop by the Rector, and a very nice-looking and reverent class it was. They seemed to pay the closest attention to the Bishop's address, which was very earnest and practical, as well as instructive. The Bishop took occasion to correct the mistaken idea that most people held regarding confirmation, namely that it is merely a ceremony by which persons fully attach themselves to the Church of England. He showed that it is an apostolic rite, in which those who come to it earnestly and faithfully, will certainly receive the gift of the Holy Ghost to confirm or strengthen the spiritual gift of regeneration received at their baptism. He then urged the newly confirmed to use faithfully the means of grace provided in the Church for aiding them in their struggle against sin—particularly prayer, study of God's word, and holy communion.

The girls were dressed in white, with veils and gloves, and the Bishop expressed much pleasure at their modest and reverent demeanor. Altogether, the service was most impressive, and not likely to be soon forgotten, either by the candidates or the large congregation who took part in it.

"ROB ROY."

This fine old Scottish operatic drama will be presented at the opera house on Wednesday night. The Buffalo Daily Star says of the performance in that city: There was a fair attendance last night to witness the performance of the operatic drama of "Rob Roy." Scotch music is simply to look at and read, but certainly difficult to give expression to, except by the most accomplished and trained singers. Miss Lina John, who impersonated "Diana Vernon," certainly did all she had to do very satisfactorily. Both Mr. Murdock as the cool, calculating, big-hearted "Ballie Nicol Jarvie," and Mr. Wilson Reeves as the bold outlaw, "Rob Roy," are to be commended for their fine performances in every way They had the bulk of the hard work in sustaining the piece. Mr. H. E. Walton was also very clever in his delineation of the faithful "Dougal Creature."

THE CITY'S SEWERAGE.

Full Details and Estimate of Cost.

To Mayor Bogart and the Members of the Council of the City of Belleville, Ontario:

GENTLEMEN,—In conformity with the resolution adopted by you—copy of which I have received—I may call for your honorable body the features necessary for the collection of the city's sewage, and methods of disposal of same, herewith unfolding as follows:

Preliminary thereto I state that the sewers which have present existence, though they will undoubtedly be considered when construction works are actually proposed, require no special mention in this report.

The topography of east and west Belleville is of that character which eminently conduces to easy drainage, but, on account of the rock substructure it would be more costly than ordinary. The natural drainage is to the Moira river, therefore downfall and lateral drains on both sides of the river are easy to line, but judgment must be used as to capacity and proper calculations be entered upon prior to construction. To this end a map of the city is requisite, upon which should be marked the sizes of main and downfall sewers, the points of connection, and sizes of lateral drains, all to be in keeping with requirements of the population they are destined to serve.

This should be looked upon as an essential in any scheme of drainage, for, by thus preparing, the haphazard incongruous works indulged in by other cities can be avoided.

Such precautions being taken, the main works should be first constructed, the necessary downfall sewers branching therefrom—constructed at such times as circumstances permit—for which connection provision should be made, as well as those immediately undertaken, and for later drainage thereto, man holes, trapped culverts, and overflows for excessive collections, must receive consideration in any matured scheme.

Before speaking of removal mains, it becomes necessary to direct your attention to methods of disposal; in this matter, the Ontario Government has directed that the Provincial Board of Health be consulted as to drainage schemes of cities and towns, and that plans for such purpose be submitted for their approval before construction works are entered upon.

At present, your honorable body desires to ascertain a practicable method with view to the carrying out of same at a future time, submission therefore of a copy of this report, should it meet your approval, may be all sufficient for their purpose, and let us hope their sanction and commendation.

Diverse opinions exist in all countries, when sanitation is considered of moment to the health of the inhabitants, as to the best method of disposal of sewage accumulations, sewage companies without number have been found, each having special methods of treatment, and each being, according to their promoters, the best and most effective, be that treatment one of simple precipitation, or precipitation with after-filtration of the resultant effluent, with disposal of the sludge by cremation, or by use upon farm lands, either in a semi-liquid state, or, as a prepared dry manure. This advocacy is extended into comparison results of treatment of the crude sewage, whether it be by polarization, electrolysis, carbon, iron salts, sulphuric acid, lime, sulphate of alumina, phosphoric acid, or, combinations of the above or other methods too numerous to recite, but all having the one object in view, deprivation of the crude sewage of its solids and suspended matter in so far as possible.

This attainable object is largely accomplished by any of the systems, but, by none to a greater extent than by simple deposition.

While favoring the mechanical treatment of sewage by cities or towns in environed positions, or when discharge into water would prove a grievance, I nevertheless distinctly affirm that, when water carriage is obtainable without disadvantage of a serious nature, such means should be taken advantage of for removal.

In this opinion I am supported by no less an authority than Baldwin Latham, the great English engineer and sanitarian, as well as many other eminent men.

A scientific commission appointed by the city of Chicago, U. S., made the tour of Europe and the British Isles for the purpose of inquiry into the methods in use, and in an exhaustive report affirmed that water, where obtainable, was the proper receptacle of sewage, especially so if that water had a distinct course or line to follow; consequently, we find that Chicago has commenced works to give outflow to their sewage by connection of Chicago river with the Desplaines, thence to the Illinois, and by that river to the Mississippi, ultimately to reach the Gulf of Mexico, at an estimated cost of $40,000,000.

This seemingly extraneous matter is pertinent to our subject, and it is necessary that the position may be so placed before you that due consideration being given to all its features, sound conclusions can be arrived at prior to the entrance upon construction works.

How then is the City of Belleville situated in respect of water carriage as a disposing medium?

The Bay of Quinte is a fine example of a fresh water estuary. At its head we find the Trent river discharging its accumulations, gathered in its course for more than a hundred miles, a quantity sufficient to renew the water of the Bay from Trenton to Belleville approximately every thirty days in combination with the creeks lying between, while, at a most convenient point, the Moira adds its quota, safely allowing an average of 10,000,000 cubic feet daily, the whole waters wending their way onward through bay, lake and St. Lawrence river to the ocean. It becomes self-evident that the water of the bay in front of the city is daily and constantly being pushed forward by the inflow of water sembouchuring therein.

It is thus seen that the situation is one eminently fitted for the purpose of sewage removal if discharged therein. A further and important feature in connection therewith will be revealed at its proper place.

Belleville on the upper (east) should have an intercepting sewer of adequate size commencing at or near Burrell street to the upper bridge, southward on Front street to Dundas street.

The portion of the city south of Dundas street should have a collecting sewer from east end of Wharf street, falling westward to join Belleville with Front St., thence northward on line of that street, converging at Dundas street with its co collector, thence westward on extended line of that street to the river, with continuance by means of steel piping into the channel recently dredged—or by a more proper disposition, at the same time a more costly one—southward across the water intervening as between the main land and Mill Island, discharging its accumulations into the main channel on the west thereof, thence to be instantaneously removed, and diluted millions of times. Surplus materials arising from construction works could be utilized for roadway to the island—at same time such roadway would form protection works to piping.

The latter outlined mains would enable the easy collection of sewage and drainage from the flats, with disposal of the same as readily as from the more elevated portions of East Belleville.

The alternative of this section would be the continuance of the Front Street sewer southward, with extension of very considerable length across the shallow water on the east side of the pier—this for the purpose of conveyance of sewage to deep water (practically into the main flow of waters moving eastwards), for the entire removal of same. Discharge near the shore would very shortly create a nuisance which would have to be rectified.

To effect an easy discharge, and at the same time maintain an intercepatory free from mephitic gases, and sanitary on all lines, a water inlet should be constructed from the river at or near Burrell street, connected with the main sewer—main sewer could be extended onward to the G. T. R. station when desired—thus conveying a diluting agent, as well as a propelling force sufficient to prevent deposits, at same time creating the requisite velocity through the steel pipe, with after impetus of admixed sewage and water in the main channel of the river. This is a most important feature, as its action, in addition to the benefits reciled, would have the tendency to dilaniate matter, rendering it easier of suspension, dispersion and non-visible.

When found expedient, West Belleville could be treated on the same line, making commencement of interceptory at point behind Leghan's mill on Moira street, thence southward to its junction with Coleman street to the river, with steel pipe continuation to the channel. Water inlet should also be provided for this sewer, and for the reasons previously set forth.

An alternative to the discharge would be as follows: On lot south of the Fire Hall and opposite Dundas street there exists certain large honest enclosing tanks forming sewage receptacles, therein treat the crude sewage as would be hereafter arranged, permitting the effluent to flow into the river close by the works, dealing with the resultant sludge either in manner as previously set forth or by such cremative works as would efficiently remove or reduce the matter to innocuous ash. Similar works would be required in such case on the west side at foot of Coleman street. Such works would entail large annual operative expenses, and are to be avoided if at all possible, while constructed works with water carriage disposal are entirely free of such charges, and are especially adaptable to Belleville's requirements.

In lieu of duplicate tanks, etc., on the west side of the river steel piping could convey sewage across to the east side. Requisite pumping plant would then be required.

Another strong point would seem to lie in water carriage disposal, that of rendering channel ice, from which so much difficulty is experienced in spring, more susceptible of removal from the usual barrier position, giving thereby free exit to waters—this from the probable temperature increase, owing to the sewage discharged along channel line.

The following approximate estimate of the various methods is submitted:

EAST BELLEVILLE.

7500 ft. of sewer on Mill, Front, and Wharf Streets, at $5.50	$41,250 00
Culverts	6,000 00
Manholes	1 000 00
500 feet steel piping (laid)	12,000 00
Roadway to Island	1,000 00
Road repairing	4,000 00
Add 10 per cent for contingencies	6,475 00
Total for interceptory and discharge	$72,225 00

WEST BELLEVILLE.

5,400 ft. of sewer on Moira and Coleman Streets, at $5.50	$29,700 00
Culverts and manholes	4 000 00
Steel piping, laid	5 000 00
Road repairing	2,000 00
Add 10 per cent for contingencies	4 070 00
Total for interceptory and discharge	$44,770 00

GENERAL.

9,000 ft. downfall and lateral drains	$20,000 00
Culverts and manholes	6,000 00
Refixing roadways	5,000 00
Contingencies	2,035 00
	$33,035 00
Total Estimate	$150,000 00

In the event of Council deciding that mechanical and chemical treatment is preferable to water carriage disposal, then the cost of removal main east side will be reduced by the amount set down for roadway to island, ($1,000), the $12 500 set down for street piping will then be required for the requisite houses, tanks, steam pumps, and other essentials to that method, while the approximate for the west side will be increased by an additional sum of $6,000 for similar requirements, unless the steel piping was extended to tank houses on the east side.

It would not be well to burden this report with statistics of costs in connection with purification works; suffice it, they would be large, and such must be obtained when required. Estimates given show that an extended system of sewage may be carried out for a gross sum of $150,000, or for the east side, only, for $100,000, all of which is respectfully submitted.

The Alleged Abduction Case.

No new developments have transpired in the alleged abduction case. Police Magistrate Flint communicated with the Mayor of Aylmer and learned that Clayton, the man who accompanied the woman here, is a provincial detective. He has also sent to the Mayor a version of the facts as related here, and has asked from Mr. Clayton, a declaration in the case, giving particulars as to how he became connected with the case, and what he did in the matter. The result of the investigation is awaited with much anxiety.

From the Jaws of Death.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. When all other remedies have failed Miller's Emulsion nearly always succeeds. It is the best kind of fish and blood maker, and has been used with marked success by the physicians in the Insane Asylum, Penitentiary, Orphans' Home and General Hospital in Kingston, Ont. In big bottles, 50c and $1, at all Drug Stores.

IN CLASS.

That's the way Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets come. And it's a more important point than you think. It keeps them always fresh and reliable, unlike the ordinary pills in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes.

They're put up in a better way, and they act in a better way, than the huge, old-fashioned pills. No griping, no violence, no reaction afterward that sometimes leaves you worse off than before. In this way, they cure permanently. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels are prevented, relieved, and cured.

They're tiny, sugar-coated granules, a compound of refined and concentrated vegetable extracts—the smallest in size, the easiest to take, and the cheapest pill you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get.

(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

Southampton Row, as it is well known, leads to Russell Square. In fact the straight line of the Row merges imperceptibly into one side of the Square, whence it continues under the name of Woburn Place into the East side of Tavistock Square. Upper Woburn Place and Euston Square losing itself in the Northern wilderness of the crowded Euston Road. It was at a house which he passed in his straight course from Holborn towards St. Pancras that this very tall, strong-looking gentleman stopped at about five o'clock on a September afternoon.

He stood on the steps for a moment and looked up and down the house doubtfully, as if seeking for signs of life from within. A great many people were still out of town, and he was uncertain whether the occupants were at home or not. The place had evidently been in the hands of painters and cleaners since he saw it last; the stonework was painted a delicate green. The visitor lifted his well-defined eyebrows at this lightness of the color, as he turned to the door and rang the bell. It was easy to see he was an observant man, upon whose eyes very few things were lost.

Mrs. Romaine let in he asked the trim maid who appeared in answer to his ring. He noticed that she was a new maid.

'You sir. What name shall I say, please, sir?

'Mr. Brooke.'

The girl looked intelligent, as if she had heard the name before. And Mr. Brooke, following her upstairs to the drawing room, reflected on the quickness with which servants make themselves acquainted with their masters' and mistresses' affairs, and the disadvantages of civilisation where you were at the mercy of your servants' tongues.

These reflections had no bearing on his own circumstances; they proceeded entirely from Mr. Brooke's habit of taking general views and making large applications of small things.

The day was cloudy, and although it was only five o'clock, the streets were growing dark. The weather was chilly, moreover, and the wind blew from the east. It was a pleasant change to enter Mrs. Romaine's drawing room, which was full of soft light from a glowing little fire, full of the scent of roses and the lovely tints of Indian embroideries, Italian tapestries, dead gold-leaf back grounds, and china that was beautiful as well as rare. Mrs. Alice Brooke, in her narrow isolation from the world, would not have believed that so charming a room could be found east of Great Portland Street. In which opinion she was very much mistaken; for her belief that in 'society' and society's haunts alone could one find taste, culture, and beauty, led her to ignore the vast number of intellectual and artistic folk who still sojourn in the dim squares of Bloomsbury and Regent's Park. Scoth to say Lady Alice knew absolutely nothing of the world's intellect and art, save by means of an occasional article in the magazines, or a stroll through the large picture galleries of London during the season. She was a good woman in her way, and—also in her way—a clever one; but she had been brought up in another atmosphere from that which her husband loved, educated in a totally different school, and therefore was unable to adapt herself to what she did not thoroughly understand.

Mrs. Romaine knew well enough that she was quite as well able to hold her own in the fashionable world if once she obtained an entrance to it as any Lady Alice or Lady Anybody of her acquaintance. But then the difficulty of entering it was very great. She had not sufficient fortune to vie with women who every day spent hundreds on their dress and on their dinner. She was handsome, but she was middle-aged. She had few friends of sufficient distinction to push her forward. And she was a wise woman. She thought it better to live where she enjoyed a good deal of popularity and consideration, where she could entertain in a modest way, where her husband had been well known, and she could glow with the reflected light that came to her from his shining abilities. These reasons were patent to the world; she really made no secret of them. But there was another reason, not quite so patent to the world, for her living quietly in Russell Square, and this reason she kept strictly to herself.

Mrs. Romaine had been a widow for three years. Her husband had been a very learned man—Professor of numerous Oriental languages at University College for some years, afterwards a Judge in Calcutta; and as he had always lived in the West Central district during his Professorate, Mrs. Romaine declared that she loved it and could live nowhere else. The house in Russell Square was only partly hers. Her brother rented some of the rooms (shared the house with her, as Mrs. Romaine vaguely phrased it), and lightened the expense. But the two drawing rooms, opening out of one another, were entirely at her disposal, and she was generally to be found there between four and five o'clock in an afternoon—a fact of which it may be presumed that Mr. Brooke was aware.

'So you have come back to town!' she said, rising to meet him, and extending both hands with a pretty air of appropriative friendship.

'Yes; but I hardly expected to find you here so early.'

Mrs. Romaine shrugged her shoulders a little.

'I found the country very dull,' she said. 'And you?'

'Oh, I went to Norway. I was well enough off. I rather enjoyed myself. Perhaps I required a little bracing for the task that lies before me.' He laughed as he spoke.

Mrs. Romaine paused a moment in her task of pouring out the tea.

'You are resolved, then, to resume that responsibility?' she said in a low voice.

'My dear Rosalind; its in the bond,' answered Caspar Brooke, very coolly.

He took the cup from her hand, stirred its contents, and proceeded to drink it in a leisurely manner, glancing at his hostess in a leisurely manner, glancing at his hostess meanwhile with a quiet scrutiny.

Mrs. Romaine's dark eyes dropped before that glance. There was an inscrutable look upon her face, but it was a look that would have told another woman that Mrs. Romaine was disappointed by the news which she had just heard. Caspar Brooke being a man saw nothing.

'I am sorry,' Mrs. Romaine said presently, with an assumption of great candor. 'I am afraid you will have an uncomfortable time.'

'Oh, no,' he answered, with indifference. 'I will not be uncomfortable for it shall not effect me in the least. When I spoke of bracing myself for the task, I was in jest.' Mrs. Romaine did not believe this statement. 'I shall go my own way whether the girl is in the house or not.'

'Why, then, did you insist on this arrangement?'

'It is only right to give the girl a chance,' said Mr. Brooke, 'if she has any grit in her the next twelve months will bring it out. Besides, it is simple justice. She ought to see and judge for herself. If she decides—as her mother did—that I am an ogre, she can go back to her aristocratic friends in the north. I shall not try to keep her. There was a suspicion of a grim sneer on his face as he spoke.

'Do you know what she is like?

'Yes: I saw her one day in Paris. She did not know, of course, that I was watching her. She is like her mother.'

The tone was unpromising. But it would have been as well if Rosalind Romaine had not murmured so pityingly—

'My poor friend! What you have suffered—and oh what you will suffer.'

Brooke looked at her in silence, and his eyes softened. Mrs. Romaine seemed to him at that moment the incarnation of all that was sweet and womanly. She was slender, pale, graceful; she had velvety dark eyes and picturesque curling hair, cut short like a Florentine boy's. Her dress was harmonious in color and design; her attitude was charming, her voice most musical. It crossed Mr. Brooke's mind, as it had crossed his mind before, that he might have been very happy if Providence had sent him a wife like Rosalind Romaine.

For Bronchitis
"I never realized the good of a medicine so much as I have in the last few months, during which time I have suffered intensely from pneumonia, followed by bronchitis. After trying various remedies without benefit, I began the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and the effect has been marvelous, a single dose relieving me of choking, and securing a good night's rest."—T. A. Higginbotham, Gen. Supt. Long Mountain, Va.

La Grippe
"Last Spring I was taken down with la grippe. At times I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breath seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and ere sooner had I began taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid."—W. H. Williams, Cook City, S. Dak.

Lung Trouble
"For more than twenty-five years, I was a sufferer from lung trouble, attended with coughing so severe at times as to cause hemorrhage, the paroxysms frequently lasting three or four hours. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after taking four bottles, was thoroughly cured. I can confidently recommend this medicine."—Franz Hofmann, Clay Centre, Kans.

GAVE A FEARFUL SHRIEK

EPILEPSY ATTACKED A DEPUTY IN THE FRENCH CHAMBER.

The Other Deputies Horrified—A Hurried Adjournment—Business of the Panama Committee Cannot Go to the Front—It Will Not Have Magisterial Powers.

Deputy Alfred Letellier demanded that the proceedings of the committee should be taken down stenographically in order that the record might be used for future reference. It was important, he said, that the whole truth should be made known.

M. Brisson replied that he had no objection to such a course, but feared it would be difficult.

At this point a fearful shriek rang through the chamber and the deputies sprang to their feet and gazed in the direction from which the shriek had come.

Deputy Dubreuil was writhing in the convulsions of epilepsy. He was paying with his hands and seemed to be foaming at the mouth.

It was a fearful spectacle, and one that horrified the deputies. The sitting was at once suspended, while a score of members ran to succor their unfortunate companion, who was borne, still shrieking, from the chamber.

M. Letellier made a motion in the Chamber of Deputies to-day that the minutes of the Panama Committee be immediately communicated to the press, as it was essential that the truth regarding the Panama Canal Company should not be distorted.

Amid much applause M. Letellier demanded urgency for his motion.

M. Brisson, the president of the committee, opposed the motion on the ground that the official act of the committee's proceedings would give certain evidence of import, and that the press, as at other times reported, and newspapers could only reproduce extracts from the evidence.

The motion was rejected by a large majority.

M. Boisserin moved that the committee be empowered to nominate a magistrate to co-operate with it, and asked that the Chamber appoint a sub-committee to-morrow. This proposal, with a demand for urgency, was adopted by a vote of 333 to 182.

The Chamber then adjourned until Thursday.

In the Senate M. Girarault, a member of the Extreme Left, proposed that the Panama Committee be given magisterial powers and demanded that the Canal Company be reimbursed for the sums of money that have been improperly paid out of the treasury.

These proposals were rejected by an almost unanimous vote.

M. Rubot, at present Minister of Foreign Affairs, has informed President Carnot that he has succeeded in forming a Cabinet which is a reproduction of the Loubet Cabinet, except that M. Bourgeois, formerly Minister of Public Instruction and the Arts, is replaced by M. Ricard, who was as Minister of Justice and Public Worship. M. Dupuy, deputy from Haute-Loire, will be Minister of Public Instruction, and M. Siegfried will replace M. Roche as Minister of Commerce.

The Protectionist policy will be maintained.

M. Siegfried represents Havre in the Chamber of Deputies and the cotton spinning interests, He is strongly opposed to free trade. His predecessor, M. Roche, advocated a treaty of commerce with Switzerland only to a more extent an opponent of the Meline tariff.

WHAT GARDNER SAYS.

Our Cattle to Enter England as Usual When Free From Pleuro-Pneumonia.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 6.—Mr. Gardner, chairman of the Board of Agriculture, has given a pledge on behalf of the Imperial Government that the restriction recently imposed on Canadian cattle imported into Great Britain and Ireland will be removed as soon as Canada has proved beyond a doubt that the Dominion is free from pleuro-pneumonia.

The High Commissioner has communicated with the Dominion authorities to have the necessary inspection made and the proof of the dairy's immunity from the disease forwarded to London.

Meanwhile, those interested in the Canadian cattle trade, particularly in Scotland, are keeping up the agitation to have the schedule against Canadian cattle at once removed. They maintain that no cases of pleuro-pneumonia were found to have existed in any imported Canadian cattle.

The opponents in England of the Canadian export trade are not, however, idle. The farming clubs are now meeting and are urging the Board of Agriculture to secure the passage of an act requiring that all foreign stock be slaughtered at the port of landing, whether any contagious disease is reported to exist in the country from which they are exported or not.

The Scotch Breeders' Association, the Smithfield Club and other leading agricultural bodies are sharing in this movement.

AUSTRIA'S POOR.

A Socialist named Rennmann declared there were 94,000 persons in Austria who were idle through no fault of their own. Already applications have been made for shelter next year of a new 40,000 persons who have no homes.

The speaker was frequently interrupted with cries of "Down with the rich!" and "We must have work!"

The British Grain Trade.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the British grain trade, says:

English and foreign wheats are dull and declined 1d to 2d, dearer. Oats are steady. Corn is weaker. At to-day's market the English wheat offered was of better quality and prices were firmer.

American and Argentine wheats were 6d. cheaper. Russian and Indian were down 3d.

Flour was quiet; American met with good sale. Foreign oats were firm. Corn was dull pending the arrivals of the new American crop. Barley was depressed.

Expeditions Massacred.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 6.—The Reforme publishes a letter from Boma officially confirming the reports of the massacre of the expeditions under Captains Jacques, Joubert and Bia.

Heavy Salvage.

QUEENSTOWN, Dec. 6.—The owners of the Lake Huron, which rescued the Spree, claim $125,000 salvage, and bond for the amount has been given.

Congress Meets.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The two Houses of Congress were called to order at noon.

A SWINDLER'S RETURN.

How the Former Toronto Broker Was Traced Through Europe.

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—A. T. Kerr, the former Toronto broker, whose arrest in Liverpool for swindling the Jarvis Conkling Mortgage Trust Co. of Kansas City, of which he was head bookkeeper, has been reported, arrived in New York yesterday in the Arcania in charge of Detective Bowman of Chicago.

The landing of the pair marked the end of an exciting chase extending over a considerable part of America and Europe. When Kerr disappeared last March and with him $30,000 of the Jarvis Conkling Mortgage Company's money, Detective Bowman was despatched to find him. After a search in the United States the detective went to Europe. A month's work in England and he had no clue. Then he crossed to France, and in Paris he heard of the object of his journey. Bowman chased his prey all over Sweden from town to town. He finally lost track of him and for two months could get no trace of him. While in Paris he again got a clue of his man, this time from Monte Carlo, the famous gambling resort. The detective immediately went there, but just reached the place in time to learn that Kerr had left, having won $2,000 the night before. The Chicagoan prepared for another chase. He traced his man to Versailles, to Berlin, to Brussels again, and to Paris. It seemed fate as the detective went in one side Kerr went out the other. Finally Bowman got so close to Kerr that his man had crossed the channel. The detective reached London the day of the Derby and went down to Epsom. Once there, however, Bowman could not find him. It was not until three months later that the inspector placed his hands upon Kerr, and the long search was brought to an end. He caught him in Liverpool, and it is said that Scotland Yard had a hand in the final capture.

SHORT WEIGHT.

An Ingenious Scheme to Rob the Customers of a Coal Company.

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—The arrest of Thos. Addison, 158 Agnes-st., last night for receiving a bag of coal stolen from R. C. Gibson's delivered by the police to satisfactorily explain the reason why numerous others of late have been suspicious that when they ordered a ton of coal they did not receive 2000 lbs. Detective Harrison learned that a carter named Macdonald, in the employ of the Consumers' Coal Company, was in the habit when delivering coal in bags to retain one bag in his cart and drive off with it. He notified the company, with the result that Macdonald was watched, and after he had delivered Gibson's coal the wagon was searched at the stable and a sack of coal found. Macdonal was accused of the theft, but took to his heels. He was captured by Detective Harrison late last night, however. Thomas Addison, the owner of the horse and wagon, came out and it is alleged tried to settle. He was promptly arrested as a receiver.

DAVIDSON'S EXTRADITION.

The Governor-General Wires the British Minister to Mexico to Expedite Matters.

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—Some time ago Charles E. Davidson was arrested in Mexico on a charge of obtaining about $10,000 from the Bank of Hamilton at Hamilton by discounting forged orders for delivery of stock. Detective Murray, who is trying to get him back, has written to the provincial authorities complaining of what he considers unnecessary delay in the extradition proceedings. The Lieut.-Governor of Ontario represented the matter to the Governor-General and on Saturday His Excellency telegraphed to Sir Spencer St. John, British Minister to Mexico, at Orizaba, to use his good offices to expedite the extradition in so far as it was proper to do so.

KICKED BY A HORSE.

Accident to a Young Lad Which May Prove Fatal.

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Harry Williams, a six-year-old lad, was kicked by a horse belonging to J. Duffy, milkman, on Gerrard-street east. The horse had been unhitched from the wagon and was being led into the stable when the lad ran up to it and was knocked six or seven feet by the kick the horse gave him. The little fellow was carried to the residence of Dr. Bray, 286 Gerrard-street. The physician found a portion of the skull one and a half inches long and half an inch wide crushed in. When this was removed the membrane inside was seen to be intact, and the brain uninjured. The boy returned to consciousness during the operation, and this gives the doctors hope that he may survive the accident, though in that case the brain will have to be protected with a silver plate. The boy was the youngest son of Frank Williams, the Colborne-street pickle manufacturer.

SUDDEN DEATH.

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—Sir Joseph Dundas of this city received a telegram last evening announcing that her brother, Dr. Dundas, formerly of Toronto, had been found dead in bed at Rochester.

Deceased, who was born in Canada in 1837, had been for many years the leading physician in Rochester. He was a member of the Park Commission, Vice-President of the Trustee Board of the Mechanics' Institute and President of the Humane Society.

MORE DISMISSALS.

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—Several more Canadian Pacific Railway conductors having runs between Toronto and Detroit have received their discharge during the past few days as the result of the trip of a spotter over the road, and it is said that the bosses still have yawns for more heads.

It was reported that the removals were the result of prompt action into the smuggling of Chinamen across the border, but there is no truth in this report.

ANOTHER NEWSPAPER!

A New Provincial Organ For the Irish Catholics.

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—It is understood that a company is in process of formation to commence the publication early next year of a new newspaper devoted to the Irish Catholic element. The scheme is to absorb Rev. Boyle's Irish-Canadian and The Catholic Review. The necessary capital has already been subscribed.

Rev. Boyle, when spoken to about the new venture yesterday, said: "It would be premature to say anything about the matter just now. See me again."

Gold in Newfoundland.

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—A private despatch received by a Bay of Quinte capitalist yesterday states that Newfoundland copper ore contains a good percentage of gold. From that mine at Tilt Cove this year $50,000 worth of gold was extracted, and the company now, finding the news has become public, are working up the refuse copper at the works, thinking to make it pay. Speculators are much excited over this discovery, which presages a boom in mining operations.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The remains of Jay Gould will be interred in Woodlawn Cemetery in the family mausoleum at noon to-day.

"It Cured Mother."

A Man Made Happy.
GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable. Since we used one bottle per night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY I'm making an entire change for the better, and I am a well man. I can eat a pea, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of this curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. I have myself been a living proof of the cures herewith sent you, and I would gladly answer any one who may write me. Yours truly, MICHAEL D. MARSH, Aberown, P. Q. General Merchant.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicinal herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the throat, and all kindred weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsy, or sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is no paliative but a cure that will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

SILVER TO FALL.
The Times Predicts It, And Says the Conference Will Be a Failure.
LONDON, Dec. 6.—The Times, speaking editorially on the Monetary Conference, says: "It is not going too far to say that the Monetary Conference has already resulted in failure. When it was found that the Americans were not prepared to make the first move the conference kindly accommodated them.
"Mr. De Rothschild's proposals are a mystery, unless he wished to force the Americans to realize and admit that, except there was universal bi-metallism, there was no arrangement which would suit. If they were of this Machiavellian character they have apparently succeeded, for already in America strong objection has arisen to continue the purchase of silver.
"The childish talk indulged in two years ago respecting the ability of America to act in defiance of the elementary principles of economics has been abandoned in the presence of the plain fact that the Gresham law is not dead, and that inferior money still drives out better money if given a chance.
"It is probable there will be a sharp fall in silver when it is recognized that the conference will have been lost."

THE HALF-GUINEA.
It May Be Abolished to Suit the Advocates of Silver.
BRUSSELS, Dec. 6.—When the International Monetary Conference resumes its sittings to-day the first matter requiring settlement will be whether the report of the committee appointed to consider the Rothschild plan shall be further debated or the proposals of the American delegates proceeded with.
Mr. Rothschild, Sir C. Fremantle and Sir William Houldsworth, all of whom are British delegates, desire some expression of opinion regarding Rothschild's plan from the full conference. Bertram Currie another British delegate, aiming to bring the conference to a speedy close, would accelerate the consideration of the elementary principles of economics as touching the winding up of the meeting.
Sir C. Fremantle with a view to resumption of the debate on the Rothschild plan has amended his declaration declining to pledge the English government to withdraw its half sovereign pieces in favor of silver, by adding the words, "Except concurrently with the adoption of the Rothschild's project or some other proposal having the same compensatory value." Sir C. Fremantle, who is Deputy-Master of the British Mint, has never been known to take independent action or personal initiative, and it is therefore taken for granted that he is the mouthpiece of the British Government in announcing assent to the abolition of the half sovereign.
Mr. Dana Horton to-day, in speaking of the Monetary Conference, said:
It would be difficult to over-estimate the educational value of Rothschild's proposals. This conference is only a step in a long series. It is a lesson in the education of the nations of the advantage of co-operation in common interests.
Telegrams from Berlin to-day say that there is talk of the silver question being raised in the Reichstag, before the conference adjourns, with a view to inducing the Government to authorize the German delegates at the conference to go beyond the proposals Germany presented at the Paris conference of 1881.
King Leopold gave an audience to the delegates at the palace to-day in the presence of the Ministers.
The next meeting is expected to be of unusual interest. Congressman James B. McCreary, one of the United States delegates, is expected to make an important statement with reference to the American program and the probable future policy of his Government.
The special committee on proposals adjourned to-day without arriving at any decision on the proposals of C. F. Tietgen, the Danish delegate.

Colonists Ruined.
ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 6.—Owing to a series of bad crops in Samara large numbers of German colonists have been ruined. Many of them who desire to emigrate find it impossible to procure passports. This fact, however, does not prevent them from leaving the country. They steal across the frontier into Prussia and make their way to the ports, whence they emigrate to America.

Famine in Burmah.
LONDON, Dec. 6.—The Times' correspondent at Rangoon, British Burmah, says that there is a severe famine in Khiangmai. The American missionaries are also feeding the starving people. The Siamese Government is doing nothing to relieve the distress.

Kossuth Still Lives.
VIENNA, Dec. 6.—The report that Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot, was dying is untrue.

THE NEW DEPARTMENT.

The law establishing the Department of Trade and Commerce provides that "any duty or power assigned to the Comptroller of Customs or the Comptroller of Inland Revenue shall be performed or exercised subject to the supervision and control of the Minister of Commerce." In other words these two Departments form a part of the new Department of Trade and Commerce, which, with the other duties in connection with trade, renders this Department the most important in the Government, and entails upon the Minister no little work and attention, not only in organizing the new Department, but in putting it in working order.

The accepting of a seat in the Senate by the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell will render an election necessary in North Hastings. We doubt not while many of the friends of the old member, who has represented them for 25 years, will regret his retirement, they will not grudge him his elevation to the Senate.

ABATING A NUISANCE.

From the London Free Press we learn that the farmers of the 4th and 5th concession of Biddulph, having endured the inroads of the destructive little sparrows until patience ceased to be a virtue, started out one day last week and killed 4,062 birds. A similar crusade was carried on on the 14th concession of Forest. Every stack, shed, mow, or other well known rendezvous of these troublesome little pests was searched to its utmost extent, and 2,626 were destroyed. It is thought that the birds have been extinguished in the neighborhood.

A capital idea would be to substitute "side hunts" for sparrows during the winter for the side hunts which, in the past, swept the woods in certain localities of every description of birds and animals, regardless of law and of reason. Side hunts for sparrows would do good instead of harm, and there does not seem to be any better method of reducing the numbers of these pests.

POOH-BAH AT A PREMIUM.

The Mail remarks: "If the Dominion Government were inclined to effect a reduction and a consolidation of departments, what a splendid field for operation it could find. The Departments of Railways and Public Works were originally one. Divided because we were constructing the Canadian Pacific as a Government work, they could be reunited now, and thus a Minister with his staff could be saved. The Secretary of State has not a very heavy official life, while the Presidency of the Council is a sinecure. These offices could be combined, and no doubt the Minister holding them could take charge of the Post office, or the Department of Agriculture. Here are two Cabinet offices that might be dispensed with. The Minister of Finance prior to Confederation looked after trade and commerce, and collected the Customs and Excise revenues. If the old order were restored, three more Ministers would be set free."

Why not have a Pooh-Bah who could assume all the offices and, perhaps, act as correspondent at Ottawa for the Mail?

ONTARIO CROPS.

The crops of all kinds in Ontario in 1891 were uncommonly good, with the single exception of hay, remarks the Monetary Times,—so good that the present year's yield shows but poorly with them in a comparison. According to the bulletin issued last week by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, the yield of fall wheat per acre in the province has been this year 21.2 bushels per acre, compared with 25.7 bushels last year, and an average of 20.1 bushels in the eleven years 1882-1892. The area under this grain is placed at 966,522 acres, which is 116,000 acres more than last year, and 68,000 more than the average of years.

Spring wheat showed an acreage enlarged from 510,634 acres in 1891 to 651,302 this year. The yield was poor, however, being only 12.7 bushels per acre, in comparison with 21 bushels in 1891.

In barley, as was to be expected, there is a marked diminution of area, the quantity of land sown to that grain having shrunken from 721,000 acres on the average of the last ten years, to 883,000 in 1891 and 499,225 this year. The yield per acre, however, while not so large as in 1891, is about equal to the average of years, being placed at 24.6 bushels.

Oats, rye, peas and buckwheat all show lessened yield but increased area. But the question arises: may not this increased area, shown on paper, be the result of an extension of the field of enquiry—a larger number of correspondents sending in accounts of increased operations?

Potatoes show a marked falling off both in area—from 160,218 acres to 148,703 acres —and in yield, for where the average of a dozen years was 118 bushels per acre, there was this year a yield of only 84.3 bushels. The quality is poor, as a rule.

Timothy and clover hay make an uncommon showing, viz., 1.74 ton per acre over 2,515,367 acres, compared with .94 of a ton per acre over 2,549,975 acres last year, the average being 1.39.

It is worth while to mention the acreage of oats, which is nearly equal to that of spring wheat, barley, peas and rye all together, namely, 1,861,469 acres, which at 34.8 bushels per acre, would give the enormous quantity of 64 millions and three quarters.

Literary Notes.

"Tales from Town Topics," No. 6, increased in size and containing an original novelette entitled "The Sale of a Soul," has made its appearance. The long story is interesting, and the selected matter the best in New York society journal has printed in past years.—Town Topics, 21 West Twenty-third street, New York.

Harper's Magazine for December is a superb Christmas number, unexcelled in the quality of its contributions and in the beauty of its illustrations. It opens with an important descriptive article, "A new Light on the Chinese," by Henry Burden McDowell, fully illustrated by Theodore Wores. Among its many other striking features is a play by Mary E. Wilkins, entitled "Giles Corey, Yeoman," recalling the tragedies attendant upon the strange witchcraft delusion in Salem, Massachusetts, two hundred years ago. It is admirably supplemented by four full-page illustrations drawn by Howard Pyle. A series of five illustrations of the ballad of "Lord Bateman," drawn by William Makepeace Thackeray, and here published for the first time, will also attract much attention. Mrs. Anne Thackeray Ritchie in a note of comment tells how these drawings were discovered and how they came into the possession of Harper's Magazine, the present issue of which is heavily freighted with good things.

PARKDALE, Ont., Feb. 27th, 1888.—Gentlemen,—It gives me pleasure to let you know I have derived great benefit from the use of Nerviline. I have been a great sufferer from Neuralgia in the face, and last two years was quite a martyr to the malady. So soon as I observed the Nerviline advertised I obtained a bottle from our druggists Messrs. John Gray & Co., Parkdale, and the effect was marvellous; pain ceased, and I can enjoy sound sleep at night, and rise refreshed. I cannot speak too highly of it and heartily recommend it.—ALEXANDER STEER.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for Constipation and Headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family medicine. It is said to be the Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water into the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy with ladies for clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c and $1.

What is Dandruff?

A disease of the scalp that causes falling of the hair, fading of the hair, in fact, death of the hair. It irritates the scalp and causes scales and eczematic eruptions—produces baldness. Bear in mind that Anti Dandruff removes Dandruff with three applications—stops falling and restores fading hair to its original color. Sold by druggists at 75 cents per bottle.

OFFICIALS IN TROUBLE.

ALDERMAN OF HALIFAX IN A PRETTY PICKLE.

The Board of Works Have Conducted a General System of Loose Account Keeping For Years—Instances of Issuing.

HALIFAX, N.S., Dec. 6.—At a meeting of the city Board of Works yesterday exposures were made which will no doubt lead to a civic scandal.

It came out that for years the business of the department has been conducted without any system of proper bookkeeping, no regular cash book being used, and a general system of looseness the rule.

Many thousand dollars are annually expended by the board, nearly all the public works of the city being conducted through it.

There is no charge of boodling so far, but an investigation will be held.

Accounts have been paid twice, money paid has not been credited and innumerable instances of other bungling, if not something worse.

THE PAPAL DELEGATE.

He Has Not the Authority of a Pope In the American Church.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Mgr. Satolli authorizes the following statement in reference to the Baltimore despatch of yesterday morning:

"The report is not exact. It is true that by letter dated from the beginning of last month I have received authority to examine and decide without appeal the controversies arising between bishops and priests, etc., in the United States. It is absurd to ascribe to me the place and authority of a pope in the American Church."

As to Cardinal Gibbons, for whom the Apostolic delegate entertains the highest veneration and a special affection, he preserves all the dignity and authority which belong to his office. There is no reason for surprise in this case, as the Pope is accustomed to send delegates from time to time to various countries on similar missions and with similar powers.

DEATH IN A CELLAR.

Whisky Made His Foothold Insecure and He Plunged Headlong to the Bottom.

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—Richard Lockhart, an ex-soldier in the British Army, went to the Central Lodging House, 66 Jarvis-street, last night when under the influence of liquor and was refused lodgings. He went away but soon returned and started down stairs to the sitting room. When about half way down he lost his footing and fell the rest of the way. The back of his head struck the floor and he was unconscious when picked up. He was taken to the Hospital, when an examination of his injuries showed that the base of the skull was fractured. At an early hour this morning he was no better. The injured man was formerly employed by Morton & Co., 3 Adelaide-street east.

WRECKERS OF TRAINS.

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 6.—The Erie accommodation on the Philadelphia and Erie Railway last night was running at a 45-mile rate when, two miles west of Langdon, the engineer detected an obstruction.

The train was stopped in a 10-mile rate before he struck the obstruction. Three ties, which had been placed in a most ingenious manner across the track, failed to derail the engine entirely.

The trainful of passengers was severely shaken up, but none were seriously injured.

UNCLE SAM'S DEFENCES.

He Will Spend a Million and a Half More On His Army.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The estimates submitted by the Secretary of the Treasury for the support of the army during the fiscal year of 1894 call for $25,922,885, a million and a half more than the appropriation for the fiscal year of 1893.

U. S. Estimates.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The Secretary of the Treasury yesterday transmitted to Congress the estimates of appropriations required for the service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894.

The total estimates are $421,612,215, being $12,003,522 more than estimates and $1,649,755 less than the appropriations for the present fiscal year.

Included in the above statement are the figures relating to every branch of the Government. The estimates for pensions are $166,831,350, being $19,766,800 more than the estimates and $12,036,482 more than the appropriations for the current fiscal year.

Extradition Refused.

ALBANY, N.Y., Dec. 6.—United States Commissioner Frothingham has decided that William Ferguson, alias Oscar Hopkins, whose real name is now given as Oscar Tammann, cannot be extradited by the Canadian Government on account of defective papers. June 30, 1887, he was convicted of forgery and sentenced to 10 years. Dec. 24, 1889, he escaped. In Aug., 1890, the amendment to the treaty was enacted and he cannot be extradited.

He has served a term in the Albany Penitentiary for flim-flaming.

A New Pest.

BRIDGETON, N.J., Dec. 6.—The farmers in some of the lower counties of this state are greatly exercised over the appearance of an insect found imbedded in the wheat and corn kernels, which threatens its destruction.

In Cumberland and Salem counties the pest has developed alarmingly and the entire contents of many corn cribs and wheat bins have been found possessed by the little stranger.

Erie Canal Transportation.

ALBANY, Dec. 6.—Superintendent Hanson of the State Department of Public Works said yesterday afternoon that eastbound boats on the Erie Canal were moving along and he thought that all but a few would get through to tide water.

At the request of mill owners of Rochester the water will not be drawn off the section between Rochester and Lockport until Dec. 10, in order that the 20 boats at Rochester loaded with grain may be unloaded.

Working Up a Stampede.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 6.—The gold excitement in the Sni Hills east of here continues at a high pitch. Outbound trains carry hundreds of persons who are going to prospect in an endeavor to locate a claim. Several hundred tons of valuable ore were taken out yesterday, and all showed the same high grade as in former tests.

Comic Singers on Their Uppers.

ITHACA, N.Y., Dec. 6.—Nineteen members of the Boston Comic Opera Co. are stranded here. The singers allege that the manager, Harry Curtis, abandoned the troupe last night without paying them.

Must Pay For His Crime.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 6.—Judge Moise has overruled the motion for a new trial in the case of C. C. Antoine, the Ex-Lieut.-Governor of Louisiana, convicted of obtaining money under false pretences; therefore, he will probably get two years in prison.

Waits Immigration Suspended.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Senator Chandler has prepared for introducing a bill suspending immigration, except from North and South America, for one year after March 1.

A Citizen of Winnipeg Dead.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 6.—John McDonald, a prominent citizen of Winnipeg, brother of Mayor McDonald, died last night.

Grain Elevator Burned.

WINGHAM, Dec. 6.—Ogilvie's big grain elevator at Virden was destroyed last night with all its contents.

THE BATTLE OF FREEDOM.

SAID TO BE WON BY MODERN BIBLICAL CRITICISM.

The Actual Trial of Dr. Briggs for Heresy Commenced—He Believes in a Middle State After Death, But Not in Purgatory.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The actual trial of Dr. Briggs was begun here yesterday. Col. McCook of the Prosecuting Committee read extracts from the second edition of Dr. Briggs' inaugural address and introduced in evidence the confession of faith, the Bible, the catechisms and other documents to be used during the hearing.

Then Dr. Briggs read a statement telling what he had to present against the evidence of the prosecution. He offered in evidence the Holy Scriptures and the standards of the Presbyterian Church, from which he quoted at length.

Dr. Briggs declared that he did not believe in purgatory according to the teachings of the Catholic Church. He also rejected the Arminian doctrine of sanctification after death. He did believe, however, in a middle state, for the Bible, he said, did not teach that a man was sanctified immediately after death.

In speaking of the divine and human authority of the Bible Dr. Briggs said:

The Bible is the Word of God and its authority in divine authority that determines the life and faith of man. Biblical scholars have been long held in bondage to ecclesasticism and dogmatism, but modern Biblical criticism has won the battle of freedom.

On all sides it is asked, not what do the creeds teach, what do the theologians say, what is the authority of the church; but what does the Bible itself teach us?

Dr. Briggs occupied nearly all the afternoon in reading his paper.

A BIG DEAL.

The Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Road to Exchange Owners.

WINDSOR, Dec. 6.—The Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Railway will in all probability change hands before many days go by.

The deal is on and its consummation is a mere matter of time. At present there is a difference of $2500 between the parties, but as each has been giving and taking in the matter the sale will undoubtedly be made.

The price at which the present company offer the road is $160,000, while the prospective purchasers are willing to give $157,500.

When negotiations were opened they offered $150,000, but the railway company refused to look at less than $165,000. Since then the company have dropped $5000 and the other parties to the deal made a corresponding raise.

Since then they have agreed to split the difference and their offer now is $157,500.

As to the composition of the company who wish to obtain the road the full facts are not known. William Gibson of Beamsville, Ont., M.P. for Lincoln, is the prime mover, and with him are associated William Hendrie of Hamilton and presumably the Hendries of Detroit street railway fame.

A GRAND FINALE.

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—In The Globe yesterday one of the grand jury men is reported as saying that the Attorney-General and District Attorney were so worked up over the abuse and vilification to which they were subjected in the Borden case that they sent for Andrew J. Jennings, counsel for the defence, and asked him to put the evidence for the defence and he did so.

Mr. Knowlton sat back and took no part in the matter, but left it to the jurors to ask questions.

"The Government witnesses," said the juror, "acted as if they wanted to believe Lizzie Borden innocent. The witnesses for the defence, however, came in, testified freely and handled truth carelessly."

At the eleventh hour the friends of Lizzie Borden came out and told what clinched the case in the minds of the jurors.

B. G. Trickey's Death.

FALL RIVER, Dec. 6.—News of the death of Henry G. Trickey, the reporter who wrote up the Borden case, and who was killed at Hamilton, Ont., on Saturday, causes much comment in this city as to the outcome of the indictment said to have been found against him.

To-day one of the grand jurors stated that Mr. Trickey's death would not produce any effect on the indictment and that there were other parties concerned.

FOOTPADS AND SUCH.

It Looks as if St. Louis is Getting a Haven for Toughs.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 6.—Within a week there have been daylight highway robberies and scores of hold-ups, or attempted hold-ups, at night.

Yesterday at Broadway and Washington-streets Thomas Houlihan was stopped at an early hour by three men, two of whom have since been arrested. The street was crowded at the time.

A little later Frank Glinder was held up in Fifteenth-street and gave up a watch and about $10 in cash.

WHILE AT LUNCH.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—While taking lunch in a restaurant this afternoon Louis Neuman, managing editor of the German edition of The Daily News, died suddenly of heart disease.

He was 45 years old and has been well known in German journalism in this city since he was a young man.

The Change in Typesetting.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Typographical Union No. 6 adopted yesterday a scale for typesetting machines. The committee recommended that a time charge should be made instead of by the piece. The suggestion was adopted and the price fixed was:

For morning papers $27 a week of eight hours a day for six days; on evening papers $24 a week of eight hours a day. The scale for hand setters will remain the same, 50 cents per 1000 ems on morning newspapers and 40 cents per 1000 on evening newspapers.

A Temperance Wave.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 6.—Thomas E. Murphy, son of the temperance agitator, addressed four audiences aggregating 10,000 persons, and secured over 1000 converts to the temperance cause here yesterday.

Among the converts are about 100 Yale students. The temperance wave is the greatest that has ever swept over this city.

A Child's Folly.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 6.—Fanny Berkofski, aged 2 years, took a shovel full of burning coals from the stove to-day and put them in a baby carriage in which was her 6-months' old sister. Both were burned to death.

House in Lindsay Burned.

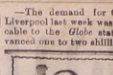

LINDSAY, Ont., Dec. 6.—About 3 a. m. yesterday a house owned by Mr. Currin of 43 Elizabeth-street, Toronto, was discovered to be on fire, and before the firemen arrived it was too far gone to be saved.

The house was occupied by Mr. William Balance, who lost all his effects that were upstairs. The furniture, etc., downstairs was saved. The firemen did good service in saving adjoining houses.

The Hencoop Case.

WHITBY, Dec. 6.—Baker and Lingford were committed for trial at Spring Assizes by Magistrates Harper and Bunting here yesterday morning. They were charged with shooting Palmer in the Pickering tragedy. There was a sensation created in court by a statement of the magistrates that they had received threatening letters.

BEECHAM'S PILLS cure sick headache.

READ the advertisement headed "a telegram."

FRED ABRAHAM, issuer of marriage licenses, at the Ontario office.

"When your heart is bad, and your head is bad, and you are bad clean through, what is needed" asked a Sunday-school teacher to her class. "I know—Ayer's Sarsaparilla," spoke up a little girl, whose mother had recently been restored to health by that medicine.

When kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull sick-ache is the kidney's cry for relief. If odd's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney disease that a persistent use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

The general verdict of the smokers of Canada is that "Myrtle Navy" is the finest tobacco they have ever used. There can be no mistake upon this point, for it is proved by this tangible evidence. The large demand for this tobacco shows it to be true, and the character of the demand gives further proof. It has never been of the spasmodic kind, up one month and down the next. It has been a sustained and constantly increasing demand. The unsurpassed quality of the tobacco accounts for this.

Winter Dairying

Success of the Government Station at Wellman's Corners.

An obliging correspondent, who signs himself "Observer," writes us from Wellman's Corners:

Any one acquainted with our little village knows it to be a thriving one, and it has lately had added to its industries an experimental Dairy station, under the control of the Dominion Government, and efficiently managed by J. B. McEwan, of the Dairy Commissioner's office.

Prof. Robertson some time ago addressed a large gathering of farmers in this interest, and so ably set forth the benefits to be derived from winter dairying, that their co-operation was secured, and arrangements were speedily made for the establishment of the station.

The Plum Grove Cheese Mfg. Co. leased their buildings for the purpose, and the necessary machinery for butter making was at once put in, at the close of the cheese season, Mr. Bird, of Stirling, performing the work. A very successful start was made, as over 500 lbs. of butter were manufactured the first day, and on Nov. 28th, 15,000 lbs. of milk were received, which yielded nearly 770 lbs. of fine butter.

The butter making is attended to by Mr. Adelard Bergeron, who has had a wide experience at the business, and thoroughly understands it.

An important feature in the concern, is the daily use of the Babcock milk test, by which the amount of butter fat contained in the milk is shown, and the patrons are paid accordingly.

The station is also a dairy school, and Mr. McEwan in his genial manner answers all questions, and shows himself to be an expert in all matters pertaining to dairying, and is ready to instruct any one who may wish to avail themselves of the opportunity of learning butter-making or the manipulation of the Babcock. Mr. McEwan will be assisted by Prof. Whitton, late Instructor for the Dairyman's Association of Eastern Ontario, and so well known as a successful cheesemaker.

Several cheesemakers have already availed themselves of the opportunity of gaining knowledge in the business, and many more will no doubt do so, as all instruction is given free of charge.

Judging from the start made, we predict again success for the station this winter, and as we have numbers of farmers talking of silo building, we have no doubt but that succeeding seasons will give greater results and ultimately prove that the plan of winter dairying pays.

The Question of Sewerage.

The following letter, addressed to Ald. Ponton, was presented last night at the meeting of the City Council:

CITY HEALTH DEPARTMENT,
TORONTO, DEC. 2ND, 1892.

W. N. Ponton, Esq., Belleville, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—Re. sewerage system. Preparations of a preliminary character are apparently being made in sewerage matters by your City Council.

I have chosen to write you regarding the above matter, in which I am professionally interested. I would be pleased to meet you in your city, talk the matter over with you and go over the ground with you without any cost to yourself. In fact, it would be most desirable to meet a committee of your Council, appointed for the purpose, so that I might be priviledged to point out a number of important matters requisite to the proper management of the work such as systematic plumbing, house drainage and sewerage regulations, properly qualified Inspectors from within your city corporation limits, the laboring men from your city, keeping exact notes of daily construction, keeping office record of progress, and many other important matters.

Three years ago I visited your city, examined the ground and found the greatest difficulty would be in the lower parts of the city in the flats, where the natural fall is insufficient to afford a good natural out fall for the sewage, this in consequence will be a somewhat difficult problem.

In the event of your City Council feeling disposed to allow me to make a survey and report on sewerage system requisite for your city I will have 400 copies of my report printed in pamphlet form by one of your printing firms, provided my travelling, hotel and incidental expenses are paid by the city. Perhaps the City Surveyor, Mr. Hulme, could assist me in the field surveys.

Yours truly,

[Sgd.] L. M. BOWMAN, R.A., P.L.S.
Chief Sanitary Engineer City Health Department, Toronto.

A Satisfactory Test.

Yesterday afternoon, a test was made of the new hose waggon which has been built by the St. Charles Omnibus Co. Shortly after 4 o'clock an alarm was sounded,—the waggon came up at set,—and at the corner of Front and Hotel Streets a coupling was made to a hydrant and 300 feet of hose run out, a break was made, and a nozzle attached. The time made was remarkable, there having elapsed but 35 seconds from the time the hose was taken from the waggon until a stream was forced through. Ald. Fowell and other members of the Fire Committee were present, and were highly pleased with the result. The firemen from No. 1 comp'y who participated were W. J. Brown, foreman, Jno. Thompson, E. Bourne, and Geo. McCoy. The waggon has been accepted, and will prove a valuable acquisition to the department. It will carry 800 ft. of hose.

THE ALLEGED ABDUCTION.

The Girl Was no Doubt Taken By Her Mother.

A Young Man in the City Receives a Letter From the Girl.

Mr. R. H. Huddleston, a young man residing in this city, yesterday afternoon received a letter from the girl "Maggie," who was taken away from the Huffman House on Wednesday, 30th ult., as related in previous issues. The letter was written at Anderson City, Ind. She states that the woman Mrs. Rockey, who took her away, is her mother—that she was married but recently to Mr. Rockey. She detailed the circumstances as to her being taken away, and also her journey to her home. She also states that she will be provided with everything that will tend to make her life a happy one, as her step-father is a man who is in very circumstances. On Monday next the girl will commence attending a college in order to obtain an education. She is already much pleased with her surroundings and expresses satisfaction at having found her mother.

It is a source of satisfaction to all concerned that the mystery which surrounded her taking away has thus been cleared up.

City Council.

The Aldermen do Business in a Business-Like Manner.

A regular meeting of the City Council was held last night, at which the following members were present: Mayor Bogart, Ald. Walmsley, Luscombe, Shaville, Hopkins, Diamond, Grills, Wallbridge, Gordon, Clarke, Slater, Foster, Graham, Starling, LaRoche, Lingham, Ponton, Doyle, Hay, Mikel and Fowell.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the Board of Health, in reference to the water closets in connection with the High School.

From the School Board asking for the appointment of two trustees in place of Messrs. Simpson and Hayne, who had not attended the board.

The Public Works Committee recommended the payment of a number of accounts.

The Council went into committee of the whole on reports, Ald. Grills in the chair.

All accounts presented were ordered to be paid.

In reference to the communication from the Board of Health, Ald. Diamond said that to follow out the recommendation of the report would be to incur a large expense. He thought that in the winter time the closets were no nuisance.

Mayor Bogart said the Board of Health were unanimous in the wish to have something done at once. They propose to transfer the closets to the cellar of the building, and have a drain leading via Campbell street to the Pinnacle street sewer. The drain could be continuously flushed and prevent any odor.

Ald. Diamond thought that the plan recommended would not be accepted from a sanitary point of view.

The report was referred to the Executive Committee.

The committee rose and reported. Report received and adopted.

INQUIRIES.

Ald. Hay stated that a family had come to the city from Toronto in destitute circumstances, and he thought something should be done. The father had been sent to the Central Prison, and the wife and four children were without means.

Ald. Slater asked what was being done towards the opening of Franck street.

The Mayor said the matter had been left in abeyance until Mr. Hannaford, who was expected to be in the city in a few days, should arrive.

Ald. Ponton thought it was too bad that the residents in that portion of the city should be deprived of a right of way. Mr. Hannaford had been here, but only stopped for a few hours. He would be here again in a few days.

Ald. Slater asked what was to be done to Grier street drain.

Ald. Clarke asked if the City Surveyor and Chairman of Public Works had inspected the overhanging of buildings on the public streets.

Ald. Lingham said he would inspect the buildings next week.

Ald. Fowell wanted a pump fixed on Alexander street.

Ald. Luscombe said he had ordered the pump to be repaired.

Ald. Walmsley moved the first reading of a by-law to appoint Deputy Returning officers and polling places for the coming municipal elections. The by-law was read a first time.

Ald. Clarke moved the first reading of a by-law to limit the number of tavern licences to be issued in the city. The by-law was read a first time, and referred to the By-law committee.

The Council went into committee of the whole on by-laws, Ald. Slater in the chair. The by law for the appointment of Deputy Returning officers was read a second and third time, and numbered 744.

MOTIONS.

Ald. Grills moved, seconded by Ald. Hopkins, that the dirt in front of Harold's shop on Coleman St. be levelled. He said it was dangerous to the public.

Ald. Lingham said, as soon as it thawed the Street Surveyor would put the cultivator on, and level it off.

Ald. Doyle said he had had his attention called to the spot, and it was dangerous.

Ald. Grills' motion carried.

NOTICES OF MOTION.

Ald. Diamond—That he will at the next meeting of the Council introduce a By-law for the appointing of two High School Trustees on the Board of Education for the city of Belleville, in the place of Jas. H. Simpson and Emanuel Hayne, whose seats have been declared vacant by the said Board, owing to non-attendance.

Ald. Ponton—That with the consent of the Harbor Commissioners, the cutting of ice in the bay within the harbor limits of the city of Belleville, be subject to the approval and supervision of the City Surveyor both as to the sanitary precautions of location, and proper protection of openings.

The Council adjourned, after being one hour in session.

Cheap Lamps.

The slaughter sale of lamps from now until Xmas are simply astounding ever seen in Belleville. When this firm—W. J. Reid & Co., of the Crystal Hall—offer any special line at a cut, one can rely on getting great value, and judging by the prices put on for this sale it evidently is the place to get a lamp. It fairly stuns these corner stores who have a few for a side line. The stock of silver and china also at this establishme nt is simply amazing as to immensity and grandeur of display.

Cured Sick Headache.

Mrs. D. A. Campbell, North Segrum, Ont., writes:—"I cannot praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly. My daughter was a terrible sufferer with sick headache for twelve months, and no medical aid could relieve her, but, by the use of two boxes of your Pills she is completely cured." From all dealers or by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. Beware of imitations. Dr. Williams' Med. Co., Brockville, Ont.

BELLEVILLE.

Obituary.

We copy the following from the Picton Times of the 2nd Inst: "Deborah, relict of the late Vincent Bowerman, of Hallowell, died on October 27th, 1892, aged 87 years and 11 months. She was the daughter of William Mullet and his wife Mary Clothler, who came to Canada from Frompton, Illiminster, England about the year 1818. Mrs. Bowerman's first husband was Consider Halght, of Adolphastown. Their children are Mrs. Robert Cadman and Mrs. Nelson Sills, of Lennox county, and Mrs. Levi Bowerman and Mrs. John F. Williams of Hollowell. Mrs. Wm. Clendenan and Mrs. Robert Richardson, of Pickering, Ont., were sisters of the deceased. Three of her brothers—William, Arthur and James—married respectively Eliza, Jane and Hannah, daughters of Samuel Baker, an Orthodox Friend who came to this country from Ireland, and owned and resided on the farm in Hallowell for many years, now owned by Mr. Benj. Story. Another brother, John Mullet, was a respected citizen of Picton for many years, and owned and carried on an extensive tannery where the barrel factory now is. Henry and Benjamin Mullet, of Adolphustown, are also brothers. Mrs. Bowerman and all her brothers and sisters were unusually intelligent and well informed, and the deceased was a consistent Christian, being a respected member of the Orthodox Friends. The funeral service was held on October 29th in the Friends' meeting house, west Bloomfield, Mrs. Matilda Branscombe being the officiating minister. Her remains were interred in the Friends' old burying-ground in east Bloomfield."

AMUSEMENTS

ROB ROY.

Of the Scotch drama, which will be produced here to-morrow night the Springfield Republican says: "The Rob Roy Company held the boards last night and the place was presented to the entire satisfaction of the large audience that was present. It is seldom that the opera and drama are combined satisfaction can be given and justice done to the piece, but with this company everything was satisfactory, as every member of the company has either starred or held some responsible part in both the drama and opera. Wilson Rennie impersonates the character of Rob Roy and he is a well known star through New England, having been seen with Clara Morris and other stars equally as well known as she."

From the Jaws of Death.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. When all other remedies have failed Miller's Emulsion nearly always succeeds. It is the best kind of fish and blood maker, and has been used with marked success by the physicians in the Insane Asylum, Penitentiary, Hotel Dieu, and General Hospital in Kingston, Ont. In big bottles, 50c and $1, at all Drug Stores.

Bigamy at St. Ola.

The Detected Bigamist Leaves for Parts Unknown.

The beautiful little town of St. Ola now produces what is termed amongst the natives of that place a scandal, in the shape of a bigamy case.

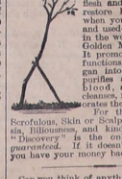

It appears that about 18 months ago a fair looking gentleman arrived in the vicinity and made love to one of Limerick's fair daughters, and in three months' time the nuptial knot was tied. Last week wife No. 1 arrived and claimed her rights. This put things in a turmoil. Wife No. 2 has gone to her parents; wife No. 1 went back home, and the bigamist left for parts unknown.

The Household Troops.

The Life Guards were formed in 1660. In that year Charles II. formed into a troop a body of Cavaliers who had rallied round him in Holland. The first commandant was Lord Gerard. The regiment was termed "His Majesty's Troop of Guards," and when the King entered London three squadrons of these Life Guards headed the procession. The 2nd Life Guards originated in the same manner. The corps was styled in 1660 "The Duke of Albemarle's Troop of Life Guards," in 1670 "The Queen's Troop of Guards," and in 1788 the 2nd Life Guards. The Life Guards were at one time known as "Cheeses," from the old gentlemen of the corps declining to serve in it as remodelled in 1788, on the ground that it was "no longer composed of gentlemen, but of cheesemongers." However, the name fell into desuetude, but was revived at the Battle of Waterloo, when the officer in command ordered out "Come on, cheesemongers, charge!" The Life Guards were also called the "Piccadilly Butchers," owing to their conduct at the riots of 1810 in Piccadilly. Wyndham records in his diary: "Seen the Life Guards hunting and being hunted by the mob; great uproar and confusion." This was on the occasion of Sir Francis Burdett's arrest on the order of the Speaker of the House of Commons. The Life Guards are likewise known to popular fame as "The Tin Bullies" and "The Piccadilly Nellies." Perhaps the late emeute will furnish them with a new nickname.

Decreasing The Death Rate.

The mortality among consumptives has been materially decreased of late years by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Phthisis, Bronchitis, Abscess of the Lungs, Pneumonia and Throat Affections are completely subjugated by a timely use of this excellent pulmonic. Palatable as milk. Sold by all Druggists at 50c. and $1.00

TO BRACE UP the system after La Grippe," pneumonia, fevers, and other prostrating acute diseases, to build up needed flesh and strength, and to restore health and vigor when you feel "run-down" and used-up, the best thing in the world is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It promotes all the bodily functions, rouses every organ into healthful action, purifies and enriches the blood, and through it cleanses, repairs, and invigorates the entire system.

For the most stubborn Scrofulous, Skin or Scalp Diseases, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, and kindred ailments, the "Discovery" is the only remedy that's guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Can you think of anything more convincing than the promise that is made by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy? It is this: "If we can't cure your Catarrh, we'll pay you $500 in cash."

HERE GOES.

We have decided to slaughter lamps from this until New Year's Eve. These must go if we have to give them away, which we can do as long as the rest can. Here's a chance for a lamp. They'll go sure and you may as well get yours while they last.

We also intend to lead in CHINA and SILVER, a fact you are already aware of.

When a Respirator Should be Used

Plenty of outdoor exercise is necessary during the winter if you would have good health; to take this will need some resolution, as the inclination is strong to remain indoor.

In certain conditions of health, too, the extremely cold or damp air cannot be breathed without risk, and then it is a RESPIRATOR should be used. Those of the most approved kind can be procured of

DEAR SIRS,—In 1890 my body was covered with blotches and I was at last induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters; by the time I had used 3½ bottles of it I was completely cured, and I cannot speak too highly of it.

MRS. JAMES DESMOND, Halifax, N. S.

Made With Skill.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skillful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

Out of Sorts—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure,' and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this common complaint there is no better remedy than a dose or two of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

Do not delay in getting relief for the little folks. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is a pleasant sure cure. If you love your child why do you let it suffer when a remedy is so near at hand.

BROOKE'S DAUGHTER.

BY

ADELINE SERGEANT,

Author of "A True Friend," etc., etc.

(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

'I shall not suffer,' he said after a little silence, 'because I will not suffer. My daughter will live for a year in my house, but she will not trouble me by a glance, I can assure you. She will go her own way, and I shall go mine.'

'I am afraid that she will not be so passive as you think,' said Mrs. Romaine, with some hesitation. 'She has been brought up in a very different school from any that you would recommend. A girl fresh from a French convent is not an easy person to deal with. Whatever may be the advantages of these Convents, there are certain virtues which are not inculcated in them.'

'Such as——'

'Truth and honesty, Caspar, my friend. Your daughter's accomplishments will not include candor, I fear.'

Mr. Brooke was silent for a moment, his face expressing more concern than he knew. Mrs. Romaine watched him furtively.

'It may be so,' he said at last in a rather heavy tone, 'but it can't be helped. I had no hand in choosing a school for her, Rosalind—his voice took a pleading tone—'you will do your best for her! You will be her friend in spite of the defects in her training.'

'I will do anything that I can. But you will forgive me for saying, Caspar, that it is hard for one person to forget that she is the daughter of the woman who—practically wrecked your life.'

Brooke's face grew hard again. He uttered a short laugh which had not a very agreeable sound.

'Wrecked my life!' he repeated, disdainfully. 'Excuse me, Rosalind. No woman ever had the power of wrecking my life. Indeed, I have been far more fortunate and prosperous since Lady Alice chose to leave me than before.'

Mrs. Romaine said nothing. She was an adept in the art of insinuating by a look, a turn of the head, a gesture, what she wished to convey. At this moment she intended very clearly, though without speaking a word, that she sympathized deeply with her friend, Caspar Brooke was exceedingly indignant at the way in which he had been treated.

Perhaps Mr. Brooke found the atmosphere enervating, for with half a smile he rose up to go. Mrs. Romaine rose also.

'She comes to-morrow evening,' he said, before he took his leave.

'To morrow evening! You will be out!'

'No, it is Wednesday; I can manage an evening at home. Perhaps you will kindly look in on Thursday afternoon!'

And this Mrs. Romaine undertook to do.

Caspar Brooke continued his walk along the eastern side of Russell Square and Woburn Place. His quick observant eyes took note of every incident in his way, of every man, woman and child within their range of vision. He stopped once to rate a cabman, not too mildly, for beating an over-worked horse—took down his number, and threatened to prosecute him for cruelty to animals. A ragged boy who asked him for money was brought to a standstill by some keenly-worded questions respecting his home, his name, his father's occupation, and the school which he attended. Of these Mr. Brooke also made a note, much to the boy's dismay; but consolation followed in the shape of a shilling, although the donor muttered a malediction on his own folly as he turned away. His last action before reaching his own place in Upper Woburn Place, were—first to ring an area bell for a dog that was waiting at another man's gate (an office which the charitable are often called upon to perform in the streets of London for dogs and cats alike), and then to pick up a bony black kitten and take it to his own door, where he delivered it to a servant, with injunctions to feed and comfort the starveling. From which facts it may be seen that Caspar Brooke, in spite of his faults, was a good lover of dumb animals, and of children, and must therefore have possessed a certain amount of kindness of disposition.

Mr. Brooke dined at six o'clock, then smoked a cigar and had a cup of black coffee brought to him in an untidy little sanctum where he generally did his work. With the coffee came the black kitten, which ridded up to him on the table-cloth and rubbing her head against his arm as if she knew him for a friend. He stroked it occasionally as he read the evening papers, and stroked it in the caressing way which cats love, from its forehead to the tip of its stumpy tail. It was while he was thus engaged that a tap at the door was heard, and the tap was followed by the entrance of a young man, who looked as if he were quite at home.

'Can I come in?' he said in a perfunctory sort of way; and then, without waiting for any reply, went on—'I've no engagement to-night, so I thought I would look in here first, and see whether you had started.'

'All right. Where have you been?'

'Special meeting—Church and State Union,' said the young man with a smile. 'I went partly in a medical capacity, partly because I was curious to know how they managed to unite the two professions.'

'Couldn't your sister tell you?'

'Oh, I don't allow Ethel to attend such mixed gatherings,' said the visitor, seating himself on the edge of the library table and beginning to play with the cat.

'You are unusually particular,' said Mr. Brooke, with an amused look. But Maurice Kenyon, as the visitor was named, continued to attract the kitten's notice, without the answering protest which Caspar Brooke had expected.

Maurice Kenyon was nearly thirty, and had stepped by good fortune into the shoes of a medical uncle who had left him a large and increasing practice in the West Central district. The young man's popularity was not entirely owing to his skill, although he had an exceeding good repute among his brethren in medicine. Neither was it attributable to good looks. He owed it rather to a sympathetic manner, to the cheerful candor of his dark grey eyes, to the mixture of firmness and delicate kindness by which his treatment of his patients was characterized. He was especially successful in his treatment of children; and he had therefore a good deal of adoration from grateful mothers to put up with. But of his skill and intellectual power there could be no doubt; and these qualities, coupled with his winning manner, bade fair to raise him to a very high place in his profession.

There was one little check, and one only, to the flow of Mr. Kenyon's prosperity. Careful mothers occasionally objected that he was not married, and that his sister was an actress. Why did he let his sister go on the stage! And why, if she was an actress, did he allow her to live in his house! It did not seem quite respectable in the eyes of some worthy people that these things should be. But Mr. Kenyon only laughed when reports of these sayings reached him, and went on his way unmoved as his sister went on hers. And in London, the question of a doctor's relations, his sisters, his cousins, his aunts, and what they did for a living, is not so important as it is in the country. Maurice Kenyon's care of his sister, and her devotion to him, were well known by all their friends; and as he sometimes said, it mattered very little to him what all the rest of the world might think.

'Talking of your sister, Kenyon,' said Mr. Brooke, somewhat abruptly, 'I suppose you know that my daugher comes to me to-morrow?'

The connection of ideas was not, perhaps, very obvious, but Maurice Kenyon nodded as if he understood.

'I suppose she will want a companion. Would Ethel be so kind as to call on her?'

'Certainly. She will do all she can for Miss Brooke, I am sure.'

'I have been speaking to Mrs. Romaine, too.'

'Have you!' Kenyon raised his eyebrows a very little, but Mr. Brooke did not seem to notice the change of expression.

'—And she promises to do what she can; but a woman like Mrs. Romaine is not likely to find many subjects in common with a girl fresh from a convent.'

'I suppose not'—in the driest of tones.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and sure cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache in a night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for cleaning up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50 cents a package.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, for using such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Hor & Co., Brockville Ont.

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interests of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ar.

Castoria.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

PRESIDENT BUMPTIOUS.

HARRISON HAS AN ATTACK OF AMUSING SPLEEN.

His Annual Message to Congress—Objection to Canada's Power in British Action—The Absurd Idea of Stopping Bonding Privileges.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—President Harrison has delivered his annual message to Congress. That which is interesting to Canadians is as follows:

International Relations.

"During the past year a suggestion was received through the British Minister that the Canadian Government would like to confer as to the possibility of enlarging upon terms of mutual advantage the Commercial Exchanges of Canada and the United States, and a conference was held at Washington, with Mr. Blaine acting for this Government, and the British Minister at the Capital and three members of the Dominion Cabinet acting as commissioners on the part of Great Britain.

The conference developed the fact that the Canadian Government was only prepared to offer to the United States, in exchange for the concessions asked, the admission of natural products. The statement was frankly made that favored rates could not be given to the United States as against the Mother Country.

This admission, which was foreseen, necessarily terminated the conference upon the question. The benefits of an exchange of natural products would be almost wholly with the people of Canada.

Some other topics of interest were considered in the conference, and have resulted in the making of a convention for examining the Alaska boundary and the waters of Passamaquoddy Bay, adjacent to Eastport, Me., in the initiation of an arrangement for the probation of fish in the coterminous and neighboring waters of our northern border.

The controversy as to tolls on the Welland Canal, which was presented to Canada at the last session by special message, having failed of adjustment, I felt constrained to exercise the authority conferred by the act of July 26, 1892, and to proclaim suspension of the free use of St. Mary's Falls Canal to cargoes in transit to Canada.

The Secretary of the Treasury established such tolls as were thought to be equivalent to the exactions unjustly levied upon our commerce in Canadian canals.

If, as we must suppose, the political relations of Canada and the disposition of the Canadian Government are to remain unchanged, a somewhat radical revision of our trade relations should, I think, be made. Our relations must be intimate, and they should be friendly.

Dislikes Canada's Protests.

I regret to say, however, that in many of the controversies, notably those as to the fisheries on the Atlantic, the sealing interests on the Pacific and the canal tolls, our negotiations with Great Britain have continuously been thwarted or retarded by unreasonable and unfriendly objections and protests from Canada. In the matter of the canal tolls, our treaty rights were flagrantly disregarded.

It is hardly too much to say that the Canadian Pacific and other railway lines which parallel our northern boundaries are sustained by commerce, having either its origin or terminus, or both, in the United States. Canadian railroads compete with those of the United States for our traffic and without the restraints of the Interstate Commerce Act. The cars pass almost without detention into and out of our territory. The Canadian Pacific Railway brought into the United States from China and Japan, via British Columbia, during the year ended June 30, 1892, 24,039,689 pounds of freight and it carried from the United States to be shipped to China and Japan, via British Columbia, 24,068,346 pounds of freight. There were also shipped from the United States over this road from eastern ports of the United States to our Pacific ports during the same year 13,912,073 pounds of freight, and there were received over this road at the United States eastern ports, from ports on the Pacific coast, 13,293,315 pounds of freight. Mr. Joseph Nimmo, jr., former chief of the Bureau of Statistics, when before the Senate Committee on relations with Canada, April 26, 1890, said that "the value of goods thus transported between different points in the United States across Canadian territory probably amounts to $100,000,000 a year."

Retaliation Advocated.

There is no disposition on the part of the people or Government of the United States to interfere in the smallest degree with the political relations with Canada. That question is wholly with her own people. It is time for us, however, to consider whether, if the present state of things and trend of things is to continue, an interchange upon lines of land transportation should not be put upon a different basis, and our entire independence of Canadian canals of the St. Lawrence as an outlet to the sea secured by the construction of an American canal around the Falls of Niagara, the opening of ship communication between the great lakes and of our own seaports.

We should withdraw the support which is given to the railroad and steamship lines of Canada by a traffic that properly belongs to us, and no longer furnish the earnings which lighten the otherwise crushing weight of the enormous public subsidies that have been given to them.

Bonding Privileges.

The subject of the power of the Treasury to deal with this matter without further legislation has been under discussion, but circumstances have postponed a conclusion.

It is probable that a consideration of the propriety of a modification or abrogation of the articles of the treaty of Washington relating to the transit of goods in bond is involved in any complete solution of the question. The construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the establishment under large subventions from Canada and England of fast steamship service from Vancouver with Japan and China seriously threaten our shipping interests in the Pacific.

This line of English steamers received, as is stated by the Commissioner of Navigation, a direct subsidy of $400,000 annually, or $30,767 per trip for 13 voyages, in addition to some further aid from the admiralty in connection with contracts under which the vessels may be used for naval purposes.

The competing American Pacific mail line under the act of March 3, 1891, receives only $6389 per round trip. Efforts have been made within the past year, as I am informed, to establish under similar conditions a line between Vancouver and some Australian port with a view of seizing there a trade in which we have had a large interest.

The Commissioner of Navigation states that a very large per cent. of our imports from Asia are now brought to us by English steamships and their connecting railways in Canada.

An Unequal Contest.

With a view of promoting this trade, especially in tea, Canada has imposed a discriminating duty of 10 per cent. upon tea and coffee brought into the Dominion from the United States.

If this unequal contest between American lines, without subsidy or with diminished subsidies, and the English-Canadian line, to which I have referred, is to continue, I think we should at least see that the facilities for customs entry and transportation across our territory are not such as to make the Canadian route a favored one, and that the discrimination as to duties, to which I have referred, is met by a like discrimination as to the importation of these articles from Canada.

No subject, I think, more nearly touches the pride, the power and the prosperity of our country than the development of our merchant marine upon the sea.

If we could enter into conference with other competitors, and all would agree to withhold Government aid, we could perhaps take our chances with the rest, but our great competitors have established and maintained their lives by Government subsidies until they now have practically excluded us from participation. In my opinion no choice is left to us but to pursue, moderately at least, the same lines.

English Opinions.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—In commenting on President Harrison's message, The Morning Post says:

"A perusal of Mr. Harrison's message suggests rather the dogged courage of a gladiator than the foresight of a statesman. It is singularly characteristic of his community that the retiring President finds it is consistent with his position to indulge in a flourish of impotent menace against Canada."

The Daily News says that much attention need not be paid to President Harrison's reference to Canada.

The Standard says. Not everyone is privileged to vent his spleen in the form of a state paper. Mr. Harrison's message is not meant to be gracious. The warning to Canada is polite compared with the threat once hurled at Chili, but has flavor nevertheless.

There is an unwelcome ambiguity in reference to the Behring Sea matter. But it matters little what he says—Ichabod is written in every sentence.

The Chronicle says: Mr. Harrison's tariff remarks remind us of the school boy maxim, "If you tell a lie, tell a big un and stick to it." It may now be regarded as certain that America will make the Nicaragua Canal and thus prevent France from reviving the Panama scheme.

DR. BRIGGS' TRIAL.

He Is Accused of Denying the Principle That God Cannot Lie.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—In the Briggs trial yesterday Dr. Birch continued his argument. He joined the two charges, 1 and 2, which set forth Dr. Briggs' theory that the church and the reason are sources of divine authority equal with the Bible, and attacked them as contrary to the teachings of the Presbyterian standard that the Bible is the only source of divine authority.

Having attacked the authority of the scriptures there is no escape from the heresy that errors may have existed in the original text of the scriptures, and this forms the basis for a charge of heresy.

He said: "The higher criticism, as represented by the inaugural, uses the same processes as those rebuked by Christ during His early ministry. It makes the Scripture of more effect. Yet the Bible frequently speaks of itself as the Oracles of God. The church is only the trustee and guardian of the Bible.

"If Dr. Briggs alleges that errors exist in the Bible he denies the principle that God cannot lie. Dr. Briggs says that the Bible is inspired of God, therefore he must believe God capable of double dealing and misrepresentation.

"The autocracy of the scriptures is so absolute that we cannot add to nor take from it anything without destroying its unity and completeness. Christianity without a Bible is a lamp without a light and a messenger without a message."

The argument of the prosecution on the latter three charges remains to be presented. Then Dr. Briggs will be called on to answer the accusation.

A HEAVY LOSS.

The Philadelphia Ledger Printing Office Gutted By Fire and Water.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7.—The Public Ledger building, at the southwest corner of Sixth and Chestnut-streets, was badly gutted last evening by fire and water. The damage by fire was confined almost entirely to the composing room, situated on the top floor, but a torrent of water poured down through the building, flooding every floor in the structure. The loss can only be approximated to-night, but will probably be between $250,000 and $300,000.

CROP OF ROOTS.

Satisfactory Yield at the Central Experimental Farm.

OTTAWA, Dec. 7.—The root crop at the Central Experimental Farm this year has been highly satisfactory, the total quantity taken off 18 acres being 246 tons. Of this 126 tons were carrots, which ran as high as 25 and 27 tons to the acre. Yellow globe and red mangolds also did well, running from 20 to 26 tons to the acre, while one part of the field, about 40 feet square, on which a manure heap had stood, yielded at the rate of 40 tons to the acre, showing the value of manuring this vegetable.

Sugar beets also did very well, averaging from 15 to 23½ tons to the acre.

Cyclone in Texas.

ATLANTA, Tex., Dec. 7.—About 1 o'clock yesterday a disastrous cyclone occurred three miles east of here, sweeping away farm houses and outbuildings and leaving death and general destruction in its path.

The house of Samuel McAdams was destroyed and he and three children were fatally hurt.

One child was found 300 yards away in a dying condition.

The house of W. Dawson, colored, was demolished and several children fatally injured.

France's Pacific Intentions.

PARIS, Dec. 6.—President Carnot presided at the meeting of the Cabinet which was held this afternoon, and at which was discussed the declaration of policy which the ministry will make on Thursday.

It is understood that it was agreed to allow a discussion with regard to respective powers of the judiciary and legislature immediately after the reading of the ministry's declaration, which, it is expected, will lay special stress on the pacific intention of the cabinet.

Erie Canal Closed.

ALBANY, Dec. 7.—At the Department of the State Superintendent of Public Works it was stated yesterday that the water has been drawn off this end of the Erie Canal, leaving a dozen boats at Schenectady, thus closing navigation for this season.

Earthquake at Tunis.

TUNIS, Dec. 7.—An earthquake, accompanied by prolonged rumblings, occurred in the vicinity of this city yesterday.

"It Cured Mother."

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life become very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.
Signed, MELVILLE B MARSH,
Abercorn, P. Q. General Merchant.

The prefection of God being infinite, to become God-like means infinite growth.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicinal herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion is occasioned by want of action in the biliary ducts, loss of vitality in the stomach to secrete the gastric juices, without which digestion cannot go on; also, being the principal cause of Headache. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills taken before going to bed, for a while, never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr. F W Ashdown, Ashdown, Ont., writes:—"Parmele's Pills are taking the lead against ten other makes which I have in stock."

In nearly all the markets of German cities fish are sold alive.

BABY ONE SOLID SORE

Tried Everything without Relief. No Rest Night or Day. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

My baby, when two months old, had a breaking out with what the doctor called eczema. Her head, arms, feet, and hands were each one solid sore. I tried everything, but neither the doctors nor anything else did her any good. We could get no rest day or night with her. In my extremity I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES, but I confess I had no faith in them, for I had never seen them tried. To my great surprise, in one week's time after beginning to use the CUTICURA REMEDIES, the sores were well, but I continued to use the RESOLVENT for a little while, and now she is as fat a baby as you would like to see, and as sound as a dollar. I believe my baby would have died if I had not tried CUTICURA REMEDIES. I write this that every mother with a baby like mine can feel confident that there is a medicine that will cure the worst eczema, and that medicine is the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

THE NEW MINISTRY.

The new Government, including the ministers with and without portfolios and the three sub-ministers without portfolios, includes 17 men, distributed thus:

Maritime Provinces: Thompson, Tupper, Foster, Costigan.

Quebec: Caron, Angers, Ouimet, Ives, Curran.

Ontario: Bowell, Haggart, Patterson, Smith, Carling, Wallace, Wood.

Northwest: Daly.

Ministers without portfolios: Ontario 2 (Smith, Carling).

As to religion:

Protestants—Carling, Bowell, Foster, Patterson, Tupper, Ives, Daly, Haggart, Wallace, Wood—10.

Catholics—Thompson, Caron, Ouimet, Angers, Costigan, Curran, Smith—7.

Out of the 14 seats in the Cabinet no less than 9 are filled by lawyers, and of the 3 minor positions 2 are filled by members of the legal profession. Eleven out of a total of 17 is a pretty good percentage in favor of the law.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell will sit in the Senate, in place of the late Senator Alexander, and Hon. Mr. Angers will represent Lavalliere division in the same house.

Hon. J. A. Chapleau has been appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec.

Accountants' Shortage.

OTTAWA, Dec. 7.—It is stated that a demand has been made on the London Guarantee Company, through its Ottawa agent, Mr. Stuart Henderson, for $2256, as the amount of shortage in the accounts of the late accountant and assistant accountant of the House of Commons.

No appointment has yet been made to the accountantships, but it is understood that the assistant accountantship has been filled by the appointment of D. W. Cameron, son of the late Chief Justice Sir Matthew Crooks Cameron, and for several years secretary to the Conservative whips in the House.

"Dug" is very popular with both the members and the press and his appointment will give great satisfaction.

A New Broom.

OTTAWA, Dec. 7.—Mr. Collingwood Schreiber has entered upon his duties as Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals. He is credited with the intention of dismissing all the extra clerks in his department and insisting that the work shall be done by the permanent staff.

SOULANGES NOMINATION.

Addresses Given by Hon. J. A. Ouimet and Mr. Laurier.

MONTREAL, Dec. 7.—The nominations for Soulanges took place yesterday at Coteau Landing. Mr. Bain, Conservative, and Dr. Bourbonnais, Liberal, were nominated.

Speeches were made by Hon. J. A. Ouimet, representing the Dominion Government, and Mr. Laurier, the Liberal leader.

Mr. Ouimet declared that the Government would render justice to the minority in the Manitoba school question.

Mr. Laurier did not make any declaration in the Manitoba school question, which he declared would soon have to be discussed in Parliament. He denounced the Government's general policy.

Night in the Guiana Forest.

The bats are settling themselves in the hollow trees or under dense masses of creepers, making mouse-like chirpings as they hang themselves up in their places. Here and there a lumbering moth, looking out for a safe retreat until evening, is fluttering lazily along before retiring to rest. The owl and goat-suckers shrink before the light, and also hurry off to their hiding places, making room for the brilliant families of day birds which are calling and chirping from the treetops. The weird voice of the howling monkey now horrifies the stranger, filling him with wonder and recalling stories of banshees and ghosts retiring at cock-crow. Then a flock of parrots or macaws is heard screaming far overhead, their glorious plumage flashing in the morning rays in metallic tints of golden yellow, green and crimson.

The din would be almost unbearable were the birds near at hand; but as they rarely fly or perch low, their voices are mellowed by distance. Congregating on the boughs of the highest trees—far beyond the reach of the Indian's gun or blow-pipe—they take their morning meal of fruits and nuts, chattering away like a lot of rooks in a clump of old elms.

Here and there a toucan makes his presence known by yelping like a puppy. Looking up you see the rich colors on his breast, and wonder why his beak is so large and apparently ungainly. From the recesses of the forest comes the ting of the campanero, sharp and clear as a bell struck at moderately intervals. Other birds utter their characteristic notes, most of these being quaint and curious rather than musical. The birds of the tropics are brilliant in their plumage, but are almost wanting in melody, there being nothing at all resembling the chorus which makes the English woods so delightful on a summer's morning.—Longman's Magazine.

THE THOMPSON ADMINISTRATION.

The task which Sir John Thompson undertook, at the request of the Governor-General and in accordance with the unanimous desire of his colleagues in the Abbott Government, of forming a new Administration, consequent upon the retirement of Sir John Abbott, has been satisfactorily performed.

The changes have been more numerous than was anticipated; but they are of such a nature as will, we believe, be to the advantage of the country.

In creating the office of Minister of Trade and Commerce, placing at the head of it the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell and transferring that hon. gentleman to the Senate as Government leader in the Upper House, the new Premier has made a happy hit. Mr. Bowell is admirably fitted, by his energy, industry and ability, to organize and administer the new department, while his long experience in Parliament, combined with his other qualifications, eminently fits him for the position of leader. As the Comptroller of the Customs and Inland Revenue have seats in the Commons, and can answer for their respective departments, there is no necessity for the Minister of Trade and Commerce being in the House. With shorter hours and fewer days required for legislation in the Senate than in the popular chamber, Mr. Bowell will have his new department in running order in the shortest possible time; although, with a general supervision of the Customs and Inland Revenue departments, he will not be in so easy one.

Mr. Chapleau—a brilliant man—has retired, because of ill-health, and is succeeded by Mr. Angers, an equally able man, who will no doubt be heard of to advantage in the future.

Messrs. Ives, Curran, Clark Wallace and J. F. Wood are all men of ability and most desirable "new blood," as is also Mr. Daly, who took office under Sir John Abbott but had scarcely got into harness when the ex-Premier resigned.

Mr. Carling has retired from active work after long, faithful and able service; but he remains a member of the Cabinet without portfolio, and the country will still have the benefit of his advice in council, together with that of the Hon. Frank Smith.

The Thompson Administration commences its career strong in the ability and the popularity of its members and thoroughly representative of the varied interests of the Dominion. We anticipate for it a long and useful career.

The New Department.

An Idea of the Duties which will Devolve Upon It.

Writing in advance of the official announcement of the new Administration, the Ottawa correspondent of the Empire says:

By unanimous consent, public opinion points to the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell as Minister designate of the new Department of Trade, as well as leader of the Senate. During the past fourteen years Mr. Bowell has been one of the hardest working members of the Government. Not only now has he to familiarize himself with the rules of the Upper House, which he will lead, but he has the still more important duty devolving upon him of organizing the new Department. The magnitude of the work might well appal a younger man, but while Mr. Bowell admits nothing as to what will be the outcome of the next 24 or 48 hours, one of his friends remarked to the Empire to-night that the veteran Minister's hair has not turned any whiter, nor does his face betray any sign as to the formidable task which awaits him. Not only will he control his own department, but by the terms of the statute he is to supervise and control the two Departments of Customs and Inland Revenue.

The creation of the new department has led to many inquiries being made as to the duties which will devolve upon it. The Government, however, has plenty of material to work upon. Four years ago a question was asked in the Imperial House of Commons as to the difference between the constitution of the Board of Trade in Great Britain and the Ministries of Commerce or analogous branches of foreign administrations. Yielding to solicitations, a number of members of Her Majesty's Government consented to obtain and present to Parliament information as to the organization and functions of the commercial departments of the Governments of certain foreign countries. Accordingly, in August, 1888, a circular was addressed to Her Majesty's representatives at Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Brussels, Rome, St. Petersburg, Lisbon, Madrid and Berne, requesting them to obtain information on a number of points bearing upon this particular question, and to report to the home authorities. Lengthy reports were received in reply, embodying valuable information. In France up to 1886 the duties of the commercial department were so defined as to include encouragement to commerce and industry—industry being construed in its widest sense as embracing arts and manufactures. They extended to the preparation of treaties, to commercial legislation, to the French and foreign customs tariff, the general movements of commerce and navigation, the drafting of laws and regulations relating to inland trade and industrial arts and manufactures, commercial and industrial statistics, the interior and abroad, patents, inspection of infant labor, centralization and study of documents in reference to the law of industrial property in foreign states, encouragement to national fisheries, sanitary police, weights and measures, professional and technical education. Of course, under the Canadian constitution many of these subjects pertain exclusively to the local authorities, while others are looked after by the federal departments at present with regard to which it would not be wise to make a change. In 1886 in France the Ministry of Commerce and Industry was created as a separate department with three different branches. The duties assigned to the minister generally are of an extremely multifarious character and from them it will not be difficult to assign work to the new department in Canada. For instance, one bureau has to deal entirely with the direction of foreign commerce, another with treaties and navigation, the preparation of the laws and tariffs of customs and studies and reports on all complaints made in respect to them. It issues the necessary orders for passing goods inward from abroad intended to be re-exported after bathing, regulates the drawbacks on salt meat and fish, and classifies goods not named in the tariff. Another branch of the French department has to study and examine questions affecting commerce and industry, unhealthy trades, patents, etc., trade marks, commercial names, and the contrefaction and study of the laws of foreign countries in reference to industrial property. Still another function has reference to the laws and decrees under which the merchant service rules are carried out, viz., measurement and tonnage, navigation dues and subsidies. And finally, another division deals with accounts and statistics, including the census. The Ministry of Commerce and Industries in Germany was established in 1848. Under its admirable rules there is included everything pertaining to trade, commerce, navigation, technical education, industrial and art schools, trades, models, state porcelain manufacture, the assay office and the navigation schools. In Austria the Ministry of Commerce deals with (a) commerce, industry and navigation; (b) postal and telegraph; and (c) state railways. Belgium has also a department of commerce divided into three departments, and covering everything pertaining to treaties, tariffs, commerce, navigation, extradition, postal and telegraph affairs, maritime regulations and navigation dues, means of communication and transport both at home and abroad, extension of trade, immigration, home and foreign monetary questions, and a score of others. Some of these branches in Canada it would not be well to divorce from their connection with existing departments, but the foregoing will give a general idea of the numerous subjects out of which work for the new department can be obtained.

The Export Apple Trade.

The apple trade in England has turned out exceedingly disappointing to Canadian shippers so far this season, prices in a number of instances having netted considerably less than first cost on this side, and in some places reclamations have been made. It has been estimated that on the total quantity of apples shipped this season from Canada there has been a gross loss of $100,000 to $150,000. Among the causes which have led to the severe depression in England was the glut of supplies both from Atlantic ports and the Continent, together with the poor quality of a good deal of fruit from this side. Hence the demoralization that has been so marked a characteristic in the English market since the commencement of the season. Advices from the United States now indicate that the scarcity of apples there is not as marked as at first reported,—in fact, there are too many ordinary and poor qualities seeking a market which have induced easier prices. These prices will not admit of shipment of Canadian fruit to that centre, where it was hoped a large portion of our crop would find a profitable market. At the present time, the outlook of the apple trade is far from encouraging, although there is yet time for an improved turn in the tide, as we have seen a good market on the other side after the holidays, and we hope this will be the case this season.—Trade Bulletin.

Cured Sick Headache!

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for Constipation and Headache is a pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family medicine. It is said to be the Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water into the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy with ladies for clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c and $1.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and sure cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for cleaning up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50 cents a package.

THE SILVER QUESTION.

ROTHSCHILD HAS WITHDRAWN THE PLAN HE PROPOSED

Suspension of Silver Coinage in the United States Might Stop Coinage in India—Perilous the Situation—Products of Silver Mines in America.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 7.—The Monetary Conference resumed its sitting yesterday and continued its discussion of the report of the committee which examined into Rothschild's proposals.

After a speech by Sir C. Rivers-Wilson, a member of the British delegation, Mr. Rothschild announced that he withdrew his scheme from further consideration of the conference.

Sir C. Rivers-Wilson said his views were entirely shared by Sir C. Fremantle, Deputy Master of the British Mint. He said: "We believe that all the governments who have sent delegates here recognize the presence of a great danger, otherwise our presence here is not justified. A note of warning has reached us from America, and to say the least it is doubtful whether the American Government can continue indefinitely the gigantic efforts which it has fruitlessly made to keep its money in circulation and raise the price of silver. We need not enquire whether the policy which governed the currency legislation of the great Republic was wise in conception, but it cannot be denied that it has not realized expectations and is greatly the cause of our present position.

Perils of the Situation.

"In any case the suspension of American silver purchases has become a vital question of the day, and if it occurred might lead to the suspension of coinage in India. Naturally our instructions require us, before concluding that matters must be left as they are, to examine with the greatest care any plan submitted for the purpose of extending the monetary use of silver. We have thus far studied only the Rothschild and Levi plans and are willing to admit that the adoption of either or both would not be incompatible with our principle.

"Another plan may, however, be formulated and approved by the conference, and if it does not conflict with the principles we have laid down it will receive serious consideration from the British Government."

James B. McCreary of the American delegation proceeded to point out the difficulties and perils of the existing situation. He said that whatever was the cause the fact remained that silver was imperatively needed. He appreciated the attention which Mr. de Rothschild had given to the important business of the conference, but he could not support the Rothschild plan.

"I cannot admit," he said, "that it is just the proper remedy for America to continue to purchase 54,000,000 ounces of silver annually at a price not to exceed 100 cents on the dollar as condition that the European powers make yearly purchases to the amount of £5,000,000 for five years at a price not to exceed 43 pence per ounce, and that if silver should rise above that price purchase be immediately suspended. I cannot see why we in America should be required to pay 100 cents on the dollar, if necessary, while the European powers pay only 73 cents on the dollar. It seems an unequal distribution that we should be expected to purchase twice as much silver as Europe.

Restore Silver to a Parity.

"The object of the conference should be not to fix a price which would keep silver below par, but to enlarge the use and restore it to a parity with value is had with gold prior to 1873, when it was first outlawed."

Mr. McCreary then referred to compliments of the British Chamber of Commerce, quoted the recent declarations of Archbishop Walsh and Mr. A. J. Balfour, and contended that the situation demanded a broader recognition and a better remedy than that suggested by Mr. de Rothschild. The American delegates, he said, were ready to co-operate with the other delegates in a candid and earnest effort to maintain the monetary functions of both metals.

Referring to the silver bullion law he said that the law was not entirely satisfactory to either party, and in support of his statement he quoted from the platforms adopted by the Minneapolis and Chicago conventions. For himself he believed that the Silver Act of 1890 would be repealed, if not at the present session of Congress certainly at the next. He believed that the product of the silver mines had reached its maximum in America and perhaps in the whole world.

The supply of gold had increased proportionately more than silver. During the last 44 years silver had fluctuated less than gold had, compared with the price of commodities. The owners and holders of money bonds and mortgages were directly interested in reducing the volume of money, because that increased the purchasing power of their money or its equivalent. But the interests of the farmer, laborer and professional men demanded increasing volume of money, because the rate of such increase regulated the price of property and the wages of laborers. In concluding Mr. McCreary said:

"I believe the best aim of the conference to be the general remonetization of silver and the unrestricted coinage of gold and silver into money of debt-paying power, with a permanent international ratio of 15½ or 16 to 1, and I prefer the latter. This, in my opinion, is a system that would give unity and stability to the value of money and would furnish the best remedy for the existing evils from which all civilized nations are suffering."

Mr. de Rothschild followed Mr. McCreary. He said that as America would not support his proposals he considered that it would be most in accordance with the respect due the conference to withdraw them.

The conference adjourned until Thursday.

Served the Purpose.

PARIS, Dec. 7.—The Journal des Débats, whose financial editor was a member of the committee appointed by the International Monetary Conference to consider the Rothschild proposals, declares that the scheme was only a slight modification of the project advanced 10 years ago by Prof. Levi, a German.

The paper adds that the proposals would not have received any attention if they had not been presented by Mr. Rothschild.

Continuing, The Journal says that though the committee rejected the Rothschild proposal it served the useful purpose of eliciting distinct declarations that it is useless to rely upon any legislative check to the production of silver in the United States and Mexico, and that if the conference proves futile the United States Government will cease its purchases of silver and India will adopt a new standard.

The paper concludes by declaring that the mysterious tactics of the American delegates delay definite proposals.

The Deadly Scaffold.

HAMILTON, Dec. 7.— Yesterday when Norton Roe, 135 Rebecca-street, and another man were at work on a building in Grant-avenue the scaffold broke and they got a bad fall. Roe fell into an excavation for a sewer and the other man landed on top of a man who was working in the sewer.

Roe had his left leg broken above the ankle and was injured internally. He was taken to the hospital in the ambulance. The other man was not seriously hurt.

Long Distance Trolley.

HAMILTON, Dec. 7.—R. R. Waddell will apply at the next session of Parliament for a charter to run a trolley line from here to Schaw station on the C.P.R. He proposes to run it over the Hamilton and Dundas line from here to Dundas and then out to Schaw. Mr. Waddell expects by that time the storage system will be in working order.

According to Mr. Waddell's ideas this is the only feasible line out of the city to the north and north-westward.

A GAMBLER CLAIMS HER

IDENTITY OF THE SUICIDE AT SAN DIEGO, CAL.

She Was Not Lizzie Wyllie, for Lizzie Wrote a Letter from Toronto Last Wednesday—Was a Schoolmate of the Suicide Who Sent Money.

DETROIT, Dec. 7.—The mystery surrounding the identity of the woman who was found dead on the beach at San Diego, Cal., last Tuesday morning with a pistol beside her is becoming deeper than ever. Developments tend to show that she was not Lizzie Wyllie after all.

Mrs. John G. Longfield, whose husband's name was coupled in so distressing a manner with that of the missing Wyllie girl, received a letter from her husband, dated Cleveland, this morning. In it he encloses a letter which he alleges he received from Lizzie Wyllie last Wednesday, dated Toronto, Ont.

The Wyllies formerly lived in Toronto, and as Lizzie has relatives there it is hoped she will soon be located.

Her letter does not show that there was other than a purely friendly feeling existing between the young woman and Longfield.

A despatch from Hamburgh, Ia., apparently clears up the San Diego suicide mystery. It stated that "Mrs. L. Bernard," the suicide, was the wife of a gambler well-known in Hamburgh. He tried to borrow money several weeks ago to bring his wife home from California, where he said she was sick; but his story was not believed.

The Allen referred to in the despatches as having sent Mrs Bernard $25 at her request is said to be an ex-M.P. of Derby. He had been a schoolmate of Mrs. Bernard in Illinois.

UNDER SENTENCE.

Slavin, the Cornwall Murderer, Says He Worked for Some Time at Lachine.

CORNWALL, Dec. 7.—James Slavin, whose execution is set down for Dec. 16, still maintains the same calm exterior as on the day of his trial and sentence to death. Dean Murray and the Rev. Father Roberts paid the doomed man a visit on Saturday, as did also the Rev. Mr. Hastie, pastor of Knox Church. Slavin conversed very freely with the reverend gentlemen, but they failed to effect his conversion. Slavin says: "There is no use; I am bad enough now without playing the part of a hypocrite; I have studied the different Bibles up, but cannot convince myself that punishment or bliss follows death. I believe when a man leaves this world of grief and tears he has nothing to account for. I do not believe in Heaven or hell. I wrote several contradictions to the Bibles and sent them to the sheriff, who, when he perused them, consigned them to the waste paper basket. Since then I have quit writing."

Slavin says the story about his being a cowboy and desperado is all rot; this, previous to the unfortunate affair that caused his being sentenced to death, he was employed on the Ohio coal docks at Huntsh, and subsequently worked on a steam shovel at Lachine.

A drop weight, weighing 300 pounds, was cast at Gillie's foundry here last week, but this was thought too small and a larger one is now in the moulds. The hangman, Radcliffe, who will send the unfortunate man into eternity, complained very strongly of the way in which the railway employes on the Intercolonial handled his valise, which contained his paraphernalia, in their eagerness to see the rope at the end of which Buck died. They pried open the end of his valise.

FROM THE BASTION.

How a Forger Is Enjoying Himself While Awaiting Extradition.

TORONTO, Dec. 7.—Charles E. Davidson, who was arrested at Juarez, Mexico, just across the Rio Grande from El Paso, Texas, for obtaining $10,000 from the Bank of Hamilton at Hamilton, Ont., by discounting forged orders, witnessed a novel sight on Sunday from the window of the bastion in which he is confined while awaiting the order for his extradition. It was the beginning of the annual fiesta and bull fighting was the chief attraction. The ring adjoins the prison.

Davidson and 3000 people saw five bulls tortured, two horses killed and another wounded. The first bull turned in refused to fight. The second was not as big as the first, but had plenty of fight. He sent the toreadors behind the blinds in a hurry, and brought first blood by hooking one of the men in the hand. The three other bulls brought in made good fights.

There were several narrow escapes and two fighters were caught, but not seriously hurt. These incidents set the Mexicans to yelling frantically.

Two horses were killed under one picador and a third was severely hooked. The horse was blindfolded and absolutely dependent upon the science of their rider for protection from the mad rushes of the bulls. But the fellow handled the mike clumsily and utterly failed to keep off the bull, whose sharp horns would penetrate a horse's side, and horse and rider would be thrown to the ground. The picador was rescued while the infuriated bull was goring the horse.

The last bull was killed by the picador at the first thrust of his sword, which entered between the shoulder-blades and out the brute's heart in two.

WITH BARE KNUCKLES.

A Prize Fight in the Famous Red Barn at Mimico.

TORONTO, Dec. 7.—A score of local dead game sports, with 40 more of their pals from Lambton Mills, Weston and the Humber, joined their Mimico brethren yesterday afternoon in the well-known Red Barn at Mimico, famous for its former cock-fights and mills, and known to all the local sports. They saw a prize-fight of the genuine order.

Ben Young, of City, Pa., and Mike Ryan of Lockport, N.Y., had a small stake and an old grudge up. Both, with their backers and bottle-holders, they arrived here from Hamilton yesterday afternoon and had no time in reaching the battle ground beyond the Humber, and proceeded without much ceremony to settle the matter.

The men are middle-weights and tipped the beam at about 150 lbs. They were well matched and made a desperate fight. The Lockport man made a game showing early in the battle. Both men went at it hammer and tongs. In the sixth round it was anyone's fight. But in the seventh Young got in three sledge-hammer blows and wound up Ryan against the ropes. Mike failed to respond in the allotted time, so Young was awarded the battle.

The fight was according to London Prize Ring rules, except that the men fought with bare knuckles. It was 5.15 p.m. when the pugilists entered the temporary ring and at 8 o'clock Young had decided his man out.

An Incipient Fight in India.

CALCUTTA, Dec. 6.—A band of Chilosi tribesmen attacked a Cashmere guard yesterday. The tribesmen were repulsed, with a loss of 50 killed.

It is supposed the Chilosis were instigated to attack the British agent by Sher Afzul Khan, the usurping ruler of Chitral.

A BELGIAN COLONY

To Settle on Vancouver Island in the Neighborhood of Wellington.

OTTAWA, Dec. 7.—Mr. Vervort, a Belgian, who has been spending some months in traveling about the Canadian Northwest, with a view to investment there, had an interview yesterday with the officers of the Department of the Interior. Mr. Vervort expressed himself as highly pleased with the C.P.R. country, and proposes settling a large number of families of his fellow-countrymen in the neighborhood of Winnipeg, where he himself intends to reside.

Mr. Vervort prefers to buy improved land of the best quality only, and will assist such of his countrymen as need help.

PARKDALE, Ont., Feb. 27th, 1888.—Gentlemen, it gives me pleasure to let you know I have derived great benefit from the use of Norvilline. I have been a great sufferer from Neuralgia in the face, and last two years was quite a martyr to the malady. As soon as I observed the Norvilline advertised I obtained a bottle from our druggists Messrs. John Gray & Co., Parkdale, and the effect was marvellous; pain ceased and I can enjoy sound sleep at night, and rise refreshed. I cannot speak too highly of it and heartily recommend it. Santa Claus' Headquarters.

Our endeavors to make the Fair headquarters for Christmas supplies is more marked this fall than at any previous time. Our store, though large, is not sufficient to accommodate the great crowd on Christmas eve. We would therefore urge you to make your selections now while the stock is complete and avoid the crush at Christmas time. We have just received 100 cases of foreign goods, such as albums, dolls, tooth brushes, hair brushes, purses, fancy chairs, cups and saucers, vases, jewellery, handsome lemonade sets, glass tea sets beautifully engraved; our assortment of Academy and Bible cases is seen to be appreciated. Never have we been able to offer such bargains in albums, ladies' work boxes, jewel cases, portfolios, writing desk cases, brush and comb cases, games from 5c up, playing cards from 5c up, beautiful whisk holders, all the latest novelties from 40c up. We have something new in dolls' chairs, dolls' cradles, children's extend a tables, sets of furniture, toy picture books, pansy books, magic lanterns 49c up, steam engines, skates, dolls' carriages, children's sleds and cutters strong and durable at lowest prices, novels by the best authors 10c worth 25c, pocket knives and table cutlery an endless variety to choose from. But, perhaps, one of the greatest drives is a special line of extra quality writing paper, 5 quires (120 sheets) for 17c. We will not attempt to enumerate further, but would invite you to call at

BEECHAM'S PILLS cure sick headache.

PLEASE remember the parlor social at Rev. Mrs. A. Campbell's, Bleecker Street Church, on Friday evening next at 7:30. Cake and coffee and a good programme, all for 15c. The Ladies' Aid give a cordial welcome.

"When your heart is bad, and your head is bad, and you are bad clean through, what is needed?" asked a Sunday-school teacher to her class. "I know—Ayer's Sarsaparilla," spoke up a little girl, whose mother had recently been restored to health by that medicine.

When kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull ache in the kidney's cry for relief. If Dodd's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney disease that a persistant use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

The general verdict of the smokers of Canada is that "Myrtle Navy" is the finest tobacco they have ever used. There can be no mistake upon this point, for it is proved by this tangible evidence. The large demand for this tobacco shows it to be true, and the character of the demand gives further proof. It has never been of the spasmodic kind, up one month and down the next. It has been a sustained, and constantly increasing demand. The unsurpassed quality of the tobacco accounts for this.

Annual Meeting—Election of Officers.

Oxford Lodge S.O.E. No. 17 held their annual meeting last evening, a large number being present, and a great deal of interest was taken in the elections, which resulted as follows:

President—Bro. R. C. Hulme.
Vice do. —Bro. Wm. Hopkins.
Fin. Sec.—Bro. H. Tammadge.
Rec. Sec.—Bro. Bro. W. Watts.
Treas.—Bro. J. W. London.
Chaplain—Bro. A. L. Geen.
Managing Com.—Bros. Twining, Perkins, Pearson, Brewer, G. Hulme and Riggs.
Inside Guard—Bro. Rickard.
Outside Guard—Bro. Wm. Corham.
Surgeon—Bro. Dr. Tracy.
Auditors—Bros. J. A. Campion, George Twining and H. W. Smith.
Grand Lodge Delegates—Bros. R. C. Hulme and J. W. London.

Trustees—Bros. Jas. Hall and Dr. Nash

Bro. R. C. Hulme was the first President of Oxford Lodge, holding the office for two years in succession, and was elected again last night.

Bro. J. W. London, who held the office of Treasurer at the formation of the Lodge and following year, was again elected to that office last night.

Bros. Dr. Tracy, Surgeon of the Lodge, and Secretary Tammadge, were re elected last night for the 12 h time, having held their respective offices since the formation of the Lodge.

Bros. Hulme and London have now had the honor of being elected representatives to the Supreme Grand Lodge for the 10th and 11th time respectively.

It was decided not to celebrate the coming anniversary of the formation of the lodge on the 19th inst., but to have a dinner on St. George's Day next.

NEW LODGE.

A new Lodge will shortly be opened at Coe Hill. Darlie Dippaty Waymark, and Bros. Hulme and London, have been asked by the executive to institute the lodge.

Died in the Gaol.

John Stewart, an Aged Man, the Victim.

Jno. Stewart, a man 79 years of age, died at 2 o'clock this morning at the county gaol. The unfortunate man was committed to the Institution in September '91, as a vagrant. He was ill at the time, and has been gradually growing worse ever since, until death relieved him.

An inquest was held, conducted by Dr. Youker, coroner. Mr. Thos. Lingham was selected as foreman. Dr. Farley, gaol physician, testified that the deceased had been ill for some time, death being the result of Bright's disease of the kidneys. Evidence was also given, showing that every attention had been given the deceased.

The jury returned a verdict that the deceased had come to his death by Bright's disease, and that every kindness and attention had been shown him by the gaol physician, the officials and prisoners.

This is the third death that has occurred in the gaol during this year.

Local Legal.

TORONTO, Dec. 6.

QUEEN'S BENCH DIVISION.—THE DIVISIONAL COURT.

Before Armour, C.J., Street, J.

Morrow v. C. P. R. Co.—Marsh, Q. C., for the plaintiff, moved to set aside a nonsuit entered by Falconbridge, J., at the trial at Belleville, in the action for damages for negligence, and for a new trial. The plaintiff was travelling in an open buggy along a road in the township of Rawdon where the defendants' line of railway crosses, and was injured and his horse was killed at the crossing by a passing express train. The line of railway just before the crossing runs through a cutting, and there is also a curve in the line, by reason of which a train cannot be seen from the road till it is near the crossing. The negligence alleged was the failure of defendants' servants on the train to sound the whistle or to ring the bell on approaching the crossing. The trial judge non suited on the authority of Weir vs. C. P. R. Co., 16 A. R., holding that the plaintiff was out of court by reason of contributory negligence. The plaintiff contends that the trial judge had in effect usurped the functions of the jury by weighing the evidence of contributory negligence and that he was wrong in law in laying down that it was incumbent on the plaintiff to negative contributory negligence on his part. McCarthy, Q.C., and Angus Mac-Murphy, for the defendants, showed cause. Reserved.

AMUSEMENTS

ROB ROY.

Mr. Wilson Rennie does not do injustice to the sturdy character of Rob Roy, while Bailie Nicol Jarvise of Mr. Murdoch is clever and artistic, and Mr. Phillips was amusing as the tipsy Major Galbraith, and his voice, though light for bass parts, is not lacking in melody. Alex Rule played the part of Rashleigh Osbaldistone with much spirit. Mr. Wallace McCreary has a rather fine tenor voice, but a cold last evening largely spoiled the rendition of his songs. The actors were arrayed in the costumes of the period, and there was some handsome special scenery.—Montreal Herald,

This pleasing Scotch drama will be presented in the Opera House here to-night.

From the Jaws of Death.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. When all other remedies have failed Miller's Emulsion nearly always succeeds. It is the best kind of flesh and blood maker, and has been used with marked success by the physicians in the Insane Asylum, Penitentiary, Hotel Dieu, and General Hospital in Kingston, Ont. In big bottles, 50c, and $1, at all Drug Stores.

Orange Election.

At the regular annual meeting of L.O.L. No. 3 Foxboro, the following were elected officers for the ensuing year: H. Cook, W. M.; R. Emery, D.M.; S. Felton, Chap.; S. J. Clarke, Rec. Sec.; M. Jones, F.S.; J. Gay, Treas.; J. Eggleton, D. of C.; W. Spencer, Sec.; D. F. Geow, ; McCullough, J. Simmons, J. Elliott, Geo. Ketcheson, Committee; Geo. McCullough, I.T.; E. Gaut, O.T.

Gratifying to All.

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasing liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup Company.

Dedication of the Methodist Church.

An Elegant Building—Fine Services and Liberal Contributions.

The new Methodist church was dedicated on Thursday, Dec. 1st, by Rev. Dr. Potts. He preached a very eloquent sermon from Psalm XLVIII, 12, 13 and 14 to a crowded house. In the evening tea was served in the basement, after which a platform meeting was held in the body of the church. The chair was occupied by Wm. White, Esq., when the Rev. D. Potts and Rev. Mr. Pearson delivered addresses. There was some very excellent music rendered by the choir, also a solo by by Miss Anna Lawrence and a duet by Misses Sara and Annie Easterbrook, after which a subscription was taken, when the people responded nobly with $2,600. The total cost of the church is $11,000. It is beautifully designed and well finished with all the latest improvements, and was acknowledged by all to be the finest church in eastern Ontario. Services were continued on Sunday, Dec. 4. The pulpit was occupied morning and evening by Rev. Mr. Pearson and in the afternoon by the Rev. Wm. Limbert, former pastor.

On Monday evening there was a concert given by the choir of Sydenham street church, Kingston, assisted by Miss Jack, elocutionist. Proceeds for building fund.

MADOC.

(From our own Correspondent.)

MADOC, Dec. 6, 1892.

Mr. John Harper, one of Madoc's oldest business men, died on Thursday morning, after a short illness.

Mr. Louis Weiss, who went last summer to visit his father land, returned Saturday. He was more than pleased with his trip.

Mr. Danforth, who runs the woollen mill, had his mill broken into, and about $100 worth of cloth stolen.

The boats at the lake that were supposed to have been taken north by hunting parties, never left the lake. It was a case of wreaking vengeance on the person supposed to have given information, and lent the boats to aid in having the men captured. The boat houses broken into and the boats destroyed belonged to innocent parties who had nothing to do with it, as the wreckers have since found out.

The Patrons of Industry held a meeting this afternoon, which was largely attended. They talk of erecting a flour mill, in order to do their own grinding.

The MARKETS

BELLEVILLE MARKETS.

INTELLIGENCER OFFICE,
Belleville, Dec. 7, 1892

Bad weather, bad roads and low prices have combined to reduce the receipts of grain to a very small figure. Prices are unchanged.

Dressed hogs have been in very large supply, and the market is firm at $6 to $6.25.

Poultry has been offered in plenty. The prices show no change.

Hay is in abundant supply at from $6 to $8 per ton, the ruling price being $6.50.

Montreal Markets.

CHEESE.

Business in cheese at the moment is of a hard character, stocks are moderate, and holders are firm in their views on values—which range from 10½c to 10¾c, according to grade and condition. The Liverpool cable to day was unchanged at 53s for white and colored cheese.

BUTTER.

A fair movement is noted in dairy butter for local retail trade, and choice parcels bring full figures in small lots. Creamery is quiet owing to the high figures at which it is held. We quote prices as follows:

Creamery.....22c to 23½
Townships' dairy.....20c to 21c
Morrisburg' and Brockville.....18c to 20c
Western dairies.....17c to 19½
Western roll, new.....17c to 20c

EGGS.

Receipts of eggs have fallen off considerably, fresh stock is scarce and commands outside prices. Values all round are firm. We quote fresh stock at 21c to 23c, good held stock 17c to 19c, and limed 15c to 17c.

HONEY.

Honey moves slowly in small lots for retail trade, at prices within range of quotations as follows: Strained, 7 to 8c per lb., and comb, 9 to 11c per lb.

HOPS.

The market is quiet but steady, with only a small local jobbing trade noted. We quote prime new hops at 20 to 22c, and good yearlings at 18 to 20c in bale lots; for round lots of new, 17 to 18c would be about the basis.

Literary Notes.

OUR LITTLE MEN AND WOMEN FOR DECEMBER is a veritable Christmas number. It opens with "The Night before Christmas," a suggestive picture, accompanied by a story well suited to it. Every child who can read should be given a copy of this inimitable children's magazine. Price $1 a year; 10c a number. D. Lothrop Co., Publishers, Boston.

BABYLAND FOR DECEMBER brings good Christmas cheer. Its happy stories and merry rhymes seem merrier and gayer than ever, and its pretty pictures and verses tell tales as sweet as any baby ever listened to. Every home that Babyland enters this month will have a merry Christmas. Price 50c. a year; 5c. a number. D. Lothrop Co., Publishers, Boston.

THE FANSY FOR DECEMBER contains its usual amount of good things. The two stories by its favorite authors, "Fanny" and "Margaret Sidney," develope in worth and interest. No better magazine for both young and old is to be found. $1 a year; 10cts. a number. D. Lothrop Co., Publishers, Boston.

CLARK'S HORSE REVIEW.

The Christmas number of Clark's Horse Review has for several seasons past surpassed all similar publications of the kind, as its regular issues do those of other weekly journals of its class. According to its usual custom the Review will again commemorate the holiday season by a Christmas issue which, in general scope and magnificence, will far exceed all its previous efforts.

The most celebrated of living turfmen, turf writers and breeders will contribute articles on timely and interesting topics of a character, which the names of Joseph Cairn Simpson, William B. Fasig, John H. Wallace, Peter C. Kellogg, John A. Goldsmith, Edward F. Geers, Charles Marvin, Major Campbell Brown, etc., guarantees sufficiently.

The crowning feature will be four magnificent chromo-lithographed supplemental portraits of Kremlin 2:07½, who has twice held the stallion championship; Antece 2:16¼, Electioneer's most noted son; Red Wilkes, the greatest son of George Wilkes, and the wonderful gelding, Jay-Eye-See, pacing record 2:06½, trotting record 2:10. These will be suitable for framing and more than worthy of preservation.

The regular weekly edition of The Review is 25,000 copies; that of the Christmas issue will be 50,000. To regular subscribers it is furnished free; to purchasers the price will be 50 cents per copy, with a reduction to clubs. The Review is published at $2.00 per year. All orders for the Christmas number should be sent in at once, as the edition is likely to be early exhausted. Address Clark's Horse Review Co., 59 61 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

Decreasing The Death Rate.

The mortality among consumptives has been materially decreased of late years by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Phthisis, Bronchitis, Abscess of the Lungs, Pneumonia and Throat Affections are completely subjugated by a timely use of this excellent pulmonic. Palatable as milk. The Dressed Hog Season.

The dressed hog season which has now commenced is always an interesting subject to not only provision men and butchers, but to consumers, as pork in its fresh, salted and smoked condition is an important factor in our food supplies, and the question as to what prices the product is likely to rule at during the coming season is an important one. Last year at this time the market for car lots of dressed hogs opened at $5.60 per 100 lbs., and at the close of the year sold down to $5 40 for good stock. From that time they commenced to advance, and by the end of January prices had reached $6 25 to $6.35c, and all through February they sold steadily in car lots at $6 50; but after that time they eased off somewhat, selling at $6.40 and eventually at $6.25. Values this year have opened at $6.60 for car lots at Toronto, where most of the Western have so far this season been marketed, packers there being the principal buyers. But now that cold weather has set in, offerings are being made from the Chatham district to parties here at $6.50 to $6.60 per 100 lbs for car lots; but buyers do not feel inclined to bid over $6 35, the above asking rates being fully $1.00 per 100 lbs above those of a year ago. For small jobbing lots, butchers have been paying still higher figures, nice bright fresh killed hogs bringing $6.75 and even higher prices. In consequence of the reported scarcity of hogs in the Western States and the high prices ruling there, it is not expected that we shall experience cheap hogs this season, unless of course the unexpected happens and the American market breaks later on.—Trade Bulletin.

When a Respirator Should be Used

Plenty of outdoor exercise is necessary during the winter if you would have good health; to take this will need some resolution, as the inclination is strong to remain indoor.

In certain conditions of health, too, the extremely cold or damp air cannot be breathed without risk, and then it is a RESPIRATOR should be used. Those of the most approved kind can be procured of

Blotches Cured.

DEAR SIRS,—In 1890 my body was covered with blotches and I was at last induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters; by the time I had used 3½ bottles of it I was completely cured, and I cannot speak too highly of it.

MRS. JAMES DESMOND, Halifax, N. S.

Made With Skill.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skillful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

Out of Sorts—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure,' and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this combination take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

BROOKE'S DAUGHTER.

BY

ADELINE SERGEANT,

Author of "A True Friend," etc., etc.

(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

'Mrs. Romaine,' said Mr. Brooke, in a more decided tone, 'is a cultivated woman who has made a mark in literature.'

'In literature!' inquired the doctor.

'She has written a novel or two. She writes for various papers—well and smartly, I believe. She is a thorough woman of the world. Naturally, a girl brought up as Lesley has been will——'

'—Will find her detestable,' said Kenyon, briskly 'as I and Ethel do. You will excuse this expression of opinion; you've heard it before.'

For a moment Caspar Brooke's face was overcast; then he broke into uneasy laughter, and rose from his chair, shaking himself a little as a big dog sometimes does when it comes out of the water.

'You are incorrigible,' he said. 'A veritable heretic on the matter of my friend, Mrs. Romaine. By the by, I must remind you, Kenyon, that Mrs. Romaine is a very old friend of mine.'

His manner changed slightly as he spoke. There was a little touch of quiet hauteur in his look and tone, as if he wished to repel unsolicited criticism. Maurice understood the man too well to be offended, and mercly changed the subject.

But when, after half an hour's chat, the young doctor left the house, his mind reverted to the topic which Mr. Brooke had broached.

'Mrs. Romaine. Indeed! Why, the man is mad—to introduce her as a friend to his daughter! Does not all the world know that Mrs. Romaine caused the separation between him and his wife! And will the poor girl know or has she been kept in the dark completely as to the state of affairs? Upon my word I'm sorry for her. It strikes me that she will have a hard row to hoe, if Mrs. Romaine is at her father's ear.'

CHAPTER V.

OLIVER.

Mr. Brooke had not long quitted Mrs. Romaine's drawing room when it was entered by another man, whose personal resemblance to Mrs. Romaine herself was so striking that there could be little doubt as to their close relationship to one another. It was one of those curious likenesses that exist and thrive upon difference. Rosalind was not tall, and she was undeniably plump; while her younger brother, Oliver Trent, was above the middle height, and of a spare habit. The creamy white of Mrs. Romaine's complexion had turned to deadly pallor in Oliver's thin, hatriess face; and her most striking features were accentuated, and even exaggerated in his. Her arched and mobile eyebrows, her dark eyes, her broad mouth, curved mouth, and finely-shaped chin, were all to be found, with a subtle unlikeness, in Oliver's face, and the jetty hair, short as it was on the man's head, grew low down on the brow and the nape of the neck exactly as hers did—although this resemblance was obscured by the fact that Rosalind wore a fringe, and carefully curled all the short hairs at the back of her head.

The greatest difference of all lay in the expression of the two faces. Mrs. Romaine had certainly no frankness in her countenance, but she had plenty of smiling pleasantness and play of emotion. Oliver's face was like a sullen mask; it was motionless, stolid even, and unamiable. There were people who raved about his beauty, and nicknamed him Antinous and Adonis. But these were not physiognomists.

Mrs. Romaine had two brothers, both some years younger than herself. Oliver, the youngest and her favorite, was about thirty, and called himself a barrister. As he had briefs however, it was currently reported that he lived by means of light literature, play, and judicious sponging upon his sister. The elder brother, Francis, was a ne'er-do-well, and seldom appeared upon the scene. When he did appear, it was always a sign of trouble and want of cash.

'So you have had Brooke here again!' Oliver inquired.

'How did you know, Nell?'

'I saw him come in. I was coming up, but I turned round again and went away. Had a smoke in the Square till I saw him come out. Didn't want to spoil your little game, whatever it was.'

He spoke with a kind of soft drawl, not unpleasing to the ear at first, but irritating if too long continued. It seemed to irritate his sister now. She tapped impatiently on the floor with her toe as she replied—

'How vulgar you are sometimes, Oliver! But all society is vulgar now-a-days, and I suppose one ought not to complain. I have no 'little game,' as you express it, and there was no 'slightest need' for you to have stayed away.'

Oliver was sitting on a sofa, with his elbows on his knees and the tips of his long white fingers meeting each other. When Mrs. Romaine ended her petulant little speech he turned his dark eyes upon her and smiled. He said nothing, however, and the silence offended his sister more than his speech.

'It is easy to see that you did not believe me,' she said, 'and I think it is very rude of you to be so sceptical. If you have any remarks to make on the subject pray make them at once.'

'My dear Rosy, I have no remarks to make at all,' said Oliver, easily. 'Take your own way and I will take mine. You are good enough to give me plenty of rope, and I should be uncivil indeed if I commented on the length of yours.'

Mrs. Romaine had been moving restlessly to and fro; she now stood still, on the hearthrug, her hands clasped before her, her face turned attentively toward her brother. Evidently she was struck by his words.

'If you would speak out,' she said at last, her smooth voice vibrating as if she had touched some chord of passion which was usually hushed into silence. 'I should know better what you mean. You deal too much in hints and insinuations. You have said things of this sort before. I must know what you mean.'

'Come, Rosy,' said Oliver, rising from his low seat and confronting her, 'don't be so tragic—so intense. Plump little women like you shouldn't go in for tragedy. Smile, Rosy; it is your metier to smile. You have won a good many games by smiling. You must smile on now—to the bitter end.'

He smiled himself as he looked at her—an unpleasant smile, with thin lips drawn back from white sharp looking teeth, which gave him the air of a snarling dog. Mrs. Romaine's face belied his words. It was tragic enough, intense enough, for a woman who had known mortal agony; the suggestion of placidity usually given by her smiling lips and rounded unwrinkled cheeks had disappeared; she might have stood for an impersonation of sorrow and despair. Oliver's mocking voice recalled her to herself.

'A very good pose, Rosalind. The Tragic Muse indeed. Are you going to rival Ethel Kenyon? I am afraid its rather late for you to go on the stage, that's all. Let me see; you have touched forty, have you not? I would acknowledge only thirty-nine if I were you. There is more than a year's difference between thirty-nine and forty.'

The strained muscles of her face relaxed; she made a little impatient gesture with her hands, then turned to the fireplace, and with one arm upon the mantlepiece looked down into the fire.

'You drive me nearly mad sometimes, Oliver,' she said in a low passionate voice. 'by your habit of saying only half a thing at a time. I know well enough that you are remonstrating with me now; that you disapprove of something—and will not tell me what. By the by, if I am in any trouble or perplexity, you will turn round upon me and say that you warned me—told me that you disapproved—or something of that sort. You always do it, and it is not fair. Innuendoes are not warnings.'

'My dear Rosalind,' said her brother, coolly, 'I hope I know my place. I'm ten years younger than you are, and have been at various times indebted to your generosity. It does not become me to take exception at anything girls may like to do.'

News About Town.

It is the current report around town that Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs is making some remarkable cures with people who are troubled with Coughs, Sore Throat, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption. Any druggist will give you a trial bottle free of cost. It is guaranteed to relieve and cure. The Large Bottles are 50c and $1.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation unless may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Hor & Co.* Brockville, Ont.

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

Special Notice!

We notice in a number of our Dry Goods windows displayed a line of Fancy Goods. Now we sincerely hope our citizens will not get it into their heads that these goods are by any means the newest novelties in the market.

If you will only wait a few days and then drop in and examine our stock we will convince you that the Dry Goods men know nothing about such articles.

Regarding the price of these goods, judging from what we have heard, we are certain of giving you a far better article at a much lower price We would, therefore, again kindly ask you not to be in a hurry and make any purchases from firms, who, without experience, have thought it wise to dabble in a dozen different lines.

La Grippe
"Last Spring I was taken down with la grippe. At times I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breath seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and no sooner had I begun taking it than my relief was felt. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid."—W. H. Williams, Cook City, S. Dak.

Lung Trouble
"For more than twenty-five years, I was a sufferer from lung trouble, attended with coughing so severe at times as to cause hemorrhage, the paroxysms frequently lasting three or four hours. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after taking four bottles was thoroughly cured. I can confidently recommend this medicine."—Franz Hofmann, Clay Centre, Kans.

FARMERS' CONFERENCE.

BRITISH AGRICULTURISTS DISCUSS THE DEPRESSION.

Bi-Metallism Favored—A Union of Landlords and Tenants Agreed Upon—A Return to Protection Means a Return to Barbarity.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—At the agricultural conference Mr. Chaplin declared that foreign competition was not the only cause for the fall in prices of agricultural products. The continuous rise in the value of gold was quite as serious a cause. The immediate remedy for that would be a return to bi-metallism, in regard to which he said the statement on the subject recently made by Archbishop Walsh of Dublin was the most convincing ever published. Mr. Chaplin said he earnestly hoped the conference would adopt the principle of bi-metallism.

The Earl of Winchelsea and Nottingham suggested the formation of a union of landlords and tenants. He offered to give £2000 to assist in the formation of such a union.

William Saunders, a Radical member of Parliament, attempted to denounce protection, but was hooted down. He then attempted to offer an amendment to Mr. Chaplin's resolution, declaring that the fall in prices of agricultural products was the natural result of improved methods of production, but the conference would have none of the amendment, and refused to allow it to be put to a vote.

Francis Smith, a member of the London County Council, made a short address in which he remarked that a return to protection meant a return to barbarity. This statement was greeted with hoots and yells.

Mr. Nethersole, a farmer delegate, proposed a resolution affirming that the unfair competition of untaxed foreign imports with home produce was an injustice that called for immediate removal and that all competing imports ought to pay a duty not less than the rates and taxes levied on home produce. Mr. Nethersole's resolution was adopted by a large majority.

Unrestricted Coinage.

Mr. Robert Lacy Everett, Liberal member of Parliament for the Woodbridge division of Suffolk, moved a resolution declaring that, in the opinion of the conference, the continuous fall in prices which is so injurious to agriculturists is largely due to appreciation of gold and the fall in exchange between gold and silver-using countries, and that the best and most effective remedy would be secured by an agreement on a broad international basis to reopen the mints of India and nations to unrestricted coinage of silver and gold. The resolution urged that the British Government be earnestly requested to co-operate with other governments represented at the Monetary Conference now sitting in Brussels to secure such an international agreement. The conference was then carried, there being few dissenters.

The Daily Telegraph, in commenting on President Harrison's message, refers to the program of the British agricultural conference in connection with the President's remarks on silver. It says: "Nothing could be more misleading than Mr. Harrison's remarks. The only thing that saves America from a vast, terrible social catastrophe is the extent and cheapness of her outlying lands and her superb system of railroads. With regard to the troubles of English tenant farmers, however, nothing could be a wilder or worse step than retaliation on the McKinleyites by excluding American corn and beef."

SUING THE SCHOOL BOARD.

A King-street Merchant's Novel Suit For Damages.

TORONTO, Dec. 8.—Freddie Gee, whose father keeps a small store in King-street east, was not allowed to attend the Sackville-street school because he had a skin disease. He was sent home by the teacher and was examined by the Health officer and advised to remain away from school a while. This he did for some time and after the holidays went back with a certificate from a city doctor, but was refused admittance unless he produced a certificate from the city Health Officer. His father claims that his business has been affected by the report that his son had a contagious disease, and wants damages from the School board.

A motion was made to the master yesterday to strike out part of the statement of claims on which judgment was reserved.

FORGER V CKERS.

He Is Wanted at Mitchell, Ont., for Forging a Fearmer's Note.

PORT HURON, Mich., Dec. 8.—George Vickers, who was arrested at Pittsburgh, Mich., was brought here last night by Chief of Police Patti on a United States warrant charged with forgery to the amount of $1400.

He is wanted at Mitchell, Ont., for forging a farmer's note, and will probably be returned to Canada without extradition.

A Canal for Muskoka.

TORONTO, Dec. 8.—At the new Legislative Buildings yesterday the first deputation entered the halls and waited on Hon. C. F. Fraser, Minister of Public Works. The gentlemen were from Huntsville, Muskoka, and their names were Dr. J. W. Hart, A. J. Watson, Thomas Gobdie, F. W. Clearwater, H. S. May and R. W. Godolphin. They told Mr. Fraser that they wanted a three-quarter mile long canal built between the Lake of Bays and Peninsular Lake. The canal would cost but $40,000, would save portaging boats, and would obviate the necessity of floating timber and pulp logs 27 miles by a most circuitous route. The deputation assured the Minister that the Provinces would be repaid for the construction of the canal by the increased dues paid by lumbermen on damaged pulpwood and timber, which it would pay to take through the canal, while the expense of rafting them around the headlands would kill any profit which might accrue. The Minister, of course, promised to consider the representations of the deputation.

Telegraphers Strike.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—The telegraph operators on the Rock Island and Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern system will strike at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, Dec. 8.

MONETARY CONFERENCE.

Very Unexpected Things Are Happening at the Meeting.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 8.—E. Benjamin Andrew of the American delegation and J. M. Boissevain of the Netherlands will speak in favor of the American plan when it is discussed to-day.

In an interview to-day Signor Simonelli said: "It is still impossible to predict the upshot of the conference. You see what unexpected things are happening at our meetings."

President Levi has received a communication from Mr. Allan, member of the Institute of Civil Engineers, who has had much experience in India, suggesting that the silver producing countries agree each to impose a fiscal duty on all silver exported, except on their own silver coins, the duty being on a sliding scale equal to the difference in value of the market price of silver and the international minimum value, less a fixed percentage on coinage, no silver thus exported being under the standard minimum value but to be free to command exchange in its favor.

The proposal, it is expected, will be discussed by the committee, but it is doubtful if it will be seriously entertained in view of the fact that Mexico and other silver-producing countries have clearly explained that they cannot agree to any restrictions of the silver industry.

May Serve to Amuse.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—The Times, in commenting on yesterday's proceedings of the International Monetary Conference, says: "Mr. William Houldsworth's plan is the drollest yet proposed, and may serve to amuse certain delegates with the notion that they are making valuable contributions to economic science. Mr. McCreary's speech is chiefly remarkable for the frank admission that the United States will take the earliest opportunity to repeal the Sherman Act, or, in other words, abandon the experiment which Europe had been invited to undertake."

Under fears of a suspension by the American Government of the Sherman Act and some sudden change in the Indian policy, future business in the silver market here has virtually ceased. The Financial News thinks the United States will return to the Bland Act.

THE PANAMA AFFAIR.

It Is Probable That the Body of Baron de Reinach Will Be Exhumed.

PARIS, Dec. 8.—The Panama Canal Committee yesterday reaffirmed its resolution declaring the necessity of an autopsy on the body of Baron de Reinach. It is expected that the Government will to-day announce its intention to have an autopsy performed.

The members of the Panama Canal Investigating Committee, before adjournment today, expressed a desire to confer with the Government immediately after the ministerial declarations to learn the Government's intentions before any public discussions is had.

If a fair interpellation is proposed that is likely to frustrate the conference, M. Brisson will move to suspend the sitting of the chamber.

M. Porquery De Boisserin intends to ask the Government to apply the laws dealing with corruption to the Panama prosecution. If the Government should consent the trial would be transferred to the Criminal Court.

THE FRENCH MINISTRY.

It Should Have the Power to Bring Peace to the Chamber.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—The Paris correspondent of The Times says: The new Ministry is a better result than could have been expected from the muddle. The joining of the Presidency with the foreign portfolio is not a happy idea, for the Foreign Office ought to be as stable as possible and not placed at the mercy of a fidgety chamber. The removal of the Vatican region from the ministry of public worship must be a concession to the Pope's new republican attitude. It is impossible to foresee that the Cabinet has accepted power without a firm decision to keep the Panama Canal Committee within constitutional rights.

It is probable that the ministerial statement will forestall Boissern's bill and show clearly that the committee's powers will be made compatible with respect for regular legal processes.

Their policy must be one to strip Boisserin's bill of its odious revolutionary marks.

The Chamber, which has been quite mad during the past ten days, may be expected to pull itself together at the sight of the old familiar ministers, otherwise public opinion will be instantly in arms.

An Erring Minister.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Rev. Mr. Kempthorn has been remanded at Shrewsbury charged with two attempts to assault his cook, a girl of 15 named Edwards. The girl alleges that she saved herself only by desperate struggles on each occasion. She informed Mrs. Kempthorn.

Germany's Immigration Bill.

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—It is reported that the American Government is greatly disturbed over the German Immigration Bill, which comes in the Reichstag to-day, because it excludes the agents of all foreign steamship companies from Germany. The bill is regarded as so crude and absurd that it is not likely to pass.

Archbishop Walsh's Advancement.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—The Rome correspondent of The Chronicle says that believing that the accession of Gibbons is certain to result in Home Rule, and in accordance with the urgings of the American prelates, the Pope has decided to bestow the red hat on Archbishop Walsh.

Snow Wrecks a Train.

BUDA PESTH, Dec. 8.—During the snowstorm at Pradesanod a railway train came into collision with a snowplow and was badly wrecked. A number of the passengers and 10 of the railway employes were seriously injured.

Britain's Decreased Trade.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—The returns issued by the Board of Trade for last month show that imports decreased £4,060,000 and the exports decreased £240,000 as compared with those of November last year.

A TROLLEY DISASTER.

A Team of Horses Stepped on the Wire and Died.

HAMILTON, Dec. 8.—A team of horses belonging to a backman named Connell was killed by the breaking of a trolley wire of the electric car last night.

Western Traffic Blocked.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—A severe snow storm is raging throughout the west, and traffic is being blocked.

"It Cured Mother."
A Man Made Happy.
GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Lymon's Vegetable Discovery I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all it claims.

Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicines, herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, soreness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under the use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and can be put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion is occasioned by want of action in the biliary ducts, loss of vitality in the stomach to secrete the gastric juices, which without digestion cannot go on; also, being the principal cause of Headache. Carmelee's Vegetable Pills taken before going to bed, for a while, never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr. F. W. Ashdown, Ashdown, Ont., writes:—"Parmele's Pills are taking the lead against ten other makes which I have in stock."

The best form in which electricity is embodied is Dr. Franklin's Electric Oil, a sovereign remedy. A. Mayhew, Merchant, Warkworth, writes:—"I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Dr. Franklin's Electric Oil, and it is unanimously by the public one of the best medicine they have ever used; it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc., and is ever by of the greatest confidence."

HE DID NOT ELOPE.
With Miss Wyllie of Toronto, and Has Written Her To Say So.
DETROIT, Dec. 8.—In the affair of the woman who suicided recently at San Diego, Cal., and who was at first believed to be Miss Wyllie of Toronto, who had eloped, a Cleveland Leader reporter interviewed yesterday John G. Longfield, supposed to have eloped with Miss Wyllie. He said:
"I have been in Cleveland since I left Detroit. Miss Wyllie was in Detroit when I left and I did not hear from her until two weeks ago. She was then in Toronto.
"I have received two letters from her. To-day I got a letter from my wife and also newspapers from Detroit, stating that I had eloped with Miss Wyllie. I have written Miss Wyllie a letter, directed to the general postoffice in Toronto, asking her to write to her relatives.
"So you see I did not elope with Miss Wyllie and she did not commit suicide in California."

TOW BARN DESTROYED.
The Preston Fire Brigade Prevented a Greater Loss.
BERLIN, Ont., Dec. 8.—About 6.30 last night the sky was illuminated in the direction of Doon and word was received shortly after that Perine's mills were on fire.
A number of our citizens thereupon hired rigs and drove to the scene of the fire. Rumor that the mills were on fire was incorrect, as only one of the large barns called tow barns in which straw was kept was on fire and was burning fiercely, and as the building was of frame and its contents very inflammable it was soon reduced to ashes, notwithstanding that the Preston firemen, who had been telephoned for, did all in their power to save it.
By the efficient work of the Preston firefighters the flames were prevented from spreading to the neighboring buildings.
The loss on the building and contents is very large, being estimated at $15,000. The loss is pretty well covered by insurance.

THE MAFIA AGAIN.
One of the Assassins Reveals Some Important News.
DENVER, Col., Dec. 8.—William C. Sawers, a French creole under arrest here for burglary, confessed yesterday that he had a hand in the murder of Chief of Police Hennessy in New Orleans, which was followed by the lynching of a number of Italians, and led to diplomatic difficulties with Italy.
Sawers said he roomed with four members of the secret society in New Orleans. He was present at the meetings when plans of revenge were made against the chief of police. He heard their oaths and swear their secrets. He went with the murderers on the night of the murder, and was with them when under cover they fired the fatal shot.

GULPED A SHAWL PIN.
Prompt Action by a Toronto Doctor Saves the Life of a Child.
TORONTO, Dec. 8.—About 8 o'clock last night a 19-year-old child of Mr. Nichols of Parliament street, swallowed a shawl pin about three inches long and having a wax head. The head of the pin descended into the upper part of the trachea, producing intense irritation, and in the attempt to cough it up the pin became imbedded in the soft membrane of the pharynx, the head resting in the windpipe.
The parents became almost frenzied at the frantic and convulsive efforts of the child to remove the obstacle, the rapid swelling of the tissues and the apparent strangulation of their little one. Dr. William Kennedy of 1357 South Sixteenth street, a graduate of Toronto (Ont.) School of Medicine, Victoria University, was called in, and by his boldness in action and dexterity saved the child. The doctor snapped the pin in two, taking up the lower half with the head on, and then withdrew the part in the larynx, to the immediate relief of the child and joy of the parents.

FOUND IN THE BAY.
Sam Durnan's Body Yesterday Recovered at the Island.
TORONTO, Dec. 8.—Four weeks ago on a stormy night Sam Durnan left the city for his Island home in a small rowboat. Next morning his skiff was found on the western sandbar; but notwithstanding a thorough search no further trace of Durnan could be found. His friends, with a few exceptions, gave him up for dead. Yesterday their fears were confirmed by the finding of the missing man's body.
As the ferry steamer Clark Brothers was nearing Hanlan's Point on her first trip yesterday morning, Captain Mullins saw a body floating in Blockhouse Bay. Esplanade Constable Williams was notified and in the afternoon he went over and recovered the body, which proved to be that of the unfortunate Durnan.

"IMPOTENT MENACE."

President Harrison's unfair arraignment of Canada and threats of commercial war against Canada have been felicitously termed by the London Morning Post a flourish of impotent menace against Canada, and will cause rejoicing amongst Canadians that Mr. Harrison failed of re-election.

So petty are the items in Mr. Harrison's bill of complaint against the Dominion that his outbreak will have the effect of uniting our people in support of a Government who have evidently done their duty, and of strengthening the public faith in the future of our country, which, according to Mr. Harrison, has not only transacted its own business successfully, but has made heavy inroads into the carrying trade of the United States, and bids fair in a distance that country in competition for the trade of China and Japan.

If those who applaud Mr. Harrison's attack upon the Dominion doubt that it will be resented by the people of Canada, the following extracts from the Grit press will convince to the contrary. The Globe says:

It is not difficult to understand that our neighbors have more than once been irritated that their negotiations with respect to matters of interest to Canadians have not been left altogether in the somewhat luke-warm charge of British negotiators. The insistence of Canada on what she considered important rights was doubtless found somewhat inopportune by the United States negotiators. The President calls these demands for what are considered our just rights "unreasonable and unfriendly objections and protests." One of the controversies in which our alleged unreasonable and unfriendly objections and protests were lodged was that with respect to the Behring sea seal fisheries. All that need be said with respect to that is that the matter is now under the scrutiny of a board of international arbitrators. The decision of that body will be a verdict as to the reasonableness or unreasonableness of Canadian objections and protests. If they were reasonable they cannot in truth be described as unfriendly. The property and liberty of Canadian citizens are involved in the case, and to the protection of these no government can afford to be indifferent.

The Mail is rather more outspoken in behalf of Canada, for it says:

Probably the most serious conduct of which the Canadians are guilty in the message is the statement that the American "negotiations with "Great Britain have continuously been thwarted and retarded by unreasonable and unfriendly objections from Canada." It is not at all improbable that the Canadian Government has expressed its views on subjects of international import. This, of course, it has a perfect right to do. If its views do not coincide with those of the United States, it does not necessarily follow that it is unreasonable or unfriendly. The Americans do not agree with Great Britain on many issues, the Behring Sea question for example. Had Lord Salisbury reported to Parliament during the progress of that dispute that the Americans were unfriendly and unreasonable because they would not promptly adopt his opinions he would have destroyed himself as a statesman. But it is very disappointing to find Canada charged with "unreasonable and unfriendly objections" to the settlement of disputes as for example that relating to the fisheries, when it was the United States, and not Canada, that rejected the fishery settlement which Mr. Cleveland, on behalf of the American people, characterized as eminently just and satisfactory. Mr. Harrison passes from his general condemnation of Canada to particulars, instancing the canal toll trouble, which was undoubtedly unfortunate. He proposes that the United States shall render itself independent of the Dominion by building a deep water canal on the American side of the Niagara river, and another from Lake Ontario to the Hudson. This is a somewhat expensive way of settling a question which will undoubtedly settle itself before navigation opens next year. But the magnitude of the scheme which the President proposes, ought to convince our neighbors of the value to them of the Canadian canals which they use and the Canadian taxpayer builds.

Mr. Harrison is an angry man because of his defeat; and his successful opponents are not likely to follow his counsel. At the same time, it is idle to expect from them anything but legislation in the interest of their own country according to their ideas, which happily differ in many respects from those of the Republican party.

BY A CRAZED ADMIRER.

A CANADIAN WOMAN MURDERED AT SEATTLE.

He Then Killed Himself—She Was Mrs. Mary A. Storey From Brampton, Ont. He Was Charles Rogers Moulton.—Her Husband Was Cruel and Left Her.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 8.—A despatch from Seattle, Washington, says: "A sensational tragedy occurred at a late hour last night. Charles Rogers Moulton, aged 32, shot and instantly killed Mrs. Mary S. Storey, about the same age, and the leader of the musical circles, and then put a bullet through his own brain. He had long pleaded a hopeless suit for her hand and frequently threatened to kill her if she did not yield.

Mrs. Storey's two children were asleep in an adjoining room when the tragedy occurred. She had just returned from the opera and had gone to her room, when he followed her, and being again rejected shot her and then killed himself.

Married at Brampton.

Mrs. Storey was married at Brampton, Ont., where her father, Rev. Canon Johnson, was stationed many years. Her husband travelled for a Guelph house, and a few years after their marriage they went to Montreal to live, where family jars were frequent.

After a time she left Storey and returned to her father's home at Brampton with her three children. Later she went to Ottawa, where she had a large class in music, but her husband making his appearance there she went to Seattle.

The murdered woman had a large number of acquaintances throughout Canada, being especially well known in musical circles. She had two brothers and two sisters, the two former being employed as manager and assistant manager of Memphis Cotton Seed Oil Works.

One of her sisters, Nellie, is the wife of Walter Murphy, a prominent lawyer at Brampton, Ont., and the other, Emma, is the wife of Thomas Ussher, formerly receiving teller of the Bank of Hamilton at Hamilton.

Mrs. Storey's father gave up preaching a few months ago on account of age and is now boarding at the Crawford House in Windsor.

The Storeys were married 14 years ago, and the youngest child, a girl now 9 years of age, is living with the grandfather in Windsor.

Storey, who is now believed to be in San Francisco, is the eldest son of a wealthy land owner in England, but for his cruel treatment of his wife was severely reprimanded by his father several times and finally disinherited, his portion of the estate being held in trust for his three children.

GEORGE GOULD'S WEALTH.

Because He Is a Worker His Father Bequeathed Him $5,000,000.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The following is an abstract of the will and codicils of the late Jay Gould.

The original will is dated Dec. 24, 1885, during the life of his wife, Helen D. Gould. It made various provisions for her benefit, which failed of effect by reason of her death before the death of her husband. After, and in consequence of her death, Mr. Gould on the 16th day of February, 1889, executed the first codicil of his will, making such changes as became necessary by the death of his wife. A second and a third codicil to his will were executed on Nov. 21, 1892.

First, there is given to his sister, Mrs. Northrop and her daughters, the three lots of ground in Camden, N.J., on which his sister lives. There is also a specific bequest to Mrs. Northrop of $25,000 and the further sum of $2,000 annually.

To his sisters Mrs. Anna G. Hough and Mrs. Elizabeth Palen, and to his brother, Abraham Gould, is given $25,000 each and also the further sum of $2000 annually during their lives.

To his daughter, Helen M. Gould, he gives the house in which he lived, No. 579 Fifth-avenue, and all the contents.

To his son, Edwin, he gives the house, No. 1 East 47th-street, with contents.

To his daughter Helen he also gives, until his youngest child shall arrive at age, the residence in Irvington and also the sum of $6000 per month, stating that this was done in the expectation that his minor children, Anna and Frank J., as well as his son Howard, will, during period above provided, for be making their home with the daughter Helen.

To his grandson, Jay Gould, son of George J. Gould, he gives $500,000, to be handled in trust by George J. Gould, with authority to apply the same to support and education of the said grandson, and to pay the income of the same to him at the age of 25, one-quarter at the age of 30 and the remaining one-half at 35, with power to pay the same at earlier periods in the discretion of his father.

To his son George J. Gould he makes a bequest in the following words:

My beloved son, George J. Gould, having developed a remarkable business ability and having for 12 years devoted himself entirely to my business, and during the past five years taken entire charge of all my difficult interests, I hereby fix the value of his services at $5,000,000, payable as follows:

Five hundred thousand dollars in cash, less the amount advanced by me for the purchase of a house for him in Fifth-avenue, New York City; $500,000 in Missouri Pacific 6 per cent. mortgage bonds, $500,000 in St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern Railway consolidated 5 per cent. bonds, $500,000 in Missouri Pacific Railway trust 6 per cent. bonds, 10,000 shares of Manhattan Railway stock, 10,000 shares of Western Union stock and 10,000 shares of Missouri Pacific stock, all to be taken and treated as worth par.

He appoints as executors and trustees of his will his sons George J. Gould, Edwin Gould and Howard Gould and his daughter Helen M. Gould. No bonds to be required of the executors and trustees.

George J. Gould and Helen M. Gould are appointed guardians of Anna M. Gould and Frank J. Gould during their minority.

All the rest of his estate is devised and bequeathed to said executors and trustees in trust, first, to divide the same into six equal parts or shares, and to hold and invest one of such shares for each of his said children.

There is a provision that if any of his children shall marry without consent of the majority of the executors and trustees then the share allotted to such child shall be reduced one-half.

Mexico's Secretary Dead.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 8.—Secretary of State Campeus is dead.

HE WAS HEARTBROKEN.

He Blew Out His Brains—The Girl From Oxley, Ont.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 8.—George A. Frout, a young man living with his parents at 118 Eighteenth-street, committed suicide in a sensational manner last night. About 8 o'clock he came down stairs, broke open his father's safe, procured a revolver, with which he blew out his brains. The following note was left in explanation:

"Don't blame Carrie. She will explain all. Ask Neal to pick out the pall-bearers from the club. Good-bye to all. I'll be better off. GEORGE."

The Carrie referred to is Miss Carrie Wright, employed in the Sun Fire Insurance office. Her parents live at Oxley, Ont., 40 miles from Windsor, where her father is a wealthy farmer, and she is a cousin of Etta Wright, the sweetheart of Fred H. Kelly, murdered in Caldwell's drug store.

Miss Wright's explanation of the tragedy is that she refused to marry Frout because she was engaged to a young man in Kingsville.

THE WRITS ARE ISSUED.

NOMINATIONS WILL BE MADE ON DECEMBER 21.

Professor Saunders Resigned as Director of the World's Fair Hon. John Carling May Succeed Him.—A Commission Engrossed in the French Language.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—The formal swearing in of the new ministers took place yesterday. All the ministers were present with the exception of Hon. Frank Smith and Hon. C. H. Tupper, who is now on his way home from England, and is not expected to reach here before Monday or Tuesday next.

His Excellency came to his office in the eastern block shortly before half-past 3, and about the same time all the ministers, old and new, assembled in the ante-room of the council chamber and, headed by Sir John Thompson, proceeded to the Governor-General's office, where Messrs. Carran, Clarke Wallace and J. F. Wood took the oath of office as Solicitor-General, Comptroller of Customs and Comptroller of Inland Revenue respectively. Such of the old ministers as have new portfolios assigned to them also took the oath of office in their new positions.

Hon. J. C. Patterson, late Secretary of State, who was attended by Mr. Catellier, Under-Secretary of State, who had with him a large tin box containing the Great Seal, personally surrendered the seal of office, which was as formally handed to Hon. John Costigan, the new Secretary of State, who received it to the safe keeping of Mr. Catellier, by whom it was solemnly carried back to the Department of State and safely locked up again.

That part of the ceremony being over His Excellency proceeded to the Council Chamber, where Hon. A. R. Angers and Mr. W. B. Ives were sworn in as Privy Councillors, and afterwards took the oaths of office as Minister of Agriculture and President of the Privy Council. Hon. J. A. Chapleau was then sworn in as Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, after which His Excellency withdrew and the new council proceeded to hold its first meeting, the greater part of the business transacted being routine.

A Commission in French.

The commission of Lieutenant-Governor Chapleau, which was signed by His Excellency and attested by Sir John Thompson, as Attorney-General of Canada, is quite a work of art in its way, being a beautiful specimen of penmanship. It is the work of Mr. Drouin of the Department of State and has the distinction of being the first commission to a Lieutenant-Governor engrossed in the French language. Indeed it is only the third commission in that language issued from the Department of State since Confederation, the first being to Mr. Gobeil, Deputy Minister of Public Works, and the second to Mr. Roy, secretary of the Department of Public Works.

It is said that Hon. Mr. Ouimet wished to have his commission as Minister of Public Works also in French, but was a little too late, as it had been engrossed and registered in English before he spoke about it.

Returning Officers.

The returning officers are: Brockville, David Hannah; West York, Donald Mackenzie; Montreal Centre, James P. Clarke.

Slavin Must Hang.

It is understood that the petition for clemency in the case of Slavin now under sentence to be hanged on the 16th instant for the murder of Constable Davey in Cornwall, has been under consideration and His Excellency has decided that the law must be allowed to take its course.

The Writs Issued.

No writs has been lost in the issue of the writs in Lennox, Centre, Sherbrooke, West York and Brockville. Nominations will take place on the 21st and polling, if any, a week later, but it is not thought likely that either Messrs. Curran, Ives, Wallace or Wood will be opposed.

Prof. Saunders Resigned.

Professor Saunders has handed in his resignation as director of the World's Fair, the state of his health not permitting him to continue the work. In this connection it is rumored that Hon. John Carling will be appointed Honorary Commissioner, retaining his seat in Parliament, as done by Hon. Adam Brown in the case of the Jamaica Exhibition.

Exhibitions of Art.

The Executive Commissioner to the Chicago World's Fair has been informed by the secretary of the Royal Canadian Academy that the exhibition from which selections will be made for the Canadian art exhibition at Chicago will open in Montreal on Feb. 26. The academy has appointed Messrs. Robert Harris and Mr. Brymner of Ottawa and Mr. Homer Watson of Doon, Ont., the Selecting Committee.

Preparations are also being made for an exhibition in Toronto under the auspices of the Ontario Society of Artists, but the date has not yet been fixed.

A HIGH FLYER.

And There Are Sad People in Hamilton and Dundas Who Mourn For Their Money.

HAMILTON, Dec. 8.—A few weeks ago C Willis McAllister arrived in the city and opened a legal and collecting agency in handsome apartments in King street east. He employed a couple of clerks and received his clients in a handsomely appointed office, flowered with gilt carpet, the walls covered with maroon paper, electric lights in artistic globes hung promiscuously about and some of the finest furniture decorating the foreground.

His business consisted principally of getting $10 subscriptions to his agency from people here and in Dundas. He got quite a number. A week ago he went away to Quebec, he said. Yesterday his creditors got impatient and cleaned out all the furniture.

The Soo Canal Closed.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Dec. 8.—St. Mary's Falls Canal closed after the greatest season in its history. The freight which passed through this year reached 11,241,000 tons, an increase of 2,325,000 tons over last year. Every important article of commerce shows an enormous increase.

Grain increased 61 per cent., flour 43 per cent. and iron ore 38 per cent.

Life Was Not Sweet.

PETERBORO, Ont., Dec. 8.—John Doherty took his life this morning by cutting his throat with a dirk knife. He rose from bed, went into the woodshed and committed the deed. He died before aid was summoned. He was a prominent town official for many years.

Snow in Nebraska.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 8.—Snow has been falling here since 1 o'clock last night. Street car traffic has been entirely abandoned. The snow is accompanied by a high wind, and there is a prospect of a blizzard. Many trains are late and some have been abandoned.

A BAD OLD SALT.

He Evidently Looks Upon Murder As His Business.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 8.—Capt. Samuel Smith, the murderer of George Neal, the 16-year-old boy of Coronado Islands, on Friday last, has made a full confession of the crime.

He says he brained the boy with a hatchet, afterwards casting him into the sea. The discharge of the rifle he ascribes to an accident, but admits that Neal was not dead when thrown overboard, but cried out for help.

In rehearsing his part of the tragedy Smith displayed no feeling. He says he intended to destroy Silberry also, but when he got away with Neal he thought he could get along with the other boy.

The only reason he assigns for the crime is that the boys had set the small boat adrift.

Harper's Weekly.

ILLUSTRATED.

HARPER'S WEEKLY is acknowledged as standing first among illustrated weekly periodicals in America. It occupies a place between that of the hurried daily paper and that of the less time-ly monthly magazine. It includes both literature and news, and presents with equal force and felicity the real events of current history and the imaginative themes of fiction. On account of its very complete series of illustrations of the World's Fair, it will be not only the best guide to the great Exposition, but also its best souvenir. Every public event of general interest will be fully illustrated in its pages. Its contributions being from the best writers and artists in this country, it will continue to excel in literature, news, and illustrations, all other publications of its class.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and sure cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50 cents a package.

Children always Enjoy It.

DALTON'S FAIR

FRONT STREET.

Santa Claus' Headquarters.

Our endeavors to make the Fair headquarters for Christmas supplies is more marked this fall than at any previous time. Our store, though large, is not sufficient to accommodate the great crowd at Christmas times. We would therefore urge you to make your selections while the time is ample and avoid the crush at Christmas time. We have just received 100 cases of foreign goods, such as albums, dolls, scent brushes, hair brushes, purses, fancy china cups and saucers, vases, jewellery, handsome leather side bags, glass tea sets, beautifully engraved; our assortment of American glassware must be seen to be appreciated. Never have we been able to offer such bargains in albums, ladies' work boxes, jewel cases, perfume cases, shaving cases, brush and comb cases, games from 5c up, playing cards from 5c up, beautiful whisk holders all the latest styles from 49c up. We have a something new in dolls' dressers, dolls' cradles, children's extension tables, sets of furniture, toy picture books, penny books, magic lanterns 45c up, steam engines, skates, dolls' carriages, children's sleds and cutters strong and durable at lowest prices, novels by the best authors 10c worth 25c, pocket knives and leather carriers on dolls a variety to choose from. But, perhaps, one of the greatest drives is a special line of extra quality writing paper, 5 quires (120 sheets) for 17c. We will not attempt to enumerate further, but would invite you to call at

IT IS not often that an opportunity occurs to get Boots and Shoes at bankrupt prices that are of as good quality as the Ontario Shoe Company of Berlin stock, which is now being sold at the Fuller Store. No Boots made in this country are more solid and substantial. You can buy them cheap while the sale lasts.

When kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull ache, pain in the kidney's or feeling of Dodd's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney disease that a persistent use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

The general verdict of the smokers of Canada is that "Myrtle Navy" is the finest tobacco they have ever used. There can be no mistake upon this point, for it is proved by this tangible evidence. The large demand for this tobacco shows it to be true, and the character of the demand gives further proof. It has never been of the spasmodic kind, up one month and down the next. It has been a sustained and constantly increasing demand. The unsurpassed quality of the tobacco accounts for this.

Another Conscience Eased.

A Twinge of Scrupulousness Cancels a Debt of Forty Years Standing.

A few days since we recorded the cancellation to the estate of the late Nathan Jones of a debt of fifty years' standing, and now another conscience-stricken debtor comes to the fore by remitting to the estate of the late Dr. Holden a debt of five dollars, contracted forty years ago, with an additional five dollars for interest. Several of our merchants would like debtors to make a note of the above, and not allow their indebtedness to accumulate for half a century, as some of them appear inclined to do.

Coal Oil.

We beg to assure the Montreal Star that the Globe is absolutely, unalterably and unequivocally opposed to the coal oil tax. —Toronto Globe.

We venture to ask the esteemed Globe a question or two.

The tax on coal oil was the same under the Mackenzie Government as it is now. Was the Globe then "absolutely, unalterably and unequivocally opposed to the coal oil tax?"

If not, why not?

If the esteemed Globe supports or tacitly approves a tax imposed by a Reform Government, and becomes absolutely, unalterably and unequivocally opposed to that tax when a Conservative Government attains to power, does it not expose itself to a charge of inconsistency?

The Spectator would be painfully affected by an exhibition of inconsistency on the part of the esteemed Globe.

The Conservative Government has removed the tax on tea which the Mackenzie Government imposed.

It has removed the tax on coffee which the Mackenzie Government imposed.

It has removed the tax on sugar which the Mackenzie Government retained.

It has removed the tax on tinplates which the Mackenzie Government retained.

Would it not be well for the esteemed Globe to give the Conservative Government some credit on account of the taxes it has removed, instead of condemning it because it retains this one Mackenzie tax?—Spectator.

Our Cheese Trade.

Among the many interesting items in the table of imports of agricultural products into Great Britain, just prepared by Mr. Roper, assistant statistician, and classified as from "United States," "Canada," "Other Possessions" and "Other Foreign Countries," the item of cheese is conspicuous. For 1890 and 1891 the imports of this article into Great Britain from the United States were 72,694,648 lbs., and from Canada 96,627,853 lbs., or 20,935,205 pounds more from Canada than from the United States, or say a per centage of 33.01 from the United States and 42 21 from Canada. At one time Canada imported cheese from the United States for its own consumption. Now the tables are turned and Canada beats the United States out of sight in exports of cheese to Great Britain. Looking at these figures recalls the statement made by Mr. Adam Brown, ex-M.P., to a convention of the Dairy Association held here, that before going to England in 1866, he induced parties to start a cheese box factory in Ingersoll so that cheese could be safely exported, and that he visited cities in England and Scotland, and either secured orders for trial shipments, or arranged for consignments in London, Bristol, Wolverhampton, Shrewsbury, Edinburgh and Glasgow, and these were the first shipments of cheese made from Canada bearing a Canadian brand on the boxes. The trade grew steadily until it has assumed its present large proportions. —Ottawa Corr. Empire.

"ROB ROY."

The performance of this fine old Scottish drama at the opera house last night by Mr. Wilson Rennie and company, was an excellent one, and fully up to expectation. Mr. Rennie was an ideal Rob Roy; Mr. Murdock was an admirable Baille Nicol Jarvie; and Mr. Henry E. Walton was an artistic Donal Creature, while the singing of Miss Lina John and Mr. J. W. Grenville was highly pleasing. Miss Juliet Durand was rather disappointing as Helen McGregor, but the cast, as a whole, was good. The scenery was fair, the costumes generally appropriate, and the orchestral music was much enjoyed.

Board of Education.

The Public School members of the Board of Education who will have to seek re-election from their constituents this month, as their term has expired, are: Foster Ward, Mr. Jno. Martin; Samson Ward, Mr. S. A. Moore; Ketchewan Ward, Mr. Wm. Johnson; Baldwin Ward, Dr. Nash; Bleecker Ward, Mr. T. McGinnis; Coleman Ward, Mr. S. T. Harris; Murney Ward, Mr. I. Diamond. High School Trustees: Messrs. T. Wills and Jas. Mackenzie. In addition to this, the Board has declared the seats of Messrs. J. H. Simpson and E. Hayne vacant, owing to their inability to attend. It is understood that some of the above named gentlemen will not seek re election, so that the approaching elections may make quite a change in the personnel of the Board.

A Slight Blaze.

Mr. Kenny resides in a frame house on the corner of Pinnacle and Campbell streets. A portion of his building is occupied by Mr. R. Cripps. At about 1 o'clock last night the former saw smoke issuing from the room occupied by Mr. Cripps. Kenny went in and found a small stand on fire, which he threw out, and extinguished the flames before much damage was done, and without causing an alarm.

The Rob Roy Company.

This company was to have played at Lindsay to night, but have cancelled their engagement. It will visit Uxbridge, however, to play at Fort Hope to morrow evening. Although this company place upon the board a first-class performance and each member of the company is an artist, they have not been accorded that patronage which they merit.

CONSECON.

Church Re-opening.

The members of the Church of England in the parish of Ameliasburg have a right to thank God and take courage. Trinity church, Consecon, after being closed for many years, a refuge for birds and bats, was re-opened on Tuesday, December 6th, by the Rev. Rural Dean Loucks, Rector of Picton. Since the appointment of the new rector, Rev'd J. W. Forster, service has been held in Kilip's Hall. The service was at 2:30 p.m.; special lessons and psalms were used—psalms 84, 122, 132; 1st lesson, 1 Kings, viii., 22—63 v. 2nd lesson, Heb. x., 19—26 v. The Rural Dean took for his text the 1st part of the 4th verse of Psalm 100, and preached an appropriate sermon, one that will be long remembered by those privileged to hear it.

In the evening, the ladies of the church gave a recital in Kilip's hall, where a splendid programme and a feast of good things were provided. If applause is any proof of appreciation and success, our amateurs are to be congratulated. Much yet remains to be done to the church, a chancel will have to be built and other necessary improvements made before the restoration will be completed.

Harrison's Hostility.

(Montreal Star.)

To check the prosperity of the Canadian lines and drive our commerce from the seas, he proposes a double policy of retaliation and subvention of American fishing. The latter is easier for a retiring President, leaving high taxes and an empty treasury, to suggest, than it would be for an incoming executive, pledged to lower the tariff and compelled to fill up the public purse, to carry out. Altogether it is a rather truculent and expensive programme that Mr. Harrison outlines for his successor. He urges a continuation of tariff and financial war in the face of an overwhelming vote of the people for the cultivation of "peace and the arts of peace."

Canada's sin is that her five million people have made a gallant fight for political and commercial independence, driven thereto by the rapacious jealousy of that portion of the American nation which Mr. Harrison represents. It is sublimely ridiculous to charge a people with the aggression of fighting on the defensive. In this very "message," in which he talks as if Canada had assailed the United States at every point, he calmly enough admits that his Government would not consent to as much as a commercial truce between us until we were willing to surrender our financial autonomy to them. It was they who abrogated the Elgin reciprocity treaty. It has been they who have periodically piled hostile duty on hostile duty, compelling us to retort or to capitulate; they invaded our Atlantic fisheries, and then denied similar rights in the Behring Sea; they have been the aggressors from the first, and all through; and the only hypothesis upon which they can justify their course and bear off without a shark the assumption of grievance that they attempt, is that Canadian independence is a moral wrong in the face of the ambition of the Republic. They may make a pretence of imagining that five million Canadians are originating attacks upon seventy million Americans, and under cover of this thin pretence talk of "retaliation;" but every blow they strike will be an act of unfair and bullying aggression, an addition to wrongs put upon us which we now by no means adequately resent, and a return to the ancient doctrine that the bigger has a right to tame and plunder and "annex" the smaller. This, however, is neither modern ethics nor, it may be added with an eye on Quarantine Heights and Chateauguay, Canadian experience.

The Chinese Yule Tree.

With us even the yule tree has degenerated into a toy; with the Chinese the tree is still a tremendous reality—so real, in fact, that its branches have obscured their spiritual sunlight, and left them in the darkness of superstition. It is not strange that so idolatrous a nation should in this one case have so much refrained from the actual representation of an idea exercising so powerful a control over their hearts and imaginations? Even in idol procession, where the sacred dragon himself is manoeuvred, the peach-tree seldom appears on any of the numerous floats which constitute the chief glory of these pageants. Yet, despite the great mystery which shrouded the rites of the Cybele, the pine of the Eleusinian goddess was openly carried through the streets of Rome when her cult became the state religion, and an excellent representation of what the Chinese myrtle would immediately recognize as corresponding to his notion of the Tree of Life were once a distinct feature of the Lord Mayor's Show in London. From the branches of that tree still floated the cords of hell—although the giant guardians long and Magog have been relegated to Guildhall—and its significance was still further accented by the presence of that type of self-sacrifice, the pelican destroying herself for her young. Throughout all Christendom the axe is now rudely laid to the roots of the unhappy fir or beech, their best service being deemed the amusement of our children and the gladdening of Christmas tide. In China, however, the beautiful peach-tree is permitted to freely scatter its blossoms on the air of spring as unmolested as if on holy Mount Tu Shih itself.—Harper's Magazine for December.

GRASPING, AVARICIOUS CAPITALISTS

ARE WHAT OUR COMPETITORS CALL US!

GRASPING, because we want the trade of the earth! AVARICIOUS, because we hang on to the almighty dollar! CAPITALISTS, beause we have the money to tear them to pieces in the wholesale market!

Well, you can see what it amounts to. Success ever brings envy and distrust. If we were only half as successful, we would be feared only half as much as we are.

Our push and principle alarm our competitors. Our business grip make them wince. Our big sales excite their envy. Our popularity is what they cannot block and must put up with.

Talk of big stocks! Shout of immense piles of goods! GOUGH knows what big stocks mean. Throughout Ontario, in the best towns, GOUGH has clothing stores. It is a notorious fact that he does the trade of the town. He buys cheaper and carries more goods than all his competitors combined.

His last great purchase of wholesale stock at 60c. on the $ is a paralyzer. This stock was manufactured by H. Shorey & Co., Montreal, and amounts to over $20,000. Owing to the immense stock already in our main store, we were compelled to open another store next to Dunnet's Dry Goods House. We could not get it all into our main store.

Remember, within six weeks we have captured two stocks, amounting to over $56,000, and when we say we are in a position to sell these goods at less than the ordinary merchant buys for, we can prove it. Ask the railroad people who receives the most goods and they will tell you GOUGH, by ten times. Notwithstanding the low price of wheat and cry of hard times with other merchants, we are head and shoulders ahead of the best sales on record.

Islands Owned by England.

A Vast Amount of Territory Scattered all Over the Globe.

The British empire is the largest owner of island territory. To begin with, according to the census commissioners, Great Britain and Ireland comprise, in addition to the Isle of Man and the channel islands, more than 5,000 islands and islets, by far the greater number being uninhabited and, in very many instances, mere rocks. In the central Mediterranean, Great Britain possesses Malta, with Comino and Gozo. In the southern Atlantic ocean, Ascension, the group of which Tristan d'Acunha is the chief. Inaccessible island, the Falkland and Nightingale islands, South Georgia, and St. Helena. On the west coast of Africa, Lagos. In the Indian ocean, Socotra, Mauritius and the Seychelles islands. In the east are many, including Cyprus, the Andaman and Nicobar islands, Ceylon and the Maldive and Laccadive groups. In Canada Great Britain owns Prince Edward Island, Vancouver, the Queen Charlotte islands, Newfoundland, Cape Breton and Anticosti. The countless islands, islets and isolated rocks included in the West Indies, with the islands in Oceania, and, not least interesting, the group of 225, known as the Fiji islands, belong to Great Britain

Bank of England.

You never see a soiled Bank of England note. They are always white, new, and crisp, for the reason that a note is never issued from the bank a second time. When they find their way into the bank, new notes of the same number and the same denomination, of course, are issued in their stead. They are made from new white linen cuttings, never from anything that has been worn. So carefully is the paper prepared that even the number slips into the pulp made by each workman is registered on a dial by machinery, and the sheets are counted and booked to each person through whose hands they pass. They are made at Laverstroke, on the River Whit, in Hampshire, by a family named Portal, descending from a French Huguenot refugee, and have been made by the same family for more than 150 years. They are printed within the building, there being elaborate arrangements for making them, so that each note of the same denomination shall differ in some particular from the other.

A Born Lawyer.

A lawyer advertised for a clerk. The next morning his office was crowded with applicants—all bright, many valuable. He bade them wait until all should arrive, and then ranged them in a row and said he would tell them a story, note their comments, and judge from that whom he would choose.

"A certain farmer," began the lawyer, "was troubled with a red squirrel that got in through a hole in his barn and stole his seed corn. He resolved to kill the squirrel at the first opportunity. Seeing him go in at the hole one noon, he took his shotgun and fired away; the first shot set the barn on fire."

"Did the barn burn?" said one of the boys.

The lawyer, without answer, continued: "And, seeing the barn on fire, the farmer seized a pail of water and ran to put it out."

"Did he put it out?" said another.

"As he passed inside, the door shut to and the barn was soon in flames. When the hired girl rushed out with more water—"

"Did they all burn up!" said another boy.

The lawyer went on without answering: "Then the old lady came out, and all was noise and confusion, and everybody was trying to put out the fire."

"Did any one burn up!" said another.

The lawyer said: "There that will do; you have all shown great interest in the story." But silence, he said: "Now, my little men, what have you to say?"

The little fellow blushed, grew uneasy, and stammered out:

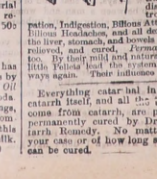

"I want to know what became of that squirrel; that's what I want to know."

"You'll do," said the lawyer; "you are my man; you have not been switched off by a confusion and a barn burning, and the hired girls and water pails. You have kept your eye on the squirrel."—Tact in Court.

PARKDALE, Ont., Feb. 27th, 1888.—Gentlemen, it gives me pleasure to let you know I have derived great benefit from the use of Norrilino. I have been a great sufferer from Neuralgia in the face, and last two years was quite a martyr to the malady. So soon as I observed the Norrilino advertised I obtained a bottle from our druggists Messrs. John Gray & Co., Parkdale, and the effect was marvellous; pain ceased and I can enjoy sound sleep at night, and rise refreshed. I cannot speak too highly of it and heartily recommend it. EASY TO TAKE—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Smallest, easiest, cheapest, best. They're tiny, sugar-coated, anti-bilious granules, a compound of refined and concentrated vegetable extracts. Without disturbance or trouble, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Sick and Bilious Headaches, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels are prevented, relieved, and cured. Permanently cured, too. By their mild and natural action, these little Pellets lead the system into natural ways again. Their influence lasts.

Everything catarrhal in its nature, catarrh itself, and all the troubles that come from catarrh, are perfectly and permanently cured by Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. No matter how bad your case or of how long standing, you can be cured.

When a Respirator Should be Used

Plenty of outdoor exercise is necessary during the winter if you would have good health; to take this will need some resolution, as the inclination is strong to remain indoor.

In certain conditions of health, too, the extremely cold or damp air cannot be breathed without risk, and then it is a RESPIRATOR should be used. Those of the most approved kind can be procured of

ORDERING AND REPAIRING DEPARTMENT

I am already very busy in the fur workrooms and would beg to advise those who think of ordering a New Fur Garment this season to call at once and secure the first selections of the Skins.

I would also suggest that you send in your Furs early for alterations, repairing and dyeing to avoid the rush of fur work in November and December.

Blotches Cured.

DEAR SIRS,—In 1890 my body was covered with blotches and I was at last induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters; by the time I had used 3½ bottles of it I was completely cured, and I cannot speak too highly of it.

MRS. JAMES DESMOND. Halifax, N. S.

Made With Skill.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skillful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

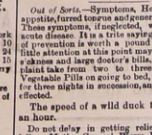

Out of Sorts—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and a doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

The speed of a wild duck is ninety miles an hour.

Do not delay in getting relief for the little folks. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is a pleasant cure as she spoke again.

BROOKE'S DAUGHTER.

BY

ADELINE SERGEANT,

Author of "A True Friend," etc, etc.

(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

He had the exasperating habit of treating kindness to himself with an air of condescension, as if he conferred a favor by accepting benefits. His smile of superiority hurt Mrs. Romaine.

'When you adopt that tone, Oliver, I hate you!' she cried.

'You are impulsive, Rosy—in spite of your years,' said Oliver, with his usual quietness. 'I assure you I do not wish to interfere; and you must set it down to brother's affection if I sometimes feel inclined to wonder what you mean to do.'

'To do! she inquired, looking around at him.

'Yes, to do. I don't understand you, that is all. Of course, it is not necessary that I should understand.'

Mrs. Romaine did not often change color, but she flushed scarlet now, and was glad for a moment that the room was almost dark. Yet, as her brother stood close to her, and the fire was sending up fitful flashes of ruddy light, she felt certain, on reflection, that he had seen that blush. This certainly imparted some humility to her voice as she spoke again.

'You know, Oliver, that I always like you to approve of what I am doing. I like you to understand. Of course, whatever I do is partly for your sake.'

'Is it?' said Oliver with a laugh. 'I shouldn't have thought it. As far as I can judge, you have been very careful to please yourself all through.'

There was a little silence. Then she said in a low tone,

'How have I pleased myself, I should like to know!'

'Do you want a plain statement of facts? Well, my dear, you know them as well as I do, though perhaps you don't know the light in which they present themselves to me. We three, you and Francis and I, were left to earn our own living at a somewhat early age. Francis became a banker's clerk, and you took to literature and governessing and general popularity. By a very clever stroke you managed to induce Professor Romaine to marry you. He was fifty and you were twenty-four. You did very well for yourself—twisted him round your little finger, and got him to leave you all his money—but really I don't see how this could be said to be for my sake.'

'Then you are ungrateful, Oliver. You were a boy of fourteen when I married, and what could you have done for Mr. Romaine and myself?'

'You forget, my dear,' said Oliver, smoothly, 'that I was never exactly dependent on you for a livelihood. I took scholarships at school and college, and there was a certain sum of money invested in the Funds for my other expenses. It was not a large sum, but it was enough. I have to thank you for some very pleasant weeks spent at your house during the holidays; but there was really no necessity for you to marry Peter Romaine in order to provide for my holidays.'

She winced under his tone of banter, but did not speak. She seemed resolved to let him say what he liked. Rosalind Romaine might not be perfect in all relations of life, but she was certainly a good sister.

'When a few years had elapsed,' her brother went on, in a light narrative tone, 'I'll grant that Romaine was of considerable service to us. He got Francis out of several scrapes, and he shoved me into a Government office, where the duties are not particularly onerous. Oh, yes, I owe some thanks to Romaine.'

'And none to me for marrying him?'

Oliver laughed. 'My dear Rosy,' he said, 'I have never mentioned before that I considered that you married him to please yourself.'

She shrugged her shoulders, but said nothing more.

'Romaine became useful to me, of course,' said Oliver reflectively; 'and then came the first extraordinary hitch. We met the Brookes—how many years ago—nearly twelve, I suppose; and you formed a gushing friendship with Lady Alice and her husband, especially with her husband.'

'Why do you rake up these old stories?'

'Because I want you to understand your position. You amazed me then, and you seem more than ever to amaze me now. You were attracted by Caspar Brooke—heaven knows why!—and you made no secret of the fact. You liked the man, and the man liked you. I don't know how far the friendship went—'

'There was nothing in it but the most ordinary innocent acquaintanceship!'

'Lady Alice did not think so. Lady Alice made a devil of a row about it, as far as I can understand. I gather that she threw the story blames you, Rosalind, for the quarrel and separation between husband and wife.'

'It was not my fault.'

'Oh, was it not? Well, perhaps not. At any rate the husband and wife separated quietly ten years ago. I don't know whether you hoped that Brooke would give his wife any justification for her suspicions—'

'Oliver, you are brutal! You insult me! I have never given you reason to think so ill of me.'

'I think of you,' said Oliver slowly, 'only as I think of all women. I don't suppose you are better or worse than the rest. As it happened the whole thing seemed to die down after the separation. Romaine whisked you off to Calcutta with him. Then he fell ill and you had to nurse him; you and your friend Brooke did not often meet. Then your husband died after a long illness, and you came here again three years ago—for what object?'

'I had no object but that of living in a part of London which was familiar to me—and of being amongst friends. You have no right at all to call me to account in this way.'

'So I said a few minutes ago. But you remarked that you wished me to understand and approve of your proceedings. I am only trying to get at your motives if you have any.'

Mrs. Romaine was tempted to say that she had no motives. But she did not think that Oliver would believe her.

'Here you are,' he went on in his soft, slow voice, 'in friendly—I might say familiar—relations with this man again. His wife still living, and as bitter against him as ever, but not likely to give him any pretext for a divorce. You can't marry him. Why do you provoke people to say ill-natured things about you by continuing so almost a friendship?'

'I don't think that any one would take the trouble to say ill-natured things about me, Oliver,' said Mrs. Romaine, forcing a smile. 'We are too convential, too advanced, now-a-days, for that kind of thing. Friendship between a man and woman is by no means the abnormal and unheard of thing that it used to be.'

'You are not so free as you think you are. You are still good-looking—still young. You cannot afford to defy the world. And I cannot afford to either. I don't mind a reasonable amount of laxity, but I do not want my sister to be the heroine of a scandal.'

'I think that you might trust me to take care of myself.'

'I would not say a word if Brooke were a widower. Although I don't like him, I acknowledge that he is the sort of big blundering brute that suits some women. But there's no chance with him, so why should you make a fool of yourself?'

Mrs. Romaine turned round with a fierce little gesture of contradiction, but restrained herself and did not speak for a minute or two.

'What do you want me to do?' she said at last in a breathless kind of way.

'Well, my dear Rosy, since you ask me, I should say that it would be far wiser to drop Brooke's acquaintance.'

'That is impossible.'

'And why impossible?'

'His daughter is coming to him for a year; he has been here to-night to ask me to call on her—to chaperone her sometimes.'

'So the man a fool!' said Oliver.

'I think,' Mrs. Romaine answered somewhat unsteadily, 'that Mr. Brooke never knew—exactly—that his wife was jealous of me.'

'Oh, that's too much to say. He must have known.'

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, a soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ar

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

For Bronchitis
"I never realized the good of a medicine so much as I have in the last few months, during which time I have suffered intensely from pneumonia, followed by bronchitis. After trying various remedies without benefit, I began the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and the effect has been marvelous, a single dose relieving me of choking, and securing a good night's rest."—F. A. Higginbotham, Gen. Store, Long Mountain, Va.

La Grippe
"Last Spring I was taken down with la grippe. At times I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breath seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and so sooner had I began taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid."—W. H. Williams, Cook City, S. Dak.

Lung Trouble
"For more than twenty-five years, I was a sufferer from lung trouble, attended with coughing so severe at times as to cause hemorrhage, the paroxysms frequently lasting three or four hours. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after taking four bottles was thoroughly cured. I can confidently recommend this medicine."—Franz Hofmann, Clay Centre, Kans.

THE AMERICAN TARIFF.

BI-METALLISM WOULD LEAD TO ITS DECREASE.

An American at the Monetary Conference Talks Plainly—Uncle Sam Wants to Multiply His Trade With the Whole World.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 9.—In the Monetary Conference yesterday Prof. Andrews, an American delegate, who is president of Brown University, was invited as a Democrat and personal friend of President elect Cleveland to inform the conference as to the probable attitude of the coming Washington Government towards silver.

Prof. Andrews said he hoped the idea that America was bent only upon increasing her national wealth and that she was merely acting as the servile creature of mine owners would forever be dismissed as being equally as absurd as the idea that American interest was mainly due to the distress a flicting the American monetary system. Continuing, Prof. Andrews said: "We have not and are not at present likely to have a dollar in silver beyond our needs in the United States. We have no idea of soliciting any favors from the peoples of Europe.

Uncle Sam's Trade Object.

"What we desire is as much to Europe's interest as to ours, and to multiply our trade with the world, to do a vaster business with China, Japan and Central and South America, and at the same time with Europe. This will never be successfully accomplished so long as two great groups of nations continue to drift apart.

"The evils of fluctuating exchange which beset England in her commerce with India, we also experience in our trading with our nearest neighbors, but we are determined not to accomplish a desirable end at the terrible cost of opening a similar chasm between ourselves and the nations of Europe.

"We will part company with Asia and South America rather than with you. We will not forever continue alone the task of sustaining the price of silver. If Europe is not enough interested in the matter to co-operate with us we will soon decrease our annual purchase of silver and begin to provide by recruiting our currency by issues of paper.

"The next Congress is nearly certain to open proceedure in that direction. We will not give up our gold. The time-honored monetary policy of the United States will never be changed with Mr. Cleveland's consent."

Referring to the tariff Prof. Andrews said it was obvious there was no surer way to lower the American tariff than for Europe and the United States to agree upon a policy favorable to silver as money. That alone would abate the incessant conflict for gold and leave the United States free to effect a generous reduction in the customs tariff.

In conclusion, Prof. Andrews said he thought some of the plans proposed to the conference were feasible, and if the delegates continued their deliberations with a due sense of their responsibility the conference would not fail to devise a measure of relief.

The best authorities state that when the conference adjourns next week it will be until the spring.

INSTANT ARREST.

Of Members of the Council of the Panama Canal Company Ordered.

PARIS, Dec. 9.—The declaration of the new mining rights in Chanchamayo Valley yesterday. It recalled the events that caused the recent political crisis and affirmed the intention of the Cabinet to aid the Chamber of Deputies by every means in its power to throw light upon the Panama Canal affair. Nevertheless, it continued, the Cabinet must affirm the principle of separation of the executive, legislative and judicial powers.

The Government had decided not to exceed the limits prescribed by the law. The chamber is requested to devote its attention to reforms in taxation.

The Chamber, by a vote of 306 to 104, adopted a resolution declaring confidence in the Government.

The Libre Parole says Bourgeois, Minister of Justice, has ordered the immediate arrest of the members of the council of the Panama Canal Co. who are charged with breach of trust.

The members of the company under indictment are Ferdinand de Lesseps, chairman of the Board of Directors; Charles de Lesseps, vice-chairman, and M. Fontanes and Bargo Cottu, directors.

The Chamber of Deputies by a vote of 432 to 89 adopted a motion declaring urgency for the consideration of M. Ramel's motion authorizing holders of Panama Canal bonds to form a syndicate to prosecute the persons who misappropriated the company's funds.

MRS. MAYBRICK IS SICK.

She Swears She Was Innocent of Moral Intent by Deed and Act.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Mrs. Maybrick is critically ill in Woking prison. On Tuesday the governor of the prison summoned the Baroness de Rodges, Mrs. Maybrick's mother, at Rouen, and she arrived yesterday and proceeded at once to the prison.

It was thought Mrs. Maybrick was dying, and the sacrament was administered to her. She made the last confession of a dying prisoner, which in case of death is legally attested and given to the prisoner's next of kin. Mrs. Maybrick swears she was innocent of moral intent by deed and act against the life of James Maybrick.

The Baroness de Rogues was only allowed to see her daughter for a short time. Mrs. Maybrick had several hemorrhages of the lungs which left her so weak that if they occur again she will surely die.

She has been suffering from these hemorrhages for six weeks. She has petitioned Herbert Asquith, the Home Secretary, to release her from prison before her disease becomes incurable.

The Kaiser's Philanthropy.

BERLIN, Dec. 9.—The Kaiser has designed a warship, of which a model has been constructed. In this several innovations are made in naval architecture.

To insure the health of officers and men the sleeping apartments are above deck, but in case of battle they can be removed in a few minutes.

Astonished Both Parties.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—The unanimity and fervid enthusiasm displayed at the Agricultural Conference which met in St. James Hall here yesterday in favor of protection and bi-metallism have alike astonished the Conservatives and Liberals.

Bringing the Spree Crowd Over.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—The steamer Havel sailed from Queenstown for New York yesterday with the passengers and cargo of the disabled steamer Spree.

HERE IT IS AGAIN:

This Time it Was Two Canadians Who Have Cut the Gas.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—A party of five Scandinavian travelers from Canada, who looked like well to do farmers, put up at the Home Made Hotel, No. 284 Greenwich street, Monday night, and on Tuesday afternoon two of them, Henry Burg and Peter Lund, were found dead in one bed in a small inside room on the third floor, suffocated by the gas, which was pouring from the open but unlighted burner. The men arrived at the hotel before supper time on Monday, and after registering from Canada went away, returning late at night somewhat the worse for liquor.

Their comrades, whose names appear on the register as C. Suskin, Charles Anderson and A. E. Anderson, slept in other rooms and came downstairs at about 8 o'clock in the morning and went out, but returned at 1 o'clock for a few minutes, when they took their leave of H. Buckley, the proprietor. They did not enquire for their friends. Only one of the three was able to speak English.

A chambermaid knocked repeatedly in the afternoon at the door occupied by Burg and Lund, but receiving no answer, reported the matter at the office and the door was broken open. Dr. Stevenson of the Chambers-street Hospital was called in, and he said that the men had been dead for several hours.

The dead men were about 35 years old and bore a strong facial resemblance to each other. They were large, well developed and fair. Both were dressed in exactly similar garments, even to the underclothing. Their clothes were new and of fairly good quality and had been purchased in various stores in St. Paul and Minneapolis. They had $4.68 between them, and railroad receipts which showed that they had come to the city by the West Shore road and that their baggage was to be delivered at the Inman pier, and an entry in a notebook showed that they had paid $114 for "tickets." All the suggestion is that they had secured passage on the steamship City of New York for Liverpool. Another entry was the address, "No. 115 Fourteenth-avenue, Minneapolis."

RESTORED TO LIFE.

GLENS FALLS, N.Y., Dec. 9.—A remarkable surgical operation was recently performed in the little village of Lyon Mountain. It was a case of the transfusion of chemical blood into the person of Mrs. Louise Christian by Drs. W. C. Thompson and J. H. O'Neil.

Mrs. Christian had been ill for a long time, and was apparently about to breathe her last, when the physicians decided to try transfusion of blood whose temperature and chemical constituents were exactly identical with human blood, less the organic part.

The two physicians, after exposing the radial artery under cocaine, pierced it with a hypodermic needle, to which was attached an improved syringe apparatus capable of forcing the chemical blood directly into the blood current of the patient's artery. The result of the injection was a decided improvement. The pulse lowered from 164 to 115 beats per minute in a very short time.

The patient is apparently on the road to complete recovery. It is claimed that this is the first time in the United States that transfusion has been directly injected into an artery.

GOLD IN NOVA SCOTIA.

A Big Discovery that Passes Anything Yet Disclosed There.

TRURO, Dec. 9.—Great excitement prevails here just now in consequence of a big discovery of gold at the Caribou mines, worked by the Truro Gold Mining Company, about 30 miles from here. The present discovery passes anything yet discovered in Nova Scotia, and is expected to turn out the biggest one of gold mines yet opened in Canada. The first crushing was 28 tons, and yielded over 103 ounces of gold. At a greater depth the next lot showed a most encouraging increase, the yield being 272 ounces from 22 tons of quartz, which shows a value by the official mint return of $5091, the total expense of mining and milling not exceeding $700. One month over $1000 per ton is coming out and more is being uncovered. This is not a pocket or nugget mine, as the strike gradually increased in richness and thickness and shows every indication of continuing to great depths. Many other leads are known by their croppings to intersect the mining area, but their richness is yet undetermined, being totally undeveloped.

TELEGRAPHIC OPERATORS.

There Are 183 Out of a Possible 200 Men Out.

OMAHA, Dec. 9.—With the exception of four operators every telegrapher employed by the Rock Island Railroad in Nebraska went out this morning at 10:30 in response to the order of Chief Ramsay. A large number of new operators have been sent out to take the place of the strikers, but the new men are not yet at work.

All Except Two on Strike.

TOPEKA, Ks., Dec. 9.—All the Rock Island operators have, except two who are not members of the Brotherhood, struck at noon yesterday in obedience to the order for a general strike.

General Superintendent Dunlap said: "I don't know how many men are out. Traffic has not been interfered with in the least. We were expecting a strike and were prepared for it." One of the strikers said: "We are out and will stay out until ordered back. There are 183 out of a possible 200 men out."

The Telegraphers' Query.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—The great point of interest in the telegraphers' strike is whether they will succeed in obtaining the active co-operation of other organizations of the train men. Notwithstanding the claim of the company that it has lost only 40 men, it was yesterday endeavoring to obtain 200 operators.

Chief Ramsay declared to-night that if the road employed non-union men it would force a strike upon other branches of the road, as the men would not consent to work with non-union operators.

Where They Did Not Strike.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Dec. 9.—A. P. Ward, Superintendent of Telegraph for the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern road, said last night that not an operator on the entire system has struck in response to the order sent out by Grand Chief Ramsay of the Telegraphers this morning, and he is confident none of them will.

The Color Problem.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 9.—Henry P. White of Kansas City, Kas., a member of the Board of Trade, has bought 1000 acres of land near that city on which he proposes to colonize all the negroes of the town into a self-supporting village.

Will Not Resign.

QUEBEC, Dec. 9.—De Boucherville has not resigned the premiership of Quebec.

"It Cured Mother."
A Man Made Happy.
GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stoma h was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have terrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I am using my 3rd case—am a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she coul scarcely eat any thing and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and was cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY I wish you success with your med'cine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.
Signed, MELVILLE B MARSH,

The profection of God being infinite, to become God-like means infinite growth.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicines, which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion is occasioned by want of action in the liliary organs, loss of vitality in the stomach to secrete the gastric juices, without which digestion cannot go on; also, being the principal cause of Headache. Parsons's Purgative Pills taken before going to bed, for a while, never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr. F. W. Gilchrist, Ashburn, Ont., writes:—"Parmele's Pills are taking the lead against ten other makes which I have in stock."

The best form in which electricity is embodied is Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, a sovereign remedy. A. Maybee, Merchant, Warkworth, writes:—"I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and it gives universal by the public 'one of the best medicine they have ever used;' it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc, and is we by of the greatest confidence."

THE DRIVERS LOST WITS
BECAUSE THEY SAW A WOMAN KILLED ON THE RAIL
Passengers Made a Mad Rush When They Saw the Danger—A Locomotive Crashed Into Them—A Horrible Scene—Stricken and Groaning.
NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—At 11.30 o'clock a.m. yesterday the Roundbrook express, running to Jersey City, struck and killed Miss Gilroy of Elizabeth in front of Greenville Station, on the Central Railroad of New Jersey.
The train stopped immediately on the opposite track. Outward bound came another express on the Central road.
The engineer saw the killing of the woman and stopped his train.
Just behind him on the same track followed a third express, also outward bound. The third train was close behind the second.
When the engineer of the second train stopped it was done so suddenly that the engineer of the third express could not avert a collision. He applied the air brakes, but they did not prevent his running into the train ahead.
The passengers in the rear car of the second train saw the third train running them down and a panic ensued.
A Mad Rush.
A mad rush was made for the forward doors of the car. A few succeeded in getting off before the crash came. The remainder of the passengers were in the forward part of the last car when the locomotive of the incoming train crashed into them.
There was a deafening crash that could be heard for blocks away, followed by smashing of timbers, the cracking of glass and the shrieks and groans of frightened and wounded people.
The engine of the third express plowed into the car ahead half its length. Then the force of the collision spent itself. The engineer and fireman were not hurt beyond a few bruises. The injured in the car were as follows:
Orlando Demorest, New York, badly hurt internally.
J. E. Tosendell, Somerville, N.J., scalp wound and toes crushed.
George Lawsen, Elizabeth, scalp wound and toes frightfully crushed.
D. C. Chetwood, New York, arm and nose injured.
James Ross, Roundbrook, N.J., knee-cap injured; G. J. Miller, Plainfield, N.J., severely bruised; E. E. Runyon, Plainfield, hip injured; W. H. Parker, Redbank, head and nose injured; Louis Baltner, New York, side injured; S. M. Hershfried, New York, head injured.

MRS. BORDEN'S COURAGE.
It Enables Her to Bear Up Under the Awful Charges Against Her.
FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 9.—Speculations concerning all phases of the Border case have taken on an increased activity, and it is more generally talked of than the city election.
Regarding the place of trial it is held that on the ground of economy, hotel and court conveniences and the accommodation of a majority of all interested in the case Fall River has the strongest claim to have the trial conducted here.
To say that the sentiment of this community would be prejudicial to an impartial trial is nonsense.
The defense has already intimated that it prefers that the trial should be held here, and quote the constitution to show that it should take place as soon as possible and as near the place of commission as convenient.
The dress, which is alleged to have been turned, is believed by the defendant's friends to have become through newspaper reports of more than warrantable importance in establishing the guilt of the prisoner. The evidence given before the grand jury, they say, was necessarily tinged with a governmental flavor.
It must be remembered, however, that the defence has not yet been submitted, nor were their many strong points brought out to the best advantage. Furthermore, much of the testimony given by government witnesses can be contradicted by witnesses yet to be called.
It is said that Mr. John V. Morse intends soon to leave for his home in Iowa, where neglected business interests demand his attention. He goes with the full consent of his bondsmen and will be within call whenever his presence here is desired.
Miss Emma Borden has been confined to her bed since Friday. She went to Taunton at noon on that day before she was informed of the action of the grand jury, and the shock and disappointment unnerved her.
Miss Lizzie Borden, though trying to bear up under the awful charges that confront her, is also much distressed, though she brings will power into play.

DALTON'S FAIR
FRONT STREET.
Santa Claus' Headquarters.
Our endeavors to make the Fair headquarters for Christmas supplies is more marked this fall than at any previous time. Our store, though large, is not sufficient to accommodate the great crowd at Christmas times. We would therefore urge you to make your selections now while the stock is complete and avoid the crush at Christmas time. We have just received 100 cases of foreign goods, such as albums, dolls, toothbrushes, hair brushes, purses, fancy china cups and saucers, cutlery, jewellery, hardware, side sets, glass tea sets beautifully engraved; our assortment of American glassware must be seen to be appreciated. Never have we been able to offer such bargains in albums, ladies' work boxes, towel cases, perfume cases, shaving cases, brush and comb cases, games from 5c up, playing cards from 5c up, beautiful white bolsters all the latest styles from 49c up. We have something new in dolls' chairs, dolls' cradles, children's extension tables, sets of furniture, toy picture books, panny books, magic lanterns 49c up, steam engines, skates, dolls' carriages, children's sleds and outters strong and cheap at lowest prices, novels by the best authors 10c worth 25c, pocket knives and table cutlery an endless variety to choose from. But, perhaps, one of the greatest draws is a special line of extra quality writing paper, 5 quires (120 sheets) for 17c. We will not attempt to enumerate further, but would invite you to call at before purchasing, where you can buy good goods at less than bankrupt prices.

THE MACDONALD MEMORIAL.

Mr. Kinghorn, who has been canvassing the city on behalf of the Macdonald memorial at Kingston, reports having met with fair success. As he has been unable to see all who might desire to contribute, Mr. Kinghorn has left with us a subscription list. We will gladly receive any subscriptions for the memorial to the lamented Chieftain, in his old home, where he began his career, and where, at his own request, his remains lie buried.

EDITORIAL BREVITIES.

The annexationists—of whom, by the way, the erratic Goldwin Smith has accepted the honorary leadership—have been boasting of the spread of their treasonable ideas. Let them try their strength in the constituencies now vacant, namely, West York, Brockville, North Hastings, Montreal Centre, Sherbrooke, Terrebonne, Vaudreuil, L'Islet and Winnipeg, or cease their boasting.

Captain A. F. Holmes and Mr. M. V. McInnes, Dominion Immigration agents in Michigan, are in Montreal. Mr. Holmes said to a Gazette representative that he had been operating since last February in Huron, Sanilac, Lapeer and St. Clair counties, Michigan, which are all border counties and largely settled by Canadians, fully two-thirds of the people there being from the Dominion. He found a good deal of dissatisfaction and a very general desire to return to Canada amongst those who were in a position to get away. The majority of the farms were heavily mortgaged, and it was very difficult to make sales, as nobody wants to buy. About 150 families left this section this summer to settle in the Canadian Northwest, and between four and five hundred families are now preparing for removal next spring.

Farrer and Cartwright have been warm friends since 1873. In that year, when Sir Richard was up for re-election in Lennox on taking office in the Mackenzie Administration, Farrer was sent down from Toronto to speak in opposition to him. Farrer returned to Toronto without having spoken. A short time afterwards he was sent to Great Britain as an emigration agent on behalf of the Mackenzie Government.

Sir Richard is following the example of his Mentor (Farrer) in writing annexation letters to the New York Sun, pointing out how Canada can be most effectually stabbed. "Reciprocity," he writes, "is much more important to Canada than to the United States." This is Sir Richard's way of counselling the States against reciprocity, and he also counsels our neighbors to abolish the bonding arrangement. Sir Richard, finding that he cannot be allowed to rule again in Canada, after our disastrous experience of his incapacity, is now trying to ruin the country. His only success will be in wrecking his party, and in giving to the Conservatives a long lease of power.

Talk of evictions in Ireland! Why, there were no less than 29,720 dispossess warrants issued in New York city alone last year, and in thousands of cases enforced with a degree of barbarity unheard of in the Green Isle. What, it may well be asked, must have been the total number in the United States?

In Ireland the total number was a little over 5,000. And the Yankees wept (publicly) over the oppression of the unfortunates on the other side of the Atlantic and sent money to aid them and to assist in agitation against the law under which they had been dispossessed, but displayed no sympathy for the victims of the law in their midst.

The reason of this monstrous hypocrisy is but too apparent, namely that there was political capital in bewailing the lot of the evicted in Ireland but none in relieving the hardships of those in America. It would be interesting to learn how many of the American evictors were contributors to the Irish home rule and other funds.

In his letter to the New York Sun, Sir Richard Cartwright charges that the Conservative party's majority is due to "a colossal system of organized corruption." With his usual disingenuousness Sir Richard suppresses the record of the election courts, which show that, after the general elections of 1874, '78, '82, '87 and '91, there were 81 Grits unseated and 7 disqualified, against 48 Conservatives unseated and 1 disqualified. These facts show the utter falsity of Sir Richard's assertion.

WALKED INTO THE DON.

A SAD SUICIDE OF AN INSANE WOMAN.

The Tragic Death of P. C. Dodds' Mother — A Former Queen's Hotel Waiter Found Dead in Bed in a York street Lodging House.

TORONTO, Dec. 9.—Elizabeth Dodds, aged 58, was found drowned in the Don, near Morse's soap works, at 4.30 yesterday afternoon. City Inspector Johnston was going down the east bank of the Don when he saw the body of a woman floating near where he was standing. He summoned the patrol wagon from No. 4 and the body was removed to the Morgue, where it was recognized.

The deceased was the mother of P. C. Richard Dodd of 101 River street and of ex-P.C. Roberts. She had been deranged for years and had been an inmate of the Insane Asylum. Lately her condition so improved that her son Richard brought her to live with him. She left his house at 10.45 yesterday morning, but it was thought she had gone to visit one of her children, there being five daughters and four other sons residing in the city. The rumor of a woman found drowned aroused the apprehensions of the family, and investigation proved that the worst was true. The body was afterwards removed to the residence of her son Richard. The interment will take place in the Presbyterian churchyard at Mono, Ont., Saturday afternoon.

TAKING A PEEP.

The New Ministers Visit Their Departments for a Brief Time.

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—Although yesterday was a statutory holiday and consequently very few civil servants were at work, still the new ministers visited their several departments and had brief interviews with such of their officers as were on duty.

Hon. Mr. Angers was early at the Department of Agriculture, where he found Hon. Mr. Carling packing up.

Hon. Mr. Ives spent part of the day in his office and Messrs. Woods and Wallace "looked in" at the Departments of Inland Revenue and Customs.

Mr. Curran had an interview with Sir John Thompson and spent a short time in the Department of Justice. The four last named gentlemen have left for their constituencies to look after their re-elections.

Although the date for the meeting of Parliament is not fixed yet the first arrival for the session took place yesterday, the "early bird" being Senator John Ferguson, who is accompanied by his wife and daughter.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell left for Belleville yesterday and will probably not return until Monday. To-night he will attend the dedication of a new Orange lodge at Cooper in North Hastings.

Before Hon. J. A. Chapleau left his office in the Customs Department he recommended to the council that cigars, wines, spirits, malt liquors, etc., and silverware, when imported by the various permanent military schools for officers' messes in Canada, be duty free, the same privilege being extended now to the Imperial troops.

Sir Adolphe Caron will entertain his colleagues at dinner on Monday evening.

The annual kick is being made against civil servants who offer themselves for election as aldermen and school trustees, and it is said, as it is said almost every year, that orders will be given restraining civil servants from offering themselves for municipal honors. At present there are three aldermen, three public and seven separate school trustees who are employed in the civil service.

Thomas Paquin, ex-Deputy Postmaster of Hull, will be up for trial for the third time on Saturday at the Aylmer Assizes on a charge of stealing money from registered letters. When Paquin was arrested he made a confession of his thefts and when arraigned before the recorder of Hull he first pleaded guilty, but afterwards changed his plea. Paquin escaped to San Francisco, where he was arrested and extradited. He has been twice tried at Aylmer, the jury failing to agree each time. It is now said that on Saturday a motion will be made to change the venue to Montreal.

LIZZIE WILLIE.

Her Mother Says She Had Nothing But Kindness at Home.

DETROIT, Dec. 9.—At last the Willie family are thoroughly convinced that the woman who lies dead in San Diego is no kin of theirs. The latest telegram from San Diego informs them the suicide had two handkerchiefs on her person marked "E. Anderson."

An examination of the ears of the deceased showed that they had never been pierced.

"That settles it," said May Willie, "Lizzie's ears were pierced, and she often wore earrings. The handkerchiefs being marked that way are pretty good evidence that the dead woman's name was her own."

"What a dreadful thing it would have been if we had ordered that woman's body shipped here for burial and she was not my Lizzie" said Mrs. Willie. "If Lizzie is alive and well I don't see how she can be so cruel as to treat us so when she had nothing but kindness at home."

An Unlucky Teamster.

HAMILTON, Dec. 9.—Thomas Freeborn, a teamster living at No. 53 Clark-avenue, has evidently struck a wave of hard luck. A few days ago he was fined in the Police Court for striking a small boy, and on Monday, while driving home from the Beach, his wagon upset and he was thrown out. His collar bone was fractured and he had to be carried home.

On the same day his horse lost about six inches of its tongue, and as Dame Rumor had it that the tongue was cut by some fiend in human shape Detective McKenzie was detailed to investigate the affair. The information he has secured so far, however, points to the probability of the animal having hurt itself in its attempt to bite somebody, as it is known to be vicious.

At any rate Freeborn denies all knowledge of how the tongue was cut, but thinks that it might have been done by the bit.

Inquest on Trickey's Death.

HAMILTON, Dec. 9.—In the inquest upon the death of Harry G. Trickey, the reporter who was famous as the writer of a sensational account of the Lizzie Bordan case, the jury brought in a verdict of accidental death by being run over by the wheels of a train which deceased was trying to board, expressing the opinion that no blame could be attached to anyone.

GODDARD DEFEATS MAHER

He Fought Furiously and Knocked Maher Out in the Third Round.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—The Goddard-Maher fight at Coney Island was one of the fiercest of battles. It lasted only three rounds and the Irishman failed to respond, when the match was given to the unbeaten Australian.

Considering the importance, or rather the sensation of the boom, there was never a fight in this country that created less betting than that last night at the Coney Island Athletic Club between Joe Goddard, the unbeaten and alleged champion of the Barrier, a locality in Australia, and Peter Maher, the champion of Ireland.

Goddard's reputation rested on his success in defeating a dozen local men, in securing a draw with Peter Jackson in eight rounds, and in whipping Joe Choynski twice in four rounds each time.

Maher's reputation was made in stopping two poor fighters in one night at Madison-square Garden. He afterwards met Bob Fitzsimmons, the New Orleans man, and showed himself to be a thorough quitter, as the fighters say. The impression got abroad that there was a job. Hence the want of a feeling of security among the bettors. The feeling prevailed that Billy Madden wanted to make Goddard a champion, and knowing that he could not do so without a victory of some kind had picked out Maher, a man who was supposed to have no heart to be the first victim of a heavy man who is known to have bulldog courage and who can hit a hard blow. Such bets as were put out before to night varied from even money to 5 to 4.

Goddard Was the Favorite.

It was 9.40 when Joe Goddard, wearing around his trunks the colors that the Columbia A.C. of New York had presented him, appeared in the ring. Jim Gibbons of Passaic, N.J.; Billy Madden, Alexander Greggains of San Francisco, and Lon Moore of the Columbia A.C. were after him. There was hardly a ripple of hand-clapping when he came before the crowd.

When Maher came on a great cheer went up. Maher's handlers were Jack McVey of Philadelphia, Corbett's former coworker; "Philadelphia" Castello, Goddard's next opponent; Jimmy Carroll of Brooklyn, and Jimmy McGrath of Dublin. Maher wore his usual green trunks.

The weights of the men were given out officially as: Maher 175, Goddard 187. Maher probably weighed 180 and Goddard 195.

Maher won the toss for choice of gloves, and there was another noise that showed what a favorite Maher was with the mass of spectators. Johnny Eckhardt was the official referee and Bob Stoll, N.Y.A.C., held the watch.

Only Required Three Rounds.

FIRST ROUND—It was lightning work from the very start. The men went hammer and tongs, slash and crash, with Maher a scienced man and Goddard only a bulldog, all for the head. A few body blows were struck, but two or three being given by Goddard. Maher went down to his knees once, but got up again and tried again, but it was no good. Goddard landed on him with his right and left, missing many times, but getting there often enough.

SECOND ROUND—There was more punishing and smashing. Maher got in a couple of beauties on Goddard's face, staggering the Australian each time. Goddard looked a bit groggy after a couple of rights on the cheek, but he clung to his man and smashed the Irishman on the ribs three times before he let go. Then Maher fell to his knees again. At this time the men who knew Maher to be a quitter said he would never get up again. Peter stayed down for 4 seconds, his head shaking like a leaf. Up he jumped, however, and out at Goddard again. He got in a soaker on Goddard's breast and Goddard fell back to the ropes. Maher ran after him, but swung his right badly. Instead of landing on the Barrier man on the jaw he went away beyond his ear. Goddard dashed at Maher and gave him a fierce blow on the breast. Maher fell back under its effect and the bell sounded before Goddard could land again. It had been a tremendous round. Both men had worked apparently for a knockout blow, Goddard in his unclean, heavy and strong style, Maher in form that showed little of the neatness that he had displayed before and was known for in New York for weeks after his arrival from Ireland.

THIRD ROUND—Both came up looking dazed from the furious fighting of the previous round. Neither showed the least science, but rained blow after blow on each other as fast and hard as possible. Goddard went at Maher like a wild beast, and fairly beat his man down by brute strength. The Irish lad stood up gamely under the shower of blows, but at last was laid low by a straight right on the jaw and fell face downward on the floor. The excitement was intense, the crowd being fairly crazed with excitement. The round lasted just 50 seconds.

Mills Burned.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 9.—Fire at Jefferson's burned a six-set satinet mill to the ground, with a loss of $110,000. A seven-set cassimere plant is badly damaged by smoke and water.

The storehouse and picker room are destroyed and a two-tenement residence burned to the ground. The total loss is $200,000; insurance $180,000.

Colliery on Fire.

NEW GLASGOW, N.S., Dec. 9.—A tunnel connecting the main workings with a disused pit of the Drummond colliery is on fire. No lives were lost, and the men are at work as usual. Steps are being taken to put out the fire.

CANADIAN EMIGRANTS.

Must Be of a Kind to Work on the Lands of the Dominion.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Great interest is being taken in London in the United Kingdom in the proceedings of the Farmers' Conference, particularly in the claim so persistently made that protection is the only thing that can relieve the farming classes from their present unsatisfactory position.

The Times, the Standard, The Chronicle and The News tell the farmers in unmistakable language that protection is absolutely impossible in England.

It is noted that in the proposal for the levying of high duties submitted to the conference no suggestion to exempt colonial produce from the proposed duties was made.

The crisis in the farming industry is causing a great increase in the number of enquiries being received from people of the farming class who are thinking of emigrating. Special efforts are being made throughout the country to divert as much of this promised emigration as possible in the direction of Canada, and the agents of the Dominion say that the prospects have been so good since 1882, in which year 100,000 people left the United Kingdom for Canada and carried with them effects valued at $3,000,000.

Sir Charles Tupper has promised to submit to the Ottawa Government any practical scheme for the emigration of farm workers and servants who have drifted from the country into the cities. But Canada only encourages emigrants able and willing to work on the lands of Canada.

The Lord Mayor of London is being urged to form a special emigration committee to relieve distress in London.

Hon. J. S. Hall, Provincial Treasurer of Quebec, denies the stories in circulation to the effect that the province intends to borrow money in the London market or anywhere else. As a matter of fact, Mr. Hall explains that, despite the crisis produced by the announcement of Premier Delboucherville's intention to resign, he apprehends no serious trouble for the Government, as he believes that Mr. Taillon will be able to keep the administration in good working order.

Low Voice Shows Refinement.

Man inherited from his immediate ancestors, the apes and monkeys, a voice of considerable altitude, in which the lower tones were almost unknown. The monkeys chattered to their fellows from tree to tree in shrill loud tones, the natural vocal expression of a weak and timid race, in whose physical formation the head had begun to hold an important place. The upper notes of the register were characteristic of the first men, as they still are of savage tribes and peoples, and of the half-civilized members of modern society, whose voices have never been subjected to discipline.

The voices of country people accustomed to magnificent distances and conversation at long range are, if not keyed higher, oftener used in the upper ranges than those of city people who feel obliged by the necessities of good breeding to moderate their tones. When a man is self-contained he uses the middle and lower tones of his voice; when angry the voice mounts gradually to the head. If the gambler sex would oftener bear in mind the eulogies of Shakespeare and Scott of that voice gentle and low, which is an excellent thing in women, they would more rarely have occasion to wonder why they have ceased to be attractive.

The music of the Chinese, Japanese and of all wild tribes is keyed high and sung usually in falsetto, the lower notes being obtained by drums, tomtoms, or some other instruments of the kind. Although their songs are far from agreeable to the ear, they still think they sing.—Nast's Weekly.

A Grand Old Woman.

Sir Andrew Clark has often been heard to say that Mrs. Gladstone is quite as much entitled to the name of the Grand Old Woman as her evergreen husband is to that of the Grand Old Man. On January 12 last Mrs. Gladstone's 80th birthday came round, and she passed the morning writing letters to her friends in England, a task which she accomplished without wearing glasses of any kind as aids to her sight. In fact she has never yet known what it is to need spectacles and her eyes are as bright as those of a young woman.

Every morning passed by Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone at Hawarden sees them both at church, nearly two miles of a mile away from the castle, in the early morning. Be the weather what it may, the Prime Minister invariably walks to church and back, taking pleasure in this matutinal exercise when the snow is falling heavily. Mrs. Gladstone goes thither and back in her little pony carriage, which she drives herself. It is said that Mrs. Gladstone does not know what it is to have a headache or to suffer from cold feet.

No better preparation for the hair has ever been invented than Ayer's Hair Vigor. It restores the original color to faded and gray hair, and imparts that natural gloss and freshness everyone much admires. Its reputation is world-wide.

When kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull back-ache is the kidney's cry for relief. If Dodd's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney disease that a persistant use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

The general verdict of the smokers of Canada is that "Myrtle Navy" is the finest tobacco they have ever used. There can be no mistake upon this point, for it is proved by the tangible evidence. The large demand for this tobacco shows it to be true, and the character of the demand gives further proof. It has never been of the spasmodic kind, up one month and down the next. It has been a sustained and constantly increasing demand. The unsurpassed quality of the tobacco accounts for this.

Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association

The Kingston News says: "Mr. Wm. Duff, of Inverary, has received a letter from H. Ashley, of Belleville, Secretary of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, stating that William Ezger, the President, had changed the date of the annual convention in this city from the first week in January to the 18th and 19th of that month. The reason he assignes for the change is that Professor Robertson, of the Dairy Department at Ottawa, cannot get back from England in time for the date which was first selected. His absence would be a great loss, as he will have very valuable information to give both cheese makers and dairymen about experiments made by him, and notes of his trip to the Old Country. President Ezger believes the best interests of the Eastern Dairymen's Association will be forwarded by the change of dates, and trusts the Board will agree with him."

Prisoners' Aid Association.

This Association are preparing for their annual meetings, and are making a special effort in behalf of dependent children. These meetings will be held as follows, in Toronto:

1. Sermon on Prison Reform in the Metropolitan church, at 4 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 11th, by Rev. Dr. J. V. Smith, the pastor.

2. Annual Meeting of the Prisoners' Aid Association, Monday, Dec. 12th, in Mission Hall, Mission Ave., near College St., at 8 p.m.

3. Prison Reform Conference in Educational Buildings, Tuesday, Dec. 13th, commencing at 10:30 a.m.

At the Prison Reform Conference the principal topic for discussion will relate to the recommendations of the Prison Reform Commission, and the duty of the Government with regard to them.

PARKDALE, Ont., Feb. 27th, 1888.—Gentlemen, it gives me pleasure to let you know I have derived great benefit from the use of Nerviline. I have been a great sufferer from Neuralgia in the face, and last two years was quite a martyr to the malady. So soon as I observed the Nerviline advertised I obtained a bottle from our druggists Messrs. John Gray & Co., Parkdale, and the effect was marvellous; pain ceased and I can enjoy sound sleep at night, and rise refreshed. I cannot speak too highly of it and heartily recommend it. Lecture at Albert College.

Rev. John C. Ferguson, B.A., who has for the past 5 years been engaged in missionary work in Japan, lectured last night in Albert College. The chapel was filled with students and friends. The lecture was an interesting one, detailing the work which the Rev'd gentleman is engaged in. Mr. Ferguson will leave in a few weeks, on his return to his mission field.

Forest and Stream Club

The gallery matches were begun last night, with a short series of four matches, 7 shots at 16 yards. The Club offers prizes of $4, $3, $2, and $1 for a series of ten weeks' shoots, aggregate of six scores, to commence on the 29th. Also—following the example of the Toronto Clubs—a pedro match will be played each Thursday night, commencing next week.

We Will Continue.

The Oak Hall have some wonderful bargains to give in children's suits and overcoats, and we have talked a good deal about it—more than that—we will continue to talk until every one of this special lot is cleared. Boys' suits, $1.50 to $2.50. Children's overcoats, $2.00 to $5.00. We would like you to call at the Oak Hall and see those goods.

What is Dandruff?

A disease of the scalp that causes falling of the hair, fading of the hair, in fact, death of the hair. It irritates the scalp and causes scales and cutaneous eruptions—produces baldness. Bear in mind that Anti-Dandruff removes Dandruff with three applications—stops falling and restores fading hair to its original color. Sold by druggists at 75 cents per bottle.

A New Orange Hall.

A new Orange Hall in the Allan Settlement, Madoc Township, was dedicated today. Amongst those present were: Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Past Grand Master and Sovereign; Mr. Wm. Johnson, Past Grand Master, Ontario East; Rev'd J. H. Ash, Grand Chaplain; and W.B. Northrup, Esq., M.P.

Gratifying to All.

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasing liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrates the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup Company.

The Atalanta.

Work is still going on upon the yacht Atalanta. The cabin is now being fitted up. When completed this yacht will no doubt be one of the finest upon fresh water. It will be some time before the work of rigging her up is completed.

Committed for Examination.

Mr. Joseph Fox, an old resident of the city, was to-day committed to gaol for examination, having been charged with being a lunatic.

—The condition of Gen. Rosecrans, who is lying ill in Washington, was worse yesterday.

The Balaclava Survivors.

The survivors of the immortal charge "in the valley of death" thirty eight years ago, sat down together this afternoon, a small company of grizzled, be medalled veterans, to a banquet in the banqueting room of St. James Hall. In the chair was Sergt. Herbert of the 4th Light Dragoons; while Lieut. Wightman of the 17th Lancers occupied the vice chair. The committee by whom the banquet was organized searched the United Kingdom for survivors, and the result was the appearance of twenty-seven men only. As they met hearty grasps were given, and the old familiar names called out, "Jimmy," "Pete," "Harry," "Bill," answered to the old call, and as hands were wrung one gray-haired veteran would say to another, "Good old chum, we manage to wriggle together for many a year." The medals which were worn spoke of service in India during the mutiny as well as in the Crimea, and though the veterans with one exception were plain clothes, on every breast the medals were conspicuously displayed. There were over thirty guests present, non-commissioned in the old regiments, so that the old and new life mingled together.

Of those present in the charge, there were nine of the 11th Hussars, nine of the 17th Lancers, eight of the 4th Light Dragoons, one of the Scots Greys, and two of the 8th Royal Irish Hussars. The single survivor who wore his uniform, and probably the finest man in the company, was Sergt. Fawke, who stood six feet in height, and measured forty-four inches around the chest. He was twenty-two years of age when he rode with the Scots Greys in the famous charge immortalized by the dead Laureate. There is not a white hair to be seen in his closely cut black crop; his cheeks are clean shaven, and his black moustache is pointed a la militaire. This man of sixty not only stands erect and firm upon his legs, but rejoices in his strength, and in proof thereof he cut bars of lead through with one sweep of his sword, and played with a forty pound club in a way to astonish every one. The gallant Sergeant wears upon his breast the Crimean medal, with three clasps for Balaclava, Inkerman and Sebastopol, and also the Turkish medal, and his forehead and cheeks show now the marks of sword cut and bullet wounds. In the charge, he tells with great energy of the incidents which befell himself, how, in the mad mixing up of Russian and English, one enemy raised a sword to cut off his head, when Sgt.-Major George Tildesley ran the fellow through with his sword, which he subsequently gave to Sgt. Fawke. Riding back the Sergeant tells how a shell came skipping along, and, after passing through the Dragoons, struck the snow-white Canadian charger on which he was mounted, killing it on the spot. When he fell, came the supreme moment of danger, but his companions rescued him, and a Sgt.-major of the Dragoon Guards gave him the bridle of a riderless charger of the 10th Light Dragoons, and, mounted upon him, he escaped out of the valley. When about to dismount Fawke noticed that the white sheepskin on which the saddle rested was covered with the brains of the dragoon to whom the horse belonged, and, filled with nausea, he let the animal go free. There were seven wounds in all received by Fawke on the eventful day, three of which were on his legs. Sgt. Fawke rode in the Lord Mayor's show last year, and earns a livelihood as teacher of physical exercises in colleges and schools. His residence is at Bromsgrove, Worcestershire.

Among others present were representatives of the 13th Light Dragoons; Private Lamb, who was wounded in two places by a canister shot and had his horse killed under him; Sergt. Peck, who had the bars shot off his jacket, but escaped unhurt; Sergt. Allen, whose horse was shot, but who was unhurt himself; and Private William Sewell, who was wounded in the head by a fragment of shell. After the usual loyal toasts were given, Sergt.-Maj. Smith, of the 3rd Surrey, recited "The Charge of the Light Brigade," with a drum accompaniment, which went well. "Our Dead Comrades" was drunk in solemn silence, and a similar honor was paid to "Our Leaders." The old heroes did full justice to an excellent meal, and the company broke up at an early hour.—London Daily Telegraph.

A Sagacious Dog.

An Odessa correspondent gives an interesting instance of a dog's sagacity. During the early hours of the morning of the 5th inst. the inmates of a house in the Nyeschenskaia was awakened by the crash of window glass in the courtyard. Hastily arising, he found that a dog, owned by two ladies occupying apartments on the entresol, had sprung through a lower corridor window, and appeared to be in a frantic state of alarm and anxiety. The dvornik awoke the servant on the ground floor, who declared there was nothing wrong in the house, but the action of the dog led them upstairs, where the two ladies were found insensible and apparently asphyxiated by the fumes of a stove which the attendant had neglected to shut off. Two doctors were immediately summoned, and succeeded, after an hour and a half, in restoring one of the sufers. The second case they declared to be hopeless. A third doctor who was then called in varied the restorative appliances by causing very hot water to be poured on the patient's head while ice was kept applied to the chest. After five hours treatment the lady showed the first signs of recovery. The dog, to whose alarm the two ladies owe their lives, would not be ejected from the room during the process of restoration, and displayed unbounded joy when both his mistresses were again able to speak to him and reward him with their grateful caresses.

Jenny Lind's Benevolence.

December paper on "Jenny Lind": "The entire proceeds of the American tour, amounting to more than $20,000, were devoted by Jenny Lind to various benevolent objects. From the days of her early girlhood it had been her chief delight to use for the good of others the wealth which her genius brought her. She was ever ready to assist a schoolmate, a fellow-collegian, or a poor fellow-artist, or for the chorus, orchestra, or scene-shifters of the theatres where she appeared. Is it not beautiful that I can sing so?" she exclaimed when she was told that a large number of children would be saved from wretchedness by a concert she had given for their behalf. The volumes which contain such a record might well bear the label which Jenny Lind's old Swedish guardian placed round the packet containing her letters to him, "The Mirror of a Noble Soul."

Feminine Spite.

"I don't care," said the little girl who had not been invited to the party, "I don't care. I will get even with them!" And her eyes flashed as she stamped her small foot. "Pray, what will you do, my child?" asked her mother. "When I grow up I'll give a great big party, and I won't invite anyone."—Harper's Bazar.

GRASPING, AVARICIOUS CAPITALISTS

ARE WHAT OUR COMPETITORS CALL US!

GRASPING, because we want the trade of the earth! AVARICIOUS, because we hang on to the almighty dollar! CAPITALISTS, beause we have the money to tear them to pieces in the wholesale market!

Well, you can see what it amounts to. Success ever brings envy and distrust. If we were only half as successful, we would be feared only half as much as we are.

Our push and principle alarm our competitors. Our business grip make them wince. Our big sales excite their envy. Our popularity is what they cannot block and must put up with.

Talk of big stocks! Shout of immense piles of goods! GOUGH knows what big stocks mean. Throughout Ontario, in the best towns, GOUGH has clothing stores. It is a notorious fact that he does the trade of the town. He buys cheaper and carries more goods than all his competitors combined.

His last great purchase of wholesale stock at 60c. on the $ is a paralyzer. This stock was manufactured by H. Shorey & Co., Montreal, and amounts to over $20,000. Owing to the immense stock already in our main store, we were compelled to open another store next to Dunnet's Dry Goods House. We could not get it all into our main store.

Remember, within six weeks we have captured two stocks, amounting to over $56,000, and when we say we are in a position to sell these goods at less than the ordinary merchant buys for, we can prove it. Ask the railroad people who receives the most goods and they will tell you GOUGH, by ten times. Notwithstanding the low price of wheat and cry of hard times with other merchants, we are head and shoulders ahead of the best sales on record.

FROM HEAD TO FOOT you feel the good that's done by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It purifies the blood. And through the blood, it cleanses, repairs, and invigorates the whole system.

In recovering from "La Grippe," or in convalescence from pneumonia, fevers, or other wasting diseases, nothing can equal it as an appetizing, restorative tonic to build up needed flesh and strength. It rouses every organ into natural action, promotes all the bodily functions, and restores health and vigor.

For every disease that comes from a torpid liver or impure blood, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, and the most stubborn Skin, Scalp, or Scrofulous affections, the "Discovery" is the only remedy so certain that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

DISCOVERIES!

It's about time this discovery business was stopped. It is said Corsets have been found on a body buried some 3000 years ago. We will next hear of some old mummy being found with a curling tong in its hand, or a stick of gum between its teeth, and then we will feel as if this nineteenth century hadn't invented much after all. It makes us mad to think these modern inventions are so old. However, we will still keep on selling corsets.

ORDERING AND REPAIRING DEPARTMENT

I am already very busy in the fur workrooms and would beg to advise those who think of ordering a New Fur Garment this season to call at once and secure the first selections of the Skins.

I would also suggest that you send in your Furs early for alterations, repairing and dyeing to avoid the rush of fur work in November and December.

Bitchless Cured.

DEAR SIRS,—In 1890 my body was covered with blotches and I was at last induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters; by the time I had used six bottles of it I was completely cured, and I cannot speak too highly of it.

MRS. JAMES DESMOND, Halifax, N. S.

Made With Skill.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skilful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

Out of Sorts—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure,' and a little attention at the point we give months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

The speed of a wild duck is ninety miles an hour.

Do not delay in getting relief for the little folks. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is a pleasant sure cure. If you love you child why then do you let it suffer when a remedy is so near at hand.

An adder's bite—The bank clerk's lunch.

BROOKE'S DAUGHTER.

BY
ADELINE SERGEANT,
Author of "A True Friend," etc., etc.
(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

'I'm pretty sure that he did not. From these that he has said to me, I feel certain that he attributed only a passing fashion to her on my account. You do not believe me, Oliver; but I think that he is perfectly ignorant of the real cause of her leaving him.'

'And you know it?'

'Yes, but—I am not obliged to tell you what it was.'

'Oh, no. Keep your own counsel, by all means. But you are placing yourself in a very risky position. Lady Alice Brooke knows something that would, I suppose, compromise you in the world's eyes, if it were generally known. Her daughter is coming to Brooke's house. You mean—you scientifically mean—to go to his house and visit this girl thereby offending her mother (who is sure to hear of the visit) and bring down the ill will of all the Countesses upon your head! Have you no regard for your character and your position in the world? You are risking both and you have nothing to gain.'

'Yes, I have.'

'What is it?'

'I cannot tell you.'

'You mean you will not tell me!'

'Perhaps so.'

Oliver Trent deliberately took a match-box from the mantlepiece, struck a match, and lighted a wax candle. 'I should like to see your face,' he said.

Rosalind looked at him fully and steadily for a few seconds; then her eyelids fell, and for the second time that evening the color mounted in her pale cheeks.

'I think that I know the truth,' said her brother composedly, after a careful study of her face. 'You are mad, Rosalind, and you will live to rue that madness.'

'I don't know what you mean,' she said turning away from the light of the candle. 'You speak in riddles.'

'I will speak in riddles, then, no longer. I will be very plain with you. Rosalind, you are in love with Caspar Brooke.'

She sank down on a low chair as if her limbs would support her no longer, and rested her face upon her hands.

'No,' she said in a low voice, 'you are wrong; I do not love Caspar Brooke.'

'What other motive can you have?'

She waited for a moment, and then said, still softly—

'I suppose I may as well tell you. I loved him once. In those first days of our acquaintance—when he was disappointed in his wife and was seeking for sympathy elsewhere—I thought that he cared for me. I was mistaken. Oliver, can you keep my secret? No other soul in the world knows of it but the one who can buy you. I told him my love. I wrote to him—a wild, mad letter—offering to fly to the ends of the earth with him if he would go.'

Oliver stared at her as he if could not believe his ears.

'And what answer did he make?'

'He made none because he never saw it. That letter fell into Lady Alice's hands. She did not know that it was the first that had been written; she took it to be one of a series. She wrote a short note to me about it; and the next thing I heard was that she had gone. But I know that he never saw that letter of mine.'

'All this,' said Oliver in a hard contemptuous voice, 'does not explain your present line of conduct.'

She lifted her face from her hands. 'Yes it does,' she said quickly. 'If you were a woman you would understand! Do you think I went back to him? No, if he cannot make me happy, he shall not be happy at her side. I shall never forgive her for the words she wrote to me! If her daughter comes, Oliver, it is all the more reason why I should be here, ready to nip any notion of reconciliation in the bud. It is hate, not love, that dominates me; it is in my hatred of Caspar Brooke's wife that you must seek an explanation of my actions. Now do you understand?'

'I understand enough,' said Oliver, drily.

'And you will not interfere!'

'For the present I will not interfere. But I will not bind myself. I must see more of what you are doing before I make any promises. Whatever you do, must not compromise yourself or me.'

'Hate!' he repeated to himself scornfully as he left the house somewhat later in the evening. 'It is all very well to put it down to her hate for Lady Alice. She is still in love with Brooke; and that is the beginning and the end of it.'

And Oliver was not far wrong.

CHAPTER VI.

LESLEY COMES HOME.

Caspar Brooke was a busy man, and he was quite determined that his daughter's arrival would make no difference in his habits. In this determination he was less foolish than stern; he had reason to believe that his wife's treatment of him proceeded from folly and fickleness, and that his daughter had inherited her foibles. It was not worth while, he said to himself, to make any radical change in his way of life; Lesley must accommodate herself, if she could, to his habits; and if she could not she must go back to her mother. He did not prepared, he told himself, to alter his hours, or his friendships, or his peculiarities one whit for Lesley's sake.

Lesley arrived an hour later than the time at which she had been expected. It was nearly eight o'clock when her cab stopped at the door of Upper Woburn Place, and the evening was foggy and cold. To Lesley fresh from the clear skies and air of a French city, street, house, and atmosphere alike seemed depressing. The chimes of St. Pancras' church, woefully out of tune, fell on her ear, and made her shiver; as she mounted the steps that led to the front door. How dear they would grow to her in time she did not then suspect, nor would she have easily believed! At present their discordance was part of the general discordance of all things, and increased the weight of dejection which lay upon her. Her mother's maid had orders to deliver her over to Mr. Brooke and then to come away; she was not to spend an hour in the house nor to partake of food within its walls. She had strict orders from Lady Alice on this point.

The house was a very good house, as London dwellings go; but to Lesley's eyes it looked strangely mean and narrow. It was very tall and the front was painted a chocolate brown. The double front doors, which opened to admit Lesley's boxes, showed an ordinary London hall, narrow, crowded with an oaken chest, an umbrella and hat stand, and lighted by a flaring gas lamp. At these doors two persons showed themselves; a neat but hard-featured maid-servant, and a lady of uncertain age, whom Lesley correctly guessed to be his sister and housekeeper, Miss Brooke. There was no sign of her father.

'Is this Mr. Brooke's house?' inquired Dayman, formally. She used to know Mr. Brooke by sight, for she had lived with Lady Alice for many years.

'Yes, this is the house, and this is his daughter, I suppose?' said Miss Brooke, coming forward, and taking Lesley's limp hand in hers. Miss Brooke had a keen, clever, honest face, but she was undeniably plain, and Lesley was not in a condition to appreciate the kindness of her glance.

'I must see Mr. Brooke himself before I leave my young lady,' Dayman announced.

'Run and fetch your master, Sarah,' said Miss Brooke, quickly. 'He cannot have heard the cab.'

The white-aproned servant disappeared into the back premises, and thence, in a moment or two, issued Caspar Brooke himself, at the sight of whom Miss Brooke involuntarily frowned and bit her lip. She saw at one glance that Caspar was to his 'study coat,' that his hair was disheveled, and that he had just laid down his pipe. These were small details in themselves, but they meant a good deal. They meant that Caspar Brooke himself would not do a single thing, would not go a single step out of his way, to conciliate the affection of Lady Alice's daughter. He had never in his life looked more of a Bohemian than he did just then. And Miss Brooke suspected him of wilful perversity.

Queen Victoria recently invited Miss Kate Marsden to luncheon at Balmoral, and conversed with her about her strange and sad experience among the Siberian lepers and her project for founding more leper colonies in Siberia. That Miss Marsden is a veritable heroine there can be no disputing, and the story of her journey through two thousand miles of swampy and unhealthy country in Asiatic Russia seems simply marvellous as the record of a woman's pluck.

The French Royalist ladies do not like the idea of having, when invited by the Comte and Comtesse de Paris on visits of three days to Stowe, in England, to take six dressy dresses with them. Three of the toilettes are to be worn in the daytime at the rate of one a day, and three in the corresponding evenings. The entertainments at Stowe are not very entertaining, and the Royalists have made up their minds that nothing short of a war, disastrous for France, can bring Royalty back.

In conferring the garter upon Lord Rosebery the Queen has not followed the principle of heredity which often seems to govern this appointment. None of Lord Rosebery's immediate ancestors were Knights of the Garter. His father, Lord Lalmeny, died young; and though both his grandfather and great-grandfather were Knights of the Thistle, neither of them received the honor of the garter. But every one will agree that Lord Rosebury fully deserves his newly conferred order.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the Head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, buying such name as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

"It Cured Mother."

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have terrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and Dyspepsia Cure, I was relieved and I am a well man. I can eat anything, my sleep was a blessing, and I can say this that it may be the means of convincing those of the curative qualities of this medicine, that I am especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains and sour stomach. I supplied her with a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of seven well known herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. It calms, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to yield to its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate coughs are overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsy, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

"RIZPAH ON THE ROCK"

REV. DR. TALMAGE'S SERMON ON SACKCLOTH AND SEPULCHRES.

Rizpah Sitting in Desolation—A Tragedy That Beats Anything Shakesperian or Victor Hugoian.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Dec. 4.—This is one of those discourses of Dr. Talmage, delivered from texts which no one seems to have used before. Important and practical lessons were drawn. The opening hymn, in which many thousands joined was:

Come ye disconsolate where'er ye languish.

The subject of the sermon was, "Rizpah on the rock." The text selected being 2 Samuel, 21.10: "And Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah, took sackcloth, and spread it for her upon the rock, from the beginning of harvest until water dropped upon them out of heaven, and suffered neither the birds of the air to rest on them by day, nor the beasts of the field by night."

Tragedy that beats anything Shakespearian or Victor Hugoian. After returning from the Holy Land I briefly touched upon it, but I must have a whole sermon for that scene. The explosion and flash of gunpowder have often been heard all the beasts and birds of prey from those regions, and now the shriek of the locomotive whistle, which I daily heard at Jerusalem, will for many miles around clear Palestine of cruel claw and beak. But in the time of the text those regions were populous with multitudes of jackals and lions. Seven sons of Saul had been crucified on a hill. Rizpah was mother to two, and relative to five of the boys. What had these boys done that they should be crucified? Nothing, except to have a bad father and grandfather. But now that the boys were dead, why not take them down from the gibbets? No. They are sentenced to expectoration, and eyes ease even to the greatest sufferer. Dr. Bulka, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to yield to its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate coughs are overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsy, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

The same wind that brings a cloud will bear it away again.

Rizpah sitting in desolation! One of Saul's favorites. Her personal attractions had won his heart. She had been aroused of fortune. With a mother's pride she looked on her princely children. Behold her in banishment and bereavement, Rizpah on the rock.

Some of the worst distresses have come to scenes of royalty and wealth. What porter at the mansion's gate has not let in clamping and ticketing? Blessed bringing evil despatch! On what tessellated hall has there not stood that solemn bier? Under what exquisite frescoes has there not been enacted a tragedy of death? What ceiled couch hath heard no cry of pain? What harp hath never thrilled with sorrow? What banquet hall has not at some time leaned against carved pillar and made utterance of woe? Call is not less bitter when a scaffold from a golden throne is reared, than when from a pewter mug. Sorrow if often attended by running footmen, and dressed in black cloth. Agonized behavior. Anne Boleyn is desolate in the palace of Henry VIII. Adolphus wept in German castles over the treachery of friends. Pedro I. among Brazilian diamonds shivered with fear of massacre. Stephen of England sat on a rocking throne. And every mast of pride has bent in the storm, and the highest mountains of honor and fame are covered with perpetual snow. Sickness will frost the rosiest cheek, wrinkle the smoothest brow and stiffen the sprightliest step. Rizpah quits the courtly circle and sits on the rock.

Perhaps you look back upon scenes differ from those in which now from day to day you mingle. You have exchanged the plenty and luxuriance of your father's house for privations and trials known to God and your own heart. The morning of life was flushed with promise. Troops of calamities since then have made desperate charge upon you. Darkness has come. Sorrows have swooped like carrion birds from the sky, and barked like jackals from the thicket. You stand amid your slain, anguished and woe struck. Rizpah on the rock.

So it has been in all ages. Vashu must doff the spangled robes of the Persian court, and go forth blasted from the palace gate. Hagar exchanges oriental comfort for the wilderness of Beersheba. Mary Queen of Scots must pass out from flattery and pomp to suffer ignominious death in the castle of Fotheringay. The wheel of fortune keeps turning, and mansions and huts exchange, and he who rode the chariot pushes the barrow, and instead of the glare of festal lights is the simmering of the peat-fire, and in place of Saul's palace is the rock, the cold rock, the desolate rock.

But that is the place to which God comes. Jacob with his head on a stone saw the shining ladder. Israel in the desert beheld the marshalling of the fiery baton. John on barren Patmos heard trumpeting and the clapping of wings, and the stroke of seraphic fingers on golden harps, and nothing but heavenly strength nerved Rizpah for her appalling mission amid the screams of wild birds and the stealthy tread of hungry monsters. In the grandest visions of glory, in the most rapturous experience of Christian love, the grandest triumphs of grace have come to the tried and the hard-pressed and the lonely and the crushed. God stooping down from heaven to comfort Rizpah on the rock.

Again, the tragedy of the text displays the courage of a woman amid great emergencies. What mother or sister or daughter would dare to go out to fight the cormorant and jackal? Rizpah did it. And so would you if an emergency demanded. Woman is naturally timid and shrinks from exposure and dangers, but stronger and more heroic when the achievement of great enterprises. And she is often troubled lest there might be occasions demanding fortitude when she would fail. Not so. Some of those who are afraid to look out of door after nightfall, and who quake in the darkness at the least uncertain sound, and who start at the slam of the door, and turn pale in a thunderstorm, if the day of trial came would be heroic and invulnerable. God has arranged it so that woman needs the trumpet of some great contest of principle or affection to rouse up her slumbering courage. Then she will stand under the cross fire of opposing hosts at Chalons to give wine to the wounded. Then she will lurk into prison and dark lane the message of salvation. Then she will brave the pestilence. Deborah goes out to shelter under into the heart of God's enemies. Abigail throws herself between a raiding party of infuriated men and her husband's vineyards. Rizpah fights back the vultures from the rock.

Among the Orkney islands an eagle swooped and lifted a child to its eyrie, far up on the mountains. With the spring of a panther the mother mounts hill above hill, crag above crag, height above height; the fire of her own eye outflashing the glare of the eagle's; and with unmailed hand, stronger than the iron beak and the terrible claw, she takes the wild bird down the rock. In the French Revolution, Gazotte was brought out to be executed, when his daughter threw herself on the body of her father, and said, "Strike, barbarians! You cannot reach my father but through my heart." The crowd parted, and linking their arms together father and daughter walked out, free. During the siege of Saragossa, Augustina carried refreshments to the gates. Arriving at the battery of Portillon, she found that all the gunners had been killed. She snatched a match from the hand of a dead artillery-man and fired off a twenty-six pounder, then leaped out and vowed she would not leave it alive. The soldiers looked in and saw her daring, and rushed forth and opened another tremendous fire on the enemy. The life of James I. of Scotland was threatened. Poets have sung those times, and able pens have lingered upon the story of manly endurance, but how few to tell the story of Catherine Douglasone of the Queen's maids, who ran to bolt the door, but found the bar had been taken away so as to facilitate the entrance of the assassin. She thrust her arm into the staple. The murderers rush ing against it, her arm was shattered. Yet how many have since lived and died who never heard this touching, self-sacrificing, heroic story of Catherine Douglas and her poor shattered arm. You know how calmly Madame Roland went to execution and how cheerfully Joanna of Naples walked to the castle of Munro, and how fearlessly Madame Grimaldi listened to her condemnation and how Charlotte Corday smiled upon the frantic mob that pursued her to the guillotine. And there would be no end to the recital if I attempted to present all the historical incidents which show that woman's courage will rouse itself for great emergency.

But I need not go so far. You have known some one who was considered a mere butterfly in society. Her hand had known no toil. Her eye had wept no tear over misfortune. She moved among obsequious admirers as careless as an insect in a field of blossoms bathed in sunlight. But in eighteen hundred and sixty-seven financial tempest struck the husband's estate. Before he had time to reef sail and set things wrong, the ship capsized and went down. Enemies cheered at the misfortune and wondered what would become of the butterfly. Flood upon flood and said she would die of a broken heart. "She will not work," say they, "and she is too proud to beg." But the prophecies have failed. Disaster has transformed the shining sluggard into a practical worker. Happy as a princess, though compelled to lull her own child to sleep and spread her own table and answer the ringing of her own door-bell. Her arm had been muscled for the conflict against misfortune, hunger and poverty and want, and all the other jackals Rizpah scares from the rock.

I saw one in a desolate home. Her merciless companions had pawned even the children's shoes for rum. From honorable ancestry she had come down to this. The cruse of oil was empty and the last candle gone out. Her faded frock was patched with fragments of her husband's old coat. Her worn on the bright marriage day. Confident in God, she had a strong heart, to which her children ran when they trembled at the staggering step and quailed under a father's curse. Though the heavens were filled with fierce winds and the thickets gnashing with rage, Rizpah watched faithfully day after day and year after year, and well and committed up by her God strengthened arm, were hurled down the rock.

You pass day by day along streets where there are heroines greater than Joan of Arc. Upon that cellar door there are conflicts as fierce as Sedan, and behind that bell mingle in the fight. Lifted in that garret there are tribunals where more fortitude is demanded than was exhibited by Lady Jane Grey or Mary Queen of Scots.

Now I ask if mere natural courage can do so much, what may we not expect of women who have gone on the great Sacrifice, and who are urged forward by all the voices of grace that sound from the Bible, and all the notes of victory that speak from the sky. Many years ago the Portlarshire steamer started from Hull bound for Dundee. After the vessel had been out a little while, the winds began to rave and billows to rise until a tempest was upon them. The vessel leaked, and the fires went out, and though the sails were hoisted fore and aft, she was speeding toward the breakers. She struck with her bows foremost on the rock. The coast-guard Amid the whirlwind and the darkness all were lost but nine. These clung to the wreck on the beach. Sleeping that night in Longstone Lighthouse was a girl of gentle spirit and comely countenance. As the morning dawns, I see that girl standing amid the spray and hurricane of contending elements looking through a glass upon the wreck and the nine wretched sufferers. She proposes to her father to take a boat and put out across the wild sea and rescue them. The father says "It cannot be done! Just look at the tumbling surf!" But the one persisted, and with her father bounds into the boat. Though never accustomed to plying the oar, she takes one and her father the other. "Steady now! Pull away! Pull away! The sea tossed up the boat as though it were a feather, and amid the foam and the wrath of the sea the wreck was reached, the exhausted people picked up and saved. Humane notices were ordered their thanks. Wealth poured into the lap of the poor girl. Visitors from all lands came to look on her sweet face; and when soon after she launched forth on a dark sea and Death was the oarsman, dukes and duchesses and mighty men sat down in tears in Alnwick Castle, to think they never again might see the face of Grace Darling.

No such deeds of daring will probably be asked of you, but hear you not the howl of the wild beasts of hell? And the sin that hath tossed ten thousand shivered hulks into the breakers? Know you not that the whole earth is strewn with the shipwrecked? That there are wounds to be healed and broken hearts to be bound and drowning souls to be rescued? Some have gone down and you come too late, but others are clinging to the wreck, are shivering with cold, are wrangling in the waves, are crying to you for deliverance. Will you not, oar in hand, put out to-day from the lighthouse? When the last ship's timber from the wreck went and the last Longstone beacon shall have been thundered down in the hurricane, and the last tempest shall have ceased its wrangling, and the sea itself shall have been licked up by the tongue of an consuming fire; the crowns of eternal reward shall be kindling into brighter glory on the brow of the faithful. And Christ, pointing to the incarnate that you reformed, and saved to sinner whom you taught to pray, and the outcast whom you pointed to God for shelter, will say, "You did it to Me! You did it to Me!"

GERMANY'S SMALL ARMS.

A Member of the Reichstag Sentenced for Libelling a Manufacturer—He Will Not Be Imprisoned.

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—The public prosecutor contends that the case of libel against the prisoner, Ahlwardt, had been proved. There was no justification whatever for the charges made by Ahlwardt that Loewe manufactured defective rifles and sold them to the Government.

The public prosecutor closed by demanding that the court sentence Ahlwardt to 18 months' imprisonment.

Ahlwardt spoke in his own defence. He maintained that he had furnished confirmation of all his statements, and had only failed to substantiate the charge that he admitted that he originally wrote his pamphlet for anti-Semitic purposes, but afterwards regarded the matter as one to inquire into the matter. He did not aim to weaken the confidence of the soldiers in the rifle process, but he sought to induce the War Office to remove useless rifles.

Rector Ahlwardt has been sentenced to five months' imprisonment.

The Hamburger-Correspondent says: There is a strong feeling in military quarters that no further orders for rifles should be given to Loewe & Co., but that they should be manufactured by the Government.

It is also reported that owing to irregularities proved to have occurred in Loewe's factory a number of superior officers believe that their rifles should be returned and replaced by State-made weapons.

A motion to exempt Rector Ahlwardt from arrest, on the ground that he is a member of the Reichstag, failed for want of necessary support, and it will be introduced in the Reichstag immediately after Ahlwardt's election is formally announced in the Reichstag.

In passing sentence on Ahlwardt the judge declared that the charge that the rifles were literally worthless proved to be unfounded. The military test of Loewe's guns had given brilliant results. Ahlwardt's statements were false. All other private persons and even Gunmaker Kirch were punishable by law. If such men as Ahlwardt could be allowed to go scot-free, nobody could safely venture upon the streets.

Nothing could justify the plea that he had acted for the public benefit.

The London Post's Berlin correspondent says: The public prosecutor, referring to the stolen documents on which Ahlwardt based his charges that the Loewe rifles needed repairs after manœuvres, said that it had been shown that the soldiers themselves had tampered with the rifles.

The inference is that the anti-Semitical agitation spread to the Landwehr. There was a sensation in court.

The lightness of the sentence excited surprise.

DEAD WALL NEWS

The Intense Anxiety with Which the French Government Is Watched.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The Paris correspondent of The Times says: Soon after 6 o'clock last evening a cluster of people was observed reading on a poster on the walls of the Ministry of Marine building the declaration which had been read tremblingly only two hours before by Premier Ribot.

The speed with which the poster was gotten out indicates the intense anxiety with which the Government is watched, and which is quite generally participated.

It is what I have throughout called a conspiracy, not only against the Republic, but against the State, couched in terms of high-minded patriotism. Mr. Ribot's statement places recent incidents in their proper perspective, recalling the all but frenzied or deluded conditions to a proper sense of their responsibilities and obligations.

Had yesterday's attempt failed to bring quiet, the gravest results to the country would have been insulted and his official existence would have been menaced. Happily time and circumstance, working on the same side, discovered how to avert the thunderbolt.

From the ambassadors, representatives of two parties, Monarchist and Republican Premier Ribot's literally trembling fingers as they fumbled the leaves of his statement, and all listened with breathless expectancy.

At the conclusion of the Premier's speech the whole Left and Centre gave a ringing shout of approval, and were round the galleries. "He has a majority."

The London Chronicle's Paris correspondent says: "There is no sign of any confession on the part of his colleagues or any confidence in Mr. Proust. The chief sufferer seems to be Joseph Reinach, who has lost all chance of being appointed to the next vacant embassy."

Albert Decrais will probably be disbarred, while M. Reinach will escape this fate.

The general effect on public opinion is now at its worst. The names of 50 senators and deputies who accepted Panama bribes are now freely mentioned. It is useless to deny that the existence of a popular pretender at the present moment would imply imminent danger of upsetting the republic.

This, however, is out of the question, national apathy being dominant.

EMIN PASHA AND PARTY.

REPORTED KILLED ON THE MARCH THROUGH AFRICA.

He Was Blind and Helpless — Mutiny, Starvation and Smallpox Decimated His Followers—His Expedition Failed Through Many Misfortunes.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The Post says that a report has been received in London from an Egyptian, formerly with Emin, to the effect that Emin and all his party were killed by Mazyanas in the march on the Ituri River.

Capt. Lugard's last report from Stuhlmann represented Emin as blind and helpless, while the expedition had failed through many misfortunes.

Mutiny and starvation decimated the ranks, and smallpox was contracted.

With an escort of Manyemas he and 19 of his followers traveled back to the coast.

WANT QUICK FACTS.

The Panama Canal Affair Remains a Lively Issue.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—It is reported the Government is ready to communicate to the Panama Committee the documents relating to the Panama Canal Company on condition that the members of the committee preserve such secrecy as will prevent the disclosures from interfering with the course of justice.

Three members of the Panama Committee, who were sent to examine the books of the firm of Kohn & Emanuel, reported today that they had found that during the first six months of 1888 Arton, the alleged go-between, had on several occasions drawn on the account of Baron Reinach for 1,000,000 francs.

M. Ribot, the Prime Minister, was present at the session of the committee today. He promised to act in concert with it and to assist in throwing full light upon the whole Panama affair. M. Bourgeois, Minister of Justice, was also present.

M. Beaupaire, the public prosecutor who opposed the Government's action in regard to the Panama Canal Company, has resigned his office.

His successor will be nominated by the president of the Council of Ministers.

The Panama Canal Committee to-day examined Deputy Vian, who is manager of the Dynamite Company. He testified that after the death of M. Barbe, who was charged with having received bribes, Baron Reinach sent his heirs for 320,000 francs, which he declared M. Barbe owed him.

M. Vian said, however, that he did not believe that the money was in any way connected with Panama Canal affairs.

Dr. Bouardel and the medical representative of the police, accompanied by Dr. Bertillion, have gone to Arbois to perform an autopsy on the body of Baron Reinach.

GREAT CATTLE LOSS.

No Rain for More Than Two Years in Part of New Mexico.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 10.—A prominent cattleman from northeastern New Mexico, just arrived here, tells of fearful suffering among the cattle of this drought-stricken districts.

He says that for more than two years the heavens have refused to yield rain, and as a result the water courses are dried up and the irrigating ditches are useless.

"At a low estimate," said he, "75,000 to 100,000 head of cattle have died from starvation and lack of water.

"Railroads are shipping cattle out of the region by train loads, but thousands of these cattle will die as they are too weak to withstand the winter. Some cattle companies estimate their loss as high as 60 per cent., and the average will run 35 to 40 per cent.

"The sheep are in almost as bad a condition as the cattle. Heaviest losses are reported in Calfax and adjoining counties."

BABY ONE SOLID SORE

Tried Everything without Relief. No Rest Night or Day. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

My baby, when two months old, had a breaking out with what the doctor called eczema. Her head, arms, feet, and hands were each one solid sore. I tried everything, but neither the doctors nor anything else did her any good. We could get no rest day or night with her. In my discouragement I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES, but I had no faith in them, for I had never seen a child with the like. To my great surprise, in one week's time after beginning with the CUTICURA REMEDIES, the sores were well, but I continued to use the REMEDIES for two weeks longer, and now she is as fat as a little pig and as well and sound as a dollar. I believe my baby would have died if I had not tried CUTICURA. I write this that every mother with a baby like mine can feel confident that there is a medicine that will cure, and cure speedily, and that medicine is the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

MRS. BETTIE BIRKNER, Lockhart, Texas.

Cuticura Remedies

Cure every humor of the skin and scalp of infancy and childhood, whether torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, or blotchy, with loss of hair, and every impurity of the blood, whether simple, scrofulous, or hereditary, when the best physicians and all other remedies fail. Parents, save your children years of mental and physical suffering. Begin now. Cures made in childhood are permanent.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies of modern times, are absolutely pure, and may be used on the youngest infant with the most gratifying success.

NORTH HASTINGS.

The Conservatives of North Hastings will meet at Madoc on Friday next, to nominate a candidate for the Commons in succession to the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell.

A GRATIFYING RECEPTION.

The Hon. Senator Bowell arrived in the city this morning, after spending the past two days in North Hastings. His reception by his late constituents was of the most gratifying description, and was a revelation to him of how deep-seated is the affection entertained for him by his political friends, and the esteem in which he is held by those from whom he has differed so widely. The welcome accorded to him yesterday by his brother Orangemen at the dedication of the new Orange Hall at the Allan Settlement, exceeded that ever given to him—indeed it was an ovation, of the most enthusiastic kind. From political friends and foes he has received the strongest assurances of the deep regret which they feel at losing him as their representative.

NO "KNUCKLING DOWN."

The Globe, with a degree of enterprise that does it credit—although it is extremely doubtful whether anything useful comes of it—has sent forth two correspondents whose mission is to obtain opinions from those whom they meet, as to the state of the country.

These gentlemen, who travel in company, have been visiting Wellington, where they conversed with many farmers of that strongly Grit county on the subject of their mission, and each correspondent, besides reporting the result of his conversations, sums up his own conclusions founded thereupon.

The Conservative correspondent comments as follows:

In my first letter, if I remember aright, I alluded to the fact that the farm homes of the county of Wellington do not give the visitor the impression of heavy mortgages; still, I am constrained to admit that mortgaged farms are not unknown to farmers in this neighborhood. Nor is the cause of such, a very great mystery. The year has not been a very favorable one—prices have been low; but this is not the proper explanation. Years ago farmers used to make money, but farmers in those days lived closely, kept expenses down, and managed to put by for humid weather. Now-a-days the luxuries of modern life have been introduced amongst the concessions and side-lines. The natty buggy—sometimes two or three of them—has superseded the heavy waggon of other days. Now-a-days the sons of the farmer are more anxious to earn their living with their coats on instead of off their backs. One son must be a doctor, another a lawyer or a storekeeper, and so on. Each of these has to be sent to the university in the city, and the old man on the farm has to foot the bill. His son's labor being lost to him, the father has to hire help, and this makes a tidy hole in the year's savings. Nowadays the farmer's daughter objects to the unlovely existence of former days, and a musical education, with full pianoforte accompaniment, is added to the yearly bill of expenses. Again. I am informed that the average farmer is easily seduced into making heavy purchases, when extended time is the essence of the contract. Farms of 100 acres have machinery on them sufficient to work 500 acres. I desire to point out these facts to show that it is not altogether a policy of protection which is responsible for the hard times complained of by some of our farmers during this period of universal depression. Several cases were quoted to me of English tenant farmers of the right class having come out to this neighborhood, and who by shrewd foresight and intelligent work have become wealthy within a very few years."

This is probably true to a certain extent, but not wholly.

He appears to have found opinion to be that the McKinley tariff had not seriously affected this country, and that the export of lambs and sheep had increased. An extensive dealer in horses said that the McKinley bill had had but little effect on his particular line of business, which is in the higher grade of horses. The trade in lower grade animals, he thinks, has slightly decreased, but in the class which he is specially devoted to there has been an increase each year. He readily admits that he would gladly welcome a certain measure of reciprocity. He does not think the N. P. has affected the farmer injuriously. One reason for a slight decrease in the export of lower-grade horses is undoubtedly owing to the substitution of electricity for horse cars all over the continent. Whilst not denying that a certain amount of depression exists, he contends that the same applies to the United States and England.

This gentleman's opinion is that of the Conservative party as to reciprocity, and tallies with that of horse buyers in this section as to his business.

Both correspondents agree in stating that annexation feeling is very scarce, the Grit writer saying:

The argument I have most frequently heard here in opposition to annexation is the statement that the farmers in the States are no better off than in Canada.

This is notoriously within the truth, for there is not a State in the Union in which the farmers are so well off as are those of Ontario.

Summing up, this correspondent goes on to say of the farmers of Wellington:

They are engaged in cattle feeding and hog raising to a large extent, although enough barley is grown to make them appreciate at its full value the United States market from which they are shut out, and its value not alone for barley, but for horses, lambs, poultry, eggs and wool as well. There was scarce y any variation in Saturday's interviews. The prices were ruinously low. The price of wheat was as low relatively as any other grain; it could not be helped; the price of wheat was made in the open competition of the world by the supply and demand, but the price of barley was low because a tariff walled off this country. This is a distinction which the farmers understand, and they think if tariffs did not meddle with the balance of their trade they could obtain a chance of remunerative price for their produce. Again, they could get them back the market for their lambs which they made such good use of until that source of revenue was cut off. The two who were not with the majority were, however, not strong in their opposition to free trade. One of them, in fact, admitted that he hoped the McKinley bill would be repealed. There is not, with the strong desire for free trade, much hopefulness that Canada could induce the United States to make a wide reciprocity arrangement.

Free trade with the United States in the products of the farm, the forest, the mine and the fisheries is, and has been, the policy of the governing party in the Dominion; and it is such free trade as the farmers no doubt meant, as applying to their own industry. Successive Governments have in vain endeavored to obtain it, and the reason is, as stated in the above extract, that the United States will not make a wide reciprocity arrangement. Happily, thanks to the effort of our Government, we are not now dependent upon our neighbors to any great extent for a market.

There is among friends of the national policy a return to the ground upon which it was first offered to Canada—the ground that it is a re taliatory tariff. Their argument has shifted from a defence that it is desirable for the upbuilding of manufac ries to the defence, or excuse, that it ought to be kept up because the Americans will not let us into their markets. This position is a popular one among Conservatives, while to the Liberals upon whom I have tested it it has also appealed with some force. There is a strong feeling against Canada adopting any course that would seem like "knuckling down" to the United States. And it is pretty clear that the Conservatives press and stumpers have succeeded in holding to their party a considerable number of their followers whose sympathies during the last election were otherwise all with the struggle of the Liberals for continental free trade.

There will certainly be no "knuckling down" by Canada, and the policy of continental free trade, which is the very essence of knuckling down, is dead.

The Globe's object in making this inquiry is, of course, to demonstrate that there is distress amongst our farmers, and widespread discontent with the policy of the Government. So far, at least, its enterprise has been a failure in that respect.

Bradstreet's Report.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Throughout the Province of Ontario trade has been almost featureless. Collons have advanced, due to higher-priced cotton, and metals are more active.

Unfavorable weather has checked trade in the Province of Quebec. Collections are slow. The movement of cereals is only local in character.

Halifax, Montreal, Toronto and Hamilton report bank clearings for the week aggregating $25,053,000, a gain of nearly 20 per cent. over last week, and of 14 per cent. over the like week a year ago.

There were 31 business failures in the Dominion reported this week, against 35 last week, 45 in the week a year ago and 40 two years ago.

Monthly Prizes for Boys and Girls

The "Sunlight" Soap Co., Toronto, offer the following prizes every month till further notice, to boys and girls under 16, residing in the Province of Ontario, who send the greatest number of "Sunlight" wrappers: $10, 2nd, $6; 3rd, $3; 4th, $1; 5th to 14th, a Handsome Book; and a pretty picture to those who send not less than 12 wrappers. Send wrappers to "Sunlight" Soap Office, 43 Scott St., Toronto not later than 20th of each month, and marked "Competition"; also give full name, address, age, and number of wrappers. Winners' names will be published in The Toronto Mail on first Saturday in each month.

From the Jaws of Death.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod ver Oil in the most desperate cases of neumption. When all other remedies have failed Miller's Emulsion nearly always succeeds. It is the best kind of flesh and blood maker, and has been used with marked success by the physicians in the Insane Asylum, Penitentiary, Hotel Dieu, and General Hospital in Kingston, Ont. In big bottles, 50c and $1, at all Drug Stores.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and sure cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for cleaning up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50 cents a package.

MONETARY CONFERENCE

INDIA CURRENCY COMMITTEE MEET AGAIN.

The British Delegates Will Return to England Shortly—How They Appear to Treat the Conference Now With Indifference.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 10.—It is expected that Senator Jones will wind up the debate on international demetallism on Tuesday with an important declaration. The committee sitting on Thursday will be devoted to an endeavor to crystallize the results of the conference.

The special committee will meet again to-morrow to further consider the various plans.

Regret has been expressed in the last few days that the de Rothschild proposals have not been completely withdrawn as it is generally felt that they would have formed the basis of a temporary compromise if an understanding with regard to the chief objection of the Americans, the price at which silver should be purchased, could le arrived at.

A scheme on similar lines might yet be adopted. In that event the conference will be adjourned till May, to enable the delegates to submit the scheme to their respective governments.

It is rumored to-day several delegates have received revised instructions inspiring the hope that a modus vivendi may yet be discovered.

Mr. Beernaert, the Belgian Prime Minister, has issued an emphatic denial of a statement widely circulated in England and Germany that he had declared in the lobby of the chamber that the conference was practically a failure.

INDIA'S SILVER.

The Baron Hirschell Currency Committee Has Resumed its Meetings.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Letters from the British delegates to the Brussels conference announce their return to England next week.

They will not oppose whatever request the American delegates may make in regard to a prolonged adjournment.

The representative of the Associated Press has authority from a high source to state that the official delegates, Sir C. Rivera-Wilson and Sir C. Fremantle, Deputy Master of the British Mint, do not expect the conference to be resumed after adjournment, and that Mr. Bertram Currie will decline to return to Brussels.

In the meantime the Baron Hirschell India Currency Committee, which adjourned without date until the Brussels Conference should have ended, has resumed its sittings and is taking evidence of experts.

Questioned by the India Currency Association as to whether it would take measures to protect the currency in the event of failure of the Brussels conference, the Indian Government to-day replied, declining to give assurance on the subject.

The reply further states that the Government cannot recommend the Secretary of India to stop the sale of council bills below the rates now current.

Pending decision by the Herschell Committee the India Currency Association thought to steady the position by getting the Indian Government to promise not to sell council bills below fixed rate. The Government, however, prefers to retain complete freedom of action.

A German's Interpellation.

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—In the Reichstag yesterday Herr Mirbach, a Conservative, who was supported by many members of his party, introduced an interpellation demanding to know whether the Federal Government approved of the German delegates to the Brussels conference not supporting the almost unanimous efforts of the other delegates to combat the depreciation of silver.

Brutal Brigands.

ATHENS, Dec. 10.—A horrible outrage was recently perpetrated by the brigands in the north of Greece, who are becoming daily more turbulent. The victim was a garde champetre, or county policeman, whom the brigands suspected of reporting their movements to the authorities.

He was stripped and transfixed with a steel skewer and then deliberately roasted to death over a slow fire—"like a lamb," as the Greek papers report it. His burnt body was afterwards exposed on the high road, with a paper on his breast to the effect that "Such shall be the fate of all those who betray the movements of the brigands."

Probably No Massacre.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 10.—The Congo Company has sent strong reinforcements from Stanley Pool to Katanga. The latest news concerning the Jacques expedition was dated Aug. 27. Capt. Jacques and his company were then safe and well at Umpala. It is considered therefore that the rumors of the massacre are untrue.

Ignited from Concussion.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—The Temps says that a special experimental commission at Toulon has decided against the use of petroleum as fuel in torpedo vessels. Eight out of ten cases of petroleum ignited from concussion after 12 shots had been fired at the protecting armor.

Stock Brokers' Frauds.

HAMBURG, Dec. 10.—A sensation has been caused here by the suspension of Carouw & Bartles, stock brokers. Carouw has absconded and Bartles has surrendered.

The frauds committed by the firm extend over a long period, and aggregate 7,500,000 marks.

Telegraphers' Strike.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Chief Ramsay of the Order of Railway Telegraphers declared yesterday that the Rock Island operators' strike was on in full force, despite General Manager St. John's denials and counter statements. "The Rock Island side tracks are already blocked with freight trains, and the freight business of the road is at a standstill," he said.

The Penalty is Severe.

WINDSOR, Dec. 10.—Charles Little, jr., of Sandwich East was arrested yesterday charged with seducing Ida Springgarden. The girl charges Little with accomplishing her ruin under the promise of marriage.

The prisoner was released on $2000 bail, his father and himself being the sureties.

Two Fires in Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Dec. 10.—A frame storage building in Wellington-street north, property of the Hamilton Vinegar Works, was burned this morning along with the contents, which included about 50 barrels of sugar. Loss covered by insurance.

The Orange Hall in King-street was gutted by fire last night. Loss covered by insurance.

Tug Burned.

AMHERSTBURG, Ont., Dec. 10.—The tug International was burned last night; no insurance; Capt. F. B. Hackett, owner.

The Spanish Government.

MADRID, Dec. 10.—The Queen Regent has summoned Senor Sagasta and told him she will consider his declination to form a cabinet and communicate with him today.

The public are greatly disappointed. There are rumors of serious obstacles to delay a settlement, the powerful military party opposing a Liberal cabinet.

A Bomb Exploded.

VIENNA, Dec. 10.—The Tageblatt says that a large bomb exploded near the dwellings of the workmen in the great iron works of Krupp's nephew at Berndorf. Much damage was caused to property.

The Guinness Trust.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The Goldsmiths' Company has devoted £2500 to the Guinness Trust for the building of industrial dwellings.

INCREASED REVENUE.

The Expenditure Increasing Even More Rapidly.

OTTAWA, Dec. 10.—The statement of revenue and expenditure, which will appear in to-days Canada Gazette, will show that while the revenue continues to increase, the expenditure is increasing even more rapidly, so that the surplus for the first five months of the fiscal year is nearly $1,000,000, while the public debt shows a decrease of two millions and a half since the close of the last fiscal year.

To-morrow's Canada Gazette will contain the formal notices of the appointment of Hon. Mr. Chapleau to the Lieutenant-Governorship of Quebec; of Hon. Mr. Angers and Mr. Ives as members of the Privy Council and of the different ministers sworn in on Wednesday.

Mr. Nicholas Flood Davin's appointment as Queen's Counsel will be gazetted to-morrow. It is dated Oct. 22.

Judge Burbidge of the Exchequer Court publishes the rules to be followed in any proceedings before that court to impeach any patent issued under the Patent Act.

The Hamilton Provident and Loan Society gives notice that it will apply to Parliament for amendments to its charter, giving it power to increase its capital to three millions, to do business in any of the provinces of the Dominion, and to issue stock in Great Britain.

The Manufacturers' Life and Accident Insurance Company gives notice of application to Parliament for an amendment to its charter so as to allow it to do a general guarantee business.

Contracts for the erection of public buildings at Lunenburg, N.S., and Chatham, N.B., have been let by the Public Works Department to the Oxford Furniture Company and Joseph Treen respectively, their tenders being the lowest. The buildings will cost in the neighborhood of $25,000 each.

Hon. John Carling had a personal farewell to the clerks in the Department of Agriculture to-day, and Hon. Mr. Angers was introduced and took possession of his office. Mr. Carling will continue to reside in Ottawa; and will for the present at least occupy an office in the House of Commons.

The town is full of members of Parliament to-day. Sam Hughes, Bob White, Josiah Wood, Roy McLellan, Dwyer and others being here.

All the departments have received instructions to hurry up their estimates, the consideration of which will be commenced in council next week. It is probable that Parliament will be called for the dispatch of business on Jan. 19, but the exact date is not yet fixed.

The Effects of Liquor.

UXBRIDGE, Dec. 10.—William Dunn, a farmer residing near here, was arrested yesterday and appeared before Mayor Hamilton in the evening on a charge of aggravated assault preferred by his wife.

The evidence of Mrs. Dunn and the two children showed that Dunn came home drunk the previous evening, knocked his wife down, kicked her, and then threatened to brain the whole family if they did not leave the house, thereby forcing them to flee in a half-clothed condition to a neighbor's house.

The prisoner admitted that he only threatened to brain them. He was committed to stand his trial at Whitby.

CASE OF EXTRADITION.

This Time it is a Mitchell Bank That is the Sufferer.

TORONTO, Dec. 10.—The Attorney-General's Department has another extradition case on its hands, George Vickers, formerly a music teacher in Mitchell, having been arrested at Hillsdale, Michigan, yesterday on a charge of embezzling forged notes to the amount of $1400 with a Mitchell banker.

Vickers will fight extradition and says he will commit suicide rather than come back to Canada.

Recovered Damages.

BUFFALO, Dec. 10.—Mrs. J. C. Smith of Toronto has recovered $4000 damages from The Buffalo Express for libel.

BUTTERFLY TEA.

ST. Andrew's Church Association intend giving a Butterfly Tea in the lecture room of the church on MONDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 12TH. An excellent bill of fare, with novel decorations will be provided. JUST A WORD

—ABOUT—

Quality and Style

A worthy gift should have in it the substantial elements of quality, so that it need not see its day of usefulness limited to the holiday season. We do not offer inferior articles, but, relative to the price, everything is the best in its line.

We have endeavored in all departments to show the latest styles, patterns and designs the market affords, and we are confident that after you make us a visit and inspect our goods you will come to the conclusion that we have succeeded in every respect. Our stock is Stylish and Beautiful,

FAIRYLAND!

At last we are ready with Fairyland.
You remember our Fairyland of last year—the sensation of the Christmas season in Belleville.
Happy buyers of Christmas presents thronged our place from morning to night, and the hum of busy holiday life was good to hear.
Why? You know why then, but perhaps you've forgotten by this time, and pardon us if we remind you of the secret of our Xmas boom.
Listen!—every article bought for our holiday trade is USEFUL, not only beau iful, remember, but USEFUL.
Dull times make people careful in their Christmas buying. Money is spent now a days with a view to utility, and our goods are for practical use, not merely for ornament, and that's our secret.
Did you think of this?

THE Butterfly Tea in the St. Andrew's Church lecture room promises to be a most enjoyable affair. The musical programme contains the names of many favorites, the decorations and the tea will be substantial. Remember, Monday evening, at 6:30.

When kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull back-ache is the kidney's cry for relief. If Dodd's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney ——see that a persistant use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

The general verdict of the smokers of Canada is that "Myrtle Navy" is the finest tobacco they have ever used. There can be no mistake upon this point, for it is proved by this tangible evidence. The large demand for this tobacco shows it to be true, and the character of the demand gives further proof. It has never been of the spasmodic kind, up one month and down the next. It has been a sustained and constantly increasing demand. The unsurpassed quality of the tobacco accounts for this.

MADOC, Ont. Dec. 10th.—George Haggerty of the 5th concession of Madoc township suicided this morning by cutting his throat in a fit of despondency. He is just dead.

Deceased, who was about 45 years of age, lived some two miles from the village. He leaves a wife and family.

Mr. F. Davey Diamond has been appointed private secretary for A. J. Sawyer & Co., wholesale grain merchants of Minneapolis and Duluth.

Mr. Chas. R. Dench has secured a good position as accountant in the office of the Union Ry. Pittsburg, Penn.

Mr. G. Leon Sterling writes that he has obtained a good position with a business firm in Detroit with a salary of seventy-five dollars a month.

Mr. M. Baragar and Mr. G. G. Horton, after graduating, left for Detroit and obtained situations immediately after their arrival there; Mr. Baragar in the offices of the Detroit and Huron Ry, and Mr. Horton in the C. P. Ry offices.

Mr. Bogle informs us that the present attendance at the college is about 50, in advance of what it was a year ago.

Sons of Scotland.

The second annual meeting of the Sons of Scotland Camp was held on Thursday evening. The secretary's report showed a large increase of membership during the past year, with the prospect of a still larger increase the coming year, on account of the low rate of insurance, the death levy on each thousand being only four dollars. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—Chief, A. E. McColl, M.D.; Chieftain, J. C. Falconer; Past Chief, Wm. Smeaton; Chaplain, A. Mathison; Rec. Sec., Jas. Johnston; Fin. Sec., A. H. Campbell; Treas., A. Harris-Marshal, W. B. Walker; S.B., Wm. Mallock; S.G., A. McGie; J.G., Jas. Falconer; Physician, A. D. Wallace, M.D.; Auditors, W. B. Walker, Jas. A. Chisholm; Trustees, D. M. Waters, Thos. Stewart, Dr. Walker; Piper, M. McDonald.

Revenue and Expenditure.

The revenue of the past five months shows an increase of $624 000 over the corresponding month last year. The total for the five months is $16,662,770, as against $15,038,102. The expenditure for the period shows a decrease of $800,000, as contrasted with last year; the amount for the past five months being $11,757,794, as against $12,546,047. The surplus of revenue over expenditure to date is $8,904,976, as against $2,492,150 during the same period last year. The current fiscal year therefore shows an augmentation of surplus to the extent of $1,412,826, a most encouraging position of affairs. The expenditure on capital account for the five months is $1,651,191, as against $1,938,071 during the same period last year.

"Labor Omnia Vincit."

The Ladies' Aid of Bleecker St. Church held their monthly parlor social last evening at Rev. Mrs. A. Campbell's. The house was filled with joyous, happy people. Rev. D. O. Crossley and the Glee Club of Albert College rendered a number of very fine songs, to the great delight of the company. Miss Allen, Miss Spafford and Mr. Berry gave recitations that charmed the people. The Ladies' Aid became responsible for one hundred and fifty dollars of the debt on the church, and they are to be congratulated, as they have already nearly the first payment of $60 secured.

Cake and coffee were served at the close of the programme and the crowd dispersed seemingly pleased and profited.

Promoted.

Mr. L. S. Morphy, who has had charge of the Accounts department at the station under Mr. Gunn for the past three years, has been fortunate in getting the appointment of agent at Dominion, a competitive point near Montreal, where are located the Dominion Bridge works and other large factories. Mr. Morphy was popular with the patrons of the road here, and much thought of by Mr. Gunn and the other officials at the station. His duties at Dominion take him away at once. Socially and otherwise he will be much missed. He will be succeeded here by Mr. Lurke, late of the superintendent's staff, Belleville.

PARKDALE, Ont., Feb. 27th, 1888 — Gentlemen, it gives me pleasure to let you know I have derived great benefit from the use of Nerviline. I have been a great sufferer from Neuralgia in the face, and last two years was quite a martyr to the malady. So soon as I observed the Nerviline advertised I obtained a bottle from our druggists Messrs. John Gray & Co., Parkdale, and the effect was marvellous; pain ceased and I can enjoy sound sleep at night, and rise refreshed. I cannot speak too highly of it and heartily recommend it. As Far as Montreal.

The Oak Hall Clothing House received an order this morning from Montreal for three overcoats and one reefer. They were ordered through a commercial traveller who came with sizes and all measures complete. These coats are for four young men employed in the great wholesale woollen house of Mr. Wilfrid Sorel & Co. Their orders called for Sanford's coats only. As can be seen, the Oak Hall reputation for good goods at low prices extends as far as Montreal.

Holiday Trip to Great Britain.

A SOCIAL GATHERING.

The Members of "E" Company, 15th Batt. at the Festive Board.

A Large Number in Attendance—Patriotic Speeches the Order of the Day.

"E" Company of the 15th Battalion, Argyle Light Infantry, held their first annual dinner last night at the Queen's Hotel. There were present a large number of the members of the company. Capt. A. Robertson, a popular young man, is at the head of the company, and is an efficient officer. He presided at the gathering, associated with him at the head of the table were Col. S. S. Lazier, Capt. Ponton, Capt. Wills, Capt. Halliwell, Lieut. W. W. Power, Lieut. Clapp, Sergt.-Maj. McRae, Paymaster J. L. Biggar and Dr. Cook. Lieut. B. Sills occupied the vice chair.

The spread, which was provided by the Power Bros., was all that could be desired, the table being filled with the delicacies of the season. Due justice was done to the repast, after which the following toasts were proposed:

"The Queen"—God Save the Queen, by the company.

"The Prince of Wales and all the Royal Family."—Song by Mr. F. Lewis.

"The Army, Navy and Volunteers. This was ably responded to by Capt. Halliwell, who paid a high tribute to the commanding officer of E company, also the army of Great Britain and the many victories which it had achieved. The 15th Battalion was always ready to do its duty.

Sergt. Worrell gave a recitation, entitled "Paddy the Piper."

"Our Fair Dominion." This toast was ably responded to by Capt. Wills and Corporal Falconer.

Song by Mr. Thos. Powers.

"Our Guests," responded to by Dr. Cook and Lieut. Clapp. The latter also gave a recitation which evoked enthusiasm.

Song—Mr. F. Lewis.

"The Commanding officer, staff and officers," responded to by Col. S. S. Lazier, Paymaster J. L. Biggar and Capt. Ponton.

Song, Capt. Robertson.

"Non-Commissioned officers," responded to by Sergt. Major E. McRae.

Song, Sergt. Cunnington.

"Our regiment," responded to by Sergts. T. Bowne and Geo. Worrell.

"The Press," responded to by P. Harrison.

Recitation by Geo. Worrell.

"The ladies," W. Reeves.

"The Commanding officer of E. Company." This toast was fittingly replied to by Capt. Robertson.

"Our host," responded to by W. Power. The singing of "Auld Lang Syne, brought the evening's entertainment to a close.

Church Reopening.

The reopening of the Methodist church on the 4th concession of Sidney was a grand success. On Sabbath, large and appreciative congregations gathered to listen to the very excellent discourses, delivered by Rev. Dr. Gardiner in the morning, and Rev. Mr. Edmison, B.D., in the evening. These sermons and the very gracious influence that accompanied them will not soon be forgotten.

On Monday evening a superb supper was served in the gallery, and after three hundred persons had partaken of the bountiful repast, a very interesting platform meeting was held, which was presided over by Mr. N. Vermilyea and addressed by Rev. Messrs. Baker, M.A., Roberts, Robeson and Taylor. After a very applied address by Mr. Baker, the popular minister of Bridge St. church, Rev. Mr. Roberts, President of B. C. Conference, appealed to the congregation for 575 dollars to make up $1,300 (the cost of repairs) which was realized. Prof. Canfield, and daughter, enlivened the occasion by singing very choice selections. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Faul, expressed the thanks of the trustees and congregation to the subscribers, chairman, and speakers for their liberal donations and valuable services, when one of the best tea meetings ever held in the stone church was brought to a close with the benediction by the President.

What is Dandruff?

A disease of the scalp that causes falling of the hair, fading of the hair, in fact, death of the hair. It irritates the scalp and causes scales and eczematic eruptions—produces baldness. Bear in mind that Anti-Dandruff removes Dandruff with three applications—stops falling and restores fading hair to its original color. Sold by druggists at 75 cents per bottle.

Have Passed.

Miss Mary Frost and Miss Lucy McRae, who have been attending the Ladies' Model School, returned home last evening—and, as might be expected, were successful in procuring third class certificates.

Shipment of Horses.

On Thursday night Mr. Walter Fanning shipped 20 horses to Boston. The animals were all first class.

GRASPING, AVARICIOUS CAPITALISTS

ARE WHAT OUR COMPETITORS CALL US!

GRASPING, because we want the trade of the earth! AVARICIOUS, because we hang on to the almighty dollar! CAPITALISTS, beause we have the money to tear them to pieces in the wholesale market!

Well, you can see what it amounts to. Success over brings envy and distrust. If we were only half as successful, we would be feared only half as much as we are.

Our push and principle alarm our competitors. Our business grip make them wince. Our big sales excite their envy. Our popularity is what they cannot block and must put up with.

Talk of big stocks! Shout of immense piles of goods! GOUGH knows what big stocks mean. Throughout Ontario, in the best towns, GOUGH has clothing stores. It is a notorious fact that he does the trade of the town. He buys cheaper and carries more goods than all his competitors combined.

His last great purchase of wholesale stock at 60c. on the $ is a paralyzer. This stock was manufactured by H. Shorey & Co., Montreal, and amounts to over $20,000. Owing to the immense stock already in our main store, we were compelled to open another store next to Dunnet's Dry Goods House. We could not get it all into our main store.

Remember, within six weeks we have captured two stocks, amounting to over $56,000, and when we say we are in a position to sell these goods at less than the ordinary merchant buys for, we can prove it. Ask the railroad people who receives the most goods and they will tell you GOUGH, by ten times. Notwithstanding the low price of wheat and cry of hard times with other merchants, we are head and shoulders ahead of the best sales on record.

Give It Time To Grow.

The statement that the Canadian people "are stagnating in a semi-independent, semi colonial condition" is one of those mischievous platitudes which has a sufficient resemblance to truth to pass current for political wisdom with those whose minds are only open to the influence of catchy phrases.

If this country is stagnating—and that has yet to be proved—it is certainly not in any way owing to its connection with the mother land, because we practically possess now absolute independence in the management of our own affairs. It would be just as sensible to say that Ontario is stagnating because it forms part of the Dominion, as to affirm that Canada suffers from her connection with the Empire.

The endeavor of course is to establish a parallel between a young man under the control of his father, and a young country under the control of the parent state. But the analogy is entirely false, and mischievous in proportion to its apparent fairness. The truth of the matter is that the position of Canada is unique, and as difficult as it is unprecedented. In the first place it has to stand in constant and unfair comparison with the republic to the south of us. The United States had a long start in the race, and from the very beginning it was united. It takes years for a country to acquire the momentum which culminates in such rapid progress as that going on in the States today. Canada, with its twenty-five years of united national life, can show far more progress than was achieved in the neighboring nation in the first quarter of a century, but unfortunately some Canadians are not content with this. They expect the child to have the full strength of the man.

Nations like individuals must have time to grow. Each meets with sickness and distempers, which derange the system, and retard development, but in the end they grow out of them and attain to the power and glory of complete manhood. In all that makes for true happiness Canada is doing well. There is no country in the world in which the general average of comfort is higher. Economic causes have led to agricultural depression the world over, but the Canadian farmer, although afflicted by the general depression, manages to make a comfortable and sufficient living. That the artisan's condition is better than that of his fellow laborer to the south is proved by the absence of the disastrous strikes which have scarred the face of the Republic like the ravages of a pestilence. The whole trouble is that men are making a fetish of wealth, and individual selfishness kills out the aspiration for a nationalideal. There is nothing so utterly cruel and pitiless as the gold idiots. All considerations of honor and patriotism, even the sacredness of family ties, must give way to the preponderating dollar. It is the curse and danger of the age and the great American Republic will one day be rent to its ruin by this overmastering passion.

The evils from which we suffer are endured in a greater degree by other civilized nations, and are to a greater extent economic than political. Our connection with the mother land does not aggravate them or in any way operate as a set back, and those who for political purposes are endeavoring to work up a morbid discontent are appealing to the basest side of human nature and making of selfishness a lever wherewith to pull down the fair structure of the nation's future.—Toronto News.

SUNSHINE comes, no matter how dark the clouds are, when the woman who is borne down by woman's troubles turns to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If her life is made gloomy by the chronic weakness, delicate derangements, and painful disorders that afflict her sex, they are completely cured. If she's overworked, nervous, or "run-down," she has new life and strength.

"Favorite Prescription" is a powerful, invigorating tonic and a soothing and strengthening nervine, purely vegetable, perfectly harmless. It regulates and promotes all the proper functions of womanhood, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and vigor. For every "female complaint" and disturbance, it is the only remedy so sure and unfailing that it can be guaranteed.

If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Blotches Cured.

DEAR SIRS,—In 1890 my body was covered with blotches and I was at last induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters; by the time I had used 8½ bottles of it I was completely cured, and I cannot speak too highly of it.

Made With Skill.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skilful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

Out of Sorts—Symptoms: Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure,' and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

CONSERVATIVE CAUCUS.

A PROTECTIONIST PLATFORM WILL BE DEMANDED.

Greatest Political Phenomenon of the Day—Home Rule Bill Again Awarded —Lady Blandford is Made a Duchess by the Queen.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The annual Conservative caucus, known as the Union of Constitutional Association, will open on Monday at Sheffield.

Over 1000 delegates are expected to be present. The party managers, who raised the clamor of the rank and file for a protectionist platform, have been obliged to give way.

The feeling displayed at the Agricultural Conference, and now pervading the party, compelled the caucus executive to accept resolutions protectionist in spirit, though veiled in form. One of the resolutions that will be submitted to the caucus declares that free trade is against the best interests of the working classes of Great Britain.

Another pronounces it necessary to regulate foreign imports by countervailing duties, a compromise for protection that deceives nobody.

Will Favor Bi-Metallism.

Mr. Arthur J. Balfour will address the delegates on Tuesday. He will probably tone down the protection tendencies, but will not omit to accentuate the declarations in favor of bi-metallism, which promises to be among the leading tricks of the Conservative game.

The Home Rule Bill.

An amended draft of the Home Rule bill was sent to the Cabinet ministers to-day. The bill now in the hands of the ministers is the latest form of the measure, but it cannot be pronounced a finality. The financial clauses of the bill still remain undecided. The whole bill is subjected to revision.

The Queen's Social Rule.

It is reported that the Queen authorizes Lady Blandford, the first wife of the late Duke of Marlborough, to assume the title of Duchess of Marlborough.

This action on the part of the Queen could not nullify the right of the Duke's second wife to the title of Duchess, but it would stamp the Queen's opinion of the position of the first wife.

Astor to Write a Novel.

Mr. William Waldorf Astor is a frequent visitor at the British Museum. It is understood that he is gleaning material for a historic novel.

Reed's Idea of Home Rule.

Sir Edwin Reed publishes a long letter displaying that there is a revolt on the part of many Liberals.

He declares to all whom it may concern that he and other commoners will not be a party to any Home Rule scheme giving Ireland control of anything more than purely local and domestic affairs.

He will not assist any separation or arbitration to release prisoners, while the questions like the restoration of evicted tenants he will vote independently, as he thinks just and right to all.

The Times is jubilant over Sir Edwin Reed's letter and says it will be a painful subject of speculation to the Liberal leaders how many will follow Sir Edwin.

COTTON OPERATORS.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—A month has elapsed since the beginning of the great cotton strike or lock-out, and it appears to be no nearer a settlement than it was at the beginning.

The only satisfactory feature of the dispute is the perfect order maintained throughout the spinning districts. The members of the Amalgamated Association of Spinners are in regular receipt of their strike pay, and there is little, if any, grumbling among them, but there is another side to the subject which is not so bright.

It is estimated that 40,000 mill hands who belong to no union have been rendered idle through this dispute. With no treasury to draw upon, their condition is pitiable. Thousands of men are now reduced almost to starvation.

Application was made yesterday to a magistrate at Oldham for 300 warrants against operatives who were in arrears for borough rates. The magistrate refused to grant them, and told the bailiff who made the application to apply when the strike was ended.

Mrs. Maybrick's Illness.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The Baroness de Roque, mother of Mrs. Maybrick, says her daughter is still alive but she is unable to take food, and a doctor is near her day and night. The baroness added: "I have no hope for her life myself, but I want her release so that she may die free and away from here with me to care for her in her last hours."

The Home Office to-day refuses to give any information regarding Mrs. Maybrick's case. Mr. Foster, the Acting Secretary of State, has instructed the American Legation here to interfere on behalf of Mrs. Maybrick with Lord Rosebery, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. Lord Rosebery recently declined to interfere.

ANOTHER CANARD.

Van Horne Does Not Intend to Make Boston His Steamer Terminus.

MONTREAL, Dec. 10.—A Boston paper stated that Van Horne, in an address to the Merchants' Association there, said he intended to make Boston, instead of Halifax, a terminal point for the coming line of C.P.R. trans-Atlantic steamers.

Van Horne positively denies that he made such a statement.

A Master Move.

MANCHESTER, Dec. 10.—At a meeting of the representatives of the Masters' Cotton Federation and the Northeast Lancashire Manufacturers' Association a resolution was adopted in favor of the members of the Lancashire associations running their mills only three days in the week.

If the resolution is generally enforced it will have serious consequences for the strikers in South Lancashire, who depend largely upon the weekly levies from the northern operatives, who will be unable to continue this support if the short time is enforced.

Embezzled $25,000.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Alfred J. Price, bookkeeper for Street & Smith, publishers of The New York Weekly, pleaded guilty yesterday to larceny in the third degree. He was sentenced to the penitentiary for five years.

Price was guilty of embezzlements by which the firm lost about $25,000.

Settling a Crisis.

BUENOS AYRES, Dec. 10.—The Cabinet crisis will be settled by the resignation of the Minister of the Interior.

A Cronin Suspect Dead.

JOLIET, Dec. 10.—Martin J. Burke, one of the men sent to Joliet Prison for complicity in the famous murder of Dr. Cronin of Chicago, died at the penitentiary in this city last evening of quick consumption.

When the news of his coming death was first made public last month every known means was resorted to to secure a confession from him which would lift the blood-stained curtain from the Cronin mystery and reveal the inner working of the deadly conspiracy in all the hideous details.

Burke always maintained, however, that his sentence was an unjust one and that it did not lie in his power to place the crime on those who should be burdened with it.

Of those sent to Joliet for complicity in the Cronin murder only one now remains—Dan Coughlin, the ex-detective of Chicago.

He is hale and hearty and is working hard every day. He was visibly affected when informed of Burke's death following so soon upon that of O'Sullivan's, the partner in the crime, but made no comment.

A MINER'S SUICIDE.

He Was a Millionaire and Well Known in Toronto.

TORONTO, Dec. 10.—A despatch was received from Boston, Mass., last evening, announcing that R. R. Paulison, a Canadian millionaire, shot himself at the Hotel Thorndike. Enquiry in the city last evening identified the deceased with R. R. Paulison, a mining prospector, largely interested in the Port Arthur district. Mr. Archibald Blue of the Ontario Bureau of Mines stated that for the past three or four years a man named R. R. Paulison had been prospecting in the unsurveyed district east of Port Arthur. He had originally come from Detroit, and some two years ago had secured lands on the Matawin River, which he afterwards disposed of to Fogler Bros. of Kingston. He had been continuously applying for grants of various lands in the unsurveyed districts.

"He was not a wealthy man," said Mr. Blue, "but it was often said of him that if he could realize on his property he would be a millionaire. He was an indefatigable prospector.

"About three weeks ago I heard of his having gone to Boston to interest capitalists in his mining schemes.

Mr. Aubrey White of the Crown Lands Department gave the same account of Paulison and Ludgrave as that for the last few months he believed that he had been living in Kingston.

The probabilities are that Paulison became discouraged at his failure to make a fortune and ended his life with a pistol bullet.

THE FAIR SEX WIN.

Sir Oliver Mowat Cast the Vote That Made Women Lawyers.

TORONTO, Dec. 10.—The doors of the Law Society of Ontario have been opened to women, and these gentle creatures may now enter on the study of law in accordance with the Act of the last session of the Legislature, which empowers the Benchers to allow women to enter upon the study of and to qualify themselves for the profession of a solicitor.

The meeting of convocation was called for 10.30 a.m., but as many of the members were engaged in the courts it was postponed till 12.30. At that hour 24 benchers filed into the board room, one was called to the chair and the other 23 proceeded to discuss the resolution to reconsider the vote of last term, excluding women from the society. When the vote was taken and counted the result was 12 for the admission of women and 11 against.

The matter was referred to a committee to draft a code of rules, and it will again come before convocation when the report of this committee is ready.

It is understood that Attorney-General Mowat was present and cast a vote in favor of the ladies.

WAS IT MURDER?

The Ontario Government Asked to Investigate Mrs. Rowe's Death.

TORONTO, Dec. 10.—The Attorney-General's department has been asked to investigate into the circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Rowe, who was burned to death in a fire in C. B. Taylor's grocery store at Trenton last week. The fire was of incendiary origin, and it is said that the authorities are in possession of important evidence which is likely to lead to the conviction of the guilty parties. Some startling facts are likely to be made public in the near future.

Ast nished the 400.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The Herald says: Miss Emma Van Norden, the eldest daughter of Mr. Warren Van Norden, president of the Bank of North America, who is well known in society, has joined the Salvation Army and is a full-fledged uniformed soldier.

Coffee Crop in Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 10.—Statistics show the coffee crop this year in all the coffee growing districts of Mexico is about 8,000,000. Agricultural exports will be larger than ever during the coming year, thus tiding the country over the depression caused by the decline in silver.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success of Hazyard's Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by monstrous imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation. Dealers may urge upon you. For sal all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (60c and $1.) by addressing Hazlitt & Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I decided on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hazyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

Little Jennie Was Cured.

DEAR SIRS,—My little Jennie was very bad with La Grippe, which left a bad cough. I gave her Hazyard's Pectoral Balsam and it soon cured her.

It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consult the best interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KENEDLEE,
Conway, Ar.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

A TENDERFOOT'S TRIALS.

SUSPICION OF ATTEMPT AT SLOW POISONING.

Led to Buy a Chicken Farm in Virginia, Kept Drunk and Defrauded Out of $12,000—Brought Out By an Alleged Firm of Montreal Swindlers.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 12.—Last week John F. Swineburne, a young Englishman, left Richmond for New York, and after spending a day or two there with distant relatives sailed for his old home. During his stay in America he got rid of $12,000, which his mother sent him while in this country.

C. B. Richardson, a druggist of Chester, Va., accompanied the young man to New York, and at his suggestion Swineburne, while in that city, made a sworn statement in the presence of the druggist and three members of the New York Young Men's Christian Association as to his experiences while in America.

He said he first went to Montreal in response to an advertisement in English newspapers of a firm there, offering to teach young Englishmen the American mode of farming. They sent him to Covington, Va., where he was met by a man who said he was from Montreal, and he took him out into the country. He was there to be made in poultry raising, and suggested that he stock a farm at Centralia, near Richmond, with chickens. He went with his newly-found instructor to that place and about 100 fowls were bought for that farm.

What happened afterward, Swineburne said, was a mystery to him, as he was kept drunk all the time. He remembered that there were three men on the farm, and they made him write to his mother several times for money. He never saw the money when it came. Finally the whisky given him tasted bitter. He was made to drink it and grew weaker and weaker, until Mr. Richardson took him away from Centralia and brought him to Richmond for treatment.

It was weeks before the effects of constant intoxication wore off, and his mind became clear, and then he decided to return to his mother.

Mr. Richardson gave the correspondent the facts so far as known to him.

While in New York Swineburne gave Richardson a power of attorney, and the druggist says he will probe the matter to the bottom. He said the facts in his possession showed that Swineburne's mother sent him $12,000 while he was at Centralia, and that the young man saw none of it. Richardson also said that he had evidence to show that efforts were made to dispose of the young man by slow poison.

After being put under the treatment of a Richmond physician it was two months before Swineburne's stomach would retain any food. The men who were with the Englishman at Centralia have left there and Richardson says they are in this city, but he has not at present evidence to convict them if they were arrested.

BANK CLERK ARRESTED.

Toronto, Dec. 12.—Angus Pennefather, until recently ledgerkeeper in the Chatham branch of the Standard Bank, was arrested in that town last night on a charge of having stolen $8700 of the funds of the bank.

About three months since Teller Brown of the Chatham branch, son of Mr. James Brown of 74 Melbourne-avenue, Toronto and a former mathematical master of Upper Canada College, discovered on entering the bank that his cash box was missing from the vault. It was subsequently found in the bank office, minus its contents.

Teller Brown's story was that he had placed the money in the cash box at the conclusion of the day's business, that he had not locked the box owing to the fact that the combination of the safe door would not close the lid. He could not remember, however, whether he had locked the cash box in the vault or not.

Ledger-Keeper Pennefather, who was in receipt of the princely salary of $400 per year, was charged with being the perpetrator of the robbery, the detectives claiming that Pennefather observed Teller Brown carelessly place his cash box on the counter behind him at the close of banking hours, that he took advantage of the temporary absence of the teller from his "den" to go to his department and place the box under the ledge, trusting to luck that he would think no more of it, and that he then left the bank. That two hours later he entered the bank on the pretension that he had no cash and wished to fill out a blank check, but actually for the reason that he wished to see if his scheme had worked, and that visit revealed the cash box in the place he left it, Brown having apparently forgotten all about it; that a couple of hours later he returned to bank, carried off the money and still has it in his possession.

Pennefather was dismissed by the bank authorities, not because they charged him with the robbery, but because he married without the consent of the officials.

Pennefather denied his guilt, and the authorities took no steps to arrest him. Mr. James Brown, the father of the teller, paid the bank $8000 in cash, and the Security Company made good the balance of the loss. Teller Brown was transferred to Paradale, Accountant Gordon was also transferred to Toronto, and other changes were made in the bank.

A few days ago General Manager Brodie of the Standard Bank in this city received an anonymous letter concerning the robbery, and as the result of this the long-delayed preliminary trial of Pennefather was decided upon. He will have a hearing before the Magistrate at Chatham to-day.

Pennefather is well known in this city. He was for some time a member of the Northwest Mounted Police and was subsequently with the Federal Bank. For two years he had been with the Standard.

THE MINER'S SUICIDE.

His Widow an Expert Horsewoman and Fine Shot.

Toronto, Dec. 12.—Richard R. Faulkner, the mining prospector, who committed suicide by shooting himself in a bathroom of the Hotel Thorndike at Boston, had gone to Boston to form a company to work iron ore mines at Port Arthur, but met with poor success.

"Faulkner was well known at Port Arthur," said a resident of that town last evening, "as he had been locating claims in the vicinity for years. His wife visited the Port every summer. She is a woman of extraordinary personal charms, an expert horsewoman and a fine shot with rifle or revolver. She used to appear on the streets in full hunting costume with a rifle slung across her shoulder. She it was who caught the 7-pound speckled trout at Nepigon with a hook and line which created so much talk all over Ontario."

LOST HER BALANCE.

A Woman's Arm Cut Off by a Trolley Car.

Toronto, Dec. 12.—About 11 a. m. Saturday Mrs. Charles Wilson of 57 Alice-street attempted to board a southbound Yonge-street car while in motion, but, losing her balance, was thrown violently to the ground. The wheels of the trailer passed over her left arm, crushing it in a horrible manner. Her right leg was broken at the ankle, and it is feared she also sustained internal injuries.

She was removed to the General Hospital in the ambulance, where her arm was amputated at the shoulder. She will probably recover.

SURPRISED YANKEES.

The Latin Union Delegates Are Not Strongly Supporting Bi-Metallism.

Brussels, Dec. 12.—At the meeting of the Monetary Conference Saturday, Herr Hans Hesselof the Swedish and Norway delegation, referring to Congressman McCreary's declared preference for a fixed ratio between gold and silver of 16 to 1, asked the Americans whether they would agree to a ratio of 20 to 1, which would be a nearer approach to the present value.

Senator Allison replied that the Americans would prefer a ratio of 16 to 1, but, if agreeable to the European states, the Americans might accept a different ratio. For himself he thought that silver using states would most logically adopt the ratio of 15 1-2 to 1. America would accept no ratio unless a sufficient number of governments entered into the agreement to make it effective.

United States Delegate H. W. Cannon, in reply to M. Tirard, said he was surprised at the attitude of the Latin union delegates, as it was supposed they would be very friendly to the use of silver as money. He thought the proposed purchase of 30 million ounces of silver annually by Europe provided that it was in addition to the silver now naturally used there might be a bridge to join the money metals again. America up to the present time had had no difficulty in maintaining a parity between gold and silver and intended to maintain it. If, however, silver was to be further dishonored and used the same as paper money, then, as regard to price, America would still be in an excellent position to profit by this state of affairs, as has been shown in the conference.

FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

Ministerial Crisis and Silver Conference Have an Effect.

London, Dec. 12.—A gradual weakening of discount rates was apparent last week. The final quotations were one-half per cent. short. Silver became a trifle steadier after a relapse in the middle of the week.

There is now apparent a strong conviction that the Brussels conference will close without arriving at any practical arrangement. The India Council's refusal on Tuesday to accept low tenders for bills, especially when it became known that only a quarter of the amount offered was applied for, greatly contributed to depress silver, and this depression in turn adversely affected all silver securities and depressed stock exchange business generally.

American railway securities, after advancing until the middle of the week, relaxed on the silver collapse, but the movements were light.

SIGNALS OF DISTRESS.

A Steamship Split in Two and the Crew Rescued on the Lee Shore.

London, Dec. 12.—The British steamship Dibberg, Captain Davies, was wrecked off Long Sand, near Harwich, last night.

Her rockets signals were responded to by a Harwich lifeboat. When the lifesavers reached the scene of the wreck they found the vessel split in two and partly embedded in the sand. They were unable to board her until high tide at daybreak, when they found a seaman dead on the lower deck.

The other members of the crew were missing and are supposed to have perished, as fragments of boats were found hanging to the davits.

It is reported that a schooner was wrecked on the sand in the vicinity of the wreck of the Dibberg, and that her crew is missing.

GET A MOVE, GROVER!

The World Expects You to Yank the U.S. into Better Shape.

London, Dec. 10.—Commenting on the Memphis and St. Louis conventions, The Chronicle says: Such is the program of the growing industrial element. There is nothing revolutionary in it, and excepting the dissent of the Silver there is no quackery in it. It is the sober and right-eous demand of a Republic in name to be converted into a Republic in fact, but neither of the great parties can respond to these claims. It looks as if America was gradually drifting into a condition parallel to that existing at the time the Free Soil party was formed, and as if all the brightest and most promising of American life was about to slowly form a party of real reform. Cleveland has a great opportunity. Will he embrace it?

MRS. MAYBRICK'S CASE.

The Female Prisoner's Illness Due To Her Own Carelessness.

London, Dec. 12.—The Evening Standard says it has the best authority for stating that Mrs. Maybrick is recovering from the effects of the hemorrhage with which she was recently attacked. The paper adds that her illness was due to her own carelessness.

The Baroness De Rosques, Mrs. Maybrick's mother, telegraphs from Woking, that her daughter passed a bad night and is suffering from great weakness.

Rentes are Higher.

Paris, Dec. 12.—The new Cabinet is generally approved by the moderate section of the public. Although many assert that the Ministers must fall before long, a more general opinion is that M. Ribot will remain in post until the elections in June. Thus rentes come out of the crisis higher and with good tone. Spanish securities, as an effect of the change of the Ministry in Spain, closed on the Bourse yesterday 1¼ higher.

Greeting the Crown Prince.

London, Dec. 12.—A large party assembled at Windsor Castle to greet Crown Prince Ferdinand of Roumania, who arrived there Saturday on a visit to his fiancee, Princess Marie, daughter of the Duke of Edinburgh. In the party were the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise, Duralay the Duchess of Edinburgh and Princess Marie will start for Signaringen, Prussia, to prepare for the marriage.

Intense Cold in Spain.

London, Dec. 12.—Intense cold and heavy snowfalls are reported from North and Central Spain. The whole of Central and Southern Europe has been visited for three days with an exceptionally severe blizzard. Such severity has been unknown in Moscow for eight years. All railways but the Nikolai are more or less snowblocked and direct communication with the south interrupted. Some lines are entirely stopped.

Another British M.P. Unseated.

London, Dec. 12.—Horatio Davies, who was returned to Parliament from Rochester at the last election by a large majority, was Saturday unseated on the ground of bribery.

For Sweet Charity's Sake.

Windsor, Ont., Dec. 12.—The will of Robert Coultis of Merose, who died a few days ago, is a strange one. It provides that all his property shall be sold, and that $9000 of the proceeds shall go to his wife, the remainder, estimated at $18,000, being placed in a chartered bank, and the interest devoted to aiding the poor of Leamington and the Township of Mersea.

"It Cured Mother."

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the same trouble, and she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I wish you success with your good work, and I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

Signed, MELVILLE B. MARSH.

The prefection of God being infinite, to become God-like means infinite growth.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicinal herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrative and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsy, and sore throat, the Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is to parents a blessing that will not be withheld, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

GETTING UP A RECORD.

CANADIAN NICKEL APPRECIATED IN THE U. S. AND ENGLAND.

The Secretary of the American Navy Sounds the Praise of the Metal in No Uncertain Tones—He Says in His Annual Report It Has Made Its Vessels the Best in the World.

Washington, Dec. 12.—The Secretary of the Navy in his annual report pays particular attention to the Harveyized nickel-steel compound, the tests of which have, he says, never been equalled or even approached before by any armor plate, American or foreign.

It has demonstrated that the United States in the reconstruction of its new navy, which in years ago had no existence, even on paper, is enabled to place upon each and all of its armored vessels a material the like of which the world up to the present time has not seen, and that while vast sums have been spent in plating the sides of foreign ships with an inferior metal this country will employ for the purpose an armor which is not only far more efficient, but which represents unquestionably, having reference to the dimensions of plates thus far tested, the highest development of modern science.

A Test in England.

Following the example of the United States the English Government four weeks ago held a trial of the American armor, and it is clear from the highly successful results of the trial that the United States instead of being last in the race in the construction of vessels of war or of borrowing its best ideas from abroad, has set an example in this respect which other maritime powers will speedily follow.

The Secretary refers to the appropriation of $1,000,000 made by Congress for the purchase of nickel matte and shows what has been done with it.

The first purchase was a quantity valued at $50,000 from the Canadian Copper Company, and, after making further experiments, the Department came to a decision, the correctness of which subsequent developments have fully confirmed, to employ this material in the manufacture of armor.

A contract was entered into June 15, 1891, between the Canadian Copper Company and the United States, represented by the Secretary of the Navy, for the purchase of 4000 tons of nickel ore and copper matte.

The Secretary then gives the figures paid out by his department to the Canadian Copper Company, and these purchases account, $321,381.86, and the total cost, including freight, refining, etc., $395,039.

POISONED BY STRIKERS.

It Is Said That Scores of Non-Union Men at Homestead Are Victims.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 12.—A Sunday paper published a startling story of a conspiracy to poison by wholesale the non-union men at the Carnegie steel plant in Homestead.

The developments made, it is said, implicate members of the Advisory Committee, members of the amalgamated associations and officers of some of the labor organizations sympathizing with the locked-out men at Homestead.

As a result of this conspiracy it is alleged that several persons have lost their lives, while scores of others are still suffering at their homes and in hospitals from the effects of poisonous drugs administered to them with criminal intent.

To-day nine or more persons identified with the strike are under arrest, ostensibly on less serious charges, but really for the purpose of averting suspicion until all those who are claimed to be in the hellish conspiracy have been secured.

At Homestead the story was pronounced ridiculous.

A. E. Beck, counsel for the Carnegie Steel Company, was seen to-night and confirmed the story of the poisoning. He gave as information that at least six deaths had resulted from poisoning. A Homestead druggist and physician are implicated. The powder was given to a dog and it died in a few minutes. Coroner McDowell has not yet been notified.

The poison was administered in food cooked for the Carnegie men.

BEHRING SEA AFFAIR.

Canadian Investigators Reported at Work in San Francisco.

San Francisco, Dec. 12.—A secret sealing commission has been here gathering evidence to be used before the Canadian and English exhibits of the Behring Sea controversy. The commission consisted of Messrs. Sherwood and McPherson, who were appointed by the Premier of Canada.

They have collected evidence from a large number of men engaged in seal poaching, as well as in legitimate sealing. They left yesterday.

AN EDUCATED CONVICT.

An Escaped Forger Recognized in an Opium Smuggler.

Toronto, Dec. 12.—W. T. McPherson of Toronto, arrested at Detroit charged with smuggling opium from Canada, and recognized as W. B. McCauley, an escaped convict from Stoney Mountain, Manitoba, Penitentiary.

"McCauley is the man's right name, although he has had a dozen aliases. He is a man of good education and excellent ability, and could not fail to have done well if he had adopted honesty as his policy. He is about 60 years old. His wife is an excellent woman, the daughter of a clergyman. He was sentenced to the Manitoba Penitentiary for ten years on conviction of forgery, and had served about two years when he escaped a year ago last October. He was at work in the office, being regarded as a trusty man, and simply walked off."

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, DEC. 12

AT THEIR OLD TRICKS.

Much comment has been caused by the statement that, at the nomination in Soulanges a few days ago, the Hon. Mr. Ouimet had boasted that Canada has a Roman Catholic Premier. It now appears, however, as might have been anticipated, that the story is made out of whole cloth—but more fabrication of one of those Grit scribes who find falsehood more congenial than truth. Mr. Ouimet made the following statement to the Ottawa correspondent of the Empire:

Hon. Mr. Ouimet, speaking to the Empire to-night said the Grit press had taken a very unfair advantage of him with regard to his speech at the Soulanges county nomination, by tearing one sentence from its context and making him boast that Canada now had a Roman Catholic Premier. The Minister said his reference to the matter was apropos of nominations proceedings in the same county nine months ago. On that occasion Mr. H. J. Cloran [a Grit Irish Roman Catholic, and formerly editor of the Montreal True Witness—ED. INT.] had endeavored to arouse the religious prejudices of his audience by the statement that although Sir John Thompson was by far the ablest man in the Conservative party, yet because he was a Roman Catholic, fanatical Protestants in the Conservative ranks would not accept Sir John as Premier. He (Mr. Ouimet) in his speech referred to these remarks of Mr. Cloran's for the purpose of pointing out that they were a libel on the Conservative party; that fanaticism was not to be found within its ranks, but on the contrary they had evinced their toleration by accepting a Roman Catholic in the person of Sir John Thompson as Premier.

And once more, we are despairingly forced to ask, when will Grit lying cease?

City Mission.

Belleville, Dec. 10, 1892.

SIR,—Will you be kind enough to insert the following in your paper that those who were kind enough to contribute toward a fund to enlarge the City Mission building may know what has become of the money. I received from

W.W.M.B. Bridge St. Church	$5 00
W.B.N	5 00
L.M.	50
King's Daughters, Bridge St. Church.	5 00
Madame Tice	5 00
King's Daughters, St. Thomas	5 00
Proceeds of concert	62 33

which amount has been on deposit in Savings Bank of the Merchant's Bank since April, 30, '92. The work was not proceeded with in the Spring, as the amount was so much less than the estimated cost. Any person visiting the mission on Sabbath afternoon and seeing about 100 teachers and scholars crowded into that room must admit that there is a necessity for more and better accommodation. I believe the mission is doing a greater work than ever before. Besides the other work the night school is now open and well attended. Teachers and supplies are required. Mrs. Schuster and her assistants are doing a grand work. I sincerely trust the Christians who have in the past, and any others who feel an interest in this work will not allow Mrs. Schuster to be overburdened for want of sympathy.

TO SUBSCRIBERS.

During several past years we have conducted our weekly subscription list on strictly cash principles, which we have found most satisfactory to subscribers as well as to ourselves. Commencing with the new year, we propose doing away with the CREDIT SYSTEM in connection with subscribers to our DAILY, selling only for cash over the counter at one cent per copy.

Our subscribers will be waited upon before that date by our agents, who will contract to deliver the paper at residences for ten cents per week.

He Wears a Codfish,

A gentleman who was given up to die with consumption happened to receive a visit from a friend, who recommended "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil." Although having little faith he bought a bottle and before he was through taking it, found he was gaining flesh. He continued taking the Emulsion until he regained nearly fifty pounds. He is the heartiest man in town to-day. To commemorate his restoration to health he has had a beautiful golden cod fish manufactured, which he wears as a charm upon his watch chain. This is a pretty good testimony for "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil." Everybody is sounding its praises. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at all Drug Stores.

There are more cases of sickness and death from diseased kidneys than from all other diseases combined. It is your own fault if you allow your kidneys to remain in an unhealthy condition when the cure is at hand. Dodd's Kidney Pills are guaranteed to cure the worst cases. It costs but little to give them a trial. They are for sale by all druggists and dealers or by mail on receipt of 50 cts. or 6 boxes for $2,50. Write for book called Kidney Talk.

How to Cure a Corn.

It is one of the easiest things in the world to cure a corn. Do not use acids or caustic preparations, and don't cut a hole in your boot. It is simply to apply Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, and in three days the corn can be removed without pain. Sure, safe, painless. Take only Putnam's Corn Extractor.

The Suicide of George Haggerty.

Further Particulars of the Sad Affair.—No Reason Assigned for the Rash Act.

The following particulars are given of the suicide of Geo. Haggerty on Saturday last: "Enquiry fails to throw much light on the suicide. Mr. Haggerty started for Madoc with his wife in a sleigh. When about half way to town he suddenly turned his team and went back home, put his horses in the stable, went into the house and took out a butcher knife unobserved by any of the family, went to a hog pen from which the hogs had been removed a short time ago, and slashed his throat three times. His groans attracted his daughter, who ran out and found him struggling on the hog-pen floor. A doctor was sent for immediately, but he expired in a few minutes. No reason can so far be assigned for the rash act. He leaves a wife and three children."

The unfortunate man was a son of the late Marmaduke Haggerty. He was well known in the northern part of the County, and was highly respected.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for Constipation and Headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family medicine. It is said to be the Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water into the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy with ladies for clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c and $1.

GERMANY'S ARMY.

The Tendency Now is to Allow Caprivi to Adopt New Measures.

BERLIN, Dec. 12.—On the evening of the first reading of the Army Bill Chancellor von Caprivi gave a parliamentary dinner that brought together members of the Reichstag of all parties and press representatives of all shades of opinion, except Socialists.

For the first time leading journalists were invited to such a gathering. It was a most notable recognition of the influence of the press.

While the dinner was proceeding the Socialists were holding meetings in every electoral district in Berlin against the Army Bill. Resolutions were adopted denouncing militarism and urging the formation of a people's militia. Women attended, although by their fervid enthusiasm gave more trouble to the police than their socialistic brothers.

When the debate opened on the Army Bill in the Reichstag to-day the House was crowded and the galleries were full of visitors. The tenor of the speeches from all sides disclosed no uncompromising hostility to the measure.

Major Von Heiningen Huenej, a member of the Centre party, announced that the Centrists were willing to concede the reduction of a year in the term of service, but were not prepared to increase the strength of the standing army. But they admitted that the measure would be hailed by the country as adding to the defensive strength of the empire and probably even as leading to an alleviation of the economic situation.

Herr Richter said that the Freisinnige party would grant whatever funds were necessary for the introduction of a system of two years' service, but the Chancellor would have to apply a more compliant Reichstag than the present to obtain demands beyond that.

The Chancellor's response to the speeches against the bill was mainly directed at Herr Richter. He styled Herr Richter an "able political statistician, but said he was scarcely in a position to offer a right opinion on details of a military system. On this subject views that are expressed in the highest military circles must have the most weight.

"Be convinced am I," said the Chancellor, "of the necessity of the bill for the continued existence of Germany that if the Reichstag should throw upon me the responsibility I would tranquilly accept it."

This statement was greeted with cheers.

The Chancellor said that under the provisions of the bill 60,000 young men would be yearly added to the army, so that in a few years 450,000 more men would be ready to take the field against a hostile army.

This statement elicited cheers.

The Chancellor appealed to the House not to throw the country into confusion by opposing the measure.

The general opinion in the lobby after the House adjourned was that the bill would pass its first reading by a good majority. Before debate on the bill is resumed on Monday, the Brussels Monetary Conference and the army rifles will form the subject of interpellation.

Something like popular demonstrations of anti-Semitism have occurred in several centres. Twice this week considerable crowds have passed along the Friedriche Strasse crying: "Down with the Jews!" Leading Conservatives and the Moderns Herr Heidorf and Count Bogdan are confident that the Emperor is ashamed of the Jew-baiting done by the party, and they have protested against including an anti-Jewish plank in the party program.

THE SILVER QUESTION.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The Standard's Vienna correspondent says: The probable failure of the monetary conference is so discounted here that its failure would make no impression. The principal Austro-Hungarian papers ridicule the prophecies of terrible consequences, contending that any such action as is foreshadowed in President Harrison's message would be a breach of faith toward creditors which public opinion in America would not permit.

Neither Republicans nor Democrats, it is said, dare repeal the Windom Act for fear of an unparalleled commercial crisis. In the meantime the removal of the hope of an international agreement for many years to come will exercise healthy influence in checking the output of silver, and the price will gradually find its level without harming anybody except the American silver kings.

Practical experience in the transformation of silver currency to gold currency has resulted in converting bi-metallism to the view that rehabilitation of silver would fail to remove the causes of agricultural depression.

ACONITE POISON.

Said to be the Drug Used to Cause Baron Reinach's Death.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—At the session yesterday of the Panama Committee M. Brisson, the president, stated that he agreed with the proposal made by M. Bourgeois, Minister of Justice, that a sub-committee composed of seven members of Committee, including its president be appointed to examine the Panama legal documents to ascertain if any members of the Chamber of Deputies were compromised in the scandal.

The sub-committee was then selected. It was decided to keep secret the contents of the document, whether they were favorable or unfavorable to the Panama defendants.

M. Bourgeois to-day communicated to the committee a schedule of 400 legal documents bearing on the affairs of the company, that are in possession of the procureur.

Dr. Brouar denies the rumors that he has already found evidence that Baron Reinach's death was due to unnatural causes. The viscera and the brain were to-night brought to the toxicological laboratory at Paris.

The Libre Parole, nevertheless, persists that the examination revealed that death was due to aconite poisoning.

The Paris correspondent of The London News says that the autopsy was performed on the body of Baron de Reinach. All newspaper representatives were excluded from the cemetery, but were allowed to watch from a point overlooking the grave. It will be impossible for three weeks to say whether or not Baron de Reinach died of aconite poisoning. The suspicion that he did is due to the fact that the partly empty phial of aconite was found near his bed.

The London Times Paris correspondent says: The Reinach scandal is worthy of the middle ages. The Parliament, the magistracy and the press are all crying for the corpse. Only the brush of a Callot or a Hobein could do justice to the scenes presented at the cemetery. When the autopsy was performed there was an unseemly scramble between the doctors and the reporters to reach the grave. The doctors were victorious. They whitened the windows of the room in which the autopsy was performed so that nothing was visible from the outside.

A USEFUL CAREER.

It Ended When Success Was Established Beyond a Doubt.

GUELPH, Ont., Dec. 12.—J. B. Armstrong, president of the J. B. Armstrong Manufacturing Company and the Guelph Agricultural Company, died this morning after a few days' illness, aged 55.

Deceased was a large and well-known manufacturer for the past 25 years. A few years ago he thought he could compete successfully with the manufacturers of the United States, and he erected a large spring and carriage goods factory at Flint, Mich. The success of that establishment proved he was correct in his calculations.

FOR UNREQUITED LOVE.

A YOUNG WOMAN LEAVES THE WORLD OF SORROW.

Teenie Henderson Was Wooed and Won by a Young Methodist Minister—He Married Another Lady—Teenie Became Despondent.

HAMILTON, Dec. 12.—The circumstances connected with the death of Teenie Henderson, whose body was found lying on the cold sands of Willow Cove, on the north side of Hamilton Bay, this morning, would furnish all the elements for a sombre romance.

At daylight Saturday searchers found the body of the unfortunate young woman lying on the bay shore. She had died of exposure.

Teenie Henderson lived with her mother and uncle in an ancient-looking old frame dwelling on the bluff overlooking the bay near the Roman Catholic cemetery.

She was a fine-looking young woman, a teacher in the Sunday school, and a member of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor in connection with the neighboring church.

According to the story told a reporter by her uncle, Alexander Henderson, this morning, Teenie was wooed and won by a young Methodist minister who had charge of the church she attended. A little over a year ago she announced her engagement to her friends and her wedding dress was got ready. But something came between them at the last moment, and the girl became despondent and melancholy.

She Became More Despondent.

Meanwhile the young preacher had come to Hamilton to take charge of a prominent congregation and had married here. Miss Henderson became more despondent and gradually her brain seemed to become affected.

A fright she sustained last June, when a couple of drunken city roughs tried to break into the house on a Sunday afternoon, still further aggravated her mental trouble, and soon after she took to her bed and has remained there almost altogether since that time, only getting up at intervals. Physically she was quite well, but her mental trouble seemed to be of a peculiar kind.

Yesterday she was in her room as usual. Mr. Henderson and his niece, who are the only other inmates of the house, were up late. Teenie was in her room then.

They went out to the barn for some purpose, and returning five minutes later found the girl gone. Taking a lantern old Henderson searched in every direction, calling his niece, but could find no traces of her. They searched most of the night, and as soon as it was daylight went out again.

Out in the gray winter dawn they found the body. It was lying in the tangled mass of weeds and drifted flotsam washed up by the waves in the pretty cove just east of Willow Point.

There was nothing on the body but a night-dress, and the deceased lay on her side, the feet only being in the water. It is nearly a quarter of a mile from the house to the bay shore, and she had evidently come down along a rough path in a ravine, for her face and arms were scratched and her feet cut by stones and pierced by thorns.

Would Have Been an Heiress.

"If Teenie had lived," said Mr. Henderson, "she would have fallen heir to a fortune of about $20,000 when her aunt, Mrs. Foulden, who lives on the beach, dies. Her aunt left all her property to her in her will." He admitted that the clergyman had never visited at the house a great deal.

The father of the deceased is said to be living in this city and his name is McAllister, but the girl and her mother had lived with Alexander Henderson since she was born. The Hendersons formerly lived here also.

The clergyman to whom the girl's uncle said she was engaged was shocked at the news of Miss Henderson's death, but smiled when he was told of the reported relation between her and him. "The report is absurdly false," he said.

"I always thought there was something wrong with the poor girl, mentally. She was not at all like other people. She was eccentric, and what the neighbors called 'soft.' I am afraid she used to be laughed at a good deal by her acquaintances. Recently Miss Henderson ceased to use my name, and had been telling her friends that she was engaged to Dr. ——" (mentioning a well-known Hamilton physician).

IT REQUIRED NERVE.

A Man of 80 Forced to Act as Undertaker and Sexton for His Son.

EGANVILLE, Ont., Dec. 12.—A sad death occurred in the township of Sherwood, a young man named Reckra, the only support of an aged father, frequented a house in the settlement that diphtheria was in and after returning home complained of symptoms of that dreaded disease, took to his bed and seven days afterwards died, not having secured medical attendance. No one could be found to make a coffin, and his poor old father, aged 80 years, by means of old boards in a rough state made a box and placed his poor boy in it and with his daughter drove a distance of 12 miles to the graveyard in the Polish settlement.

Tips for Teachers.

Never brag of your own education.

Never try to undermine your fellow-teachers.

Never exalt yourself in the presence of members of the board.

Never speak against a predecessor's methods in the presence of your pupils.

Never tell the parents that their children are so very intelligent, busy, and far advanced if they are not.

Never try to make parents believe that their children have of the best natural talents if they have not.

Public School trustees, never employ a teacher merely because he is related to one or more members of the board.

Never employ a teacher merely because he agrees with you in politics.

Never tell a teacher of his faults in the presence of the pupils.

Pay your teacher enough. Remember that the laborer is worthy of his hire.

Teachers and directors, be honest, for your dishonesty will never take you through life successfully.—National Educator.

A Vanished Island.

On the northwest coast of Australia the maps show an island some thirteen miles long by one mile wide, which has long been known as Expedition Island. It will be known no more out of history. A German vessel sailing by there recently reports that the island has disappeared and that there is an average depth of forty-eight feet where it was. All around it the water is several hundred feet deep. No one knows when the island vanished from view, and the only explanation of the phenomenon is that for some cause or other there has been a sudden depression of the earth's crust into those waters. The subsidence of the island was not accomplished with such rapidity and violence as to attract attention through the disturbance of the sea on any civilized coasts. If a sudden cataclysm had occurred, like that which blew the great part of Krekatoa into the air and scattered the fragments over the sea bed, great waves would have carried to far distance shores the news that something unusual had occurred, for Expedition Island had some importance in that region of tiny ocean specks, being much larger than any of its neighbors.

A Widow's Suicide.

ALMONTE, Ont., Dec. 12.—Mrs. John Potter, a widow living three miles from Gatineau Point, while despondent last Thursday shut herself up in a room and took a heavy dose of Paris green, from the effects of which she died on Tuesday. She leaves three children. After taking the poison she gave as a reason for the act that she had been led astray by a widower of the neighborhood. There is a great deal of excitement over the affair.

Though the soil of Virginia grows the best tobacco leaf in the world, it does not all grow equal qualities. The production even of adjoining counties is often quite different, the one producing leaf which at once deteriorates if grown in the other. The leaf of the "Myrtle Navy" is the product of the choice sections of the State, which, through some combination of local influences, produce a better quality than any others. This is shown by its always commanding a higher price than any other smoking leaf.

"To God And The Protestant Cause."

The Hon. Mr. Bowell's First Public Utterances Since His Appointment as Minister of Trade and Commerce—An Ovation to the Representative for a Quarter of a Century of North Hastings.

It was fitting that the man whose name more than any other in the Dominion is synonymous with Orangeism, who has been identified with it for more than fifty years, who has risen from the ranks of Benjamin Lodge No. 274 in this city to occupy the highest position, not only within the gift of his brethren in British America, but in the world; and who has ever considered his relationship to the Orange Association as paramount, no matter what position he was in, should make the occasion of the dedication of an Orange Hall in the riding to which he has done honor as its representative in the legislative halls of the Dominion Parliament for twenty-five years, that upon which he should make his first public appearance, after being called to the Senate, appointed its Government leader, and made the second Minister of the Crown. In doing this the Hon. M. Bowell, Past Grand Master of British America and Past President of the Triennial Council of the world, has been consistent with all his record and his many and strongly expressed views, as he has ever maintained that there was nothing in the character, principles or aims of the Orange Association that disqualified anyone as a member of it from holding any position in church or state, but that, on the contrary, its teachings enabled a man all the better to discharge any duty, no matter how high or merced.

The dedication of an Orange Hall or Lodge Room is ever one of great interest to the brotherhood, and also to the public, as it is one of the few ceremonies from which none are excluded, and that of Friday the 9th inst, of L. O. L. No. 253 at the Allen Settlement was no exception to the rule.

Lodge 253 is amongst the oldest in the County, having been organized in the famous, or infamous, 1837. It was granted a warrant early in that year, its first Master being the late Joseph McKnight, but as nearly all its members were away during part of the year putting down "the rebellion," it was not until '38 that regular monthly meetings were held. With the exception of two or three years all the Masters of the lodge since have been from the Allen, McCoy or Blair families, and the officers now are Worshipful Master, W. T. Allen; Deputy Master, A. McClure; Chaplain, H. Rollins; Recording Secretary, C. W. Thompson; Financial Secretary, H. M. Blair; Treasurer, W. J. Allen.

The hall is a handsome two storied brick building, 36x25 feet. The upper part will be used as a lodge room, the lower part for any public gathering. The building cost about $800 and its workmanship reflects credit on the contractor, Mr. Wm. Fox, of Eldorado. The lot upon which it stands is at the cross roads opposite the spacious Presbyterian Church, and was donated to the brethren with his accustomed generosity by Wm. John Allen, Esq., Past County Master.

The dedicatory services commenced at 4 p.m., in the presence of a large audience. The Hon. M. Bowell had been appointed, by dispensation from the Grand Master of British America, Grand Master to conduct the proceedings, and he selected as the officers of the Grand Lodge of British America for the occasion: Deputy Grand Master Bro. Wm. Johnson, P. Grand Master Ontario East; Grand Chaplain, Bro. Rev. John C. Ash, Deputy Grand Chaplain, B.A.; Grand Secretary, Bro. Arch. Thompson, Past County Master; Grand Treasurer, Bro. John Caskey, Past County Master; Grand Lecturer, Bro. Wm Thompson, Co. Master; Grand Director of Ceremonies, Bro. H. Rollins, District Master.

The procession composed of the members of 253, a large number of visiting brethren and the Grand Lodge officers was formed in the lower part of the Hall, and then proceeded to the Lodge Room.

The Grand Master having taken the Worshipful Master's chair, with the Grand Chaplain upon his right, the Chairman of the Trustees of the hall, Bro. Wm. John Allen, advanced in front of the Grand Master and said:

Most Worshipful Grand Master, It is the wish of the brethren whom I represent that this hall be dedicated to God and the Protestant cause.

Grand Master.—Let their wishes and good intentions be consummated.

Then was sung:

PSALM XXIX. L. M.

Ye princes that in might excel,
Your grateful sacrifice prepare,
God's glorious actions proudly tell,
His wondrous pow'r to all declare.

To His great name fresh altars raise,
Devoutly due respect afford;
Him in His holy temple praise,
Where He will make Himself be made adored.

When God in thunder loudly speaks,
And shattered flames of lightning sends,
The forest nods, the desert quakes,
And stubborn Kedish lowly bends.

God rules the angry floods on high,
His bound ess sway shall never cease,
His saints with strength He will supply,
And bless His own with constant peace.

Grand Chaplain.—Brethren, let us pray.

Grand Chaplain.—O Thou who art the Workers of all signs, to whom all praise is due, we now bend in humble supplication. Thy Name, O Lord, will we exalt, and our hearts shall confess Thine excellence and holiness. Thee, O Lord, do we thank, in in that Thou has vouchsafed unto us strength and wisdom to erect and dedicate this edifice to the glory of Thy name. It will through our Lord and Saviour. Teach us, O Lord, on this day of rejoicing, to invoke Thy glory; and send down upon this our humble sanctuary, the power and splendour of Thine all gracious protection. For Thy unbounded kindness to our cause, O Thou, our living God; for Thy great and all-sufficient aid, in bringing Thy Church and people through their fiery ordeals, receive our humble thanks. We praise Thee, O Lord, that Thou hast redeemed Thy people from the thraldom of Popery, and we magnify Thy Name, that Thou hast given them strength to withstand the assaults of the enemy. Lord, hear our prayers, now and evermore, for Christ's sake.

Brethren.—Amen.

Then was read responsively the one hundred and thirty-sixth Psalm:

Grand Chaplain.—O give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good.

Brethren.—For His mercy endureth forever.

Grand Chaplain.—O give thanks unto the God of Gods.

Brethren.—For His mercy endureth forever.

Grand Chaplain.—To Him who alone doeth great wonders.

Brethren.—For His mercy endureth forever.

Grand Chaplain.—To Him that stretched out the earth above the waters.

Brethren.—For His mercy endureth forever.

Grand Chaplain.—To Him that smote Egypt in their first-born.

Brethren.—For His mercy endureth forever.

Grand Chaplain.—And brought out Israel from amongithem.

Brethren.—For His mercy endureth forever.

Grand Chaplain.—With a strong hand and outstretched arm.

Brethren.—For His mercy endureth forever.

Grand Chaplain.—To Him which divided the sea into parts.

Brethren.—For His mercy endureth forever.

Grand Chaplain.—And made Israel to pass through the midst of it.

Brethren.—For his mercy endureth forever.

Grand Chaplain.—But overthrew Pharaoh and his host in the Red Sea.

Brethren.—For His mercy endureth forever.

Grand Chaplain.—To Him who smote great kings.

Brethren.—For His mercy endureth forever.

Grand Chaplain.—Who remembered us in our low estate.

Brethren.—For His mercy endureth forever.

Grand Chaplain.—And hath redeemed us from our enemies.

Brethren.—For His mercy endureth forever.

Grand Chaplain.—O give thanks unto the God of Gods.

Brethren.—For His mercy endureth forever.

Grand Master.—In the name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, I now solemnly dedicate this Hall (or Lodge Room) to God and the Protestant cause, now and for evermore.

Grand Chaplain.—Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost.

Brethren.—As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end.—Amen.

The Dedicatory Hymn followed.

Lord of Hosts; to Thee we raise
Here a house of prayer and praise;
Thou Thy people's hearts prepare,
Here to meet for praise and prayer.

Here to Thee a temple stands,
While the sea shall gird the land,
Here reveal Thy mercy sure
While the sun and moon endure,

Hallelujah! earth and sky
To the joyful sound reply;
Hallelujah! hence ascend
Prayer and praise till time shall end.

Grand Chaplain.—Brethren, let us pray.

Grand Chaplain.—Have respect therefore to the prayer of Thy servant, and to his supplication, O Lord my God, to hearken unto the cry and the prayer which Thy servant prayeth before Thee: That Thine eyes may be open upon this house day and night, upon the place whereof Thou hast said that Thou wouldst put Thy Name there; to hearken unto the prayer which Thy servant prayeth toward this place. Hearken therefore unto the supplications of Thy servant, and of Thy people Israel, which they shall make toward this place; hear Thou from Thy dwelling-place, even from Heaven; and when Thou hearest, forgive.

Brethren.—Amen.

Grand Master.—In the dedication of this Hall to God and the Protestant cause, we but offer a faint expression of our hopes and desires; far from us be the thought of exalting ourselves by this act of humility; but may we ever with the same eagerness and devotedness offer up our lives to maintain the principles of our glorious Association. Let us pray that the principles which led our fathers in the glorious Revolution of 1688 to put down Popery may never abate, but that they may be perpetuated with never-fadlog glory to the end of time.

Grand Chaplain.—Brethren, let us pray.

Grand Chaplain.—Now, O. Lord, we beseech Thee that Thou wilt bless us, as Thou hast promised, when we gather together in Thy Name; bless this our undertaking, and grant that we may prosper in our new Hall (or Lodge Room); endue us plenteously with Thy Heavenly grace; may peace and concord ever dwell within these walls; may the brethren who assemble here have courage to defend Thy cause, and triumph over every foe, and may they at last dwell with Thee in life everlasting.

Brethren.—Amen.

The Grand Chaplain then took the open Bible, and placed it on a stand, or in an ark, in front of the Grand Master. He then returned to his chair, and read:

Grand Chaplain.—And it came to pass when Moses had made an end of writing the words of this Law in a Book, until they were finished, that Moses commanded the Levites which bare the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord, saying, take this Book of the Law, and put it inside of the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord your God, that it may be for a witness against you.

The following hymn was next sung:

Sound the loud timbrel o'er Egypt's dark sea.

The brethren were then all seated, and the Grand Master read the Declaration of Principles of the Orange Association.

The Grand Chaplain and brethren rose and repeated the Lord's Prayer.

Then was sung the National Anthem, after which the Grand Chaplain pronounced the Benediction.

The singing of the hymns was inspiring, and nearly all present took part. Miss Allen presided at the organ, and a choir led. An adjournment was then made for refreshments, and an oyster supper was partaken of. After the inner man had been satisfied, music and addresses became the order of the day. Mr. Wm. Thompson, County Master, was called to the chair, and for three hours the interested audience listened to vocal and instrumental music provided by several talented ladies and gentlemen from Madoc, amongst whom were Mrs. O'Hara, Mr. and Mrs. Mayhee, Mr. Greer, organ and violin duets by Miss Allen and Mr. McKnight, of Cooper, and addresses by the Chairman, A. F. Wood, M.P.P., Madoc; Rev. J. C. Ash, of Blairton; Wm. Johnson and W. B. Northrup, M.P., Esqs., Belleville; and the Hon. Senator Bowell. Our space forbids extended notes of these admirable speeches, which, while as diverse as the minds of the gentlemen who delivered them, were eminently suited for the occasion, and were well received by the delighted assembly.

awaited the Hon. Mr. Bowell, as he rose to speak. The large audience sprang to their feet and not only the heartiest clapping of hands greeted him, but volleys of "Kentish fire," and then three cheers for the veteran, vieing with his neighbour as to who could put the most enthusiasm into the recention, and thereby show their attachment for the man, they and the generation that preceded them delighted to honor. Mr. Bowell first expressed his thanks for not only the warmth and genuineness of the welcome they had given him, but for the very many kind words they had individually expressed to him. He felt deeply the severing of the ties which had bound him to so many of them politically. He had been much touched with the feelings of friendship expressed to him by those from whom he had differed most in politics, and he was glad that though they had given and received hard knocks from each other, it had not kept them from respecting each others honest convictions. He was particularly gratified to have with him on the platform, his oldest of all his old personal friends, Mr. B. Vankleek, now ninety years of age; to see him look so young and cheerful, and although they had ever differed in most questions since forty-five years ago, when he first met him and they "bunked" together for a night at "Luke's" old log tavern, yet that it had not divided their friendship, and although Mr. Vankleek was, in name, a Radical of the Radicals, and he a Tory of the Tories, there was one subject on which they had ever found a common platform, and that was in their loyalty to the crown of England and their resolve to maintain British connection, and the integrity of the Empire. His visit to North Hastings now had been arranged weeks ago, before any of the changes were contemplated which now placed him in a different relationship to them, and he considered it opportune and in keeping with his most cherished wishes, that the first meeting he should address after his appointment to the Senate should be in the interest of the Orange Association, for while he had to thank the men—yes, and the women too—of the now vast and populous constituency of North Hastings who had been so loyal to him, in thirty years, for all their kindness; and he could never express his gratitude to them for their devotion, he owed still more to his brethren of the Orange Society who had first given him their confidence now fifty years past, by electing him, when a very young man, an officer of the Lodge in Belleville, and who ever since had elected him to position after position, until he was honored by being the President of the Triennial Council of the world. He also desired to assure his most active political opponents, some of whom he was pleased to see present, that he bore not a feeling of resentment against any of them. He believed in the right of every man to think for himself, and to express his opinions as he thought best; and that ever having been a principle with him through life, he had striven to feel kindly toward all who had differed with him. It gave him special pleasure now to receive from former political opponents, assurances of their esteem for him. He then contrasted the Orangeism of to-day with that of the time of which his father had formerly been, when the latter was first connected with it in Belleville, when even the meeting place had to be a secret, and in going to Lodge meetings had to go round about, for fear of being seen. Now, the fact of a man being an Orangeman, was not a bar to his being appointed to the highest offices in the Church or the State. He also referred to the visit of the Prince of Wales to Canada, and declared that now as then he was proud of the days he spent with his brother Orangemen on the streets of Kingston and Belleville, and refused to lower the colors and thereby admit that there was anything in the Orange Association unworthy of royalty. The action of the Orangemen of that day was not to show disrespect to the heir apparent of the British throne, but to enter their protest against the men who, unhappily for the Prince of Wales, were his advisers. An event of that kind will never occur again, not because the Orangemen would do otherwise than they did them, but Governments have learnt to treat them differently since Her Most Gracious Majesty a few months afterwards received in person at the hands of the late Grand Master of British America, the Hon. John Hillyard Cameron, an address setting forth their protests against those who accompanied the Prince of Wales. Another contrast the speaker drew was between the time—not many decades ago—when a blow was aimed at the Orange Society by the passage of the Party Processions Act, and another Act of Parliament was passed which declared that no man could hold any municipal or Government office and be an Orangeman. These changes had come by the brethren respecting themselves and the rights of others, and in constitutional ways demanding them.

Mr. Bowell's address of over forty minutes was one of the most effective he ever delivered, and was frequently interrupted by vigorous applause. Votes of thanks to the ladies who had provided the thoroughly enjoyed supper, to the musicians, and to the chairman, the singing of the National Anthem and prayer by the Rev. John C. Ash brought one of the most successful meetings of the Orange Association ever held in North Hastings to a close.

ARE WHAT OUR COMPETITORS CALL US!

GRASPING, because we want the trade of the earth! AVARICIOUS, because we hang on to the almighty dollar! CAPITALISTS, beause we have the money to tear them to pieces in the wholesale market!

Well, you can see what it amounts to. Success ever brings envy and distrust. If we were only half as successful, we would be feared only half as much as we are.

Our push and principle alarm our competitors. Our business grip make them wince. Our big sales excite their envy. Our popularity is what they cannot block and must put up with.

Talk of big stocks! Shout of immense piles of goods! GOUGH knows what big stocks mean. Throughout Ontario, in the best towns, GOUGH has clothing stores. It is a notorious fact that he does the trade of the town. He buys cheaper and carries more goods than all his competitors combined.

His last great purchase of wholesale stock at 60c. on the $ is a paralyzer. This stock was manufactured by H. Shorey & Co., Montreal, and amounts to over $20,000. Owing to the immense stock already in our main store, we were compelled to open another store next to Dunnet's Dry Goods House. We could not get it all into our main store.

Remember, within six weeks we have captured two stocks, amounting to over $56,000, and when we say we are in a position to sell these goods at less than the ordinary merchant buys for, we can prove it. Ask the railroad people who receives the most goods and they will tell you GOUGH, by ten times. Notwithstanding the low price of wheat and cry of hard times with other merchants, we are head and shoulders ahead of the best sales on record.

Runaways.

On Saturday afternoon a team of horses belonging to a man named Ketcheson, ran away. They started near the Canifton road, and ran down Mill street to Front street. In their mad run they collided with a vehicle, in which were seated a lady and gentleman, both of whom were thrown out, but not injured. The animals were captured near Hotel street. The damage done was not great.

Mrs. (Rev.) M. W. Maclean was driving along Hotel street this afternoon when the horse became frightened and ran away. The lady was thrown out, but fortunately was not seriously injured. The vehicle was badly wrecked.

I shall for 3 days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, December 15th, 16th, and 17th, offer my whole stock of Books, Stationery, Fancy Goods, Musical Instruments, at a reduction of 33-1-3 per cent. No reserve

The Sessions.

At the General Sessions of the Peace, which opens to-morrow before His Honor Judge Lazier, there will be no new indictments to bring before the Grand Jury. The only criminal business is that against Warner Simmons and his wife, there being four indictments against the former. The sitting of the court will not be lengthy.

LOOK AT THE SIZE of the ordinary pill. Think of all the trouble and disturbance that it causes you. Wouldn't you welcome something easier to take, and easier in its ways, if at the same time it did you more good? That is the case with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They're the smallest in size, the mildest in action, but the most thorough and far-reaching in results. They follow nature's methods, and give help that lasts. Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Sick and Bilious Headaches, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels are promptly relieved and permanently cured.

"If we can't cure your Catarrh, no matter how bad your case or how long standing, we'll pay you $500 in cash." That is what is promised by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Doesn't it prove, better than any words could, that this is a remedy that cures Catarrh? Costs only 50 cents.

OUR SALES

of lamps and silver on Saturday were the largest in our experience. We'll keep it up until spring.

FROM THIS ON we'll add to them at slaughter prices, DINNER, TEA and BEDROOM SETS. They must go and it's as well to understand first as last that we are determined to get right under all others in prices, and that's all the buying public want. From to-day forward see us about you dishes, lamps and silver before you buy.

THREE carloads American and four carloads Canadian Coal Oil, or 420 barrels, is what we have received for the week commencing Dec. 4th and ending Dec. 10th—every day a car load.

No more conclusive evidence could be produced to show the satisfaction our Coal Oil has given this season than our large increase in sales. The bad smell, the smoke, the puffing flame, in fact most of the objections to its use are overcome by purchasing Coal Oil from

ALL HAPPY.

What a good thing it is that once a year we are all induced to do what we can to make some one else happy. Even the most penurious spend a little and all experience the joy felt in giving. And yet we may overdo it by spending more than our income warrants, but if you will look through our Xmas goods this may be avoided. A dress, a bonnet, gloves, handkerchiefs, etc, are useful gifts and for these money is not wasted. But we have nice fancy goods too, the prices of which are within the reach of all.

BROOKE'S DAUGHTER.

BY

ADELINE SERGEANT,

Author of "A True Friend," etc, etc.

(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

The light swam before Lesley's eyes. The vision of a big, brown-bearded man, bigger and broader, it seemed to her, than any man she had ever spoken to before, took away her senses. As he came up to her she involuntarily shrank back; and when she stooped to kiss her the novel sensation of his bristly beard against her face, the strong scent of tobacco, and the sense that she was unwelcome, all contributed towards complete self-betrayal. Dizzy from her voyage; faint, sick and unhinged, she almost pushed him away from her and sank down on a hall chair with a little burst of sobbing which she could not control. She was terribly, terribly ashamed of herself next moment; but this next moment was too late. She had made as bad a beginning as she had it in her power to make, and no after-apology could alter what was done.

For a moment a dead silence fell on the little group. Miss Brooke heard her brother mutter something beneath his breath in a very angry tone. She wondered whether his daughter heard it too. The faithful and officious Dayman immediately pressed forward with soothing words and offers of help.

"There, there, my dear young lady don't take on so. It won't be for long, remember; and I'll come for you again to take you back to your mamma——"

"You had better leave her alone, Dayman," said Mr. Brooke, coldly. "She will probably be more composed by and by."

Lesley was on her feet again in a moment. "I am not unreasonable," she said distinctly, but with a little catch in her voice; "it is only that I am tired and upset with the journey—and the sudden light was too much for me. Give mamma my love, Dayman, and say that I am very well."

"Are the boxes all in?" asked Mr. Brooke. "We need not detain you, Mrs. Dayman."

Dayman turned and dropped him a mocking curtsey.

"I have my orders from my mistress, sir. Having seen the young lady safe into your hands, I will go back to my lady at the railway station, where she is now and tell her how she was received,"

Miss Brooke, glancing anxiously at her brother, saw him bite his lip and frown. He did not speak but pointed to the door in a manner which Dayman did not see fit to disobey.

"Good bye, Miss Lesley—and I'll look forward to the day when I see you back again," said the maid, in a tone of profound commiseration.

"Good bye, Dayman, give my love to mamma," said Lesley. She would have dearly liked to add, "Don't tell her that I cried;" but with that circle of unsympathetic faces around her, she did not dare. She pressed her lips together, dashed her tears from her eyes and managed to smile however, as Dayman took her departure.

Meanwhile Miss Brooke had quietly sent the maid for a glass of wine, which she administered to the girl without further ado. Lesley drank it obediently and felt reinvigorated; but although her courage rose, her spirit remained sadly low as she looked at her father's face, and saw that it wore an uncompromising frown.

"You had better have these boxes carried upstairs as soon as possible," he remarked to his sister. "I will say good-night now; I have to go out."

He turned away rather brusquely, and went back into his study, which was situated behind the dining room, on the ground floor. Lesley looked after him helplessly, with a mingled feeling of offence and relief. She did not see him again, but was conveyed to her own room by Miss Brooke, who spoke to her kindly indeed, but with a matter-of-fact directness which seemed hard and cold even to the convent bred girl, whose teachers and guardians had vied with one another in sugared sweetness and a tutored amiability of demeanor.

Lesley was taken up two flights of stairs to a room which seemed close and stuffy to her, although in English eyes it might be deemed comfortable and even luxurious. But padded arm-chairs and couch, eider-down silken covered quilts, cushions, curtains, and carpets, were things of which as yet she had no great appreciation. The room seemed to her altogether too full of furniture, and she longed to run to the window for a breath of fresh air. Miss Brooke, observing how white she looked, asked her if she felt faint.

"No, thank you; I am only tired," said Lesley.

"You would like some tea, perhaps?"

"Thank you," said the girl, rather hesitatingly. Nobody drank tea at the convent, and in her visits to Lady Alice she had not cultivated a taste for it. "I think I would rather go to bed."

"You must have something to eat before you go," said Miss Brooke, drily. "Here, let me feel your pulse. Yes, you need food, and I'll send you up a soothing draught as well. You need not look so astonished, my dear; don't you know that I am a doctor?"

"A doctor! You!" Lesley looked around the room as if looking for some place to hide from such a monstrosity.

"Yes, a doctor—a lady doctor," said Miss Brooke, with grim but not unmirthful emphasis. "You never saw me before, did you? Well, I'm not in general practice just now; my health would not stand it, so I am keeping my brother's house instead; but I am fully qualified, my dear, I assure you, and can prescribe for you if you are ill as well as any physician in the land."

She laughed as she spoke, and there was a humorous twinkle in her shrewd, kindly eyes, which Lesley did not understand. As a matter of fact, her innocent horror and amaze tickled Miss Brooke immensely. It was evident that this girl, with her foreign, aristocratic, and Catholic training knew nothing at all of the strides that have of late been made in the direction of female emancipation; and her ignorance was amusing to Miss Brooke, who was one of the foremost champions of the woman's cause. Miss Sophia Brooke, whose name was on every committee under the sun, who spoke at meetings and wrote half a dozen letters after her name, to have a niece who had never met a lady doctor in her life before, and probably did not know anything at all about woman's franchise! It was quite too funny, and Miss Brooke—or Doctor Brooke as she had better be called—was genuinely amused. But it was not an amusing matter to Lesley, who felt as if the foundations of the solid world were shaking underneath her.

If she had heard of women doctors at all it was in terms of bitterest reprobation; she had been told that they were not persons of respectability, that they were 'without the pale,' and she believed all that was told. And here she was, shut up for a year with a woman of the very class that she was taught to reprobate—a woman, too, who, although no longer young, had a face that was pleasant to look upon, because it expressed refinement and kindliness as well as intellectual power, and whose dress, though plain, was severely neat, well-fitting, and of rich material. In fact, Miss Brooke was so unlike anything in the shape of womankind that Lesley had ever encountered, that the girl could only gaze at her in speechless amazement, and wonder whether she was expected to develope into something of the same sort.

She could not deny, however, that her aunt was very good natured. Miss Brooke helped her to undress, put her to bed, unpacked her boxes in about half the time that a maid would have taken to do the work; then she brought her something to eat and drink, and waited on her with the care of a woman with a truly kindly heart. Lesley began to take courage and to ask questions.

"I suppose I shall see my father again to-morrow," she said.

"About mid-day you may see him," Miss Brooke answered cheerfully. "He will be out until two or three in the morning, you know; and of course he can't be disturbed very early. You must remember that we keep the house very quiet until eleven o'clock, when breakfast generally comes down. He breakfasts then, and goes out.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by accepting an Imitation Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may offer upon you. For sale by all druggists or send post-paid on receipt of price (60c and $1.) by addressing Hor & Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. Next day all the several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

FOUND OUT BY A FORGERY

HALTON COUNTY CONTRIBUTES A PECULIAR CASE.

The Wife of a Farmer Confesses That She Has Been Attaching Her Husband's Name To Notes For Years Without His Knowledge.

MILTON, Ont., Dec. 13.—Halton County, and particularly the town of Milton and adjoining township of Trafalgar, is just now discussing one of the most peculiar cases which has ever cropped up in Canada.

Ever since Landlord Robson of the Commercial Hotel, Milton, died, his son, D. A. Robson, who is now 23 years of age, has been living the life of a high roller. For several years he was employed as office boy and clerk for Barrister Duncan McGibbon. A year ago Mr. McGibbon discovered that there was a leakage in the funds of the office—that remittances from clients which had been forwarded in registered letters and by money orders had not been credited to the senders. The fact of the shortage was never made public, but Robson was allowed to "sever his connection" with the office, and, it is claimed, agreed to make restitution. This was a year ago. Shortly afterwards Robson opened an office in the town hall and issued this card:

> D. A. ROBSON,
> Fire, Life and Accident Insurance Agent, Conveyancer. Notes discounted. Money to loan on real and personal property. Auctioneer. Valuator. Collections promptly made. Estates wound up, etc.
> Office, Town Hall, Milton, Ont.

For several months past he has been flying high, playing billiards and indulging in other extravagances. The culmination arrived a few days ago, when he was arrested on an information lodged by Robert J. Campbell, farmer of Trafalgar, on a charge of having on Dec. 1 uttered and sold a promissory note for $300, dated at Milton on Dec. 1, payable to the complainant and purporting to be signed by John Dixon, a well-known Trafalgar farmer, and Matilda Dixon, his wife.

On Nov. 29 Campbell called at Robson's office and asked him if he had any notes to sell. Robson said he had one for $375 made by Mrs. Dixon, and arranged that Campbell should again visit the defendant's office on Thursday. Campbell went to Milton as agreed, and Robson produced a note for $300 purporting to be signed by the Dixons. Campbell went to the bank, drew the $300 and was given the note. He thought that the signature "R. A. Dixon" did not look like a man's writing and he asked Robson if he saw the note signed. He replied: "Yes, I saw them sign it in the office." Campbell was still dubious, however, and on the way home called on a Mr. McClellan, who possessed a note signed by Dixon, and compared the signatures. He thought they differed, and, returning to Milton, he saw Robson and told him that if McClellan's note was genuine the other was a forgery. Robson replied that there was no doubt about the note being genuine, as Mrs. Dixon had given it to him. Campbell still doubted the genuineness of the note, whereupon Robson asked him to wait a few days and he would see Mrs. Dixon and make it all right.

Campbell saw Dixon, however, and he stated that the signature was not his, nor was that of his wife her writing. Robson's arrest followed.

When arraigned Robson denied that he had forged the note, and claimed that it had been given him by Mrs. Dixon, and he asked that a warrant be issued for her arrest, but his application was refused.

With the arrest of Robson a new phase was given to the case. When Dixon was placed in the witness box he swore that he never signed any notes in conjunction with his wife for money borrowed or otherwise, and that he never gave his consent to his wife to sign notes on her own account.

This statement caused a sensation, for it was known that Mrs. Dixon had negotiated at least half a score of notes purporting to be signed by her husband during the past six or seven years, and totalling in value $2000 or $3000.

Mrs. Dixon was called as a witness and admitted that she had been in the habit of borrowing money for several years in sums of $200 and $300 on notes signed by herself and husband. She handled nearly all of them personally. She admitted that a note for $200 in the possession of John Sproat was made by her, and claimed that she signed her husband's name to it by his authority. He had not given her authority to sign notes for him whenever she liked. She declined, on the ground that it might incriminate her, to say whether Hugh Campbell, Mayor Dice, James Henderson, John Jones, Dr. Stuart and Henry Carrique had notes purporting to bear her husband's signature, but which signature was made by her, and also declined for the same reason to say whether there are 15 or 20 notes floating around the county.

What Mrs. Dixon, who is 55 years of age, did with the money she borrowed is not in evidence. It is rumored that she dabbled in Mimico real estate seven years ago, and issued the first note at that time. As the notes became due she issued others to raise funds to retire the first and by this system of financing kept the knowledge of the existence of the floating paper from her husband. Dixon is a wealthy farmer and his wife had no difficulty in getting the notes cashed. She always gave a plausible reason why she it was who presented it, her husband was busy in the harvest field, or he was engaged elsewhere. Two daughters have been married recently and "we want some ready cash for the wedding" explained the reason for the loan on a couple of occasions.

This was but a subterfuge, however, as Dixon states he paid all the wedding expenses himself. Whether her mistaken action was the outcome of real estate speculation or not it is certain she had frequent occasion to visit Toronto. It is believed that all the notes have been accounted for and that the total sum which Mr. Dixon will have to pay as the result of his wife's kite-flying experiment will not exceed $3000.

Two of the notes, those held by Henderson and Joyes, were negotiated through Robson, but Mrs. Dixon swears that she never had a transaction with the accused since, giving as a reason why she failed to go to him again that he failed to hand over all the cash he received as the proceeds of the former notes.

Robson will be tried before Judge Kingsmill on Friday. His defence is that he received the Campbell notes from Mrs. Dixon in the same way that he received the other notes; that if there was forgery committed Mrs. Dixon must have committed the forgery. He admits that the money he received from discounting the note he did not pay to Mrs. Dixon, but still retains.

On the other hand, Mrs. Dixon swears that she did not sign the note, that she was not in Robson's office on the day he told Campbell she called, that in fact she had no relations with him whatever for several months.

There is another point of evidence to which the prosecution attach considerable importance. Expert evidence will be called to prove that the signatures on the notes acknowledged by Mrs. Dixon differ materially from those on the Campbell note discounted by Robson, the formation of the capital letter "D" and the "x" being totally dissimilar.

The prosecution also advance the theory that Robson, from previous dealings with Mrs. Dixon, knew that she was signing notes without her husband's knowledge, and that being hard pressed by some of his creditors he floated one on his own account. Theories are not evidence, however, and the prisoner's counsel, Mr. Elliott, is satisfied that the result of the trial will be the acquittal of his client.

Roleson's widowed mother and her family are much respected in the village, and it is hoped that he will be able to emerge with flying colors from the net in the meshes of which he is entangled.

Meantime Mr. Dixon will take up all the notes issued by his wife as they mature.

A DANGEROUS COURSE.

To Travel It Is To Run Against Hard Presbyterian Facts.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 13.—The Cincinnati Presbytery, in secret session, voted late Monday afternoon upon the second and third charges against Prof. Smither, Lane Theological Seminary, and he was found guilty of both charges.

The second charge was that he taught contrary to the fundamental doctrine of the Word of God and of the confession of faith, that the Holy Spirit did not so control the inspired watchers in their composition of the Holy Scriptures as to make their utterances absolutely truthful, i.e., free from error when interpreted in their natural and intended sense.

The third charge accused him of teaching an inscription of the Scriptures in a sense different from that taught by the Scriptures themselves and by the confession of faith.

These two charges were so nearly alike that it is said that the court argued them together.

The final vote is reported to be: Charge second, guilty, 36; not guilty, 20. Charge third, guilty, 32; not guilty, 26.

A committee was appointed to consider and report the penalty for the action of the Presbytery at their meeting to-morrow.

In view of the close vote it's surmised that the penalty of excommunication will not be recommended, and possibly not even more than admonition, as the committee is made up to include several supporters of accused.

MR. GLADSTONE

May Be Invited to Be the Orator at the World's Fair.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—William Ewart Gladstone, the Grand Old Man of England, may be the orator at the opening of the World's Columbian Exhibition, May 1. Mr. Gladstone's name has been seriously considered by the Ceremonies Committee, and Secretary Culp believes the committee can secure him.

Some weeks ago the name of Emilio Castlebar was prominently mentioned. That a Spaniard and so eminent an orator as Castlebar should be chosen seemed eminently acceptable, but it was found that when it came to speaking English he was at a disadvantage.

BORDER WAR.

The Notorious Garza Makes It Hot For Mexico's Troops.

LAREDO, Texas, Dec. 13.—Further particulars of the battle between Garza's followers and the Mexican troops near St. Ignacio are to the effect that a band of 300 followers of Garza crossed the Rio Grande boundary at the Mexican barracks just over the border in Mexico.

The Mexican troopers came out and at the first fire several were killed and the soldiers were driven back. The revolutionists captured the barracks with its guns and supplies.

After stripping it entirely, the place was burned and all the soldiers dispersed, and the revolutionists then returned to the American side of the Rio Grande.

Uncle Sam's men are now hurrying through the Masquitt to head off the returning insurgents. A courier from west of here says Garza can get 8000 men together at a call. President Diaz has ordered Mexican troops massed at the border.

A MARRIAGE THAT FAILED.

Mrs. Gibbs Wishes To Have the Custody of Her Children.

TORONTO, Dec. 13.—Charles T. Gibbs, assistant accountant of the Senate of Canada, was married to Caroline Thompson at Christ Church, Ottawa, in September, 1877. As issue of the marriage two daughters were born, Lilian May in 1878 and Florence Ethel in 1880. The marriage was a failure, and in 1887 the wife left her husband's home, taking the children with her. She has resided in Ottawa since with the children, but has refused to have anything to do with her husband, having received some money from the estate of her father, the late Philip Thompson. She is now about to remove to Boston, and as she proposes taking the children with her Mr. Gibbs yesterday made application to Mr. Justice MacMahon, who made an order for the issue of a writ of habeas corpus. The motion for the custody of the children will be argued on Friday next.

MURDER IN THE AIR.

One Man Killed and Three Others Wounded in Georgia.

SPARTA, Ga., Dec. 13.—A shooting affair occurred on the street yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Gilmore, who wrote third party political letters, was killed.

"Dude" West, a member of the Legislature, was shot in the arm.

Edward Brown, assistant marshal, shot in the hand.

Burt Ames, shot in the groin.

Gilmore's sons were engaged in the shooting.

D'Alton McCarthy's Grandson Killed.

PORT HOPE, Ont., Dec. 12.—Mr. D'Alton McCarthy was summoned here to-day, owing to the death of his grandson, Philip Pepler, the 10-year-old son of F. E. P. Pepler of Barrie. Young Pepler, who was attending Trinity College School, was playing in the gymnasium a week ago last Saturday, when he fell down the well of the stairs, striking on his feet, the concussion breaking the base of the skull. The best medical aid was secured, but without avail. His mother, who is a niece of Lady Macdonald and a step-daughter of Mr. D'Alton McCarthy, was sent for and has been in constant attendance.

Employers Win the Fight.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 13.—The fight between labor and capital in New Orleans was to a finish and the victory of the employers is becoming more sweeping every day.

The Amalgamated Council which conducted the general strike is so weakened that it will hardly survive its defeat.

The Knights of Labor withdrew early in the fight and refused to countenance the general strike, leaving the bodies belonging to the American Federation of Labor alone in their glory. Now these are deserting the Council.

After the Wily Indian Kid.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 13.—Lieut. Wallace, with three non-commissioned officers, 15 privates, six scouts and Indian trailers, has left Fort Bowie in pursuit of the Apache renegade, Kid.

A treaty with Mexico, permitting United States soldiers to cross the frontier, has been renewed. This concession, with the liberal reward offered by the territory for Kid and eight of his principal followers makes it likely that the wily Indian will be captured.

Gold For Austria.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—It is stated the gold to be exported to-morrow is all for Austria, where a premium is being paid for the metal.

Actor Townsend Dying.

HAMILTON, Dec. 13.—Mr. John Townsend, the well-known actor and theatrical instructor, is peacefully dying at his home here.

"It Cured Mother."

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicinal herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

W. C. T. U. Notes.

I have had to listen to a good deal of sympathy expressed for the wives of drinking men lately, and I must say I think the most of it was misplaced. Not that I do not think a tippler's wife one of the most pitiable beings on the face of the earth, nor that I would shield the culprits from the blame they so richly deserve, but because I believe if women had not fostered the drinking habit, it would not be so prevalent as it is now. I do not mean that women who have stuff constantly about the house or who go out for a small bottle now and then; I mean the women who make it as easy as possible for a man to drink and keep his self respect. Through a mistaken kindness she overlooks his real condition and pets and coddles him until he feels that it is his misfortune instead of his fault; she does his work if she can and tells his friends he is sick; humors his drunken fancies as though he was an ailing child, and doses him to make him well and fit for business with as little delay and inconvenience to himself as possible. When he is himself again she is too delicate to refer to his digression for fear of wounding his feelings, or, maybe, she speaks lightly of the ridiculous things he did, until he gets to believe that he is an amusing cuss in his cups, or that an apology and the fact that he was drinking at the time should excuse everything.

The meetings of the National W.C.T.U. at Denver, Colorado, just concluded, have been a success. Miss Frances Willard recently returned from Great Britain (bringing Lady Henry Somerset with her) gave a fine President address, bristling with texts, some of which we hope to dwell on at another time. The spirit of a Convention is apt to be summed up by its committee on resolutions. In these resolutions the moral support of the Union was pledged to that political party which declare for the home against the saloon, for the enfranchisement of women and for the preservation of the Christian Sunday. The following resolutions were adopted:

"That it is the sense of this body that our national Congress should at as early a date as practicable, make a thorough investigation of the entire liquor traffic of the United States and ascertain and officially publish the amount manufactured, imported and consumed annually; and the per cent. of poverty, ignorance, crime, insanity, disease and death resulting from the use of intoxicants.

"That the crown of citizenship should not be placed upon foreigners until they have a thorough knowledge of our laws and institutions, and that a uniform national naturalization law be placed upon our statute books.

"Whereas, a strong effort has been and is still being made to have the gates of the Columbian Exposition open on Sunday, and

"Whereas, we believe that to open any part of the exhibition on that day would establish a precedent, the tendency of which would be to break down our Sunday laws all over the country, and bring us a continental Sunday with all its demoralizing influences, therefore.

"Resolved that we are grateful for the action of our national Congress in ordering the gates to be closed upon the first day of the week, and we trust no contrary action may be taken."

Resolutions were also passed protesting against liquor being sold on the exposition grounds; against the tobacco and cigarette habits; and approving the movement to prevent the wearing of long skirts on the street. The other resolutions were of an unimportant nature.

THE DIFFERENCE.

The appointment of a Quebec lawyer as Minister of Agriculture is no doubt a compliment to the many able farmers who support the Government in the House of Commons.—Ottawa Free Press.

O. A. P. Pelletier, "a Quebec lawyer," was Minister of Agriculture in Mr. Mackenzie's Administration, yet neither the Free Press nor any other Grit organ objected to him on that account. "It makes all the difference whose ox is gored."

FAIR PLAY WANTED.

All that the new administration at Ottawa need now ask for is fair play—just plain, ordinary, every-day fair play. But the Liberals are bound they shall not have it. From the moment that Sir John Abbott tendered his resignation down to the present hour, the opposition press have resorted to every form of misrepresentation and specious argument which a wicked ingenuity could devise, for the purpose of prejudicing popular judgment against the new Premier and his ministers. Not one of them has had the manliness or courage to say that Sir John Thompson should be judged by his deeds and measures. On the contrary, they have all appealed to the prejudices and sentiments of classes with a view to stifling honest opinion. They have taken it for granted that certain interests will suffer while others will be helped, and upon these assumptions they have asked the people to condemn a ministry which has thus far held but two short meetings. To say the least, this is mean and unBritish. It is uncalled for and mischievous. No general good can come from these unreasonable appeals to popular prejudice, and it is an indecent thing for the press of a great political party to adopt such tactics at this juncture. Let the Government have fair play. The public interests demand it, and in common justice it should be given.

PRUDENT MANAGEMENT.

The financial statement just made public at the Capital reveals a surplus of $4,000,000, in round figures, for the first five months of the current fiscal year. This will be cheering information to the people at large; but it is gall and wormwood to the Grit leaders. To the fair minded citizen, who looks for the simple truth, these figures indicate prudence and skill in the management of the country's fiscal affairs. They show that economy is being practised in the administration of Dominion finances. To the Cartwrights and Charltons, however, they plainly show that all this talk about the wild wastefulness of a profligate Government is sheer nonsense. Hence, what is good news to the masses is bad news to these would-be rulers. To make charges of extravagance seem even plausible it is necessary there should be a balance on the wrong side as between income and outgo. It was so during the Cartwright regime. Month by month the fiscal statements plainly told of waste on one hand and bad management on the other; of increasing expenditure and shrinking revenue; of pressing public needs and inability to meet them. Now, however, it is different. By the practice of economy the public expenditure is kept down, and by sagacious administration of national affairs the income is increased. A handsome surplus is the result, carrying with it a reduction of the public debt by an equivalent sum. With such a gratifying fact in view, no man who wishes to be candid and fair will fail to give credit where it has been so well earned.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and sure cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for cleaning up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50 cents a package.

GLADSTONE'S PORTRAIT.

The Unveiling Celebrated by a Banquet—Edward's Blake's Speech.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Lord Rosebery presided at the banquet of the National Liberal Club this evening, held to celebrate the unveiling of the Gladstone portrait, done by the Canadian artist Forbes.

The Hon. Edward Blake, Nationalist M.P. for South Longford, made the speech of presentation. It was an eloquent eulogium of the Premier. Canadian Liberals regard Mr. Gladstone as the foremost of living men, Mr. Blake said, and believed that they understood his high aims and clear methods. They themselves knew the blessings of Home Rule and, therefore, had been most strongly attached to Mr. Gladstone by his efforts to solve the Irish problem. Mr. Blake elicited repeated applause from his hearers, and sat down amid a storm of cheers.

Lord Rosebery prefaced his reply with flattering remarks as to Mr. Blake's "noble speech," compared with which, he said, his own address would "shine as a farthing rushlight."

Proceeding, Lord Rosebery spoke of the presentation as a strictly imperial event. He had often been taunted with a lack of sympathy with the Home Rule ambitions of those parts of the empire outside of Great Britain. He hoped that the feeling developed by the Canadian Liberals in sending the picture would spread so far and wide that the taunt would be deprived of all its malice.

He wished to see the bonds uniting the Empire drawn more tightly. All present rejoiced that Canadian and Australian interests had been brought forward more conspicuously of late in English life.

Mr. Blake, the most brilliant orator and one of the most able statesmen produced by Canada in this generation, was evidence of the maturing unity of interests in the Empire.

In mentioning Mr. Gladstone, Lord Rosebery spoke of the sympathy and courage of the Premier, and likened the situation of the Government with that of Marie Antoinette in her first accouchement, when the courtiers carefully suffocated her in their eagerness to see her first-born.

THE YELLOW METAL

Germany is on Record as an Opponent of Bi-Metallism.

BERLIN, Dec. 12.—In the Reichstag today Count Von Mirabbah asked the Government to assist the bi-metallists at the monetary conference at Brussels.

Chancellor Von Caprivi replied that the German delegate to the conference had been instructed not to give their assent to any proposal that restricted Germany's right to decide what should constitute her own currency. They had also been instructed to declare that Germany was content with her present standard, and would not depart from it. The Chancellor concluded his remarks by declaring Germany would continue to adhere to the gold standard.

Curiosities of the Calendar.

Our ordinary year of 365 days falls short of a solar year by close on six hours, or, to be exact, by 20,937 seconds. This deficiency would, in a century, amount to 24 days, 5 hrs. 36 min. Julius Cæsar introduced leap years, with a view of overcoming the difficulty; but adding 25 days in four years gives 18 hrs. 25 mins. too much. The result of the Julian correction was that the calendar began to run away from the sun, and in 1588 the sun stood seven days in this rear. Evidently, or rather obviously, the sun could not be altered, so Pope Gregory made a reformation of the calendar. He arranged that when the number denoting the century was not a multiple of four, the century was not to be a year. Since 1680, the error resulting from the amended calendar of the Pope has not amounted to the tenth of a day. It will amount to one day in the year of grace 5680.

The nineteenth century began on the morning of Thursday, January 1st, 1801, and will end at midnight on Monday, December 31st, 1900. It will contain 36,524 days. Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday will each have occurred 5,218 times; Tuesday and Wednesday each 5,217 times.

Christmas will have fallen on Sunday fifteen times. New Year's Day will have fallen fifteen times on each of Sunday and Friday, and fourteen times on each of the other days.

A year repeats itself every 28 years after. Thus the leap years 1804, 1832, 1860 and 1888 all began upon a Sunday, and the calendar is thus the same for each. Ordinary years also recur periods of 11, 11 and 6 (sum 28). Thus 1865, 1874, 1885 and 1891 all began upon a Thursday.

An ordinary year must end on the same day of the week as it began. October always begins on the same day as January; February, March and November start always the same; July follows April; December follows September, while May, June and August each begin upon a day distinct from one another, and from every other month. These remarks do not apply to leap years.

Sunday claimed the 29th of February three times in this century, in 1824, 1852 and 1880. February 29th, 1908, will fall upon a Sunday.

The first day of a century cannot fall on a Wednesday, Friday or Sunday, and we must leave readers to puzzle out this fact for themselves.

AFTER A STRONG FIGHT

MANITOULIN ISLAND CAN WIRE THE MAINLAND.

The Island Line Cut Through a Dense Forest—The Revenue Cutter Constance Comes to Winter Quarters—Dewdney's Private Secretary.

OTTAWA, Dec. 13.—Information was received here yesterday that telegraphic communication had been established between Manitoulin Island and the mainland, thus giving about 12,000 people, who have hitherto been cut off from communication with the outside world during the winter, telegraphic connection with the rest of the Dominion.

The line is from Nelson Station on the Canadian Pacific Railway to Little Current on Manitoulin Island, a distance of about 35 miles.

It has been built by the people of the island, aided by a grant of $1000 from the Dominion Government. The line in the mainland had to be cut through dense forest, and has been rather expensive.

No cable is used, the wires being carried on high poles across the steamboat channel, and from the island to the mainland. It is intended to extend the line to Gore Bay and other points on Manitoulin Island.

Visiting the Printing Bureau.

Hon. John Costigan, accompanied by Senator John Ferguson, paid his first visit to the Printing Bureau to-day since he was shown over the building by Dr. Dawson.

The revenue cutter Constance has completed her service for the year, her last work being to bring up from Gaspe Basin to Quebec the workmen who have been putting up the steam disinfector and completing the building there. The crew were paid off to-day and the vessel has gone into winter quarters.

Mr. E. A. Jacob, who for the past two years has been employed as assistant to Mr. George Johnson, Dominion Statistician, has been appointed private secretary to Lieutenant-Governor Dewdney and will leave for British Columbia in time to enter upon his new duties on Jan. 1.

There will be a meeting of the Treasury Board to-morrow morning, the first held since the formation of the new Ministry. All the old members of the board have been re-appointed with the exception of Hon. Mr. Chapleau, whose place has been taken by Hon. Mr. Ouimet.

POISON AT HOMESTEAD.

The Strikers Deny the Story, and Claim They Are Persecuted.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 12.—Informations are to be laid shortly against persons implicated in the alleged poisoning plot against Homestead steel workers, and sensational developments are expected.

As yet, the attorneys for the Carnegie Steel Company are reticent, as the publication came before their plans had been fully matured.

The alleged conspiracy was the principal topic of discussion here to-day. The strikers discredit the story and claim they are being persecuted, while counsel for the Carnegies assert they will be able to substantiate the charges.

William H. Gaches, treasurer of the Advisory Board, denies indignantly that any member of the Advisory Board was a party to any plot to poison non-union men.

Capt. E. Y. Beck, Deputy Sheriff Farrell and William C. Lindsay left to-night for Louisville with requisition papers for Robt. Beatty, charged with being implicated in the alleged plot to poison non-union men.

To guard against any complication, a new information was laid against Beatty. It is sworn to by J. H. Ford, a Pinkerton detective, and alleges that on or about Sept. 1, and on other days previous to that and thereafter, Beatty did administer, or cause to be administered and taken by Wm. Liam E. Griffith and others, a certain deadly poison with the intent to commit murder.

TWO MEN STABBED.

They Were Shooting Rabbits On a Farm in Southern Manitoba.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 12.—A bad stabbing affray occurred at Bromhill yesterday.

Harry Vaughan accused George Randall's farm with a gun, following a rabbit.

Randall ordered him off and went to the road allowance, where the two had words. Vaughan threw his gun on the snow and started to fight.

Arthur Randall, a brother of George Randall, ran up and joined in the fight and broke the gun stock over Vaughan, who brought out a knife and stabbed both.

George is dead and Arthur is seriously injured. Vaughan is highly respected. Randall was of a quarrelsome disposition.

THE BANK CLERK'S CASE.

Up Before a Police Magistrate and Wants Trial by Jury.

CHATHAM, Ont., Dec. 12.—The case of Angus Donnelsther, charged with stealing $8700 from the Standard Bank, was on trial yesterday. Prisoner pleaded not guilty and asked for trial by jury. The court then adjourned till to-morrow.

The Strike Spreading.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 12.—The strike of the telegraphers on the Rock Island road assumed a more serious aspect yesterday when the balance of the brotherhood men in the employ of the road left their keys.

The men claim now that they are sure to win.

Lines connecting with the Rock Island have issued orders to take no perishable freight from that road, and difficulty is experienced by the Rock Island in moving freight trains.

Blaine's Critical Condition.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—A special from Washington states that Blaine is critically ill. The impression is that he is dying.

A Serious Fall.

HAMILTON, Dec. 13.—A very serious accident occurred to a young immigrant lad employed by Mr. William Ryckman of Waterdown yesterday. He was riding when a dog ran out and frightened his horse, which threw him, and he fell upon his head on the rough frozen road.

He was picked up and carried into a house in the village. The young man was still unconscious shortly after 1 o'clock and was suffering from concussion of the brain.

Fattening on Olive Oil.

JAMESBURG, N.J., Dec. 13.—James Still, a colored boy who is an inmate of the Jamesburg reform school, reached the 65th day of his fast yesterday. He is if anything heavier in weight than he was two weeks ago, and seems to grow stronger. The only nourishment he takes is a spoonful of sweet oil, which is rubbed into his body twice a day.

WANTS WESTERN JUSTICE.

Hamilton Is Troubled With An Impudent Gang of Horse Thieves.

HAMILTON, Dec. 13.—About a year ago Manus McGowan of Dundurn-street had a horse stolen out of his stable, and he never got any trace of the lost animal since it was stolen.

Last Thursday night the door of his stable was again tampered with, but the thieves did not succeed in getting in this time.

Last Monday night a horse belonging to S. S. King, corner of York and Dundurn-streets, was stolen, the thieves having entered the stable during the night and taken the animal away.

Up to the present time Mr. King has not heard anything of it. Last night the stable of William Burwell, at the end of York-street, was visited. The thieves didn't get in, but they left behind them an evidence of their visit in the form of a bundle of hay.

Two or three other stables in the neighborhood have been visited at night within the past week or two, and horse owners are thinking of organizing a mutual protective association.

BULLET IS NOT LOCATED.

A P. O. CLERK SHOOTS A BUCKLE INTO HIS BODY.

James Pope, Aged 24, is a Critical Condition at the Hospital, as the Result of a Revolver Shot, Which Carried a Suspender Buckle in With It.

TORONTO, Dec. 13.—James A. Pope, postoffice clerk, shot himself with a revolver at 5.50 p.m. yesterday. He has been living with his father, James Pope, who keeps a flour and feed store at 307 Davenport-road. He went into the bedroom, where his mother lay ill and began searching in a drawer in the dresser. His mother, knowing that a loaded 38-calibre American bulldog revolver was in that drawer, asked him what he wanted, and receiving no answer began to scream. This brought the servant girl and Mr. Pope to the room, and at the same moment young Pope ran into the hall, pointed the weapon toward his left breast and fired. The bullet struck the metal buckle on his suspender and carried a portion of the buckle into his body.

Drs. Henwood, H. H. Wright and Johnson were soon in attendance. Dr. Johnson succeeded in removing the portion of the buckle, but the bullet could not be located.

The wound was situated a little more than an inch below the left nipple and was an inch and a half long, opening into the pleural cavity. There was a good deal of bleeding and at every breath air rushed in through the wound. The doctors were unable to come to definite conclusions as to the direction of the ball, owing to the extreme danger of probing. Appearances showed, however, that the sixth rib was shattered and the ball was still in the body.

The wounded man was conscious and talked with the doctors, but did not admit that he attempted to take his life. The father was also reticent on that point, and when questioned by the physicians simply said, "You know Jim was always a queer tempered lad."

On the advice of Dr. Johnson the wounded man was at once removed to the Hospital, where he lies in a precarious condition.

James Pope is 24 years of age and a regular attendant at the Presbyterian mission in Davenport-road. He also taught a Sunday school class there. For the past four years he has been employed as city letter carrier until five months ago, when his diligence obtained his promotion to the position of postoffice clerk.

WHO WILL HAVE $1,500?

Or Will It Revert to the Crown?—Wanted, Relatives of John Dunn.

TORONTO, Dec. 13.—John Dunn of the township of Thorold, in the county of Welland, died in April, 1890. Intestate, unmarried and without heirs or next of kin, leaving real estate worth $1200 and personalty worth $300. It is believed that he was born in Roscrea, Tipperary, Ireland, that he went to the States in 1854 and came to Canada in 1875. Advertisements have been put in different papers, but though some claimants have appeared none could prove relationship. The Attorney-General is applying to the court to-day under chap. 39 of R.S.O. to have it declared whether the Crown is entitled to the estate after payment of the deceased's debts.

THAT SUICIDE.

The Jury Agree That Teenie Henderson Died from Exposure.

HAMILTON, Dec. 13.—An inquest was held at the Plains school house on Saturday evening by Dr. McGregor on the death of the young woman, Teenie Henderson, who was found dead. The jury elected John Easterbrook foreman, and after viewing the body, proceeded to take evidence.

Alexander Henderson, the girl's mother, and Patrick Haggarty and Charles Shears, who assisted in bringing the body to the house, and several other witnesses were examined.

The girl's friends said she had only been insane about three months. Dr. Malloch gave medical testimony as to the condition of the body and the jury brought in a verdict of death from exposure. The body of the unfortunate girl will be buried to-day.

APPLE PILFERERS.

Shut Up in a Dark Cellar and Made to Grind Coffee.

MONTREAL, Dec. 13.—For some time past a grocery firm in Catherine-street west has been bothered by boys pilfering apples from the barrels in front of the store. One evening last week they succeeded in capturing three of the juvenile depredators, all stealing fruit, and instead of handing them over to the police, locked them up in a dark room in the cellar.

From this the boys were taken out one at a time and compelled to grind coffee until they were thoroughly exhausted. When they were finally released they made complaints to their families, who claim that the grocers had no right to take the law into their own hands, and say they will take action against them in the courts.

LIGHTNING ROD AGENT

Taken to Milton On a Charge of Defrauding a Farmer.

TORONTO, Dec. 13.—J. W. Rynall, 41 Wellesley-street, was arrested here Saturday as the result of a telegram from Milton claiming that he had defrauded a farmer there in lightning rod deal.

Rynall was taken to Milton yesterday and was remanded by Mayor Dice until Wednesday.

The complainant, Mr. Ramar, a farmer living near Milton, stated that Rynall called on him, and saying that his son had purchased some lightning-rods from him, placed them in position and induced him to sign notes to cover the amount of purchase.

Young Ramar, on his return home, denied any knowledge of the transaction; hence the lightning-rod agent's apprehension.

Manitoba Pioneer Dead.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 13.—Judge Lemair, who has been county court clerk for many years and who is known as one of the pioneers of Manitoba, having built the first flour mill here, died at St. Boniface yesterday evening.

A Ruffian Declared Insane.

LIZZIE WYLLIE.

She is Working in a Bookbindery in Toronto—Longfield Exonerated.

DETROIT, Dec. 12.—John G. Longfield, whose name has been connected with the sudden and mysterious disappearance of Lizzie Wyllie, returned to Detroit yesterday.

He says he has been in Akron, Ohio, since he left, and he has not seen Miss Wyllie at all.

Mrs. Wyllie says she received a letter from her daughter Saturday, dated at Toronto, which stated that she was working for Hunter, Rose & Co., bookbinders. The girl's mother makes no explanation, and she exonerates Longfield.

Though the soil of Virginia grows the best tobacco leaf in the world, it does not all grow equal qualities. The production even of adjoining counties is often quite different, the one producing leaf which at once deteriorates if grown in the other. The leaf of the "Myrtle Navy" is the product of the choice sections of the State, which, through some combination of local influences, produce a better quality than any others. This is shown by its always commanding a higher price than any other smoking leaf.

Burglars at Work.

The Store of A. N. Reid & Co. Entered—Not Much of Value Taken.

During last night the store of Messrs. A. N. Reid & Co., Front street, was entered, and a few articles taken. An entrance was effected through the back door, an iron bar being used in forcing it. The articles taken consisted of 1 pair of pants, brown cloth, the coat and vest being left, 1 blue cloth coat, 1 double breasted coat lined with light tweed and 1 pair of kid gloves. The till was also rifled and about $13, consisting of silver and copper, taken. A piece of cloth was taken out of the store, but was left in the yard in rear of the premises. As to who committed the act there is no clue.

A Butterfly Tea.

The Young People's Association of St. Andrew's church had a most successful butterfly tea last night, after which an excellent programme was furnished. The room was artistically decorated in gossamer style, and the tables were laden with all the delicacies of the season. Ladies in waiting flitted to and fro, and "all went merry as a marriage bell." The I.O.O.F. Orchestra rendered selections from 6:30 to 8 o'clock, after which a programme of rare excellence, consisting of songs, instrumental solos and duets was given. The selections by Mrs. Biggar and Miss Kathleen Bell were well received, and recitations by Miss Jessie Robertson, songs by Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Biggar and Miss Kathleen Bell were enthusiastically encored. Miss May Clark and Mr. Frank Lewis kindly gave several solos and duets, the rendering of which showed the thorough cultivation their voices had received, and much delight was experienced by all in being so favored. It is to be hoped that this is but the beginning of a series of entertainments of this nature, which will be provided for our church going people, as this one at St. Andrew's was a success both financially and socially.

The menu cards, hand-painted by Miss Maclean, and with appropriate mottoes after each item, were unique and most artistic, and were eagerly captured by many as mementoes of the rare treat enjoyed by all. Nearly all the churches in the city were represented among the audience.

TO SUBSCRIBERS.

During several past years we have conducted our weekly subscription list on strictly cash principles, which we have found most satisfactory to subscribers as well as to ourselves. Commencing with the new year, we propose doing away with the CREDIT SYSTEM in connection with subscribers to our DAILY, selling only for cash over the counter at one cent per copy.

Our subscribers will be waited upon before that date by our agents, who will contract to deliver the paper at residences for ten cents per week.

He Wears a Codfish.

A gentleman who was given up to die with consumption happened to receive a visit from a friend, who recommended "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil." Although having little faith he bought a bottle and before he was through taking it, found he was gaining flesh. He continued taking the Emulsion until he regained nearly fifty pounds. He is the heartiest man in town to-day. To commemorate his restoration to health he has had a beautiful golden cod fish manufactured, which he wears as a charm upon his watch chain. This is a pretty good testimony for "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil." Everybody is sounding its praises. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at all Drug Stores.

A Popular Society Re-organized.

The Belleville Business College Literary Society, which was so popular with our citizens last winter, was re-organized by the students yesterday, Principal Swayze occupying the chair. Everything points toward the Society's sustaining, and even surpassing, its previous good record. Great interest was manifested by the students in the election of officers, which resulted as follows: Hon. Pres., Mr. Bogle; Hon. Vice do., Miss MacInnes; President, Prof. Swayze; Vice-do., Mr. W. F. Reeves; Sec.-Treas., Miss C. F. Stratton; Literary Committee, Miss Yarwood, Miss Graham, Mr. Lalonde and Mr. Tousaw; Musical committee, Miss McDavitt, Miss Hazelett, Mr. Sterling, and Mr. Lalonde.

SOCIAL & PERSONAL

Mr. J. Murray, train despatcher at Toronto, came to the city last night to attend the tea at St. Andrew's church.

Mr. Fred Foster, of Chicago, is in the city, where he will spend his holidays.

The Sessions.

The County Court and Quarter Sessions opened at 10 o'clock this afternoon, before His Honor Judge Butler. The Grand Jury after being called, retired and selected Mr. Richard Porter, of Huntingdon, as foreman. After being sworn, the Judge addressed them, stating what their duties would be light, as there were no cases upon the calendar for them to consider. It would be their duty to visit the gaol and public institutions, and report thereon, and they would then be discharged.

Exaggerated Reports.

Reports were freely circulated yesterday afternoon that Miss Maclean was seriously injured in the runaway accident. We are pleased to be able to state that such was not the case, as she was able to be present at the Butterfly tea in St. Andrew's church last night.

But since it has thawed out once more, several are improving the opportunity to plough—teams having been seen ploughing Friday and Saturday.

Arthur Osborn, the village school teacher, has taken the brick school near Carrying Place for next year, and Miss Mallory, of Bloomfield, takes charge of this school.

Capt. Wallace Massey, and wife, of Consecon, were visiting on Sunday at Mr. A. Peterson's.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fye, in charge of the "Scotch Bonnat" light house, returned home yesterday, and their happy faces are amongst us once more.

Wm. Davidson, second son of Mr. James Davidson, Reeve of this Township, while playing football at the College in Toronto, had the misfortune to break his leg, and has been in the hospital for several weeks. He is expected home on Monday.

Mr. George Buchanan had a break down while returning home from Consecon. The front axle of his buggy broke, and nearly caused a runaway.

Mr. Albert Babbit, of Brighton, and his daughter, were visiting at Mrs. B. Palmer's on Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Peter Crandall and family, who have been living near Picton for a time, intend returning to the village in a few days.

Mr. H'y Young, of Belleville, has been visiting friends here for the past few weeks.

Mrs. Jno. McFaul, who has been confined to her room for the past 6 weeks, is improving under the care of Dr. Ruttan.

Rev. W. T. King, of P. Q., preached in Christ Church here on Sunday.

Annual Meeting—Returned to Ontario—A Narrow Escape From Drowning.

(From our own Correspondent)

PLAINFIELD, Dec. 13.

At the annual meeting of the East Hastings Cheese Co., on Friday last, John Clark, Esq., was appointed president, and J. C. Bonisteel secured the contract of making the cheese for 1893.

The latest domestic happiness of Albert Parks arrived on Thursday last. It is a daughter.

D. Poucher has adopted Juniper Hall and also sold out his pork packing outfit to Jas. Greatrix.

G. L. Grass has sold out his farm in Manitoba and returned to Ontario.

A. O. Garrison came near finding a watery grave last week. While fox hunting he ventured out on the ice too far and broke through. After struggling for awhile a happy thought struck him and he took out his knife and reaching out stuck it through the ice pulled himself out.

All will be sorry to learn that George Latta, Esq., who is now at the asylum, Toronto, is gradually getting worse.

GRASPING, AVARICIOUS CAPITALISTS

ARE WHAT OUR COMPETITORS CALL US!

GRASPING, because we want the trade of the earth! AVARICIOUS, because we hang on to the almighty dollar! CAPITALISTS, beause we have the money to tear them to pieces in the wholesale market!

Well, you can see what it amounts to. Success ever brings envy and distrust. If we were only half as successful, we would be feared only half as much as we are.

Our push and principle alarm our competitors. Our business grip make them wince. Our big sales excite their envy. Our popularity is what they cannot block and must put up with.

Talk of big stocks! Shout of immense piles of goods! GOUGH knows what big stocks mean. Throughout Ontario, in the best towns, GOUGH has clothing stores. It is a notorious fact that he does the trade of the town. He buys cheaper and carries more goods than all his competitors combined.

His last great purchase of wholesale stock at 60c. on the $ is a paralyzer. This stock was manufactured by H. Shorey & Co., Montreal, and amounts to over $20,000. Owing to the immense stock already in our main store, we were compelled to open another store next to Dunnet's Dry Goods House. We could not get it all into our main store.

Remember, within six weeks we have captured two stocks, amounting to over $56,000, and when we say we are in a position to sell these goods at less than the ordinary merchant buys for, we can prove it. Ask the railroad people who receives the most goods and they will tell you GOUGH, by ten times. Notwithstanding the low price of wheat and cry of hard times with other merchants, we are head and shoulders ahead of the best sales on record.

"We Are All Right."

At the Warden's dinner at Woodstock Sir Oliver Mowat spoke of the progress made in that region during his twenty years' representation of North Oxford as follows, quoting the Sentinel's report:

"He now looked back over these years with pride as he saw evidences of the prosperity of the people. He was proud to see such a magnificent court house, a building which could not perhaps be equalled in any other county in the Province. This was a great change and he was pleased to see it. There had been great changes here and throughout the Province in the twenty and odd years he represented North Oxford. But he was glad to know that there was no centre more flourishing or more prosperous than Woodstock. Years ago the town was burdened with debt, like other places, but relief came through a measure which he introduced and which received the endorsation of the assembly, and since then Woodstock had made rapid strides. The population had doubled, while the wealth had increased more than two fold. Everywhere he noticed evidences of increased prosperity. He was glad of this. If there was depression elsewhere he could find no trace of it here.

"Sir Oliver said he was pleased to know this from the lips of the chief apostle of annexation."

These are not sentiments of Sir Richard Cartwright, who represents the South Riding in Parliament; but after lecturing so recently on Christian evidences, Sir Oliver is to be taken as the more credible witness in such matters. The Premier of Ontario does not qualify his remarks by any allusion for or against the Government policy of the Dominion. The only drawback he referred to was the old municipal debt, which hung over the locality of Woodstock, as it did over London and so many other places, which being relieved they took a bound upward in progress and prosperity. It will be noticed, however, that the bound in question was also coincident with the introduction of the National Policy, so that the credit which Sir Oliver gave to his relief measure as to municipal debts, might with more cogent reasoning be ascribed to the N. P., since that measure had a more direct and immediate bearing upon the industries of the country. In any case the testimony of Sir Oliver, so evidently sincere, is a fair offset to the blue ruin wailing of Sir Richard, and should cause any one disposed to believe that this country is on the high road to destruction, to ponder sincerely. Even so good an apostle of annexation as Mr. Jas. Anderson, could not restrain himself when the case of Woodstock and vicinity was touched upon, and exclaimed enthusiastically, "We are all right!" An so every one will agree who is not blinded by party prejudice. Each one says of his own locality, "We are all right," which is only to say that Canada, as a whole, is all right.—London Free Press.

"A Yard of Pansies."

By special arrangement with the publishers, we are enabled to make every one of our readers a present of one of these exquisite Oil Pictures 36 inches long, in companion to "A Yard of Roses," which all have seen and admired. This exquisite picture, "A Yard of Pansies," was painted by the same noted artist who did the "Roses." It is the same size, and is pronounced by art critics to be far superior to the "Roses." The reproduction is equal in every respect to the original, which cost $300, and accompanying it are full directions for framing at home, at a cost of a few cents, thus forming a beautiful ornament for your parlor or a superb Christmas gift, worth at least $6. Send your name and address to the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York, with three United States 2-cent stamps to pay for the packing, mailing &c., and mention that you are a reader of the INTELLIGENCER, and you will receive by return mail one of these valuable works of art.

ROOT AND BRANCH, the poison in your blood, however it may have come or whatever shape it may be taking, is cleared away by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's a remedy that rouses every organ into healthful action, purifies and enriches the blood, and through it cleanses and invigorates the whole system. Salt-rheum, Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Enlarged Glands, and the worst Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, are perfectly and permanently cured by it.

Unlike the ordinary Spring medicines or sarsaparillas, the "Discovery" works equally well at all seasons. All the year round and in all cases, it is guaranteed, as no other blood medicine is. If it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back. You pay only for the good you get.

Isn't it safe to say that no other blood-purifier can be "just as good?"

If it were, wouldn't it be sold so?

CROSS.

Some people are born cross, live cross and die cross. Every one of course loves them. It's so nice to hear their everlasting snarling and growling and fault finding. Now if you have a friend thus delightfully afflicted, we can cure him if you want him cured. Perhaps it's a lady, but no matter, bring them along, and we will just banish all their crossness and send them away so good natured you could borrow a quarter from them. How do we do it? Why just tell them the prices of our goods and that does it.

BROOKE'S DAUGHTER.

BY
ADELINE SERGEANT,
Author of "A True Friend," etc., etc.

(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

Lesley was mystified. Why did her father keep such extraordinary hours? She had not the slightest notion that these were the usual arrangements of a journalist's life. She thought that he must be very thoughtless, very self-indulgent, even very wicked. Surely her mother had been more than justified in leaving him. She laid her head upon the pillow, feeling rather inclined to cry.

Miss Brooke had not much of a clue to her emotions; but she was trying hard to fathom what was passing in the girl's mind, and she came very near the mark. She stooped down and kissed her affectionately.

'I daresay you feel lonely and strange, my dear,' she said; 'but you must remember that you have come to your own home, and that we belong to you, and you to us. So you must put up with us for a time, and you may—eventually—come to like us, you know. Stranger things than that have happened before now.'

Lesley put one arm around her aunt's neck, undeterred by Miss Brooke's laugh and the little struggle she made to get away.

'Thank you,' she said, 'for being so kind. I am sorry I cried when I came in.'

'You were hysterical and overwrought. I shall tell your father so.'

'You think he was vexed?'

'I suppose,' said Miss Brooke, 'that a man hardly likes to see his daughter burst out crying and shrink away when she first looks at him.'

'Oh, I was very stupid!' cried Lesley, remorsefully. 'It must have looked so bad, and I did not mean anything—at least, I meant only——'

'I understand all about it,' said her aunt, 'and I shall tell your father what I think if he alludes to the matter. In the meantime you had better go to sleep, and wake up fresh and bright in the morning. Good-night, my dear.'

Although she went early to bed she did not sleep soon or soundly. There was not much traffic along the street in which her father lived, but the bells of St. Pancras rang out the hours and quarters with painful tunelessness, and an occasional rumble of wheels would startle her into wakeful terror. A half past in the morning she heard the opening and shutting of the front door, and her father's footsteps on the stairs as he came up to bed. There seemed to her something uncanny in these nocturnal habits. The life of a journalist, of a literary man, of anybody who did any definite work in the world at all, was quite unknown to her.

She came down to breakfast at nine o'clock, feeling weary and depressed. Miss Brooke was kind but preoccupied; she had a committee at twelve, she said, and another at four, so she would be obliged to leave Lesley for the greater part of the day. 'But you will have your own little arrangements to make, you know,' she said, 'and Sarah will show you or tell you anything you want. You might as well fall into our ways as soon as you can.'

'Oh, yes,' said Lesley. 'I only want to be no trouble.'

'You'll be no trouble to anybody,' said Miss Brooke, cheerfully, 'so long as you find something to do, and do it. There's a good library of books in the house and a piano in the drawing-room, and you ought to go out for an hour or two everyday. I daresay you will be able to occupy your self.'

'Is there anyone to go out with me?' queried Lesley timidly. She had never been out alone in the whole course of her life.

'Go out with you!' repeated Miss Brooke rather rudely, though with kind intent. 'An able bodied young woman of eighteen or nineteen surely can take care of herself! You are not in Paris now, my dear, you are in London; and girls in London have to be independent and courageous.'

Lesley felt that she was being somewhat unjustly judged, but she did not like to reply. And her aunt, conscious of having spoken sharply, became immediately more gentle in manner, and told her certain details about the arrangements of the house, which it behoved Lesley to know, with considerable thoughtfulness and kind feeling.

Mr. Brooke usually rang for his coffee about half-past ten, and came down at half-past eleven; He then had breakfast served to him in the dining room, and did not join his sister at luncheon at all. In the afternoon he walked out, or wrote, or saw friends; dined at six, and went down to the office of his paper at eight. From the office he did not usually return until the small hours of the morning; and then as Miss Brooke explained, he often sat up writing or reading for an hour or two longer.

'Why does he work so late?' asked Lesley, innocently. 'I should have thought the day-time was pleasanter.'

Miss Brooke gave a short, explosive laugh, fixed a pair of eyeglasses on the bridge of her nose, and looked at Lesley as if she was a natural curiosity.

'Have you yet to learn,' she said, 'that we don't do what is pleasant in this life, but what we must.'

Then she got up and went away from the breakfast-table, leaving Lesley ashamed and confounded. The girl leaned her elbows on the white cloth, and furtively wiped a tear away from her eyes. She found herself in a new atmosphere, and it did not seem to her a very congenial one. She was bewildered; it did not seem possible that she could live for a year in a home of this very peculiar kind. To her uncultivated imagination, Mr. Brooke and his sister looked to her like barbarians. She did not understand their ways at all.

She spent the morning in unpacking her things, and arranging them, with which sad heart in her room. She did not like to go down stairs until the luncheon-bell rang; and then she found that she was to lunch alone. Miss Brooke was out; Mr. Brooke was in his study.

The white-capped and severe-visaged, middle-aged servant, who was known as Sarah, came to Lesley after the meal with a message.

'Mr. Brooke says, Miss, that he would like to see you in his study, if you can spare him a few minutes.'

Lesley flushed hotly as she was shown into the smoky little den. It was a scene of confusion, such as she had never beheld before. The table was heaped high with papers; books and maps strewed every chair; even the floor was littered with bulky tomes and piles of manuscript. At a knee-hole table Caspar Brooke was sitting, writing hard, as if for dear life, his loose hair falling heavily over his big forehead, his left hand grasping his thick brown beard. He looked up as Lesley entered and gave her a nod.

'Good-morning,' he said. 'Wait a minute; I must finish this and send it off by the quarter to three post. I have just done.'

He went on writing, and Lesley stood motionless beside the table, with a feeling of dire offence in her proud young heart. Why had he sent for her if he did not want her? She was half inclined to walk away without another word. Only a sense of filial duty restrained her. She thought to herself that she had never been treated so unceremoniously—even in her earliest days at school. And she was surprised to find that so small a thing could ruffle her so much. She had hardly known at the moment, or while visiting her mother, that she had such a thing as a 'temper.' It suddenly occured to her now that her temper was very bad indeed.

And in truth she had a hot strong temper—very like her father's, if she had but known it—and a will that was prone to dominate, not to submit itself to others. These were facts she had yet to learn.

'Well, Lesley,' said Caspar Brooke, laying down his pen, 'I have finished my work at last. Now we can talk.'

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

What is
CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINGSLEY,
Conway, Ar.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

A FAST CANADIAN LINE

SOON TO BE ESTABLISHED ON THE ATLANTIC.

The Feeling in London and England About Canada and the Colonies is Most Extraordinary—Not Much Possibility of Protection in England.

MONTREAL, Dec. 14.—The despatches publishes the following interview with Hon. C. H. Tupper, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, who has been for some months in England preparing the case for the British Government in the Behring Sea matter as agent of Her Majesty the Queen.

The first subject broached was the death of the Hon. W. H. Cross, who was the British associate counsel in preparing the Behring Sea case for Britain. The reporter showed the Hon. Mr. Tupper the cablegram announcing the death of Mr. Cross and asked him would it in any way affect the pending negotiations.

Mr. Tupper said: I have already heard the sad news, and was exceedingly pained to hear that my friend had been so suddenly taken away. We had worked together on a great deal of the preparation of the case and counter case in the months of June, July and November.

Mr. Cross was the son of Lord Cross and was a counsel at the London bar, while representing also in the House of Commons one of the divisions of Liverpool. He seconded the motion for the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne last session.

He was working hard with me up to the day on which I left, and just before my departure he was suddenly stricken with typhoid fever. He was in a precarious condition, but he was only about 35 years of age and I imagined that with his splendid physique and youth in his favor he would survive the attack.

I was very much surprised this morning to learn from the cablegram that he was dead.

Singularly Fortunate.

I may say that in the preparation of the British case we have been singularly fortunate in our legal associates. In the first place we have the Attorney-General under the Gladstone Government, Sir Charles Russell; the Ex-Attorney-General, Sir Richard Webster; the Solicitor-General, Sir John Rigby, and Christopher Robinson, Q.C., of Toronto, who, together with Mr. Cross, gave their constant and most earnest attention to the work, not merely directing many particulars of it but actually working out much of the actual preparations. The staff of the Foreign and Colonial, as well as my own immediate staff of the Fisheries Department, have also thrown themselves into the work with the liveliest interest."

"That leads me to ask," said the reporter, "while you were in London what department of the Imperial Government were you specially connected with?"

Mr. Tupper replied: "The Foreign Office, immediately under Lord Rosebery, the foreign secretary, who has the direction of Her Britannic Majesty's case, as they say, in the convention. The Foreign Office placed a room at my disposal and afforded me every facility for doing the work. I was there from day to day."

"Have you completed your part of the work for the Canadian Government?"

"The bulk of the work," said Mr. Tupper, "has been done in connection with the counter-case, but very important finishing touches remain and the counter cases will be served on or before Feb. 3."

"Then I suppose," said the reporter, "you expect to go back to England in connection with this matter?"

To Return to England.

"Oh, yes," said Mr. Tupper, "as agent of Her Britannic Majesty I must attend the convention, which meets not later than Feb. 23."

"So that if there is an early session of Parliament you will possibly not be present most of the session?"

"I am sorry to say that I will not," said Mr. Tupper, with an air that he would wish to be in it and like to have a hand in the fight as the son of the old war horse from Cumberland. He added, "But Sir John Thompson is acting Minister of Marine and Fisheries."

The reporter then asked: "Mr. Tupper, would you care to say anything in reference to the report of misrepresentation of the Behring Sea case on the part of an official in the service of the United States Government?"

The Behring Sea Case.

"It would be impossible for me to make any statement touching either the United States case or the British case, as both the case and the counter-case are confidential until the arbitrators meet in Paris."

"Are the reports true," asked the reporter, "that the mis-statements in the United States case were detected by the Canadian representatives?"

Mr. Tupper said: "I am precluded from answering that question, for the reason given to your last question."

"Just now," said the reporter, "there is a great deal of talk about the mission of Sir John Abbott and Mr. Foster to England, and a great deal of news in the Canadian and London papers about what they did over there; did you meet them?"

"Yes. I met Sir John Abbott and Mr. Foster over there, but I was so busy at my duties in the Foreign Office that I probably saw less of them than I would during a session of Parliament in Ottawa. Sir John Abbott is not in very good health, but he was able to attend to some most important matters in connection with the Canadian Government while he was Premier, but on account of the state of his health he was necessarily very retiring and attended no public ceremony or banquet.

"The Finance Minister was able to speak before representative British audiences on several important occasions. Mr. Foster was well received and made in England a reputation and impression that any Canadian might well be proud of.

Mr. Foster's Favorable Reception.

"I not only formed this opinion of the effects of his speeches myself, but all the leading London dailies commented in the most favorable manner upon the subject of his various addresses and have conceded unstinted praise. His speech at the Mansion House was admittedly the speech of the day, and his address at the Chamber of Commerce was not only well received by those who heard it, but was much talked a out in financial and political circles.

"The feeling in London about Canada and the colonies of England is most extraordinary. Canada occupies in England to-day an unprecedented position in the feelings of the governing classes and the masses of the people, and there is the liveliest interest in the welfare and progress of our Dominion on all sides.

"There is evidently the heartiest goodwill in connection with everything Canadian, or, indeed, colonial. Indeed I may say that in this regard there is no distinction between the parties in England, Liberal or Conservative.

"I need not speak of the doctrine of protection in public favor in England; the recent important meeting of the agricultural societies and other industrial associations in England attest that."

"From your experience of the public mind in England, what do you think of the chances of a policy of protection being adopted there?"

"I think there is not much possibility of the adoption in England of a protective policy in the near future, but I believe that radical fiscal changes are impending in England and looking towards an Imperial policy."

"Which means to say," asked the reporter.

"Differential duties in favor of the products of the Empire," briefly replied Mr. Tupper.

Canadian Fast Steamers.

"There is a lively interest," said the reporter, "with reference to a fast line of steamers between Canada and England, and much comment as to whether it shall be established or not."

Mr. Tupper replied: "I know that there is a lively interest in Canada, but the interest in England on this subject is just as intense with reference to the fast Atlantic line. That is due in a large part to the success of the Canadian Pacific steamers, the Canadian Pacific Railway system and the interest in the development of Canadian commerce between Canada and the Mother Country."

MURDER AT PORT ARTHUR.

A Brother-in-Law Suspected to Be the Criminal.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 14.—Fire broke out in the Galt coal mines last night, but fortunately was discovered in time, and with a supply of water from pumping engines was under control in a couple of hours.

Mayor Macdonald of Winnipeg was last night voted $1200 by the City Council for the year's services, and donated it to city charities.

Archie Cammill, who has been working in the silver mines at Port Arthur, was shot and killed last night by some one unknown, who is, however, supposed to be his brother-in-law, John Rowe. The man suspected of murder was last seen with Cammil, and is now missing.

To-morrow a meeting of Winnipeg Board of Flour Examination is summoned to pass an opinion on some samples of flour sent from Japan. The flour is supposed to be from Oregon, and it has been sent from Japan for a comparison with Manitoba flour. The branding of Ontario soft wheat flours sold in the east under the name of Manitoba flours will also be considered. There is some pretty straight evidence of this commercial infamy, so damaging to the reputation of the Northwest.

The petition brought by Greenway Government supporters against the return of W. A. MacDonald, member-elect of Manitoba Legislature for Brandon, is now being heard in the courts here. MacDonald has been selected to lead the Opposition in the local House.

A STRANGE LETTER.

It May Throw More Light On the Cause of Baron de Reinach's Death.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—The Herald's Paris correspondent says: "M. Clemenceau has written a letter to The Figaro relating that on the eve of the death of Baron de Reinach the latter came to see him with M. Rouvier, Minister of Finance, and asked him to go and find Cornelius Herse, in order to try to stop the attacks made.

"Clemenceau accepted and went with Rouvier to Herse, who, however, declined to do anything. Baron de Reinach then said:

"'If we do not succeed all is lost. Let us go to M. Constans.'

"All three went to see Constans, who declared he could not do anything.

"On leaving, Baron de Reinach said, 'I am lost.' The letter ends with these words: 'After which I saw him no more.'

"The consequences of the letter will be incalculable. Rouvier will no longer be Minister of Finance. To-morrow the political careers of Clemenceau and Constans are ended. We are only just entering into the mud, of which, nevertheless, there is enough at present."

GRABBED HIM AT ONCE.

He Stole $2000 From His Employer and Was Nabbed in a Few Hours.

MONTREAL, Dec. 14.—Chief Detective Cullen has received a telegram from Chief of Police Vohl of Quebec informing him that a young man named D. Lesuerer had decamped on the Montreal train with $2000 in notes stolen from his employer. The telegram also gave a full description of the absconder.

Detective Robinson was entrusted with the case and at once proceeded to Mile End to await the incoming train. While there, however, a telegram was received from Three Rivers saying that the police at that place had the man in custody. He will be taken to Quebec this morning.

After More Profits.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—The publishers of subscription books have formed a trust with the intention of forming the largest publishing house in the world. It is to be called the Werner Company. It embraces Peale & Co., who absorbed Belford, Clark & Co., the Werner-Clark Printing Company, and the Webster Dictionary Company. Rand & McNally are not in it.

The capital is $3,500,000. Messrs. Werner, Peale, Alexander Belford, D. H. Cochersperger and J. T. Edson are shareholders. Business will commence Jan. 1.

Will Be Rebuked.

A Well Known Editor Dead.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—Sir John Bernard Burke, editor of Burke's Peerage, died yesterday.

"It Cured Mother."

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

The prefection of God being infinite, to become God-like means infinite growth.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicinal herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion is occasioned by want of action in the biliary ducts, loss of vitality in the stomach to secrete the gastric juices, without which digestion cannot go on; also, being the principal cause of Headache. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills taken before going to bed, for a while, never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr. F W Ashdown, Ashdown, Ont., writes:—"Parmele's Pills are taking the lead against ten other makes which I have in stock."

DREADFUL PSORIASIS

Covering Entire Body with White Scales. Suffering Fearful. Cured by Cuticura.

My disease (psoriasis) first broke out on my left cheek, spreading across my nose, and almost covering my face. It ran into my eyes, and the physician was afraid I would lose my eyesight altogether. It spread all over my head, and my hair all fell out, until I was entirely bald-headed; it then broke out on my arms and shoulders, until my arms were just one sore. It covered my entire body, my face, head, and shoulders being the worst. The white scabs fell constantly from my head, shoulders, and arms; the skin would thicken and be red and very itchy, and would crack and bleed if scratched. After spending many hundreds of dollars, I was pronounced incurable. I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using two bottles CUTICURA RESOLVENT, I could see a change; and after I had taken four bottles, I was almost cured; and when I had used six bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, one box of CUTICURA, and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years. I cannot express with a pen what I suffered before using the REMEDIES. They saved my life, and I feel it my duty to recommend them. My hair is restored as good as ever, and so is my eyesight.

Four Masked Men Make a Lively Attempt to Rob a Train.

IRON GATE, Va., Dec. 14.—A desperate attempt at train robbery was made last night just as the C. & O. vestibule train, No. 4, was pulling out of Huntington, W. Va. The doors of the cars were thrust open and four masked men with two pistols each called upon the passengers to throw up their hands.

Two of the passengers seized one of the robbers, throwing him down and attempting to disarm him. In the scuffle one of the passengers, a German from Cincinnatti who with his wife was on his bridal trip to Europe, was mortally wounded.

Peter Drake was twice wounded. Meanwhile Ticket Collector Seingley was trying to secure a pistol, which he finally succeeded in getting in the baggage car, and, returning, opened fire on the robbers, emptying all the barrels of the pistol. He again returned to the baggage car, secured another pistol and commenced firing.

In the meantime the robbers had torn off their masks and the whole train was in intense excitement—women fainting, children screaming, and everybody who could was seeking shelter under the seats. The robbers, seeing their game was up, pulled the bell-cord, stopped the train and jumped off in the darkness.

PUBLIC HEALTH

Dr. Bryce Tells of the Result of the American Conference at Mexico.

TORONTO, Dec. 14.—Dr. Bryce has returned from the convention of the American Public Health Association held during the past three weeks in the City of Mexico. There were 500 delegates at the convention, about one-half of whom were Spanish-speaking Mexicans. Dr. Bryce says the Mexican Government fully appreciates the aims of the association. Papers were read at the meetings in both Spanish and English and all English papers were published by the Government in Spanish and distributed throughout the city.

Of course the chief matters of discussion were the schemes proposed by which Mexico, the United States and Canada might by joint or separate action protect themselves from the cholera epidemic next summer. A special committee on the matter reported a resolution calling upon the American Government to at once establish a bureau of health, with headquarters at Washington, and with complete control of the external quarantine of the United States. The resolution also stated that it was quite essential for the proposed bureau to be vested with powers enabling it to co-operate with the Canadian and Mexican authorities. This resolution was unanimously adopted.

The association also expressed itself in favor of a proposition to close all but a limited number of ports to immigrants from Europe. A more effective method of excluding the fell pestilence would be, they thought, to prevent all immigration for one year, but in case that was impracticable the steamship companies ought to be compelled to obtain for each vessel sailing from European ports for America a clean bill of health from the American consul.

Dr. Bryce expressed himself as well pleased with his visit to the convention, and with the intelligent interest our dusky neighbors to the south take in sanitary matters.

THE CHIEF CHARM OF A REFINED WOMAN is her complexion. Why have Pimples Freckles spots or any blemish when Peach Bloom Skin Food will remove them all, and leave the Skin transparent, soft and beautiful?

PEACH BLOOM contains nothing that can injure the skin. It is clear as water, and leaves not a trace of the application one minute after use.

PEACH BLOOM differs from any known preparation, in that it cleanses the pores of the skin from injurious accumulations, imparts health to the inner as well as to the outer cuticle, dissolving and removing Pimples, Blackheads, Liver Spots and Blemishes, and gradually brings about that transparent state of the skin that makes a perfect complexion.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY DEC. 14

THE DEMAND FOR TARIFF REFORM.

It would seem that the Liberals have all but forsaken the one plank platform of Commercial Union, and resolved to confine themselves for the present to a vague demand for tariff reform. We say vague, because it has not been observed that any of them has had the boldness to present an alternative tariff in detail from that now in force. But we apprehend that however strongly the demand for lower duties may commend itself to popular judgment, the sober and thoughtful electors of the country will prefer to leave the matter in the hands of the men who have already shown such a substantial and genuine desire in that subject. It will not be forgotten that since 1878 the Conservative Government at Ottawa has removed the duties from tea, coffee, coal, sugar, and other staples, by which more than $6,000,000 of taxes have been annually remitted to the people. In other words, as quickly as the increasing revenue has made it possible, the Government has cut away those taxes which fell upon the masses, while leaving those which fall upon the luxuries of the rich. This policy has had the approval of the people, and it is not unreasonable to expect that, as the income of the country permits it, further reduction will take place. More than this should not be asked. Having in view our industrial necessities, the general policy of protection must be maintained; but the gradual modification of the tariff in its bearing upon articles of general consumption may be safely left in the hands of a Government which has already given so many proofs of its accurate appreciation of popular needs. Certainly, the people do not want the task so fall into the hands of incompetent and unpatriotic Grits.

EDITORIAL BREVITIES.

Eggs range up to 35c. per dozen in Hamilton. This affords a fine chance for the people of Oswego, where the price is 22c. to 23c., to export their cheap hen fruit to Hamilton. P. S.—This is the style of argument in favor of the commercial annexation fad which is used by our local contemporary.

The Globe's calamity hunting correspondent of the Grit persuasion fell in with an active Liberal, who told him:

The Liberal party wants a radical platform. Reduction of the tariff is not enough, and there is no use coming to the people with the old policy of reciprocity. The people see that it is impracticable, except the United States meet our tariff, and they would as soon have political union as that. I tried to talk it in the bye election here, and it is like warmed-over hash. It is exploded.

The eloquent Mr Parkin is giving the death blow to Imperial Federation by his frank avowal that Canada would be expected to contribute to Britain's naval and military armaments.—London Advertiser.

The Tiser's policy is Independence. If Canada were independent she would be obliged to have an army and navy, for which her people would be forced to pay. Imperial Federation would not be more expensive, in that respect, than would Independence or even union with the States. The scheme which Mr. Parkin is so ably advocating will not fall on the ground stated by the Tiser, but it does not meet with a more general acceptance because the vast majority of our people are satisfied with the present relations of the Dominion to the mother country.

The Grit press are grumbling at the Government and howling at the N. P. because the trade of the country—which they have been asserting had been ruined by the tariff and paralyzed by the McKinley restriction—has been showing an enormous increase, with the cheering accompaniments of a large revenue, a decrease in expenditure and a heavy surplus. And yet the grumblers would be more than willing to change places with the Government, even at the expense of acceptance of their policy, as Mr. Blake proposed in his famous Malvern speech in 1887.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for Constipation and Headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lanoy's Family medicine. It is said to be the Oregon grape root combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water into the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy with ladies for clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c and $1.

There are more cases of sickness and death from diseased kidneys than from all other diseases combined. It is your own fault if you allow your kidneys to remain in an unhealthy condition when the cure is at hand. Dodd's Kidney Pills are guaranteed to cure the worst cases. It costs but little to give them a trial. They are for sale by all druggists and dealers or by mail on receipt of 50 cts. or 6 boxes for $2.50. Write for book called Kidney Talk.

The Markets

BELLEVILLE MARKETS.

INTELLIGENCER OFFICE,
Belleville, Dec. 14, 1892.

Receipts of grain have of late been so small that prices are merely nominal. With good sleighing there would be larger receipts and better prices.

Eggs are firmer. New laid are scarce and bring 22c., whilst packed sell at 18c.

There is a lively demand for dressed hogs, and the price has advanced to $6 to $6.50. The supply is not equal to the requirements.

Potatoes are in good supply, but the price has advanced 5c per bag.

Montreal Markets.

TUESDAY, Dec. 13.

CHEESE.

Trade in cheese is rather quiet, and confined chiefly to wants of city retailers. Stocks are light and values continue strong. English markets are firm and active. We quote 10½ to 11c according to quality and age. The Liverpool cable to-day was unchanged at 53s for white and colored cheese.

BUTTER.

The butter market is unchanged; a fairly active demand is noted in dairy and New York butter at steady prices; all nice lots of the latter meet with ready sale. Creamery is quiet, as figures at which it is held are considered high. We quote:

Creamery.....22½ to 23c
Townships dairy.....20c to 21c
Morrisburg and Brockville.....18c to 20c
Western dairies.....17c to 19c
Western roll, new.....18c to 20c

EGGS.

A fair steady local demand is reported in eggs, and good stock in the several grades sells freely. We quote fresh stock at 21c to 23c, good held stock 17c to 19c, and limed 15c to 17c.

POULTRY.

There is no change to note in dressed poultry, the demand for which is brisk, especially turkeys and chickens. Receipts of poultry are improving and under favorable weather conditions a good trade is looked for during the holiday season. Prices range as follows:

Turkeys, per lb.....9 to 10c
Geese, " .....5½ to 6½c
Ducks, " .....8 to 9c
Chickens, " .....6½ to 7½c

HONEY.

Honey moves slowly in small lots for retail wants. We quote: Strained, 7 to 8½c per lb., and comb, 9 to 11½c per lb.

HOPS.

A quiet hand to month trade is doing in hops at the following rates: Prime new hops at 20c to 22c, and good yearlings at 18c to 20c in bale lots. For round lots of new 17 to 18c would be about the basis.

Toronto Produce Market.

THE PENNEFATHER CASE.

HE PROPOSED THE JOB BUT OFFERED SMALL PAY.

A Bar tender Gives Startling Evidence—He Furnished Materials for the False Keys for the Vault—Would Have Been the Last Man to go Back on a Pal!.

CHATHAM, Ont., Dec. 14.—In the Standard Bank robbery case very startling evidence was given by the principal Crown witness, one Charles Gregory of Windsor, who was until recently a resident of Chatham and kept the bar at his father's hotel. Gregory's story was in substance that Pennefather, the young ex-ledgerkeeper, now in custody on the charge of being the robber, procured materials from him with which to make keys for the middle door of the vault and for the teller's compartment in the treasury.

He then proposed to him to rob the bank.

Gregory refused on account of Pennefather being drunk, but subsequently agreed to go with him. He only followed him, however. Saw him come out of the bank and then go back to the hotel, in which place later on Pennefather pulled 12 packages of bank notes out of his pocket and offered them to him.

Gregory refused them because there were only ones, and the upshot was that Pennefather left the place and the deal between the two was at an end.

Would Not Have the Small End.

Gregory admitted that he did not think Pennefather was treating him right in giving him only the small end. He declared he would not be "the last man on earth to go back on a pull of this kind."

The reason why he told of the affair to the police was that he was afraid Pennefather would be caught and would drag him into it. He therefore decided to knock him under first and so save his own liberty.

After hearing the evidence of Teller Brown as to the circumstances of the loss, his story not agreeing with the other in essential points, the police magistrate decided that the case was one that should go before the judge.

An alleged accomplice, William Ritchie, who has for a long time been an intimate friend of the young banker, has been arrested at the instance of Detective McKee.

Ritchie is a stage carpenter at the Grand Opera House, unmarried and of respectable family. The Crown consented to bail, which was furnished by his father, and the prisoner was set at liberty to appear for trial.

HIS RESIGNATION.

Will Probably Extend the Official Life of the Retort Cabinet.

PARIS, Dec. 1.—M. Rouvier called upon President Carnot yesterday and handed in his resignation of finance portfolio.

In the Chamber of Deputies yesterday M. Rouvier confirmed the statement made by M. Clemenceau that he and Baron de Reinach visited Clemenceau on the eve of the Baron's death.

Paul de Roulede, former president of the suppressed Patriotic League, made a violent attack upon Rouvier, declaring he ought to be compelled to appear before the High Court to answer charges made against him in connection with his conduct while holding a Ministerial position.

M. Rouvier responded, saying he was ready to answer in any court any charge. He added that he had visited Baron de Reinach solely from motives of humanity.

The resignation of Rouvier will probably result in an extension of official life to the Ribot Cabinet.

Shortly after M. Rouvier's visit to President Carnot it was officially announced that the Finance Minister's resignation had been accepted and that M. Tirard, ex-Minister of Finance, and at present representing France at the Brussels conference, had been appointed to succeed him.

THE ARMY BILL.

The Saxon Minister of War Favors Caprivi's Measure.

BERLIN, Dec. 14.—The general debate on the Army Bill was continued in the Reichstag yesterday. The Saxon Minister of War spoke strongly in favor of the bill. He said that his Government endorsed it in every respect, and thus contradicted the rumors to the effect that the King of Saxony was irreconcilably opposed to the passage of the bill.

Rudolf Von Bennigsen, National Liberal leader, opposed the bill conditionally. It could not be passed unless altered, he said, and nobody should expect a parliamentary majority for it as it was presented.

August Bebel, social Democratic leader, denounced the bill from beginning to end. It was merely a provisional measure, he said, and the assurance given to the contrary should be considered in the light of the over recurring demands of the last 20 years. The so-called Scharnhorst system was a theory which could never be realized under the provisions of the bill.

ANOTHER PROPOSAL.

That Warrants Be Issued Against Deposits of Silver.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 14.—M. Foville, a French delegate to the monetary conference, has submitted a proposal to the conference to the effect that warrants shall be issued against deposits of silver on same system as that which prevails in Glasgow, Scotland, where warrants are issued on deposits of pig iron, the warrants not to have recognition as international currency, but simply to bear the statement that they are good for the weight of silver specified.

It is understood all the countries in the Latin union will support the proposition, which is likely to secure the support of every section of the conference.

HOME RULE BILL.

The Measure Menaces the Unity of the British Empire.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The union of Conservative associations held its annual meeting in Sheffield yesterday. The attendance of delegates from all parts of the Kingdom was very large. The Earl of Scarborough was elected president.

Charles Stuart-Wortley, M.P., made the opening address. He declared the whole Conservative party would support the burden of rejecting the Liberal gerrymandering electoral reform bill and the Irish Home Rule bill, which latter measure menaced the unity of the Empire.

The conference adopted a resolution declaring in favor of the return to Parliament of candidates of the labor party.

No Hostility at Rome.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The Standard's Rome correspondent says: "In response to letters from foreign organizers of pilgrimages, expressing fears of a hostile reception in Rome, the Vatican gives assurance that there is nothing to fear, it being to the interest of the government to prevent a repetition of the demonstration of 1891. The Pope has intimated that offerings of money would be the most suitable jubilee gifts."

Mrs. Langtry Angry.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The Morning Post says: Mrs. Langtry has offered a reward of £50 for information as to the origin of an unpleasant story about herself. She was the heroine, the story has it, of a disreputable scene at supper at the Savoy Hotel, when it is alleged she threw butter at a number of gentlemen, and was requested to finish the meal in a private room and then to quit the hotel.

Home Rule Trouble.

DUBLIN, Dec. 14.—John Dillon, in addressing a National Federation convention at Boyle yesterday, admitted that there was some danger and risk of trouble in Parliament over the coming Home Rule, but he said it arose rather from the dissension in Ireland than from the condition of the parties in England.

SANTA FE TRAIN WRECK

THE PASSENGER FARE BADLY AS IS USUAL.

It is said the Baggageman was Killed—The Train Went Through a Bridge—The Baggage Car and One Coach Are in a Creek.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 13.—Eastbound Santa Fe passenger train No. 2, which left Kansas City at 8.55 this morning, went through a bridge between Camden and Floyd, 40 miles east of here.

The baggage car and one coach went into the creek and several passengers are reported badly hurt.

It is said the baggageman was killed, but as cars are all piled up it is impossible to get details of the wreck.

YOUNG BLAINE.

Says His Father Is Improving and Progressing Nicely.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—James G. Blaine, Jr., said last night to a reporter of The United Press: "Father is improving and progressing nicely. We have no apprehension as to the final outcome of his indisposition."

"Has your father, or the family, made any definite plans for the proposed trip when the weather will permit?" was asked.

"No, not as yet."

"How about the rumors that Dr. Ducey and Cardinal Gibbons conducted your father into the Catholic Church?"

"There is no truth in the rumor. Dr. Ducey called to see father one day last week only in a friendly way, as did Cardinal Gibbons yesterday. That is all there is to it."

FULL OF NERVE.

He Killed Two Murderers of His Father and Captured a Third.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 14.—Mail advices from Japan report that three escaped Japanese convicts recently found shelter in the house of a family. They were kindly treated and supplied with food for three days.

On the fourth day, during the absence of the son and daughter, they murdered the father, pillaged the house and fled. The son overtook the men, killed two and captured the third.

POISON AT HOMESTEAD.

The Victim at Toronto is Not Known by the Carnegie Officials.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 14.—The Charles Stanford, who died in Toronto, Ont., last night from supposed poison administered at Homestead during the strike, is not known by the Carnegie officials. Secretary Lovejoy said the company sent several sick men home, but kept no record of them.

The officials and members of the Homestead Advisory Board continue to denounce the poison plot as a scheme to further injure them.

Niagara Reservation.

ALBANY, N.Y., Dec. 14.—The commissioners of the Niagara reservation will meet Thursday in New York to prepare their annual report and prepare estimates for many repairs and improvements to be made the coming year. The number of visitors to the reservation from Oct. 1, 1891, to Sept. 20, 1892, was 196,580, and the receipts will almost equal the expenditures, regardless of improvements.

Up Instead of Down.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 14.—The indications are that to-morrow morning whisky will be sent up another five cents and alcohol 10 cents a gallon, and the present unsettled state of the market becomes more confused and uncertain in consequence.

Producers Paid It.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—During the month of September the collector of customs at Marquette, Mich., collected canal tolls to the extent of $8326.79 on Canadian vessels. For October the sum was $14,130.58.

GEORGE BRIGGS DEAD.

Such Was His Strength That Few Ordinary Men Could Overcome Him.

KINGSTON, Dec. 14.—Yesterday morning George Briggs, about 55 years of age, customs officer at Wolfe, died from the effects of dropsy.

Through the intervention of B. W. Fogler deceased was appointed to the customs department about 15 years ago and made an efficient officer. He was well-known in the city, and was a big, strong man. Such was his strength that few ordinary men were able to overcome him.

For many years he and his brother conducted the summer hotel at Simcoe Island and made the business a success. He had been a resident of this district for many years and told interesting stories of the times during the American war, when men as well as goods were smuggled from Canada to the United States.

A better natured man than the deceased was hard to find. He was a great favorite with the young men of the city. He was attacked by disease about two years ago, and for many months lay in a critical condition.

Some physicians thought he could not live. He was treated by a Yankee physician, who prescribed a remedy that prolonged his life, and he became so well that he was able to come to the city and do business. The disease had not been entirely eradicated and death conquered. He leaves a wife.

WIRES DOWN.

Another Storm Is General Throughout the West.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Another storm of sleet, snow and rain combined is general throught the west to-day and has caused an almost complete interruption of telegraphic communication.

Neither of the telegraph companies can handle any but the most urgent despatches and press matter is almost at a standstill.

The storm extends eastward into Pennsylvania and west beyond the Missouri River, and the outlook for better weather is not at all encouraging. Wires are down in all directions.

CYCLONE IN MISSOURI.

House Blown Down and Three Killed and Five Wounded.

SCHMIDT, Mo., Dec. 14.—A cyclone yesterday blew down the house of Rev. E. R. Young, a Baptist minister, two miles from here, burying the inmates in the ruins.

S. A. Love's house also was completely wrecked. Those killed are a 9-year-old daughter of William A. Freeman, colored, a colored woman and a colored man, names unknown.

S. R. Young, Mrs. Young and a son and daughter were seriously wounded, as is Mrs. S. A. Love. Several others were less seriously hurt.

Attempt at Train Wrecking.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 14.—The Michigan Central express, due in Windsor early yesterday morning, ran into something a few miles this side of Maidstone. The engineer, upon arrival here, notified the operator at Maidstone, who investigated and found a dastardly attempt had been made to wreck the train.

Several ties had been placed upon the track, but the cowcatcher drove them to one side. Detective Hennan is at Maidstone investigating.

No Result Expected.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The statement is made in high official circles that the International Monetary Conference at Brussels will within a few days adjourn to meet in March or April of next year. No result is expected to be secured at the present session of the congress.

Donovan's Challenge Accepted.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—At a special meeting of the New York Yacht Club held last night Lord Dunraven's challenge was unconditionally accepted.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RESPECTFULLY solicit your votes and influence for Mayor of the City of Belleville for 1893. I was born in Belleville and have lived amongst you all my life, and am pretty well known to the most of you. I have been an Alderman in the City Council for four years, and during that time have endeavored to represent you straightforwardly and faithfully.

My platform is economy in City affairs. If elected I will endeavor to further the best interests of the city.

Yours respectfully,
FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE.

Though the soil of Virginia grows the best tobacco leaf in the world, it does not all grow equal qualities. The production even of adjoining counties is often quite different, the one producing, leaf which at once deteriorates if grown in the other. The leaf of the "Myrtle Navy" is the product of the choice sections of the State, which, through some combination of local influences, produce a better quality than any others. This is known by its always commanding a higher price than any other smoking leaf.

Additional Premises Occupied by Ontario Business College.

The additional premises acquired by Messrs. Robinson & Johnson for Ontario Business College, in the block next to the College on Bridge St., were occupied to-day. They are beautifully fitted up, and charmingly situated, directly facing the Bay of Quinte. Access to the new rooms is either by the new Bridge St. entrance or from the main building, having the Front Street entrance.

The large increase in the attendance over any previous year, has necessitated the increased accommodation. The College in session presents a splendid sight just now. The following countries are represented by the students now in attendance:—Newfoundland, Trinidad and Barbados, West Indies, New York, New Hampshire, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, and all parts of Ontario.

How to Cure a Corn.

It is one of the easiest things in the world to cure a corn. Do not use acids or caustic preparations, and don't cut a hole in your boot. It is simply to apply Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, and in three days the corn can be removed without pain. Sure, safe, painless. Take only Putnam's Corn Extractor.

WELLINGTON.

The Epworth League Hold a Successful "At Home."

The Epworth League of the Methodist church, Wellington, held an "At Home" in the parsonage on Monday evening, 5th inst. The spacious rooms of their pastor's beautiful residence were filled by the members of the League and their friends, numbering nearly one hundred. The refreshment room, in charge of the young ladies, was bountifully provided and largely patronized during the evening. The pastor's daughters, who, with a few other members of the League, are devoted workers in every department of the Church (especially in behalf of the young), are to be congratulated upon the success of their first "At Home" under League auspices. Between 50 and 40 young people of those who are too often unnoticed by christians were invited, nearly all of whom accepted the invitation with evident appreciation. Music, songs, and innocent amusement filled up the happy hours. At 10:30 sacred melodies were sung and heaven's blessing invoked by the pastor, Rev. O. R. Laubly, M.A., upon the young people and their work.

It was a matter of gratification to the pastor and his earnest young helpers, that good fruit was so speedily gathered from their efforts, for at the next regular meeting of the League after the "At Home," 18 new names were added to the list of associate members.

Comparative Expenses.

Canadians who have a hankering for annexation would do well to ponder over the figures of the United States pension rolls, as given by Bradstreets. Here they are:

"There were on the pension rolls at the end of the fiscal year (1891 2), 876,068 pensioners, an increase of 199,208, in round numbers 200,000, during the year. There were added to the pension rolls during the year 222,337 new pensioners, and 3,477 pensioners previously dropped were restored to the pension lists, while 25,306 persons were dropped from the rolls. It seems that under the Dependent Pension law, 220,357 claims have been filed, of which number 403,849 have been allowed. The total amount expended for pensions during the year was $139 035,612. For the present year $141,966,000 has been appropriated, but employing the cost of the pension allowance during the first four months of this fiscal year as a basis of calculation the commissioner estimates that a deficiency appropriation of $10,508,621 will be necessary to supplement this year's appropriation. For the next fiscal year an estimate of $165,000,000 is submitted, but the commissioner says that if as many allowances of pensions shall be made during the fiscal year to come as during the year covered by his report this estimate will not be large enough.

According to this statement every man, woman and child in the United States pays about $2 50 towards the pension roll. The net interest paid by Canadians towards their public debt is $1.70 per annum. Those writers who bewail the awful oppression of our taxation would render a service to their readers if they would give both side of the case, and show into what a sea of expense annexation would lead us.—Ottawa Citizen.

Another Rumor Contradicted.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Empire writes: "Rumors have been in circulation during the past two or three days to the effect that the Departments of Customs and Inland Revenue would be placed under the supervision of the Minister of Finance. The Empire is in a position to set these rumors at rest, the official announcement being made that the two departments will be under the supervision and control of the Minister of Trade and Commerce, Hon. Mr. Bowell. An evening paper states that the question of the control of the two revenue collecting departments was considered by the Treasury Board this morning. Hon. Mr. Bowell said the question had not even been mooted at the meeting. There is also no report that friendly relations did not exist between Mr. Foster and himself on this subject it was too ridiculous to require contradiction. There had not been any difference between them and there was not likely to be any."

He Wears a Codfish.

A gentleman who was given up to die with consumption happened to receive a visit from a friend, who recommended "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil." Although having little faith he bought a bottle and before he was through taking it, found he was gaining flesh. He continued taking the Emulsion until he regained nearly fifty pounds. He is the heartiest man in town to day. To commemorate his restoration to health he has had a beautiful golden cod fish manufactured, which he wears as a charm upon his watch chain. This is a pretty good testimony for "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil." Everybody is sounding its praises. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at all Drug Stores.

Died at Trenton.

Mr. A. G. Whittier died in Trenton yesterday suddenly, of hemorrhage of the lungs. The deceased was at one time engaged extensively in business, as member of the firm of Squier, Whittier & Jelfs. Of late years he has occupied the position of Town Clerk and License Inspector. For a time the deceased had been ailing, and his death was not altogether unexpected.

A Missing Boy.

The Chief has received a circular from the Chief of Police at Detroit, asking him to be on the lookout for a lad named Michael Flannery, who has been missing from his home since October 26th. The boy is but 10 years of age, tall and thin, light brown hair, fair complexion and red cheeks, weighs about 70 lbs.

Splendid.

"I've got a scheme," said Sellers.

"What is it?"

"Why not feed sheep on the cotton plant, and grow shoddy right on the animal?"

GRASPING, AVARICIOUS CAPITALISTS

ARE WHAT OUR COMPETITORS CALL US!

GRASPING, because we want the trade of the earth! AVARICIOUS, because we hang on to the almighty dollar! CAPITALISTS, beause we have the money to tear them to pieces in the wholesale market!

Well, you can see what it amounts to. Success ever brings envy and distrust. If we were only half as successful, we would be feared only half as much as we are.

Our push and principle alarm our competitors. Our business grip make them wince. Our big sales excite their envy. Our popularity is what they cannot block and must put up with.

Talk of big stocks! Shout of immense piles of goods! GOUGH knows what big stocks mean. Throughout Ontario, in the best towns, GOUGH has clothing stores. It is a notorious fact that he does the trade of the town. He buys cheaper and carries more goods than all his competitors combined.

His last great purchase of wholesale stock at 60c. on the $ is a paralyzer. This stock was manufactured by H. Shorey & Co., Montreal, and amounts to over $20,000. Owing to the immense stock already in our main store, we were compelled to open another store next to Dunnet's Dry Goods House. We could not get it all into our main store.

Remember, within six weeks we have captured two stocks, amounting to over $56,000, and when we say we are in a position to sell these goods at less than the ordinary manufacturing figure, we can prove it. Ask the railroad people who received the most goods and they will tell you GOUGH, by ten times. Notwithstanding the low price of wheat and cry of hard times with other merchants, we are head and shoulders ahead of the best sales on record.

Willie Cummings Steals Money from His Employer.

Willie Cummings, a lad 14 years of age, was arrested last night on the charge of stealing money from his employer, Mr. J. W. Wilson, grocery-keeper. At the police court this morning the boy said he was guilty of the offence. Mr. Wilson stated that he had done all in his power to reform the lad, but could do nothing with him. During the past two months he has stolen several small sums of money, and when questioned about it said he had found it.

Cummings has been before the Magistrate on different occasions, charged with similar offences. He was sentenced to three years in the Reformatory at Penetanguishene.

I shall for 3 days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, December 15th, 16th. and 17th. offer my whole stock of Books, Stationery, Fancy Goods, Musical Instruments, at a reduction of 33-1-3 per cent. No reserve

Made With Skill.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skillful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

Out of Sorts.—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure,' and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

CHAPTER VII.

FRIENDS AND FOES.

Something in the slightly mutinous expression of Lesley's face seemed to strike her father. He looked fixedly for a minute or two, then smiled a little, and began to busy himself amongst his papers.

'You are very like your mother,' he said.

Lesley felt a thrill of strong indignation. How dare he speak of her mother to her without shame and grief and repentance? She flushed to her temples and cast down her eyes, for she was resolved to say nothing that she might afterwards regret.

'Won't you sit down?' said Mr. Brooke, indifferently. 'You must make yourself at home, you know. If you don't I'm afraid you will be uncomfortable. You will have to look after yourself.'

Lesley made no answer. She was thinking that it would be very disagreeable to look after herself. She did not know how clearly her face expressed her sentiments.

'You don't much like the prospect, apparently?' said her father. 'Well'—for he was becoming a little provoked by her silence—'what would you like? Do you want a maid?'

'Oh, no, thank you,' said Lesley startled into speech.

'You can have one if you like, you know. Speak to your aunt about it. I suppose you have not been accustomed to wait upon yourself. Can you do up your own hair?

He spoke with a smile, half-indulgent, half-contemptuous. Lesley remembered, with intuitive comprehension of his mood, that her mother was singularly helpless, and never dressed without Dayman's help, or brushed the soft tresses that were still so luxuriant and so fair. She rebelled at once against the unspoken criticism.

'I can do everything for myself,' she said; 'I can do my own hair and mend my desses and everything, because I am a schoolgirl; but of course when I am older I expect to have my own maid, as every lady does.'

Mr. Brooke's short, hard laugh was distinctly unpleasing to her ear.

'I think you will find, when you are older,' he said, with an emphasis on the words, 'that a great many ladies have to do without maids—and very much better for them that they should—but as I do not want to stint you in anything, nor to appose any fairly reasonable desire of yours. I will tell your aunt to get you a maid as soon as possible.'

'Oh, no, please!' cried Lesley, more alarmed than pleased by the prospect. I really do not wish for one; I do not wish you to have the trouble —the—ex——'

She stopped short; she did not quite like to speak of the 'expense.'

'It will not be much trouble to me if Sophia finds you a maid,' said her father drily; 'and as to the expense, which is what I suppose you were going to allude to, I am quite well able to afford it. Otherwise I should not have proposed such a thing.'

Lesley felt herself snubbed, and did not like it, but again kept silence.

'I cannot promise you much amusement while you stay here,' Mr. Brooke went on, 'but anything you like to see or hear when you are in town can be easily provided for. I mean in the way of picture galleries, concerts, theatres—things of that kind. Your Aunt Sophia will probably be too much occupied to take you to such places; but if you have a maid you will be pretty independent. I wonder she did not think of it herself. Of course a maid can go about with you, and so relieve your mind.'

'I am sorry to be so much trouble,' said Lesley stiffly.

He cast an amused glance at her. 'You won't trouble me, my dear. And Mrs. Romaine says that she will call and make your acquaintance. I daresay you will find her a help to you.'

'Is she—a friend of yours?'

'A very old friend,' said Caspar Brooke, with decision. 'Then there are the Kenyons, who live opposite. Ethel Kenyon is a clever girl – a great favorite of mine. Her brother is a doctor.'

'And she lives with him and keeps his house?' said Lesley, growing interested.

'Well, she lives with him. I don't that she does much for him in the way of keeping his house. I hope I shall not shock your prejudices'—how did he know that she had any prejudices?—'if I tell you that she is an actress.'

'An actress!'—Lesley flushed with surprise, even a little horror, though at the same moment she was conscious of a movement of pleasant curiosity and a desire to know what an actress was like in private life.

'I thought you would be horrified,' said her father, looking at her with something very like satisfaction. 'How could you be anything else? How long have you lived in a French convent? Eight or ten years is it not? Ah, well, I can't be surprised if you have imbibed the conventional idea of what you would call, I suppose your class.' He gave a little shrug to his broad shoulders. 'It can't be helped now. You must make yourself as happy as you can, my poor child, as long as you are here, and console yourself with visions of your happy future at the Courtleroys'.'

It was exactly what Lesley intended to do, yet she felt hurt by the slightly contemptious pity of his tone.

'I have no doubt that I shall be very happy,' she said, steadying her voice as well as she could; 'and I hope that you will not concern yourself about me.'

'I should not have time to do so if I wished,' he answered coolly. 'I never concern myself about anything but my proper business, which is not to look after girls of eighteen——'

'Then why did you send for me here?' she asked, with lightning rapidity.

The question seemed to surprise him. He raised his eyebrows as he looked at her.

'That was a family arrangement made many years ago,' he answered at last deliberately. 'And I think it was a wise one. There is no reason why you should grow up in utter ignorance of your father. And I prefer you to come when you have arrived at something like a reasonable age, Lesley,' with a lightening of his tones, 'I suppose you have some tastes, some inclinations of your own? What are they?'

It must have been obstinacy that prompted Lesley's answer. 'I have no tastes,' she said looking down. 'No inclinations.'

'Are you not fond of music?'

'I play a little—a very little.'

'Oh.' The tone was one of disappointment. 'Art? Drawing—carving—modelling—any of the fads young ladies are so found of now-a-days?'

'No.'

'Do you read much?'

'No.'

'What do you do then?'

'I can embroider a little,' said Lesley, calmly. 'The nuns taught me. And I can dance.'

She raised her eyes and studied the stormy expressions that flitted one after another across her father's face. She knew that she had taken a delight in provoking him, and she wondered whether he was going to retaliate by an angry word. But after a few moments' pause he only said—

'Would you like any lessons in singing or drawing now that you are in town?'

The offer was a temptation to Lesley. Yes, she would have dearly liked some good singing lessons; her mother even had suggested that she should take them while in London. She was the fortunate possessor of a voice that was worth cultivating, and she longed to make the best of her time. But she came with the notion that her father was poor, and that she must not be an unnecessary expense to him; and this idea had not been counteracted by any appearance of luxury or lavish expenditure in her London home. The furniture, except in her own room, was heavy, old-fashioned, and decidedly shabby. Her father seemed to work very hard. He had already promised her a maid; and Lesley could not bear to ask him for anything else. So she answered—

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

A HOT FIRE IN TORONTO

IT DESTROYED A FIVE-STORY BRICK BUILDING.

The Conflagration Was of short Duration But it Occasioned Nearly $40,000 Damages—A Number of Firms Lose Their Machinery and Stock.

TORONTO, Dec. 15.—Ruin never rode on swifter wings than in the fire which startled the business portion of the community at lunch hour yesterday. At 12.45 the first fierce sweep of flame was seen at 1.15 the roof had tumbled in, and at 1.30 the fire was under bit and rein, but within the 45 minutes nearly $40,000 worth of property had been destroyed.

The scene of the fire was a five-story brick warehouse in Pearl immediately in rear of Bay and King-streets, owned by Mr. George Proctor of the Bay Tree Hotel, and occupied by these firms: Aylesbury Dairy Co., basement; John M. French, wholesale oil and paint factory, first floor; Schaefer's cigar factory, second floor, and the American Watch Case Co., third floor.

It is supposed that either a can of naphtha exploded or a barrel of methylated spirits in the J. M. French premises overflowed and the liquid ran down into the furnace of the Dairy Company below. Almost instantaneously the two lower flats were aflame like a lady's gossamer dress caught on an August candle. The fire swept up the elevator shaft and wrapped the entire building in a red winding-sheet, which emitted a dense volume of thick black smoke that curled from the centre of the city as with a pall.

The combustible nature of the building caused it to burn like a roaring prairie fire. A prompt alarm had been turned in to the Bay-street Firehall, and hardly had this been received than it was followed by another from box 12, and this in turn by a third or general alarm, which summoned every division.

Within two minutes after the alarm had been sounded from the box several streams of water were playing on the flames. But even before the firemen arrived the firemen with which the oil-impregnated interior burned created a hurricane which drew the flames bottom up the elevator shaft, as if it were sucking them through a tube. Every window hung out a red festoon, while great coils of black smoke hovered around the eaves and met above the roof with the flames that were bursting through.

Hampered by the mud, which was ankle deep the firemen made a plucky fight. The wind had piled up a pyramid of rustling flame and smoke into the mid-air, and there was every indication that many buildings would be burned. The firemen, convinced of the impossibility of saving the factory attacked, confined their efforts to checking the progress of the fire. They were valiantly aided by anxious workers, who crowded the roofs of contiguous buildings and buckets were in constant use to subdue the flying bits of fire that were constantly clinging to shingles and cornices.

The spectators had grown from two or three to a crowd, and then from a company to many thousand people, who stood eagerly watching the fascinating revel of the flames, or gazed at the firemen, soaked to the skin and smoke-begrimed, emptying their watery ammunition into the flame-consuming melting away as if Old Boreas were at the bellows. Now and then a section of the loosened bricks would come toppling down with a loud report, several of the firemen had narrow escapes. Finally the interior collapsed like a huge barrel which had burned itself out, and all danger of the fire spreading was obviated, although for the brick and charred timbers which still sputtered like Medusa's snakes and the steam and vapor rose above the ruins for an hour or two.

In the brief hour that the fire had raged as much damage had been occasioned as in any fire that has visited Toronto in years. The building, which was built five years ago at a cost of $10,000, was completely gutted. The tenants lost their entire stocks and machinery. There was about 75 men at work in the building, but all escaped with their lives. Many lost their personal effects, with the exception of the clothing they had on.

The American Watch Case Company is the heaviest loser. Besides valuable machinery destroyed, in the neighborhood of 400 gold and gold-filled cases were melted.

W. D. Grand & Co.'s stables flanked the burning building on two sides. It was at one time feared that the fire would spread to it, and 25 horses in the rear stable were removed. The only damage done was by water and $100 will cover it.

Across the lane and immediately south of the burned building is the woodenware factory of Taylor, Scott & Co. The flames, caused by a north-west wind, reached across as if to devour it, but the firemen, aided by the employes of the firm, who had been placed on the roof with pails of water, prevented the roof being ignited. Several panes of glass were broken and the stock was damaged by water, but a hundred or so dollars will repair the loss.

MURDERER SLAVIN.

Prayers Offered Up for Him in the Cornwall Cathedral.

CORNWALL, Dec. 15.—Prayers were offered up in all the Roman Catholic and Protestant churches here yesterday for Slavin, the unfortunate who is to be executed between 7 and 8 o'clock Friday morning. During the 40 hours' devotion, which began here Sunday, all the Roman Catholics who received were requested to also receive for the doomed man.

The Rev. M. Hastie, pastor of Knox church, who had an interview with Slavin, some days ago, during his sermon on Sunday, referred in feeling terms to him. Slavin had informed him that had he remained in Cornwall and abondoned the use of liquor, he might now, instead of wearing the convict's clothes, be occupied a prominent position among the people of his native town. He would not relate the conversation that took place between the condemned man and himself further than one point, which professing Christians should take to mind. Slavin said he first lost faith in professing Christians from observation of their outward life, and having thus lost faith in them he lost faith in the Bible, and, as a natural result, lost faith in a personal God. He urged upon all Christians to live a life pleasing to God and by their conduct bear out the divine teachings.

Radcliffe, the hangman, arrived here this morning and is creating more excitement than did Barnum's show, which visited Cornwall some ten years ago.

A Strike Off.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 15.—The strike which was inaugurated among the moulders at Morris' foundry a week ago has been unsuccessful and declared off. The men struck because one of their number was discharged for neglecting his work.

HIGHER OCEAN RATES.

This to Compensate for the Non-Carrying of Steerage Passengers.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Mr. Peters, secretary of the North Atlantic Steamship Association, states that in view of the American regulations in regard to immigrants, the association, at an extraordinary meeting, decided to carry on its vessels only saloon and second-class passengers from Jan. 1 next.

It was also decided to materially reduce the number of sailings during 1893, and to raise the saloon and second cabin rates in order to make up the loss that will be incurred through abandoning the steerage traffic.

All special excursion rates for the Chicago Columbian Exhibition have been withdrawn by the association, and there is no doubt that this action will result in a large falling off in the number of foreign visitors to the World's Fair.

PRESIDENT CARNOT.

Rumor That He Has Resigned the French Cabinet Confirmed.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—A despatch from Paris to The Central News says: The rumors that President Carnot will resign shortly are confirmed this evening. At Tuesday's Cabinet meeting, during the heated dispute between M. Ribot and M. Rouvier, the President interposed the remark:

"Actions of certain ministers render my retention of office at most impossible."

M. Rouvier thereupon left the meeting, declaring that he would resign. President Carnot's difficulty is increased by the reports that his father and his brothers are involved in the Panama Canal scandal.

President Carnot himself, and not M. Ribot, was the one who sent to M. Tirard the despatch: "I call upon you as a friend of my family not to refuse office. If you do I will resign to-morrow."

FRENCH RIFLES.

Their Defections Discovered During the Dahomey Campaign.

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—The Paris correspondent of The Tageblatt says there is no doubt that the French Department of War is convinced of the inefficiency of the present Lebel rifle to the requirements of modern warfare. A new model has been prepared, substituting for the guns of the obsolete pattern, but during the existing critical condition of political Government fears to propose the re-arming of the army.

The defections of the present pattern were revealed, it is said, during the recent Dahomey campaign, despite the flattering report made public on the subject.

SMOTHERED IN GRAIN.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The body of Patrick Macadury of Brooklyn, N.Y., was found yesterday in the hold of the steamship Bolivia at Glasgow, from New York, embedded in the grain.

Macadury was smothered in grain when the steamship was being loaded.

Before the Bolivia left New York the mother of Macadury begged and prayed of the shipping people to hold her son. Rumor said he was buried in the grain. She was refused.

Indian Corn Mills.

HAMBURG, Dec. 15.—Another mill has been started in this city for the purpose of grinding Indian corn exclusively. This is the third mill now running here which grinds nothing but Indian corn from America.

The new mill is owned by Carl Engel & Co. The establishing of these mills is due to the efforts of Mr. Consul J. Murphy, the special agent of the United States Agricultural Department, who was sent to Europe to introduce Indian corn as well to point out the various methods of preparing it.

A Large Increase.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—British imports from Canada reached six and a quarter million pounds sterling for the 11 months ending last November. This is an increase of one and three-quarter millions, despite the fact that live stock importations from Canada decreased.

The British importations of Canadian cheese, butter and lumber largely increased.

The Vatican and Russia.

ROME, Dec. 15.—Within the last few weeks the relations between the Vatican and Russia, though not grown so close as to warrant the belief in a near reunion of the Greek and Latin churches, have become extremely cordial.

Murdered by Tramps.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 15.—A despatch from Vilna says that a Jewish innkeeper in the outskirts of the city, his wife and four young children have been murdered by tramps.

Will Not be Arrested.

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—The Reichstag yesterday adopted a motion declaring that Rector Ahlwardt, sentenced to five months' imprisonment for libel committed to his notorious pamphlet entitled "Jewish Guns," was entitled to immunity from arrest.

Tranquility at Samoan

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Dec. 15.—The latest mail advices from Apia show that tranquility prevails in the Samoan Islands.

Rossiter's Downfall.

PARIS, Dec. 14.—The Monarchist papers are jubilant over the fall of M. Rouvier, and hail his resignation as a triumph of the Monarchical cause. A movement is looking to the holding of another congress at Versailles is talked of.

A Trembler at Athens.

ATHENS, Dec. 15.—A sharp earthquake shock was felt here yesterday. Damage slight.

Killed By Dynamite.

HAZELTON, Pa., Dec. 15.—By an explosion of dynamite at Milnesville last evening Thomas Walter and Michael Parrish were killed and Dominick Walter and Mike Marino were fatally injured. Walter and Parrish were blown to atoms and the others so horribly mangled that they cannot recover.

No Personalities.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Dec. 15.—The last scene in the trial of Prof. Smith was enacted yesterday. Rev. Dr. A. Ritchie, acting moderator, read the sentence of the court.

Prof. Smith broke the silence by saying he was gratified that the trial had been conducted without disagreeable personalities.

Injure at Fort Hamilton.

BROOKLYN, Dec. 15.—Peter Hart, a veteran of the late war, who distinguished himself by wading to the ship of the staff at Fort Sumter, died last night.

Satisfied With Him.

MONTREAL, Dec. 15.—It has been definitely decided that there will be no opposition to Hon. J. J. Curran, Solicitor-General, in Montreal Centre.

Sir A. G. Archibald Dead.

HALIFAX, Dec. 15.—Sir Adam George Archibald, K.C.M.G., died at Truro this afternoon.

"It Cured Mother."

A Man Made Happy.
GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can taste a pea, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that is totally adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your med cine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.
Signed, MELVILLE B MARSH,
Aberdeen, P.Q. General Merchant.

The profession of God being Infinite, to become God-like means an Infinite growth.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicinal herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the severest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The sons and daughters of mothers who have used it, are loud in calling children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is unanimously conceded by all who refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Pudding with a hair in it is sweetness wasted on a dumb beast.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion is occasioned by want of action in the biliary ducts, loss of vitality in the stomach to secrete the gastric juice, without which digestion cannot go on; also, being the principal cause of Headache. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills have a specific action on the liver, while never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr. F. W. Ashdown, Ashdown, Ont., writes:—"Parmele's Pills are taking the lead against ten other makes which I have in stock.'

WAITING IN TERROR.

The Latin-Americans Continue to Rage Around for Blood.

VALPARAISO, Dec. 15.—A correspondent at Santa Anna telegraphs that the residents there are in terror, expecting the surrender of the province by federals. Barricades have been erected to assist in the defence. The garrison maintain that they hope that aid will be sent by Col. Portugal of the republican forces.

Several high military chiefs among the republicans, who had been imprisoned in San Borba preparatory to their removal to Porto Alegre, were killed by the guard escorting them to the capital of the province. It is also reported many barbarities were practiced on the women and children in San Borba by the soldiers.

Frequent skirmishes between federal and republican forces have occurred in Rio Grande do Sul. It is believed a serious battle is imminent. Both sides are accused of cruelties. The federals are indignant at the Government of Brazil for permitting alleged violations of neutrality in allowing purchases of arms and ammunition in their territory.

Secret meetings have been held in Montevideo with a view of initiating a revolution against Herrera. It is reported to force him to resign his position. The financial outlook, as made public, is brighter.

A correspondent in Buenos Ayres writes that a private navigation company has ordered five steamers of 10,000 tons measurement each. They will receive subsidies from the government, and be made set to be used as armed cruisers in time of trouble.

Troops have been despatched to the frontier to enforce the neutrality of the territory, and prevent refugees from Rio Grande entering.

DR. BRIGGS' DEFENCE.

He Believes the Doctrine of Presbyterianism Much Too Illiberal.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Rev. Dr. Briggs resumed the reading of his defence in his trial for heresy yesterday afternoon. He declared that he was a rationalist.

He recognized that the Scriptures are really the greatest authority of the Christian religion. He thought, however, that the authors of the Westminster Confession had not sufficiently recognized that the logos was the light of the world, as taught in the prolog of John's gospel.

If the Presbyterian doctrines, as taught by the Westminster divines, were alone accepted and the beliefs of the more liberal modern Presbyterian Church rejected, then must the soldiers of the Salvation Army, the members of the Society of Friends, the unnumbered heathen, and the unbaptized children be considered eternally lost.

The heathen could be saved by the shining of the logos in their minds and not by belief in a Bible they know not of.

As the Pharisees of old were rebuked by Christ for maintaining that they alone possessed all goodness, so now should these modern pharisees of the Presbyterian Church be rebuked for denying salvation to the millions who do not subscribe to their narrow belief.

Permission was given Dr. Briggs to print his reply to charges four and five and submit it to the members.

Would Close Their Schools.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 15.—A fight is at present going on between the Order of the Sacred Heart nuns and St. Patrick's congregation over the proposed erection of a Sacred Heart convent within a few doors of St. Patrick's Church.

The St. Patrick's Church people claim that they will be forced to close their school should the Sacred Heart nuns come near them, and have petitioned the archbishop to move the Sacred Heart nuns to another portion of the city. Great antagonism has existed between the two bodies for many years.

DON'T HURRY.

We have had too much of the Tory waiting game; we waited for the N.P. to compel the Americans to give us reciprocity; and we got the McKinley bill instead.—Globe

But, most esteemed contemporary, you know that the McKinley bill has been knocked out by our neighbors, and you have been telling us that the States are going to adopt free trade, or at all events a very low tariff. So don't be impatient: "bide a wee," and let us see what they do after the victorious party have entered into possession of the government of the Republic.

THE ELECTION COURT RECORD.

A telegram from Goderich on the 12th inst. says:

The West Huron election petitions were both dismissed with costs. Time, 2 minutes 8 seconds. This beats the record. Justices Falconbridge and Street presided.

Whilst congratulating the new Minister of Militia on the speed with which he drove the Grits out of their "last ditch" in his constituency, we must remind all and sundry that East Hastings holds the record, the petition against the return of Mr. W. B. Northrup having been knocked out in just 53 seconds by the watch.

THE OLD GAME.

The Grits are at their old game of trying to arouse sectarian feeling, in order that they may reap political capital therefrom.

Whilst the Globe, on behalf of the Ontario section of its party, repudiates the idea of opposition to Sir John Thompson as Premier because of his being a Roman Catholic, many of the Grit partisans are quietly doing their utmost to arouse prejudice against the Government, on the ground that Sir John is a Jesuit, and therefore a dangerous man.

In Quebec they are working on the other tack. Mr. Tarte's paper, Le Canadien, boldly says:

It is also a very grave circumstance that the chief of the "Orangistes," Mr. Wallace, should, with Mr. Bowell, another grand master, occupy a place in the Cabinet. It is useless to deny that the "Orangistes" are masters of the situation.

As it cannot by any possibility be true that the policy of Sir John Thompson's Administration can be under the control of the Jesuits and that the Orange members of the Cabinet should at the same time be masters of the situation, it is clear, on the face of the facts, that either the Grits of Ontario or those of Quebec must have departed from the truth. And it will further seem to the reader who reflects on the circumstances that both sections of the firebrands have been guilty of falsehood.

The people will judge the Government by its policy and its acts, and will no doubt, as in the past, punish those who have been endeavoring to befool them with mischievous intent.

Delays are Dangerous.

At this season the effects of catarrh and cold in the head are most seriously felt and endanger life and health if not promptly treated. For this purpose there is no remedy equals Nasal Balm. Prompt in giving relief and never fails to cure. Sold by all dealers 50c. a bottle, by mail, post paid. Address G. T. Fulford & Co. Brockville, Ont.

There are more cases of sickness and death from diseased kidneys than from all other diseases combined. It is your own fault if you allow your kidneys to remain in an unhealthy condition when the cure is at hand. Dodd's Kidney Pills are guaranteed to cure the worst cases. It costs but little to give them a trial. They are for sale by all druggists and dealers or by mail on receipt of 50 cts. or 6 boxes for $2.50. Write for book called Kidney Talk.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and sure cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for cleaning up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50 cents a package.

Evictions in New York.

(Montreal Star.)

That evictions are not confined to Ireland has been long well known; but few imagine that under the "star spangled banner," where all men are alleged to be "born free and equal," the process of eviction is a far more frequent occurrence than even in Ireland. In the current number of the Arena, Mr. W. F. McLaughlin complains bitterly of the frequency of evictions, often cruel and heartless, in the centre of New York city. In 1890, for instance, the grand total of evictions in Ireland was only a little more than five thousand, while in New York the figures stood at the astounding total of 23,980. The irony of these figures lies in the fact that Americans subscribe freely to help the five thousand evicted tenants in Ireland, while they calmly ignore the twenty-three thousand families hustled out upon their own streets.

Nor are these evictions free from the suffering that has won the sympathy of the world for the Irish tenant. The writer in the Arena gives a number of typical cases in which old women, and families whose bread winner had been stricken down, have turned out for lack of payment of a very small debt. An instance given on the authority of Justice Goldfogle, of the Fifth Judicial District, runs:

I was told of a woman in James street, who occupied a room for which she paid three dollars a month rent. She became ill, and owed her landlord one dollar and a half. He hastened to Justice Goldfogle and obtained a dispossess warrant. There he explained that she was going to put it in the cellar locker. "Oh no," he thundered, "you don't do any such thing. I have a warrant for your dispossession. Get out!" In vain the woman pleaded; he would not give her a day's grace. At last a happy thought struck her, and she asked, "Will you take the coal in payment of my rent?" He would, and he did, because the coal was worth $2 75, and he, consequently, gained $1.25 on the transaction. So he removed the coal, and the woman was allowed to remain. As soon as the month was up, the rascally landlord got another warrant, and threw the poor creature into the street.

Imagine obtaining a "dispossess warrant" for a dollar and a half! This, remember, was in wealthy New York and not on the hillsides of Donegal. As an English visitor said, after seeing no less than eighty families living for a week on the sidewalks in the centre of New York city: "Well I Ireland is not so badly off under its English landlords after all. There an evicted tenant has a fund on which to draw, contributed by Americans. Here the evicted one has—the workhouse!" There is clearly here a chance for a surgical operation on the beam in one people's eyes, before they become hysterical over the mote encumbering the optic of another.

A Sudden Death.

KINGSTON, Dec. 15.—That dreaded malady heart disease has claimed an old resident in the person of Martin Staley, proprietor of the Jubilee Hotel, Wellington street. Mr. Staley left his hotel to go to the Court House, but had only proceeded a short distance when he felt a weakness at the heart and stepped into W. Harkness' butcher shop.

Leaning against one of the counters Mr. Staley became worse. Finally he asked for a glass of water. The water was procured, and Mr. Harkness went for Dr. Bell. As the doctor entered Mr. Staley threw up his hands, gasped and would have fallen over had not the doctor caught him in his arms. Everything possible was done to restore the man, but he was beyond medical aid and expired shortly after.

Heredity.

It is a fact well established by students of heredity that children are apt to inherit not only the physical, mental, and moral traits of their parents, but to be influenced by their age as well. Children born of very young fathers and mothers never attain so vigorous a growth of mind or body as those of older men and women, while children of old people are born old. One of the most surprising cases in medical history is that of Marguerite Cribsowna, who died in 1763, aged 108 years. When but 94 she was married to a man aged 103. Three children came of this union, but they had grey hair, no teeth, were stooped, yellow and wrinkled, decrepit in movement, and could eat only bread and vegetables.—Charleston News and Courier.

MURDERED MANY BABIES

YET SHE RECEIVED BUT A YEAR'S IMPRISONMENT.

Shown to Be Guilty of Suffocating 111 Children—The Bodies Found Buried in Her Cellar—The Powerful Influence of Former Patrons.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 15.—The midwife Fedorenska in Lolz, tried for having murdered more than 100 babies, has been sentenced to one year's imprisonment.

Great indignation has been caused in Lodz by the lightness of the sentence. The woman was shown to be guilty of suffocating 111 children, whose bodies were found buried in her cellar.

As she had been at work at this kind of thing for nearly 30 years, there is little doubt that her victims number in the hundreds.

She was saved from the full penalty of her crime by the powerful influence of some of her former patrons.

COLLIERY DISASTER.

It is Expected that Over Fifty Lives Have Been Sacrificed.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—An explosion occurred yesterday at the Ramforing Colliery, Wigan, and not less than 56 lives have been lost.

Despite the efforts to extinguish the flames, the fire spread to the engine house at the head of the air tunnel. This stopped the pumping of air into the mine and added greatly to the peril of the men in the pit. The fire was not subdued until 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Search after the bodies of 20 of the miners, who had been suffocated by the noxious gases generated in the mine after the explosion, were brought to the surface by the rescuing parties.

Though the work is extremely dangerous, the exploration of the workings is continued in the hope that some of the miners in the pit at the time of the explosion have reached places of safety where they are awaiting the approach of the rescuers.

Manager Hutchinson of the Ramforing Mine went down into the pit with one of the last rescue parties. In his anxiety to make a thorough search for the men he remained below too long and was overcome by smoke. He was brought up apparently lifeless and was revived with difficulty.

In the main roads the bodies lie in twos and threes as the men fell. Large sections of roof galleries have collapsed. Amid the ruins were found mangled bodies and half-burned limbs. The ruins have blocked many parts of the mine, and therefore the men searching for bodies are unable to give any definite idea of the number lost.

Several miners who were just alive when found died on their way to the surface or shortly after being taken from the car. One rescue party reached the surface half suffocated by the heat and smoke caused by the fresh outbreaks of the fire.

The rescued miners believe that the explosion was caused by sparks from the engine house, which set fire to the coal dust a few minutes before the explosion. Men were sent through the mines warning the laborers, and many of those nearest the shaft escaped.

The miners who worked farther from the shaft tried to rush through fire and smoke and were suffocated in the effort. The work of rescue will be continued through the night, although there is little hope that more men will be taken out alive.

THE SILVER QUESTION.

British Delegates Blamed for Its Not Being Settled Long Ago.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 15.—At the International Monetary Conference Sir Guilford D. Molesworth protested against the obstructions offered by the British delegates at this and previous conferences. But for the action of the representatives of Great Britain this currency question would have been settled long ago.

Sir Guilford declared that the situation in Great Britain had greatly changed since Nov. 22, the date of the first meeting of the conference, and suggested that the conference adjourn for a few weeks to enable the British Government to reconsider the whole question.

He gave as the reasons for the change in the situation in Great Britain the statement in favor of bi-metallism made by Archbishop Walsh of Dublin, the resolutions adopted by the agricultural conference held a few days ago in London and the petitions forwarded to the Government by various chambers of commerce.

WHAT BALFOUR SAYS.

The Conservatives Will Support Any Firm and Energetic Foreign Minister.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The National Union of Conservative Associations reaffirmed by a large majority at the meeting yesterday the motion of Col. Howard Vincent in favor of a preferential tariff within the Empire.

Mr. Balfour's speech avoided all reference to the question.

The Times says that the resolution will prove as futile as the similar motion five years ago.

Before the adjournment of the Conservative Conference at Sheffield to-day the Right Hon. J. Balfour, Conservative leader in the House of Commons, said that the Conservatives would support any firm and energetic foreign minister, no matter what his politics.

The condition of international strain in Europe was at present so great that it would be folly to anticipate confidently an indefinite future of European peace. Unless the imperial force should be kept at the highest possible efficiency, the time might come when a British foreign minister would be powerless to forcibly support the national honor. Mr. Balfour was greeted with great and cordial applause.

The Conservative Conference at Sheffield has adjourned. A resolution was adopted in favor of measures to remedy the depression in the agricultural industry in Great Britain, provided such measures should involve no increase in general taxation.

The conference exhibited great enthusiasm, especially in denouncing Irish Home Rule.

To See About It.

THE NEW CHIEF JUSTICE.

It Is Probable That He Will Have the Further Honor of Knighthood.

OTTAWA, Dec. 15.—His Honor Judge Strong will probably be sworn in as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada this afternoon by His Excellency the Governor-General in Council. It is rumored that following the custom adopted of late years with respect to the Chief Justices of important colonies the new Chief Justice will shortly have the honor of Knighthood conferred upon him.

That the financial position of this city is well thought of is evidenced by the excellent offers for the civic debentures advertised for sale within the last couple of weeks. The debentures were for local improvements. There were $40,000 worth of 20 years', and bearing interest at the rate of 4½ per cent. and $33,000 worth of 10 years' at the same rate. The offer of J. C. Brown was accepted. He offered 103 cents for the 20 years' debentures and 101½ cents for the 10-year debentures.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has completed the selection of its land grant, with the exception of 1,000,000 acres.

MURDER AT PORT ARTHUR

AUTOPSY OF THE BODY SHOWS INTENTION OF CRIME.

His Brother-in-Law, the Suspect, Has Surrendered Himself—The Young Son's Evidence Contradicted That of His Mother's.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Dec. 15.—The inquest on the body of Archie Cammill, who was shot Monday night, was opened yesterday before Coroner Beddome.

Dr. Macdonald performed the autopsy, which revealed the fact that deceased was shot in the right side just above the hip.

The wound was an awful one, being 3 1-2 inches in diameter, descending nine inches from the right nipple to the spinal column, and the second and third ribs shot away.

The evidence taken proves a straight case of murder, and James Rowe, a brother-in-law of the murdered Cammill, is generally looked upon as the guilty party. He was in company with the deceased on the fatal night, and they had quarreled.

Mrs. Prynn, the first witness called, swore that Cammill and his wife lived on not friendly terms.

Other witnesses swore that they saw a man, whom they believed to be James Rowe, run from the house.

Charlie Williams, a 10-year-old son of the deceased, was examined at some length. The boy had evidently been carefully schooled, as it took some time to get full particulars from him. His evidence contradicted that of his mother's. Mrs. Cammill, who is the principal witness, was examined at length. Her evidence was very unsatisfactory. Judging by appearance she is a woman whose moral responsibility is not great.

The inquest was postponed till Friday. James Rowe, who is believed to have fired the fatal shot, and who disappeared immediately after the murder, returned to town this evening and surrendered himself to the authorities.

NOT TO KILL.

Merely to Cause a Stampede Among the Convention Men.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 15.—The story of the selection of the poison alleged to have been used in the execution of the Homestead plot was learned yesterday from an authoritative source.

As has been stated, the design was not to cause the death of any of the non-union men, but to produce such an epidemic of sickness as to create a panic among them and thus effect a stampede from the works.

A prolonged discussion ensued among the conspirators as to the kind of poison to be used, and it was finally decided to consult a druggist. The conspirators reported that they wanted to disable a pugilist so that he could not win a fight in which he was engaged.

They were asked if they wanted the drug to act quickly or otherwise. It was stated that they preferred something that would affect gradually so as not to arouse suspicion.

The conspirators were told that a certain preparation could be made that would gradually undermine the strength, and if persisted in would give the victim out in three or four days. The formula of the preparation was obtained and it is said the ingredients were found in the samples of coffee and tea which were analyzed by the chemists of the company at Braddock, Homestead and Duquesne.

NOT IN THE PLAY.

Disappointment of the "Blue Jeans" Bunch Saw Severely Cut by It.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—There was excitement on the stage of Col. Sinn's Park Theatre in Brooklyn yesterday afternoon during the dress rehearsal of the "Blue Jeans" company. This organization opened a week's engagement at that playhouse last night.

Trouble began during the buzz-saw act. Everything went along all right until Edward Wagner, who lives in Fifteenth street, near Fifth avenue, New York, and is the engineer of the saw, began to oil the machinery which runs the big saw.

The saw was revolving at the usual speed when Mr. Wagner thought he detected a grating sound at one end of the shaft, and went to give the point of friction a few drops of oil.

While doing this Wagner's clothing was caught somehow in the belting and the next moment his body was moving towards the saw.

He gave a shriek for help, but before any one could reach him or appreciate his position he had passed the saw, and then the blood was oozing in a steady stream from a nasty zigzag gash on the left side, the saw having cut his clothing into threads.

Mr. Wagner shrieked with pain and became unconscious. The stage floor was dyed with his blood.

ON HIS DEATHBED.

James G. Blaine's Disease Is Now a Strength-Sapping Malady.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The following despatch from Washington has been received:

James G. Blaine is now on his deathbed. The strength-sapping malady from which he has suffered for so long a time has assumed a form which warns his family and friends of a speedy termination.

The disease attacked his lungs a short time ago and its course has baffled the skill of his physicians.

The visit of Dr. Janeway of New York to Mr. Blaine is indicative of the extreme anxiety of the family.

"Very much better," was the reply given this evening at the family residence to the inquiry about the health of Mr. Blaine.

COMING FROM SCHOOL.

Run Over by a Rig—He Dies Two Hours After Being Taken Home.

TORONTO, Dec. 15.—A 6-year-old schoolboy named Henry Russell was run over and fatally injured at noon yesterday in Sumach street by the delivery cart of Morgan J. Kelly, wine merchant, Gerrard and Sackville streets.

The little fellow was on his way home from school and was chasing a companion across the street, when the accident occurred. He died at 2 o'clock.

A reporter saw Mr. Kelly. He said: "I was driving south on the right-hand side of the street. In front of me and near the middle of the road was a coal cart going at a walk in the same direction. When a little below St. David street two boys ran across the street in front of the vehicles. One boy got across all right, but young Russell stood still as if paralyzed right before my horse. My horse was only jogging along, but before I could pull up one of the wheels ran over the boy. If he had been one of my own boys I could not have done more to save him. The fellow jumped up and he did not seem to be much hurt. He told us where he lived and we took him home. When a couple of hours afterwards Dr. Cleland told me the boy was dead I was dumfounded. I immediately notified Coroner Duncan and he referred me to Coroner Aikins."

Mr. Kelly freely feels the sad event, and has notified the parents that he will bear all expenses.

Dr. Cleland is of opinion that internal injuries were the cause of death, there being no external marks or bruises.

The boy's father is James C. Russell and he lived at No. 9 Sackville street.

Coroner Aikins has decided that an inquest is unnecessary.

ROAD AGENT CONFESSES.

Tom Collins Tells of the Plan to Hold Up a Westbound Train.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Dec. 15.—Tom Collins, arrested yesterday morning, charged with being the other train robber, made a complete confession this evening of the entire affair to Chief of Police Turner and Detective Fitzgerald at the jail.

He said that the plan to hold up the vestibule was planned by Forgey two weeks ago and that he was induced to go into it by promise of a full share of the spoils.

He was drilled by Forgey at his house a number of times for the attack. Mrs. Forgey had full knowledge of the details.

Collins and Forgey are both wounded. Forgey's wound is in the right arm, near the shoulder, while Collins has a bad wound in the fleshy part of the right leg above the knee.

The prisoners waived examination and were bound over to court without bond.

MAYORALTY.

ON account of the pressure of my professional engagements, recently arisen, I find it will be impossible for me to make a personal canvass in the city, which is necessary and believing it would be unfair to my friends to enter in a contest for the mayoralty under those circumstances, I have decided not to be a candidate.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RESPECTFULLY solicit your votes and influence for Mayor of the City of Belleville for 1893. I was born in Belleville and have lived amongst you all my life, and am personally known to the most of you. I have been an Alderman in the City Council for four years, and during that time have endeavored to represent you straightforwardly and faithfully.

My platform is economy in City affairs. If elected I will exert myself to further the best interests of the city.

Yours respectfully,
FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE.

Feeble and capricious appetites are best regulated by the use of Ayer' Carthartic Pills. They do not debilitate, by excessive stimulation; but cause the stomach, liver, and bowels to perform their functions properly. As an after-dinner pill they are unequaled.

We do know of any preparation that has caught the public favor in so short a time as Dodd's Kidney Pills, but when we consider that three-fourths of the Canadian people are afflicted with kidney troubles in some form or other, and that Dodd's Pills are a quick and permanent cure for all these troubles, the large and increasing demand can scarcely be wondered at. Sold by all dealers or by mail on receipt of price 50 cts. per box. Dr. L. A. Smith & Co., Toronto.

Though the soil of Virginia grows the best tobacco leaf in the world, it does not all grow equal qualities. The production even of adjoining counties is often quite different, the one producing leaf which at once deteriorates if grown in the other. The leaf of the "Myrtle Navy" is the product of the choice sections of the State, which, through some combination of local influences, produce a better quality than any others. This is shown by its always commanding a higher price than any other smoking leaf.

A Serious Charge.

Warner Simmons, an aged man, was this afternoon placed on trial before His Honor Judge Ardagh, charged with the serious offence of incendiarism. It is alleged that the accused, on the 17th of March, 1888, caused the destruction of a barn with its contents, belonging to his son John. The parties reside in the 7th con. Thurlow, and of late considerable trouble has arisen between them. The case is still in progress. Mr. G. E. Henderson, Q.C., for Crown; Mr. E. J. Porter for deft.

THE ALLEGED ABDUCTION

Letters Received by the Police Magistrate Relating to the Case.

The Girl Is, no Doubt, With Her Mother—The Matter Investigated by Officials and Others.

The interest which was aroused in the talking away of the girl May from the Huffman House on the morning of the 30th of November has not died out. It will, however, be learned with pleasure by all concerned that the girl was, beyond a doubt, taken away by the one who was most entitled to her, namely, her mother. Since the affair Mr. John J. B. Flint, Police Magistrate, has done all in his power to probe to the bottom of the matter. He sent communications to the private detective who was in company with the lady, also to the Mayor of the town of Aylmer, Ontario, and he also placed himself in communication with the Chief of Police at Anderson city, Indiana, where the girl was taken. To day the following letter was received by Mr. Flint from a gentleman who interested himself in the matter. The gentleman who wrote the letter, Mr. John Forkner, is cashier of the National Exchange Bank, of Anderson, Ind. The letter, as follows, speaks for itself :

John J. B. Flint, Esq , Belleville, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—Your letter to Chief of Police Walker, of this city, in relation to the young girl taken from you place a short time since was shown to me by the Chief with a request that I assist him in the matter, as I am to some extent acquainted with the parties through business transactions with them. From our investigation of the matter, I am convinced that the girl in question is the child of Mrs. Krenhart. Mrs. E says she is the mother of the child by her former husband, who is now dead, and that the child has been kept from her, which story she related to me and is too long to recite here. Mr. Krenhart, the husband of the woman, when called upon, did not hesitate in the least to have the whole matter thoroughly investigated, and was anxious that all should be known. Mr. E. is well-to do, and is in business here. They have been here since early last spring, and have in all respects deported themselves as decent and respectable people, and I assure you that I have every reason to believe they are such. The girl is with them, and is being well cared for. The Chief will write you more fully. I hope for the sake of all concerned that this will end all sensation about the matter. Yours very truly,

JNO. L. FORKNER.

Chief Walker, of Anderson, also sent a short communication, stating that he had investigated the case fully, and was convinced that Mrs. Krenhart was the mother of the girl. He stated that the people were highly respectable citizens, and the girl was in a good home. He also said that the girl resembled Mrs. Krenhart very much.

North Hastings.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Empire writes : It is reported here that Mr. A. F. Wood, M.P.P. for North Hastings, whose name has been prominently mentioned as successor to Hon. Mr. Bowell as representative of the riding in the House of Commons, declines to run for several reasons. Mr. Wood has been a very useful member of the Local Legislature and fault is being found by some Conservatives at the constant withdrawal from the Assembly of the best men on the Conservative side. If Mr. Wood accepts the nomination for the Federal House, which means certain election—for he carried the riding in 1883 by over 200, in 1886 by over 700, and in 1890 was elected by acclamation—it will open the riding for the Assembly, making two elections in North Hastings, and in addition it would seriously affect Mr. Wood's personal interests. It is said, therefore, that Mr. Wood will only run in case a candidate cannot be found in the Conservative Interest who is certain to carry the riding.

SOCIAL & PERSONAL

Messrs. H. Corby, M.P., W. B. Northrup, M.P., and W. W. Pope went to Madoc this afternoon.

We regret to learn that Mr. Hall, manager of the gas works, is not improving in health.

Mr. John J. Harrison, of Ottawa, is in the city.

Mr. L. J. Frechette, M.P., of Megantic, P.Q., is in the city, the guest of the Huffman House.

Mr. D. H. Wilson, of Picton, was in the city to day.

Successful Test.

Mr. McClellan, of Toronto, representing the Carr Chemical Fire Engine Co.'y, gave an exhibition of the working of the engine yesterday afternoon, on the vacant lot corner Pinnacle and Bridge Sts. Among those present were H. Corby, Esq., M.P., W. H. Biggar, Esq., M.P.P., Mayor Bogart, Ald. Farnham, and a large number of our most prominent merchants. All who saw the fire extinguished, were surprised and pleased with the working of the little engine.

Snow a Good Breastwork.

Properly Prepared, It Can Withstand Any Projectiles.

Snow does not look or feel as if it would form a breastwork that would withstand cannon balls. Experiments have been made in Norway under Government orders, and they have proved that snow can withstand the force of cannon balls. How some of our boys would have enjoyed making these breastworks, says an exchange.

First, snowballs are rolled up and piled together, the spaces between being closely packed with snow, forming a perfectly solid wall twenty metres long, one quarter high and three metres thick at the ground, this sloped to about two metres.

The shots were fired from German guns, at a distance of fifty metres. The breastworks, it was found, would not stand where less than three metres thick.

Where the snow was free from ice fragments, the projectiles were found flattened on one side. Water was poured over the breast works, and the next day was frozen solidly.

Shots were fired at one hundred metres and penetrated through the wall ; some balls were never found, but those picked up were found unaltered in shape.

Freezing made the snow porous. The final conclusion was that if the breastworks were not sloping, but a uniform wall of two and one-half metres thickness, snow breastworks will defy any projectile thrown any distance.

A Jubilee for Women.

The notable musical series of original waltzes, ballads and anthems, which will run through The Ladies' Home Journal in the year 1893, will include a set of waltzes by Strauss, and songs by Gounod and Sir Arthur Sullivan. The "Home Life of the Empress of Germany" will be the subject of an illustrated article, giving a complete picture of the home life of Augusta Victoria. There will also be a series of unpublished writings of Henry Ward Beecher.

Among other notable contributors will be the Countess of Aberdeen, Mrs. Burton Harrison, Mr. W. D. Howells, Miss Mabel Cahill, Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, Ristort the tragedienne, Lucy H. Hooper, Madame Christine Nilsson, Rev. Morgan Dix, Rev. Dr. Talmage, Rev. Dr. Cardinal Gibbons, Frank R Stockton, Susan Coolidge, Josiah Allen's Wife, Octave Thanet, Madeline Bridges, Robt. J. Burdette, and Mrs. Burton Kingsland. The Journal has made arrangements with W. H. Gibson, Frank O. Small, Wilson DeMeza, Alice B. Stephens, and other prominent artists, to design a series of covers for The Ladies' Home Journal of 1893. The year 1893, which celebrates the tenth year of the existence of The Ladies' Home Journal, will be indeed a jubilee year for women all over the world, and to that end the editor and his staff will bend all their energies. The Curtis Publishing Company, of Philadelphia, publish the Journal for one dollar per year.

ARE WHAT OUR COMPETITORS CALL US!

GRASPING, because we want the trade of the earth ! AVARICIOUS, because we hang on to the almighty dollar ! CAPITALISTS, beause we have the money to tear them to pieces in the wholesale market !

Well, you can see what it amounts to. Success over brings envy and distrust. If we were only half as successful, we would be feared only half as much as we are.

Our push and principle alarm our competitors. Our business grip make them wince. Our big sales excite their envy. Our popularity is what they cannot block and must put up with.

Talk of big stocks ! Shout of immense piles of goods ! GOUGH knows what big stocks mean. Throughout Ontario, in the best towns, GOUGH has clothing stores. It is a notorious fact that he does the trade of the town. He buys cheaper and carries more goods than all his competitors combined.

His last great purchase of wholesale stock at 60c. on the $ is a paralyzer. This stock was manufactured by H. Shorey & Co., Montreal, and amounts to over $20,000. Owing to the immense stock already in our main store. we were compelled to open another store next to Dunnet's Dry Goods House. We could not get it all into our main store.

Remember, within six weeks we have captured two stocks, amounting to over $56,000, and when we say we are in a position to sell those goods at less than the ordinary merchant buys for, we can prove it. Ask the railroad people who received the most goods and they will tell you GOUGH, by ton times. Notwithstanding the low price of wheat and cry of hard times with other merchants, we are head and shoulders ahead of the best sales on record.

Keeping the Right Clothing, Selling at the Right Price and Giving Right Good Value in the Happiest Way has done it. GOUGH is Proud of his Success. Vive la GOUGH.

STIRLING.

The Seat in the Commons.—The Late Mrs. Hodson's Letters.—Many Matters of Local Interest.

(From our own Correspondent.)

STIRLING, Dec. 14.

The air is pregnant with rumors here as to the candidates for the vacant seat of Mr. Bowell in the North Riding. The matter will be decided, we hope, in Madoc on Friday. We trust the Convention will place the honor where it is most due, and give all side issues a wide berth. Mr. Bowell has represented the North Riding with distinguished ability, and it is our plain duty to send a man as his successor who has good executive ability, pleasing address, and has some standing in this riding as a resident of said riding.

The letters of the late Mrs. Hodson, published in your paper, were read with great interest here, and especially by your correspondents. Her letters displayed deeply marked ability, a gentleness of character in showing the brightest side of human nature, with a cultivated and refined taste. We extend our sympathy to Rev. Mr. Hodson.

Business in Stirling is fair just now, and we are anxiously awaiting some sleighing to make things more lively.

Mr. George Scott, our enterprising merchant, grocer and provision dealer, has purchased the Parker block, and will be in it shortly, in full blast.

The McDougall grist mill is still awaiting a purchaser—a rare good chance for some one.

I am told Stirling is to have a big pigeon shoot on Monday after Christmas. Postponed from to-day on account of weather. They intend challenging the Belleville Gun Club I understand.

Still another dry goods store starting here—Messrs. Fox & Wickett in the John Conley block. We should soon have our supply in this line of business.

Mr. McCay, our second teacher in the High School, has tendered his resignation to-day, causing a meeting of our school board to get a successor at once.

I shall for 3 days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, December 15th, 16th, and 17th, offer my whole stock of Books, Stationery, Fancy Goods, Musical Instruments, at a reduction of 33-1-3 per cent. No reserve

Decreasing The Death Rate.

The mortality among consumptives has been materially decreased of late years by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Phthisis, Bronchitis, Abscess of the Lungs, Pneumonia and Throat Affections are completely subjugated by a timely use of this excellent pulmonic. Palatable as milk. Sold by all Druggists at 50c. and $1.00

A Liquor Case.

Mr. J. R. Gerow, proprietor of the Prince Edward House was to-day charged with selling liquor during prohibited hours. After witnesses had been examined and argument heard the Magistrate reserved the decision until Monday next.

Complimentary Benefit.

Henry E. Walton, the clever comedian, has been tendered a complimentary benefit by Belleville citizens. The event will occur within two weeks. Due notice will be given.

A Patriotic Deliverance.

At the last meeting of Toronto Lodge, No. 2, Sons of Canada, the following were unanimously adopted : That as Canadians having at heart the interest and destiny of our prosperous and magnificent country, we deeply deplore the propagation of ideas tending to annexation with the United States. Geographically Canada is as large as the neighbouring republic in mineral and agricultural resources are not less, its future greatness is assured. As Canada is the northern part of the American continent and the first colony in the British Empire, our ambitions will be spurred, and our enthusiasm for her will never flag ; as part of the American Union, our spirits would droop. We believe in Canada, and oppose our effacement. Therefore be it resolved, that Toronto Lodge No. 2, Sons of Canada, does place itself on record for ever denouncing the annexation of Canada to the United States. That we heartily endorse the action of Sir Oliver Mowat in dismissing from office under our noble Queen one who had sworn to her allegiance and been entrusted by her Majesty with the safe keeping of her honor, when that person betrayed at once his country and his trust. Resolved also, that we cordially approve of the action of Hon. Mackenzie Bowell in dismissing from her Majesty's service an officer who so far forgot his duty and his oath as to forswear his Queen and advocate the handing over of the country he was supposed to protect against her enemies.

How to Cure a Corn.

It is one of the easiest things in the world to cure a corn. Do not use acids or caustic preparations, and don't cut a hole in your boot. It is simply to apply Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, and in three days the corn can be removed without pain. Sure, safe, painless. Take only Putnam's Corn Extractor.

SIX POINTS, out of many, where Doctor Pierce's Pellets are superior to other pills :

1. They're the smallest, and easiest to take—little, sugar-coated granules that every child takes readily.
2. They're perfectly easy in their action—no griping, no disturbance.
3. Their effects last. There's no reaction afterwards. They regulate or cleanse the system, according to size of dose.
4. They're the cheapest, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get.
5. Put up in glass—are always fresh.
6. They cure Constipation, Indigestion, Billous Attacks, Sick or Billous Headaches, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels.

OUR SALES

of lamps and silver on Saturday were the largest in our experience. We'll keep it up until spring.

FROM THIS ON we'll add to them at slaughter prices, DINNER, TEA and BEDROOM SETS. They must go and it's as well to understand first as last that we are determined to get right under all others in prices, and that's all the buying public wants. From to day forward see us about you dishes, lamps and silver before you buy.

Made With Skill.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints. Is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skillful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

Out of Sorts—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

'No I think not, thank you.'

There might be generosity, but there was also some resentment and hot temper at the bottom of Lesley's reply. This was a fact, however, that her father did not discern. He merely paused for a moment, nodded his head once or twice, and seemed slightly disconcerted. Then he said—

'Very well; I'm just as you like. Your aunt has a Mudie subscription, I believe' —what this meant Lesley had not the faintest idea—'you will find books in the library, and a piano in the drawing room. You must ask for anything you want.' As if that was likely, Lesley thought! 'I hope you will make friends and be comfortable.' And—a—' he paused and hesitated in his speech as he went on—'a—I hope—your mother—Lady Alice—was well when you left her?'

'Pretty well,' Lesley answered, dropping her eyes.

'She was going to Scotland for the winter!

'I think so.'

'Oh.' He seemed satisfied with the answer. 'By the way, Lesley, are you Catholic or Protestant?'

'Protestant. Mamma would not allow the Sisters to talk to me about religion. I always drove to the English Church on Sundays.'

'Oh, very well. Do as you please. There are plenty of churches near us. But you need not bring more clergy than you can help to the house,' said Brooke, with a pedantic smile. 'I am not fond of the Blacks. I am more of a Broad myself, you know.'

'A Red?' asked Lesley, helplessly.

'A Red Republican—Radical—Socialist —anything you like,' said Brooke, laughing outright. 'You didn't read the papers in your convent, I suppose. You had better begin to study them straight away. It will be a pleasant change from the Lives of the Saints. And now, if we have found all that we have to say—I am rather busy, and——'

'Oh, I beg your pardon; I will go,' said Lesley, rising at once. 'I had no wish to intrude upon you,' she added with an attempt to be dignified and womanly, which she felt to be a miserable failure. Her father simply nodded in reply, and took up his pen, and allowed her to leave the room.

But when she had gone, he put the pen down and sat for a few minutes musing. Lesley had surprised him a little. She had more force and fire in her composition than he had expected to find. She was, as he had said, very like her mother in face and figure; and the minute differences of line and contour that showed Lesley to be strong where Lady Alice had been weak, original where Lady Alice had been most conventional, intellectual where Lady Alice had been only intelligent, were not perceptible at first sight even to a practised observer of men and women like Caspar Brooke. But the flash of her brown eyes, so like his own, and an occasional intonation in her voice, had told him something. She was in arms against him, so much he felt; and she was an individual quite unlike her mother, in spite of her ignorance. It was a pity her education had been so much neglected! Manlike, Caspar Brooke took literally what every woman has had uttered; and reproached himself for allowing his foolish, frivolous wife to bring up his daughter in a place where she had been taught nothing but embroidery and dancing.

'It's a pity,' he reflected; 'but we cannot alter the matter now. The poor girl will find herself sadly out of place in this house, I fear; but perhaps it won't do her any harm. She might be a better woman all her life—the idle, selfish, self indulgent, life that she is bound by all her traditions and upbringing to lead—for having seen what honest work is like. She is too handsome not to marry well; let us only hope that Alice won't secure a duke for her. She will if she can; and I—well I haven't much of an opinion of dukes.' And so with a laugh and a shrug of his shoulders Caspar Brooke returned to his work.

Lesley went upstairs to the drawing room with burning cheeks and a lump in her throat. She was offended by her father's manner towards her, although she could but acknowledge that in essentials he had seemed wishful to be kind. And she had seemed ungracious and had felt resentful. But the resentment, she assured herself, was all on her mother's account. If he had treated Lady Alice as he had treated Lady Alice's daughter—with hardly concealed contempt, with the scornful indifference of one looking down from a superior height—Lesley did not wonder that her mother had left him. It was a manner which had never been displayed to her before, and she had said to herself that it was horribly discourteous. And the worst of it was that it did not seem to be directed to herself alone; it included her friends the nuns, her mother, her mother's family, and all the circle of aristocratic relations to which she belonged. She was despised as part of the class which he despised; and it was difficult for her to understand the situation.

It would have been easier if she could have set her father down as a mere boor, without refinement or intelligence; but there was one item in her impression of him which she could not reconcile with a want of culture. She was keenly sensitive to sound; and voices were important to her in her judgment of acquaintances. Now, Caspar Brooke had a delightful voice. It was low, musical, and finely modulated; his accent, moreover, was particularly delicate and refined. Lesley had without knowing it, the same charming intonation; and her father's voice was instinctively familiar to her. People had said that it was hard to dislike a man with a voice like Caspar Brooke's; and Lesley was quite sensible to its fascination. No, he could not be a mere insensate clod, with that pleasant and cultivated voice, she decided to herself; but he might be something worse—a heartless man of the world, who cared for nothing but himself and his own low ambitions; not a man who was worthy to be the husband of a gentle, loving, highly-organized woman like the daughter of Lord Courtleroy.

With a deep sigh Lesley ceased at last to meditate, and began to look about her. The room was a large and lofty, and had three windows opening on a balcony. There were more books than Lesley had usually seen in drawing-rooms, and there was a very handsome Broadwood grand piano. The furniture was mostly of the solid type, handsome enough, but very heavy. Lesley, noticed, however, that pictures and paintings on the walls were really good, and there was some valuable china on the mantlepiece. It was not an ugly room after all, and it displayed signs of culture on the part of its occupants; but Lesley turned from it with an impatient little shake of her head, expressive of deep disgust. And, indeed, it was sufficiently unlike the rooms to which she was accustomed to cause her considerable disappointment.

She drew aside the curtains which hung from the archway between the back room and the front; and here her brow cleared. The one window looked out on a space of green grass and trees inexpressively refreshing to Lesley's eye. The walls were lined with rows of books, from floor to ceiling; and some easy chairs and small tables gave a look of comfort and purpose to the room. It was Mr. Brooke's library, though not the room in which he did his work. That was chiefly done in his little den downstairs, or at his office in the city.

Lesley looked at the books with great and increasing pleasure. Here, indeed, was a joy of which her father could not rob her. No one would take any notice of what she read. She could browse undisturbed over the whole field of English literature if she were so minded. And the prospect was a delight.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (60c and $1.) by addressing Hor & Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and to the astonishing the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying our loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, Soothing Syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ar.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

A HUSBAND'S CRAZY ACT.

TORE HIS WIFE'S MONEY AND SCATTERED THE FRAGMENTS.

Because the Woman He Married Would Not Support Him in Idleness John Windsor Tore $200 Into Shreds and Tossed the Pieces Into the Street.

TORONTO, Dec. 16.—There is at least one man in Toronto who loveth not the "almighty dollar."

His name is John Windsor, and the very sight of money, instead of creating a greed, breeds an uncontrollable hatred.

John is a laborer, is about 24 years of age and lives at 306 Parliament-street. About two months ago he married a young woman, who, in addition to a comely appearance, possessed several hundred dollars in cash, the result of years of hard work. Since his marriage Windsor has not done a stroke of work.

Wednesday Windsor obtained from his wife two five dollar bills. Instead of going out like a sensible man and spending the money judiciously he tore the bills up and scattered the fragments to the winds. This seemed to have whetted his destructive appetite, for last night about 7 o'clock in a fit of rage he ran to the rear where his wife had hid her hard-earned savings and grabbed a handful. There he began to fiercely tear into pieces, throwing the fragments out through the open doorway into the street.

While Windsor was engaged in this pastime his father appeared on the scene. The sum of $300, which he had hid away in a pillowcase, was missing. He had reason to believe his son had purloined it, hence his appearance at the moment. When he divined what his son was doing he rushed off with all haste to the Wilton-avenue Police Station. Breathlessly he made the object of his mission known, and Constables Armstrong and Richardson were detailed to arrest the man. But although they got their man they were not in time to save the bills. The best they could do was to gather up the fragments. As these were picked up they were laid between the leaves of a book. When all efforts were exhausted it was found that $107 worth of broken bills had been recovered, but there was not a whole one in the lot. There are still $60 or $70 missing, and these the cold December winds are having fun with.

A charge of stealing money from his wife was preferred against Windsor, the money having been possessed by her before marriage. The police are of opinion that the man is either insane or the possessor of an ungovernable temper. The father, Solomon Windsor, lives at 17 Munro-street.

A GENERAL BATTLE.

Cannot Much Longer Be Delayed In South America.

VALPARAISO, Dec. 16.—Another plot of the followers of the late Balmaceda has been discovered by the Government at Santiago and frustrated.

An attempt was made to corrupt the Seventh Regiment, and the fact became known to the Government on Sunday. Shortly before the evening call yesterday sentries and police were stationed around the various barricades, and immediately after the call the sentries closed in, barring the way. The police went in and arrested several groups of conspirators. The plans of the plotters were seized. Various points in the city were to have been sacked and there were lists of prominent officials who were to have been killed.

A number of masks, daggers, revolvers and military caps were found, in addition to blue bands for distinctive marks, blue lights and torches. Forty-six prisoners are now in custody. There are all ex-officers of the army, and among them is Malquias Concha, who was the agent of Juan Mc-Kenna.

The plotters were divided into groups, each ordered to attack and plunder a certain section of the city.

The Seventh Regiment has been ordered out, and the Executive intends asking Congress for extraordinary powers. Public opinion demands strong measures, and it is the general opinion that the best method is to transport the conspirators to Eastern Iceland.

Claudia Vacuna is said to be supplying funds to the malcontents from Buenos Ayres. Several ex-officers of the army have entered the service of Paraguay.

A correspondent on the Uruguay-Brazil frontier speaks of that large numbers of federals are encamped along the frontier waiting orders to attack the republicans. They wear badges bearing the inscription, "All for Liberty." Up to this time the federals have not attacked, because they know the republicans are well defended, but a general battle cannot much longer be delayed. The federal residents of Tacnerembero are arming two steamers, with which they intend to bombard Santa Ana. Small fights and skirmishes are daily occurring. Heavy guards of Uruguayan troops are stationed along the frontier to prevent an invasion of Uruguayan territory.

BLOOD IN THEIR EYE.

A Mob of 200 Men Attempt to Lynch a Murderer.

WILLIAMSBURG, Ky., Dec. 16.—Yesterday a mob of 200 men, with the Jellico yard engine and three flat cars, came down from Jellico for the purpose of lynching Leonard Tye, charged with the outrage and murder of Asmelia Bryant at Kenase, Dec. 5, but Judge Boyd had ordered the prisoner taken away, so they did not get him.

The mob left at 3 o'clock, swearing they would hang him yet. The negro was taken to Stanford Jail, but when the mob was there he was hidden in the woods under the guard of Town Marshal Ross.

Tallion Accepts the Premiership.

QUEBEC, Dec. 16.—The Hon. L. O. Taillon, M.L.A., arrived in town yesterday and immediately waited upon the Lieutenant-Governor. The honorable gentleman has accepted the office of Prime Minister, with portfolio of President of the Executive Council.

Inspired by Insanity.

MONTREAL, Dec. 16.—A crank by name of Calixte St. George has addressed an open letter to Queen Victoria asking that Canada be made independent, and that she recognize his royal authority under the title of King Calixte I. He says he is inspired by God.

To Be Contested.

MONTREAL, Dec. 16.—The election of Mr. Bain, Conservative member for Soulanges, is to be contested.

Hanged And Cremated.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 16.—The chess after the negro who outraged Emma O'Brien, the 18-year-old white girl, is said to have ended.

A report comes that the brute was captured and hanged to a tree in a churchyard and his body cremated.

INSOLVENCY LAW.

A Delegation from Ontario and Quebec at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Dec. 16.—A delegation representing the Boards of Trade of Ontario and Quebec arrived in the city yesterday and had an interview with the Government at 2 o'clock on the advisability of passing an insolvency law for the Dominion.

The delegates from the west were Paul Campbell, E. R. C. Clarkson, S. Caldecott, W. F. Wyld, Hugh Blain, Edgar A. Wills, D. E. Thompson, Toronto; M. Maaurer and F. S. Hobbs, London. There was a big delegation from the Montreal Board of Trade, representing the Province of Quebec.

The Government presented the draft of a bill to the Ministers, which has been laid before all the boards already. It may be said that there is at present no insolvency law in the Dominion.

The act of 1875 was amended from time to time, and finally abolished in 1879. In 1880 Sir John Abbott, then a member of the Commons, introduced a bill, but it did not become law. While the local Legislatures can deal with many of the questions included in the proposed bill, still to the Dominion Parliament belongs the jurisdiction of dealing with the matter of insolvency.

The local laws are not very satisfactory now, and a general Dominion Act applicable to all the provinces is required. The Draft Bill, which was presented to the Government to-day, is framed on the basis of the act of 1875 and the Abbott Bill of 1880. Composition settlements will be done away with by the new bill, but the debtor must get his discharge from the Superior Court instead of the County Court.

EAST SIMCOE.

Dr. Spohn Stated He Had No Evidence to Offer Against W. H. Bennett, M.P.

ORILLIA, Ont., Dec. 16.—The election court, composed of the Chancellor and Mr. Justice Meredith, sat yesterday for trial of the petition against William H. Bennett, Mr. R. A. Grant appeared for the petitioner, Samuel Wood, and stated that as the petitioner decided some days ago not to file any particulars of the charges in the petition he had no evidence to offer.

The respondent appeared in person and consented to the petition being dismissed without costs.

The Chancellor, after satisfying himself that there was no cross-petition, dismissed the petition without costs.

AN UNSOUND MIND.

And Hung Himself From a Beam in His Barn.

CHESLEY, Ont., Dec. 16.—Yesterday morning Mr. Henry Neelly, a farmer residing on lot 14, con. 1, Elderslie, committed suicide. He went out before daylight and as usual to attend to the stock and other chores, but not coming back when expected his youngest brother, 12 years of age, went to the barn only to find his brother hanging from one of the beams dead.

The lantern had been left on the reaper, and he is now contemplated taking his life had fastened a rope securely around a beam and the noose around his neck and then swung himself off into eternity.

Mr. Richard Cannon, who lives opposite the unfortunate man's residence, came into Chesley early yesterday morning to summon Coroner Clarke to the place.

Deceased formerly lived on the 12th concession of Brant, but bought the property of Richard Kidd of Elderslie in the spring and moved on to new premises. Shortly after buying the property he became anxious to sell it.

He leaves a wife and three children. He has been wrong in his mind for the past three weeks.

SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT.

Blaine Has a Change for the Better—His Family Not Apprehensive.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Mr. James G. Blaine, jr., said last night that his father was not in a critical condition, and if there was any change it was for the better. He said there was no foundation for the rumor that the family was apprehensive. He said his father was a sick man, and while he kept his bed his friends were naturally anxious, but there was no cause for alarm. Mr. Blaine said that as soon as his father's condition permits, the family will leave Washington, but he was not yet decided where they would go.

Niagara Falls Reservation.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The Niagara Falls Reservation Commissioners met in this city yesterday. Secretary Treasurer Henry E. Gregory submitted a report showing that since July 15, 1885, the state has advanced to the commission for maintenance $165,000 and for improvements $78,187.67, and that the commission has remitted to the state treasurer $43,546.31, making the total advanced by the state $200,172.36, making the average yearly cost for maintaining the reservation in the past seven years about $13,500.

Charged With Forgery.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Guillaume Vervliet, a Belgian, was taken before Commissioner Shields yesterday on a complaint of Charles Moll, the Consul General of Belgium. The charge against him is forgery and the misappropriation of $20,000 belonging to the people of Belgium.

Vervliet said he would go back to Belgium and stand trial. He was re-committed in care of Mr. Moll.

Death or Liberty.

WOODBURY, N.J., Dec. 16.—Annie Myers, the notorious woman burglar who was yesterday sentenced to five years imprisonment in the county jail, made a sensational attempt to end her life by setting fire to the mattress in her cell.

The flames were discovered in time to prevent the destruction of the building. The woman is so horribly burned that her recovery is doubtful.

A Big Load of Emigrants.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The biggest load of steerage passengers that ever came into any port in this country in one vessel arrived here to-day on the North German Lloyd steamer Stuttgart from Bremen. She carried 2263. The largest previous number was brought in the Darmstadt of the same line and was 2034.

The Reichstag Adjourned.

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—The bill providing for the repression of immorality in Berlin, one of the pet measures of the Emperor, is now before the Reichstag, and His Majesty is hopeful that it will become a law.

To-day the House referred the bill to a committee, which will probably devote considerable time to its consideration. After the transaction of some routine business the Reichstag adjourned until Jan. 10.

"It Cured Mother."

GENTLEMEN,—My mother was suffering from dyspepsia and had no appetite. Everything failed to cure her until one day, while visiting a friend's house, I saw a bottle of B.B.B. on the table; on inquiring what they used it for, I soon found out what it cured, and when I went home told mother that she should try it; she said she had no faith in anything and objected to try it. Notwithstanding her objection I went in the evening and brought home a bottle but it was in the house a week before we could induce her to take it, at last, as she was getting worse all the time she consented to try it, and on taking half a bottle found it was curing her. Another bottle cured her, and we believe, saved her life. We are never without B.B.B. now. It is such a good remedy for headache as well.

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have terrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and Dyspepsia Cure I was thoroughly cured and am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the great qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she said I scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pain and distress all the time after, and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your med cine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.
Signed, MAURICE B. MASSE,
Abercorn, P. Q. General Merchant.

The profection of God belng infinite, to become God-like means infinite growth.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicines, which, when taken in most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish away by the use of this remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, sore throat, &c., they are in vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is no palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Pudding with a hair in it is sweetness wasted on a dessert hair.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion is occasioned by want of action in the biliary ducts, and the vitality of the stomach to secrete the gastric juices, without which digestion cannot go on; also, being the principal cause of Biliousness, Ayer's Pills or Vegetable Pills taken before going to bed, for a while, never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr. F. W. Sanborn, Ashburn, Ont., writes: "Parmele's Pills are taking the lead against ten other makes which I have in stock."

The best form in which electricity is embodied is Dr Pierces' Electric Oil, a sovereign remedy.

A Maybee Merchant, Warkworth, writes:—"I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and have recommended to the public 'one of the best medicine they have ever used;' it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, Cuts, Bruises, etc., and is my by of the greatest confidence."

The same wind that brings a cloud will bear it away again.

FLOUR IN THE WEST.

The Mill Output Last Week Was One Of the Heaviest.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 16.—The Northwestern Miller says: The mills made another big run last week, the output being the heaviest in three weeks. The aggregate production for the week was 194,300 barrels, against 186,545 barrels the previous week.

The flour market remains dull, and prices, in sympathy with those of wheat, are gradually settling down. For a week back there was quite an excess of flour ground over the volume of orders received, the failure of dealers to give shipping directions on all orders is still a very serious drawback. This sort of thing causes millers to talk about establishing their own distributing agencies in the east and displacing the middlemen.

The trade in flour the past week has been largely in carlot orders, coming from home markets. Direct export shipments by the mills last week were 39,240 barrels, against 30,420 the preceding week.

A SHOTGUN.

It Brought An Escaped Murderer Back to Imprisonment.

SARATOGA, Dec. 16.—Martin Foy, the race track jockey, who murdered Henrietta Milson in cold blood in this village last May, who escaped from jail in July and was re-arrested in Oakland, Cal., in November and brought back again, escaped from Ballston county jail yesterday.

He presented a pistol to the jailer's face and walked out of the jail unmolested and took to the woods. A dozen officers and 100 citizens went in pursuit.

Irving W. Winsell, a lawyer, came to the jail with Foy in front of a shotgun. He captured him half a mile below the village.

SHELLED VILLAGES.

The British Warship Rapid Administers Severe Punishment.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16.—The steamer Australia arrived from Honolulu yesterday, bringing the following advices:

The Legislature has appropriated $4000 for the tour of Princess Kaiulani and her apparent through Europe and the United States and $12,000 to send the Hawaiian band to the World's Fair.

News has reached Honolulu of the shelling of seven villages on Solomon Islands by the British warship Rapid for the killing of white traders.

A Fatal Skating Accident.

LENOX, Mass., Dec. 16.—Harvey A. Corley, 24, and Eliza Vandenburg, 22, were drowned last night. Corley was clerk for a local druggist and was studying medicine. He was born in Medford, Canada, where his mother and two sisters reside. He also has a sister, Mrs. Dinsmore, residing in New York. Miss Vandenburg resided at Troy, N.Y., where her parents reside. She was a teacher in the Lenox Grammar School and very popular. They were skating on a pond with which they were unfamiliar, and skated into an open space at an inlet where the swift water was not frozen.

A Long Sheep Drive.

BOISE CITY, Idaho, Dec. 16.—Early in May Frank Fordyce, a young stock baron of Idaho, will attempt to drive from the centre of state to Qualilla, Neb., a band of 45,000 sheep. The distance to be traveled by the animals is more than 1000 miles, and Fordyce hopes to accomplish the trip in six months.

International Curling Match.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The Grand National Curling Association met last night at Caledonia Hall, and it was decided to play the Gordon International match at Albany City rink between Feb. 5 and 15. Edwin L. Thomas was elected vice-president of the association, vice James Kelly, resigned.

Results of Cholera.

PANAMA, Dec. 16.—In consequence of official news that cholera has broken out again in Hamburg, the Colombian Government has closed this country's ports against all vessels having left Hamburg after Dec. 10.

Want $15,000 as Ransom.

MADRID, Dec. 16.—The Moorish pirates who recently captured the Spanish schooner Iced and carried her crew into the mountains near Cape Quilly refuse to surrender the prisoners until the ransom money to the amount of $15,000 shall have been paid.

They threaten that if any attempt be made to release the prisoners by force they will kill them. It is highly probable the Government will grant the money requested.

NOT TO BE FOOLED.

How Mr. Vanderbilt Got Ahead of the Jeweller.

A good story is told of one of the Vanderbilts. While abroad recently he was visited by a rich Berlin jeweller, who, without waiting the usual formalities incident to gaining an audience, marched in on Mr. Vanderbilt unannounced.

The intruder was an elderly man with an intelligent face, and attired in faultless evening dress, the fashion prescribed by European etiquette for visits to potentates, ambassadors and other high dignitaries, irrespective of the hour or season.

Mr. Vanderbilt was surprised, but not overwhelmed, by the jeweller's evident attempt at Continental complaisance. He listened to his tale of the "greatest ruby on earth," which the dealer was willing to dispose of at a sacrifice, with a courteous air, and then offered him one-tenth of the price demanded.

"I have five stones of exactly the same dimensions and coloring," said he, "and I am willing to complete the half dozen at a fair figure. You may send me your answer within two hours. Good morning."

The answer arrived eighty minutes before the prescribed time had elapsed. It was in the affirmative.

The Other Side of the Question.

"What afternoon would you like to have out?" inquired the woman who was trying to employ a servant young lady. "Oh, beg pardon, mum," was the response, "but what afternoon would yez ixpect me to stay in?"

Mr. A. W. Carscallen the Conservative Choice for the Commons.

Just before going to press we learn that Mr. A. W. Carscallen, banker, and ex-Reeve of Marmora, was this afternoon nominated for the Commons by the Conservative Convention which met at Madoc to day.

A COMPARISON.

The circular recently issued by the advocates of "continental union," in support of their disloyal fad, has been ably replied to by Col. Tisdale, M.P. for South Norfolk, in a speech delivered by him in his constituency on the 12th inst. The occasion of Col. Tisdale's address was, that a meeting of 26 Grit annexationists was recently held in the town of Simcoe, at which a resolution in favor of annexation was passed, and telegraphed all over the English-speaking world as the action of the Reform Association of South Norfolk. Having fittingly denounced the rascally trickery, Col. Tisdale, as the representative of the riding, called upon the Liberals of South Norfolk to repudiate this piece of political infamy, and upon the leaders of the Grit party to declare themselves on the question. He had, he said, offered to resign his seat in Parliament and run an election on the annexation issue, but no response had been made, nor, we may add, will there be any.

In the course of an admirable speech, Col. Tisdale went on to compare Canadian institutions with those of the United States. We quote from the Empire's report:

Speaking of the material view, he said the American in every way paid more taxes than Canadians. Their state and municipal taxes were at least double ours. In Canada there are 650,000 men. Canada got out of her indirect taxation a tax of 80 cents per head. In the United States every state has to pay to support its own militia. Here the Federal Government controlled the militia and paid the men. Judges in the United States were paid by the states. Here the general Government paid them. During the last general election in Canada there are 650,000 men, and it was taken nine states of the union and showed that our farms produced more valuable crops, and that we got more for our crops in Canada than did the farmers in the states. These statistics showed that while the American farmers were mortgaged at the rate of $150 per head, in Canada the farmers' mortgages averaged from $40 to $50 each. Annexation would wipe out the 400,000 families dependent on our industries by destroying the home market. (Hear, Hear.) It would largely cut off our production of farm products for sale. Now he wanted to read a few words from the speech at Niagara in 1891 of Sir Oliver Mowat, who had ably treated this material question. Mr. Mowat said: "Then again, if the question of mere material advantage were the only question for us to consider, it is at least doubtful whether the masses of people would, all things considered, derive any material advantag from the sacrifice of ourselves and our country to our neighbors. It is easy enough to show that but for the United States tariff there are important articles for which our producers would just now realize larger prices in the United States markets than they realize now. No one can be sure that this would always be so. Further, it is as certain as anything of kind can be, and it would be blindness to ignore the fact that though the farmers in the United States have no McKinley Act to prevent their having free access to the markets of all their states, yet these farmers, as a body, do not appear to be in better circumstances than our own farmers are, if they are in as good. Their farms appear to be as extensively and opressively mortgaged as ours are, if not more extensively and oppressively. Farming in that country at this moment, with all the advantages of a free market in all the states, does not appear to be paying better than farming here, if as well. Nor can I discover that their mechanics and laborers are, on the whole, more comfortable than our own." The speaker agreed with Mr. Mowat on this point. (Cheers.) He then contrasted the political institutions of the United States with ours. It was the country that gave its people the best institutions which was the best country, even if they could not make quite as much money in it. He had taken Mr. Mowat's letter to the late Mr. Mackenzie in 1891 and made as he (a Grit) said, important points Mr. Mowat has recognized as a constitutional lawyer, having been a great student of these questions. In effect Mr. Mowat says that Britain is our nation, and the nation of our fathers. It is the greatest among nations, and for centuries has been the first in freedom, civilization, learning and power, and in all the arts of peace and war. 2. We do not and cannot forget that Canada was won in the last century by British blood and treasure. 3. In case the time came for Canada ceasing to be part of the British Empire, the aspirations of Canadians would prefer independence to Britain as a friendly ally, and with British institutions. 4. The unfriendly feeling of the people of the United States to our nation, is one of the most powerful objections on the part of Canadians to political union. (5.) Canadians regard with horror any change which might cause them or their sons, in case of war, to be called upon to fight against what is now their own country. (6) Canadians will not be coerced by the McKinley bills and so-called retaliation. (Cheers.) Now, Mr. Mowat says our constitutional system is much better than theirs, because (1) our federal Legislature has jurisdiction over many matters left to their states, such as militia, criminal law, laws on commercial subjects, as bills of exchange, promissory notes, interest and currency and this gives uniformity. (2) Our Supreme Court has jurisdiction by way of appeal from provincial courts upon all subjects, not so in the U. S. Hence endless diversity. (3) We have permanent civil services. They all go out. (4) We have no elective or political judges. All theirs are, except the Supreme Court of the United States."

There were a great many other important things in that excellent letter, of which he had given his hearers an epitome. The contrast between the institutions of the two countries was greatly in favor of Canada in every respect. He would like to ask the gentlemen who had propounded this theory of annexation whether they had really considered what it meant; had they thought of the cowardliness involved in proposing to hand over, in their old forefathers' names, this country to the United States! He was speaking of the resolution passed by the 26 would be annexationists in its moral sense. They would hand over to a hostile people a heritage such as Canada is, "(Cries o' "Never, never.") He then explained how this heritage was won by the blood of their British forefathers? (Cheers.) He admitted that the United States had their vast centres of trade, their glaring combinations for manufacturing and other industries, and he was proud of them as a great Anglo-Saxon English-speaking people, and rejoiced when them godspeed, but he denied most emphatically that their laws were as well enforced as ours (cheers)—that the protection of life, property, and of personal liberty was as well secured as ours. (Renewed cheers.) He denied that there was anything like the general or equal distribution of wealth that there is in Canada. (Hear, hear.) He admitted that there was more want and suffering and general complaint in the United States than in Canada, Ninety five thousand people in that country owned over one half of the wealth of the 65,000,000. (Hear, hear.) Canadians were not so rich, but they enjoyed their comforts more because the wealth was more evenly distributed, and the people were anxious to get homes for themselves. He believed in encouraging this noted characteristic of the Canadian people. In the States, the proportion of people owning their own houses was very small. This was one of the great evils of that country. That was a great country truly, but Canadians were building up a more prosperous country, where the people would be more contented in the end—a purer nation on this northern half of the continent, than even that great nation to the south. (Loud cheers.) He then took up the question of the public debt of the States, and showed the great swindle perpetrated on the people in connection with their pension list. It was a burning national disgrace to the United States that pension list. Last year the list totalled $150,000,000; this year it was $180,000,000! Twenty eight years after the war was over they found $50,000,000 on the roll. In a hundred years the list would probably reach $600,000,000. (Laughter.) This was an illustration of their "free" system which certain people in Canada wanted to adopt. (Hear, hear.) Canada wanted to be friendly and neighborly with the United States, indeed she had always shown any other feeling, but they had not acted friendly towards Canada. He believed that the people of Canada would go on and prosper on these lines laid down by the forefathers of the country. (Hear, hear.) Legislation should not be retaliatory on Canada's part, but the country should not be afraid to legislate for its best interests without fear or favor. (Cheers.) Let Canada stand up for her protective policy in regard to her industries and in regard to her farmers. (Cheers.)

BARON REINICH'S DEATH.

NEWSPAPER ATTACKS DROVE HIM TO DESPERATION.

His Son-in-Law Said He Did Not Commit Suicide—The Documents of the Late Baron Now in Charge of the Government.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—The principal witnesses examined by the Panama Committee yesterday were M. Rouvier, who resigned the finance portfolio; M. Constans, former Minister of the Interior, and Georges Clemenceau, Radical deputy.

M. Rouvier was the first to be examined. He declared he had nothing to add to what he had said on Tuesday. On being questioned in regard to his relations with Baron De Reinich, he replied that when he visited the Reinich residence the Baron appeared to be greatly agitated; that he asked the baron if he had committed any criminal offences or bribed any senators or deputies, and that the Baron replied: "No, I have realized some profits, which I have shared with certain friends."

Rouvier, continuing, said he could not explain why Baron De Reinich had hoped that M. Herz would have the news broken to him gently. The attacks upon him (Rouvier) had not been aware that De Reinich was to be prosecuted; his impression had been that the baron was to be summoned only as a witness. Rouvier added that he had been assured by the baron's son-in-law that the baron had not committed suicide.

Baron Reinich Was Driven Desperate.

M. Clemenceau testified that Rouvier had asked him to see Herz on account of the desperate state of mind to which Reinich had been driven by the virulent charges brought against him by various newspapers. Witness did not know why the baron had applied to Herz to have the press attacks stopped. When witness and the baron left the house of M. Constans, the last named gentleman having denied that he had instigated the newspaper agitation, the baron said, "I am lost."

M. Clemenceau added that Herz was a shareholder in the newspaper La Justice in 1884-85 to the amount of 700,000 francs and that he himself had had frequent relations with Baron De Reinich, whom he believed to be connected with the Panama Canal Company only in the capacity of banker.

When M. Constans was called to the witness stand he declined to be sworn, but he gave his word of honor that he would tell the truth. He testified that he had told Baron De Reinich that he had had nothing to do with the newspaper agitation. He had never seen Herz.

Georges Duval, the acting editor of La Libre Parol, who had been summoned to testify before the committee, has written a disrespectful letter, in which he refuses to appear before the committee.

The seals were removed from the house of the late baron yesterday, and all the documents belonging to the baron were taken in charge by the Government officials sent out to the committee investigating the scandal.

At a Cabinet meeting, held at Elysee today, M. Bourgeois, Minister of Justice, announced that he would oppose in the Chamber of Deputies the proposal of M. Pourquery, the Boisarin, to invest the Panama Investigation Commission with judicial powers.

When the question came up in the Chamber of Deputies to-day M. Hubbard, member for Seine et Oise, opened the discussion by calling for the immediate discussion of the Boisarin proposals, and M. Ribot, Premier, supported the motion.

M. Brisson, President of the Investigating Committee, moved that the chamber adjourn. The committee, he said, would have no difficulty in fulfilling its task under existing circumstances. If, however, the Boisarin proposals were brought to discussion with the approval of the coamber the committee would support them.

In the name of the committee, M. Brisson then made an attack upon M. Ribot and M. Bourgeois for having sent out statements during proper zeal in pressing forward the investigation and of giving but half-hearted support to the Investigation Committee. M. Brisson's language was severe and at times intemperate.

M. Bourgeois answered for the government. The ministry, he said, was determined to bring the matter to a settlement, and he stated briefly the reasons of the government for opposing the Boisarin bill.

The question was put to a vote amid some confusion and the decision in favor of proceeding with the discussion of the bill in accordance with the government's desire was carried by 424 against 122.

Immediately after the vote it was reported that in consequence of this reverse M. Brisson would retire from the presidency of the committee.

The way to the consideration of the Boisarin bill was clear, and M. Bourgeois proceeded to state forcibly the objections of the ministry to it. M. Brisson spoke at some length in favor of the bill.

The committee's authority would be weakened if the measure were not rejected.

M. Ribot expressed surprise that M. Brisson supported a measure directed against the Government. If the Cabinet did not command a majority it would then retire, and it would then fall to M. Brisson's lot to discover another one.

The vote at the end of the discussion was 271 to 265 against the Boisserin proposal. It is regarded as tantamount to an expression of confidence in the Government.

Immediately after the vote the chamber adjourned.

ROUVIER'S DOWNFALL.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—The Paris correspondent of The Times regards Rouvier's fall as one result of a carefully-concocted plan, which is advancing steadily with complete success.

While it cannot be said that the leaders and the fighters in this campaign against the Republic have already apartment in their stables the black horse pawing with impatience to get out, he continues, it cannot be denied that they are aiming at the destruction of the Republic by rendering it a suspect in the eyes of the country.

This they will doubtless accomplish, for however complete the Panama exposure may be they will always affirm that more was concealed than was revealed. Indeed, should elections occur in the midst of the present excitement, the Conservatives, by showing their power, would be in direct contrast to the torrent of Republican corruption, would be almost certain of success.

The Radicals, with characteristic short-sightedness, may play into their hands. Should a Radical and Royalist coalition accept the Boisserin bill, the overthrow of the Cabinet would precipitate a Cabinet crisis."

Denouncing Freemasonry.

ROME, Dec. 16.—The Pope will shortly send to the Italian bishops and the Italian people a circular letter denouncing Freemasonry. His Holiness will declare that the Freemasons are pursuing the Satanic aim of replacing Christianity by naturalism.

French Revenues.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—The returns of the French Board of Trade show that during November the imports decreased 5,065,000 francs and the exports increased 10,024,000 francs as compared with the corresponding month last year.

A Short Sentence.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—Gwyneth Maude, who pleaded guilty to swindling Spink & Son, silversmiths, was sentenced to three months' imprisonment at hard labor.

A Cholera Survey.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—The Government will appoint a cholera survey similar to those of 1884 and 1886 with a view to preparing for an epidemic next spring and summer.

Pledged to Oppose.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—The Post's Berlin correspondent says that the majority of the Army Bill Committee are pledged to oppose an increase of the peace-footing.

THE WORLD WANTS MONEY.

AND INTENDS TO HAVE PLENTY OF SILVER COINED.

Senator Jones Says That Mono-Metalism Is Driving English Farms Out of Cultivation and Into the Hands of Loan Companies.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 16.—Senator Jones of the American delegation made a strong speech at the Monetary Conference in favor of bi-metallism. He said that the enemies of silver and of every measure of currency reform were the very men who directed attention to the appreciation of gold.

In nature money was a function rather than a material. That function created by law was vastly more important than the material upon which the money function was conferred.

The fact that during the period when science was busiest railways and other works were constructed and wages and prices were advanced disproved the contention that a fall in prices was due to scientific development reducing the cost of production.

Evidence taken before the British Royal Commission in regard to India showed that the rupee to-day purchased as much in India as it ever did. The Indian farmer gets more rupees for the 30 shillings gold which his wheat realizes in London to-day than he did for 40 shillings 10 years ago.

How could Europe and America market their crops in the face of such competition? The fall of prices in England was driving farms out of cultivation and putting the landed interest into the hands of mortgage companies.

The Imperial Will.

Whatever might be the result of the conference, if some measure of relief was not willingly adopted in the near future they might rest assured that ultimately, in spite of the craft, cunning and wiles of the wicked, the great producing masses of the civilized world would crystallize into law their imperial will.

Senator Jones spoke for two hours.

M. Allard of the Belgian delegation then spoke in support of his own plan, which proposed an international agreement for the purchase under a common account of stocks of silver, against which treasury notes shall be issued by the contracting states, none of which will be obliged to coin the silver thus purchased or to modify its existing currency legislation, the treasury notes to have international circulation. In the course of his speech M. Allard complained of the obstructive tactics of the British delegates.

Senor Osma of the Spanish delegation and M. Raffalovitch of the Russian delegation urged the American delegates not to press a vote on the main question at the present stage.

Short speeches were made by Prof. Andrews and Senator Allison of the American delegation. Senator Allison spoke with some warmth. He said that he and his colleagues did not ask for a vote on the main question. They fully appreciated the cordiality with which the question had been approached by all sections of the conference. The proposals already presented to the conference were of such a character that they would, if adopted, impose a heavy burden upon America. The American delegates could not make concessions without compensating amendments. He promised that the United States would accept any scheme that met with general approval.

The next and probably the last session for the present will be held on Tuesday. A proposal will then be made that the conference adjourn to June 6 without discussing.

The delegates will be photographed in a body to-morrow before attending the fete, to be given in their honor at the town hall.

VERY LITTLE TRADE.

Ports in India Are Blocked With Unemployed Shipping.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—A Calcutta special states that Mr. Lindsay, President of the Indian Currency Association, has returned to Calcutta, after giving evidence in London before the Herschell currency commission.

Mr. Mackay says that if the committee reports against a gold standard the commercial men of India must accept the situation. India, he added, would go on with silver as best she could for a few years longer, when further experience with that metal would lead to a change.

In the meantime business is at a low ebb, and the ports are blocked with unemployed shipping. In reply to the question of the banks as to what notice would be given if the mints are closed the Government states that it can say nothing at present.

IRELAND'S PRIESTS.

Said to Have Intimidated Voters General-ly at the Last Elections.

DUBLIN, Dec. 16.—At a meeting of the Parnellite party held yesterday, Dr. Joseph E. Kenny declared that the priestly intimidation disclosed at the hearing of the election petition against the return of Mr. Patrick Fullam, anti-Parnellite, for South Meath, who was unseated for this cause, prevailed throughout Ireland at the last general election.

Mr. Timothy Harrington, M.P., said it was the solemn duty of the hierarchy of Ireland to alter the conduct of the priests. It was a pitiable spectacle, he added, to see holy religion dragged in the mud to uphold the biggest set of political and moral scoundrels the country had ever seen.

Divorce Petition Dismissed.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—Lady Abdy recently petitioned the Divorce Court to grant her a separation from her husband on the ground of his adultery with Madame Benitz. The evidence was heard yesterday, and it was of such a character as proved that Lady Abdy was laboring under delusions regarding Sir William's conduct. Madame Benitz swore that not only had she never maintained immoral relations with Sir William, but that she had never seen him. Other evidence was given, proving beyond a doubt that Lady Abdy was mentally irresponsible. The judge dismissed the petition. Lady Abdy was formerly Marie Therese Peterseka, and prior to her marriage to Sir William in 1883 she resided at Prague.

A Diplomatic Difficulty.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—A despatch from Tientsin states that Mr. O'Connor, the newly appointed British Minister to China, has delivered his credentials to the Emperor. Mr. O'Connor did not insist upon His Majesty giving him an audience in the inner palace, and this action has settled the diplomatic difficulty arising from the Emperor's refusal to hold such ceremonies within the sacred precincts of his palace.

Cotton Duty Increased.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 16.—The Minister of Finance announces that the duty on cotton imported into Russia has been raised to 20 kopecks per loud.

Mrs. Parnell's Affairs.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—The court decided yesterday that a receiver's examination into the affairs of Mrs. Parnell was unnecessary.

Davitt's Indifference.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—There is reason to believe Michael Davitt will not oppose the petition to quash his election.

Rothschild's Mother-in-Law Dead.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—The death of Madame Perugia, mother-in-law of Leopold de Rothschild, is announced.

Dynamite Scare.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—A despatch from Cadiz, Spain, says that a dynamite scare has been caused in that city by the finding of eight bombs in a sewer.

Historian And Scholar.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—August Simonin Luce, historian and scholar, is dead.

Switzerland's Leaders.

BERNE, Dec. 16.—Dr. Charles Schenck has been elected president of the Swiss Confederation and A. Frey vice-president.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RESPECTFULLY solicit your votes and influence for MAYOR of the City of Belleville for 1893. I was born in Belleville and have lived amongst you all my life, and am personally known to the most of you. I have been an Alderman in the City Council for four years, and during that time have endeavored to represent you straightforwardly and faithfully.

My platform is economy in City affairs. If elected I will exert myself to further the best interests of the city.

Yours respectfully,
FRANCIS R. WALLBRIDGE.

Feeble and capricious appetites are best regulated by the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. They do not debilitate, by excessive stimulation; but cause the stomach, liver, and bowels to perform their functions properly. As an after-dinner pill they are unequaled.

We do know of any preparation that has caught the public favor in so short a time as Dodd's Kidney Pills, but when we consider that three-fourths of the Canadian people are afflicted with kidney troubles in some form or other, and that Dodd's Pills are a quick and permanent cure for all these troubles, the large and increasing demand can scarcely be wondered at. Sold by all dealers or by mail on receipt of price 50 cts. per box. Dr. L. A. Smith & Co., Toronto.

Though the soil of Virginia grows the best tobacco leaf in the world, it does not all grow equal qualities. The production even of adjoining counties is often quite different, the one producing leaf which at once deteriorates if grown in the other. The leaf of the "Myrtle Navy" is the product of the choice sections of the State, which, through some combination of local influences, produce a better quality than any others. This is shown by its always commanding a higher price than any other smoking leaf.

SOCIAL & PERSONAL

MR. J. W. CONGER, of the Picton Gazette, was in town to-day.

A Doubt Disposed of.

At the meeting of the Cabinet on Thursday afternoon it was definitely decided that the departments of Inland Revenue and Customs should be under the control and supervision of Hon. Mr. Bowell, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Companions of the Forest.

At the semi-annual election held last evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:—Jennie Taylor, C.C.; Mrs. Jno. York, S.C.C.; Jesse Munro, Rec. Sec.; B. L. Gill, Fin. Sec.; Mrs. Geo. B. Warham, Treas.; Fanny Janoway, R.C.; Mrs. Thos. Waymark, L.C.; Mrs. Ferris, I.C. Physician, Dr. Tracy; Auditors, H. Tammadge, Jennie Taylor, Jno. E. Parks.

University Church S. S. Christmas Tree.

The University Church Sunday School held its annual Christmas entertainment last evening, which was a decided success, both in the way the children rendered their parts and financially, which was very pleasing to those who had the training of them. At half past seven the church was pretty well filled, and about eight o'clock the programme began, which was the cantata, Santa Claus & Co., consisting of choruses by the snow fairies, evergreen fairies and holly fairies, and were well rendered. The hollies did especially well. Their voices were very sweet and clear. The soloists were Miss Ollie Mayhe, Miss Ada Greenleaf, Miss Bessie Lingham, Miss Helen Dyer and Master Sam Turner, who took the character of Jack Frost, and did his part to perfection. His singing was clear and the words distinctly heard. Little Helen Dyer's singing needs special mention. Her voice is very sweet, and every word could be heard. The boys' chorus "See Saw," was another special feature. They did remarkably well in keeping time with their "see saw" to the music and were a credit, and their singing was good. The motion song by the infant class was enjoyed, as usual, by everybody. Mr. Neal, of Albert College, favored the audience with two very fine songs, which were much enjoyed. The part of Santa Claus, which was taken by Mr. Harry Greenleaf, was well done and was especially enjoyed by the children, his long flowing hair and beard and smiling face and kind nature made him seem to be the very Santa himself. Miss Kila Hudgins was Spright, and Miss Annie Hoarkson was Cedar. They both spoke very distinctly, and did their parts nicely. The receipts of the evening will amount to $25, which goes to pay the interest on the debt. The school deserves great credit in the way they get along, they are responsible for the interest on the debt, which is $600, the supplies, all the lesson helps and literature. It has no congregation at its back to ask aid from, it has an average attendance of from 80 to 100, a good staff of teachers, and is under the superintendency of Prof. Dexie, of Albert College.

A Methodist Centenary.

It will be a hundred years on the 27th JAN., 1893 since the first Methodist class was organized in Picton and the event is to be celebrated. The class is still in a very flourishing condition and has had a remarkable career. Its first leader was Andrew Johnson and his second, was his son William Johnson. These two were its leaders for a period of nearly sixty years. Mr. Wm. Vance succeeded the latter for a few months, and upon his leaving Picton, some forty years ago, the present leader Mr. W. H. Johnson, a son of Mr. Wm. Johnson, was placed in charge of it.

Seven Prize Winners.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of this city, has for several years given prizes to the scholars of the public schools who obtain the highest marks at the examinations on the subject of "Scientific Temperance and Hygiene." Seven prizes are to be awarded this year, and are to be distributed at the Central School next Wednesday afternoon. The highest number of marks that could be obtained was 113, and the successful candidates succeeded in getting as follows: Laura Lavoie, 103; Willie Hambly, 100; Elsie Price, 98; May Perry, 97; Carrie Merrin, 96; Ethel Johnson, 94; Florence Tammadge, 94.

I shall for 3 days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, December 15th, 16th and 17th, offer my whole stock of Books, Stationery, Fancy Goods, Musical Instruments, at a reduction of 33-1-3 per cent. No reserve.

E. HARRISON.

Hard at It

These are booming days at the Oak Hall. Every day at this season of the year is just like a Saturday. That we are giving the best value in clothing is shown by the grand business we are doing. In every department our stock is still well assorted, but we would advise our customers not to wait too long, as no matter how good a stock, it will be broken more or less after the holidays.

Week of Prayer.

The arrangements are completed for the local observance of the annual "week of Prayer" as suggested by the Evangelical Association of England, commencing with Sunday the 1st of January, and terminating with the following Sunday. During the week days, meetings are to be held in Bridge St. School rooms from noon until one p.m., and in the evening at various churches.

The Date Fixed.

On Sunday the 22nd of January, the anniversary sermons of Bridge Street Sunday School are to be preached by the Rev. S. G. Bland, B.A., of Cornwall. Mr. Bland is a son of Rev. H. F. Bland, a former pastor of Bridge St. church, and possesses the reputation of being one of the most brilliant of the younger clergymen of the Methodist Church.

The Simmons Trial.

The trial of Warner Simmons on the charge of incendiarism, is still in progress. There were some 18 witnesses examined on behalf of the crown, and 12 on behalf of the defence. Much interest is being manifested in the case. Mrs. Warner Simmons is also accused of aiding and abetting in the alleged offence.

Gratifying to All.

The high position attained and the universal appreciation and approval of the pleasing liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup Company.

Commencement Exercises.

The Annual High School Commencement exercises are to be held on Wednesday evening next in the High School. The pupils here have been prepared for the event by weeks, and expect to present an attractive programme of music, readings, tableaux, etc.

Popular in Quebec.

We mentioned yesterday that Mr. L. J. Frechette, M.P. for Megantic, Que., was in the city. He was on a visit to his son Alphonse, who is a student at Ontario Business College. There are now twelve French speaking students in attendance at the College.

Robbing Schooners.

The cabins of the schooners Annie Minnes, W. J. Suffel and L. D. Bullock, which are in wintering quarters at Port Hope, were broken into on Wednesday night and waterproof garments, clocks and other articles were taken.

—Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McLeod, of West River, Pictou, N.S., have just celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding. They have been total abstainers since 1827.

—A decision has been given in New York which prevents the Westinghouse people from making or selling incandescent lamps. This gives the Edison Company a monopoly.

THE GALLOWS.

Slavin Hanged for the Murder of J. R. Davey.

THE CULPRIT COOL TO THE LAST.

He Refused the Services of any Spiritual Advisers.

CORNWALL, Ont., Dec. 16.—James Slavin, alias McMahon, was executed here this morning at 7:45 for the murder of Capt. J. R. Davey.

The execution was witnessed only by the press, medical profession and a few private citizens, about fifty persons in all.

THE DOOMED MAN'S FATHER

paid him his last visit on Wednesday. The unfortunate son bore up wonderfully well during the conversation, maintaining the same marked indifference that he has shown since his incarceration. The conversation between the two was very brief.

Slavin sent for several of his old friends, to bid them a last good-bye. During his conversation with one, he very frequently referred to the shooting of Davey, saying

"I AM SORRY I SHOT POOR JACK, but had I shot Lefavre and Lafass, I would have died with a good heart. However, I was worked up to such a pitch that had it been my best friend that tried to effect my arrest, the consequence would have been the same."

HIS LAST HOURS.

Slavin talked very freely during the night with the guards, and carried on in a loud manner. He arose about 5:30, and partook of a light breakfast.

At 7:35 hangman Radcliffe entered the cell. Slavin made no resistance, as was at first expected. His hands were pinioned at 7:40 and the march to the scaffold was begun at 7:42.

Slavin was very weak when the noose was placed over his head, he said,

"WELL, GOOD BYE, GENTLEMEN,"

The signal was then given, and the unfortunate man's body bounded from the earth at exactly 7:45. Death was instantaneous.

The body was cut down about ten minutes after and interred in the court house yard in a rough box.

Slavin maintained his wonderful nerve to the last, and refused admission to any spiritual adviser.

Grand Jury Presentment.

The Grand Jury of the Sessions presented their report this morning, and were discharged. A synopsis is herewith given:

We thank your Honor for your lucid and instructive charge to us as Grand Jurors; we are pleased to see that you are enjoying apparent good health, and trust that you may be long spared to fill the office which you have so long and efficiently filled.

We have inspected the gaol, and find the same in a clean and healthy condition; we have heard of no complaint from any person confined therein, and we think that the gaoler, Mr. L. A. Appleby, is entitled to praise for the manner in which he performs his duties.

We visited the Deaf and Dumb Institution and were favorably impressed with the buildings and surroundings. Every attention is given the children by the Principal, Mr. Mathison, and the teachers. We also visited the hospital, and were cordially received by the Matron, Miss Gordon, and shown about the premises, which are provided with everything necessary for the comfort and care of the sickly and friendless. Every praise should be given to the ladies for the Christian work in which they are engaged.

We feel that our thanks are due to Mr. Geo. E. Henderson, Q.C., County town attorney, for his services. Signed,

R. FOKERS,
Foreman.

County Court.

JOHN ROUSE vs. MCRAE BROS & Co.—Piff. is a farmer, resides in north part of the county. Defts. are lumbermen doing business out there. Action to recover amount of an account for services rendered by piff and his son. Defence, claim garnisheed by one Harvett, a creditor of piff.

Verdict for piff. for $200. E Guss Porter for piff; W. B. Northrup for defts.

HENRY BADGASIAN vs. MCRAE BROS. & Co.—Piff. is a farmer residing in Maynooth. Defts. are lumbering in the north part of the county. Piff's brother was engaged by one Murdoff, who contracted with defts to get out saw logs. Piff. alleges that after a time he agreed with his brother to run the camp and board all the men and teams stopping there. Defts knew nothing about this arrangement and sent on supplies and charged them to Murdoff. Piff. got them as he says by purchase from his brother and used them in boarding men and teams, and now sues defts for $148 for board of men and teams. Defence, supplies charged to Murdoff on his contract and board also credited him with the logs got out leaving the camp in their debt. Verdict for defts. E. Guss Porter for piff.; W. B. Northrup for defts.

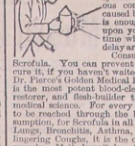

Belleville Y. P. C. A.

Mr. R. J. Colville, Secretary of the Toronto West End Y.P.C.A., will address the Young People's Christian Union in the Baptist Church on Thursday evening, Dec. 22nd, at 8 p.m. All are cordially invited. No one should fail to hear Mr. Colville, who is an enthusiastic and popular speaker. A collection will be taken up to defray expenses.

Decreasing The Death Rate.

The mortality among consumptives has been materially decreased of late years by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Phthisis, Bronchitis, Abscess of the Lungs, Pneumonia and Throat Affections are completely subjugated by a timely use of this excellent pulmonic. Palatable as milk. Sold by all Druggists at 50c. and $1.00

Christmas Books, Prayer-books, Albums, reduced 33 1-3 per cent. at Harrison's.

LIKE A THIEF IN THE NIGHT, Consumption comes. A slight cold, with your system in the scrofulous condition that's caused by impure blood, is enough to fasten it upon you. That is the time when neglect and delay are full of danger.

Consumption is Lung-Scrofula. You can prevent it, and you can cure it, if you haven't waited too long, with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That is the most potent blood-cleanser, strength-restorer, and flesh-builder that's known to medical science. For every disease that has to be reached through the blood, like Consumption, for Scrofula in all its forms, Weak Lungs, Bronchitis, Asthma, and all severe, lingering Coughs, it is the only guaranteed remedy. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

The proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy know that their medicine perfectly and permanently cures Catarrh. To prove it to you, they make this offer. If they can't cure your Catarrh, no matter what your case is, they'll pay you $500 in cash.

How to Cure a Corn.

It is one of the easiest things in the world to cure a corn. Do not use acids or caustic preparations, and don't cut a hole in your boot. It is simply to apply Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, and in three days the corn can be removed without pain. Sure, safe, painless. Take only Putnam's Corn Extractor.

GRASPING, AVARICIOUS CAPITALISTS

ARE WHAT OUR COMPETITORS CALL US!

GRASPING, because we want the trade of the earth! AVARICIOUS, because we hang on to the almighty dollar! CAPITALISTS, beause we have the money to tear them to pieces in the wholesale market!

Well, you can see what it amounts to. Success ever brings envy and distrust. If we were only half as successful, we would be feared only half as much as we are.

Our push and principle alarm our competitors. Our business grip make them wince. Our big sales excite their envy. Our popularity is what they cannot block and must put up with.

Talk of big stocks! Shout of immense piles of goods! GOUGH knows what big stocks mean. Throughout Ontario, in the best towns, GOUGH has clothing stores. It is a notorious fact that he does the trade of the town. He buys cheaper and carries more goods than all his competitors combined.

His last great purchase of wholesale stock at 60c. on the $ is a paralyser. This stock was manufactured by H. Shorey & Co., Montreal, and amounts to over $20,000. Owing to the immense stock already in our main store, we were compelled to open another store next to Dunnet's Dry Goods House. We could not get it all into our main store.

Remember, within six weeks we have captured two stocks, amounting to over $56,000, and when we say we are in a position to sell these goods at less than the ordinary merchant buys for, we can prove it. Ask the railroad people who receives the most goods and they will tell you GOUGH, by ten times. Notwithstanding the low price of wheat and cry of hard times with other merchants, we are head and shoulders ahead of the best sales on record.

DALTON'S FAIR

FRONT STREET.

Santa Claus' Headquarters.

Our endeavors to make the Fair headquarters for Christmas supplies is more marked this fall than at any previous time. Our store, though large, is not sufficient to accommodate the great crowd at Christmas times. We would therefore urge you to make your selections now while the stock is complete and avoid the crush at Christmas time. We have just received 100 cases of fancy goods, such as albums, dolls, toilet brushes, hair brushes, purses, fancy china cups and saucers, vases, jewellery, handsome lemonade sets, glass tea sets, beautifully engraved; our assortment of American glassware must be seen to be appreciated. Never have we been able to offer such bargains in albums, ladies' work boxes, jewel cases, perfume cases, shaving cases, brush and comb cases, games from 5c up, playing cards from 5c up, beautiful whisk holders all the latest styles from 40c up. We have something new in dolls' chairs, dolls' cradles, children's extension tables, sets of furniture, toy picture books, pansy books, magic lanterns 45c up, steam engines, skates, dolls' carriages, children's sleds and cutters strong and durable at lowest prices, novels by the best authors 10c worth 25c, pocket knives and table cutlery an endless variety to choose from. But, perhaps, one of the greatest drives in a special line of extra quality writing paper, 5 quires (120 sheets) for 17c. We will not attempt to enumerate further, but would invite you to call at before purchasing, where you can buy good goods at less than bankrupt prices.

DALTON'S FAIR,

Bitches Cured.

DEAR SIRS,—In 1890 my body was covered with blotches and I was at last induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters; by the time I had used 3½ bottles of it I was completely cured, and I cannot speak too highly of it.

MRS. JAMES DESMOND. Halifax, N. S.

Made With Skill.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skillful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

Out of Sorts—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

The speed of a wild duck is ninety miles an hour.

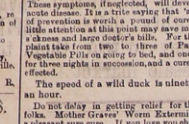

Do not delay in getting relief for the little folks. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is a pleasant sure cure. If you love you child why then do you let it suffer when a remedy is so near at hand.

An adder's bite—The bank clerk's lunch.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world.

DR. WOOD'S

Norway Pine Syrup.

Pich in the lung-healing virtues of the Pine combined with the soothing and expectorant properties of other well known herbs and barks.

A PERFECT CURE FOR COUGHS AND COLDS
Hoarseness, Asthma, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Croup and all THROAT, BRONCHIAL and LUNG DISEASES. Obstinate coughs which resist other remedies yield promptly to this pleasant puny syrup.

PRICE 25C. AND 50C. PER BOTTLE.

NERVE BEANS

NERVE BEANS are a new discovery that cure the worst cases of Nervous Debility, Lost Vigor and Failing Manhood; restores the weakness of body or mind caused by overwork, or the errors of youth. Sold in Belleville by D. M. WATERS.

JUST A WORD

—ABOUT—

Quality and Style

A worthy gift should have in it the substantial elements of quality, so that it need not see its day of usefulness limited to the holiday season. We do not offer inferior articles, but, relative to the price, everything is the best in its line.

We have endeavored in all departments to show the latest styles, patterns and designs the market affords, and we are confident that after you make us a visit and inspect our goods you will come to the conclusion that we have succeeded in every respect. Our stock is Stylish and Beautiful.

BROOKE'S DAUGHTER.

BY

ADELINE SERGEANT,

Author of "A True Friend," etc., etc.

(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

She sauntered back into the front room, and stood at one window for a minute or two. Her attention was speedily attracted by a little pantomime at a window opposite her own—a drawing room window, too, with a balcony before it, like the window at which she stood. A young lady in a white dress was talking to a black poodle, and a young man was balancing a bit of biscuit on the dog's nose. That was all. But the young lady was very extremely pretty, and the young man looked so bright and cheerful, and the poodle was such an extremely fascinating dog, that Lesley sighed in very envy of the felicity of all three. And it never crossed her mind that the pretty girl in the white costume, who had such a simple and natural look, could possibly be Ethel Kenyon, the actress of whom her father had been speaking half an hour before. Yet such was the case.

She was still observing the figures at the window when the door opened, and Sarah announced a visitor.

'Mrs. Romaine, please, ma'am.'

Whereupon Lesley remembered that very old friend whom Mr. Brooke had mentioned. But was this the very old friend? This young and fashionably dressed woman, with short, dark, curlinghair, and a white complexion. Mrs. Romaine was very handsome, without a doubt, but Lesley did not like her.

'Miss Brooke!' said the visitor, in a silvery, flute-like voice, which the girl could not but admire. 'You will forgive me for simply coming so soon? My old friendship with Mr. Brooke—whom I have known for years—made me anxious to see you, dear, as soon as possible. You will receive me also as a friend I hope—'

There could be but one answer. Lesley was delighted.

'I have heard so much of you,' murmured Mrs. Romaine, sitting down with the girl's hand in hers and gazing into her face with liquid, dreamy eyes; 'and I wanted to know if I could not be of use to you. Dear Miss Brooke is so much occupied. I may call you Lesley, may I not? Dear Lesley, it will be the greatest possible pleasure to me to assist you in any way.'

'Thank you very much,' said Lesley rather lamely.

'Dear,' said Mrs. Romaine, 'may I speak to you frankly? I knew your dear mother many years ago—'

'Lesley turned upon her with suddenly kindled eyes.

'You knew mamma?'

'I did, indeed, and I cannot express to you what my feeling was for her. Love, admiration—these seem cold words; worship, Lesley, expresses more nearly what I felt. I hope you wonder that I hasten to welcome her daughter back to her home.'

Lesley's innocent heart warmed to the new comer at once. How unjust she had been, she thought, to shrink for a minute from the visitor because of her youthful and ultra fashionable appearance. Had she not found a friend?—a woman who loved her mother.

Mrs Romaine saw the impression that she had made and did not try to deepen it just then. She went on more lightly.

'I am a widow, you know, and I live in Rossel Square. I hope that you will come and see me sometimes. Drop in whenever you like, and if there is anything I can do for you count on me. You will want to go shopping or making calls sometimes and Miss Brooke is too busy to take you; then you must come to me. And now how was dear Lady Alice when you saw her last?'

Lesley did not like these effusive expressions of affection. But she answered gently—

'Mamma was quite well, thank you.' Which answer did not give Mrs. Romaine all the information that she desired.

'I have been looking at a pretty poodle dog over the way,' she went on, conscious of some desire to change the subject. 'Its mistress has been putting it through all sorts of tricks—ah, there it is again!'

'The Kenyons' dog!' said Mrs. Romaine, smiling, as she looked at the little group which had once more formed itself upon the balcony. 'Oh, I see. That is young Mr. Kenyon, the doctor, a great friend of your father's; and that is his sister Ethel Kenyon, the actress.'

'My father spoke about her,' said Lesley.

'Oh, yes, he admires her very much. He wrote a long article about her in the Tribune once. Do you see the Tribune regularly? Your dear father writes a great deal for it, and I am sure you must appreciate his exquisite writing.'

'Do you know Miss Kenyon too?'

'Oh, yes, I know her very well. And I expect to know her very soon, because I suppose we shall be connections before long.'

Lesley looks a smiling inquiry.

'I have a younger brother—my brother Oliver,' said Mrs. Romaine, with a little laugh; 'and younger brothers, dear, have a knack of falling in love. He has fallen in love with Ethel, who really is a nice girl, as well as a pretty and clever girl, and I believe they will be married by and by.'

Lesley could not have said why, but somehow at that moment she was distinctly glad of the fact.

CHAPTER VII.

OLIVER'S INTENTIONS.

'Well, what is she like?' Oliver Trent asked, lightly, of his sister Rosalind, when they met that evening at dinner.

'Lesley Brooke! She is a handsome girl,' said Mrs. Romaine, with some reserve of manner.

'Nothing more!'

His sister waited until the servant had left the room before she replied.

'I wish you would be discreet, Oliver. My servants are often at the Brookes' with messages. I should not like them to repeat what you are saying.'

Oliver shrugged his shoulders with the air of a man to whom women's caprices are incomprehensible. But he was silent until dessert was placed upon the table, and Mrs. Romaine's neat parlor-maid had disappeared.

'Now,' he said, 'you can unburden your mind in peace.'

'Oliver,' said Mrs. Romaine, abruptly, 'I want you to make Miss Brooke's acquaintance as you can. I don't understand her and I think that you can help me.'

'As how?'

'Oh, don't be silly. You always get on with girls, and you can tell me what you think of her.'

Oliver raised his eyebrows, took a peach from the dish before him, and began to peel it with great deliberation.

'Handsome, you say?'

'Very.'

'Like Lady Alice? I remember her; a willowy, shadowy creature, with a sort of ethereal loveliness which appealed very strongly to my imagination when I was a boy.'

Mrs. Romaine flushed a little. It occured that she had never been called shadowy or ethereal-looking.

'She is much more substantial than Lady Alice,' she said, drily. 'I should say that she had more individuality about her. She looks to me like a girl of character and intellect.'

In which case your task will be more difficult, you mean?'

'I don't know what you mean by a task. I have not set myself to do anything definite.'

'No? Then you are very unlike your sex, Rosalind. I generally find women much too definite—damnably so.'

'Well, then, I must be an exception. You are always trying to entrap me into damaging admissions, Oliver, and I won't put up with it. All I want is to make sure that Lady Alice shall not return to her husband. But there is nothing definite in that.'

'Oh, nothing at all,' said Oliver satirically. 'All that you have got to do is to prejudice father and daughter against each other as much as possible, make Brooke believe that the girl has been set against him by her mother, persuade Miss Brooke that her father is not the sort of man that Lady Alice can return to. Nothing definite in that, is there?'

(To be Continued.)

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Hor & Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hazyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were no more. The warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

MRS. WM. CRAIG, Brighton, Ont.

Little Jennie Was Cured.

DEAR SIRS,—My little Jennie was very bad with La Grippe, which left a bad cough. I gave her Hazyard's Pectoral Balsam and it soon cured her.

Our endeavors to make the Fair headquarters for Christmas supplies is more marked this fall than at any previous time. Our store, though large, is not sufficient to accommodate the great crowd at Christmas times. We would therefore urge you to make your selections now while the stock is complete and avoid the crush at Christmas time. We have just received 100 cases of foreign goods, such as albums, dolls, tooth brushes, hair brushes, purses, fancy china cups and saucers, vases, jewellery, handsome lemonade sets, glass tea sets beautifully engraved; our assortment of American glassware must be seen to be appreciated. Never have we been able to offer such bargains in albums, ladies' work boxes, jewel cases, perfume cases, shaving cases, brush and comb cases, games from 5c up, playing cards from 5c up, beautiful whisk holders all the latest styles from 49c up. We have something new in dolls' chairs, dolls' cradles, children's extension tables, sets of furniture, toy picture books, pansy books, magic lanterns 49c up, steam engines, skates, dolls' carriages, children's sleds and cutters strong and durable at lowest prices, novels by the best authors 10c worth 25c, pocket knives and table cutlery an endless variety to choose from. But, perhaps, one of the greatest drives is a special line of extra quality writing paper, 5 quires (120 sheets) for 17c. We will not attempt to enumerate further, but would invite you to call at

"It Cured Mother."

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicinal herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Pudding with a hair in it is sweetness wasted on a dessert hair.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion is occasioned by want of action in the biliary ducts, loss of vitality in the stomach to secrete the gastric juices, without which digestion cannot go on; also, being the principal cause of Headache. THE MOTHER OF US ALL.

GOD COMFORTS HIS PEOPLE AS A MOTHER HER CHILDREN.

A Mother's Simplicity of Instruction—A Mother's Favoritism—A Mother's Capacity for Tending to Little Troubles—A Mother's Way of Putting a Child to Sleep.

BROOKLYN, Dec. 11.—Rev. Dr. Talmage to-day, in selecting a subject for his sermon, chose an aspect of the Divine character which is seldom considered. To an unusually large audience he discoursed on God as "The Mother of All," the text being taken from Isaiah 66, 13: "As one whom his mother comforteth, so will I comfort you."

The Bible is a warm letter of affection from a parent to a child, and yet there are many who see chiefly the severer passages. As there may be fifty or sixty nights of gentle dew in one summer, that will not cause as much remark as one hail-storm of half an hour, so there are those who are more struck by those passages of the Bible that announces the indignation of God than by those that announce his affection. There may come to a household twenty or fifty letters of affection during the year, and they will not make as much excitement in that home as one sheriff's writ; and so there are people who are more attentive to those passages which announce the judgments of God, than to those which announce His mercy and His favor. God is a Lion, John says in the Book of Revelation. God is a Breaker, Micah announces in his prophecy. God is a Rock. God is a King. But hear also that God is Love. A father and his child are walking out in the fields on a summer's day, and there comes up a thunder storm, and there is a flash of lightning that startles the child, and the father says, "My dear, that is God's eye." There comes a peal of thunder, and the father says, "My dear, that is God's voice." But the clouds go off the sky, and the storm is gone, and light floods the heavens and floods the landscape, and the father forgets to says, "That is God's smile."

The text of the morning bends with great gentleness and love over all who are prostrate in sin and trouble. It lights up with compassion. It melts with tenderness. It breathes upon us the hush of an eternal lullaby, for it announces that God is our mother. "As one whom his mother comforteth, so will I comfort you."

I remark, in the first place, that God has a mother's simplicity of instruction. A father does not know how to teach a child the A, B, C. Men are not skilful in the primary department; but a mother has so much patience that she will tell a child for the hundredth time the difference between F and G, and between I and J. Though we are told a thing a thousand times, and we do not understand it, our heavenly Mother goes on, line upon line, precept upon precept, here a little and there a little. God has been teaching some of us thirty years, and some of us sixty years, one word of one syllable, and we do not know it yet—faith, faith. When we come to that word we stumble, we halt, we lose our place, we pronounce it wrong. Still, God's patience is not exhausted. God, our Mother, puts us in the school of prosperity, and the letters are in sunshine, and we cannot spell them. God puts us in the school of adversity, and the letters are black, and we cannot spell them. If God were merely a king, he would punish us; if he were simply a father, he would whip us; but God is a mother, and so we are borne with and helped all the way through.

God wishes to set forth the fact that in the judgment and good will be divided from the wicked. How is it done? By a picture; by a parable—a fishing scene. A group of hardy men, long-bearded, geared for standing to the waists in water; sleeves rolled up. Long oar, sungilt; boat battered as though it had been a playmate of the storm. A full net, thumping about with the fish, which have just discovered their captivity, the worthless moss-bunkers and the useful flounders all in the same net. The fisherman puts his hand down amid the squirming fins, takes out the moss-bunkers and throws them into the water, and gathers the good fish into the pail. So, says Christ, it shall be at the end of the world. The bad He will cast away, and the good He will keep. Another picture, God, our Mother, wanted to set forth the duty of neighborly love, and it is done by a picture. A heap of wounds on the road to Jericho. A traveller has been fighting a robber. The robber stabbed him and knocked him down. Two ministers come along. They look at the poor fellow, but do not help him. A traveller comes along — a Samaritan. He says "Whoa!" to the beast he is riding, and dismounts. He examines the wounds; he takes out some wine, and with it washes the wounds, and then he takes some oil, and puts that in to make the wound stop smarting; and then he tears off a piece of his own garment for a bandage. Then he helps the wounded man upon the beast, and walks by the side, holding him on until they come to a tavern. He says to the landlord, "Here is money to pay the man's board for two days; take care of him; if it costs anything more, charge it to me, and I will pay it." Picture—The Good Samaritan, or Who is Your Neighbor.

Does God, our Mother, want to set forth what a foolish thing it is to go away from the right, and how glad divine mercy is to take back the wanderer? How is it done? By a picture. A good father. Large farm with fat sheep and oxen. Fine house, with exquisite wardrobe. Discontented boy. Goes away. Sharpers fleece him. Feeds hogs. Gets homesick. Starts back. Sees an old man running. It is father! The hand, torn of the husks, gets a ring. The foot, inflamed and bleeding, gets a sandal. The bare shoulder, showing through the tatters, gets a robe. The stomach, knawing itself with hunger, gets a full platter smoking with meat. The father cannot eat for looking at the returned adventurer. Tears running down the face until they come to a smile—the night dew melting into the morning. No work on the farm that day; for when a bad boy repents, and comes back again, promising to do better, God knows that is enough for one day. "And they began to be merry." Picture—Prodigal son returned from the wilderness. So God, our Mother, teaches us everything by pictures. The sinner is a lost sheep. Jesus is the bridegroom. The useless man a barren fig tree. The Gospel is a great supper. Satin, a sower of tares. Truth, a mustard seed. That which we could not have understood in the abstract statement, God, our Mother, presents to us in this Bible-album of pictures, God-engraved. Is not the divine Maternity ever thus teaching us?

I remark again, that God has a mother's favoritism. A father sometimes shows a sort of favoritism. Here is a boy—strong, well, of high forehead and quick intellect. The father says, "I will take that boy into my firm yet;" or, "I will give him the very best possible education." There are instances where, for the culture of the one boy, all the others have been robbed. A sad favoritism; but that is not the mother's favorite. I will tell you her favorite. There is a child who at two years of age had a fall. He has never got over it. The scarlet fever muffled his hearing. He is not what he once was. That child has caused the mother more anxious nights than all the other children. If he coughs in the night, she springs out of a sound sleep and goes to him. The last thing she does when going out of the house is to give a charge in regard to him. The first thing on coming in is to ask in regard to him. Why, the children of the family all know that he is the favorite, and say, "Mother, you let him do just as he pleases, and you give him a great many things which you do not give us. He is your favorite." The mother smiles; she knows it is so. So he ought to be; for if there is anyone in the world that needs sympathy more than another, it is an invalid child, weary on the first mile of life's journey; carrying an aching head, a weak side, an irritated lung. So the mother ought to make him a favorite. God, our Mother, has favorites. "Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth." This is, one whom he especially loves he chasteneth. God loves us all; but is there one weak, and sick, and sore, and wounded, and suffering, and faint? That is the one who lies nearest and more perpetually on the great, loving heart of God. Why it never coughs but our Mother, God, hears it. It never stirs a weary limb in the bed but our Mother, God, knows of it. There is no such a watcher as God. The best nurse may be overborne by fatigue, and fall asleep in the chair, but God, our Mother, after being up a year of nights with a suffering child, never slumbers or sleeps.

When I see God especially busy in troubling and trying a Christian, I know that out of that Christian's character there is to come some especial good. After a while the mantle of affliction will fall off, and his soul will be greeted by the one hundred and forty-four thousand, and the thousands of thousands, as more than conqueror. Oh, my friends, God, our Mother, is just as kind in our afflictions as our prosperities. God never touches us but for our good. If a field clean and cultured is better off than a barren field, and if a stone that has become a statute is better off than the marble in the quarry, then that soul that God chastens may be his favorite. Oh, the rocking of the soul is not the rocking of an earthquake, but the rocking of God's cradle. "As one whom his mother comforteth, so will I comfort you." I have been told that the pearl in an oyster is merely the result of a wound, or a sickness inflicted upon it, and I do not know but that the brightest gems of heaven will be found to have been the wounds of earth kindled into the jeweled brightness of eternal glory.

I remark that God has a mother's capacity for attending to little hurts. The father is shocked at the broken bone of the child, or at the sickness that sets the cradle on fire with fever, but it takes the mother to sympathize with all the little ailments and little bruises of the child. If the child have a splinter in its hand, it wants the mother to take it out, and not the father. The father says, "Oh, that is nothing," but the mother knows it is something, and that a little hurt sometimes is very great. So with God, our Mother; all our annoyances are important enough to look at and sympathize with. Nothing with God is something. There are no ciphers in God's arithmetic. And if we were only good enough of sight, we could see as much through a microscope as through a telescope. Those things that may be impalpable and infinitesimal to us, may be pronounced and infinite to God.

I remark farther that God has a mother's patience for the erring. If one does wrong first his associates in life cast him off; if he goes on in the wrong way, his business partner casts him off; if he goes on, his best friends cast him off——his father casts him off. But after all others have cast him off, where does he go? Who holds no grudge, and forgives the last time as well as the first? Who sits by the murderer's counsel all through the long trial? Who tarries the longest at the windows of a culprit's cell? Who, when all others think ill of a man, keeps on thinking well of him? It is his mother. God bless her grey hairs, if she be still alive, and bless her grave, if she be gone! And bless the rocking-chair in which she used to rock, and bless the Bible she used to read! So God, our Mother, has patience for all the erring. After everybody else has cast a man off, God, our Mother, comes to the rescue. God leaps to take charge of a bad case. After all the other doctors have got through, the heavenly Physician comes in. Human sympathy at such a time does not amount to much. Even the sympathy of the Church, I am sorry to say, often does not amount to much. I have seen the most harsh and bitter treatment on the part of those who professed faith in Christ toward those who were wavering and erring. They tried on the wanderer sarcasm, and Billingsgate, and caricature, and they tried tittle-tattle. There was one thing they did not try, and that was forgiveness. A soldier in England was brought by a sergeant to the Colonel. "What," says the Colonel, "bringing the man here again! We have tried everything with him." "Oh, no," says the sergeant, "there is one thing you have not tried. I would like you to try that." "What is that?" said the Colonel. Said the man, "Forgiveness." The case had not gone so far but that it might take that turn, and so the Colonel said, "Well, young man, you have done so and so. What is your excuse?" "I have no excuse, but I am very sorry," said the man. "We have made up our minds to forgive you," said the colonel. The tears started. He had never been accosted in that way before. His life was reformed, and that was the starting point for a positively Christian life. Oh, church of God, quit your sarcasm when a man falls! Quit your irony, quit your tittle-tattle and try forgiveness. God, your Mother, tries it all the time. A man's sins may be like a continent, but God's forgiveness is like the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, bounding it on both sides.

The Bible often talks about God's hand. God's hand is a mother's hand. What it touches it heals. If it smites you it does not hurt as if it were another hand. Oh, you poor wandering soul in sin, it is not a bailiff's hand that seizes you to-day. It is not a hard hand. It is not an unsympathetic hand. It is not a cold hand. It is not an enemy's hand. No, it is a gentle hand, a loving hand, a sympathetic hand, a soft hand, a mother's hand.

I want to say, finally, that God has a mother's way of putting a child to sleep. You know there is no cradle-song like a mother's. After the excitement of the evening it is almost impossible to get the child to sleep. If the rocking-chair stop a moment, the eyes are wide open; but the mother's patience and the mother's soothing manner keeps on until, after awhile, the angel of slumber puts his wing over the pillow. Well, my dear brothers and sisters in Christ, the time will come when we will be wanting to be put to sleep. The day of our life will be done, and the shadows of the night of death will be gathering around us. Then we want God to soothe us, to hush us to sleep. Let the music at our going not be the dirge of the organ, or the knell of the church tower, or the drumming of a "dead march," but let it be the hush of a mother's lullaby. Oh! the cradle of the grave will be soft with the pillow of all the promises. When we are being rocked into that last slumber, I want this to be the cradle song: "As one whom a mother comforteth, so will I comfort you."

> Asleep in Jesus! Far from thee
> Thy kindred and their graves may be;
> But thine is still a blessed sleep,
> From which none ever wake to weep.

A Scotchman was dying. His daughter Nellie sat by the bedside. It was Sunday evening, and the bell of the church was ringing, calling the people to church. The good old man, in his dying dream, thought that he was on the way to church, as he used to be when he went in the sleigh across the river; and as the evening bell struck up, in his dying dream he thought it was the call to church. He said, "Hark, children, the bells are ringing; we shall be late; we must make the mare step out quick!" He shivered, and then said, "Pull the buffalo robe up closer, my lass! It is cold crossing the river; but we will soon be there, Nellie, we will soon be there!" And he smiled and said, "Just there now." No wonder he smiled. The good old man had got to church. Not the old country church, but the temple in the skies. Just across the river. How comfortably did God hush that old man to sleep! As one whom his mother comforteth, so God comforteth him.

PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

Will Probably Assemble on Thursday, January the 26th.

OTTAWA, Dec. 17.—To-day's Canada Gazette will not, as was generally expected, contain any notice of the calling of Parliament for the despatch of business, but it is believed that the matter has been practically settled and that Thursday, Jan. 26, has been decided on as the day for the opening of the third session of the seventh Parliament of Canada.

It will be remembered some time ago it was mentioned in this correspondence that a very numerously-signed petition had been received by the Governor-General, praying for the exercise of executive clemency in the case of Robert McGreevy, who was condemned by Judge Bosse on April 22 last to 12 months' imprisonment in consequence of a suit brought against him by his brother, the Hon. Thomas McGreevy. When "Bob" found that he was likely to be convicted he "jumped his bail" and joined his friend, the notorious Owen Murphy, who had preceded him to New York. After a while he grew tired of exile, returned to Canada, delivered himself up, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to one year's imprisonment. In his remarks while passing sentence Judge Bosse said that taking into account the prisoner's age and the state of his health he would have been disposed to regard six months as sufficient punishment had it not been for the act of contempt of court by escaping from its jurisdiction, and for this latter offence he increased the term of sentence to one year. The petition for clemency has been some time under the consideration of the Minister of Justice, who finally reported to His Excellency that in view of the fact that the prisoner had voluntarilly surrendered himself he thought three months would have been sufficient punishment for the attempted escape from justice, and His Excellency, concurring in this view, has been pleased to order a remission of three months of the term of imprisonment, and McGreevy will consequently be released on Jan. 22.

An order in council has been passed appointing Mr. J. H. Balderson, private secretary to the Hon. J. G. Haggart, secretary of the Department of Railways and Canals in place of Mr. A. P. Bradley. Mr. Balderson was for several years in the office of the auditor-general, and on the entrance of Hon. Mr. Haggart into the Ministry as Postmaster-General he was appointed private secretary, a position he has filled most admirably. For some time past he has been combining the duties of acting secretary of the department with his own and has proved himself a most capable and efficient officer. Who will be his successor in the private secretaryship is not known at present, but it is considered most probable that it will be Captain H. H. Gray of the Postoffice Department.

Mr. Collingwood Schreiber, Deputy Minister and Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, returned to-day from his inspection of the "Soo" Canal. He reports that he found that the work had progressed very satisfactorily, and very good progress had been made in the construction of the lock. There are no masons at work at present, but there are a number of men still engaged in excavating the approaches to the lock. There is a large quantity of stone on the ground, and there is every indication that the contractor will be ready to commence work vigorously as early as possible in the spring.

The contract for the heating apparatus for the public buildings at Orillia has been let by the Public Works Department to Messrs. McGuire & Bird of Toronto.

To-morrow's Canada Gazette will contain notice of the calling to the Senate of Hon. Mackenzie Bowell in place of Hon. George Alexander, whose seat was declared vacant; also the following appointments: Hon. Samuel Henry Strong as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, in place of the late Chief Justice Sir William Johnstone Ritchie; Rowan Robert Fitzgerald, Q.C., of Charlottetown, to be judge of the City Court of Charlottetown; Edward E. Theriau of Belliveau's Cove, N.S., and Henry Dennis Chantrell of the District of Surry, British Columbia, sub-collector of Customs.

Frederic Nicholls, managing director of the Canadian General Electric Company (limited), gives notice of the passing of a bylaw increasing the number of directors of the company to 12.

During November the amount deposited in the Government savings banks was $250,264, and amount withdrawn $295,680. The balance at credit of depositors on Nov. 30 was $17,091,458.

Abel Seneca Weeks of Clinton, Ont., having passed the necessary examination, has been granted a commission as Dominion Land Surveyor.

The first three notes signed by Hon. John Costigan as Secretary of State will appear in to-morrow's Canada Gazette. They announce the granting of letters patent increasing the capital of the Canada Switch Manufacturing Co., limited, from $50,000 to $100,000; incorporating the Weather and Waterproof Paint Co. of Canada, with capital $5000, and incorporating the Montreal Silk Mills Co., capital $75,000.

Notice is given of application to Parliament to incorporate a fraternal society called "The Woodmen of the World," with headquarters at London, Ont.

Quite a large number of notices of application to Parliament for incorporation of railway companies and amendments to existing charters will appear in to-morrow's Gazette.

The amount of Inland Revenue accrued during November was $781,295, being an increase of $44,869 over the same month last year.

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—The disclosures in regard to Herr Loewe's offer to manufacture rifles for France have greatly weakened Chancellor Caprivi in the estimation of the Reichstag and lessened in proportion the prospects for the passage of the Army bill.

ORIENTAL STUPOR GONE

CONCERTED ACTION TO BE TAKEN BY UNCLE SAM'S CHINAMEN.

The Exclusion Act in the United States To Be Fought—There Will Be No Recourse to Arms, but the Chinese Government Will Retaliate.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 1 .—A strong concerted movement has been started by the Chinese of the United States to resist the Chinese Exclusion Act. Hon Yung Wung, formerly Commissioner of Education for the Chinese Government, writes Rev. E. A. Donohue of this city that three different plans of resistance have been decided upon.

The constitutionality of the act will first be tested. Then the Oriental Club of New York will try to arouse public sympathy through mass meetings, and Congress will be flooded with petitions demanding a repeal of the law. A poll tax of $1 a head will be levied on every Chinaman in the United States to defray expenses. This will mean a fund of over $100,000.

Finally the Chinese Government will protest, and failing retaliation will follow. There will be no recourse to arms, but there will be an abrogation of treaty rights. All commercial communication will be shut off and the Government will cease protection to the 1500 American merchants and the several hundred missionaries now in China.

A PLOT THAT FAILED.

Four Officers Burned and Prisoners Are to Be Shot.

VALPARAISO, Dec. 17.—The prisoners taken in connection with the recently discovered revolutionary plot are in prison under a strong military guard, and are denied communication with each other or with outside parties. The examination of the prisoners revealed little of interest. They generally refused to make statements compromising others, though it was found that the wife of Claudio Vicuna had been supplying funds for the plotters. Vicuna is going to Europe from Buenos Ayres, now that the plot has failed. The Conservatives in Congress intend asking for the full data from the Government in relation to the plot.

A correspondent in Rio Grande telegraphs that there is no doubt that the Castilpasta chiefs have given orders that all federal officers taken prisoners shall be shot. On the Uruguayan frontier the troops are preserving a semblance of neutrality. At Cacimbinhas four Federal officers were burned to death. The Government papers are attacking Uruguay for allowing the Federals facilities and the papers of Montevideo are on the warpath and declare the insults to Uruguay by the Government of Rio Grande can only be wiped out by war with Brazil.

Trouble in Chitral.

SIMLA, Dec. 17.—Advices received here show that the Nizam Ul-Mulk, who recently drove Sher-Afzul-Khan, the usurping ruler of Chitral, from the capital, has now regained all of Chitral, and has requested Dr. Robertson, the British representative at Chitral, to instal him as Mehitar.

Sher-Afzul-Kahn, it is said, has fled the country and taken refuge with the Afghans. It is thought the trouble in Chitral will now end. The Ameer of Afghanistan will probably be called upon to explain the part he took in the affair.

Few Sweets in Office.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Dec. 17.—For the next three months no official salaries will be paid in Samoa except those of the Chief Justice and the President of the Council. Even the King is not exempt. The prevailing destitution is the cause of this action.

Germany's Army Bill.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—A Berlin correspondent, referring to the German Army bill says he believes a compromise will be arranged during the recess, giving a legal basis for a two years' service with about one half of the proposed increase of the peace footing.

DREADFUL PSORIASIS

Covering Entire Body with White Scales. Suffering Fearful. Cured by Cuticura.

My disease (psoriasis) first broke out on my left cheek, spreading across my nose, and almost covering my face. It ran into my eyes, and the physician was afraid I would lose my eyesight altogether. It spread all over my head, and my hair all fell out, until I was entirely bald-headed; it then broke out on my arms and shoulders, until my arms were just one sore. It covered my entire body, my face, head, and shoulders being the worst. The white scabs fell constantly from my head, shoulders, and arms; the skin would thicken and be red and very itchy, and would crack and bleed if scratched. After spending many hundreds of dollars, I was pronounced incurable. I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using two bottles CUTICURA RESOLVENT, I could see a change; and after I had taken four bottles, I was almost cured; and when I had used six bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, one box of CUTICURA, and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years. I cannot express with a pen what I suffered before using the REMEDIES. They saved my life, and I feel it my duty to recommend them. My hair is restored as good as ever, and so is my eyesight.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY DEC. 17

A COMPLIMENT TO MR. WOOD.

The Toronto Evening Star—organ of the labor party—pays the following well deserved compliment to Mr. A. F. Wood, M. P.P.:

Mr. A. F. Wood, M.P.P., is spoken of for the Conservative nomination in North Hastings, the seat in the Commons having been made vacant by the retirement of Hon Mackenzie Bowell to the Senate. In many cases the change from the Legislature is regarded as promotion for a politician, and on general principle Mr. Wood might well be glad to receive a nomination which would mean certain election to a place in the larger arena. But as a new man in the Commons Mr. Wood will, as he says, occupy an inferior position to that which he now occupies. It is a recognized fact that the Conservative Opposition in the Legislature is exceedingly weak; but among the best men behind the leader is Mr. A. F. Wood. In the event of the Government being defeated—and that is always a possibility, and may be much nearer at hand than many people fancy—Mr. Wood would be one of those certain to be named as Cabinet Ministers. If he goes to the Commons the Opposition in the Legislature will be still further weakened, for there is no man of Mr. Wood's training and experience ready to take his place. It would seem, as well as in the interest of his party and of the province at large, Mr. Wood should remain in the Legislature.

Our contemporary will learn with pleasure that Mr. Wood, no doubt moved by a desire to serve his party and his constituents where he can do most useful, will remain in the Legislature.

NORTH HASTINGS.

Much more than the usual interest attached to the selection of a candidate for the Commons by the Conservative convention which met at Madoc on Friday, the 16th inst. For the past twenty-five years the party in the riding have been so unanimous in the support of the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, that the holding of conventions for the selection of a candidate became little more than a matter of form.

With the retirement of the hon. gentleman, however, on his elevation to the Senate, the situation underwent a complete change. Resident in the riding were a number of gentlemen whose abilities and whose service to the party entitled them to aspire to the position, and the names of those of them who would have been willing to contest the riding were submitted to the convention.

The choice fell upon Mr. A. W. Carscallen, of Marmora, who was formerly Reeve of that municipality, and has for the past two years been President of the Liberal-Conservative Association of North Hastings.

Mr. Carscallen, who carries on a private bank in the village of Marmora, is a shrewd business man, and is well known and popular in all parts of the riding. He is interested in mining to a considerable extent, and, by free use of his capital and energetic efforts on behalf of the mining interests of North Hastings has been largely instrumental in spreading abroad a knowledge of the mines of the district which seems likely to be productive of important results at an early day.

When a member of the County Council, Mr. Carscallen proved himself a good debater as d, in all respects, a useful member of that body. That he will prove an able, energetic and intelligent representative of the interests of North Hastings in the House of Commons there can be no doubt whatever.

The nomination has been everywhere received with satisfaction, Mr. Carscallen having been warmly congratulated in the convention by Messrs. Caslcy, Haggerty, and the other nominees. As evidence of the popular feeling in the riding, we give the following :

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

ORAMEL, Dec. 16, 1892

The selection to day by the Convention at Madoc of A. W. Carscallen, of Marmora, as the Conservative standard bearer in North Hastings is received here with marked approval. Mr. Carscallen's early and varied business experience as a lumberman, merchant, miner, banker, etc. has thoroughly assimilated him with all the interests of the riding, while his undoubted ability to which he attained in civic affairs not only marks him as a man of ability, but has given him the best of all training for the larger arena of Dominion legislation.

It is with feelings akin to sorrow that the Conservatives of North Hastings part with their veteran representative, Hon. Mr. Bowell, whose distinguished services to his country have well merited the exalted position to which he has been called ; but in parting with him, they are proud to know that his mantle is to descend upon no unworthy shoulders. They feel confident that their genial "shanty boy" will bear to the line so long followed by their " primer's devil, and that he will ever be found true to Canada and the Empire.

NEMO.

We congratulate the convention on their choice, and Mr. Carscallen on having received the confidence of the representatives of the Conservative party in the great and progressive constituency of North Hastings.

USED HER BROTHER'S NAME.

And Then Found Her Husband's Name More Handy.

One of the Most Remarkable Cases Ever Heard in Canada. Results in the Acquittal of the Accused—Milton's Cause Celebre Attracts More People to the Town Hall Than the Annual Fair—A Farmer's Wife Admits Forging Her Husband's Name to Notes For $2000.

MILTON, Ont., Dec. 17.—The little court house at Milton was yesterday morning crowded as never before in its history by residents of the town and county, anxious to see what might turn up at the trial of "Davie" Robson, the young broker charged with forgery. Robson is a son of Alderman Andford, recently President of the Commercial Hotel. Born and brought up in the town, he is known to almost every person in the county. The other parties concerned in the case are also universally well known, and it is safe to say that Milton has never witnessed a trial which created so much interest. It will in future be referred to as the cause celebre of the county.

The charge upon which Robson was placed on his trial was that on Dec. 1 last he uttered a forged note for $300 payable to Mr. Nelson R. J. Campbell purporting to bear the signatures of John Dixon and Matilda Dixon, his wife. This is the note:

$300. MILTON, Dec. 1, 1892.

Twelve months after date I promise to pay to R. J. Campbell or bearer the sum of three hundred dollars. With interest as agreed per cent. JOHN D. NOW.
MATILDA DIXON.

During the past few years many notes purporting to bear the signature of John Dixon have been discounted through various channels in Milton, principally the Bank of Hamilton. Dixon is a farmer residing on lot 14, con. 4, Trafalgar, and who also owns 200 acres in Nelson township, his eating being placed at $18,000.

Since the arrest of Robson, notes bearing Dixon's signature and aggregating in value $3100 have turned up. Here is the list:

Notes (3) of John Jones	$600
" (2) R. Dick	200
" William Sinclair	200
" Hugh Campbell	200
" William McClelland	200
" James Hendershot	100
" Dr. Stewart	100
" Henry Carrington	300
" John Sprost	300
" R. J. Campbell	300
	$3100

Matilda Dixon, wife of John Dixon, has admitted having forged her husband's name to all of these notes with the exception of one, and made payable to McClelland and Campbell, and these the prosecution claimed Robson uttered. For the past ten days all of the notes with the exception of the two named have been taken up and paid by Jacob and Elijah Dixon, brothers of John Dixon, and the evidence against the woman has thus been destroyed. Nelson Wm. Dixon did with the proceeds of the notes for $3600, which she admits having forged, is a great mystery as ever, all efforts of counsel and others to draw the truth from her having proved ineffectual. One theory is that she speculated on wheat in Toronto, the fact that she borrowed $40 from Charles Lennox, dentist in the Arcade, on Oct. 5 last, during a visit to the Queen City, being cited in support of this theory. Another is that she used the money to aid her daughters and her "poor relations." Dixon being generally regarded as a "close" man, with all that the term implies. This is all conjecture, however, for all efforts to induce either Mrs. Dixon or her husband to reveal the hole into which the money so mysteriously has been unsuccessful.

It came out in evidence that the woman first tried her hand at forging the name of her brother, George Ford, many years ago, a note purporting to have been signed by him having been discounted by her at the Bank of Hamilton.

No person believes that as the result of her manifold forgeries Mrs. Dixon realized much. She was in the hands of sharks and they bled her. All she is known to have got cash for was the $40 commission of the negotiator of the loan, in at least one case aggregating 25 per cent., was taken out of that. Fourteen months ago one or two discounters of the paper were aware that Mrs. Dixon was signing her husband's name without his authority and they made terms accordingly. It is stated that when Dixon married Miss Ford she was unable to write and he taught her. How she profited by the lesson has been told.

In addition to the immense crowd of farmers in the court room there was a deerhound, two fox terriers and a coolie, and they manifested their disapproval of the proceedings at various stages.

Mr. John Wright, for 25 years representative of the county in the House of Commons, occupied a front seat and watched the proceedings through a pair of bran new spectacles (price $1.50).

Miss May Little, a petite blonde, officiated as court stenographer, and the duties took the precaution to have her sworn to take the evidence correctly entering upon her duties, knowing the penchant of reporters for drawing upon their imaginations.

It was exactly 10.45 when Judge Kingsmill entered from the door in the wall and took his seat on the bench. The prisoner, who had been on bail, entered dock and the case was called. Robson is a heavily-built youth of 23 years, short, sandy mustache, walks with a crutch, one of his legs being much shorter than the other. He appeared totally unconcerned, and his case interested Queen's counsel, Mr. J. E. Fullerton of Toronto and J. W. Elliott of Milton. County Crown Attorney T. G. Mathews prosecuted and Mr. Duncan McGibbon looked after the interests of Mrs. Dixon.

Mr. Fullerton took exception to the trial of the case by the jury, claiming that the jury did not come under a county father's jurisdiction, and quoted the case of Lewis Lavalier, tried in the York County Court for forging a check for $35 on the Quebec Bank, and which had been appealed; judgment on the appeal is still pending. The judge noted the objection, but decided to proceed under the powers conferred by the Ontario Statutes, chapter 18, section 3.

Robert J. Campbell of the sixth line, Trafalgar, the man who laid the information, was the first witness called. He is a hard-headed Scotchman, bonded like the part, and during the evidence kept his right hand deep in his trousers pocket, while with the left he alternately stroked his whiskers or rubbed his knee-cap. Campbell told of his visit to Robson, and his enquiries as to whether he had any notes to dispose of, of Robson's reply that he had a note made by Matilda Dixon, of his (witness') refusal to discount the note unless it was also signed by Dixon in Robson's presence, and of the production a few days later of the note by Robson, and the latter's statement that the lines marked that the signature "John Dixon" looked like a woman's writing, and if there was a pen and ink in the room he would ask Robson to witness it, and he had observed the parties whose names were attached sign it. He also told how his suspicions of the genuineness of the signature grew by what they fed on, until next day he called on Wilson Dixon, and upon looking at a letter the latter had, by him witness' doubts became certainties strong as proof of holy Writ. Then he hunted up Robson and told him he believed the note was a forgery. The witness replied that he must be crazy—that it wasn't likely that Mrs. Dixon, who gave him the note, would give him a forged document, but to leave matters in abeyance for a few days and he would see Mrs. Dixon. Mr. Campbell suggested that Robson return the $300 and take back the note, but the prisoner replied that he had handed the money over to Mrs. Dixon.

John Dixon, the alleged maker of the note, gave his evidence with the greatest reluctance. His farm is near Omagh proper, and he was born not very far away therefrom. The entire forenoon years he was continually his hair and stooped his shoulders have been spent in Halton. He enjoys a reputation for honesty and downrightedness, several of his brothers being chiefly farmers in the county, while one brother, Thomas Dixon, is County Crown Attorney of Bruce. His daughter's connection with the case anxious he naturally was to shield his wife, but he was firmly and very questions and answers that she had been for years guilty of forgery. After he had denied that he had signed the Campbell note or authorized any person to sign it for him, and was positive that "Matilda Dixon" was not in his wife's writing he was handed over to the prisoner's counsel. For fully an hour the old gentleman stood in the box with bowed head facing with his spectacles on, and when unable to parry the questions put to him told the counsel bluntly that he would not answer or "That's my business."

Dixon denied that he heard his wife had an arrangement with the Campbells, and knew nothing by she was to receive all her husband's letters.

He also expressed ignorance of the fact that his wife had for years kept back and opened letters addressed to him. He swore positively that he was not aware that his wife was in the habit of signing his name to notes, and was equally emphatic in his statement that he did not furnish the money with which the various forged notes had been brought up during the past fortnight. Asked if his wife had independent means of her own, Dixon replied that she had not.

Witness was subjected to a long cross-examination as to whether certain documents produced were in his handwriting or in that of his wife. The defence put to this undoubtedly when they claimed was received by Robson the day before the Campbell note was negotiated, and upon which they further contended their client was acting.

ORAMEL

Mr. Robson:

Dear Sir,—I return you the note, Mr. Dixon is not at home. He is at the Nelson farm. I expect him home Friday. I will send you another note if I can. Will be in Milton in a day or two. I would like to have the money as soon as you can. It will be all right.

Mrs. JOHN DIXON.

Witness said he did not think the letter was in his wife's handwriting.

In his evidence Chamberlain the prosecution swore that Robson first won to saw Dixon and his wife sign the note in his office on June 30. Witness swore that he was in Milton on the 30th, but was not there on the 30th as he was at his Nelson farm all day. He then very pronounced as to these dates. On telling me the truth now," he ejaculated, rather sharply. Asked if he had made a recent conveyance of his farm to his wife he replied that he had business, and neither the cashier of the bank nor the counsel of the latter could get a different answer. Finally Mr. Fullerton found his witness in a state of fence that he abandoned crossing swords with him.

There was a buzz of excitement in the court room when an elderly matron, attired soberly in black, her features partially concealed by a thick black veil, entered the box. This was Mrs. Dixon, wife of the last witness, and the woman who, according to her own confession, as forged her husband's name to perhaps a dozen notes for large amounts. She is an ordinary-looking woman, the only striking feature about her being the remarkable strength of her chin. Her appearance indicated that whatever she did with the money she raised she certainly did not spend it upon dress for herself. Her examination was continued for a period of two hours and during the entire interrogation, in which she admitted not only that she opened her husband's letters but forged his name repeatedly, she never showed by the quiver of a muscle or the slightest change in expression of her expressionless face that she was sensible of the importance of which she had brought an honored family.

Mrs. Dixon swore that she had a transaction involving a note of $50 with Robson about July 1 or 15, but had no dealings with him subsequently. She denied emphatically that she had ever signed either her own or her husband's name to the Campbell note or that she had any conversation or correspondence with Robson in regard thereto. She did not know by whom the note was written, and swore positively that it was not from Robson as the proceeds of the note. The undated Omagh note published above was handed to her, and after having read it to her and her husband's question, which the old gentleman handed her, she denied that she ever saw it. She did not know that her husband had conveyed the Nelson farm to his son within a month.

At this stage Mr. Fullerton proceeded to prove that the witness was not telling the truth when she said that she had no dealings with Robson since July. When confronted by the book, she admitted having met him in Milton on the 12 inst. and to having met Robson was. Then he thrust before her several letters which she had received from Robson and notes subsequent to Oct. 1 and which prisoner had handed to him. At first witness said she had never given these letters to Robson, but she had burned them and that Robson had destroyed the letters that he sent. Subsequently she admitted that she must have given them to Robson She also admitted writing this note:

Mr. Robson:

Dear Sir,—As I could not get into Milton just now I would like you to attend to the note [a small personal note of her own] for $50 for me.

MRS. JOHN DIXON.

P.S.—I want to get to Milton as soon as I can. I send you $10 on account.

The defence claimed that this letter contained the instructions to Robson upon which he acted in regard to the Campbell note. Mrs. Dixon admitted that she wrote the undated notes referred to above. In admitting that she opened her husband's letters she stated that she did not think there was any harm in doing so. She forged her husband's name to the notes, but not a large number of notes.

What did you do with the money?—A. That's my own business.

Did you give it to Mr. Dixon?—A. No. It makes no difference what I did with it.

Both counsel and judge endeavored to induce Mrs. Dixon to say what she did with the money, but after wasting one-fourth of an hour about it gave up in despair.

Witness admitted that the holders of notes that she had forged were pressing her for payment about Dec. 1. She at first admitted, but then denied, that she wanted to realize on the Campbell note in order to retire other notes which were overdue.

How then did you expect to pay the notes, aggregating $1200, which were due about Dec. 1? asked Mr. Fullerton.—A. I expected to get some money. Whose money?—A. My own money.

Another attempt was made at this stage to induce witness to tell what she meant by the abortive, the good offices of the judge who made the attempt must account for the query, having no effect. Finally the witness stated that she had no particular sources of revenue.

Mrs. Dixon admitted that she borrowed $30 from Charles Lennox, dentist, Toronto, but denied that the endorsation "Anny Dixon," upon the back of the note, the check to cashier, was by her writing. She also denied that she had asked either Annie Kelly, Edward Kelly or Peter McDuffie to sign her name to a note.

After a great deal of quibbling and hesitation Mrs. Dixon admitted that she had forged her husband's name to all the notes with the exception of the McClelland and R. Campbell notes, and also stated that they had all been taken up with the exception of Campbell. She could not say who signed the money, however. She had never received any money from the proceeds of the Campbell note from Robson.

Elijah Dixon, a brother-in-law of the last witness, admitted that he had bought up all the forged notes, giving his check for the respective amounts. He swore that he did not know what Mrs. Dixon had done with the notes and also swore that the money he expended in redeeming them was his own. Elijah Dixon swore that the signatures, John Dixon, on the Campbell note was not in his brother's handwriting.

This was the case for the Crown.

Mr. Fullerton submitted that the Crown had failed to establish a case, and continued that as Campbell and the Dixons were all parties to the transaction the conversation by disinterested witnesses required by the statute had not been brought forward. He also cited the Hagerman and Selby cases in support of his contention. He also claimed that in the view of Mrs. Dixon's confession to half a score of other forgeries and her repeated iteration that she had no dealings with Robson since July, and her subsequent admission that he had proof in writing were submitted to her that she had one subsequent dealing with him in October, her testimony was totally unworthy of belief.

"The fact of the matter is," continued Mr. Fullerton, "the Bank of Hamilton $2500 worth of overdue notes were pressing her, and she asked Robson to negotiate this Campbell note for her to raise funds to satisfy the other creditors."

Mr. Fullerton said he was not prepared to say that the signatures acknowledged to be in Mrs. Dixon's writing, including the one she had written in court, were written by the hand which signed the names "John Dixon" and "Matilda Dixon." However, he would submit the court for three-quarters of an hour to consider the points raised by Mr. Fullerton.

When the court resumed Judge Kingsmill announced the defence to proceed. Charles Lennox of Toronto testified to the fact of giving Mrs. Dixon a check for $30, and as he didn't see her endorse the word "Anny" across the note his evidence fell flat.

Thomas McDuffie was called to prove that Mrs. Dixon had asked him some years ago to sign her husband's name to a note, but his testimony was ruled out.

May Earle, the Omagh postmistress, a pleasant faced young lady in a polka bonnet, established the authenticity of the postmark on the letter received by Robson from Mrs. Dixon in October, thus clinching the proof that she had dealings with him after July.

Barrister Graham proved that he had negotiated about $1300 worth of notes purporting to bear John Dixon's signature for Mrs. Dixon.

Deputy Registrar Campbell was the only witness called to counteract the handwriting. He thought there was a similarity between the signature John Dixon on the Campbell note and on other notes he had purchased. His Honor did not agree with him, but acknowledged that he was not an expert. He expressed regret that some effort had not been made to secure the professional testimony to compare the hand-writing, as this was one of the main features in the case.

Mr. Fullerton addressed the jury in defence of client, advancing practically the same arguments as he had previously advanced. The introduction of numerous provisos (errors by Mrs. Dixon the fact that she was dictating to Mr. Graham payment of overdue notes amounting to $14 over and $1500 and had no other money to raise) formed a straightforward conduct of his client in standing his trial instead of leaving the country if she was guilty man would have done under the circumstances, were also dwelt upon.

"What did he do with the $300 he received, $1300 and take back the note, but the prisoner replied that he had handed the money over to Mrs. Dixon?

Mr. Fullerton then contended within 24 hours, and besides he acted under the advice of counsel. He could be quite content to be satisfied would then have become disinterested witnesses in the eyes of the law, and could have been used for the purpose of corroboration, and prisoner would then have been placed at a disadvantage.

Mr. Fullerton intimated that if the finding of the court was likely to hinge on the payment of the $300 to Mrs. Dixon, he would, if allowed to, but His Honor smilingly remarked that if he thought anything of that kind he would not let take the first train out of town.

Mr. Graham and Mr. Matheson replied briefly to Mr. Fullerton. Mr. Matheson said that the $300 was paid to Mrs. Dixon from the loan on the prisoner's office on the date of the note and not from Campbell as alleged by the Crown. It was strange that she should not stay and get the money. The case for the defence would have been stronger had she done so. She got the money. If as alleged Mrs. Dixon had a knowledge of forgeries before Robson got the note signed and husband without the consent of the latter, why should she not acknowledge it? Robson knew if she had signed it!

His Lordship again expressed his regret that more evidence had not been produced respecting handwriting, and stated that in view of the unsatisfactory and contradictory character of the evidence he felt that he had only the prisoner the benefit of the doubt. He thereupon discharged him.

The announcement was greeted with applause, which was promptly suppressed. The friends of the prisoner collected around the dock and warmly congratulated him on the result.

Robson was rearrested on two fresh charges of obtaining money under false pretences on the note sold to Campbell and the other of uttering a forged note, the forged note for $300 endorsed to be signed by Mr. and Mrs. Dixon dated Oct. 29 last and sold by the prisoner about that time to William Hall, merchant, farmer of Trafalgar. The examination before the magistrates will probably be held on Tuesday next.

No Benefit of the Doubt.

AFTER FAME.

Trying to Get Around the World Without Money in 18 Months.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Mr. Sven Wiren, a Danish newspaper man, who is trying to get around the world in 18 months without using any money, has reached New York. He is a correspondent of The Journal of Danesbrog of Copenhagen. He started from that city on Sept. 16, shipping as an ordinary seaman on a steamer bound for London. From London he secured passage to Liverpool, and from there he shipped Oct. 30 on the Danish bark Dagmar for Wilmington, Del. By promising to print a notice in his paper about the steamship company he obtained free passage to New York, where he arrived on Tuesday. He will remain here until Friday, when he will leave for Chicago. He has not yet determined just what means of transportation he will adopt.

Mr. Wiren is only 19 years old and speaks seven languages. His baggage consists of an extra suit and a dress suit. He has letters of introduction to the various Danish consuls throughout the world. From Chicago he will beat his way to California, and from there will take a steamer to China. He will proceed overland through India, thence by the Suez Canal to the northern ports of Europe. He will resume his march, following the coast until he falls in with a Danish vessel bound for Copenhagen. Mr. Wiren is allowed to accept the hospitality of friends, and he is being entertained in this city by the Danish consul.

Bradstreet's Report.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—General trade throughout the Canadian Dominion is slack, as is customary at this season. At Toronto woolens are firmer. Travellers are starting in orders for spring delivery. Wheat is at the lowest price this year. Stock-taking is quite general.

High prices for hog products at Montreal check sales. There is a fair trade at Halifax and collections are fair. The Nova Scotia fishing season generally has been poor.

Bank clearings at the three cities named, with those at Hamilton, for the week ended Dec. 15, 1892, were: Montreal $21,695,000 this week, a trifling increase as compared with the total a year ago, but 13 per cent. less than the aggregate for last week.

There are 30 failures in Canada this week, against 31 last week and 23 in the week a year ago.

He Wears a Coat of Fish.

A gentleman who was given up to die with consumption happened to recieve a free sample from a friend, who recommended "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil." At though having little faith he bought a bottle and before he was through taking it, found he was gaining flesh. He continued taking the Emulsion until he regained nearly fifty pounds. He is the heartiest man in town to day. To commemorate his restoration to health he has had a beautiful golden coloured fish manufactured, which he wears as a charm upon his watch chain. This is a pretty good testimony for "Miller's Emulsion of Cod—Liver Oil." Everybody is sounding the praises of this. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at all Drug Stores.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN :

I RESPECTFULLY solicit your votes and influence for Mayor of the City of Belleville for 1893. I was born in Belleville and have lived amongst you all my life, and am personally known to the most of you. I have been an Alderman in the City Council for four years, and during that time have endeavored to represent you straight orwardly and faithfully.

My platform is economy in City affairs. If elected I will exert myself to further the best interests of the city.

Yours respectfully,
FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE.

Though the soil of Virginia grows the best tobacco leaf in the world, it does not all grow equal qualities. The production even of adjoining counties is often quite different, the one producing leaf which at once deteriorates if grown in the other. The leaf of the "Myrtle Navy" is the product of the choice sections of the State, which, through some combination of local influences, produce a better quality than any others. This is shown by its always commanding a higher price than any other smoking leaf.

Albert College.

Fall Session—A Great Success.

All has been stir and bustle at this Institution during the last few days. Examinations have been in progress on Thursday and Friday of this week. Students have been writing on the preparatory examination of the collegiate course and upon the semi-terminal examinations. Some young men who graduated at Albert last year and are now in attendance at Victoria were writing on supplementals. Rev. E. N. Baker was present and conducted the prayer services on Monday morning. He and Principal Dyer gave short addresses. The Principal stated that in attendance, thoroughness of class work and general success of the school the present session was the best in the history of the college.

The closing concert was held last evening in the college chapel. Principal Dyer presided, and commenced the programme promptly at eight o'clock. The people came in crowds until standing room was at a premium. Recitations were given by Miss Hodgins, Mr. Latta and Mr. Ward. Two glees were given by the College Glee Club in good taste. Albert Xmas. Glee, the words of which were by Mr. Neil, a student at the college, and the music by Dr. Peters, was splendidly rendered. Dr. Peters gave a couple of pianoforte solos, and was each time vociferously encored, but owing to the length of the programme could not respond. His work at the college has been eminently satisfactory, and he is held in the highest esteem by the students. A tableau entitled "Christmas Bells" showed three young ladies dressed in white, ringing three large bells suspended from the ceiling, and under the glare of the colored lights, and with piano accompaniments was beautiful. The programme closed with the colloquy "Cinderella. The persons taking part were: Cinderella, Miss Hudgins; Prince Amour, Mr. Bean; The King, Mr. Neil; The Queen, Miss Hughes; Lord Easy Going, Mr. Mcgahay; Lady Disdain, Miss Hawkins; two of her daughters, Miss Adams and Miss Robinson: The Fairy, Miss Higgins; The Herald, Mr. Timmins; Courtiers, Mr. Rush, Mr. Sinclair, Miss Caverly and Miss Lowry. The audience joined with Dr. Peters at the piano in singing the National anthem. Thus closed a most successful session of this Institution. Classes will be resumed, after the Xmas vacation, on Thursday, Jan. 5, '93.

The Civic Election.

As yet not much enthusiasm has been exhibited in the Civic election, which is about to take place. Ald. Fowell and Ald. Walbridge are at present the only candidates in the field for the Mayoralty, and the probability is that the fight will be between these two gentlemen. Both, with their friends, are making strenuous efforts to capture the chair. A meeting of the supporters of Ald. Walbridge was held at his office last night, which was well attended. Committees for the various wards were formed and other details arranged.

A canvass among the aldermen who at present hold seats in the Council reveals the fact that the majority will offer for re-election, although none of them have signified their intention of so doing through the press. In some of the wards there will no doubt be warm contests, as a number of men are spoken of as probable candidates.

Public Examination.

A very successful public examination was held at S. S. No. 9, Thurlow, on Friday, Dec. 9 h, upwards of sixty visitors being present. At the close of the exercises in the afternoon an address was read by Mrs. Clark. Mr. Nobes made a suitable reply, and the school was closed by singing the National Anthem. The exercises of the afternoon were followed by a surprise party in the evening.

Rambles In Rome.

This was the title of lecture which was given in Holloway street church last night by the Rev. E. N. Baker, M.A. There was a fair attendance. Mr. C. The lecture was an entertaining one, the speaker being able to speak from personal observation.

The Simmons Difficulty.

The Accused Acquitted on all Charges Brought Against Them.

The trial of Warner Simmons, charged with arson, occupied the attention of the court for nearly two days. At 5 o'clock last night the jury retired, and after being out for half an hour, returned into court and rendered a verdict of "not guilty." The accused was ably defended by Mr. E. G. Porter.

In the spring of 1888 Warner Simmons gave all his property, consisting of a valuable farm and all chattels and farming implements on the farm, to his son, John Simmons. Warner Simmons was at that time a widower, but about two months after married his present wife. In the fall of the same year the barn on the premises with the whole season's crop was burned. Between the spring and fall and after Warner Simmons' second marriage, which was displeasing to his son John, differences arose between them, which grew from bad to worse until a very bitter feeling existed between them, and this ill-feeling has been increasing ever since. Some time last year the son charged the father with burning the barn and the father brought an action against the son for slander for alleging he burnt the barn. In this suit the father was successful, the son having to pay damages. Shortly after the trial of this suit the son laid a criminal information against his father and step-mother for burning the barn, which culminated in the trial.

Mr. Simmons was immediately placed on trial again, charged with pointing a revolver at County Constable Westover and threatening to shoot his bodily harm. This case was of short duration. The jury were out but two minutes, when they returned a verdict of "not guilty." Westover could not swear positively that the accused pointed a revolver at him.

The third indictment was also disposed of. Mrs. Simmons was charged with setting fire to the barn and Mr. Simmons was charged with being an accessory. Mr. Henderson, Q.C., said that in view of the verdict in the first case, he would not proceed with this case. They were then acquitted upon this charge.

At the opening of the court this morning Simmons was charged with pointing a revolver at Mr. Alcombrack and threatening to do him bodily harm. A jury was called, but no evidence was offered. The accused was then discharged.

Institute Notes.

(From the Canadian Mute.)

The girls who were ill have recovered, and are again attending their classes.

None of the children will leave the Institution for Christmas, but will be made as happy as possible by the Principal and teachers.

Mr. Denys has been invited, and has promised to prepare a paper entitled "The Ideal Institution Newspaper," to be read at the congress of Teachers of the Deaf in Chicago, in July next. Mr. Mathison will furnish a paper on "Trades for the Deaf and Industrial Training Schools."

Mrs. Terrell, a teacher, has been kept at home for a few days, owing to the illness of her daughter, Miss Edith.

It was quite a task, every fortnight, to drive our editorial press by hand power, and several large boys were called in to help, forming relays to keep it going, and it was a heavy grind for them. Now, our new water-motor supplies the power, and the work is done comfortably and expeditiously. The press strikes off 1,500 per hour with ease.

District Intelligence.

Mr. Joseph Hill, one of the oldest residents of the Tyendinaga Reserve, died last week of apoplexy. His age was 86 years.

The members of Mr. James Sexsmith's family, at Deseronto, on Tuesday night last had a narrow escape from asphyxiation. Mrs. Sexsmith and Miss Etta Brown, her sister, were overcome with gas, but fortunately recovered.

Wm. Buck, of Harrowsmith, working on the Bay Quinte railway extension between Harrowsmith and Sydenham, was crushed by a large boulder which rolled down upon him, whereby his right leg was broken in two places.

Messrs. Wm. Golway and Edward Gordon, of the Allan Settlement, killed a bear while returning home from a hunt near that settlement recently. They had a desperate tussle with bruin before he succumbed, Mr. Golway's dog being so badly wounded in the fight that he had to be shot.

Monthly Prizes for Boys and Girls

The "Sunlight" Soap Co., Toronto, offer the following prizes every month till further notice, to boys and girls under 16, residing in the Province of Ontario, who send the greatest number of "Sunlight" wrappers: $10; 2nd, $6; 3rd, $3; 4th, $1; 5th to 14th, a Handsome Book; and a pretty picture to those who send not less than 12 wrappers. Winners' names will be published in The Toronto Mail on first Saturday in each month.

Decreasing The Death Rate.

The mortality among consumptives has been materially decreased of late years by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Phthisis, Bronchitis, Abscess of the Lungs, Pneumonia and Throat Affections are completely subjugated by a timely use of this excellent pulmonic. Palatable as milk. Sold by all Druggists at 50c. and $1.00

Christmas Books, Prayer-books, Albums, reduced 33 1 3 per cent. at Harrison's.

Runaway.

An exciting runaway occured on Front street this morning. A team of horses belonging to Messrs Henry & Hudson and attached to a delivery waggon, ran from the store to the market square. Although many vehicles and persons were upon the street no accident occurred. They were brought to a standstill by colliding with a coal cart.

How to Cure a Corn.

It is one of the easiest things in the world to cure a corn. Do not use acids or caustic preparations, and don't cut a hole in your boot. It is simply to apply Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, and in three days the corn can be removed without pain. Sure, safe, painless. Take only Putnam's Corn Extractor.

An Important Case.

The long standing case of Robertson vs. James was up before the Master in Chancery, on the question of title to the property at Bridgewater. Some very important questions in law arise in this matter, and the settlement of it is looked for in the near future.

SOMETHING TO REMEMBER, if you're a weak or ailing woman: —that there's only one medicine so guaranteed to help you that it can be guaranteed. It's Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. In building up overworked, feeble, delicate women, or in any "female complaint" or weakness, it is ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back. It's an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and strengthening nervine, and a safe and certain remedy for woman's ills and ailments. It regulates and promotes all the proper functions, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and strength.

Nothing else can be as cheap. With this, you pay only for the good you get.

The publishers of the CANADIAN MUSIC FOLIO will give $25 in Cash to the first person sending in a correct solution or answer to the above, $15 in cash to the second correct answer, $10 in cash to the correct answer, and $5 in cash to every tenth person among the next two hundred answers.

These prizes are not large, but every dollar is awarded just as advertised.

Do not waste your money on "fake" journals, whose proprietors advertise to give exorbitant sums as prizes. They cannot, nor do not carry out such promises.

Conditions—Every person sending an answer must enclose with same ten three-cent stamps (30 cents) for one month's trial subscription to the Folio, which contains this month the following latest music:

"La Serenata" Waltzes, newest.
"Hush, Little Girl, Don't Cry," vocal, from "Dixy's Seven Ages."
"Andalucia" waltzes, very fine.
"My Mother's Eyes" vocal.
"Fairy Echoes," reverie, very catchy.
"Faces," comic song.
"Spring Whispers," Morceau.
"Over the Waves" Waltzes, beautiful.

Containing in all 56 pages. This beautiful work is already too well known to need any further comment here.

Write to-day and you may receive a prize that will repay you many times over for your trouble. You will not lose anything, for the music alone cannot be bought elsewhere for five times the amount of your remittance.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ar.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY,
Boston, Mass.

The Rush Was Immense!

Our most sanguine expectations more than realized on Saturday. Our staff of 15 salesmen were kept so busy that they did not have time to eat. On next Saturday we would advise our patrons to do their trading as early in the morning as possible, as a terrific conflagration of profits will take place on that day. Every vestige of gain will be burned in the general sweeping out. "Hustle" is GOUGH'S word. Make things hustle by concentrated hustle yourself In order to give a snap and vim to our Christmas trade, GOUGH runs the road roller over his stock, squeezing out every atom of profit, and on Saturday next will sell at dead level cost from every line in stock, knocking a hole in the wall of prices.

Don't fail to see our line of Xmas Silk Handkerchiefs and Neckties for Holiday trade. We are making the Fur fly just now too. Persian Lamb Caps, $2, $2 50 and $3. Neutra, $2 50, $3 and $3.75, all worth double the money.

Greeting and Compliments of the Season to all our patrons. Christmas must be observed, and the best way to observe the anniversary is to buy one of our $20 Tailor-Made Suits for $12. This is a straight-cut sack, either in single or double breasted, made with raised seams and guaranteed equal to the best custom work. We have a superb stock in this line, up-on which even St. Nicholas would gaze with admiring eyes. You couldn't cast your eye on anything better worth seeing if you travelled 100 miles, but Xmas isn't a travelling time. It's much better to take a good thing at home than to do without it until you can go out of town. It's putting the case mildly to say it's an inconvenience to do without one of those beautiful suits, and why should you when we are selling these goods at such taking prices. Remember and buy early next Saturday, and don't forget it's a cold day when GOUGH gets left.

GOUGH, The Wonderful Cheap Man,

354 FRONT STREET, BELLEVILLE.

N. B.—A good deal has been said by other dealers, because they can't compete in price, about our stock being inferior. Our answer to this is that we will forfeit $1000 if, for high-class goods, they or any other house in Canada can produce its superior. This offer is open to any man who wants to accept.

COMMITTED TO PRISON.

GOING THE FULL LENGTH IN THE PANAMA CANAL AFFAIR.

The French Government is Now Bound to Probe to the Bottom the Charges of Extensive Bribery and Corruption in the Chamber of Deputies.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—Charles de Lesseps, son of Count de Lesseps; Marius Fontaines, director in the Panama Canal Co., and M. Leroy, ex-deputy, have been arrested on a charge of fraud in the management of the Panama Canal Co., and have been committed to prison.

PROBABLE ARRESTS

Situation of the Panama Canal Affair Growing Gravity.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The Herald's Paris correspondent says: There is a rumor afloat to the effect that the Government has decided to arrest the managers of the Panama Canal Company, charged with complicity in the alleged frauds. They will be arraigned, it is said, at the Court of Assize. The situation grows in gravity. Either the Ministry or the Investigating Committee will resign. In reality the ministry in the vote in the chamber yesterday was in the minority, since there was only an apparent majority of six votes. The vote of the eight ministers was a vote for themselves, which was contrary to all precedents.

New scandals and more revelations are announced for to-day. Three of those talked about are politicians and one of them is in the Cabinet. It will all end in a presidential crisis and the resignation of the Cabinet.

A NEW MOVE.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—A Vienna special says it is expected that the scandalous developments regarding the Panama Canal enterprise will lead to a rapprochement between Russia and Germany, owing to the fact that the fall of M. Rouvier, the French Minister of Finance, will prevent the Russian Government from obtaining loans in France.

DEATH SEEMED HORRIBLE.

A French Criminal Begged Piteously for His Life.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—Eugene Crampon, the murderer of two men, paid the penalty for his crimes, and the canaille that gathered to see his execution greatly enjoyed the spectacle afforded by the miserable, cowardly wretch as he was literally carried to the guillotine. When Crampon saw the guillotine, with a terrible shriek he threw himself backward and fell to the ground. All efforts to induce him to rise were fruitless, and he grovelled on the flagstones begging piteously for his life.

While some of the assistants supported him others quickly bound and threw him against the bascule. Even then he did not cease his struggles. His contortions were terrible. The bascule was dropped into place and the assistants shoved it forward until Crampon's neck rested in the lunette. The blade fell and Crampon's head dropped into the basket.

The execution was the most horrible one that has been witnessed in Paris in many years. The crowd, highly pleased with the entertainment the state had afforded them, dispersed laughing and joking with each other.

Views in Unanimities.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The despatches print the result of its efforts to ascertain from governors of various states in the Union their views regarding the question of immigration. From the east, west, north and south restrictions of immigration is urged, but opinions differ as to the methods to be employed. The governors heard from oppose absolute prohibition except for warding off disease.

Blotches Cured.

DEAR SIRS,—In 1890 my body was covered with blotches and I was at last induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters; by the time I had used 3½ bottles of it I was completely cured, and I cannot speak too highly of it.

MRS. JAMES DESMOND. Halifax, N. S.

Made With Skill.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skilful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

Out of Sorts—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure,' and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

The speed of a wild duck is ninety miles an hour.

Do not delay in getting relief for the little folks. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is a pleasant sure cure. If you love your child why then do you let it suffer when a remedy is so near at hand.

An adder's bite—The bank clerk's lunch.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world.

In a dangerous emergency, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is prompt to act and sure to cure. A dose taken on the first symptoms of Croup or Bronchitis, checks further progress of those complaints. It softens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membrane, and induces sleep. As a remedy for colds, coughs, loss of voice, la grippe, pneumonia, and even consumption, in its early stages excels all similar preparations. It is endorsed by leading physicians, is agreeable to the taste, does not interfere with digestion, and needs to be taken usually in small doses.

"From repeated tests in my own family, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has proved itself a very efficient remedy for colds, coughs, and the various disorders of the throat and lungs."—A. W. Bartlett, Pittsfield, N. H.

"For the last 30 years I have been taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for lung troubles, and am assured that its use has

GERMANY WILL PREVENT

IF POSSIBLE A RUSSIAN - FRENCH ALLIANCE.

Bismarck Not Mentioned in the Debates—The Probable Effect of the Panama Canal Scandal Discussed—Bribes Received in Russia.

BERLIN, Dec 19.—Although the composition of the committee of the Reichstag to which the Army Bill has been referred at first might appear unpromising for the Government its elements admit of such grouping under the inducements that Chancellor von Caprivi may offer as will enable the ministers to get a majority. The committee, which comprises 28 members, is made up of three Social Democrats, six members of the Freisinnige party, eight Centrists or Clericals, two Poles, three National Liberals, one Free Conservative and five Right Conservatives.

If the Chancellor reduces the money vote to 40,000,000 marks and modified the Government's demands for an increase in the present peace effective, the bill will have a chance of approval; in its present shape it will stand no chance whatever of becoming a law.

The implied threat of the Chancellor in his speech, when the bill was presented to the Reichstag, to dissolve the House and have a new election in the event of the measure being rejected, has had little, if any, effect upon the Conservatives.

The Kreuz Zeitung, whose editor, Herr Von Hammerstein, is among the Conservative representatives on the committee declares that the bill will not pass, adding that a coalition between the Centrists and Conservatives in favor of supporting Chancellor Von Caprivi was improbable before the Reichstag adjourned.

Lobby report has it that the Chancellor, feeling indisposed and worried at seeing that it was improbable that he would obtain the assent of the Reichstag to his full demands for an increase of the standing army, told the Emperor that he would gladly resign the cares of office. His Majesty, however, was not disposed to give the Chancellor any encouragement in retreating under fire. He expressed his determination to make the army bill a law, even at the risk of an appeal to the country. He assured Count von Caprivi that he would stand by him under all circumstances. The Chancellor gained renewed courage from his interview with the Emperor and assented to remain in office and fighting the battle out through dissolution of the Reichstag if need be.

A notable feature in the debates has been the omission of all allusions to Prince Bismarck or any reference to his opinions. His old adherents avoided introducing his name in the discussions and also avoided indulging in their old comparisons between the policy of Chancellor von Caprivi and that followed by Prince Bismarck.

The developments in the Panama scandal are watched with the keenest interest, and, it may be said, anxiety. The one comfort to Germany is that the spectacle of corruption and confusion among the Frence political leaders lessens the Russian desire to make France an ally.

Advices received here from St. Petersburg show that information recently reached the Czar that a certain Russian paper had received from Paris the sum of $100,000 for advocating a Russo-French alliance. He at once ordered an enquiry to be made, which resulted in the discovery that the report was not only true, but that part of the bribes distributed by the Panama Canal Company had been accepted by prominent persons in Russia.

The Russian court party, under the lead of M. Pobedonoszeff, are hostile to a French alliance, and they seized the opportunity to work on the Czar's prejudices against French Republicans.

The German Foreign Office is hopeful that Gen. Werder, the new German ambassador to Russia, will succeed in detaching the Czar from France, and so lead to a new grouping of the powers. Another, and to Germany a far more important view of the situation, is that the chaos in France may produce an adventurer who would hazard war with Germany as the best stroke to carry himself into power.

The Hamburg and Berlin bourses were disturbed yesterday by a report that 20 cases of cholera and four deaths from the disease had occurred at Hamburg. official denials of the story were issued. The report had its origin in the fact that the authorities were cleaning out the people residing in dirty and overcrowded tenements.

The Emperior is little seen in public now. He is constantly away hunting. Social life at the court will commence on New Year's Day with the usual grand reception. The Imperial family will come to Berlin from Potsdam on Dec. 31.

NO RESULT YET.

The Monetary Conference Has Adjourned—Intends to Reassemble.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 19.—After M. Direnzis' motion had been proposed at the Monetary Conference yesterday, Senator Allison made a short speech in behalf of the United States delegation. He laid emphasis upon the fact that throughout the debate no one had suggested that either of the money metals be discarded. During the adjournment he said the delegates would have time to study the Rothschild and other proposals that had been submitted.

Mr. Bertram Currie of the British delegation objected to the re-assembling of the conference on the ground that as three previous monetary conferences had failed there was little prospect of the present one being a success.

Sir C. Rivers-Wilson of the British delegation concurred in the opinion of Mr. Currie.

Senator Allison said that it was understood that the governments of all the nations concerned should reserve to themselves absolute independence in their respective monetary policies during the recess, that nobody was bound to do anything and all might employ the time as they thought proper.

M. Direnzi's proposal was adopted and the conference adjourned.

The Queen's Courtesy.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—It is officially announced that the Queen, at the request of the Government at Washington, has decided to loan for exhibition at the Chicago Fair Leonardo da Vinci's original drawing of the first map of America, now in the Queen's collection at Windsor Castle. The officials of the British Museum have [illegible] the copying of any documents bearing [illegible] history of America for exhibition at Chicago.

Storm Off Scotland.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—A heavy gale swept the southeast coast of Scotland yesterday. Several coasting schooners were stranded in the early hours, and the crews were taken off in lifeboats. The shore is strewn with wreckage, but as yet no loss of life has been reported.

DEFEATED SOCIALISTS.

The American Federation of Labor Does Not Favor Nationalization

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 19.—At the closing session of the American Federation of Labor Saturday resolutions were adopted condemning the Rock Island Railroad system for requiring its telegraph operators to withdraw from their organization; asking that tailors be included under the provisions of the alien contract law; condemning the system of advance wages to sailors; favoring changes in the patent laws so that inventors will receive a direct reward; condemning the Baron Hirsch fund and its charitably assisted recipients, and demanding restriction of immigration.

A resolution was unanimously adopted asking clemency for the imprisoned Chicago anarchists, Neebe, Fielden and Schwab.

Emboldened by their success one of the Socialists, delegate Morgan of Chicago, introduced a substitute for a resolution favoring Government control of telegraph and telephone lines. The Socialists wanted a resolution passed asking that the Government control all means of communication, transportation and production, but this was defeated.

ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC.

To Run From Sault Ste. Marie to Gaspe Basin.

MONTREAL, Dec. 19.—A Montreal firm of solicitors give notice of their intention to apply for an act at the next session of Parliament to incorporate the Atlantic and Pacific Railway with power to construct and operate a railway from Sault Ste. Marie in the Province of Ontario to Gaspe Basin in the Province of Quebec, passing through the districts of Algoma and Nipissing, and following the valley of the Ottawa as far as circumstances will permit, passing by or near the cities of Ottawa and Montreal and running through the counties of the south shore of the River St. Lawrence, and with power to purchase or lease any or all railways constructed or authorized to be constructed which can be utilized as part of the line, including the Intercolonial Railway. The Great Northwest Central Railway Company will apply for leave to extend the time for the completion of the road and for power to issue preference shares.

A VALEDICTORIAN.

W. E. Deeks of North Williamsburgh Receives the Appointment.

MONTREAL, Dec. 19.—The final year students of the McGill Medical College met Saturday forenoon and elected their valedictorian for the April convocation. The choice of the class was Mr. W. E. Deeks, B.A. of North Williamsburgh, Ont. He is an old McGill man in point of attendance, as he took his arts course thereat and during the last two years has been demonstrator in geology, and during the illness of Sir William Dawson he has taken charge of the classes in Zoology. The class expect that Mr. Deeks will say farewell to alma mater for them next spring in a most acceptable manner. The Christmas examinations are now in progress and the usual vacation will begin on Thursday next and extend to January 4. A rumor that has gained pretty wide circulation is to the effect that the medical faculty is shortly to receive a very valuable addition to its building. The medical students have all heard of the rumor and sincerely hope it may prove true. The building, it is said, will be presented to the faculty by Mr. W. C. McDonald whose gifts have placed the science faculty on so sound a basis. The building would be largely devoted to pathological and other experimental work, and would also contain a reading room for the use of students between lectures. It is not expected that the announcement will be made until the medical convention which will be held on April 4.

SHE WORE TROUSERS.

The Woman Who Traveled in Male Attire Over the C. P. R.

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 19.—Mrs. Annie M. Murphy is in jail at Huntsville, Ala., charged with forgery. She is the wife of a Tacoma merchant, from whom she parted recently, to begin a systematic draft forging business. Inside of a month she has uttered $2895 in forged National Bank Commerce drafts, this city, on the Chase National Bank, New York. All of them have been cashed, save one for $350, which she wanted to get cashed in Huntsville, Ala. The Chase National Bank of New York offered a reward for her capture. Mrs. Murphy appeared in male attire. Her father is Senator McRae.

This is the woman who traveled from Port Arthur to Ottawa over the C.P.R. in male attire.

SENSATIONAL DEATH.

A Farmer Found Dead on the Track Near Glencoe.

GLENCOE, Dec. 19.—A rather sensational death occurred at the McAlpine House yesterday. A farmer by the name of Alexander McNabb, who lives on the Longwood road east of here, has been drinking of late somewhat heavily. He is supposed to have left the town for his home at about 11 o'clock last night. Shortly after he was found lying on the track, and was taken back to the hotel, supposed to be dazed with drink and left alone. This morning he was found dead in the sitting room with a cut on his head. How he received the wound is not known.

A LUMBER DEAL.

One of the Most Important Transactions Ever Recorded in Canada.

OTTAWA, Dec. 19.—One of the most important lumber deals ever transacted in Ottawa was effected there late Saturday. Mr. Richard Nagle, who has been negotiating with capitalists to that end for some time past, concluded the sale of 145 miles of timber limits in the Nipissing District. For the purchasers the deal was conducted by Mr. Henderson of New York, who has been in the city for some days for the purpose. The price paid was $150,000.

In Memory of 1837.

MONTREAL, Dec. 19.—Mr. L. O. David, president of St. Jean Baptiste Society, delivered a lecture Saturday evening in Sohmer Park on the patriot of 1837 for the benefit of the monument National. The lecturer praised the patriotism of the victims of the rebellion who secured for the compatriots the rights they now enjoy, and he was loudly applauded. Mr. J. X. Perrault, who presided over the meeting, announced a series of other lectures, including one by Mr. Mercier on January 2. The ex-Premier, who was present, being called on by the audience, said that everything seemed to indicate a renewal of the past struggles. As in in 1837, they had now to fight against the enemies of their race, who believe that the [illegible]

"It Cured Mother."

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

The prefection of God being infinite, to become God-like means infinite growth.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicinal herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Pudding with a hair in it is sweetness wasted on a dessert hair.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion is occasioned by want of action in the biliary ducts, loss of vitality in the stomach to secrete the gastric juices, without which digestion cannot go on; also, being the principal cause of Headache. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills taken before going to bed, for a while, never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr. F W Ashdown, Ashdown, Ont, writes:—"Parmele's Pills are taking the lead against ten other makes which I have in stock."

In nearly all the markets of German cities fish are sold alive.

The best form in which electricity is embodied is Dr Thomas' Eclectric Oil, a sovereign remedy. A. Maybee, Merchant, Warkworth, writes:—"I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public 'one of the best medicine they have ever used;' it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc, and is worthy of the greatest confidence."

The same wind that brings a cloud will bear it away again.

EUROPE'S FINANCES.

An Almost Unprecedented Condition of the English Money Market.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The condition of the money market manifested during the week past is almost unprecedented at this time of the year. Discount rates for three months' bills were the lowest quoted at any time in December since 1873. The week's final discount quotations were 1¾ for three months and 1 for short. Bankers find difficulty in employing money, the ease of which here is largely due to the fact that the American gold exports are supplying European demands.

There was no activity in business on the Stock Exchange last week, and a general downward tendency was manifest. Uncertainity with regard to the future of silver had a depressing effect in several directions. The silver market was an entirely cash market. Supplies offered for forward delivery were disposed of only at great reductions.

There was a fair enquiry from Indian banks, but only for immediate delivery. Preference was given to Merchants' bills and other forms of remittance for forward delivery. British funds were a trifle higher. Indian loans were lower in sympathy with silver. International funds were quiet and the changes were only fractional. Argentine securities rose slightly in sympathy with the change in the gold premium. The new Chilian loan rose to 2¾ premium.

The feature of the market was a steady demand for Transvaal fives, which closed 1 1-2 higher, making an increase of 10 1-2 since July, when the loan was issued at 90. A steady enquiry by Dutch investors is largely responsible for the rise. English railway securities were irregular, with a declining tendency, due to unfavorable traffic returns. In American railroads there was a nearly all-round decline in sympathy with the movement in New York, the inclination to sell manifested there meeting with a responsive feeling here. The week's variation in the prices of American railroad securities include the following:

Decreases—Denver and Rio Grande preferred and Northern Pacific preferred 1¾ each; Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe mortgage 1½; Louisville and Nashville 1¼; Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe shares and Norfolk and Western preferred ¾ each; Denver and Rio Grande common and Wabash preferred ½ each.

Increases—Lake Shore ¾; Union Pacific ½.

Canadian securities shared in the almost geneneral relapse. G. T. R., after a good inquiry, due to improved traffic prospects, weakened and declined, first preference closing 1¼ lower. Mexican railway was in good favor, owing to satisfactory traffic returns; seconds closed 1½ higher and first 1 higher. Argentine railways were stronger, Buenos Ayres closing 1 higher and Central Argentine ½ higher. Central Uruguay Railway advanced 4. Bank and brewery shares were much firmer. Chartered mercantile Bank of India rose to 7 on the satisfactory allotment of shares of the new company. Guinness' brewery closed one higher.

BARRED FROM FREEDOM.

The Panama Canal Operators Under Arrest Cannot Have Bail.

PARIS, Dec. 19.—M. Lauer, whose residence was searched by the police is at present in America.

An entry in one of the books of Thierree & Co., the Coulisse firm, shows that Joseph Reinach, son-in-law of Baron Reinach, received 40,000 francs from the firm. Joseph Reinach says that he received the money as a dowry and that he is willing to return the amount to the liquidator of the Panama Canal Co. if it can be shown the money came from the company's fund.

The officers of newspapers which received money from the Panama Canal Co. will be searched at once, and unless it is found the money was entirely expended in advertising, the proprietor or others who accepted the money will be prosecuted.

Baron Cottu, one of the accused directors of the Panama Canal Company, who fled from Paris to Vienna to escape arrest, left Vienna to-night.

The report was circulated last evening that Senator Jules Guychard would be made president of the Suez Canal Company in place of Charles de Lesseps.

Application was made to Magistrate Franqueville to-day to release de Lesseps, Sans-Leroy and Fontaine on bail. Responsible bondsmen were ready to sign the papers, but the magistrate refused even to discuss the possibility of such release. He added that nobody would be allowed to see the prisoners until after the examination of the documents seized in their offices.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, DEC. 19

A QUESTION OF FACT.

For the second time a question of fact has been raised with regard to the conference which took place between representatives of the Government of Canada, the British Ambassador, and the United States Government, some months ago.

The first misunderstanding was as to the canal tolls, which the U. S. representatives alleged the Canadian conferees had promised to remove; but the Canadian ministers replied that they had merely promised to consider the subject.

The second point of disagreement is as to whether Mr. Blaine, in reply to a question whether the United States would insist on a uniform tariff, and would demand preferential treatment in our markets as against British and foreign goods, answered that a uniform tariff would be necessary, and that too, on the line of the present United States tariff; and that the United States could admit of no arrangements which did not give United States goods favored treatment as against foreign goods, especially those of Great Britain, who was their chief competitor. This statement was made by our Finance Minister in his budget speech, and was never questioned until a few days ago, when, on Mr. Foster repeating it to a reporter, in commenting on statements contained in President Harrison's last message, General Foster, who was one of the U. S. negotiators, and who succeeded Mr. Blaine as Secretary of State, came out with a strong denial. He is reported as saying:

"During the reciprocity conference of last winter Mr. Blaine did not insist that in a reciprocity arrangement a uniform tariff would be necessary for both Canada and the United States, nor much less that it should be on the line of the United States tariff. He did not say that the schedule should not be confined to natural products, but should include an agreed list of manufactured goods, and that the reciprocity should be confined to Canada and the United States, and because of these two conditions the negotiations were fruitless."

It is significant that Secretary Foster should have withheld this contradiction of a statement which has passed into history until he had a purpose to serve and until Mr. Blaine has become too ill to speak on the subject. It seems no less significant that the Toronto Globe, which accepted the statements of the Canadian Ministers as to the negotiations as to the canal tolls, should now prefer the single assertion of General Foster, whom it formerly found to be in error, to that of the two ministers whom it previously held to be correct in their statements, in which, we have no doubt, they can be backed by the British Ambassador and whose accuracy is further vouched for by Mr. Blaine's well-known and freely expressed opinion that the British provisoes must not be allowed the advantage of the United States market unless they became states of the union.

The object of the Globe is clear, as will appear from the following extract from its article:

We are bound to believe, therefore, that Mr. Blaine did not insist upon a uniform tariff, much less upon the acceptance by Canada of the tariff can tariff. In other words, that which the Canadian people regarded as the main objection to the negotiation of a treaty did not exist at all, save in the imagination of Mr. Bowell and Mr. Foster. On every Tory hustings and in every Tory journal it was said again and again that the Liberals, while using free trade arguments, desired to put Canada under the McKinley tariff and while the argument was unfair and misleading it would be folly to deny its effectiveness. It now appears that Mr. Blaine and his successor in office had as little notion of making that a condition of a reciprocity treaty as had the Liberal leaders. There is no doubt that the opportunity of making a treaty with the United States under its present administration was lost entirely through this blunder and through the ill-concealed reluctance of the Ottawa ministry to make any arrangement which would impair Canadian protection.

Unhappily for the Grit organ, it spoke too soon; for our Minister of Finance has, subsequent to the publication of its article, furnished the following incontrovertible evidence of Secretary Foster's error, and thus indelicately cut the ground from under the feet of the Globe:

After reading Mr. Foster's observations I can state that I have nothing to add to my previous assertion in regard to the reciprocity negotiations, on the subject of a uniform tariff between the two countries. When the proposition for reciprocity in natural products was decided on and before a wider arrangement was discussed, the Canadian delegates inquired about the question of discrimination. We asked if we would have power to make the tariff, and what would be its range. For example, we asked whether Canada would be free to arrange her own tariff on wool. This article is on the free list here, and in the United States it is highly taxed. To this Secretary Blaine replied very emphatically that the United States had a heavy duty on wools, and if Canada fixed separate duties, the proposed reciprocity arrangements would be simply noteffective.

CAMMELL MURDER CASE.

THE BROTHER-IN-LAW AND WIFE ON THEIR DEFENCE.

The Evidence Was very Strong Against the Suspect James Rowe. The Jury Passed a Severe Resolution on the Laxity of the Government.

PORT ARTHUR, Dec. 19.—The coroner's jury, who have been investigating the cause of the death of Archie Cammell, who was killed at the door of his own residence in Pearl street about midnight on Monday, 12th inst., rendered their verdict Saturday. They had five sittings and examined a large number of witnesses, including the wife of deceased and her son by a former marriage, a lad of 10 years of age.

The verdict was to the effect that Cammell came to his death by a gunshot fired by James Rowe, who is a brother-in-law of deceased, and that his wife, Mary Cammell, was accessory after the fact.

The evidence was very strong against Rowe, who was residing in the house with the Cammell family and disappeared immediately after the crime was committed.

He returned to town on the evening of the second day and gave himself up to the authorities.

Rowe is now in custody and will appear before the police magistrate to-day.

The wife of deceased has not been arrested, but may be at any time.

The jury passed a strong resolution on the laxity of the Government in criminal cases in this district.

BLAINE'S SICKNESS.

He Has Rallied After Being on the Threshhold of Death.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—All yesterday the life of James G. Blaine hung trembling in the balance. For more than an hour in the forenoon hope was abandoned and the end was momentarily expected. The first crisis was reached between 10 and 11 o'clock in the morning, when a sinking spell set in, from which the worst was feared.

His family were called around the bedside, and his physician sent messenger after messenger to the nearest drug store with prescriptions requiring hasty attention. The distinguished patient lay unconscious and to all appearances dying until shortly before 1 o'clock, when a slight rally set in. His pulse, which had almost ceased to beat, became perceptible and partial consciousness was restored.

The house was lighted early last evening and the physicians held a consultation, but a little after 6 o'clock any particular. He insists that he had not administered any powder to the men. He said he was arrested late in November and taken into St. Nichol building and was sworn and told the story he had just told, and was released.

Detective J. H. Ford testified to hearing Beatty describe the powders, and Gallagher says: "Tom Brady suggested using croton oil."

Louis Wolfers, steward of the Homestead mill restaurant, testified to serious and rapid increase of illness among the men after Gallagher's employment. That himself and wife were yet suffering from its effects. His wife, he thought, would die.

W. E. Bullocks and Joseph Leslie, payroll clerks, also suffered from the drugs and testified to its effect upon them.

Mr. Brennan then endeavored to secure the release of his client, but the alderman held him for court in $3000 bail.

Mr. Brennan thought this amount excessive and was directed by the alderman to go into court on Monday and ask the court to fix the amount.

THREE MEN BURNED.

Collision on the Great Northern Railway —Four Men Killed.

ALEXANDRIA, Minn., Dec. 19.—A frightful accident occurred on the Great Northern Railroad yesterday morning at Nelson station, five miles east of here, in which eight men were killed and five were seriously injured. There had been a collision Friday morning at Nelson, and a number of cars were wrecked. The wreck train had been there two days clearing up and making up preparatory to pulling out for the east.

At about 1 o'clock this morning the wreck train caboose was left standing on the main track with a number of cars. An eastbound freight struck the wreck train and threw the caboose on the top of the next car, setting both on fire.

There were 11 men in the caboose. One jumped off, five were hurt, three were burned beyond recognition and four were killed. One was burned up, not a sign of his remains being found.

The men killed were asleep in the caboose when the engine struck it. The injured were promptly removed to this place where medical aid was given them. The men that were burned presented a horrible sight, being literally charred. The coroner began an inquest to-day.

TRAVELER'S PERIL.

A Collision—One Man Killed — Several Passengers Injured.

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 19.—Private advices here state that a collision occurred on the Southern railroad near McKinney, about 12 miles south of Junction city, between No. 1 passenger south bound and a north bound freight.

No. 1 was running by the new schedule and by some mistake the freight was running on the old time. Charles Fagin baggagemaster and United States Express Messenger Kinney were killed.

Several passengers were injured.

VAUGHAN'S DEED.

The Man Who Stabbed the Rabbit Hunters Has Been Again Arrested.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 19.—Harry Vaughan, who in a quarrel at Melita recently stabbed and killed George Randall and seriously wounded his brother, and who was acquitted by a coroner's jury on the ground of self-defence, has been re-arrested and now lies in jail. He will be prosecuted by the Attorney-General on a charge of manslaughter.

TABERNACLE SEIZED.

A Painter Who Was Not Paid $1104.88 Since 1889.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Dec. 19.—By virtue of an execution issued by Judge Bartlett Saturday Rev. T. De Witt Talmage's tabernacle has been seized by the sheriff to satisfy a judgment of $1104.88 obtained on behalf of Alfred Tong, a painter, who painted the church after the fire in 1889 and has not been paid. An officer is in charge of the seized property.

Alive After Going Over Niagara Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Dec. 19.—The great falls of Niagara have been conquered, this time by a dog. The conquest was witnessed by a little group of people last Sunday afternoon off Luna Island. A large black Newfoundland dog, while lapping the water, shoved off the rock into the rapidly whirling current. In a twinkling he was swept over the American Falls. Out of curiosity the crowd went to the edge to look over the precipice. To the wonder of all the dog was seen to drag himself upon some rocks beside the Cave of the Winds. Four of the spectators decended to the rocks beneath and there found the dog weak and exhausted and bleeding from severe cuts in his flanks. He was carried to the stairs, a doctor sewed up the gashes, and in a few hours the dog was limping around and wagging his tail.

Not to Be Shot.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 19.—There is no truth in the report that Col. Nieves Hernandez, who is charged with having aided Garza to escape, would be shot on to-day. The case is now on appeal to Supreme Military Court. The hearing of the appeal was originally fixed for Monday, but has been indefinitely postponed on account of the absence of the defendant's counsel.

Suppressing Immorality.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 19.—The Police Commissioners Saturday unanimously instructed the Chief of Police to close saloons at midnight and keep gamblers under cover at all times, and require both to observe respectability on Sunday.

An Earl Dead.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Lionel Seymour William Dawson-Damer, the fourth Earl of Port Mrlington, died yesterday.

The Cholera in Germany.

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—The Reichsanzieger announces that five cases of cholera and two deaths have been reported in Hamburg in the last three weeks.

Typhus in Mexico.

GALVESTON, Tex., Dec. 19.—A special from Eagle Pass to The News says: A responsible gentleman who arrived yesterday from the interior of Mexico reports an epidemic of typhus prevailing in several Mexican cities. At Jacikatas the ravages of the disease have been terrible, and while he could not learn the number of deaths which had occurred, it was ascertained that seven physicians had succumbed to the epidemic.

Mr. Haggart's New Secretary.

OTTAWA, Dec. 19.—An order has been passed appointing Mr. J. H. Balderson, private secretary to Hon. J. G. Haggart, Minister of the Department of Railways and Canals, in place of Mr. A. P. Bradley.

Justifiable Homicide.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 19.—An inquest into the death of George Randall, who was stabbed to death on Saturday last by Henry Vaughn at Melita, Man., was held Saturday. Vaughn was acquitted, the coroner's jury giving a verdict of justifiable homicide.

NEW STYLE OF WARFARE

CROTON OIL WAS TO BE USED AT HOMESTEAD.

But the Cooks Refused—They Were to Get $50 Each and a Gold Watch and Chain — Rhubarb, Snuff and Other Things in the Powders.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 19.—The hearing in the case of Robert Beatty, charged with having been a party to a plot to poison non-union men employed in the Carnegie steel works at Homestead, was held at the office of Ald. McMasters Saturday. Patrick Gallagher, the informer, was present.

J. M. Davidson, a steamboat cook, was the first witness. He stated that in August in company with Gallagher they met Beatty in Pittsburg.

"It was understood," he said, "that we were to go to Homstead as cooks, and were to take something with us and put it into food given to non-union men in order to make them sick and render them unfit for work.

"Beatty took us to the office of the Knights of Labor, where we met Master Workman Hugh Dempsey. Gallagher and Dempsey went out and Beatty talking. Beatty suggested dosing the men with croton oil. I said, no. Dempsey said he knew a powder which would do better. He said he had used these powders in Chicago and he would guarantee us $50 each and our expenses.

"We got no powder that day. We then left the hall together. Beatty said we were each to get $50 and a gold watch and chain if we went. Gallagher went to Homestead two days after that. I went up Sept. 22. Beatty gave me some powders to take to Gallagher. There were nine powders in the package and I gave them to Gallagher. I don't know whether they were used.

"Before that Gallagher had been given a small package from Dempsey. One powder was enough to put in 30 gallons of tea or coffee. This was in the K. of L. hall and Beatty was present. Later, when Gallagher, Beatty and I went to the K. of L. hall, Dempsey asked how the powders worked. Beatty said, successfully, and wanted more. Dempsey said he would get more on December 1.

I asked Beatty what was in the powders. He said, rhubarb, snuff and other things. He did not say who furnished them. While we were talking he mentioned Lynch, Crawford and Dr. Perman.

Mr. Brennan gave him a severe cross-examination and did not shake his story in Quite a Spectacle.

The Brockville Times of Friday says: S. A. Spangenberg, the optician, who has been spending the past few days in the city fitting special and difficult cases of visual defects, was notified by the chief of police last evening that owing to the complaint of two local dealers in spectacles here, that it was contrary to a by-law, and that it would be necessary for him to discontinue his business to avoid prosecution. This is certainly one of the smallest transactions on record. A number of our prominent citizens have waited upon Mr. Spangenberg to express their sorrow that this has occurred. If this means that all specialists such as Dr. Buller, Dr. Ryerson and others, are prevented from coming here to aid the afflicted, who otherwise could get no relief, it is certainly most unfortunate. This by law ought to suffer the same fate that happened the one under which it was attempted to run McKelvey & Birch, of Kingston, out of town.

—Saturday's Canada Gazette contains the proclamation calling Parliament for the despatch of business on January 26. This is a month earlier than last year, and it is the general conviction that members will be at their homes sometime before Queen's birthday.

To the Electors of Ketcheson Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RESPECTFULLY ask your votes and influence as a Candidate for Alderman for 1893. I am in favor of the reduction of Aldermen to at least fourteen. To be elected by the wards—the present wards to remain intact. I will support all measures which as a citizen I think to be in the best interest of the present position and future progress of this City, believing neither in undue municipal extravagance nor in false economy.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RESPECTFULLY solicit your votes and influence for Mayor of the City of Belleville for 1893. I was born in Belleville and have lived amongst you almost all my life and personally known to the most of you. I have been an Alderman in the City Council for four years, and during that time have endeavored to represent you straightforwardly and faithfully.

My platform is economy in City affairs. If elected I will exert myself to further the best interests of the city.

Yours respectfully,

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

HAVING been requested by a large number of influential electors of the city of Belleville, to offer myself for Mayor for 1893, I have consented to do so, and now respectfully solicit your votes and influence. I was not born in Belleville but have lived in it for over 40 years, and have served 3 years in the City Council and School Board, (I would respectfully refer you to my work therein) I have been for 20 years in business, having had 20 years business experience in different parts of Canada, which is a wonderful help to me in civic affairs. I have chosen Belleville, as my home, and have invested all my capital in and around the city, and if elected will as before do all in my power to advance our fair city's interest.

I strongly urge the reduction of the number of Aldermen, and shall use every endeavor to carry it to effect the scheme I proposed to the City Council the past year, to that end.

I have also in view the pressing necessity of getting the city in the best sanitary condition possible to enable us the better to cope with disease or the cholra epidemic should it reach us next year.

Yours,

HARRY FOWELL.

"A snake in the grass" is all the more dangerous from being unsuspected. So are many of the blood medicines offered to the public. To avoid all risk, ask your druggist for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and also for Ayer's Almanac, which is just out for the new year.

A LECTURE will be given in St. Thomas's Church Hall to-morrow (Tuesday) evening, 20th inst., by Rev'd W. M. Edwards, late of the "Universities' Mission,"—Livingstone's—subject: "What I saw in Central Africa." Admission 15cts. Mr. Edwards was for some years engaged in mission work in Central Africa, and can speak from experience of that interesting country.

When King James the first wrote his "counterblast to tobacco" the royal pedant knew nothing of the "Myrtle Navy." If he had, instead of wasting his brains over his curious production, he would have filled his royal pipe with it, and would have taken a royal smoke, he would then have been prepared to admit that with regard to the injurious effects of tobacco, it all depended on what tobacco you smoked.

We do know of any preparation that has caught the public favor to so short a time as Dodd's Kidney Pills, but when we consider that three-fourths of the Canadian people are afflicted with kidney troubles in some form or other, and that Dodd's Pills are a quick and permanent cure for all these troubles, the large and increasing demand can scarcely be wondered at. Sold by all dealers or by mail on receipt of price 50 cts. per box. Dr. L. A. Smith & Co., Toronto.

Noblesse Oblige.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—It seems difficult to translate this quaint old idiom, for it is not a pithy saying, or law giving commandment in clear words that we can commit to memory, it is a mere expression of two words, a laconic, rudimentary form of simple sentence, like the example in grammar of what a simple sentence is, "Birds fly," and what can be more simple than this simple declaration of subject and predicate, noun and verb, the thing spoken of and what is said of it, and yet, so subtle and so mighty is the power of language that in one magical instant vivid pictures rise in our minds of the first birds flying out of a dazzling spring sky to us; and we feel the very thrill and ecstacy of their coming, and all that it means to us, or it is a summer sunset, the robins are singing, and we see the swallows quivering into ascension, soaring up and darting down the glowing sky; or we are in some old garden again sitting under a great bush and trembling with excitement because small wings are fluttering close, close above our heads, and not only do the lovely forms and colors of the birds rise before us, but we hear them singing, and recall the pleasant scene.

And so these two old words, "noblesse oblige," seem full of meaning. They seem always to be the answer to some question, the Because to some Why, some reason perfectly understood and sufficiently expressed in two words. But what is that Because? What is that reason? What subtle comprehension of its meaning enlightens us when we say it?

To my mind it does not conjure up only its stately Princes, Kings, Queens, Dukes, Duchesses, Lords, Ladies, &c., fulfilling the duties of their high rank. Instead, if we find the full meaning of this old word No blesse, we shall find that it belongs to us all—that its real meaning is the quality (the abstract word) of nobleness—nobleness of soul and deed; and that nobleness does not belong exclusively to people of high rank, for their very rank was given to their ancestors in acknowledgment of some noble quality or deed, that the descendants must always be as capable of doing

As a child I used to think that every law of courtesy, politeness, and good breeding, was simply the same as the teaching of Christianity—and I think so still.

I think I have found the key note of this intricate chord. Is it not sympathy? does it not always imply some act of patience, or courtesy, or self-sacrifice, or consideration for the feelings of other people, or heroism? If so, then does not noblesse, or noblesse, belong to us all? Are not its obligations upon us all? Certainly they are. Our nobleness must indeed oblige us all to be sympathetic, patient, courteous, self-sacrificing, considerate and heroic, for these are the simple and decided obligations of nobleness. So we find nobleness to be goodness itself—the very soul and life of christianity. We find that christianity obliges us all to be noble; so that noblesse oblige belongs to us all, and we may henceforth translate it into that tender teaching of our Master, "Do unto others as you would they should do unto you."

SOCIAL & PERSONAL

Mr. Hugh Walker, late purser on the Str. Ella Ross, will take a medical course in Queen's University after the Xmas holidays.

The condition of Mr. Thos. Hall, manager of the Gas Company was such to-day that no hopes were entertained for his recovery.

Mr. Geo. A. Browne, of the Descronto Navigation Co., was in town to-day settling up the past season's business.

Our "Arctic Climate."

The Kingston News of Saturday says: "We are indebted to Mr. John Marsh, of Elm street, near Division, for a bunch of carnations which he plucked from his garden yesterday. They have been growing in the open air without special protection, and are almost untouched by frost. Americans who think it must be dreadful to live where there are "eight months of Winter" would probably revise their notions on the subject of climate if they could see Canadians gathering flowers afield on the 16th of December."

We Should Live One Hundred Years.

We are century animals and have a perfect right to live out that period if we can. Many do so. Consumption has been killing off the flower of our youth through the centuries, but it will do so no more. Why? Because "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," wherever used cures consumption and the coughs and lung troubles which give rise to it. It will be like suicide to die of consumption in future if "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil" is within reach. In bottles 50c. and $1.00, at all Drug Stores.

A Victim of Consumption.

Mr. Michael Brennan, who was for some years employed in Frost's furniture factory, and who was at one time a member of No. 2 fire company, died this morning from consumption after about a year's illness. Deceased was but 23 years of age, and was a brother of Mrs. John J. Shea, from whose residence the funeral will take place on Wednesday morning.

Police Notes.

No arrests have been made since Thursday night.

A girl's box was picked up on the street on Saturday, and is at the station awaiting an owner.

A business place was found insecure on Saturday night.

Two tramps were sheltered last night.

Overcoats Must Go.

The season for selling overcoats is nearly over. At present our stock is getting a little low, and the sizes are broken. We intend making the prices very low on all overcoats, and clear them out with a rush. Call at the Oak Hall and pick out your coat—we guarantee you the price will please.

Sudden Death.

Our sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Orr, Madoc, in the sudden death yesterday of their only daughter, Catherine Stewart Orr, aged 9 years. The deceased was a niece of Mrs. O'Flynn, of this city. The funeral will take place next Wednesday.

The Cheese Factory Act.

Recently I have in North Hastings been obliged to consider the effect of the Act of the Ontario Legislature for 1892 relative to "Frauds on Butter and Cheese Factories." My opinion is that the recent Act referred to has rendered the prior Act and all other Acts in Ontario referring to frauds in supplying milk to factories of little or no value. I am of the opinion, from experience in trying very many cases of fraud in supplying milk, that it is now under the Act of 1892 almost impossible to procure a conviction in any case. Factories are practically, as far as regards the Ontario Act, unprotected. No matter how positive may be the evidence of the inspector, no matter how certainly the tests demonstrate the presence of a large percentage of water, or of the deprivation of cream, no conviction can be secured where the party charged declares on oath that he was not in any way a party to the crime, and backs his own oath up by the evidence of his household. It is true the magistrate or judge must be satisfied as to the truth of the defendant's statements, but when such evidence has been given, unless some one comes forward and swears he saw defendant water milk or abstract the cream, or other persons discredit the evidence of their oaths, declaring the defendant unworthy of belief, the magistrate would feel bound as against the prima facie evidence of the inspector to give the defendant the benefit of the doubt and discharge him. Tinkering with Acts of Parliament is dangerous business. Too many rash legislators, anxious to please their constituents, try their prentice hand and the result is destruction of the law they hoped to amend to amend. My impression is that parties who do water milk may possibly be reached under the general law of fraud, but certainly not in the great majority of cases brought under the recent Act.

I never knew a man to admit that he had watered milk, or stolen cream. Every man declares his innocence, and what people so strenuously assert, they will generally swear. So far as the Dominion Act is concerned, it contains the words "knowingly and wilfully." I will not now discuss that Act, because I have not proceeded under it of late, and I may at any moment be called upon to do so. I would like to point out what I fear has been practised to a considerable extent by factories, and I do so in order that others may avoid what may cause serious trouble. I have been informed that the practice is for an inspector to make his test, inform the factory officers of the result, and then notices are sent out stating to the persons notified that their milk has been found defective, and the delinquents upon coming to the factory are then fined or charged whatever sum the authorities may see fit to impose. Now, this course is illegal. No one but the properly constituted authorities have the right to impose a fine for a crime committed. Every dollar obtained in this manner can be recovered back; and every person who has been instrumental, as a party to imposing and receiving these fines, is in a very dangerous position. My very strong impression is that he is guilty of a serious crime.

What I think should be done is, to have the Act of 1892 repealed; pass an act which will compel the farmer to enclose his cans with a lattice like structure, which would admit the necessary air for cooling and aeration. Have this cage locked. Each lock should have two keys, one kept by the farmer, one given to the milk drawer; the expense would not exceed two or three dollars. The farmer would then be protected against tramps, strollers and enemies, from emptying buckets of water in the can. The factories would then be certain of securing conviction in cases where the tests showed water added, or cream taken away. As it is now, the present law is valueless; it protects the individual farmer from conviction, but it will have the effect of robbing and defrauding the factories to an enormous extent. This evening's paper states that Inspector Rollins had thirty persons fined this season for watering milk. I am satisfied that if the parties had not settled, no conviction would have been entered since the statute of 1892. The Inspector's evidence establishes only a prima facie case, which is sufficient until rebutted. Place the defendant in the witness box, let him deny he did the act, or countenanced it, and the prima facie case is fully met, and judgment must be for the defendant. In ancient Greece, so great was the rage for tampering with laws, that a statute was passed enacting that whoever desired to propose an amendment to an existing law, should stand up in the assembly with a rope about his neck; if the assembly decided the amendment was a good one, the change was made. If it decided the amendment should not be made, the daring legislator had the rope tightened, and he was speedily assisted to another tribunal. I trust the old Grecian custom will be adopted in our Ontario Assembly, as I think it will require some short and summary mode of procedure to put a stop to this flood of crude legislation that is injuring and destroying many good laws. I do not wish to say that I think the Ontario Act, as it stood before the amendment of 1892, was a fair and just act in every respect. I do not think so, but it was better than none. In all the cases tried before me where the defendants contested, I acquit them. The arguments of their learned counsel, Mr. Anderson, suggested many points which are unnecessary for me to enumerate—the grounds of my judgment sufficiently appear in what I have written.

DEATHS

BRENNAN—At the residence of Mrs. J. J. Shea, Church street, on Monday, Dec 19th, 1892, MICHAEL BRENNAN, aged 23 years.

Funeral on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, to Marysville R.C. Cemetery, Tyendinaga. Friends and acquaintances will please accept this notice.

A DISTURBANCE

isn't what you want, if your stomach and bowels are irregular. That's about all you get, though, with the ordinary pill. It may relieve you for the moment, but you're usually in a worse state afterward than before.

This is just where Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets do most good. They act in an easy and natural way, very different from the huge, old-fashioned pills. They're not only pleasanter, but there's no reaction afterward, and their help lasts. One little sugar-coated pellet for a gentle laxative or corrective for biliousness or cathartic. Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Dizziness, Sick and Bilious Headaches, are promptly relieved and cured.

They're the smallest, the easiest to take—and the cheapest pill you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

You pay only for the good you get.

GRASPING, AVARICIOUS CAPITALISTS

ARE WHAT OUR COMPETITORS CALL US!

GRASPING, because we want the trade of the earth! AVARICIOUS, because we hang on to the almighty dollar! CAPITALISTS, beause we have the money to tear them to pieces in the wholesale market!

Well, you can see what it amounts to. Success ever brings envy and distrust. If we were only half as successful, we would be feared only half as much as we are.

Our push and principle alarm our competitors. Our business grip make them wince. Our big sales excite their envy. Our popularity is what they cannot block and must put up with.

Talk of big stocks! Shout of immense piles of goods! GOUGH knows what big stocks mean. Throughout Ontario, in the best towns, GOUGH has clothing stores. It is a notorious fact that he does the trade of the town. He buys cheaper and carries more goods than all his competitors combined.

His last great purchase of wholesale stock at 60c. on the $ is a paralyzer. This stock was manufactured by H. Shorey & Co., Montreal, and amounts to over $20,000. Owing to the immense stock already in our main store, we were compelled to open another store next to Dunnet's Dry Goods House. We could not get it all into our main store.

Remember, within six weeks we have captured two stocks, amounting to over $56,000, and when we say we are in a position to sell these goods at less than the ordinary merchant buys for, we can prove it. Ask the railroad people who receives the most goods and they will tell you GOUGH, by ten times. Notwithstanding the low price of wheat and cry of hard times with other merchants, we are head and shoulders ahead of the best sales on record.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nervoline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nervoline is the best thing in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothaches in one minute; lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25 cents, sold by druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's nerve cure—Nervoline.

Gratifying to All.

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasing liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup Company.

SHOP EARLY

And often this week. Thursday and Saturday the farmers will demand a good share of our attention. Our display don't include raisins or tea, pills or perfumery, books or dolls, but if you want a piece of SILVER WARE, a LAMP, a dinner or tea set or anything in china or crockery why see us—that's where we shine. So maybe better choice in such a store as this than places where there's a little of everything and not much of anything. 9 hanging and 5 parlor table lamps sold Saturday. This shows how the main stream of trade keeps to the old channel. Open every night this week.

Blotches Cured.

DEAR SIRS,—In 1890 my body was covered with blotches and I was at last induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters; by the time I had used 34 bottles of it I was completely cured, and I cannot speak too highly of it.

MRS. JAMES DESMOND, Halifax, N. S.

Made With Skill.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skilful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

Out of Sorts—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure,' and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

BROOKE'S DAUGHTER.

BY

ADELINE SERGEANT,

Author of "A True Friend," etc, etc.
(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

'Oliver, you are too bad. I never made any plans of the kind.' But there was a distinctly guilty look in Mrs. Romaine's soft eyes. 'Besides, that is a piece of work that hardly needs doing. Father and daughter are too much alike to get on.'

'Alike, are they?'

'Yes, in a sense. The girl is very like her mother, too—she has Lady Alice's features and figure, but the expression of her face is her father's. And her eyes and her brow are her father's. And she is like her father—I think—in disposition.'

'You have found out so much that I think you scarcely need me to interview her in order to tell you more. What do you want me to do?'

'I want to find out more about Lady Alice. Could you not get Ethel Kenyon to ask her about her mother, and then persuade Ethel to tell you?'

'Can't take Ethel into our confidence,' said Oliver with a disparaging emphasis up on the name. 'She is such a little fool.' And he began to roll a cigarette for him self.

Mrs. Romaine watched him thoughtfully for a minute or two. 'Noll,' she said at length, 'I thought you were really fond of Ethel!'

Oliver's eyes were fixed upon the cigarette that he was now lighting, and, perhaps, that was the reason that he did not answer for a minute or two. At last he said in his soft, drawling tone—

'I am very fond of Ethel. And especially of the twenty thousand pounds that her uncle left her.'

'If Ethel Kenyon is handsome enough to be loved for something besides her money.'

'Handsome? Oh, she's good looking enough; but she's not exactly to my taste. A little too showy, too abrupt for me. Personally I like a softer, quieter woman; but as a rule the women that I really admire haven't got the twenty thousand pounds.'

'I know who would suit you,' said Mrs. Romaine leaning forward and speaking in a very low voice—'Lesley Brooke.'

'What is her fortune?—If it's a case of her face is her fortune, she really won't do for me, Rosy, however suitable she might be in other respects.'

'But,' said Mrs. Romaine eagerly, 'she is sure to have plenty of money. Her father is well off—better off than people know—and would probably settle a considerable sum upon her; then think of the Courtleroys—there is a fair amount of wealth in that family, surely—'

'Which they would be so very likely to give to Lesley Brooke!' said her brother with irony. 'Moonshine, my dear. Do you think that Lady Alice would allow her daughter to marry your brother!—knowing what she does, and hating you as she does, would she like to be connected with you by marriage?'

'That is exactly why I wish you would marry her,' said Mrs. Romaine almost below her breath. 'Think of the triumph for me!'

Her eyes glowed, and she breathed more quickly as she spoke. 'That woman so cruel me, neglected over my sorrow and my love,' she said; 'she dared to reproach me for what she called my want of modesty—my want of womanly feeling, and—oh, I cannot tell you what she said! But this I know, that if I could reach her daughter or her husband, and stab her to the heart as she once stabbed me, the dearest wish of my life would be fulfilled.'

'Women are always vindictive,' said Oliver, philosophically. 'The fact is, you want to revenge yourself on Lady Alice through me, and yet you don't consider me in the very least. If I married this Lesley Brooke, Lady Alice and all the Courtleroys would no doubt get into an awful rage with her and you and me and everybody; and what would be the upshot? Why, they would cut her off with a shilling and we would be next door to penniless. Then Brooke—well, he may be fairly prosperous, but he has only what he makes, you know; and I doubt if he could settle much upon his daughter, even if he wanted to. And he does not like me. I doubt whether even you, my dear Rosy, could dispose him to look favorably on my advances.'

Mrs. Romaine was perhaps convinced, but she did not like to own herself mistaken. She was silent for a minute or two, and then said with a smile—

'You may be right. But it would have been splendid if you could have married Lesley Brooke. We should have been thorns in Lady Alice's side ever afterwards.'

'You are already one, aren't you?' asked Oliver. He got up from the table and approached the mantelpiece as if to show that the discussion was ended. 'No, my dear Rosalind,' he said 'I'm booked. I am going to woo and wed Miss Ethel Kenyon and her twenty thousand pounds. She will be sick of me as dead as mutton in twelve months. And then we shall live very comfortably. But I'll tell you what I will do to please you. I'll flirt with this Lesley girl, nineteen to the dozen. I'll make love to her; I'll win her young affections, and do my best to break her heart, if you like. How would that suit you?'

He spoke with a smile, but Rosalind knew that there was a ring of serious earnest in his voice.

'It sounds a very cold blooded sort of thing to do,' she said.

'Please yourself.' 'I won't do it then.'

'Oh, Oliver——'

'Yes, I know you would like to see Lady Alice's daughter pining away for love of me,' said Oliver, with a little laugh. 'It's not a bad idea. The only difficulty will be to manage both girls—seriously, Rosalind, Ethel Kenyon is the girl that I mean to marry.'

'You are clever enough for anything if you like.'

'Thank you. Well, I'll see how far I can go.'

'I must tell you first, however,' said Mrs. Romaine, with some hesitation, 'that I told Lesley Brooke this afternoon that you were in love with Ethel, I had not thought of this plan, you see, Oliver.'

'Ah, that complicates matters. Still, I think that we can manage—after a little reflection,' said her brother, quietly. 'Leave me to think it over, and I'll let you know what to do. And now I'm going out.'

'Where?'

'Why should you ask? Do I generally tell you where I am going? Well, if you particularly want to know, I am going to the Novelty Theatre.'

'To see Ethel set!'

'No—her part will be over by the time I get there. I shall probably see her home.'

Mrs. Romaine made no remonstrance. If she though her brother's conduct a trifle heartless, she did not venture to say so. She was some times considerably in awe of Oliver, although he was only a younger brother.

She went into the drawing-room rather slowly, watching him as he put on his hat and overcoat in the hall.

'There is one thing I meant to tell you to-night, but I forgot it until now,' she said pausing at the drawing-room door. 'I am really sure that I saw Francis on the Square to-day.'

Oliver turned around quickly. 'The deuce you did! Did he see you?—did he try to speak to you?'

'No, but I think that he is lying in wait. You made me promise to tell you when I saw him next.'

'Yes, indeed. I won't have him bothering you for money. If he wants money he had better come to me.'

'Have you so much, Noll?'

He frowned and turned away. 'At any rate he is not to annoy you,' he said. 'And I shall him so.'

Mrs. Romaine made no objection. This ne'er-do-well brother of hers—Francis by name—had always been a trouble and perplexity to her. He had been in the habit of appealing periodically to her for help, and she had seldom failed to respond to the appeal, although she believed that all the money she gave him went for gambling, drink or drink; but lately Oliver had interfered.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Hor & Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

DALTON'S FAIR

FRONT STREET.

Santa Claus' Headquarters.

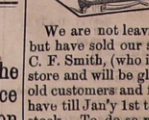

Our endeavors to make the Fair headquarters for Christmas supplies is more marked this fall than at any previous time. Our store, though large, is not sufficient to accommodate the great crowd at Christmas times. We would therefore urge you to make your selections now while the stock is complete and avoid the crush at Christmas time. We have just received 100 cases of foreign goods, such as dolls, toys, tooth brushes, hair brushes, purses, fancy china cups and saucers, vases, jewellery, handsome lemonade sets, glass tea sets, decorated and engraved; our assortment of American glassware must be seen to be appreciated. Never have we been able to offer such bargains in albums, ladies' work boxes, jewel cases, perfume cases, shaving cases, brush and comb cases, ranging from 50c. up, playing cards from 5c up, beautiful whisk holders all the latest styles from 49c up. We have something new in dolls' cradles, dolls' sleighs, children's extension tables, sets of furniture, toy picture books, fancy books, magic lanterns 49c up, steam engines, skates, dolls' carriages, children's sleds and cutters strong and durable at lowest prices, novels by the best authors 10c worth 25c, pocket knives and table cutlery an endless variety to choose from. But, perhaps, one of the greatest draws is a special line of extra quality writing paper, 8 quires (120 sheets) for 17c. We will not attempt to enumerate further, but would invite you to call at before purchasing, where you can buy good goods at less than bankrupt prices.

DALTON'S FAIR,

Remember the place,

DUNNETT'S OLD STAND,
East Side of Front Street.

We are not leaving the city, but have sold our stock to Mr. C. F. Smith, (who is now at our store and will be glad to see his old customers and friends), and have till Jan'y 1st to reduce the stock. To do so we will have to make some sacrifices.

Our Stock of Stoves Is Very Large and to reduce we are offering great bargains. Call at once and secure them.

In a dangerous emergency, AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is prompt to act and sure to cure. A dose taken on the first symptoms of croup or bronchitis, often averts further progress of these complaints. It softens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membrane, and induces sleep. As a remedy for colds, coughs, loss of voice, la grippe, pneumonia, and even consumption, in its early stages
AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral
excels all similar preparations. It is endorsed by leading physicians, is agreeable to the taste, does not interfere with digestion, and needs to be taken usually in small doses.
"From repeated tests in my own family, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has proved itself a very efficient remedy for colds, coughs, and the various disorders of the throat and lungs."—A. W. Bartlett, Pittsfield, N. H.

RED BLOOD PILLS.
Nothing Like Them on Earth.
They produce a natural fresh pink color on the cheeks and lips. The most remarkable and the most perfect of all health giving remedies. The greatest of all flesh formers. They purify, enrich and strengthen the blood. The only safe, sure and certain remedy for all those distressing complaints so peculiar to the female sex. They act promptly on the relaxed mucous membrane of the digestive canal, and in this way restore its functions. Pale people using these pills rapidly acquire a beautiful, clear and healthful appearance.

THE SILVER QUESTION.

END AND FAILURE OF THE CONFERENCE.

The Situation Presented By An American Paper — An Attempt To Appreciate silver in the U. S. Was Made in Good Faith.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The Tribune editorially says:

With the end and failure of the International Monetary Conference comes the urgent question what the United States shall do. Over 14 years this country has staggered under the burden of attempting to control the silver market for the whole world. Every time it has succeeded in establishing a slightly higher market production has so increased in this and other countries that a sharp decline in price has followed.

When the Bland Silver Act was passed in 1878, compelling coinage of $2,000,000 per month, the price was over 54 pence per ounce, and that year this country produced less than 35,000,000 ounces of fine silver. Last year the country produced nearly 60,000,000 ounces, and the average price in August this year was 38.11 pence per ounce and is now 38.37 pence per ounce, a fall of about 16 pence or 32 cents per ounce since the United States began to provide an artificial market.

Yet the increase in production has gone on in spite of the fall in price. A sure marked theory vanished, the mines could afford to produce all that the Government has taken, even at the low prices this year, and it is evident that they have produced considerably more, because about $12,000,000 have been exported besides the quantity used in the arts. It is an obvious mistake to rely upon a falling price to regulate production of this article, so long as the Government takes enough of the product to limit the fall.

Much of the silver is produced in connection with other metals, so that its cost of production cannot be separately stated. Much is produced from mines where the cost is so low that the price must fall much further before they cease to be profitable. The Government has tried all these years to benefit silver producers by securing higher prices, but has failed, because it has succeeded so well in stimulating production.

This the United States has stated to other powers, patiently and courteously, with earnest appeal to them for their own interests to provide some larger use of silver. The present administration has done all that it could. Perhaps it would have accomplished more if it had been sustained by the people, but the transfer of power to the Democratic party was interpreted by foreign Governments as notice that free coinage by this country alone would afford them relief for a time at least, and prospects of great advantage.

They were willing to have the United States take all the risk and pay all the cost, and they kindly consented to take all the advantage they could of the opportunity. It would be simple madness for foreign powers if within a week Congress should pass and the President should sign a bill repealing at once all purchasing of silver. That would leave other countries to shoulder their burdens themselves.

Senator Sherman was not the only prominent man who anticipated that the conference would fail to do anything, for no other issue could well have been expected after the defeat of President Harrison. But if Senator Sherman now asks immediate action on the measure he has proposed he will find many supporters than a short time ago seemed possible.

Had silver men themselves treated the act of 1890 in good faith as a compromise, the case would be different. They began agitating for its repeal and for free coinage, even while they were actually buying the higher prices which they now ask. Did for a time secure. During the last campaign they generally joined hands with free-coinage Democrats in denouncing the law.

If they do not wish it, and if it proves of no real benefit to the country but only a help to foreign powers, the sooner it is repealed the better. Republicans have no occasion to be ashamed of it. They tried the measure in good faith, hoping other powers would soon be ready to do their part. When other powers are not, the United States may well decline to lose out for its own interests. There are other Democrats in the present Congress who are ready with Senator Hill to stop silver purchases at once.

Possibly a majority of them may yet vote to substitute free coinage. But among Republicans they will find fewer allies than before, it may be inferred from the language attributed to Senator Jones of Nevada. Long the foremost champion of silver coinage he will doubtless be supported by others if he declares that it is necessary now to impress upon foreign Powers a correct idea of the American position in this matter.

THE END IS NEAR.

Blaine Is Making a Strong Fight Against Active Work.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 20.—"Mr. Blaine maintains last evening the hold he secured this morning when his condition showed a slight improvement," was the reply of Dr. W. W. Johnston, Mr. Blaine's physician, when asked how his distinguished patient was by a reporter. Dr. Hyatt, the consulting physician, who was present, concurred in the statement. They had just come from the sick room, where they had held a 15 minutes' consultation.

"Mr. Blaine is still in full possession of his faculties," continued Dr. Johnston, "and while very weak he is nevertheless as cheerful after the trying ordeal of yesterday as could be expected. He converses as freely as he is permitted to do by his family, and partakes regularly of nourishment. It is impossible to state how long Mr. Blaine is likely to survive. Speculation on such a subject would simply be idle nonsense. I don't think Mr. Blaine is in any danger of dying to-night. Further than that I do not care to state."

A friend of the family stated that Blaine is liable to a recurrent attack of heart failure at any moment, and that the family have been warned to prepare for the worst when it comes.

"When," said the gentleman, "the physicians state that Mr. Blaine is better they simply mean that he is alive, and that is about the true statement of his condition."

Chopped Up.

ST. LOUIS, Dec 20.—The ghastly work of a St. Louis murderer or a dissecting student was the terrible revelation yesterday, in the baggage depot at Quincy, Ill. The remains of a white man were found chopped to pieces and jammed into an old soap box.

This receptacle had been shipped from the Union depot in St. Louis as baggage. The police were notified and took charge of the remains.

A Theosophist Coming.

MONTREAL, Dec. 20.—Mrs. Besant, the theosophist, will visit Canada next month. She will lecture here.

DR. BRIGGS' BOLD STAND.

What He Said About Spurgeon — No Ground for Conviction.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Dr. Briggs continued his argument in defence of himself before the Presbytery of New York.

Referring to the late Dr. Spurgeon of England Dr. Briggs said, "The prosecution use the passage from the inaugural address referring to Spurgeon under both charges. They lay upon it in their argument to excite prejudice against me. What I said about Spurgeon may not be pleasing to the prosecutors. But is it not scarcely true? Is it not a fact that Spurgeon is an example of the modern evangelical? Did he not assail the church and the pews in the interest of the authority of the Holy Scripture? These are well-known weaknesses of the great preacher. But he had so many excellent Christian qualities that the world pardons his weakness in the matters referred to and honors him as the noblest evangelical of them all.

"It may seem strange to some of you that the average opinion of the Christian world would not assign him a higher place in the kingdom of God than Martineau or Newman. But a little reflection ought to convince you that it is so. Spurgeon is the hero of the evangelical party in the church. He was generally esteemed to be the greatest preacher of England in our generation. But any one who understands the state of religious opinion in England knows that Spurgeon only represented a party among the Non-conformists, and that a considerable proportion of them would not assign him a higher place than Martineau or Newman. He lived to find himself in a hopeless minority in his own denomination. He was not a master of Christian theology, and, therefore, as soon as he went out his sphere to teach men wiser than himself he made a sad failure.

"You are now to determine in the fear of God whether I am guilty or not. I have shown you that I subscribe to all the statements of the Confession and of the Holy Scripture in the passages cited to sustain the charge. I have shown you that there is no inconsistency between the doctrine that there are errors in the Scriptures as I explain them and the statements of confession and Scripture. You can only convict me on the ground of a deliverance of the assembly at Portland or of some dogmatic theory in your minds. If you should do this you will violate the constitution of the Presbyterian Church, break faith with me and sear your own consciences before God."

A WOMAN SHOT DOWN.

Her Three Children Penned in a Hut and Burned.

CARIETO, MEX., Dec. 20.—Further particulars of the fight opposite San Ignacio just received state that during the fight Capt. Seguar of the Mexican troops, to better protect himself in a hand to hand fight, went into the jackal and fought from there with guns and pistols.

There was in the jackal a woman and three children. The captain called to the revolutionists asking that the women and children might go out unharmed, but the reply was, "No."

The woman tried to steal out with the children, but as she appeared at the door she was shot down and the children ran back. The revolutionists were unable to dislodge the captain from his quickly chosen fortress and they set fire to the jackal, which drove the captain out.

As he made his appearance he was shot dead and his body thrown back into the burning building. The three children were penned in the hut and burned. The bodies of dead soldiers were thrown into the flames, and when the troops from Guerrero went to bury the dead they found some of the bodies burned to a crisp.

A woman, the wife of a non-commissioned officer, undertook to escape by crossing the Rio Grande to Texas, but she was seen about the middle of the stream and shot. She sank beneath the waters and her body has not yet been found. There are a number of wounded Mexican troopers at San Ignacio. Only two of the revolutionists were killed and one wounded.

TWO METEORS COLLIDE

The Crew of the Eva Ferris Witnessed an Unusual Event.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Dec. 20.—The captain's log of the schooner Eva L. Ferris says that when in latitude 37 deg. 21 min. and longitude 76 deg. 36 min. on the night of Dec. 7 at 9 o'clock he saw a meteor start from west southwest and pass directly over the deck of the vessel. After passing the zenith it met another meteor in its transit, and swerving from a direct line the two passed together. There was a report as of a heavy gun, and the reverberation lasted for many seconds. The first meteor struck the second on the northerly side and broke it into fragments, some of which fell within sight of the vessel, and showed a bright light until they went under the water. The original meteor went on its course and disappeared behind a dark bank of clouds.

A PRAIRIE SENATOR.

Brandon Contributes a Fourth Representative From the Prairie Province.

OTTAWA, Dec. 20.—Mr. John Nesbitt Kirchkoffer of Brandon has been called to the Senate as the fourth senator from Manitoba. Under the Manitoba Act the province was given three senators and provision was made for a fourth when the census showed that the population exceeded 75,000. The last census showed the population to be over 150,000, and Manitoba therefore gets an extra senator.

Formal notice has been received from the Quebec Government of the appointment of Judge Casault to represent the province in the commission to settle the outstanding debt account between the Dominion and that old Province of Canada as now represented by the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

Lieut-Governor Carvell of Prince Edward Island has applied for three months' leave of absence on account of ill-health.

The writ has been issued for an election in Lotbinière to fill the vacancy caused by the appointment of Mr. Desjardins to the clerkship of the Legislative Assembly of Quebec. Nomination on Dec. 29, polling on Jan. 5.

WARRANTS ISSUED.

For the Arrest of Some of the Suspected Leaders in the Homestead Poisoning.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 20.—Warrants were issued yesterday for the arrest of Hugh Dempsey, the district master workman Knights of Labor, and J. M. Davidson for complicity in the Homestead poison plot.

The charges are made by County Detective Beltzhoover and charge the men with felonious assault and battery and administering poison to the men employed in the Homestead mill during the late trouble.

Warrants are also out for the arrest of Gallagher, the confessor.

This evening Dempsey called at the alderman's office and surrendered. He was released on $2500 bail. He strongly asserts his innocence and says he will have no trouble in proving it. Davidson has not yet been arrested.

"It Cured Mother."
A Man Made Happy.
GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she one I scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pain similar to those suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your med cine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

The profection of God being infinite, to become God-like means infinite growth.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicines, each of which is a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, throat and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other medical man who had been in attendance reported that death had resulted from taking an overdose of laudanum, the coroner decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

Bennett was aged 52 and leaves a widow and one child.

SISTERS DROWNED.

Broke Through the Ice at North Bay—No Assistance Was at Hand.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Dec. 20.—News has been received here of one of the saddest drowning accidents that has ever occurred in this section of Ontario.

It appears that three young girls, daughters of John and William Clark, were walking on the ice at Restoule Lake when, the ice being weak, they broke through.

No assistance being at hand, all three were drowned. Only the briefest particulars have reached here.

Killed on a Handcar.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 20.—Word was received yesterday of an accident at Crystal City Saturday night by which Robert Fair, late of Ayr, Ont., lost his life.

He, with four others, had gone to Pilot Mound on a handcar to transact some business and when returning, while pumping the car, the car, through some cause, slipped and fell under the car, the iron lever of which struck him over the left temple, inflicting a terrible gash, which resulted in instantaneous death. The body will be sent to Ayr for interment.

Tortured For Witchcraft.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M., Dec. 20.—Information comes from Gallup, N.M., that Deputy Marshal Green of that town and a troop of cavalry from Fort Wingate have gone to Zuni to arrest a number of the tribe for torturing and killing two Indians charged with witchcraft. Information of the outrage was received from an old Zuni Indian, who implored help for his tortured son.

Gen McCook ordered troops to accompany the Marshal. Trader Graham confirms the report.

The Petitions Thrown Out.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 20.—The Manitoba full court has rendered a decision which throws out the petitions brought by the Opposition against the recently elected Greenway Government supporters. The ground of this decision is that the security put up by the Opposition was not legal tender, being simply bank bills, which are held not to be money.

Killed In a Railway Accident.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 20.—Word has just been received here of the death of Andrew Somerville, a well-known Winnipegger, who was killed in the railway accident on the Northern Pacific. The remains are to be sent to Orono, Ont., for burial.

HIS COURAGE FAILED.

He Could Not Secure Work and Committed Suicide.

TORONTO, Dec. 20.—Samuel Bennett, a carpenter living at 15 Morris-street, committed suicide at his home early on Sunday morning. Bennett was a carpenter by trade and had been out of work for some weeks.

On Saturday evening he returned from a search after work and gave his wife the history of his unsuccessful quest. Bennett owned some small cottages in the city and on Saturday evening one of the tenants called and paid the rent, amounting to $7.50. Bennett took the money and went out. In a few minutes he returned and lay down.

Shortly afterwards his wife noticed that he was in pain, and ran out for a doctor, who did everything in his power for Bennett. It soon became evident that his resuscitation was impossible and Coroner Johnson was notified.

Finding that the deceased had purchased 10 cents worth of laudanum at a Spadina-avenue druggist's shop, and that the medical man who had been in attendance reported that death had resulted from taking an overdose of laudanum, the coroner decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

Bennett was aged 52 and leaves a widow and one child.

A SLANDER REFUTED.

The assertion that Orangemen object to Sir John Thompson as Premier because of his religious belief, is thus authoritatively refuted by the Sentinel, which is the organ of the Orange order: Sir John Thompson's acceptance of the Premiership of the Dominion is not objected to by Orangemen, for the reason that he does not hold the office as a Roman Catholic, but as the ablest and most capable citizen to whom the position could be given, and were the Orange Society found arraying itself against Sir John merely on account of his religious faith, the charge of intolerance and bigotry would then be well merited. Every Orangeman subscribes to the declaration that he will "defend all loyal subjects of every religious persuasion in the enjoyment of their constitutional rights." Hence so long as Sir John Thompson rules in equity and remains free from clerical interference, he will doubtless receive the support of every liberal minded Orangeman in the ranks of the Conservative party. Those of our brethren who are identified with the Liberals will no doubt differ with Sir John on political grounds, but few, if any, merely because of his religious belief.

THE ONTARIO MINING LAW.

The Mail's correspondent at Sudbury strongly condemns the Ontario mining law and urges the amendment of the mischievous legislation. He remarks: "The growing demand for nickel has increased four fold in the past few years. England has adopted nickel steel armor plates for her new warships, and Russia is soon to do the same. The United States were the first to discover the great superiority of nickel steel for this purpose, and now Commodore Melville, the Engineer-in-Chief of the American navy, has decided to test its value on a practical working scale for the shafting of gunboats. Another use to which this new metal is likely to be applied before long is in the manufacture of steam boilers. Its tensile strength being fifty per cent. greater than that of ordinary steel, or as 90,000 to 60,000 pounds to the square inch nickel steel would save an immense weight in the making of boilers. In other words, the thickness of a boiler would be reduced one-third, while fully as strong and less liable to explode or rust. Thus it becomes more certain every day that the consumption of nickel is going to be simply enormous in the very near future, and yet public interest in our nickel mines is all but dead both at home and abroad. The new Mining Act has killed it. There is no other reason for this anomalous condition of things that anyone can see.

"The new law has now been in operation for two seasons, under the most favorable circumstances; but instead of promoting the "speedy development" of our mines, as promised in the Act, it has paralysed the mining industry all over the province, and is a complete, hopeless failure in every way. This is quite apparent to every one acquainted with the hard facts of the matter. And something radical must be done in order to secure the attention of capitalists to our great mineral resources, and give mining here and elsewhere in Ontario a fresh start. Mere tinkering with the present unworkable law will not produce the wished for result. It was said by a correspondent in the Mail the other day that no better policy had ever been laid before the Government. Allow me, therefore, to repeat for the third time a very good and practical suggestion made last year by a Toronto gentleman interested in mining here. It was this: To abolish the royalty as the main obstacle, and then to fix the price of all mineral lands at $5 an acre, of which $2 an acre should be paid to the Government, and the other $3 an acre to be expended in development work on all claims taken up, at the rate of $1 an acre each year for three years, so as to give the poor man a chance as well as the capitalist. In this way the Government would get more revenue than by the present restrictive Act, and we should also find out what mines there are in the country."

A PRIVATE LETTER FROM DARKEST AFRICA.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The Berlin correspondent of The Standard learns from a private letter, dated at Dar-Es-Salam on Nov. 20, that the rumors of Dr. Emin's death are erroneous.

Dr. Emin, the letters says, is now following Stanley's route through the Congo State, and but for an affection of the eyes is in exceptionally good health.

The Paris Fund.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The News learns from its Paris correspondent that an agreement has been signed to release the Paris fund. Messrs. Dillon, Davitt and Harrington will award jointly the old claims not in excess of £14,000, and Messrs. Dillon and Davitt will award the remainder.

Protestantism in Spain.

MADRID, Dec. 20.—Despite the emphatic protests of the Papal Nuncio, the bishop of Madrid and thousands of aristocratic Catholics, the Protestant church was consecrated here yesterday with the consent of Premier Sagasta. Archbishop Plunkett of Dublin, Dean Hyacinthe and several English clergymen were present. The consecration ceremony had been deferred repeatedly as the approval of the Conservative Premier could not be obtained.

Silver Depreciation.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The Daily News says in commenting upon the adjournment of the Brussels Conference: "The American dollar is in jeopardy on account of the natural competition for business on a gold basis. It seems likely enough that the good intentions of the American treasury will not suffice to save the silver dollar from depreciation."

BERLIN, Dec. 20.—The rinderpest has spread to five hitherto unaffected estates in Mecklenburg and to seven in Holstein. Many cattle are dying of it also in Jutland.

PREPARING FOR WAR.

The Town of Pelotas May Be Attacked on Christmas Day.

VALPARAISO, Dec. 20.—A correspondent at Montevideo telegraphs that public attention there is occupied by the situation in Rio Grande do Sul. A meeting of Castilhistas held at Pelotas resolved that if the National Government did not demand of Uruguay that she retain the Federals they would invade Uruguay.

The work of fortifying Pelotas continues. Col. Portugal, the commandant, has 600 men in the garrison and expects 200 more; 500 volunteers have been called for. The Federals have 2000 men, and expect to attack the town on Christmas day. It is the intention of the Federals, so it is said, to reinstate Silveira Martins, who is alleged to have received large sums from Comte D'Eu to aid in the restoration of the empire. Rumors are afloat that Brazil proposes to divide Paraguay and Argentine.

Admiral Gherardi called yesterday on the Intendante. Naval officials have received the officers of the American fleet most cordially, and have shown them every attention.

TO ENTERTAIN EUROPE.

A Novel Scheme on a Parallel with the Wild West Show.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Paul Boynton sailed by the Umbria. He has been here for three weeks arranging matters so that he may become the worthy successor of Buffalo Bill as a novel showman. He has leased Buffalo Bill's old quarters in Earl's Court, and next May will begin an exhibition called the World's Water Show.

He proposes to represent all the big rivers of America, from the Mississippi down, and to exhibit every kind of boat afloat from an Indian canoe up. He will give a parade on the Thames, with 100 men and women walking on water shoes, playing ball as they float up and down the river.

He will bring from America Indians for the canoes, and whole families of niggers with the flat-bottomed boats of the Southern bayous. He will give old-fashioned clambakes on the grounds, something never heard of on this side of the ocean, and will introduce every form of aquatic sport known.

A BAD RAIL.

It Wrecks a Train in Kentucky—The Conductor and Post Clerk Hurt.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 20.—The eastbound passenger train on the Newport News and Mississippi Valley Railroad was wrecked by broken rail at Riddyville, Ky., yesterday morning. The engine was ditched and the mail and baggage cars and the second-class coach were overturned and badly smashed. Conductor Carter had his shoulder dislocated and Postal Clerk Sanders was severely but not fatally injured.

Held Up For $700.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 20.—Robert S. Mowatt, agent of the Ogilvie Milling Co., was held up by masked men at Elkhorn Saturday night and relieved of $700.

MELBOURNE, Dec. 20.—A meeting of advocates of free trade was held here yesterday at which a resolution offered by Sir Henry Parkes, congratulating the Democrats of the United States upon their recent electoral victory, was adopted. Congratulations were also cabled to President-elect Cleveland.

Fire in Thurlow.

On the morning of Monday, the 19th inst., at about 6 o'clock, Lyman Jones, of the 5th concession of Thurlow, was tending his cattle, when the lamp exploded, setting fire to the barn, which was destroyed with contents including 10 cows and 4 horses, besides all his grain, hay, and fodder. His loss is over $2,000, upon which there was a partial insurance.

Decreasing The Death Rate.

The mortality among consumptives has been materially decreased of late years by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Phthisis, Bronchitis, Abscess of the Lungs, Pneumonia and Throat Affections are completely subjugated by a timely use of this excellent pulmonic. Palatable as milk. ARTISTIC.

Beautiful Designs — Blackboard Artists.

What our High and Public Schools are Doing.

Little has been done by the Board of Education to make either attractive or beautiful their "seats of learning," while in most cases, time has changed the once white walls of the class rooms into dingy, murky hues. Not even a border relieves the monotony of the walls, and no one would presume from their surroundings that any artistic tastes would be developed by the pupils. What their environments have failed to do for them, has happily been attended to by some of the teachers, and proof of this is to be found in the silver medals awarded to pupils of our High School by the Education Department—and by the multitude of diplomas which are granted from year to year. That the eminence which our High School has attained in the department of drawing and kindred studies, is not wholly owing to the instructions given in the High School, and the ability attained by the High School pupils, will be seen by a visit to the Ladies' and Public High Schools to-morrow. It will amply repay our citizens to make to-morrow their "visiting day" to those schools, as they will find on the walls of each class room demonstration of what we have said. It will be a pleasing surprise to many a parent, more or less to any citizen interested in the progress of the rising generation to witness the taste, genius, ability and originality of the designs, which have been reproduced in chalk on the walls of the assembly room of the High School, and then to go down stairs and see the "budding genius" as displayed on the black board of Mr. Gardner's, Miss Urquhart's, Miss M. A. Northcott's, Miss Minnie Flemings, Miss Lucy Craig's, Miss Emmons' and Miss Jennie Fleming's rooms. We will not go to descriptions of these, as our object is to excite public curiosity so that to-morrow many shall go and see for themselves. It has been left to the enterprise and enthusiasm of a few of the pupils of the High School to bring about the display. They were bound to have the commencement exercises of the High School something different to what they had been for the past few years, and they have perseveringly been at work for several weeks, not only in preparing a programme, which will be rendered to-morrow night, but in doing much to make the bare and unattractive walls of the assembly room wear the semblance of beauty. The visitor will find to-morrow how much has been accomplished by hard work, artistic tastes and chalk, for all the designs are in white and colored chalks. The public school pupils, "fired" by the zeal of those above them, said "We can do something also," and so has come about the commendable display made by them. The designs on the High School walls are as follows:

Stained glass rose window, carpet, Miss Perry; flower pot, cover for text book on drawing, Miss Cryaler; Greek Urn, ornamental star, Miss Blanche Cryster; ornamental hinge, ornamental horse chestnut, Miss Pretty; door panel, Miss Yerex; Minton Tile, Miss Brown; oil cloth, Miss Lozier; scroll work for piano front, Miss Minnie Johnson; spray drawn from natural flower, Misses Ewen, Pretty and Yerex; Christmas design, Miss Hunter; graduates' design, Misses Cryaler and Pretty; arms of the province, Miss Ida Parker, Misses Allen, Huffman, Calhoun, Pretty, Cryaler, Brown, Rous, Jones, Yerex, Price, Johnson, Ponton, Walker, Lozier; and those in the public school division are by

We Should Live One Hundred Years.

We are century animals and have a perfect right to live out that period if we can. Many do so. Consumption has been killing off the flower of our youth through the centuries, but it will do so no more. Why? Because "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," wherever used cures consumption and the coughs and lung troubles which give rise to it. It will be fully suicide to die of consumption in future if "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil" is within reach. In big bottles 50c. and $1.00, at all Drug Stores.

To the Electors of Ketcheson Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RESPECTFULLY ask your votes and influence as a Candidate for Alderman for 1893. I am in favor of the reduction of Aldermen to at least fourteen, to be elected by the whole city—the present wards to remain intact.

I will support all measures which as a citizen I think to be in the best interest of the present position and future progress of this City, believing neither in reckless municipal extravagance in false economy.

WILLIAM N. PONTON.

Belleville, Dec. 1892. 196

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RESPECTFULLY solicit your votes and influence for Mayor of the City of Belleville for 1893. I was born in Belleville and have lived amongst you I my life, and am personally known to the most of you. I have been an Alderman in the City Council for four years, and during that time have endeavored to represent you satisfactorily and faithfully.

My platform is economy in City affairs. If elected I will exert myself to further the best interests of the city.

Yours respectfully,
FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

HAVING been requested by a large number of influential electors of the city of Belleville, to offer myself for Mayor for 1893, I have consented to do so, and now respectfully solicit your votes and influence. I have resided in the city six years, three of which I have served in the City Council and School Board. (I would respectfully refer you to my work therein.) I come out as a business man, having had 20 years business experience in different parts of Canada, which is of great service to any one in filling the civic chair. I have chosen Belleville as my home, and have invested all my capital in and around the city, and my interests being centred here, I will, if elected, do all in my power, as I done heretofore, to advance the best interests of the city.

I strongly urge the reduction of the number of Aldermen, and shall use every endeavor to carry into effect the proposal made by me to the Council in respect to it last year.

I have also in view the grave necessity of getting the city in the best sanitary condition possible to enable the better to cope with disease or the cholera epidemic should it reach us next year.

Yours,
HARRY FOWELL.

To the Municipal Electors of Murney Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

FOR the third time I respectfully ask for your votes and influence to secure my return as one of your representatives.

During the year I have been honored with the chairmanships of two important committees, the whole of the time, and a third—the Executive—for the last half of the year.

You are the judges whether I have attended faithfully to duty and acted conscientiously.

Whatever works for the city's good, if possible from the standpoints of economy and prudence, are the objects of my aim. I renew my pledges of attention to duty and fidelity to our city's welfare, and remain

Yours obediently,
J. E. WALMSLEY.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of My Native City:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

FOR years past I have had the offer of support for the Civic Chair, but at the present time too many of my old friends have brought more pressure to bear than I can decently withstand. I have been asked to stand for the highest position that the citizens can confer on any one. Among the men who offer me their support are to be found Irishmen, Englishmen, Dutchmen, Frenchmen and now and then a Scotchman, besides a good many Canadians. To the electors I am no stranger. I have been a member of the City Council for the greater part of a quarter of a century and during that time have done what I felt was for the best interest of the city and will continue on the same line if successful at the polls on Monday. I am in favor of strict economy in city affairs and decrease of our indebtedness. At the nomination I will freely give my views on the situation, and with much respect ask that when you mark your ballot you will not forget

A. T. PETRIE.

NORTH HASTINGS.

Proceedings of the Conservative Convention at Madoc.

A. W. CARSCALLEN FOR THE COMMONS

Speeches by Hon. Mr. Bowell and Messrs. H. Corby, W. B. Northrup, A. F. Wood and Other Gentlemen.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Madoc, Dec. 17, 1892.

The convention (yesterday) was, from a Conservative stand-point, more than a success. It was a demonstration of what the real party feeling is in North Hastings.

There are discontented people in all ridings, and there are also local jealousies. North Hastings has not been free from these impediments to unity of action, but when you consider the extent of the riding—about 4,000 square miles, with some 15 or 20 villages scattered throughout its limits—you can understand what chances there are for dissatisfied or disappointed politicians to stir up strife. Yet there really has been but very little of it, and the convention, though having local favorites, agreed upon a candidate with a heartiness that is an unmistakable omen of victory. The nominee, Mr. Carscallen, will be the member for North Hastings, beyond doubt. The Township conventions had met—delegates had been selected, and the organization of the convention was complete. The representation to the convention is one in fifty, so that the 102 delegates represented over 5000 electors. The President of the Liberal-Conservative Association, A. W. Carscallen, Esq., private banker, of Marmora, was in the chair; Sylvester Ross, Esq., Secretary, was to his place. A resolution was moved and carried unanimously, declaring the result of the convention to be accepted by all. A second resolution, as follows, was then presented to the meeting, and after some remarks by the mover and seconder, was carried unanimously, and with enthusiasm:

Moved by James Haggerty seconded by A. F. Wood, and resolved, That this convention, representing the Liberal-Conservative party of North Hastings, tender to the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Trade and Commerce and leader of the Senate, our sincere and hearty congratulations on his being called to the second position of importance in the Government of the country, and while we regret that the acceptance of that office prevents his being the direct representative of this constituency, a position he has so ably filled for 25 years, we cannot but commend the action of the Premier, Sir John Thompson, in selecting him to take charge of so important a department, the duties of which, while responsible and onerous, we have no doubt he will perform with credit to the Dominion, to North Hastings and to himself, being assured that while he is not a member in name he will still keep a warm corner in his heart for his old and faithful riding.

Hon. Mr. Bowell replied in a very happy manner thanking them for the long confidence placed in him. He referred to the various stages of political growth that had taken place since his connection with the riding, and at the close of his remarks was greeted with an ovation that went to show what a strong hold he had on the riding.

Nominations were then made and were as follows: Dr. Boulter, James Duncan, A. W. Carscallen, A. F. Wood, John Caskey and James Haggerty.

Mr. A. F. Wood, M.P.P., then announced that he declined a nomination. His reasons briefly were—a desire on his part not to leave the Ontario Legislature at this juncture, that it would cause two elections, it was not in his personal interests and he had not refused positively earlier because he did not want his friends to think that he did not fully recognize the kindness of the many electors who had earnestly pressed him to be a candidate. He had had opportunities to explain and he had reason to believe they were quite satisfied with the course he had taken.

The balloting then commenced—H. Corby, Esq., M.P., W. B. Northrup, Esq., M.P., and the secretary being the scrutineers—with the result of the first ballot as follows:

Dr. Boulter	11
Jas. Duncan	12
Jas. Haggerty	15
Jno. Caskey	22
A. W. Carscallen	42
	102

This not giving a majority of the whole to any one, a second ballot was taken, resulting as follows—Dr. Boulter and Mr. Duncan having dropped out:

Haggerty	14
Caskey	32
Carscallen	56
Total	102

Carscallen was then declared the nominee amid much applause, the other nominees joining in the congratulations. Mr. Carscallen then thanked the convention for his nomination. Practical and eloquent speeches were then made by H. Corby, M.P. for West Hastings, and W. B. Northrup, M.P. for East Hastings, and the meeting closed with "God Save the Queen." The next convention required is to meet at Marmora.

Had Mr. Carscallen decided to accept a nomination before the day of the convention, there appeared to be but little doubt that he would have taken three fourths of the convention on the first ballot. As it was, it was only a short time before the convention met he consented, after many had been probably pledged to others. He is a strong candidate; all recognize this. He has been a hearty worker for the party for the last 20 years, and always liberal during the contest with time and means in the legitimate work of the canvass. There is not likely to be opposition, but if it comes there will be one of the biggest majorities polled for the Conservative candidate that ever was given in this riding. There never was a healthier feeling in this riding. There is an honest belief that in the present Cabinet of the Dominion, with Sir John Thompson at the head, Hon. M. Bowell second in command, and Hon. Geo. E. Foster as Finance Minister, we have one of the strongest—if not the strongest—cabinet since confederation.

There is to be a mass meeting at Queensboro on the evening of Thursday—the day before the nomination—which is to be addressed by H. Corby, M.P., W. B. Northrup, M.P., A.F. Wood, M.P.P., and others.

A Rough Prisoner.

Officer Hayes last night answered a call to the G.T.R. station, and arrested a man who gave his name as Jos. Thompson. He was drunk, and loitering about the premises. When arrested he resisted, and a convoy soon had to be secured to take him to the station. The officer was roughly handled. At the police court this morning the accused was charged with drunkenness, and resisting the police. He stated that he did not know what he did. He was sent to gaol for 3 months.

City Council.

A regular session of the City Council was held last night. Present—Mayor Bogart, Ald. Clarke, Foster, Gordon, Diamond, Fenton, Luscombe, Hopkins, Wallbridge, Walmsley, Graham, Lingham, Grills, Sheviln, LaRoche, Starling and Doyle.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS, ETC.

From J. J. Thrasher asking to be appointed deputy returning officer.

The committee which was appointed to inspect the buildings on Front street, also signs in connection with stores, reported that a few of the signs were low, but none dangerous. Some sloping roofs were bad as regards the formation of ice.

The Treasurer's report for November showed a balance on hand of $17 83.

Reports were presented from the Executive, Water and Gas and Fire Committees all recommending the payment of accounts.

The Council went into committee of the whole on reports, Ald. Foster in the chair.

The reports were adopted without discussion.

A letter was read from Mr. Bowman, C. E., of Toronto, relative to sewerage.

A motion was passed, authorizing the Mayor and Ald. Fenton to wait upon Mr. Bowman when in Toronto.

The committee rose and reported. Report received and adopted.

BY-LAWS.

Ald. Diamond introduced a by-law appointing two High School trustees in place of J. H. Simpson and E. Hayne.

The Council went into committee of the whole on by-laws, Ald. Starling in the chair.

The by-law was passed through its various stages and numbered.

The blanks were filled in with the names of Messrs. Hy Pringle and Wm. Clarke.

A by law was introduced and read a first time, exempting a manufacturing concern from taxation.

The committee rose and reported. Report received and adopted.

Ald. Clarke moved that the motion referring the By-law regulating the number of liquor licenses to the By-law committee be rescinded, and the By-law read a second time.

Ald. Walmsley and Lingham were in favor of the by-law being discussed by the By-Law Committee, to which it was referred.

Ald. Clarke wished the by-law passed through its second reading. The citizens in January last voted in favor of the reduction of licenses, and the by law was in harmony with the wish of the majority of the electors.

Ald. Diamond said that as the chairman of Finance and By law committees seemed to think the motion was a reflection upon the By-law committee, and that Ald. Clarke was to blame for not being at the meeting of the committee in order to make a quorum, he thought it was as well to discuss the question as to the legality of the proposed by-law. Whilst he gave Ald. Clarke credit for being sincere in pressing the motion, he was of the opinion from what the Solicitor had said, that the By-law should be passed by the Council the year in which they were elected, and before the first of May. With this the speaker agreed, and being of that opinion he could not support the present motion, and as he wished to vote for a legal by-law, he would like to have the Solicitor state his opinion.

The Solicitor being asked, said that he agreed in what had been stated by Ald. Diamond.

Ald. Clarke's motion was defeated. The yeas and nays being called, resulted as follows:

Yeas—Clarke, Gordon, Grills, Hopkins, Luscombe.—5

Nays—Diamond, Doyle, Foster, Graham, LaRoche, Lingham, Sheviln, Starling, Wallbridge, Walmsley.—10

The Council adjourned at 9 o'clock.

SOCIAL & PERSONAL.

Mr. Thos. Halls was to day reported as growing gradually weaker.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Northrup left to-day to spend their holidays with Rev. Dr. George and wife at St. Louis.

Messrs. T. Waymark, District Deputy, and J. W. London, P.D.D., went to Ormsby to day to open a new lodge of the Sons of England.

The Mayoralty.

Yesterday afternoon a large and influential deputation, consisting of some of our leading citizens, waited on Dr. W. J. Gibson, with a numerously signed requisition of ratepayers, to request him to consent to a nomination to serve as Mayor for 1893. The Doctor, while appreciating the kind intentions and good wishes of the requisitionists, in consideration of his professional engagements did not think, in justice to the citizens and himself, he could give as much time to the office as it required. He therefore declined to consent to be a candidate.

Successful Operation.

The student of Albert College, who was injured at a football match some weeks ago, and whose life since has at several times "hung in the balance," had an operation performed on him this morning by Drs. Youker, Farley and Eakins, which we are glad to learn will likely result in his restoration to health.

Nature's Choice.

This is the name of a handsomely illustrated pamphlet just gotten out by the North Galveston Association. It tells about the remarkable advantages of their property, either to the settler or the investor. John Forin, Belleville, is the local agent of this company and would be pleased to call upon any person who wishes full information about this property.

Children's Carriages, Sleighs, Organs, Violins, and small Musical Instruments all included in the great discount sale now on at Harrison's Book Store.

A carload of new sleighs has just arrived at Fairyland. Mr. Scantlebury realizes that these have arrived late in the season and in order to clear them out will offer them at half price until Christmas.

A LONG PROCESSION

of diseases start from a torpid liver and impure blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures every one of them. It prevents them, too. Take it, as you ought, when you feel the first symptoms (languor, loss of appetite, dullness, depression) and you'll save yourself from something serious.

In building up needed flesh and strength, and to purify and enrich the blood, nothing can equal the "Discovery." It invigorates the liver and kidneys, promotes all the bodily functions, and brings back health and vigor. For Dyspepsia, "Liver Complaint," Biliousness, and all Scrofulous Skin, and Scalp Diseases, it is the only remedy that's guaranteed to benefit or cure, in every case, or the money is refunded.

About Catarrh. No matter what you've tried and found wanting, you can be cured with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. The proprietors of this medicine agree to cure you, or they'll pay you $500 in cash.

GRASPING, AVARICIOUS CAPITALISTS

ARE WHAT OUR COMPETITORS CALL US!

GRASPING, because we want the trade of the earth! AVARICIOUS, because we hang on to the almighty dollar! CAPITALISTS, beause we have the money to tear them to pieces in the wholesale market!

Well, you can see what it amounts to. Success ever brings envy and distrust. If we were only half as successful, we would be feared only half as much as we are.

Our push and principle alarm our competitors. Our business grip make them wince. Our big sales excite their envy. Our popularity is what they cannot block and must put up with.

Talk of big stocks! Shout of immense piles of goods! GOUGH knows what big stocks mean. Throughout Ontario, in the best towns, GOUGH has clothing stores. It is a notorious fact that he does the trade of the town. He buys cheaper and carries more goods than all his competitors combined.

His last great purchase of wholesale stock at 60c. on the $ is a paralyzer. This stock was manufactured by H. Shorey & Co., Montreal, and amounts to over $20,000. Owing to the immense stock already in our main store, we were compelled to open another store next to Dunnet's Dry Goods House. We could not get it all into our main store.

Remember, within six weeks we have captured two stocks, amounting to over $56,000, and when we say we are in a position to sell these goods at less than the ordinary merchant buys for, we can prove it. Ask the railroad people who receives the most goods and they will tell you GOUGH, by ten times. Notwithstanding the low price of wheat and cry of hard times with other merchants, we are head and shoulders ahead of the best sales on record.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best thing in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothaches in one minute; lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Why not try it to day? Large bottles 25 cents, sold by druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's nerve cure—Nerviline.

SHOP EARLY

And often this week. Thursday and Saturday the farmers will demand a good share of our attention. Our display don't include rattles or tea pills or perfumery, books or dolls, but if you want a piece of SILVER WARE, a LAMP, a dinner or tea set or anything in china or crockery why see us—that's where we shine. So much better choice in such a store as this than places where there's a little of everything and not much of anything. 9 hanging and 5 parlor table lamps sold Saturday. This shows how the main stream of trade keeps to the old channel. Open every night this week.

BROOKE'S DAUGHTER.

BY

ADELINE SERGEANT,

Author of "A True Friend," etc., etc.

(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

He had said that Francis must henceforth apply to him and not to Rosalind if he wanted help, which sounded kind and brotherly enough; but Rosalind had a vague suspicion that there was more than met the eye in this declaration. She fancied somehow, that Oliver had secret and special reasons for preventing Francis' applications to her. But she knew very well that it was useless to ask questions or make surmises respecting Oliver's motives and actions, unless he chose to show a readiness to make them clear to her. So she let him go out of the house without further remark.

As Oliver crossed the road, he noticed that a man was leaning against the iron railings of the green enclosure in the middle of the square. The man's form was in shadow, but his face seemed to be turned to Mrs. Thomaline's house. Oliver sedulously averted his eyes and hailed a passing hansom cab. He had no mind to be delayed just then, and he was almost certain that he recognized in that gaunt shabby figure his disreputable brother. No, by-and-bye he would talk to Francis, he said to himself, but not to night. He had other game in view on this particular evening in September.

The Novelty Theatre was just then occupied by a company that claimed to be the interpreters of a Scandinavian play writer whose dramatic poems were just then the talk of London. Ethel Kenyon was playing a very minor part—a smaller role, indeed, than she was generally supposed to take, but one that she had accepted simply as an expression of her enthusiastic admiration for the author. Oliver knew the state of mind in which she generally came away from the representation of this play, and counted on her bright and sympathetic mood as a help to him in the course he meant to pursue.

He knew her habits as well as he knew her moods. For the last three years, ever since Rosalind had settled in London, and he had been able to cultivate Miss Kenyon's acquaintance, he had watched her blossom from a mere laughing girl into a very attractive woman. It was only during the past few months, however, that he had thought of her as his future wife—only since she had succeed to that enticing income of three thousand pounds. Since then he had studied her more carefully than ever.

The Scandinavian writer's play was over by a quarter to ten o'clock, and was succeeded by another in which Ethel had no share. She never stayed longer than was necessary on those nights. She was generally ready to leave the theatre soon after ten o'clock with her companion, Mrs. Durant, who had the right of entry to her dressing room, and generally acted as her dresser. Maurice Kenyon had refused to let his sister go upon the stage unless she was always most carefully chaperoned. Mrs. Durant was always at hand whenever Ethel went to the Novelty Theatre, and Oliver knew exactly what to expect when he took up his position—not for the first time at the narrow little stage door.

It was after ten o'clock, and the moon had risen in an almost cloudless sky. Even London looked beautiful beneath its light. Oliver cast a glance towards and nodded as if in satisfaction. He did not care to be seen just then; but he held a theory that women, being more romatic, were likely to say 'yes' to a wooer than 'no,' where they were wooed beneath a moonlit sky. The chances were all in his favor, he said to himself.

A cab was already waiting. Presently the door was opened and a young lady in hood and cloak came out. The light fell on a delicate, piquant face, with a complexion as of ivory fairness which cosmetics had not had time to destroy, with charming scarlet lips, long-lashed dark eyes, a dimpled chin, and a great quantity of curling hair which would not lay straight, but twists itself into tight rings, and gets into apparently inextricable tangles, and looks perfectly lovely all the time. And this was Ethel Kenyon. Her companion, a woman of forty-five, staid and demure, followed close behind her, giving no sign of surprise when Oliver raised his hat and gently accosted the two ladies.

'Good-evening, Miss Kenyon. Good evening, Mrs. Durant; I hope you notice what a lovely evening it is!'

'Indeed I do!' said Ethel, fervently. 'Oh, how I wish I were in the country! I should like a long country walk.'

'Would not a town walk do as well, for once?' asked Oliver, in his most persuasive tones. 'I was wondering whether you would consent to let me see you home, as it is such a lovely night. But I see you have a cab—'

'I would rather drive, I must say,' remarked Mrs. Durant. 'It was what she knew she was expected to say, and she was not sorry for it. 'I am tired of being on my feet so long. But if you would like to walk, Ethel, I daresay Mr. Trent will escort you.'

'I should be only too pleased,' said Oliver.

Ethel laughed happily. 'All right, Mrs Durant. You drive, and I'll walk home with Mr. Trent.'

She scarcely waited for Oliver to offer his arm. She laid her hand in it so naturally, so securely, that even Oliver felt an impulse of pleasure. He looked down at that lovely, smiling creature at his side with admiration, even with tenderness.

At first they did not speak much, for they had to pass through some crowded, ill-smelling thoroughfares, where conversation was almost impossible. By-and bye they emerged from these into Holborn, and thence they made their way into the wider streets and airier squares which abound in the West Central district. When they came in sight of the white pillars and paved yard of the British Museum, they were in deep talk on all sorts of matters—'Shakespeare and the musical glasses,' as Oliver afterwards laughingly remarked. But he did not choose that she should altogether guide the course of conversation. Now and then he took the reins into his own hands. And it amused him to see how readily she allowed him to direct matters. She responded to the slightest hint, was attentive to the least check. Such quickness of apprehension, he argued, meant only one thing in a woman; not intellectual faculty but love.

'And you like the stage!' he said to her, after a time.

'I like it immensely. I can express myself there as I could in no other sphere of life. People used to advise me to take recitations; how glad I am that I stood out for what I liked best.'

'What one likes best is not always the safest path.'

'You might as well say it is not always the easiest path! Mine is a very hard life, as far as work is concerned, you know. I toil early and late. But how can you be so awfully trite, Mr. Trent! I did not expect it of you.'

'A good deal of life is rather trite,' said Oliver. 'I know only one thing that can preserve it from common placeness and dullness and dreariness.'

'And that is—'

'Love.'

A little silence fell on both of them. Oliver's voice had sunk almost to a whisper; and Ethel's cheeks had grown suddenly very hot.

'Love makes everything easy and beautiful. Does not your poet say so—the man whose play you have acted in to-night? Ethel, why don't you try the experiment,—the experiment of loving!'

'I do try it,' she said laughing, and trying to regain her lost lightness of tone. 'I love Maurice and Mrs. Durant and hosts of people.'

'Add one more to the list,' said Oliver. 'Love me.'

'You!' she said doubtingly. 'I am not sure whether you are a person to be loved.'

'Oh, yes, I am. Seriously, Ethel, may I speak to your brother? May I hope that you may love me a little, and that you will some day be my wife?'

(To be Continued.)

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by spurious imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation. Sealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Hor & Co.," Brock ville, Ont.

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

MRS. WM. OLIVER, Brighton, Ont.

Little Jennie Was Cured,

DEAR SIRS,—My little Jennie was very bad with La Grippe, which left a bad cough. I gave her Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam and it soon cured her.

MRS. MCARTHUR, Copleston, Ont.

There are oak trees in existence 1,000 years old.

Holloway's Corn Cure destroys all kinds of corns and warts, root and branch. Who then would endure them with such an effectual remedy within reach.

A Thing of Beauty is a Joy Forever

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ar

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

DALTON'S FAIR

FRONT STREET.

Santa Claus' Headquarters.

Our endeavors to make the Fair headquarters for Christmas supplies is more marked this fall than at any previous time. Our stores, though large, is not sufficient to accommodate the great crowd at Christmas times. We would therefore urge you to make your selections now while the stocks are complete and avoid the crush at Christmas time. We have just received 100 cases of foreign goods, such as albums, dolls, tooth brushes, hair brushes, purses, fancy china cups and saucers, vases, jewellery, handsome lemonade sets, glass tea sets beautifully engraved; our assortment of American glassware must be seen to be appreciated. Never have we been able to offer such bargains in albums, ladies' work boxes, jewel cases, perfume cases, shaving cases, brush and comb sets, work baskets, 50c up, playing cards from 5c up, beautiful whisk holders all the latest styles from 40c up. We have something new in dolls' shoes, dolls' cradles, children's extension tables, sets of furniture, toy picture books, penny books, magic lanterns 40c up, steam engines, skates, dolls' carriages, children's sleds and cutters strong and durable at lowest prices, novels by the best authors 10c worth 25c, pocket knives and table cutlery an endless variety to choose from. But, perhaps, one of the greatest drives is a special line of extra quality writing paper, 5 quires (120 sheets) for 10c. We will not attempt to enumerate further, but would invite you to call at before purchasing, where you can buy good goods at less than bankrupt prices.

Remember the place.

In a dangerous emergency, AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is prompt to act and sure to cure. A dose taken on the first symptoms of Croup or Bronchitis, checks further progress of these complaints. It soothes the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membrane, and induces sleep. As a remedy for colds, coughs, loss of voice, la grippe, bronchitis, and even consumption, in its early stages
AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral
excels all similar preparations. It is endorsed by the medical profession as agreeable to the taste, does not interfere with digestion, and needs to be taken usually in small doses.

"From repeated tests in my own family, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has proved itself a very efficient remedy for colds, coughs, and the various disorders of the throat and lungs."—A. W. Bartlett, Pittsfield, N. H.

"For the last 45 years I have been taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for lung troubles, and am assured that for such ills"

THE BARBARIC CUSTOMS

OF THE YANKEE NATION ASTONISH GERMANY.

German Papers Say Hard Things About the United States and Restriction Laws —Money Grabbers Without Any Spirit of International Honor.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Emil L. Boas, general passenger agent of the Hamburg-American Packet Company, returned yesterday from Hamburg, where he went to consult with directors about the threatened stoppage of immigration.

"The people in Germany are greatly stirred up," Mr. Boas said to-day, "over the orders of the United States Government stopping steamship passengers and detaining vessels. You cannot appreciate here the strong feeling that prevails in the Fatherland. The press of Germany is only too glad of some opportunity to criticise the American Government for what papers term the medieval customs of the Yankee nation.

"They call us a nation of barbarians and money-grabbers, without any spirit of international honor. The articles, as a rule, strongly advise Germans not to visit the United States during the World's Fair this year, as the Yankees only want rich foreigners to fleece them, closing their doors against the poor.

"I found German merchants greatly perturbed over the recent orders of the Treasury Department threatening to hold steamers 20 days in quarantine. They were afraid to ship merchandise and could not carry out the orders received from America. Commerce between the two countries is suffering greatly and enemies of Republicanism sneer at the American Government as the cause."

SIGNED A NOTE.

He Thinks His Women Folks Could Have Saved Him.

HAMILTON, Dec. 21.—A farmer named Robert Martin, residing near Ancaster, called at police headquarters to complain of the way in which he had been taken in by a sloth peddler yesterday. During the absence of his "women folks," in whose good judgment he seemed to place great confidence, he turned a willing ear to the blandishments of a slick fakir, who sold him goods which were to be made up into clothing in the course of a few days. The stuff was worth about $20, and Martin gave a note for $48, payable in nine months.

Fight With Horse Thieves.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Dec. 21.—Meagre particulars of a desperate fight between two deputy United States marshals and a band of five horse thieves at Hyattville, Johnson County, in which five of the participants were killed, have been received.

James Huff and William H. Nucher, the deputy marshals, attempted to arrest Ira Walker, Ace Achmica and another horse thief, and during the fight that followed the five named were killed. The other two desperadoes have disappeared, but a posse will start after them at once.

Whitman's Admirers.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—A reunion of friends of the deceased poet, Walt Whitman, will be held in Camden, Jan. 15. Their idea is primarily to discuss the purchase, endowment and preservation of Whitman's famous two-story frame home at 330 Mickle-street, Camden, where the poet-philosopher did the most of his literary work. At present about $500 has been raised toward the endowment, but from $1500 to $2000 more is needed.

Too Fond of Chips.

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 21.—A shortage of $50,000 in the freight depot of the Louisville and Nashville Railway was discovered yesterday. Agent John C. McCourt and Cashier Shotwell, young men, have been removed. Each blames the other. They played faro and the races to a considerable amount. The Guarantee Company of North America was surety for both men.

Stanford Has Engaged Ben.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21.—The statement is published that President Harrison, at the expiration of his term of office, will become a member of the faculty of the Stanford University, having accepted a proposition to deliver a series of lectures on law as a non resident professor.

The Cook Arrested.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 21.—Patrick Gallagher, the missing cook who confessed to having been implicated in the Homestead poisoning conspiracy, was arrested yesterday.

Late this afternoon James Davidson, one of the self-confessed poisoners, was arrested.

Welton Has a Respite.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Dec. 21.—In the graveyard insurance case the jury could not agree on a verdict, and Rev. Mr. Welton has been freed from jail on his own recognizance of $10,000. The case will probably be resumed.

Hanged for Wife Murder.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—Joseph Meller was hanged yesterday for the murder of his wife in the latter's cot. The crime was an atrocious one, the woman being literally chopped to pieces with a carving knife and the remains buried in a cellar.

Meller wished to be rid of his wife so that he could marry another woman. He had his fate coolly and the execution was uneventful.

Blaine's Condition.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—At 1 a.m. Mr. Blaine is sleeping and is no worse. The doctor says there is no danger of his dying yesterday.

The Nubian Aground.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—The steamship Nubian, whilesentering Lisbon harbor yesterday during a fog, ran aground at high water. A hole was made in her hull. Her passengers and mails have been safely landed. She lies in a critical position.

Should Be Flayed.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 21.—In a quarrel with his wife last night Richard Martin poured kerosene over her and set it afire. When the woman attempted to extinguish the flames Martin assaulted her with a razor. She cannot live.

A Negro Lynched.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Dec. 21.—Jim Bond, a negro, was lynched at Guthrie yesterday afternoon for attempting to outrage Mrs. Clarence Covington. Bond confessed his guilt.

National Quarantine Law.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce a resolution requesting Congress to pass a national quarantine law was unanimously adopted.

Box Factory Burned.

HAMILTON, Dec. 21.—The Ontario Box Company's factory in Main-street was burned last night. Loss about $10,000, covered by insurance.

READY FOR REVOLUTION.

A Signal For a General Fight Between the Royalists and Masses.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—It is expected here that at any moment a revolution will break out in Paris and extend over France.

The exposures of corruption in the Chamber of Deputies have thrown broadcast the belief that the Royalists are determined to carry the next elections by secret operations, and it is believed that it is only necessary for a small crowd in the streets of Paris to start the row, and the city and nation would join in and give France another taste of the power of the people when maddened with desire to wade in the blood of the wealthy classes.

The people of Paris are now in an extremely excited condition over the disclosures and accusations made in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday over the Panama Canal scandal.

HOUVIER CONFESSES.

He Received Loans of Money For the Secret Service Fund.

PARIS, Dec. 21.—There was great excitement in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday when M. Rouvier denied any personal connection with the Panama Canal scandal and stated that he had received loans from private friends to use in the secret service fund in order to retain his government in power.

The effect of this confession was tremendous.

Two London Money Lovers May Pay Dear For Their Wealth.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—J. W. Hobbs, the London builder, and J. W. Wright, a solicitor, who were arrested on charges of forgery in connection with the recent failure of the Liberator Permanent Building and Land Investment Trust, have had additional charges preferred against them.

Hobbs will also have to answer for theft of a large sum of money belonging to his own firm, J. W. Hobbs & Co.

The new charge against Wright is that he stole a check for £2500 belonging to the Liberator Society, while he was formerly financial manager of the society and Hobbs was its managing director. It is said Hobbs & Co. owe the society £2,000,000.

WEBB'S MISSION.

The People of the United States To Be Taught Islamism.

BOMBAY, Dec. 21.—Alexander Russell Webb, who recently resigned his office as United States consul at Manila to preach Islamism, is now at Hyderabad soliciting contributions to a fund to be spent in sending Islamite missionaries to the United States.

He is having immense success. He will use much of the money secured in India to establish Islamite newspapers and lecture courses in American cities. He will also publish a new translation of the Koran. Mr. Webb says he was converted to Islamism by a careful study of the Koran and the works of the interpreters.

He made this study during his leisure hours in Manilla. He has resolved, he says, to devote the remainder of his life to preaching to the people of the United States the true religion and endeavoring to convert as many as possible from their present false belief. The western world, he says, is waiting to be Islamised.

BOOTH VINDICATED.

The Committee of Investigation on His Affairs Report Favorably.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—The report of the committee of which the Earl of Onslow is chairman, and which was appointed to investigate the affairs of the Salvation Army as concluded by Gen Booth, was made public yesterday.

The report speaks favorably of Gen. Booth's enterprise for the redemption of Darkest England, but qualifies the general verdict of approval with the criticism to the effect that too much cash has been sunk in building operations at the beginning of the enterprise.

The report is a great victory for General Booth, whose management of the Salvation Army finances is thus found to be correct by a committee of unimpeachable character and standing, and the appointment of which was promptly met in the first place by hostile critics of the Salvation Army.

The Work of Fiends.

MADRID, Dec. 21.—Anarchists appear to be resuming their activity in Spain. Three petards were exploded in Seville on Sunday last, with disastrous results to the mansion of a merchant named Pous and of the Marquis of Villapanes, two of the most prominent residents of Seville. The residence of the Marquis was considerably damaged, but no person was hurt.

The Deacon Case.

PARIS, Dec. 21.—Edward Parker Deacon has won in his fight for justice against him by the proprietor of the Hotel Splendide at Cannes for damages done on the occasion of the shooting. Each party to the action is to pay his own costs.

Gladys, the daughter whom Mrs. Deacon abducted from the Convent of the Assumption, has been placed in the Dominican Convent at Neuilly.

Tennyson's Will.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—The probate of Lord Tennyson's will has been granted. The gross personal estate amounts to £57,200. The entailed estates descend from Hallam Tennyson to the succeeding male heirs. The will was executed in 1884.

An Impoverished Estate.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—A meeting of the creditors of the Marquis of Ailesbury was held yesterday. It is announced that the estate would not furnish more than seven shillings and six pence in the pound.

Using Canada's Wealth.

MONTREAL, Dec. 21.—The Canadian banks brave been making money lately by lending their surplus funds in New York where high rates for money have prevailed during the past two or three months.

Money has been loaned as high as 20 to 40 per cent. in New York during the past week.

Out of the amount loaned by Canadian banks in the United States to the end of October, which was $22,792,466, the Bank of Montreal loaned $12,574,000; Canadian Bank of Commerce, $3,000,000; Dominion Bank, $1,288,000; Merchants' Bank, $764,000.

Preacher and Teacher Burned.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 21.—A special from Warrensburg says: Philippe E. Herrie of Schoon Lake, a teacher of vocal music and a local Methodist preacher, was burned to death here early yesterday morning.

J. S. Woodward, Louis Gountney and Edward Branch were severely burned, the latter probably fatally. The men were removing furniture from the burning residence of J. L. Labrum when a chimney and wall fell, burying them in the debris.

"It Cured Mother."

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of Burdock Blood Bitters of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can say that my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of the medicines, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad; she could scarcely eat any thing and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with a few bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY I wish you success with your medicines, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicinal herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing and relieving consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so vitalizing and harmonizing or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are afflicted with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is no palliative that is offered you, but a cure it, and a put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

ON FIRE WITH ECZEMA
Terrible Sufferings of Little Baby. Seven Doctors and Two Hospitals Fail. Cured by Cuticura.

My baby boy, 4 months old, broke out with eczema. The disease spread so rapidly, the eczema spread to his limbs, breast, face, and head, until he was nearly covered. His sufferings were pitable to behold; he had no peace day or night, but little sleep. He was under treatment at different times at two hospitals and by seven doctors in the city without benefit; every prescription of the doctors proved a failure, but he grew worse all the time. For seven months I expended about $3 per week for medicine, and was entirely discouraged. I purchased CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP and CUTICURA RESOLVENT and from the first application of CUTICURA SOAP and CUTICURA RESOLVENT baby showed signs of improvement, and in nine weeks he was entirely cured, and has now a fine head of hair. I do not hesitate to say my mother could wish to see. I recommend every mother to use it for every Baby Humor.

THE BOY POISONED.

An Heir to $50,000 Removed in a Startling Way.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 21.—Little 4-year-old Josepin Guthrie was laid to rest in the McKeesport Cemetery on Saturday, and the story goes that he was murdered almost before he had passed the age of infancy because he was heir to $50,000 and stood in the way of another's more chance to obtain the fortune.

His mother is now suffering from nervous prostration at the home of her sister, Mrs. H. D. Darbacker of McKeesport, brought on by the tragic death of her little son. The supposed murderer is a man who was also an aspirant for the hand of Mrs. Guthrie and thought the boy not only stood in the way of his getting the fortune, but also thought the little fellow occupied too much a place in the heart of the mother and prevented her from forming any new attachments.

John Guthrie, sr., the father of the dead boy, was a wealthy civil engineer and lived with his family on a farm six miles east of Latrobe. Four years ago, shortly after the birth of his son, he was taken ill with typhoid fever and died soon afterward, leaving $50,000 to his infant son, which, however, was to revert to the mother in case the son died before reaching maturity.

After the death of the father everything ran along smoothly until about one year ago, when on the day preceding Thanksgiving, 1891, the boy was suddenly taken ill. He vomited and had griping pains in his stomach, but as he soon recovered nothing was thought of it at the time. Shortly prior to the boy's sickness Mrs. Guthrie, who was still young and said to have been quite pretty, commenced to receive the attentions of a man whose name the friends of the family refuse to mention.

However, the would-be suitor found but little favor in the eyes of the widow, whose heart was wrapped up in the love of her only child.

The boy soon regained his former health and strength, and Mrs. Guthrie, finding farm life too lonely, returned to Latrobe. On March 14 last the boy was again taken suddenly sick with similar symptoms, only the second illness was far more severe than the first.

His mouth became sore and he vomited freely, and on the third day Dr. H. W. Hitzrot of McKeesport, a trusted physician of the family, was sent for. After making a thorough examination, the doctor stated that the child's illness was caused by some powerful drug that had been administered to him. Dr. Donnelly of Latrobe, was also called in, and he expressed himself to be of the same opinion as Dr. Hitzrot. Dr. Birchfield, who attended the case from the first, reluctantly admitted that the symptoms indicated poisoning.

The little fellow, after hovering between life and death for weeks, slowly began to recover, and by June 1 was able to walk again.

After he had so far recovered that he was able to talk he said to his mother: "Mamma, Mr. —— gave me a drink and said, 'Here, Joe, is something good for your cough,' and it burned my throat when it ran down." He repeated this several times to different friends of the family. Until that time there was no clue to indicate who had administered the poison. Suspicion now fell upon the man whom the child had named as the giver of the strange drink, and he was immediately dismissed from the good graces of Mrs. Guthrie.

As a result of the extensive ulceration of the stomach due to poisoning the boy's whole system was deranged and weakened, making him an easy prey to any disease which he might contract. Acting under the advice of physicians his mother took him to Toronto, Canada, but the change made little or no improvement in his health. Remaining there but a short time they returned, going to the home of her sister, Mrs. H. D. Darbacker of McKeesport.

Little Joe seemed to be growing weaker instead of stronger, and thinking that the warm, balmy climate of California might possibly improve his health, on Nov. 14 his mother started for Pasadena, Cal., taking little Joe with her. He was taken seriously ill soon after they arrived there. The California physicians stated that an abcess had formed in his stomach, caused by the ulcerated condition of that organ, which the Eastern doctors claim was due to poisoning. He died Dec. 17, and his remains was brought to McKeesport for interment.

Dr. Hitzrot was interviewed by a Times reporter yesterday. He corroborated the above story and stated that the boy's death was, beyond a possible doubt, indirectly caused by poison administered to him last March. Dr. W. F. Knox, also of McKeesport, who visited the boy during one of his sick spells with Dr. Hizrot, also stated that poison was the indirect cause of death.

It is said the California physicians held a post-mortem examination over the remains, the result of which is not yet known. The family think that the evidence in the case is far too strong to be called suspicion, and will at once institute legal investigations to enquire into the cause of death.

NORTH RIDING NOMINATION.

The nomination of candidates for the Commons in North Hastings will take place at Madoc, on Friday. It does not at present appear probable that any opposition will be offered to the return of Mr. A. W. Carscallen, the Conservative nominee.

A CHIMERICAL PROPOSAL.

Certain insidious enemies of the Government, backed by a few injudicious Conservatives, have varied the line of attack on the N. P. by urging the abolition by Canada of duties on all goods imported into the Dominion from Great Britain. That the scheme is not only impossible because it would occasion commercial war with the United States, but that it is highly impracticable on other grounds, is thus convincingly shown by the Montreal Gazette:—

"The full meaning of the free admission of British goods has only to be considered, to see that no such thing would be practicable. Some might be prepared to sacrifice the industries that would have to go to the wall in face of such competition as would be created by such a move, which would, of course, have its benefits as well as its ill effects. But no Finance Minister, of any political view, free trader or protectionist, would undertake the responsibility of his office knowing that he would have to face such a condition. The effect would be, not only to cause the loss of the duty now collected on merchandise imported from Great Britain, but also of that of goods now brought from other countries which British exporters under the specially favored conditions created for them, would be able to shut out. This would not only apply to manufactured, but to raw materials. Four-fifths of the Customs income would be gone at a sweep, and the country would be left without revenue to carry on its administration services and discharge its loan obligations, to say nothing of meeting the cost of public works necessary to its prosperity. It may be said that the sums necessary for the public services could be raised by direct taxation, but that is an idea of the study and not of the Cabinet, which has to deal with conditions as they are and not as they might be or should be. The talk of free admission of British goods will never be a practical issue. We have too big a debt, and too many demands on the revenue."

WORLD'S FREIGHT SHIPS

ARE ENGAGED AT PRESENT IN A LOSING BUSINESS.

The Number of Idle Vessels Abroad Was Never So Large—Freight Rates Below a Profitable Basis in America—Tramp Ships.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—The Evening Post says: Ocean freight traffic for the past year has been much depressed, but according to reports from the offices of different steamship lines the depression lately has been growing worse and worse, until at the present time it is almost unendurable.

Abroad it is said the number of vessels lying idle was never so large, while in this country the competition of owners or charterers of vessels is so keen as to bring freight rates far below a profitable basis.

In fact, many shippers, it is reported, are doing business as a loss. In the case of tramp ships, if they are not tied up they are flitting to and fro among the Atlantic harbors wherever a chance to obtain freight presents itself, in hope of obtaining a cargo.

Cause of Depression.

The cause reported to be at the bottom of this depression is said to be overproduction throughout the world. As a consequence the foreign demand for products of the United States has been growing less and less, as, adding to the depression in freight business and to the increasing lack of orders from the overstocked ports abroad, it is pointed out that laboring classes, being in large part unemployed, do not consume as much breadstuffs as usual, which has almost caused a cessation of the demand for grain and flour from abroad, stages of which made up a large proportion of the export trade. But the warehouses abroad are well stocked, so foreign manufacturers being well supplied are not now ordering at the high prices. In addition to this there are apparently too many steamships in the trans-Atlantic trade.

THE SCHEDULE WAIVED.

A Cattle Vessel, Delayed for Repairs, Lands the Cargo in England.

OTTAWA, Dec. 21.—The last vessel taking cattle from Canada has arrived, after the exceptionally long voyage of 43 days from Montreal, and her cattle have been allowed to land under the old regulations, although the scheduling of Canadian cattle went into effect on Nov. 21. The circumstances are as follows:

The steamship Ontario left Montreal for Avonmouth on Oct. 28 laden with cattle. At that time there was not the slightest fear [of Canadian cattle being scheduled and she would probably have reached port before there was any question of scheduling, had not her machinery broken down, which compelled her to put into St. John's, N.F., for repairs. These were not completed until Nov. 28, when she left St. John's for Avonmouth, where she arrived on Dec. 10, nearly three weeks after the scheduling order carried into force. On the day her arrival was announced by cable the Montreal Board of Health telegraphed the Minister of Agriculture to request Sir Charles Tupper to endeavor to get her cattle exempted from the scheduling order. This was done at once, but nothing was heard from the High Commissioner until to-day, when he cabled to the effect that the Board of Agriculture had allowed the Ontario's cattle to land under the old regulations.

The Railway Committee of the Privy Council has been reorganized since the change of Ministry and now consists of Hon. John Haggart, Minister of Railways and Canals, chairman; Sir John Thompson, Minister of Justice; Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Hon. G. E. Foster, Sir Adolphe Caron, Hon. J. A. Ouimet and Hon. T. M. Daly. The Minister of Railways and Canals and the Minister of Justice are members of the committee by statute, the other members are named by order in council.

A BEER SYNDICATE.

The Small Breweries to Be Crushed Out of Existence.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 21.—The great European financiers, the Rothschilds, are the leaders in an enterprise which, in its line, surpasses anything of the kind ever conceived in this country. It is their purpose to establish an immense beer trust, with headquarters in New York and branch business offices and warehouses in at least a dozen New England cities, as well as in the same number of western towns.

Many millions of capital are to be used in backing the scheme, which has for its ultimate end the extinction of all the smaller similar concerns in the country, or their absorption by the Rothschilds' syndicate.

Sites have been already secured in this city, in Bridgeport, Hartford, Waterbury, Chicago, Columbus, San Francisco and several other cities, and the organization of the gigantic enterprise is being pushed to a successful outcome.

An Uncertain Product.

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 21.—The village of Hop Meadow in the County of Simsbury was shaken by four successive explosions at 3.15 yesterday afternoon. The Ensign Bickford fuse factory had been blown up.

A Tariffville girl, Miss Hattie Holcomb, had her head crushed and she will probably die. The cause of the explosion is not known. The others seriously wounded are: William O'Brien, who tended the dryer, badly injured and will lose one leg; Annie Carrer, badly burned, cut and bruised.

Immigration Restriction.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Walter T. THE CANADIAN EXPRESS COMPANY OUT A NICE LITTLE SUM.

Seven Thousand Dollars Taken — The Agent Was Ill and at Home — The Clerk Was at Dinner—A Duplicate Key Was Used to Open the Safe.

SARNIA, Ont., Dec. 21.—A bold robbery was perpetrated yesterday during the time the employees were at dinner, whereby a large sum of money, estimated at $7000, was stolen from the office of the Canadian Express Company here.

The entrance was effected by the basement door at the back and the safe opened by a duplicate key, which would go to show that the robbery was concocted by some person entirely familiar with key and office. Up to the present nothing has transpired to throw any light on the mysterious affair.

ANXIOUS FOR WEALTH.

A Nursery Man Who Is Charged With Unprincipled Acts.

CHATHAM, Dec. 21.—Frank W. Wilson, the owner of an extensive nursery in Harwich township, near Chatham, is being tried in the Kent County Court upon a charge of conspiring fraudulent and dishonest methods to extort money from his customers. He has been in the nursery business for 17 years, and has lately been making a specialty of importing, cultivating and disposing of spruce trees. His agents have for two years been scouring the side lines between Owen Sound and Windsor.

It is alleged that farmers and others were induced to sign an order for one or more boxes at the rate of five cents per tree, believing the box to contain possibly 100 plants. But when delivered, the boxes were found to contain from 600 to 3000 trees, most of which proved to be about the size of knitting needles, and the purchasers were required to pay for that number.

J. B. Rankin is conducting the case for the plaintiffs. Several witnesses were called yesterday, and the accused was put into the box. He explained that when he began packing the trees in boxes he had in the neighborhood of 400 orders. Though the orders were identical he put 600 trees in some boxes and 3000 in others, notwithstanding that the capacity of the boxes was the same. The explained was due to the differences in the size of the treesand most of the boxes were made one foot square and 23 inches long. His instruction to his men was to cover the trees with moss and then tramp them in because the contract called for a full box.

The witness said that the profit to him was about 31c a tree. He imported the trees from France, and then grew them at his nursery for a year or perhaps longer. They cost here about $12 a thousand, while he paid in France $3 or $4 a thousand for them, the difference being made by the cost of importation.

The cross-examination of Wilson will be continued to-morrow. He maintains that all the farmers bought with their eyes open.

CIVIL ACTIONS.

They Have a Legal But Not a Literary Significance.

HAMILTON, Dec. 21.—A couple of civil actions, which promise sensational developments, have been or will soon be entered for trial at the coming assizes in this city.

A couple of days ago Messrs. Biggar & Lee, representing Mrs. J. Woods, wife of "Bob" Woods, who formerly kept hotel in this city and afterwards was proprietor of the Half-way House on the Dundas road, issued a writ against R. J. for alimony.

Yesterday Messrs. Nesbitt, Bicknell & Gauld, representing Mr. Woods, issued a writ against Rev. J. M. Webb of Palmerston and Mr. M. M. Buckley of Niagara Falls, claiming $5000 damages for enticing his wife away from his home and harboring her.

The defendant Buckley is father of Mrs. Woods. He is a Niagara Falls hotel-keeper. Rev. Mr. Webb has come in for a great deal of notoriety lately. He was in this city for some time in charge of a Baptist mission church, and went from here to Niagara Falls.

The trouble there in connection with the cutting down of Miss Clothier's clothes which was in the way of the workmen who were engaged in the building of a church for Rev. George Webb, J. M.'s brother, is fresh in the minds of the people.

NOVA SCOTIA STRIKERS.

Thirteen Hundred Men and Boys Are Idle and On Strike.

SPRINGHILL, N.S., Dec. 21.—The miners' strike continues. Thirteen hundred men and boys are walking the street idle. There was an enthusiastic meeting of Pioneer Lodge last night and a large number of non-union men were initiated. Pending the arrival of Grand Secretary Drummond for consultation a conference with the manager was postponed.

Representatives of Mechanics' Lodge were present. This lodge comprises pumpmen, firemen, engineers and others employed in the mechanical department. The pumps are still at work, but it is reported that the strike will become general to-morrow and the pits be endangered by flooding if matters are not satisfactorily adjusted to-day. The workmen seem determined.

DRANK VERY HARD.

Miss Henderson Testifies at the Trial of the Man Who Shot Her.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Dec. 21.—John D. Sullivan, aged 44, is on trial on a charge of shooting Miss Elizabeth Henderson, aged 25, with intent to murder, on September last. Sullivan boarded with Miss Henderson for 12 years. He was jealous of Watson and fired three revolver bullets into Miss Henderson.

At the court yesterday Miss Henderson gave evidence. She was very weak, but gave her evidence in a strong voice at first, although she almost broke down before finishing her testimony.

Her evidence would lead to the belief that the prisoner was not in his right mind when he committed the shooting. He had been drinking to excess and acted in an insane manner on several occasions. The case was not finished.

Killed by Dynamite.

LYNN, Mass., Dec. 20.—One man was killed and two others were seriously injured by a premature explosion of dynamite in a sewer trench to-day.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

The Thousand Island Park.

A Jury Decide that the Gate Fee Charged was Unreasonable.

On Friday last at Watertown, N.Y., a jury decided that it is unreasonable for the Thousand Island Park Association to charge an entrance fee upon their grounds and that Trustee F. G. Weeks, of Skaneateles, must pay damages for laying his hands upon Mrs. Hosea Bicknell, of Potsdam, and forcibly returning her to the gate and compelling her to pay the fee. On the 1st of August last the lady in question returned from an excursion trip to Kingston, to the Islands, and although occupying a cottage, was asked to pay and refused. The jury gave a verdict for $50 for the plaintiff.

The verdict will doubtless cause the Park trustees to abolish the fees hereafter.

That Market is no More.

The enactment of the McKinley Bill did not close, and its repeal could not open, to Canadian farmers their lost market for ordinary working horses.

Before the McKinley Bill was passed horses for the United States commanded a high price, but such sales also ante-dated the general displacement of horses by electricity on street car lines.

The repeal of the McKinley Bill to morrow could not restore the old price of common horse flesh. No new avenues are opening for the employment of horses displaced by electricity, and duty or no duty, the United States could not take one work horse for every fifty that its citizens once bought in Canada.

The market for Canadian horses has been widening in spite of hostile duties. There is money for our farmers in raising the sort of horses American buyers want. They are now taking all the stylish horses Canada sends and are paying the duty. There is still money for our farmers in raising the horses that the United States needs, but the heavy weights they sold at a profit before the McKinley Bill was adopted are no longer needed.—Toronto Telegram.

To the Electors of Ketcheson Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RESPECTFULLY ask your votes and influence as a Candidate for Alderman for 1893. I am in favor of the reduction of Aldermen to at least fourteen, to be elected by the whole city—the present wards to remain intact. I will support all measures which as a citizen I think to be in the best interest of the present position and future progress of this City, believing neither in undue municipal extravagance nor in false economy.

WILLIAM N. PONTON.

Belleville, Dec. 1892. 19t

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RESPECTFULLY solicit your votes and influence for Mayor of the City of Bell ville for 1893. I was born in Belleville and have lived here all my life, and am personally known to the most of you. I have been an Alderman in the City Council for four years, and during that time have endeavored to represent you straightforwardly and faithfully.

My principal interest is in City affairs. If elected I will exert myself to further the best interests of the city.

Yours respectfully,
FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

HAVING been requested by a large number of influential electors of the city of Belleville, to offer myself for Mayor for 1893, I have consented to do so, and now respectfully solicit your votes and influence. I have resided in the city six years, three of which I have served in the City Council and School Board, (I would respectfully refer you to the work therein.) I come out as a business man, having had 20 years business experience in different parts of Canada, which if of great service to any one in filling the civic chair. I have chosen Belleville as my home, and have invested all my capital in and around the city, and am therefore being content here, I will, if elected, do all in my power, as I have heretofore, to advance the best interests of the city

I strongly urge the reduction of the number of Aldermen, and shall use every endeavor to carry into effect the proposal made by me to the Council in respect to it last year.

I have also in view the grave necessity of getting the city in the best sanitary condition possible to contend with the bitter foe with disease or the cholera epidemic shou'd it reach us next year.

Yours,
HARRY FOWELL.

To the Municipal Electors of Murney Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

FOR the third time I respectfully ask for your votes and influence to ensure my return as one of your representatives.

During the year I have been honored with the chairmanships of important committees for the whole of the time, and a third—the Executive—for the last half of the year.

You are the judges whether I have attended faithfully to duty and acted conscientiously.

Whatever works for the city's good, if possible from the standpoints of economy and prudence, are the objects of my aim. I renew my pledges of attention to duty and fidelity to our city's welfare, and remain

Yours obediently,
J. E. WALMSLEY.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of My Native City:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

FOR years past I have had the offer of support for the Civic Chair, but at the present time to many of my old friends have brought more pressure to bear than I can decently withstand. I have consented to stand for that high position that the citizens can confer on any one. Among the men who offer me their support are to be found Englishmen, Irishmen, Dutchmen, Frenchmen and now and then a Scotchman, besides a good many Canadians. To the electors I am unknown. I have been a member of the City Council for the greater part of a quarter of a century and during that time have done what I felt was for the best interest of the city and will continue on the same line if successful at the coming election. I am in favor of strict economy in city affairs and decrease of our indebtedness. At the nomination I will freely give my views on the situation, and with much respect ask that when you mark your ballot you will not forget

A. T. PETRIE.

High School Commencement

Certificates Granted to Successful Students

The annual Commencement exercises of the High School began this afternoon at 2 o'clock, and will be continued to-night at 8. In addition to the decorations referred to in our edition of yesterday, deft and busy fingers have been at work since—and with bunting, flowers and foliage, have made the assembly room for once look festive. In addition to the decorations, the room has been seated with chairs, kindly loaned by St. Andrew's church. The principal items on the programme of this afternoon, were the distribution of certificates in free hand drawing, practical geometry, drawing from models, linear perspective, drawing from memory, Headlines in primary art course, the total number granted being 213. The names of successful pupils were published in these columns some months ago. The issuing of certificates of entrance to the following pupils who had passed the entrance examinations to the High School at the last examinations:

Walter Belair, Harry Bull, Harry Chislett, Russel Chown, Fred Clarke, Peter Doyle, Herbert Fish, David Fleming, Thos. Foley, W. W. Grant, W. G. Harwood, Harry H. Hamilton, Wm. Heinrich, Noel Hyman, Sidney Hyman, Daniel Kerby, David Louder, Jos. Lessard, Wm. T. Lowe, Jas. Meagher, Robt. G. Moore, Edward Pnippen, Bert Robertson, E. Wallbridge, and the awarding of prizes to the pupils of the public schools by the ladies of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, who had won honors in the examinations on scientific temperance and hygiene. These were presented by Mrs. Dr. Nash.

The chairman was Rev. Canon Burke, and the various groups of certificates were handed to the successful candidates by the chairman. Rev. E. N. Baker, Rev. J. L. George, Rev. M. Marshal, Ald. W. J. Diamond, Secy.-Treas. of the Board of Education, Messrs. Wm. Johnson and S.S. Moore, and accompanied in each case by a few complimentary remarks.

The proceedings of this afternoon were open to the public, those of to-night are only for invited guests.

Police Court

QUEEN vs. BOLAND.—This action is one that created considerable excitement in Tyendinaga, owing to the prominence of the defendant, and was tried before Police Magistrate Flint to-day. Patrick Boland, who has resided for a number of years in the Township of Tyendinaga, was arrested by County Constable Garratt on a warrant sworn out by Anthony Farrell, of Tyendinaga, who charged Boland that he did on the 12th December, unlawfully and with intent to defraud his creditors, fraudulently dispose of his goods and chattels, and personal property. The evidence of the prosecution did not sustain the charge; the defendant was therefore discharged. Counsel for defs. asked for and obtained an honorable discharge of the defendant.—M. Wright for prosecution; W. P. McMahon for defence.

Mayoralty.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—Dr. Gibson is to be congratulated by the citizens generally, and the families particularly, whom he attends professionally in this city, for his good sense in refusing to accept the "ball" offered him by this influential deputation, who presented the requisition, to drag him from his professional duties to attend and—often through the weary hours of midnight—to serve an ungrateful public. Dr., your true friends and those whom you serve professionally, have a more kindly feeling towards yourself and Mrs. Gibson.

Orange Election.

At the regular annual meeting of L.O.L. No. 300, West Huntingdon, the following were elected officers for the ensuing year: John Adams, W.M.; Richard Haggerty, D. M.; Thos. Donnan, Chap.; David Tetley, Rec.Sec.; James Haggerty, F.S.; Nelson Sarles, Treas.; Jas. Montgomery, D. of C.; Wm. Adams, Sec.; W. J. Kingston, J. W. Kingston, J. McCurdy, Wm. Hawkins, J. Hawkins, Committee. Visiting members cordially invited.

"A Sandwich Man."

One of the commonest forms of advertising in the old world is "the sandwich man," a man between two boards, the boards having on them the announcement of some enterprising business, show or lecture.

Our American push in clothing establishments has introduced this style of advertising, the sandwich man perambulating up and down in front of the store.

Take a Hint.

It is really to the interest of every purchaser of clothing to get to the Oak Hall this week before Saturday. The crush will be so great that day that it would be madness on our part to promise absolute comfort. We have lots of help, it is true, but still you'll be better pleased every way by taking the hint.

Runaway.

At about 5 30 last evening, as Miss Norah Bell was driving along near the railway station, the horse became frightened and ran away. The young lady was thrown out, but fortunately was not injured. The horse ran to the eastern end of the G.T.R. yard, where it was captured. But slight damages were sustained.

Buffalo Bill Coming.

MUST ANSWER.

The Old Law of Non-Crimination Not Operative in Liquor Cases.

Important Decision by the Police Magistrate

INSPECTOR ST. CHARLES vs. JAMES R. GROW.—In this case, where the defendant has been charged with a violation of the Liquor License Act, the defendant has been placed on the witness stand as a witness on behalf of the prosecution. The defendant has refused to answer several questions on the ground that his answers might tend to criminate himself.

I have been requested to commit defendant for contempt on account of his refusal to answer. Whether the defendant is bound to answer the questions propounded depends upon the Statute law of Ontario and the decisions of our own courts in Ontario.

By the Evidence Act of Ontario, Sec. 5, "Nothing herein contained shall render any person compellable to answer any question tending to criminate himself or to subject him to a prosecution for any penalty." By Sec. 9, "On the trial of any proceeding, matter or question, under any Act of the Legislature of Ontario before any Police Magistrate in any matter cognizable by such Magistrate not being a crime, the party opposing or defending or the wife of the party opposing or defending shall be competent and compellable to give evidence therein."

I have abbreviated Sec. 9, but have given the substance of the Section. Clearly Secs. 5 and 9 declare that the principle so long recognized by the old English Common Law is maintained, namely, that no person shall be bound to incriminate himself.

Defendants and their wives were made competent and compellable to give evidence, but not in crimes, or where crimes were charged against defendants. In 1892 the Legislature of Ontario passed a short Act entitled "An Act to amend the law of evidence," and by sec. 9 of this Act above alluded to, the evidence Act is repealed and the following substituted: "On the trial of any matter or proceeding, or question under any Act of the Legislature of Ontario, before any Police Magistrate, in any matter cognizable by him, the party opposing or defending, or the wife or husband of the party opposing or defending, shall be competent and compellable to give evidence therein." Why was section 9 repealed and the new statute enacted? The only possible answer to this question is, that section 9 contains four words which were left out of the new statute of 1892, "not being a crime." In every other respect the new statute is identical with sec. 9. What then, was the intention of the Legislature of '92 in passing this new Act? Simply to make the party opposing and his wife competent and compellable to give evidence in every case, whether the offence charged was or was not a crime. No other possible answer given. There can be no other reason suggested why section 9 was repealed, and the statute of 1892 passed. But sec. 5 of the evidence Act remains, and it declares that no person shall be compelled to criminate himself, as the text of the section which I have inserted above discloses.

If the statute of 1892 compels the answer, although it may tend to criminate, and sec. 5 declares that no one shall be obliged to criminate himself, the two sections are directly opposed to each other. Where two Acts of Parliament, or two sections of a statute are inconsistent, the most recent Act and the last section governs. In such an unpleasant state of the law, it would be quite a relief to rely upon the well considered judgment in Reg v. Connolly reported in the Law Times, which in effect, declares that this grand old common law right of non-crimination shall not be held to be taken away by a statute unless the words of that statute are distinct and clear. Another, the Canadian Temperance Act declared that "on the trial of any matter or question under that and other Acts the husband and wife shall be competent and compellable to give evidence on any such trial," yet that these words did not take away the privilege of the defendant refusing to criminate himself. But unfortunately for this safe harbor of refuge from a legal storm, Chancellor Boyd in Reg. vs. Fee, 13 O.R., held where the same point was in issue on the very same section of the Act, which had been before the judges in the case of Reg. vs. Connolly, that the defendant was compellable to answer the questions, although the answers might tend to criminate himself. Here was "The Supreme Court of Prince Edward Island" in Reg. vs. Connolly deciding in one way, and our own Chancellor Boyd deciding in the other way. The language in the Statute of 1892 is almost identical with the language used in the Canada Temperance Act and I am, therefore, bound by the decision of our own court. Sec. 5 of Evidence Act and the Statute of 1892 being inconsistent, I am bound to rely upon the most recent Statute.

I therefore hold the defendant is bound to answer although the answers may tend to criminate him. And in default of answer, if the prosecutor presses, my only course is to commit the defendant to gaol for contempt of court.

IN order, if possible, to lessen the usual Christmas eve rush, Haines & Lockett will keep their store open till 9 o'clock, Thursday evening, 22d inst. Useful Christmas presents appear to be all the rage this year.

Children's Carriages, Sleighs, Organs, Violins, and small Musical Instruments all included in the great discount sale now on at Harrison's Book Store.

Gratifying to All.

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasing liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup Company.

The Mayoralty.

The contest for the position of Mayor for next year is waxing warm. Last night a large meeting was held in the interest of Ald. Fowell, and much enthusiasm was manifested. Committees for the various Wards were selected and other business transacted.

TWO KINDS OF WOMEN

need Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—those who want to be made strong, and those who want to be made well. It builds up, invigorates, regulates, and cures.

It's for young girls just entering womanhood; for women who have reached the critical "change of life"; for women expecting to become mothers; for mothers who are nursing and exhausted; for every woman who is run-down, delicate, or overworked.

For all the disorders, diseases, and weaknesses of women, "Favorite Prescription" is the only remedy so unfailing that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, the money will be returned.

Blotches Cured.

DEAR SIRS,—In 1890 my body was covered with blotches and I was at last induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters; by the time I had used 8½ bottles of it I was completely cured, and I cannot speak too highly of it.

MRS. JAMES DESMOND, Halifax, N. S.

Made With Skill.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skillful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

Out of Sorts—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure,' and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

BROOKE'S DAUGHTER.

BY

ADELINE SERGEANT,

Author of "A True Friend," etc, etc.

(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

'Oh, that is very serious!' she said, mockingly. And she withdrew her fingers from his arm. 'I did not bargain for so much solemnity when I set out with you from the theatre to-night.'

'But I set out, Ethel, with the intention of asking you to be my wife. Come, my darling, won't you give me an answer? Don't send me away disconsolate! Let me teach you what love means—love and happiness!'

His voice sank once more to its lowest murmur. Ethel listened, hesitated, smiled. Her little fingers found their way back to his arm again, and were instantly caught and pressed, and even kissed, when they came to a dark and shady place. And before he parted with her at the door of her brother's house, he had put his arms around her and kissed her on the lips.

Was it all pretence—all for the sake of those twenty thousand pounds of hers? Oliver swore to himself that it was not. She was such a pretty little thing—such a dear loving little girl, in spite of her fun and merriment and spirit—one could not help feeling fond of her. Not that he was going to acknowledge himself capable of such a weakness when he next talked to Rosalind.

He was strolling idly along the east side Russell Square as these thoughts passed his mind. He had completely forgotten the stroller whom he had seen leaning against the railings of the Square gardens; but he was unpleasantly reminded of that gentleman's existence when a hand was laid upon his shoulder, and a voice said in his ear—

'I've been waiting here six hours, Oliver, and I must have a word or two with you.'

CHAPTER IX.

THE ELDER BROTHER.

Oliver turned around sharply, with an air of visible impatience He knew the voice well enough, and the moonlight left him no doubt as to the lineaments of the face with which he was quite familiar. Francis Trent was not unlike either Rosalind or Oliver; but of the two he resembled his sister rather than his younger brother. True he did not possess her beauty, but he had her sleepy eyes, her type of feature, her colorless skin, and jetty hair. The colorlessness had degenerated, however, into an unhealthy pallor, and the stubby beard which covered his cheeks and chin did not improve his appearance. Besides he was terribly out at the elbows; his coat was green with age, his boots were broken, his cuffs frayed and soiled. His hat was unnaturally shiny and dented in two or three places. Altogether he looked as unlike a brother of the immaculate Oliver and exquisitely dressed Rosalind as could possibly have been found for either in the world of London.

Oliver surveyed him with polite disgust, and waved him back a little.

'You have been drinking coarse brandy, Francis,' he said, coolly; 'and you have been smoking bad tobacco. I wish you would consult my susceptibilities on those points when you come to interview me; you would really find it pleasanter in the end.'

'Where am I to find money to consult your susceptibilities with?' asked the man, with a burst of what seemed like very genuine feeling. 'Will you provide me with it? If you don't, what remains for me to drink but British brandy and smoke strong shag? I must drink something. Will you pay the piper if I go to more expense?'

'Not if you talk so loudly as to attract the attention of every passing policeman,' said Oliver, dryly. 'If you want to talk to me, as you say you do, keep quiet, please.'

Francis Trent growled something like an imprecation on his brother below his breath, and then went on in a lowered tone.

'It's easy for you to talk. You are not saddled by a wife and a lot of debts. You haven't to keep out of the way for fear you should be wanted by the police—although you have not been very particular about keeping your hands clean after all. But you've been the lucky dog and I the unlucky one, and this is the result.'

'If you are going to be abusive, my good friend,' said Oliver calmly. 'I shall turn round and go home again. If you will keep a civil tongue in your head I don't mind listening to you for five minutes. What have you got to say?'

The man was evidently in a state of only half-repressed irritation. His brows twitched, he gnawed savagely at his beard, he looked at Oliver with furtive hate from under his heavy dark brows. But the young man's cool tones seemed to possess the power of keeping him in check. He made a visible effort to calm himself as he replied,

'You needn't be so down on me, Oliver. You must allow for a fellow's feeling a little out of sorts when he's kept waiting about here for hours. I am convinced that that Rosalind saw me this afternoon; I'm certain that you saw me to-night. If I had not caught you now I would have gone to to the front door and hammered at it till one of you came out.'

'And you think that you would have advanced your cause thereby?'

'Why, hang it all, Oliver, one would think that I was not your own flesh and blood! Have you no natural affection left?'

'Not much. Natural affection is a mistake. You need not count on that with me.'

'You always were a cold blooded, half hearted sort of a fellow. Not one to help a friend, or even a brother,' said Francis, sullenly.

'Suppose you come to the point,' remarked Oliver. 'It's getting on to eleven o'clock. I really can't stand here all night.'

'It is nothing to you that I have stood here for hours already.

'No, it is not.' There was a touch of sharpness in his tone. 'I am in no mood for sentiment. Say what you have got to say get and done with it, or I shall leave you'

'Well,' said Francis, after a pause, in which he was perhaps estimating his powers of persuasion against his brother's powers of resistance, and coming to the conclusion that it was not worth his while to contend with him any longer, 'I have come to say this. I am hard up—devilish hard up. But that's not all. It is not enough to offer me a five-pound note or a ten pound note and tell me to spend it as I please. I want someting definite. You seem to have plenty of money; I have none. I want an allowance, or else a sum of money down, sufficient to take Mary and myself to the Colonies. I don't think that is much to ask.'

'Don't you?'

The icy tone which Oliver assumed exasperated his brother.

'No, be hanged if I think it is!' he said vehemently, though in lowered tones. 'I want two hundred a year—it's little enough; two or three thousand on the nail. Give me that, and I'll not trouble you or Rosy any more.'

'And where do you suppose that I'm to get two or three thousand pounds, or two hundred a year?'

'I don't care where you get it, so long as you hand it over to me.'

'Very sorry I can't oblige you,' said Oliver, nonchalantly; 'but as your proposition is a perfect impossibility, I don't see my way to say anything else.'

'You think I don't mean it, don't you?' growled his brother. 'I tell you that I will have it. And if I don't have it I'll not hold my tongue any longer. I'll ruin you.'

'Don't talk in that melodramatic way,' said Oliver quietly. But his lip twitched a little as if something had touched him unpleasantly. 'You know very well that you have no more power of ruining me than you have of flying to yonder moon. You can't substantiate any of your stories. You can blacken me in the eyes of a few persons who know me, perhaps; but really I doubt your power of doing that. People wouldn't believe you, you know; and they would believe me. There is so much moral power in a good hat and patent leather boots.'

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

PEACH BLOOM SKIN FOOD

THE CHIEF CHARM OF A REFINED WOMAN is her complexion. Why have Pimples Freckles spots or any blemish when Peach Bloom Skin Food will remove them all, and leave the Skin transparent, soft and beautiful?

PEACH BLOOM contains nothing that can injure the skin. It is clear as water, and leaves no trace of the application one minute after use. PEACH BLOOM differs from any known preparation, in that it cleanses the pores of the skin from injurious accumulations, imparts health to the inner as well as to the outer cuticle, dissolving and removing Pimples, Blackheads, Liver Spots and Blemishes, and gradually brings about that transparent state of the skin that makes a perfect complexion

INTENSE SUFFERING!

Mr. William Buchanan, 24 years engineer in the Cunard Steamship Company's service, 8 St. John's Road, Kirkdale, Liverpool, Eng., writes: "I suffered two years of agony from an affection in the head which six physicians pronounced incurable. They were divided in opinion as to whether it was acute neuralgia of the head or rheumatic affection of the brain, but all agreed that I could never recover. In my paroxysms of pain it needed two and sometimes three men to hold me down in bed. When at death's door, was applied to my head. It acted like magic. It saved my life. I am well and hearty, and have had no return of the trouble."

ST. JACOBS OIL

"ALL RIGHT! ST. JACOBS OIL DID IT."

We would therefore urge you to make your selections now while the stock is complete and avoid the crush at Christmas time. We have just received 100 cases of foreign goods, such as albums, dolls, tooth brushes, hair brushes, purses, fancy china cups and saucers, vases, jewellery, handsome lemonade sets, glass tea sets beautifully engraved; our assortment of American glassware must be seen to be appreciated. Never have we been able to offer such bargains in albums, ladies' work boxes, jewel cases, perfume cases, shaving cases, brush and comb cases, games from 5c up, playing cards from 5c up, beautiful whisk holders all the latest styles from 49c up. We have something new in dolls' chairs, dolls' cradles, children's extension tables, sets of furniture, toy picture books, pansy books, magic lanterns 49c up, steam engines, skates, dolls' carriages, children's sleds and cutters strong and durable at lowest prices, novels by the best authors 10c worth 25c, pocket knives and table cutlery an endless variety to choose from. But, perhaps, one of the greatest drives is a special line of extra quality writing paper, 5 quires (120 sheets) for 17c. We will not attempt to enumerate further, but would invite you to call at

THE FORGERY IN HALTON

MONEY WAS WANTED FOR WEDDING PRESENTS

A Report That Mrs. Dixon Is To Be Proceeded Against—What She Did With the Money That She Raised by Forging Her Husband's Name.

MILTON, Ont., Dec. 22.—D. A. Robson, the young broker, appeared before Mayor Dick at Milton yesterday for examination on two charges. The first was for obtaining money under false pretences on the Campbell forged note for $300, for uttering which he was tried last week before Judge Kingsmill and discharged. The charge was based on his alleged statement to Mr. Campbell, to which the latter swore, that he had seen the note signed in his office. John Dixon and his wife, Matilda Dixon, swore as they did last week that they had not signed the note. The second charge was uttering another Dixon forged note for $300, alleged to have been sold by Robson to William McLellan, farmer, of Trafalgar, about Oct. 27 last. McLellan swore to the purchase of the note and said that Robson told him when he bought it that Miss Dixon was about to be married and the money was wanted for wedding purposes. The Dixons both swore that they had not signed the note.

Robson was committed for trial on both charges, and bail was accepted.

The friends of Robson are talking of prosecuting Mrs. Dixon for the forgeries which she has admitted, but it is not likely that any action of the kind will be taken, as it is improbable that in view of all the circumstances a jury could be secured in Halton who would convict her.

Mrs. Dixon is well-known to many Toronto merchants, with whom she has been dealing for four or five years past, and from several of whom she monthly ordered large bills of goods for her daughters.

For two or three years she conducted a milk business in the T. P. R. yards, and for scores of cans at the "fourth line" for transhipment to Toronto. Her business in connection with the milk trade brought her to Toronto two or three times a week.

The manner in which she disposed of the $2500 raised by forging her husband's name to notes, which she discounted, is no longer a mystery. The World learned yesterday that as long as three years ago she began speculating in Toronto realty, and like many another investor her equities vanished.

TELLERS' TROUBLES.

When They Overpay Checks They Are Out Of Pocket.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 22.—When Teller J. W. Waddell of the Windsor branch of the Merchants' Bank counted up his cash the other night he was astonished to find that it was short to the amount of $2500, and all efforts to trace the missing money proved abortive.

Whether the money was stolen or overpaid is at present a mystery, but the officials of the bank are investigating the facts in connection with the disappearance of the cash, which was made up of three $500 bills and ten $100 bills. Although it is claimed that small sums, which the teller has made good, have been disappearing mysteriously from the teller's box for months, it is generally believed that Waddell overpaid the amount, as many similar cases have occurred at various banks throughout the province; and while the banks have in no cases been the losers the tellers have, in most instances, been compelled to make good the shortages, as the recipients of the increased amounts have, in no few cases, been entitled to action.

A few months ago the teller of a bank in this city found that his checks and cash did not correspond by $1200. He could not account for the discrepancy, cudgel his brains as he might, and as a result he had to make good the sum.

Not many years ago the teller of this very bank in Windsor where the present discrepancy exists overpaid a customer to the extent of $5000, and he also had to make good the loss. A case which attracted attention in the Hamilton law courts some years ago, and in which one of the best known of Hamilton's citizens was the victim, was of a similar nature. The gentleman was teller of a Hamilton bank, and one busy Saturday morning a farmer from over the mountain came in to cash a check for $2500. The sum was paid in $500 bills and accordingly the teller dropped on the counter six bills instead of five. The farmer grabbed the bills all made off like a flash. Unluckily the teller was the only witness of the affair and although proceedings were taken against the dishonest farmer nothing could be recovered. He was not captured with the money on him and he swore he had only received $2500. The teller had to put up the money lost.

Another case occurred in Hamilton a short time since, where the teller of a bank inadvertently paid out $2000 more than the check called for. The farmer to whom the money was paid discovered the mistake and, being an honest man, returned to the bank to restore the money. "You made a mistake," he remarked to the teller. The latter, who differed from most tellers in that he had a lofty idea of his own cleverness, replied, "Oh, not nothing of the kind; we never make mistakes here," and refused to listen to the farmer. When he counted up his cash he discovered his mistake and at 2 o'clock next morning awoke the farmer from bed, and with tears in his eyes prayed for the restoration of the overpaid amount. Fortunately the farmer was an honest man and the amount was restored.

Still another case occurred at a bank in this city within a month, that is the sum overpaid was only $250 the teller made good the amount, but where the money went was de ter dicensed.

The case in which a teller of the Queen-street west branch of the Dominion Bank claimed to have paid 80 ten dollar bills instead of 80 ones to Ald. Verral and the suit arising therefrom is familiar to Torontonians.

The disappearance of a package containing $7500 from a Queen-street west bank a few years ago and the mysterious departure of a $5000 parcel from the Merchants' Bank at Winnipeg also explains the disadvantages under which tellers labor.

In several of the banks it is the custom to set aside a teller's risk fund of $200 to provide for losses of this nature, for no matter how careful a teller is, it is only a question of time when his turn comes. Handling from $10,000 to $20,000 a day it is the easiest thing in the world for him to hand out a parcel of large bills instead of a package of the smaller denomination which the check calls for, and too frequently the recipient is not honest enough to restore the overpaid amount and the poor teller has no more success than the fabled miserly man of Athens.

Blaine is Better.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Blaine is reported much better, and the physician says his case is no longer critical.

THE CANAL SCANDALS.

Secret and Hostile Motives Said to Be Operating.

PARIS, Dec. 22.—In the Senate yesterday the special committee chosen yesterday by the standing committee reported in favor of authorizing the Procurer-General to proceed against Senators Renault, Albert Grevy, Beral, Thevenet and Dives on account of their connection with the Panama Canal frauds.

M. Thevenet, who is Ex-Minister of Justice, solemnly affirmed that he had never received a centime from the Panama Canal Company, either directly or indirectly.

The Parliamentary Commission of Inquiry learned today a bond of 500,000 francs payable to bearer, was given to Dr. Cornelius Herz as compensation for his services in "advertising."

The commission decided to examine M. Yves Guyot, Radical deputy for the Seine, to learn whether or not he had said recently that a list of the compromised members of Parliament had been submitted to President Carnot. This is the first official mention of President Carnot's name in connection with the scandal. Many believe that a secret and hostile motive is responsible for the introduction.

It is stated this evening that 100 checks bearing the names of senators and deputies have been secured by the examining magistrate.

Jules Roche, Ex-Minister of Commerce, who is under prosecution to-day in the Chamber of Deputies, denied that he was implicated in the Panama Canal affair.

As he passed the ministerial bench he exclaimed: "Oh, you hypocrites and scoundrels!"

DISASTROUS FIRE.

Fourteen People Either Burned to Death or Killed.

PARIS, Dec. 22.—A disastrous conflagration has occurred at Berson. Fourteen of the villagers were either burned to death in their homes or killed while attempting to escape.

The flames, fanned by a high wind, spread with frightful rapidity, and it was early seen that the efforts of the villagers to fight the flames would be fruitless. Attention was then turned to saving the aged and the little children, and it was in the work of rescue that several of the villagers lost their lives.

The greater part of the village was destroyed and the inhabitants are in great straits, owing to the lack of food and proper clothing.

FIELD OF HONOR.

For a Political Squabble They Will Fight to the Death.

PARIS, Dec. 22.—The coming duel between Clemenceau, editor of La Justice, and Deroulede, who assailed Clemenceau in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday, the latter retorting that Deroulede lied, is arousing much interest.

Deroulede has granted Clemenceau the choice of weapons and preparations for the event are being pushed. Both men intend to fight to the death.

England's Trade Loss.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The result of the operations of 99 joint stock companies in Lancashire in 1892 is an average loss of £958. This fact is commented on as illustrating the depressed condition of the British trade and industry.

The Captain Drowned.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The British ship Dundonald, which sailed from San Francisco on Aug. 9, reached Queenstown today. Capt. Hawthorne, her master, was washed overboard and drowned.

She Lacked the Nine Points.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The dowager Duchess of Sutherland was defeated yesterday in the attempt to gain possession of the estate known as Etters, on Chute, near Trentham, from the possession of which she has been debarred by the present Duke.

Killed Thirteen Infants.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Dec. 22.—Making and baby wife, the baby farmers who killed 13 infants by piercing their hearts or spines with needles, were yesterday committed for trial. Both pleaded not guilty.

Gone to a Lively Country.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—Mr. Gladstone left to-day for a short vacation in the south of France.

The Cotton Strike

LONDON, Dec. 22.—A break in the great cotton lockout is expected next week, when it is said several mills start up on half time.

In Financial Straits.

"It Cured Mother."

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad; she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your good ones, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicinal herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish before its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its prompting and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exceed the poor from its benefits.

GEN. MYLES IS SCARED.

CANADA'S CRUISERS MAY SMASH THE FRONTIER TOWNS.

Amounts to a Declaration of War Owing to Violation of the Treaty of 1817—Canada Could Burn Every United States Town on the Great Lakes.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—"If Canada has built and armed three vessels for service on the lakes, as described by the officers of the Revenue Marine Service at Washington, it amounts to a declaration of war," said Maj.-Gen. N. A. Myles yesterday, alluding to the report that the Dominion has increased its armed force on the great lakes. "I do not want to be quoted as saying that Canada or Great Britain means war," said Gen. Myles. "The fact is, though, that these three vessels are in direct violation of the treaty of 1817, which limits the war vessels that either our Government or Great Britain can maintain on the lakes to a certain number and limits their gun power. The action of the Canadian authorities in building the three vessels described by the officers of the Revenue Marine Service violates the treaty in both particulars.

"England can send a large fleet of light draught war vessels up the St. Lawrence River into the great lakes and could burn every town from Duluth to Detroit; and the singular thing is that the United States could do scarcely anything by way of defence so far as doing battle on the water is concerned, for while we have some light draught warships that could get through the canal, we could not get them to the upper lakes for the reason that they would have to pass through forty miles of Canadian canals, that Canada or Great Britain would not allow."

Gen. Myles had a list showing that the British navy had 35 protected cruisers, 18 unprotected cruisers, 70 torpedo vessels, 54 gun vessels, 2 armored vessels, 6 despatch vessels and 5 armed steamers of draught light enough to allow their passage through the Welland Canal.

HOME RULE.

THE UNIONISTS' SIDE OF THE QUESTION.

Never, until Mr. T. W. Russell, the Liberal Unionist member for South Tyrone, spoke in Toronto last week before a great audience in the Auditorium, has the Unionists' side of the Irish home rule question been adequately presented before the people of Canada. We therefore make no apology for reproducing—from the reports furnished by the World and the Empire—the principal points of Mr. Russell's grand address.

Launching into his subject, he said the Home Rule question in Ireland aroused the most rancorous passions and the fiercest feelings possible. It had irretrievably split and wrecked the Liberal party,—"the greatest instrument of human progress." He denied that home rule should be granted on the ground of Ireland's nationhood. Ireland never was a homogeneous nation. What was the essentials of self-government, he asked, in a nation? Fortunately for me, one of the most distinguished historians of this day, Mr. Lecky, has well defined them. He says that before self-government can be ought to be conferred upon any people, there ought to be three things. There ought to be loyalty and moderation; there ought to be respect for law, for property, and for authority, and there ought to be a community of feeling resulting in a common patriotism. I affirm here, ladies and gentlemen, that every one of these essentials is absent in Ireland (applause). There is neither loyalty nor moderation. There is neither respect for law, property, nor authority; there is not common unity of feeling, and there are three Irelands at this moment, two of them waiting to get at one another's throats, and Protestant Ireland standing by and laughing. These three essentials being absent, the duty of the Unionist party is this—to do justly by Ireland, to right every wrong, to remedy every grievance, to govern with justice, fairness, and firmness—(applause)—to make every man, priest or peasant, respect the law. (Great cheering.) That is the case for the Unionist party.

With vigor he denied that Ireland is an oppressed country, coerced by bad laws, tyrannized over by despotic power, persecuted and held down. "I traverse every count in that indictment." (Cheers.)

Ever since the Act of Union every statute that has been passed by the British Parliament has always made for justice. Mr. Russell took the land laws as an illustration. He showed how, by the Land Act of 1870, the Irish tenant has, (1) absolute security of tenure, (2) fair rent, (3) free sale of his interest in his holding. "The Tyrannous State" advances the purchase money to the tenant, repayable in 49 years at less than his yearly rent. Here is oppression! (Cheers.) Forty millions of pounds has thus been placed at the disposal of the tenants, and 30,000 have become owners of their holdings. Where this operation has been carried out peace and contentment have prevailed.

"I do not know," continued Mr. Russell, "whether Mr. Blake told you all this—(derisive cheering)—I know that what I tell you is an actual fact. Short of making the tenants a present of the land and confiscating the just rights of the owners, Parliament could go no further."

Reciting the beneficent legislation of the Imperial Parliament Mr. Russell included "education brought to the doorstep of every family and which," said he, "the Unionists are struggling to preserve. The ballot prevents the landlord interfering; I wish it prevented the priest." (Cheers)

Ireland has no great outstanding grievances left. Parliament has been just and even generous.

Why does not Ireland prosper? This was the question Mr. Russell next set himself to answer. Redistribution of population is required and not emigration. The Home Rule agitation had injured Ireland. He traced the origin of the movement and its progress and the wonderful moments that Mr. Gladstone made for the sake of power.

It ought never to be forgotten, said Mr. Russell, that there are two Irelands—the Ireland of law and the lawlessness, of order and of disorder, of contentment and discontent, of loyalty and disloyalty.

"I object to the Home Rule bill, which would hand over the civil and religious freedom of the minority to the Roman Catholics. (Cheers.) I object to handing over the people of Ulster to a body of men whom Mr. Gladstone described as 'marching through rapine and plunder to the disintegration of the Empire.' (Loud cheers.)

"Mr. Blake says the Irish members are to be retained. I don't know where he got his information. Mr. Gladstone has evaded the question." Humorously at this juncture Mr. Russell told the story of the doctor's diagnosis of the Scotchman's complaint: "It's an awfully obscure case, but it will all be made plain at the post-mortem." Then he applied to the Home Rule problem. "If the Irish members are not at Westminster, it is separation; if they are, it is nonsense. So the problem is insoluble.

"Now, ladies and gentlemen," said Mr. Russell in the latter portion of his address, "why is Belfast so different from Dublin, why is it so different from Cork? Why is it that the towns round about Belfast, Londonderry, Coleraine, Ballymoney, Antrim, Dungannon—(a voice "Hear, hear," and laughter)—I am glad to see a Dungannon man here to-night—(cheers)—why is it that whilst all these towns have gone forward with leaps and bounds in those places in the south have either retrograded or stood still in the same time? I ask anyone in Toronto opposed to me to give a rational answer to this question. Gentlemen, it is not the law. The law is the same in Ulster as in Connaught and Munster. It is not the administration of the law; the same "removable magistracy," as they have been called, sit in Belfast and Londonderry as in Cork and Limerick. It is not altogether religion; it is not altogether race. I will tell you what I believe it to be. You have had in one place a law abiding spirit. Capital has gone to the north; it has stayed there, it has fructified and increased and prosperity and contentment are the result. It went to the south and found it off in the midst of disorder and crime and anarchy, and the result is that you see factories with the roofs off and the windows out, with magnificent water powers going to waste, with people like Mr. Wilkie Micawber waiting for something to turn up. I say this is the real difference between the two parts of the country. And what is the monstrous proposal of this home rule bill? It is that this great free, industrious, Protestant Ulster shall be put under the heel of that part of the country which is under her from her industrious nor Protestant. (Cheers and cries of "Never!") It is just, gentlemen, as if you were to propose to place Ontario under big Quebec. (Applause.) Let me say, in conclusion, that we are there, and that there we mean to remain. (Renewed applause.) We shall not submit either our civil or religious freedom to that power which the Meath election petition has shown to be what it always was and always will be. (Cheers.) We do not fear the Irish, gentlemen.

Mr. Gladstone's majority as I have told you, is not British. It consists solely of Irishmen, and we have seen within the last fortnight how these Irishmen have been elected. (Applause.) South Meath has shown that, and has staggered the English Nonconformists as they have not been staggered since the election. Englishmen and Scotchmen are recognizing this more fully than they ever did, and our course is perfectly clear. We have made up our minds, come what come woe, we shall never consent to be robbed of that glorious inheritance in that Mother of Parliaments which is ours. (Great applause.) We came of a goodly race, that race which long ago saved the liberties of England behind the ramparts of Londonderry (tremendous cheers)—that race which Lord Macaulay has immortalized in one of the most glorious passages of English literature, where he tells us how Antrim fled to Lisburne, and Lisburne fled to Enniskillen, and Enniskillen rushed on to Derry, until there at length at the verge of the ocean, hunted to the last asylum, and baited into a mood in which men will be destroyed but will never be subjected, they turned desperately to bay. Gentlemen, that spirit lives (loud cheers). Mr. Gladstone will never quench it. Mr. Blake's oratory will beat against it in vain. (Great cheers, and cries of Yes, yes.) That spirit will yet save the land from being turned back upon the dial-plate of the world's history.

Close Up.

The stirring poem below was written by Mr. Gilbert Parker on his birthday (Nov. 23rd inst.) and read at the family dinner in Rathgar Road on that day. It was the first time the family had dined together in ten years. The poem was published in the Toronto Week of Dec. 17th:

You heard the bugles calling, comrades; brothers,—
"Close up! Close up!" You mounted to go forth,
You answered "We are coming," and you gath ered,
And paraded with your Captains in the North.

From here you came, from there you came, your voices
All flashing with your joy as flash the stars,
You waited, watched, until, the last one riding
Out of the night, came roll-call after wars.

Unsling your swords, off with your knapsacks, brothers!
We'll mess here at Headquarters once again;
Drink and forget the scare; drink and remember
The joy of fighting and the pride of pain.

We will forget; the great game rustles by us,
The furtive world may whistle at the door—
We'll not go forth; we'll furlough here together,
Close up! Close up! 'Tis comrades ee-ermore!

And Captains, oh, our Captains standing steady,
Aged with battle, but ever young with love,
Tramping the zones round, high have we hung your virtues,
Like shields along the wall of life, like armaments above.

Like shields your love, our Captains, like armaments your virtues,
No rebel lives among us, we are yours;
The old command still holds us, the old flag is our one flag,
We answer to a watchword that endures.

Close up, close up, my brothers! Lift your glasses,
Drink to our Captains, pledging are we roam.
Far from the good land, the dear familiar faces,—
The love of the old regiment at home!

THE SARNIA ROBBERY.

IN THE HANDS OF A GOVERNMENT DETECTIVE.

How the Safe in the Canadian Express Company's Office Was Plundered—$7000 Just Placed Therein To Be Forwarded to Toronto, Stolen.

TORONTO, Dec. 22.—The Attorney General's Department yesterday despatched Government Detective Joe Rogers to Sarnia to investigate the robbery of $7000 from the safe in the office of the Canadian Express Company in that town, the boldest and most daring robbery that ever occurred. The robber, or robbers, if there were more than one, made good their escape apparently without leaving any tangible clue. The robbery has set Sarnia in a fever of excitement, and rumors as to who were concerned in the affair are many and varied.

Thomas Cook, jr., who superseded Ernie O. Clark about two months ago as the agent of the company, has been sick abed for the past few days, and the office was in charge of James McMahon, who, with the delivery man, comprised the office force.

At 12.25 o'clock McMahon, after having returned from the 12 o'clock train for the east, locked everything valuable into the office safe, which is an old-fashioned key-lock affair, and, after locking the front door, went for his mid-day meal. Upon his return, at five minutes before 1, he found the door of the safe open with a key sticking in the key-hole, and $7000 in currency missing. The money had just been brought into the office a few minutes to 12, by the local banks, to be forwarded to Toronto.

The perpetrators of the robbery gained entrance through rear a door in the basement, which had been left open for the delivery of some coal. From the basement it was practically an easy matter to get into the office through a trap in the floor, after which all that remained to be done was to unlock the safe and abstract the packages wanted. After getting the booty, the robber made his exit and in the same way as he had entered.

The key was a duplicate, and was evidently made by the robber himself from an impression procured in some way from the original key to the safe. It is a rather crude affair, and is pronounced by a locksmith not to have been made by a mechanic. The robber was evidently well acquainted with the methods and business of the office, as it was an unusual thing to have that amount of money in the office. He seemed also to have been cognizant of the fact that the valuables were put out on the second express and not on the 12 o'clock train, on which other express matter is sent. If the officers have any suspicion who the guilty parties are, they are keeping it to themselves. Rumors are many, but at the present time it would be an injustice to connect any person's name therewith.

MISSED HER BABE.

Crazed by Grief Mrs. Craig Leaves Her Home and Friends.

TORONTO, Dec. 22.—Twenty-five years ago the infant child of Mrs. Sarah Craig fell down a well and was drowned. It was the unfortunate mother's lot to find her dead child, and ever since she beheld her dead baby. Time turned up in her face from beneath the water she has been demented, being continually under the impression that she would one day again enfold her baby in her arms.

Lately her friends have noticed that she was becoming unnaturally excited, and fearful of losing their watchful eye closely. Yesterday afternoon, however, she eluded their vigilance and wandered forth from the house, presumably in search of her missing little one.

Although enquiries have been set on foot no word as to the old lady's whereabouts can be learned.

She resides with her brother-in-law, Mr. V. Woods, 190 Oak-street, and any clue which will lead to the location to her home will be thankfully received.

When Mrs. Craig left the house she was attired in a grey cotton wrapper and wore a small black shawl over her head. She is 68 years of age and of fair complexion.

Mr. Woods and his wife are afraid that the old lady may have gone in the direction of the Don, and searching for her drowned baby as she was it is feared she may have plunged into the water.

THE POISON EPIDEMIC.

Drinking Water for Non-Unionists Dosed With Croton Oil.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Dec. 22.—A story of attempted and partially successful wholesale poisoning, similar to that alleged at Homestead, comes from New Cumberland, W. Va.

A large number of Hungarians have been imported to take the places of striking workmen in the John Porter Company's tile and brick works. Recently these men have been complaining of sickness and many of them have left in consequence. The trouble was charged to the water kept for drinking purposes in barrels about the works. An investigation leads to the belief that the drinking water of the non-union men had been heavily dosed with croton oil.

The Homestead Poisoning.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 22.—True bills were returned by the grand jury yesterday against Hugh F. Dempsey, Robert Beaty and M. McDevitt, charging assault and battery in administering poison to the non-union men at Homestead steel works.

Nicaragua Canal.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The Foreign Relations Committee has reported favorably upon the Nicaragua Canal bill. The Canal Company want the Government to guarantee $100,000,000 bonds for construction expenses.

Fight with Dacoits.

BOMBAY, Dec. 22.—Advices from Rajote, in the Province of Guzerat, report an encounter between a body of Dacoits and a force of native policemen under British military officers. Lieut. Gordon of the Bombay Lancers and four policemen were killed. No mention is made of the loss sustained by the Dacoits.

A Big Purse Presented at a Bishop's Gold and Silver Jubilee.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 22.—The gold and silver jubilee of Rt. Rev. William O'Hara, Bishop of Scranton and a priest and bishop of the Roman Catholic Church, was celebrated here yesterday with impressive ceremonies.

Cardinal Gibbons, accompanied by Archbishop Ryan, Mgr. Martinelli of the University of Washington and other dignitaries of the church were present.

Marching societies and thousands of citizens greeted the cardinal on arrival at Scranton. Five thousand persons attended the church services. During the celebration of mass Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia preached the sermon. Immediately following the close of the mass the guests of the diocese gave a banquet to the visiting dignitaries.

During the feast the clergy delivered an address to the bishop and presented to him a purse containing $15,000.

The Vote for President.

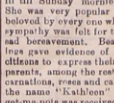

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The Post printed yesterday a table of the vote this year for President, having secured the figures from all the states. The result is: Cleveland 5,567,990; Harrison 5,176,011; Weaver 1,025,060, and Bidwell 238,347. Cleveland's plurality 391,979.

In Louisiana the Republicans and People's party, having nominated a fusion ticket, on which there were five Harrison electors and three Weaver electors, the vote for plurality puposes is credited to Harrison.

The Last Sad Rites.

The funeral of Kathleen Stuart Orr, the only child of John R. Orr, Editor and proprietor of the North Hastings Review, took place yesterday afternoon at the Village of Madoc. She had a wide circle of friends and was one of the best known children in the village. Her death occurred under peculiarly sad circumstances. She had prepared her part for the coming Christmas entertainment, and her Christmas presents had been collected. On Wednesday evening last she was taken sick, and continued ill till Sunday morning, when she died. She was very popular in the village, and beloved by every one who knew her. Great sympathy was felt for the parents in their sad bereavement. Beautiful floral offerings gave evidence of the desire of the citizens to express their sympathy for the parents, among the rest a pillow of white carnations, roses and calla lillies and having the name "Kathleen" inscribed with forget-me-nots was received from the members of the Madoc Lodge I.O.O.F., of which Mr. Orr is a member. Her school mates came in a body and joined in the last sad rites.

Her funeral was largely attended, and it is to be hoped that the death of a child calls forth such marks of sorrow and sympathy from the whole community.

BLEECKER WARD.

To the Electors of Bleecker Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Having learned that the business of the coming year in the City Council is likely to be very heavy, I believe I would not be able to give the time necessary to attend to the duties of Alderman for my ward, and therefore wish to retire from the contest. I thank my many friends and supporters for their kindness in bringing me out and assisting me in my canvass

Dated December 22nd, 1892

To the Electors of Ketcheson Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RE-PECTFULLY ask your votes and influence as a Candidate for Aldermen for 1893. I am in favor of the reduction of Aldermen to at least fourteen, to be elected by the whole city—the present wards to cease to exist. I will support all measure which as a citizen I think to be in the best interest of the present position and future progress of this City, believing neither in undue municipal extravagance nor in false economy.

WILLIAM N. PONTON.
Belleville, Dec. 1892. 196

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RESPECTFULLY solicit your votes and influence to be elected Mayor of the City of Belleville for 1893. I was born in Belleville and have lived amongst you I my life, and am personally known to the most of you. I have been an Alderman in the City Council for four years, and during that time have endeavored to represent you straight forwardly and faithfully.

My platform is economy in City affairs. If elected I will myself to further the best interests of the city.

Yours respectfully,
FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

HAVING been requested by a large number of influential electors of the city of Belleville, to offer myself for Mayor for 1893, I have consented to do so, and now respectfully solicit your votes and influence. I have resided in the city six years, three of which I have served in the City Council and School Board. (I would respectfully refer you to my work therein.) I came out as a business man, having had 20 years business experience in different parts of Canada, which is of great service to any one in filling the civic chair. I have chosen Belleville as my home, and have invested all my capital in and around the city, and my interests being centred here, I will, if elected, do all in my power, as I done heretofore, to advance the best interests of the city

I strongly urge the reduction of the number of Aldermen, and shall use every endeavor to carry into effect the pledge made by me to the Council in respect to it last year.

I have also in view the grave necessity of getting the city in the best sanitary condition possible to enable us the better to cope with disease for the cholera epidemic shou'd it reach us next year.

Yours,
HARRY FOWELL.

ARTHUR NEW,
d4w Formerly with Philip Harte.

To the Municipal Electors of Murney Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

FOR the third time I respectfully ask for your votes and influence to secure my return as one of your representatives.

During the year I have been honored with the chairmanships of two standing committees, the whole of the time, and a third—the Executive—for the last half of the year.

You are the judges whether I have attended faithfully to duty and acted conscientiously.

Whatever work for the city's good, if possible from the standpoints of economy and prudence, are the objects of my aim. I renew my pledges of attention to duty and fidelity to our city's welfare, and remain

Yours obediently,
J. E. WALMSLEY.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of My Native City:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

FOR years past I have had the offer of support for the Civic Chair, but at the present time to many of my old friends have hopes more pressure to bear than I can decently withstand. I have been asked to stand for the high retpi sition that the citizens can confer on any one. Among the men who offer me their support are to be found Irishmen, Englishmen, Dutchmen, Frenchmen and now and then a Scotchman, besides a good many Canadians. To the electors I am no stranger. I have been a member of the City Council for the greater part of a quarter of a century and during that time have done what I felt was for the best interest of the city and will continue on the same line if successful at the coming election. I am in favor of strict economy in city affairs and decrease of our indebtedness. At the nomination I will freely give my views on the situation, and with much respect ask that when you mark your ballot you will not forget

When King James the first wrote his "counterblast to tobacco" the royal pedant knew nothing of the "Myrtle Navy." If he had, instead of wasting his brains over his curious production, he would have filled his royal pipe with it, and would have taken a royal smoke, he would then have been prepared to admit that with regard to the injurious effects of tobacco, it all depended on what tobacco you smoked.

We do know of any preparation that has caught the public favor in so short a time as Dodd's Kidney Pills, but when we consider that three-fourths of the Canadian people are afflicted with kidney troubles in some form or other, and that Dodd's Pills are a quick and permanent cure for all these troubles, the large and increasing demand can scarcely be wondered at. The New Hotel.

Tenders to be Asked for Its Erection.

There are at present bright prospects that an hotel which will be a credit to the city, will be erected upon the old Dafoe House site. A number of our influential and energetic citizens have the matter in hand, and will endeavor to accomplish the purpose they have in view. The plans have been revised by Messrs. Gillan & Gillan, celebrated architects at Kingston. Yesterday afternoon a meeting of the syndicate was held, and the plans as proposed by the architects were accepted. Some material changes have been made from the plans first proposed, which will considerably lessen the expenditure, while the convenience and beauty of the building will not be lessened. At the meeting it was decided at once to call for tenders and if a tender was found to be within the limit named by Mr. Gillen the same would be accepted and the work of construction will be proceeded with as soon as it is possible to do so.

It is to be hoped that the hotel will be erected, as it will not only be an ornament to the city, but a great accommodation to the travelling public, and also tourists who may visit this section of the country during the summer months.

Lodge Cumberland No. 167 Instituted at Ormsby, Dec. 20th.

Bros. Thos. Waymark, D.D., and J. W. London, P.D.D., on the 20th inst. visited Ormsby, which is situated on the Central Ontario Railroad about 80 miles from Belleville. The visitors were met at the station and taken to Mr. Staniluk's, where comfortable quarters were provided for them. Bro. Steel, (Windsor Lodge No. 5, Toronto, (to whom is due the credit of getting the lodge started) was also on hand.

The visiting brethren were agreeably surprised on learning that Bro. Alf. Rubbra, P.P., of Mercantile lodge, Toronto, was also at Ormsby and kindly offered his help to assist in the work and he was heartily welcomed.

The Lodge was then dedicated by Bros. Waymark, S.G.P., J. W. London, S.G.S., Alf. Rubbra, S.G.C., E. Steel, S.G. Guide —after which the election of officers took place as follows:

President, Ernest Steel; Vice-do., J.R. Harding; Secretary, Thos. Letts; Treas'r, S. S. Staniluk; Chaplain, Rev. T.V. James; Surgeon, Dr. Harding. Committee, Bros. H. Brinklow, sen., Thomas Peters, R. H. Waddington, R. Jackson and W. Brinklow; Inner Guard, H. Lott; Outer Guard, H. Brinklow, jr.

A great deal of enthusiasm was shown, many of the members driving a distance of from 5 to 10 miles to the place of meeting.

Dr. Harding, formerly a member of Oxford Lodge, ably assisted Bro. Steel in getting the Egglishmen to join the Lodge.

After the business was over all sat down to an excellent supper provided by Bro. Staniluk.

This body met in St. Andrew's church on Tuesday night, when Rev. D. Wishart, of Madoc, was appointed Moderator for the next term. Mr. Porteous was, at his own request, relieved of his charge of Glenvale, Harrowsmith and Wilton, to date from Jan. 25th. Calls were received from McDonald's Corners to Mr. James Binnie (sustained), and from Hillsdale and Craighurst to Mr. W. S. Smith, of Centreville, (to be considered.) Mr. Porteous was appointed missionary for two years in the North Hastings field. A grant of $3 per Sabbath was asked for the new mission station at Dseronto.

We Should Live One Hundred Years

We are century animals and have a perfect right to live out that period if we can. Many do so. Consumption has been killing off the flower of our youth through the centuries, but it will do so no more. Why? Because "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," wherever used cures consumption and the coughs and lung troubles which give rise to it. It will be like suicide to die of consumption in future if "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil" is within reach. In big bottles 50c. and $1,00, at all Drug Stores.

A SERIOUS CASE.

Samuel Crozier Committed to Gaol Charged With Bigamy.

The Accused a Resident of St. Ola—Trial Fixed for Tuesday Next.

Samuel Crozier, a man about 25 years of age, was brought to the city this morning from St. Ola in the township of Limerick, and placed in the County gaol on the serious charge of bigamy. It appears that about 2 years ago the accused went to St. Ola in order to get out some timber for an Ottawa firm. He was a young man of pleasing manner, and soon became a general favorite with all in whom he came in contact with. He became acquainted with Miss Hattie Holmes, daughter of Mr. D. Holmes. In August, 1891, they were married, and all went well until about two weeks ago, when a lady appeared in the neighborhood, and claimed to be the wife of Samuel Crozier. He at first denied the charge, but it is stated that she produced the marriage certificate. His first wife was a Miss Nell, her home being in the vicinity of Carleton Place. He refused to go away with his first wife. An effort, however, was made to settle the matter, and it was supposed by some to be settled, but that proved not to be the case. Crozier left that section immediately, but subsequently went back and gave himself up to constable Morton, who brought him to the city. The High Constable went out after the man, but he had decamped before his arrival.

The accused was brought before the P. M. this morning, and remanded until next Tuesday. In answer to a question he said that he had no children by his first wife, or by the woman he has lately been living with.

A Crush and a Success.

The High School Pupils at their Best.

The High School commencement exercises described in our columns yesterday were concluded last evening. The students and teachers of the schools were early on hand to receive their invited guests, who began to arrive three quarters of an hour before the time fixed for the opening. The students deserve much praise for the skilful manner in which they managed to seat quite comfortably an audience twice too large for the room at their disposal. The students, from the eldest to the youngest, appreciated the presence of their distinguished guests, and by their courtesy and good deportment set an example which might be copied with advantage elsewhere. At the request of the students the chairman of the School Board, Mr. Thos. Wills, presided, and every number on the lengthy programme merited the close attention and warm applause accorded to it. The music furnished was of high character and calculated to entertain without ostentation. A banjo duet by Messrs. Wolever and Bogart was encored, although recalls had been interdicted. A violin solo by Miss Edith Jones was excellent and the violin and piano duet of the Misses Hunter elicited deserved applause. The piano duet of the Misses Elliott showed marked talent and was well received. A vocal solo "Down the Shadowy Lane She Went," by Miss Holton, was sweet and artistic. Miss Coleman's "Last Milestone" full of melody and pathos, had to be recalled, while "Whistle and I'll come to you My Lad" by Miss Jessie Maclean, captivated the audience, who would not be refused an encore. It would be difficult to say too much in praise of the recitations. Miss Lazier's impersonation, Miss Lingham's pathos and Miss Irene Brignall's grace and impressiveness were tastefully acknowledged by the attentive audience. Miss Moynes delivered the valedictory on behalf of the graduates. It was carefully considered, written with taste and well read. The Christmas greeting of Miss Pretty was eloquent, pretty and appropriate. In presenting the medals and diplomas, Mr. Wills referred to the past and present of the educational advantages of the city and the progress and successes of the students. He especially congratulated Miss Perry on her well-deserved distinction and Messrs. Clute and Hartman on the honors that entitled them to the Senior Leaving Diploma. The distinctions conferred were:

NON PROFESSIONAL CERTIFICATES.

MEDAL.

For excellence in industrial design, competition by the high schools and collegiate institutions of Ontario, Jessie Perry.

The gem of the evening, we think, was the Colloquy of the Nations, with its patriotic music and distinctive costumes. The dresses were carefully prepared from plates and descriptions, and could be easily identified. The parts were excellently taken, and well rendered throughout. The Goddess of Liberty by Miss Crysler, Japan by Miss Bessie Cooke, Germany by Miss Jessie Bruce, India by Miss Brown, Spain Miss Calhoun, France Miss Pretty, Ireland Miss Minnie Johnson, Italy Miss Edith Jones, Scotland Miss Jessie Maclean, and Canada by Miss Maria Huffman, formed a glowing picture of color and beauty, not easily forgotten. The bar ball exercise by Misses Ewan, Crysler, and Lingham, must be noticed to be praised. The success of the reception drew from the guests a hearty vote of thanks, originated by Mr. William Johnson, and supported by Mayor Bogart. These speeches were laudatory and practical, and were sustained by a standing vote of the ladies and gentlemen present, which was gratefully acknowledged by the Head Master; after which a hearty, enthusiastic "God Save the Queen," gave the signal for separation.

PURELY VEGETABLE—

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They're a compound of refined and concentrated botanical extracts. Those tiny, sugar-coated pellets —the smallest and the easiest to take —absolutely and permanently cure Constipation, Indigestion, Sick and Bilious Headaches, Dizziness, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels.

They cure permanently, because they act naturally. They don't shock and weaken the system, like the huge, old-fashioned pills. And they're more effective. One little pellet for a corrective or laxative—three for a cathartic.

They're the cheapest pills you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

You pay only for the good you get.

SHOP EARLY

And often this week. Thursday and Saturday the farmers will demand a good share of our attention. Our display don't include raisins or tea, pills or perfumery, books or dolls, but if you want a piece of SILVER WARE, a LAMP, a dinner or tea set or anything in china or crockery why see us—that's where we shine. So much better choice in such a store as this than places where there's a little of everything and not much of anything. 9 hanging and 5 parlor table lamps sold Saturday. This shows how the main stream of trade keeps to the old channel. Open every night this week.

Blotches Cured.

DEAR SIRS,—In 1890 my body was covered with blotches and I was at last induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters; by the time I had used 3½ bottles of it I was completely cured, and I cannot speak too highly of it.

MRS. JAMES DESMOND, Halifax, N. S.

Made With Skill.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skillful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

Out of Sorts—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure,' and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

The speed of a wild duck is ninety miles an hour.

Do not delay in getting relief for the little folks. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is a pleasant cure sure. If you love you child why then do you let it suffer when a remedy is so near at hand.

An adder's bite—The bank clerk's lunch.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world.

BROOKE'S DAUGHTER.

BY

ADELINE SERGEANT,

Author of "A True Friend," etc, etc. (By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

'Do you dare to trifle with me—— the man was beginning, furiously, but Oliver checked him with a slight pressure of the arm and went on suavely.

'All this threatening sort of business is out of date, as you ought to know. One would that you had been to the Surrey side Theatre, lately, or the Porte St. Martin, and taken lessons of a stage villain. 'Beware! I will be revenged,' and all that sort of thing. It doesn't go down now, you know. The fact is—you can't do me any harm, you can only harm yourself; and I think you had better be advised by me to hold your tongue.'

Francis was silent for a minute or two. He was evidently impressed by Oliver's manner.

'You're right in one way,' he said, in a much more subdued tone. 'People wouldn't listen to me because I am so badly dressed —I look so poor. But that could be remedied. A new suit of clothes might make all the difference, Oliver. And then we could see whether some people would believe me or not!'

'And what difference would it make to me if people did believe you?' said Oliver, slowly.

The man stared at him open-mouthed. Oliver was taking a view of things which was unknown to Francis.

'Well,' he answered, 'considering that you and most of my relations and friends have cut me for the past ten years because I got into trouble over a few accounts in a bank—and considering the sorry figure I cut now in consequence—I don't see why you should be so careless of the possibility of partaking my downfall! I should say that it would be rather worse for you than it has been for me; and it hasn't been very nice for me I can assure you!'

Oliver's face grew a trifle paler, but his voice was as smooth as ever when he began to speak.

'Now, look here, Francis,' he said. 'I'll be open and plain with you. Of course, I know what you are alluding to; it would be weakness to protest that I did not. But I assure you that you are on the wrong track. In your case you were found to have embezzled money, falsified accounts, and played the devil with old Lawson's affairs generally. You were prosecuted for it, and that whole case was in the papers. You got off on some technical point, but everybody knew that you were guilty, and everybody cut you dead—except, you will remember, your brother and sister, who continued to give you money, and were exceedingly kind to you. You were publicly disgraced, and there was no way of hushing the matter up at all. I am sorry to be obliged to put things so disagreeably to you.

'Go on! You needn't apologize,' said Francis, with a rather husky laugh. 'I know it as well as you do. Go on.'

'I wish to point out the difference between our two positions,' said Oliver, calmly. 'I did something a little shady, myself, when I was a lad of twenty—as your investigation, mind; I signed old Romaine's name in the wrong place, didn't I? Old Romaine found it out, kept the thing quiet, and said that he had given me the money. I expressed my regret, and the matter blew over. What can you make out of that story?'

He spoke very quietly, but there was a watchfulness in his eye, a slight twitching of his nostril, which proved him to be not entirely at his ease. His elder brother laughed aloud.

'If that were all!' he said. 'But you forget how the base action would seem if all the circumstances were known! how black your treachery and ingratitude to a man who was, after all, your benefactor. Romaine never knew of this little episode, I believe! And she has a good deal of respect for her husband's memory. I should like to see what she would say about it.'

'She would not believe you, my dear boy.'

'But if I could prove it? if I had in my possession a full confession signed by yourself—the confession that Romaine insisted on, you will remember! What effect would that have upon her mind! And there was that other business, you know, about Mary's sister, whom you lured away from her home and ruined. She is dead, but Mary is alive and can bear witness against you. How would you like these facts blazoned abroad and brought home to the mind of the pretty girl whom I saw you kissing a little while ago on the steps of a house in Upper Woburn Place! She is a Miss Kenyon, I know; an actress; I know all about her. Her brother is a doctor and she has twenty thousand pounds in her own right.'

'You do seem, indeed, to know everything,' said Oliver, with a sneer.

'I make it my business to know everything about you. You've been so confoundedly mean of late that I had begun to understand that I must put the screw on you. And I warn you, if you don't give me what I ask, or promise to do so within a reasonable time, I shall first go to Rosalind, and then to these Kenyon people, and Caspar Brooke, and all these other friends of yours and see what they will give me for your secrets.'

'They'll kick you out of the house, and you'll be called a fool for your pains,' said the young man, furiously.

'No, I don't think so. Not if I play my game properly. You are engaged to Miss Kenyon, are you not?'

Oliver stood silent.

'I tell you that she shall never marry you in ignorance of your past unless you shut my mouth first. And you are the best judge of whether she will marry you at all or not, when she knows what we know.'

Then the two brothers were both silent for a little while. Oliver stood frowning, tracing a pattern on the pavement with the toe of his polished boot, and gazing at it. He was evidently considering the situation. Francis stood with his back to the railings, his eyes fixed, with a somewhat crafty look, upon his brother's face. He was not yet sure that his long-cherished scheme for extracting money from Oliver would succeed. He believed it would; but there never was any counting on Oliver. Astute as Francis considered himself (in spite of his failure in the world), Oliver was astuter still.

Presently Oliver looked up and met Francis' fixed gaze. He started a little, and made an odd grimace, intended to conceal a nervous twitch of the muscles of his face. Then he spoke.

'You think yourself very clever, no doubt. Well, perhaps you are. I'll acknowledge that in a certain sense, you might spoil my game for me. Not quite in the way that you think, you know; but up to a certain point. As I don't want to have my game spoilt, I am willing to make a bargain with you—is that plain?'

'Fair saling so far,' said Francis, doggedly. 'Go on. What will you give?'

'Nothing just now. The sum you named on the day when I marry Ethel Kenyon, on condition that you give me back the confession that you talk about and swear not to mention your wife's sister, and take yourself off to Australia.'

'Hm!' said Francis considering. 'So I have brought you to term, have I? So much the better for you—and perhaps for me. Are you engaged to Miss Kenyon.'

'I asked her to-night to marry me and she consented.'

'You always were a lucky dog, Oliver,' with almost a wistful expression on his crafty face. 'I never could see how you managed it, for my part. If that pretty girl'—with a laugh—'knew all that I know now!'

'Exactly. I don't want her know all you do. Are you going to agree to my terms or not?'

'I should have said they were my terms,' said the elder brother, 'but we won't haggle about names. Say two thousand five hundred pounds down.'

'No, two thousand,' said Oliver boldly. 'That will suit me better than two hundred a year.'

'Ah, you want to get rid of me, don't you! How soon is it likely to be?'

'Oh, that I can't tell you. As soon as she fixes the day.'

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Hoy & Co.,* Brockville, Ont.

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

DALTON'S FAIR

FRONT STREET.

Santa Claus' Headquarters.

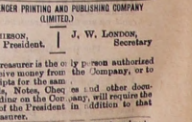

Our endeavors to make the Fair headquarters for Christmas supplies is more marked this fall than at any previous time. Our store, though large, is not sufficient to accommodate the great crowd at Christmas times. We would therefore urge you to make your selections now while the stock is complete and avoid the crush at Christmas time. We have just received 100 cases of foreign goods, such as albums, dolls, tooth brushes, hair brushes, purses, fancy china cups and saucers, vases, jewellery, handsome lemonade sets, glass tea sets, beautifully engraved; our assortment of American glassware must be seen to be appreciated. Never have we been able to offer such bargains in albums, ladies work boxes, jewel cases, perfume cases, shaving cases, brush and comb cases, games from 5c up, playing cards from 5c up, beautiful whisk holders all the latest styles from 40c up. We have something new in dolls' chairs, dolls' cradles, children's extension tables, sets of furniture, toy picture books, pansy books, magic lanterns 40c up, steam engines, dolls' carriages, children's sleds and cutters strong and durable at lowest prices, novels by the best authors 10c a copy. 25c, pocket knives and table cutlery an endless variety to choose from. But, perhaps, one of the greatest drives is a special line of extra quality writing paper, 5 quires (120 sheets) for 17c. We will not attempt to enumerate further, but would invite you to call at

GEN. BOOTH'S DAUGHTER

DYING AMONG HER CONVERTS IN INDIA.

Ill of Fever Where She Led a Revival—Head Men of the Village Tore Down the Idols in the Temple—She Has Written a Number of Army Songs.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Special prayers are being offered in all the Salvation Army meetings throughout the world for the recovery of Col. "Ruhani" Booth, the youngest daughter of Gen. William Booth, the founder of the order.

She is lying dangerously ill of fever in Managundy, in the Department of Travancore, India, where she recently led a great revival in which the head man of the village tore down the idols in the temple and turned over the building to the Salvationists.

Her real name is Lucy M. Booth, but she followed the custom of the army folks in India by taking a native name, which means "Spirituality."

She is only 22 years old, and began her career in the army four years ago in London.

She soon became an officer and was put in charge of the Naval Brigade, which consisted of 20 young women who, attired in yachting costumes, cruised up and down the Thames in a steam yacht and held services in the villages and towns and in the fashionable house boats. She was threatened with consumption two years ago and went to Ceylon, where she recovered her health.

She is a very sweet singer and an eloquent speaker and has written a number of army songs, one of which, "Dark India," is sung by the Salvationists everywhere. The cable message received here yesterday intimated that she was dying.

A FIGHT FOR LOVE.

The Girl Acted as Referee and Agreed to Go With the Victor.

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., Dec. 23.—A fight took place here last night between John Roteski and Michael Lincevitch. Both men are Hungarians. John left Hungary with Mary Dousky, to whom he was married on reaching New York.

Lincevitch was in love with the girl and followed them to this country for the purpose of being revenged.

About 50 railroad workmen witnessed the fray. Mary was selected as referee, and, it is alleged, agreed to take the victor for her husband. The fight lasted 40 minutes, when, completely exhausted and bleeding profusely, Lincevitch was unable to stand up any longer.

A foul was claimed on account of Roteski's chewing his opponent's ear, and a riot began. The girl sided with her husband's friends and she was knocked senseless.

Weapons of all kinds were used, and 10 or 12 were felled with clubs, while several bullets found their way among the crowd.

Nearly all of the 50 were badly cut and bruised and six of them are in a precarious condition. Roteski, with his face all bandaged up, left to-day for Shenadoah, accompanied by Mary.

MOLESTED HIS DIVORCED WIFE.

Oliver Plant Fined $100 and Put Under Peace Bonds.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—Oliver Plant, erstwhile of Toronto, Canada, and his former wife, who is known as Clara Fredericks, talked with Justice Lyon in open court at Chicago yesterday morning. They have been divorced for some time, but Oliver does not recognize the legal separation and has fallen into the habit of pestering his former spouse at odd intervals. Clara resents this, and as Oliver was found entering her premises by stealth at an unseemly hour yesterday morning she had him arrested. It was apparent to the most unsophisticated person that Oliver is bad. It was clearly shown that he bore a bad reputation among his countrymen who reside in Chicago, and that two years ago he shot Clara in the region of the right shoulder blade. And when it was shown that he broke out of jail in Canada by means of powder conveyed to him in innocent-looking pies, that settled it. Justice Lyon fined him $100 for his act of stealth, and put him under bonds of $500 to keep him from molesting Clara for the period of one year.

Diamonds in Idaho.

BOISE, Idaho, Dec. 23.—A. Kunnsee, the diamond expert who has been examining the alleged diamond fields here, has gone to Chicago, taking with him several specimens. He said: The geology of the country around the diamond fields is precisely the same as in the South African fields, and not unlike those of Brazil.

The only difference is that these are not as much broken up. In my opinion these diamond fields will be larger than either those of Africa or Brazil, the blow cuts, or shafts, being a great deal larger and more clearly defined.

Shrieked for Help.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Fire broke out at 10 o'clock yesterday in the residence of Lloyd Aspinwall, No. 9 Gramercy-park. The flames started up from the basement, and in a few minutes the whole first floor was enveloped in smoke and fire.

The occupants of the house, Mrs. Aspinwall, two children, three servant girls and a butler, were panic-stricken and their escape by the stairways being cut off, they took refuge on the window sills, where they stood shrieking for help. They were rescued. Not much damage was done.

The Flywheel Burst.

MUNCIE, Ind., Dec. 23.—At 5 o'clock yesterday the flywheel at the White River iron and steel works burst, tearing the building to pieces. Head Roller Ed Perkins of Joliet, Ill., was instantly killed. Engineer Dave Collier was fatally injured and Heater Lige Wood was badly cut. The engineer not being at his post caused the accident. Three hundred are out of work pending repairs. The loss is estimated at $10,000.

A Head-End Collision.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 23.—A head-end collision between two freight trains occurred on the Louisville and Nashville main line near Edgerfield Junction this morning. Ten cars and the two engines were badly wrecked. E. J. Oakes, conductor; T. O'Dell, brakeman; R. O. Johnson, engineer; Frank Poster and Frank Wilkes, firemen, and two tramps were very dangerously hurt.

Wants a Divorce.

FLINT, Mich., Dec. 23.—Hattie Humiston wants a divorce from her husband, Reuben, for cruelty and desertion. They were married in Hamilton, Ont., in 1870.

Railway Accident in Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 23.—A train on the Mexican Southern Railway was derailed here to-day. Four persons were killed and a number injured.

PIECEMEAL REFORM.

In the German Army is Declared to Be Impracticable.

BERLIN, Dec. 23.—The North German Gazette yesterday published an article on the army bill, in the course of which it says that the Federal Government regards as impossible the introduction of the two year's service system without an increase in the military establishments and cadets. If these conditions are rejected, The Gazette adds, it will be necessary to revert to a universal three years' service, as piecemeal reform in the army is impracticable.

The paper further says that the bill was drafted under the conviction that since 1871 Germany's defensive power has not increased to the same extent as that of Russia and France, and that in the event of war, Germany would have, under present conditions, a relatively small force at her disposal.

The bill is now in the hands of a committee of 28 members of the Reichstag and it is generally conceded that in its present shape it will have become a law.

ANOTHER FAIR EMIGRANT.

Miss Wayne Cuyler of Baltimore to Wed Sir Philip Egerton.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—The marriage of Miss Wayne Cuyler of Baltimore, Md., to Sir Philip Henry Brian Grey-Egerton will take place on Jan. 4. Sir Philip is a nephew of the sixth Earl Selkirk. He has residences at 103 Eaton-square, London; Oulton Park, Tarporley, Cheshire and Broxton, Old Hall, Cheshire. He is a captain in the 4th Battalion of the Cheshire Regiment.

Miss Cuyler is a daughter of the late Patrick Cuyler of the United States Engineering Corps. It is claimed by her friends that she is one of the most beautiful women in the world. Sir Philip is known in American society, he, in company with his mother, who is a daughter of the first Baron Londesborough, having passed part of last summer at Newport and Lenox, where several entertainments were given in their honor.

NOT A FAILURE.

Secretary Foster is Satisfied With The Monetary Conference.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—"I think there is a popular misapprehension in regard to the results so far of the International Monetary Conference," said secretary Charles Foster yesterday afternoon. "It is a grave mistake," he said, "to assume that the conference will be a failure. The taking of a recess till May was expected by the Administration when the American delegates left this country."

"The fact that Mr. Rothschild made any proposition for the increased use of silver, coupled with his declaration that unless something were done to ensure its better use among the nations serious consequences would follow, is in itself a hopeful indication that the prominent bankers of the world feel the necessity of reaching an agreement of such a nature as will secure approximate uniformity in dealing with the question the world over.

"So far as my personal connection with the conference is concerned, all that I expected of the preliminary meeting has been accomplished. The general drift of the conference is even more favorable than we anticipated."

Mr. Harter of Ohio, one of the chief hard money Democrats, says there can be no hope of inducing any other nation to do anything for silver while the Sherman law is in force and the United States is continuing the monthly purchases of bullion provided for by that law.

"Suppose," said he, "you and I are walking down the street together and we come to a wall that is leaning over the sidewalk. I go up to it and try to hold it up, so that it will not fall and crush the passers-by. I call to you and ask you to come and help me, but you say, 'No, you hold the wall up and I will pass on out of danger.'"

KNOWN IN AMERICA.

Dr. Herz Was an Audacious Swindler in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.—Dr. Cornelius Herz, who has been prominently mentioned in connection with the Panama scandal in France, figured in San Francisco for a time as an audacious swindler. He burst upon the Pacific coast like a meteor and everybody was dazzled by his presence.

This was in 1874. His success, social and professional, was wonderful and rapid. Incidentally he induced George S. Ladd and M. J. Keating, both now dead, to loan him $90,000. Their widows now hold his note for this amount.

Another of his victims was W. H. Lyon, a brewer of large wealth. Herz treated him for some blood affection, real or supposed, and soon had the old man completely within his power.

Of course Dr. Herz was paid liberally for his services, but it was not known until several weeks after he suddenly left in 1877 to go to Paris how much the doctor had collected.

Note after note, each for $10,000 and each bearing the undoubted signature of Lyon, came pouring in on the brewer. "The total amount," said Lawyer Thomas, who had been Mr. Lyon's attorney, "was over $100,000. As Lyon was known to be responsible Herz had an easy job to discount his notes."

A despatch from Chicago says: Dr. Cornelius Herz, the "American" who is the central figure in the Panama scandal, resided in this city during the years 1871-72. His brother, Joseph Herz, has lived here for 20 years. Joseph Herz is a manufacturers' agent, with an office at 226 La Salle-street.

Dr. Herz is a cousin of Emanuel Mandelin and his brother, the millionaire drygoods merchant of this city. Dr. Herz struggled hard with poverty during his Chicago experience and then gave it up. He returned to New York in 1872 and shortly thereafter married a Boston woman and went to San Francisco.

TRAFFIC FOR EXPORT.

The Trunk Line Association Agree Upon Keeping Up Rates.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—The joint committee of the Trunk Line Association met yesterday. Representatives from all the lines were present. The meeting was a brief one. The chief action taken was an agreement on a determination to insist upon the maintenance of rates on export traffic of all descriptions; the through rates to be made in all cases by adding to the seaboard rates the actual ocean rate obtainable at the time from seaboard ports to foreign ports.

It was further arranged that conferences would be held by the commissioners with the managers of western lines at Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week in order to devise means for the effectual carrying out of the arrangements of the presidents in respect to the maintenance of established rates.

Sail-Loft Burned.

"It Cured Mother."

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life become very miserable as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

Signed, MELVILLE B MARSH,
Abercorn, P. Q. General Merchant.

The prefection of God being infinite, to become God-like means infinite growth.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicinal herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Pudding with a hair in it is sweetness wasted on a dessert hair.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion is occasioned by want of action in the biliary ducts, loss of vitality in the stomach to secrete the gastric juices, without which digestion cannot go on; also, being the principal cause of Headache. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills taken before going to bed, for a while, never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr. F W Ashdown, Ashdown, Ont., writes:—"Parmelee's Pills are taking the lead against ten other makes which I have in stock."

In nearly all the markets of German cities fish are sold alive.

The best form in which electricity is embodied is Dr Thomas' Eclectric Oil, a sovereign remedy. A. Maybee, Merchant, Warkworth, writes:—"I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public 'one of the best medicine they have ever used;' it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."

The same wind that brings a cloud will bear it away again.

THE CHIEF CHARM OF A REFINED WOMAN is her complexion. Why have Pimples Freckles spots or any blemish when Peach Bloom Skin Food will remove them all, and leave the Skin transparent, soft and beautiful?
PEACH BLOOM contains nothing that can injure the skin. It is clear as water, and leaves no trace of the application one minute after use
PEACH BLOOM differs from any known preparation, in that it cleanses the pores of the skin from injurious accumulations, imparts health to the inner as well as to the outer cuticle, dissolving and removing Pimples, Blackheads, Liver Spots and Blemishes, and gradually brings about that transparent state of the skin that makes a perfect complexion

SUICIDE IN HAMILTON

WM. M'AULAY FOUND HANGING FROM A BEAM.

Suffered From Rheumatic Fever—Had Sold Out His Business—His Clerk Found Him at the Rear of the Store and Cut Him Down—Death Had Come.

HAMILTON, Dec. 23.—One of the saddest events of the year took place yesterday in the suicide of Mr. William McAulay, wholesale woolen goods merchant, No. 100 King-street east, and the city has lost one of its most highly respected business men.

For a long time Mr. McAulay had been in poor health. A year and a half ago he went to the Old Country, and while there had a very severe attack of rheumatic fever. For months it affected him, and he has never since been the same. After returning he was troubled with constant and intense pain in his left hand, just at the top of the thumb, and this growing worse rendered two or three operations necessary, and the final cutting out of the bone.

The intense and continued suffering wrought seriously upon his mind, and his friends were always anxious on his behalf, he having intimated that death was preferable to such a state, when there was no hope for ultimate recovery. His friends saw that it was necessary that he should go to more suitable climates, and for some time have been busy in making arrangements to wind up the business.

Only yesterday Mr. Seneca Jones completed all arrangements for the sale of the business to Toronto parties, and the sale was considered very satisfactory. In a few days, had he preserved his mental force, he would have been freed of business cares and would probably have gotten relief from his physical infirmities too.

This morning Mr. McAulay gave instructions to have some custom house business attended to and then checked over the goods which had been sold. Between 11.15 and 11.30 o'clock he sent his clerk to Mr. R. B. Spera's store, King-street east.

The young man was only away about 15 minutes, and when he returned Mr. McAulay was not to be seen. Going to his desk he found a sealed envelope addressed to Mrs. McAulay. He thought his employer had likely gone into the cellar and shot himself, and, not caring to go into the cellar alone, he rushed for Mr. Seneca Jones, whose office is less than 200 yards away.

In a couple of minutes the two returned and, going behind a glass partition at the rear of the store, they saw Mr. McAulay hanging to a beam at the side of the stairs. He was suspended by a strap thrown over the beam and looped around his neck.

Young Thompson cut the strap and allowed the body to sink to the cellar floor. Mr. Jones felt for the pulse and thought that death had taken place. Dr. Day Smith was immediately summoned and arrived in a few minutes, only to confirm Mr. Jones' belief.

Mr. N. D. Galbreaith, brother-in-law of deceased, opened the note to Mrs. McAulay, and found that it asked her to forgive him for the act and commended her and their children to God's blessing. Coroner MacKelcan was notified, but an inquest was deemed unnecessary.

Mr. McAulay was 52 years of age. He was formerly a traveler for Messrs. Knox, Morgan & Co., and afterwards went into business in the firm of McAulay, Robertson & Munro. A little over two years ago he and Mr. Pratt started the wholesale business, which he has been carrying on alone for over a year.

He leaves a widow and two daughters.

A QUICK ACTION.

Hamilton's Fire Chief Does a Clever Trick at Driving.

HAMILTON, Dec. 23.—Chief Aitchison had another of his miraculous escapes yesterday. Coming down Hughson-street from the wood market the chief heard the fire alarm, and at once set the pace for his mare. On reaching King-street, south of the Gore, a woman and child suddenly emerged on to Hughson-street and stood looking after the Bay-street reel.

The chief, in stentorian tones, shouted, but the poor woman heeded not, and came steadily ahead, right in the way of the chief's course. It being impossible to haul the horse up to prevent running the woman and child down, the chief at once turned his course to the east, determined to pass between the telephone post and the Traders' Bank, a narrow path, full of danger to himself.

His vehicle collided with the pole and he was thrown with great violence against the building. Strange, but true, the chief kept his head, and as he emerged from his vehicle he clutched the cushion of his seat and quick as thought inserted it between his body and the sharp projection of the angle of the bank building, saving to some extent injury to himself.

Nevertheless he is bruised considerably and had one rib fractured.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, DEC. 23

North Hastings Election.

Messrs. A. W. Carscallen and P. Vankleek Nominated.

At Madoc to-day Mr. A. W. Carscallen was nominated by the Conservatives, and Mr. Peter Vankleek by the Grits for the seat in the Commons for North Hastings.

THEIR ACTS BELIE THEIR WORDS.

The little coterie of annexationists, of whom Goldwin Smith is the head, Edward Farrer the scribe, and E. A. McDonald, Elgin Myers and Sol. White the stumpers, have been boasting very loudly that the spread of their treasonable ideas has been so great, that Canada is fairly honeycombed with annexation sentiment.

Such are the words of these men—some of them, at least—but their acts belie their words. Through changes in the Government and other causes, a considerable number of seats in Parliament became vacant recently, thus affording a grand opportunity for the annexationists to test public opinion—but they have shirked the issue.

The reason is so obvious toevery person, except the editors of a few Yankee newspapers, that further comment is unnecessary.

EDITORIAL BREVITIES.

Mr. Erastus Wiman thinks that Canada will not, for twenty-five years at least, be ready to enter the American union. The New York Sun—inspired by the notorious Farrer—alleges that Canada is ripe for annexation. The difference between these political quacks will result in the death of their poor little patient, of which Goldwin Smith is the godfather.

We judge, from the reports published by the Globe's Grit calamity hunter, that Conservatives are trying to induce their opponents to sacrifice themselves once more by continuing the fad as their policy.

The Montreal Gazette remarks: "Mr. Edward Farrer, late editor of the Globe, is writing a series of articles on the condition of Canada for the New York Sun. Mr. Wiman, who has taken on himself the trouble and expense of circulating them, says their 'evident motive is to lessen the liberality of treatment in matters of trade relations with Canada' by the new United States administration. The gang are still showing her enemies where to stab their country.

That keen observer "Knoxonian," the Canada Presbyterian, in his latest article, "Concerning the Green of Far-away Fields," pertinently remarks: "It would be interesting to know just how many Canadians in the States would willingly admit that the field over there is not quite so green as it looked."

The Hamilton Spectator remarks: "The oil question is well dealt with in a carefully-written article in the Journal of Commerce of last week. The provision which finds so much opposition just now is not that imposing the duty. That duty, as we have explained, was fixed by the Mackenzie Government, and the Reform papers which approved of it then, condemn it now. They approved of it when the Reform Government was in power; they condemn it when a Conservative Government is in power. They supported the Government which imposed duties on tea, coffee, sugar, and petroleum; they condemn the Government which has removed the duties from tea, coffee and sugar, and which has left the duty on petroleum unchanged."

MME. DE LESSEPS SAYS

HER FINGERS ARE NIPPING WITH THE COLD

Putting Up Stoves In Her Country Home —Pipes Pass Out Through the Windows —Back to Feudal Times—Answering Letters of Sympathy.

Lesnos, Dec. 23.—Writing from her country home to a friend in Paris Mme. de Lesseps says:

"Excuse this scrawl, for my fingers are nearly frozen. We are scarcely able to keep up the fires in this modest home, transformed into a magnificent chateau by our enemies.

"We are now engaged in putting up some plain stoves, whose pipes pass out through the windows. It looks as if we had gone back to feudal times, a fortified chateau provided with loop holes to defend us against our foes, whence issues smoke instead of shot, which would be quite good enough to drive off our present assailants. I am busy answering letters of sympathy which are pouring in from all quarters. Such kindness is touching."

TROUBLES IN FRANCE.

The Masses Are Ready to Checkmate Any Royalist Advance.

PARIS, Dec. 23.—It is the Bonapartists that are stepping to the front to take advantage of the difficulties of the Republic. The activity of the Royalists has aroused the jealousy of the Imperialists, who wish the house of Bonaparte recalled to the throne. The Imperialists have been canvassing actively for the re-election of the deputies, but not with much success.

The course of the Bonapartists awaits the pleasure of Prince Victor, who has yet to be heard from officially. Should the Bonapartists not, it is expected that they will attempt to strike a blow in Paris rather than in the provinces.

The Government is gratified by the action of the Pope in refusing at this critical time to become a tool of Monarchist plots, and the friendly relations of church and state will undoubtedly be strengthened should the crisis result in a triumph for the Government.

In a duel between Clemenceau and Deroulede yesterday neither was hurt.

The Imperialists have prepared a manifesto calling upon the people to recall the Bonapartists to the throne. The Orleanist party is also active.

M. Floquet told the committee that when he was a member of the ministry he had ordered certain advertisements printed in Parisian newspapers. These advertisements, he admitted, had been inserted not from a business but from a political point of view.

This admission is much commented upon as being tantamount to an acknowledgment that the advertisements were but a cover under which the newspapers were bribed to support the ministerial schemes.

Many rumors are current as to the attitude of the provinces toward the Government because of the Panama scandal, some of the reports going so far as to say that the country districts were upon the verge of revolution.

This morning the Government issued a denial of these disquieting rumors, declaring that the prefects in all the provinces report their districts tranquil with not the slightest indication of an outbreak.

M. Floquet, President of the Chamber of Deputies, appeared for examination before the Panama Investigating Committee today. He declared emphatically that he had never received from the Panama Company money for the secret service or for any other object.

La Lanterne says the papers discovered yesterday in the examination belonging to the company that supplied dynamite for the work on the Panama Canal show that Deputies Naquet, Laguerre, St. Martin and Laur had received sums of money from Arton, the go-between in the corruption, for their votes in the Chamber.

The Matin says 15 more warrants have been prepared against senators and deputies and that public prosecutors in the country districts have been instructed to search residences of accused persons and examine witnesses for evidence in relation to the charges.

M. De la Fosse writes to The Figaro that the parliamentary Republic is ruined and ought to be replaced by a consular Republic, with Prince Victor Emanuel Bonaparte as First Consul. The suggestion is looked upon as an attempt to revive the empire through the same processes by which the First Napoleon arrived at the throne.

Marius Fontane and Charles de Lesseps were taken from Mazas Prison this morning to the office of M. Franqueville, the examining magistrate, by whom they were questioned for two hours.

They rode both ways in a prison van as explicit instructions have been given that no favors shall be shown them.

M. Sans Leroy, accused of selling his vote when he was a member of the lottery bond commission, was examined this afternoon.

M. Bourgoise, Minister of Justice, appeared before the Parliamentary Commission of Inquiry, after M. Floquet had testified, to explain the seizure of the counterfoils and the Thierree checks.

M. Andrieux, Ex-Prefect of Police, was the next witness. He said that he had a photograph of a statement and account written by Baron de Reinach.

M. Andrieux wrote a list of names on a piece of paper and handed it to M. Brisson, saying at the same time that four other names, one of a very high personage, he was prevented from mentioning by the dictates of discretion.

Dr. Corneius Herz had shown him a document bearing the names of 104 Deputies who had been bought by the lobbyist Antoine for a total sum of 1,350,000 francs. M. Andrieux could name most, if not all, of the men mentioned in this document.

Proof of the culpability of many men named in the document had been promised him. He would try to obtain the document from Dr. Herz.

Count Caffarelli, Monarchist deputy for Aisne, told the commission he could confirm the report that President Carnot had a list of deputies corruptly implicated in the Panama Canal lobbying. This list, he said, comprised many deputies whose names had not yet been mentioned in connection with the scandal.

Hanged for Murder.

LONDON, Dec. 2a.—Thomas Edwards was hanged yesterday at Usk for the murder of Mary Connolly at Abergavenny on Sept. 16 last.

Edwards acknowledged having killed the woman, and he said he murdered her because she was of immoral character and because he made up his mind to kill as many of her kind as possible.

France and the United States.

PARIS, Dec. 23.—The commercial convention between France and the United States was ratified by the Chamber of Deputies yesterday.

Decreasing The Death Rate.

The mortality among consumptives has been materially decreased of late years by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. A School House Burned.

WARKWORTH, Dec. 22.—The public school house on the Oak hills was destroyed by fire this morning at 5 o'clock. It is not known how the fire originated. The loss is estimated at about $1,400, partly covered by insurance.

—Mr. Gladstone and party arrived at Biarritz, France, yesterday, but at Mr. Gladstone's request no official reception was tendered him.

OLD SOLDIER

He Saw Military Service in the Exciting Times of 1837-38.

HAMILTON, Dec. 23.—Col. John Land died peacefully and painlessly last evening at the family homestead, Wentworth street north. By his death Hamilton loses a citizen whose life in this district runs parallel with the whole history of Hamilton from the time when it was a nameless and straggling settlement of a few huts.

Colonel Land was the eldest son of the late Colonel Robert Land and was born Nov. 11, 1806. He grew up tough and wiry rather than strong, and was noted for his endurance, which was severely tested in the exciting times of 1837-38, when, as lieutenant of cavalry under the late Colonel Moodie, he took part in the expedition against Dr. Duncombe in Scotland Township, which resulted disastrously for the doctor.

Lieut. Land was sent with despatches from the front to Sir Allan McNab, and delivered them without stopping. After two hours' rest here he was sent on to Toronto, returning to sleep in his own bed the same night.

When his troop was sent to Chippewa he was in command, owing to the captain having been disabled, and was kept busy carrying despatches, guarding trains, etc., till the rebels gave up and the troops came home.

In 1839 he married Esther, only child of the late John Morris, by whom he had eight children, six of whom are still living. They are: John H. of this city, well-known as secretary of the Royal Templars; Peter M. of Nanaimo, B.C.; Mrs. David Lucas of Trafalgar; Mrs. J. G. Y. Burkholder of this city, who has been living with and caring for him since the marriage of the youngest daughter, Mrs. J. F. Webster, of this city, and Col. David Land, jr., of Brooklyn, N.Y. Of the three sisters and two brothers, only his youngest sister, Mrs. George K. Chisholm, of Oakville, survives him.

AMERICAN CAPITAL

Continues to Find Investment in Canadian Enterprises.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 23.—W. M. Boomer of the Windsor and Walkerville Electric Street Railway has sold his road. The consideration is to be $15,000 and the purchasers are a syndicate of Detroit capitalists.

At present the road will be run as it is, but the syndicate will equip the road with electricity and extend it to the M. C. R. depot, beginning not later than May 1st and will also extend it through Walkerville to a point on the lakes about five miles east.

Windsor capitalists are interested in the deal and it is quite possible that the S. W. & A. Railway will also pass into the same hands.

DR. RYERSON

The Conservative Candidate For Election in West Toronto.

TORONTO, Dec. 23.—Dr. George Sterling Ryerson was the unanimous choice of the Conservative convention called for last evening at Temperance Hall to select a candidate for the vacancy caused by the death of N. G. Bigelow, M.L.A. Mr. Barlow Cumberland's name was equally well received with that of the doctor, but, as he declined to stand, the latter was made the unanimous choice.

Badly Broken Up.

HAMILTON, Dec. 23.—An employe of the Bridge and Tool Company named J. O'Connor met with a serious accident there yesterday. He was attending a drill when in some unexplained manner he became caught in it and before the machinery could be stopped his right arm was crushed, his right leg broken and he sustained other painful injuries. O'Connor was taken to the hospital.

Annie Ferguson Case.

OWEN SOUND, Dec. 23.—The inquest on the death of Annie Ferguson is over. The jury returned an open verdict to the effect that she died from inflammation of the bowels, the result of a miscarriage. The cause of the latter the jury could not determine.

Candidate for Terrebonne.

MONTREAL, Dec. 23.—At a convention held at St. Jerome yesterday Pierre Leckiere, advocate of Montreal, was chosen as the Conservative candidate for the vacancy in the House of Commons caused by the elevation of Mr. Chapleau to the Lieutenant-Governorship.

Gas at Kingsville.

WINDSOR, Dec. 23.—A fourth gas well has been struck on Mr. Wright's farm, near Kingsville. Capacity 6,000,000 gallons daily.

An Extradition Case.

PORT HURON, Mich., Dec. 23.—The petition for the extradition of George Vickers, wanted at Mitchell, Ont., for forgery to the amount of $1400, will be heard before Judge Vance next Tuesday. Vickers was arraigned last night and pleaded not guilty. Joseph E. Rogers, Ontario Government detective, was here last night to see about the Vickers case and will return next week.

Anarchy in Seville.

MADRID, Dec. 23.—Considerable alarm was occasioned in Seville yesterday by the explosion of a bomb in the entrance of a house occupied by one of the wealthiest citizens of the place. The force of the explosion was very great, but nobody was hurt.

Mangled by a Trolley.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 23.—An old man named Joseph Denison was struck by a Walkerville electric car at the corner of Glengarry avenue and Wyandotte-street, run over and horribly mangled. Both legs were broken and his skull fractured. The old man was slightly demented and somewhat deaf. He was seen by the motorman and the bell rang to warn him. The doctors think he cannot survive.

NARROW ESCAPE.

A Driving Pulley Burst While a Dozen Men Stand Around.

OTTAWA, Dec. 23.—At least a dozen men had a miraculous escape from being killed at the Standard Electric Light Company's power house on the Aqueduct this morning. A large new driving pulley, which was being tried, suddenly broke into pieces, which were hurled in all directions.

Man things were wrecked in the room, including the armature of a new one hundred light machine, at quite an expensive requirement. Two of the pieces of the broken pulley went right through the roof.

There was a dozen employes in the room at the time, but fortunately, with one exception, none struck the men. Mr. Peare was struck on the leg by a small scrap of iron, but he was not hurt.

A lineman of the Chaudiere Electric Light Company was standing on the wheel into the next flat at the time of the accident. The step below where he was standing was badly smashed, but he came out unscathed.

Eighteen Months for Bigamy.

HAMILTON, Dec. 23.—Charles Stuart Joyce, the young man who pleaded guilty recently to the charge of bigamy, was brought up for sentence before Judge Muir yesterday. He is a handsome and respectable-looking young fellow. When asked what he had to say the prisoner merely asked the judge to be as lenient with him as he could. Judge Muir said the offence was a serious one, and sentenced him to 18 months in the Central Prison.

The prisoner some years ago married a Miss Dart of Stamford. Early last summer he married a Miss Lawrence, daughter of a widow living at 35 Tom-street in this city.

A Carter Killed.

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 23.—Andrew Rankin, a carter, while crossing the Kingston and Pembroke Railway track near Anglin's mill yesterday afternoon, was struck by a locomotive and killed. An inquest will be held.

Closing Exercises.

The closing concert at Loretto last evening was a marvel of brilliancy. The young ladies were charming, and the different numbers on the programme onraptured the audience. It is almost too much to ask the outside public to believe the state of efficiency achieved by the pupils of Loretto. The concert hall was decorated with evergreens and flowers, and looked very pretty. The programme consisted of vocal and instrumental music, recitations, dialogues and colloquies, and each number was rendered with the ease and perfection habitual with the pupils of Loretto. At the close of the concert Monsignor Farrelly complimented, in a few well chosen remarks, the artists of the evening, and also their capable tutors. "God Save the Queen" brought Loretto's most successful evening to a close.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best thing in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothaches in one minute; lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Why not try it to day? Large bottles 25 cents, sold by druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's nerve cure—Nerviline.

The Best Blood Purifier.

BLEECKER WARD.

To the Electors of Bleecker Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Having learned that the business of the coming year in the City Council is likely to be very heavy, I believe I would not be able to give the time necessary to attend to the duties of Alderman for my ward, and therefore wish to retire from the contest. I thank my many friends and supporters for their kindness in bringing me out and assuring me of my success.

Dated December 22nd, 1892

42tf PHILIP ACTON.

To the Electors of Ketcheson Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RE PECTFULLY ask your votes and influence as a Candidate for Alderman for 1893. I am in favor of the election of Aldermen to at least fourteen, to be elected by the whole city—the present wards to remain intact. I will support all measures which as a citizen I think to be in the best interest of the present and future progress of this City, believing neither in undue municipal extravagance nor in false economy.

WILLIAM N. PONTON.

Belleville, Dec. 1892. 196

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RESPECTFULLY solicit your votes and influence for Mayor of the City of Belleville for 1893. I was born in Belleville and have lived amongst you I my life, and am personally known to the most of you. I have been an Alderman in the City Council for four years, and during that time have endeavored to represent you straight-forwardly and faithfully.

My platform is economy in City affairs. If elected I will exert myself to further the best interests of the city.

Yours respectfully,

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of My Native City:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

FOR years I have had the offer of support for the Civic Chair, but at the present time to many of my old friends have brought more pressure to bear than I can decently withstand. I have been asked to stand for the highest position that the citizens can confer on any man. Among the men who offer me their support are to be found Irishmen, Englishmen, Dutchmen, Frenchmen and one and three Scotchman, besides a good many Canadians. To the electors I am no stranger. I have been a member of the City Council for the greater part of a quarter of a century and during that time have done what I felt was for the best interest of the city and will continue on the same line if successful at the coming election. I am in favor of strict economy in city affairs and decrease of our indebtedness. At the nomination I will freely give my views on the situation, and with much respect I ask that when you mark your ballot you will not forget

A. T. PETRIF.

Belleville, Dec 20, 1893.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

HAVING been requested by a large number of influential electors of the city of Belleville, to offer myself for Mayor for 1893, I have consented to do so, and now respectfully solicit your votes and influence. I have resided in the city six years, three of which I have served in the City Council and School Board. (I would respectfully refer you to my work therein.) I come out as a business man, having had 20 years business experience in different parts of Canada, which if great service to any one filling the civic chair. I have chosen Belleville as my home, and have invested all my capital in and around the city, and my interests being centred here, I will, if elected, do all in my power, as I have heretofore, to advance the best interests of the city.

I strongly urge the reduction of the number of Aldermen, and shall use every endeavor to carry into effect the proposal made by me to the Council in respect to it last year.

I have also in view the grave necessity of getting the city in the best sanitary condition possible to enable us the better to cope with disease or the cholera epidemic should it reach us next year.

Yours,

HARRY FOWELL.

To the Municipal Electors of Murney Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

FOR the third time I respectfully ask for your votes and influence to secure my return as one of your representatives.

During the year I have been honored with the chairmanships of two important committees for the whole of the time, and a third—the Executive—for the last half of the year.

You are the judge whether I have attended faithfully to duty and acted conscientiously.

Whatever works for the city's good, if possible from the standpoints of economy and prudence, are the objects of my aim. I renew my pledges of attention to duty and fidelity to our city's welfare, and remain,

With many clergymen, public speakers, singers, and actors, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the favorite remedy for hoarseness and all affections of the vocal organs, throat, and lungs. Its anodyne and expectorant effects are promptly realized.

When King James the first wrote his "counterblast to tobacco" the royal pedant knew nothing of the "Myrtle Navy." If he had, instead of wasting his brains over his curious production, he would have filled his royal pipe with it, and would have taken a royal smoke, he would then have been prepared to admit that with regard to the injurious effects of tobacco, it all depended on what tobacco you smoked.

An Entertainment.

A successful entertainment was held last evening at Halloway St. church. A cantata entitled "Christmas" was presented, and all who took part in it did exceedingly well. The scholars of the Sunday school had been efficiently trained by Prof. Canfield, who in a short address complimented the children upon their singing. At the close, a large number of presents were distributed to the teachers and scholars, some of which were beautiful. A great many were present.

An Exciting Arrest in Trenton.

Chief Hinde Got There all the Same.

While High County Constable Johnson was in Trenton yesterday Chief Hinde informed him that he had a warrant for Arthur Bonter, a married man, with a family and married daughter, for the seduction of an orphan girl in Toronto named Mary E. Wooley, in September last. The constables went to a fine residence a little west of the Methodist church. The front door was locked, but after a time they effected an entrance at a side door. After searching below they saw a stair leading up to a back chamber. Johnson remained below and Chief Hinde ran up the stairs. A crash was soon heard at a window over the kitchen roof. Constable Johnson ran out, but for some time he nor Chief Hinds could see anything of their man. The Chief again went up stairs; Johnson just then discovered Bonter under the corner of the house, and holding fast to the roof of the kitchen, without coat or hat on. The constable drew his revolver and ordered him to surrender. He then sprang back through the window, only to slip into the arms of Chief Hinde, when he decided to give up the combat. In the racket a large flower-stand at the window was overturned and most of the pots broken. His wife was by while the warrant was being read and, although she said little, she was paleas death and only that she developed great will power, must have fallen. It charged him that while in Toronto in September last he became acquainted with the lady, and told her he was unmarried, and under promise of marriage, seduced her. The Chief has letters from the parties in Toronto which move one to tears. But friends there have taken up the case, and have told the Chief to spare no reasonable expense in sifting out the matter. Whether the case will be tried here or taken to Toronto, is uncertain. Chief Hinde was pleased to get his man, who had been out of town for some time and keeping secluded.

Mrs. Bridget Horrickson, of Glen Miller, walked to Belleville on Wednesday. She reported to the County Attorney that while at her son in law's, Gordon Sharp, Trenton, attending her boy, injured last September, Sharp went out to her house in the night, broke open the door, also a trunk, and took out $90 of her money. She missed it upon going home, and was satisfied Sharp had the money. She and others charged him with the theft; he owned up, and promised to refund the money, but so far has not done so. County Constable Johnson was telephoned for. He took her to the Police Magistrate, Mr. Flint, who issued a warrant. But on finding his mother in-law was threatening proceedings, Sharp decamped, and the Constable, with Chief Hinde, could not trace him.

The Ontario Game Act.

Interesting Cases Under the New Law.

A number of cases under the Ontario Game Act were heard before Police Magistrate Flint yesterday in which several parties were charged with shooting and possessing fawns in contravention of the recent amendment to the Game Act. The cases have excited considerable interest among hunters, as they are the first under the new law. The attention of the court was chiefly occupied with the consideration of the cases against Ransolor Cooper, Chas. Clinton, Edwin Clark and Lewis Clark, of Prince Edward county, who were hunting as a party at Horse Shoe lake in November last. The principal bone of contention was what are the distinguishing characteristics of a fawn? After the evidence on both sides and the natural history bearing on the question had been fully gone into the defendants succeeded in establishing that the animals in question were more than a year old, and the cases were accordingly dismissed. Mr. H. K. Smith, game warden for this district, acted for the prosecution, and Mr. W. S. Morden, of Pontoa & Morden, acted for the defendants. Several other cases were afterwards taken up and dismissed for want of evidence. It would appear from these cases that in the absence of horns the stage of development of the teeth is the only reliable test as to the age of a deer.

ABUSIVE LANGUAGE.

John Walker was charged with using abusive language towards Maggie Baker. Defendant pleaded guilty. Fined $1 and costs.

QUEEN VS. SIMMONS.—This was a case tried at the police court to-day. Deputy Game Warden, H. K. Smith, of this city, charged Ira Simmons, John Simmons, Everett Lloyd and Harvey Cummings, all of the Township of Thurlow, with having killed deer out of season and also with having killed fawns in the rear townships. After the examination of several witnesses on behalf of the prosecution, there not being the first particle of evidence to implicate the parties of having been guilty of the charge, the various charges were dismissed. —H. K. Smith prosecuted, W. P. McMahon defended the several parties.

Municipal Nominations.

The nomination of municipal officers was held to the northern townships on Monday. The following results have been received:

MONTEAGLE AND HERSCHEL.—For Reeve —George Bartlett and Samuel Harrgott. For Councillors—Michael Hickey, John McAllister, James McAlpine, James Robinson, Thomas Beard and Manley Vallean.

WOLLASTON.—For Reeve—Wm. Elliott and R. S. Tivey. For Councillors—W. H. Gunter, J. R. Bridge, James Henderson, J. P. Hill and R. H. Waddington.

A Fine Address.

A large number assembled at the Baptist church last night to hear an address from Mr. Colvill's, of Toronto, who spoke upon Christian work. The address was an able one replete with instruction. Rev. Mr. Marshall occupied the chair. The address was given under the auspices of the Belleville Young People's Christian Union. A number of the churches were represented.

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

For the Intelligencer.

I was going, in company with a gentleman of this city and his wife (a very heavy lady) along North Front Street, on Tuesday night about 8 o'clock, when near the overhead bridge there came a long sled, with about six boys and two young men on it, right into our party, carrying the lady about twelve feet and pitching her into the ditch, face downwards. I got a puck with something on the leg just above the ankle—I think the foot of the steerer, which turned the nose of the sled against a tree—which put a stop to the progress of the sled. I fully thought that the lady was seriously, if not mortally, hurt, but when lifted up she was found to have escaped with a slight scratch in the face. Now, Mr. Editor, if there is a by-law against sledding on the sidewalks of the city, why not put it in force against offenders? But if there is no such law, don't you think it is high time there was? or are we to be at the mercy of thoughtless young men, boys, and even girls, who choose to amuse themselves at the imminent danger and expense of the taxpayers? If there is no law to protect the public on this line, let the voters, next municipal election, demand an assurance from the candidates for Mayor and Aldermen that there shall be such a law passed, with heavy penalties attached for a breach of the law. Look at the opera house corner, where every hour of the day may be found boys and girls sledding down hill, to the great danger of the public.

A TAXPAYER.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—It is a pleasure to know that an unusual interest is being taken in the selection of a candidate to fill the Mayor's chair for the year 1893. With all due respect to Mr. Fowell and Mr. Wallbridge, who are seeking that position at present, they have no claims compared to those of Mr. Allan T. Petrie's, and if I mistake not, the voters will say so on polling day. He is an old, a respected and intelligent citizen. He has served the public faithfully in the past and with more than average ability, in the deliberations of successive Councils, and I defy any one to place a finger on a single act of his, either in public or private life, that will not stand the severest scrutiny; he has not only served the public for many years in the City Council, but he faithfully served as Chief of Police, having succeeded to the command of that body at a time when rowdyism was much more rampant than it is at present. In fact, he is just the person we are looking for at present. He has no axe to grind, but is honest in his deliberations and firm in his convictions. Elect him by all means, if you desire a truly good and deserving Mayor.

AN OLD RESIDENT.

AMUSEMENTS

"BY WITS OUTWITTED."

Concerning the play "By Wits Outwitted" which is to be produced at the opera house here on the 29th inst., the Montreal Star says: "By Wits Outwitted" is the rather clever title of the comedy which will run in the Academy of Music during the present week. The plot and situations of the piece are good, but the real merit of the plot lies in its truth to life. Some of the situations in it are very amusing and cannot but create a laugh. The play is a clean one and in the hands of a fairly competent company. The comedy was preceded by a curtain raiser, which contains a good moral.

We Should Live One Hundred Years

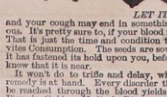

We are century animals and have a perfect right to live out that period if we can. Many do so. Consumption has been killing off the flower of our youth through the centuries, but it will be so no more. Why? Because "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," wherever used cures consumption and the coughs and lung troubles which give rise to it. It will be like suicide to die of consumption in future if "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil" is within reach. In big bottles 50c. and $1,00, at all Drug Stores.

LET IT RUN,

and your cough may end in something serious. It's pretty sure to, if your blood is poor. That is just the time and condition that invites Consumption. The seeds are sown and it has fastened its hold upon you, before you know that it is near.

It won't do to trifle and delay, when the remedy is at hand. Every disorder that can be reached through the blood yields to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, as Severe Coughs, Bronchial, Throat and Lung Diseases, Asthma, Scrofula in every form, and even the Scrofulous affection of the lungs that's called Consumption, in all its earlier stages, it is a positive and complete cure.

It is the only blood-cleanser, strength restorer, and flesh-builder so effective that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back. All medicine dealers have it.

SHOP EARLY
And often this week. Thursday and Saturday the farmers will demand a good share of our attention. Our display don't include raisins or tea, pills or perfumery, books or dolls, but if you want a piece of SILVER WARE, a LAMP, a dinner or tea set or anything in china or crockery why see us—that's where we shine. So much better choice in such a store as this than places where there's a little of everything and not much of anything. 9 hanging and 5 parlor table lamps sold Saturday. This shows how the main stream of trade keeps to the old channel. Open every night this week.

Blotches Cured.

DEAR SIRS,—In 1890 my body was covered with blotches and I was at last induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters; by the time I had used 3½ bottles of it I was completely cured, and I cannot speak too highly of it.

MRS. JAMES DESMOND, Halifax, N. S.

Made With Skill.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skillful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

Out of Sorts—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure,' and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

The speed of a wild duck is ninety miles an hour.

Do not delay in getting relief for the little folks. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is a pleasant sure cure. If you love you child why then do you let it suffer when a remedy is so near at hand.

An adder's bite—The bank clerk's lunch.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world.

DR. WOOD'S

BROOKE'S DAUGHTER.

BY

ADELINE SERGEANT,

Author of "A True Friend," etc, etc
(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

'I swear by all that I hold sacred,' said Francis, with sudden energy, 'that I won't wait more than six months, and then I'll take a thousand.'

'Six! make it twelve. The girl may want a year's freedom.'

'I won't wait twelve. I swear I won't. I'm tired of this life. I can't get any work to do, though I've tried it over and over again. And I'm always unlucky at play. There's Mary threatening to go out to work again. If we were in another country with a clear start, she should not have to do that.'

Oliver meditated. It did not seem likely to him that Ethel would refuse to marry him in six month's time, but of course it was possible. Still he was pretty sure that he could get the money advanced as soon as his engagement was announced abroad. It was rather a pity that he would to publish it so soon—especially when his projects respecting Lesley Brooke had not been carried out—but it could not be helped. The prospect of ridding himself of his brother Francis was most welcome to him. And if he could by promises, it might soon be necessary to pay them, the money after all.

'Well,' he said, at last, 'I promise it within six months, Francis. On the conditions I named, of course.'

'And you will keep your word!' said Francis, looking suspiciously into his brother's smooth, pale face.

'If not,' answered Oliver, airily, 'you have the remedy in your own hands, you know. You can easily bring me to book, and now that this interesting conversation is ended, perhaps you will kindly allow me to go home! The night is fine, but I am a good deal chilled with standing—'

'And what am I then! I've been waiting for you off and on, for hours. And I haven't got a shilling in my pocket, either. Haven't you got a pound or two to spare, Oliver! For the sake of old times, you know.'

Some men would have found it pitiful to hear poor Francis Trent, with his broken down, cringing, crafty look, this sneaking request. For he had the air of a ruined gentleman, not of an ordinary beggar, and the signs of refinement in his face and bearing made his state of abasement and destitution more apparent. But Oliver was not touched by any such sentimental considerations. He looked at first as if he were about to refuse his brother's request; but policy dictated another course. He must not drive to desperation the man in whose hands lay his character and perhaps his future fortune. He put his hand into his pocket, brought out a couple of sovereigns, and dropped them into Francis's greedily outstretched palm. Then he crossed the road towards his sister's house, while the latter under brother shrank away from sir of anything but triumph. It was sad to see him so depressed, so broken-spirited, so hopeless. For he had been meant for better things. But from his youth up his principles had never been settled, and from his first lapse from honesty all self-respect seemed to leave him. Thenceforth he went down hill, and would long ago have reached the bottom but for the one helping hand that had been held out to stay him in his mad career. That hand belonged to none of his kith and kin, however. It was modest and roughened and reddened by honest toil; but the toil had at least been honest and the toiler's love for the fine gentleman for whom she worked was loving and sincere. To cut a long story short, Francis Trent had married a dress maker, moreover, who had once been a ladies'-maid.

While he slouched away to his poverty-stricken home, and Oliver solaced himself with a novel and a cigar, and Miss Ethel Kenyon sank to sleep, in spite of a tumult of innocent delight which would have kept a person of less healthy mind and body wide awake for hours, Lesley Brooke, who was to influence the fate of all these three, lay upon her bed bemoaning her loneliness of heart, and saying to herself that she would never be happy in her father's house. It was not that she had met with any positive unkindness; she could accuse nobody of wishing to be rude or cold, but the atmosphere was not one to which she had been accustomed, and it gave her considerable discomfort. Even Mrs. Romaine, of whom her father had spoke so ill she would be a friend, was not very congenial to her. Rosalind's eyes remained cold, despite their softness, and Lesley was vaguely conscious of a repulsion—such as we sometimes feel on touching a toad or a snake—when Mrs. Romaine put her hand on the girl's listless fingers. No, what Lesley could not tell, but she was sure of this, that she could never like Mrs. Romaine.

And she cried herself to sleep, and dreamed of the convent and the sunny skies of France.

CHAPTER X.

KNIGHT-ERRANTRY.

Lesley found that she had unintentionally given great offence to Sarah, who was supreme authority in her father's house, and possibly to her aunt as well, by the arrangement with her father that she would have a maid of her own. In vain she protested that she did not need one, and had not really asked for one; the fussy old woman continued upon Miss Brooke's mind and Sarah's mind that she had in some way complained of the treatment which she had received, and they were prejudiced against her in consequence.

Miss Brooke was a good woman, and, to some extent, a just woman: and it was scarcely possible for her to judge Lesley correctly. All Miss Brooke's traditions favored the cult of the woman who worked; and Lesley, like her mother before her, had the look of a tall, fair lily—one of those who toil not, neither do they spin. Miss Brooke was quite too liberal-minded to have any great prejudices against a girl because she had been educated in a French convent, though naturally she thought it the worst place of training that could have been secured for her; and she had made up her mind at once, when she saw Lesley, that although there might be "no great harm" in the poor child, she was probably as frivolous, as shallow-hearted, and as ignorant as the ordinary French school-girl was supposed to be.

With Sarah the case was different. Sarah was an ardent Protestant, of a strict Calvinist type, and she had taken up the impression that Miss Lesley must needs be a Romanist. Now this was not the case, for Lesley had always been allowed to go to her own church, see her own clergyman, and hold aloof from the devotional exercises prescribed for the other girls. But Sarah believed that she belonged the Church of Rome, and she did not feel at all easy in her mind at staying under the same roof with her. She made this remark to Miss Brooke on the third day after Lesley's arrival, and was offended at the burst of laughter with which Miss Brooke received it.

"Do you think the house will fall in, Sarah! or that you will be corrupted!'

'I think I may hold myself safe, ma'am,' said Sarah, with dignity. 'But I'm not so sure about the house.'

She stood with her arms folded, grimly surveying her mistress, who, if the truth must be told, was lying on a sofa in her bedroom, smoking a cigarette. Sarah knew her mistress's tastes, and had grown generally tolerant of them, but she still looked on cigarettes with disapproval. Miss Brooke was discreet enough to smoke only in her own room or in her brother's study—a fact which had mollified Sarah a little when her mistress first began the practice.

'The minute you smoke one o' them nasty things in the street, ma'am, I shall give notice,' she said.

And Miss Brooke had quietly answered: 'Very well Sarah, we'll waft till then.'

It must be added for the benefit of all who are tried by Miss Brooke's practice, that she had begun it by order of a doctor as a cure for neuralgia. She had continued it because she liked it. Lesley was only just beginning to suspect her aunt of the habit and was inexpressibly startled and alarmed at the thought of such a thing. That her aunt, who was indisputably kind, clever, benevolent, respectable in every way should smoke cigarettes, seemed to justify all else that had been against her father's Bohemian household. She could not get over it. Sarah had got over this outrage on conventionality, but she was not yet prepared to forgive Lesley for having lived in a French convent.

(To be Continued.)

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by spurious imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nazal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing "Dr & Co." Brockville, Ont.

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

DALTON'S FAIR

FRONT STREET.

Santa Claus' Headquarters.

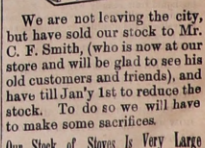

Our endeavors to make the Fair headquarters for Christmas supplies is more marked this fall than at any previous time. Our store, though large, is not sufficient to accommodate the great crowd at Christmas times. We would therefore urge you to make your selections now while the stock is complete and avoid the rush at Christmas time. We have just received 100 cases of foreign goods, such as fancy china cups and saucers, vases, jewellery, bamboene inkstands, glass tea sets, toilet sets, carved; our assortment of American glassware must be seen to be appreciated. Never have we been able to offer such values in albums, ladies' work boxes, jewel cases, perfume cases, shaving cases, brush and comb sets, work baskets, toy ware, playing cards from 5c up, beautiful whisk holders all the latest styles from 49c up. We have something new in dolls' buggies, cradles, children's easies and cutters strong and durable at lower prices, novels by the best authors 10c at lower prices, novels by the best authors 10c worth 25c, pocket cutlery and table cutlery an endless variety to choose from. But, perhaps, one of the greatest drives is a special line of extra quality writing paper, 5 quires (120 sheets) for 17c. We will not attempt to enumerate further, but would invite you to call at before purchasing, where you can buy good goods at less than bankrupt prices.

DALTON'S FAIR,

Remember the old stand,

"It Cured Mother."

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was a most unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

The profection of God being infinite, to become God-like means infinite growth.

Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicinal herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Pudding with a hair in it is sweetness wasted on a dessert hair.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion is occasioned by want of action in the biliary ducts, loss of vitality in the stomach to secrete the gastric juices, without which digestion cannot go on; also, being the principal cause of Headache. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills taken before going to bed, for a while, never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr. F. W. Ashdown, Ashdown, Ont., writes:—"Parmelee's Pills are taking the lead against ten other makes which I have in stock."

GOD AMONG THE STARS.

AN ELOQUENT SERMON ON THE ASTRONOMY OF THE BIBLE.

"It is He That Buildeth His Stories in the Heavens"—Our World is a Sisterhood of Light Moving Round a Great Homestead Which is Heaven.

BROOKLYN, December 18th.—Rev. Dr. Talmage to-day preached the first of a promised series of sermons on God in the natural world as disclosed in the Bible. The subject chosen for the initial sermon was, "The Astronomy of the Bible; or God among the Stars," the text being from Amos 9; 6: "It is He that buildeth His stories in the heavens." Preceding the sermon the great congregation sang Isaac Watts' hymn:

> The heavens declare thy glory, Lord.
> In every star thy wisdom shines.

That is first-rate poetry from Amos, the herdsman. While guarding his flock at night, he got watching the heavens. He saw stars above stars, and the universe seemed to him like a great mansion many stories high, silver room above silver room, silver pillars beside silver pillars, and windows of silver and doors of silver, and turrets and domes of silver rising into the immensities, and the prophet's sanctified imagination walks through that great silver palace of the universe, through the first story, through the second story, through the third story, through the twentieth story, through the hundredth story, through the thousandth story, and realizing that God is the architect and carpenter and mason of all that upheaved splendor, he cries out in the words of the text: "It is He that buildeth His stories in the heavens."

My hearers, it is time that we widened out and heightened our religious thoughts. In our pulpits and Sabbath classes and Christian work of all sorts we ring the changes on a few verses of Scripture until they excite no interest. Many of the best parts of the Bible have never yet been preached from or indeed even noticed. Hence I to-day begin a series of sermons, not for consecutive Sabbath mornings, but as often as I think best for variety's sake, on the astronomy of the Bible or God among the Stars, the Geology of the Bible or God among the Rocks, the Ornithology of the Bible or God among the Birds, the Ichthyology of the Bible or God among the Fishes, the Pomology of the Bible or God among the Orchards, the Precious Stones of the Bible or God among the Amethysts, the Conchology of the Bible or God among the Shells, the Botany of the Bible or God among the Flowers, the Chronology of the Bible or God among the Centuries. The fact is that we have all spent too much time on one story of the great mansion of God's universe. We need occasionally to go upstairs or downstairs in this mansion; downstairs and in the cellar study the rocks, or upstairs and see God in some of the higher stories, and learn the meaning of the text when it says: "It is He that buildeth His stories in the heaven."

Astronomy was born in Chaldea. Its mother was Astrology, or the science of foretelling events by juxtaposition of stars. The Orients, living much out of doors and in a very clear atmosphere, through which the stars shone especially lustrous, got the habit of studying the night heavens. In the hot seasons caravans journeyed chiefly at night, and that gave travellers much opportunity of stellar information. On the first page of the Bible the sun and moon and stars roll in. The sun, a body nearly three million miles in circumference and more than twelve thousand times as large as our earth; the moon, more than two thousand miles in diameter. But God is used to doing things on such an omnipotent scale that he takes only one verse to tell of this stellar and lunar manufacture. Yea, in three words all the other words are thrown in. The record says, "The stars also!" It takes whole pages for a man to extol the making of a telescope or microscope or a magnetic telegraph or a thrashing machine, or to describe a fine painting or statue, but it was so easy for God to hang the celestial upholstery that the story is compassed in one verse: God made two great lights, the greater light to rule the day and the lesser light to rule the night. "The stars also!" Astronomers have been trying to call the roll of them ever since, and they have counted multitudes of them passing in review before the observatories built at vast expense, and the size and number of those heavenly bodies have taxed to the utmost the scientists of all ages. But God finishes all He has to say about them in three words, "The stars also!" That is Mars, with its more than fifty-five million square miles, and Venus, with its more than 191 million square miles, and Saturn, with its more than nineteen million square miles, and Jupiter, with its more than twenty-four billion square miles, and all the planets of our system of more than seventy-eight billion square miles, and these stars of our system, when compared with the stars of the other systems, as a handful of sand compared with all the Rocky Mountains and all the Alps. "The stars also!" For brevity, for ponderosity, for splendor, for suggestiveness, for sublimity piled on sublimity, these words excel all that human speech ever uttered or human imagination ever soared after. "The stars also!" It is put in as you write a postscript—something you thought of afterwards—as hardly worth putting into the body of a letter. "The stars also!"

Read on in your Bibles, and after awhile the Bible flashes with the Aurora Borealis or Northern Lights, that strange illumination, as mysterious and undefined now as when in the book of Job it was written: "Men see not the bright light which is in the clouds. Fair weather cometh out of the North." While all the nations supposed that the earth was built on a foundation of some sort, and many supposed that it stood on a huge turtle, or some great marine creature, Job knew enough of astronomy to say it had no foundation but was suspended on the invisible arm of the Almighty, declaring that "He hangeth the earth upon nothing." While all nations thought the earth was level, the sky spread over it like a tent over a flat surface, Isaiah declared the world to be globular, circular, saying of God: "He sitteth upon the circle of the earth." See them glitter in the scriptual sky—Arcturus, Orion, the Pleiades, and the "Bear with her young." While running your fingers among the leaves of your Bible with the astronomical thought in your mind, you see two worlds stop—the sun and the moon. But what does that Christian know about that miracle who does not understand something of those two luminaries? Unless you watch modern astronomy, put those two worlds in its steelyards and weigh them, you are as ignorant as a hottentot about the stupendousness of that scene in the life of Joshua. The sun over three hundred thousand times as heavy as our earth and going thousands of miles the hour. Think of stopping that and starting it again without the shipwreck of the universe! But I can easily believe it. What confounds me is not that He could stop and start again those two worlds in Joshua's time, but that He could have made the wheel of worlds of which the sun and moon are only cogs, and keep that wheel rolling for thousands of years—the fly-wheel of all eternity! If an engineer can start a long train, it is not surprising that he can stop it. If God could make and move the universe, which is an express train drawn by an omnipotent engine, I am not surprised that for a part of a day He could put down the brakes on two pieces of the rotating machinery. Infidelity is hard up for ground of complaint against the Scriptures when it finds fault with that cessation of stellar and lunar travel. Here is my watch. I could not make a watch if I tried, but I can stop it and start it again. My difficulty is not that God could stop two worlds and start them again, but that He could make them at all as He did make them. What pleases me and astounds me more is that each one of the millions of worlds has a God-given name. Only a comparatively small number of them have names given them by scientists. If astronomers can give a name to a whole constellation or galaxy, they think they do well, but God has a name for each star in all immensity. Inspired David declares of God: "He telleth the number of the stars, he calleth them all by their names." They are not orphans that have never been christened. They are not waifs of the night. They are not unknown ships on the high seas of immensity. They belong to a family of which God is the father, and as you call your children Benjamin or Mary or Bertha or Addison or Josephine, so He calls all the infant worlds and all the adult worlds by their first name, and they know it as well as though there were only one child of light in all the divine family. "He calleth them all by their names," and when He calls, I warrant they come.

Oh, the stars! Those vestal fires kept burning on infinite altars. Those lighthouses on the coast of eternity. The hands and weights and pendulum of the great clock of the universe. According to Herschel, the so-called fixed stars not fixed at all, but each one a sun with a mighty system of worlds rolling round it, and this whole system with all the other systems rolling on around some other great centre. Millions and millions, billions and billions, trillions and trillions, quadrillions and quadrillions."

But what gladdens me, and at the same time overwhelms me, is that those worlds are inhabited. The Bible says so, and what a small idea you must have of God and his dominion if you think it only extends across the chip of a world which you and I now inhabit. Have you taken this idea of all the other worlds being inhabited as human guesswork? Read Isaiah, 45th chapter, 18th verse: "Thus saith the Lord that created the heavens, God himself that formed the earth, and made it; He hath established it, He created it not in vain, He formed it to be inhabited." Now, if he inhabited the earth so that it would not be created in vain, would he make worlds hundreds and thousands of times larger and not have them inhabited. Speaking of the inhabitants of this world, He says: "The nations are as the drop of a bucket." If all the inhabitants of this world are as a drop of a bucket, where are the other drops of a bucket? Again and again the Bible speaks of the host of heaven, and the word "host" means living creatures, not mere masses, and the expression "hosts of heaven" must mean inhabitants of other worlds.

Without any telescope and without any observatory and without any astronomical calculations, I know that the other worlds are inhabited, because my Bible and my common sense tell me so. It has been intimated that in the worlds belonging to our solar system there is room for at least twenty-five trillion of population. And I believe it is all occupied or will be occupied by inteligent beings. God will not fill them with brutes. He would certainly put into these worlds beings intelligent enough to appreciate the architecture, the coloring, the grandeur, the beauty, the harmony of their surroundings. Yea, the inhabitants of these worlds have capacity of locomotion like ours, for they would not have had such spacious opportunity for movement if they had not powers of motion. Yea, they have sight, else why the light; and hearing, else how get on with necessary language and how clear themselves from advancing perils. Yea, as God made our human race in His own image, He probably made the inhabitants of other worlds in His own image; in other words, it is as near demonstration as I care to have it, that while the inhabitants of other worlds have adaptations of bodily structure to the particular climate in which they dwell, there is yet similarity of mental and spiritual characteristics among all the inhabitants of the universe of God, and made in His image they are made wonderfully alike

Now, what would be the practical result of this discussion founded on Scripture and common-sense? It is first of all to enlarge our ideas of God, and so intensify our admiration and worship. Under such consideration, how much more graphic the Bible question which seems to roll back the sleeve of the Almighty, and say: "Hast thou an arm like God?" The contemplation also encourages us with the thought that if God made all these worlds and populated them, it will not be very much of an undertaking for Him to make our little world over again, and reconstruct the character of its population as by grace they are to be reconstructed.

What a monstrosity of ignorance that the majority of Christian people listen not to the voices of other worlds, although the Book says, "The heavens declare the glory of God," and, again, "The works of the Lord are great and to be sought out." How much have you sought them out? You have been satisfying yourself with some things about Christ, but have you noticed that Paul calls you to consider Christ as the Creator of other worlds, "by Whom also He made the World's." It is time you Christians start on a world hunt. That is the chief reason why God makes the night, that you may see other worlds. Go out to-night and look up at the great clock of the heavens. Listen to the silvery chime of the midnight sky. See that your children and grandchildren mount the heavens with telescope for alpenstock, leaping from acclivity of light to acclivity of light. Thank God that we now know where our own world is, bounded on all sides by realms of glory instead of being where Hesiod in his poetry described it to be, namely, half way between Heaven and hell, an anvil hurled out of Heaven, taking ten days to strike the earth, and hurled out of earth taking ten more days to strike perdition.

> From the high heaven a brazen anvil cast,
> Nine days and nights in rapid whirls would last;
> And reach the earth the tenth; whence strongly hurled,
> The same the passage to th' infernal world.

I thank God that we have found out that our world is not half-way between heaven and hell, but is in a sisterhood of light, and that this sisterhood joins all the other sisterhoods of the worlds, moving round some good homestead, which is no doubt Heaven, where God is, and our departed Christian friends are, and we ourselves through pardoning mercy expect to become, permanent residents.

Peel County Candidates.

BRAMPTON, Ont., Dec. 24.—Nominations of candidates to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of K. Chisholm in the Legislature were made yesterday. The Liberals nominated John Smith. Miles Washington Cook, an independent Liberal, was also nominated. These men will contest the riding.

FAST STEAMER SERVICE

TO BE GIVEN ON THE ATLANTIC BY THE C.P.R.

A Probable Arrangement With the Dominion Government by Which This Steamship Service Will be Operated in the Most Modern Style.

OTTAWA, Dec. 24.—It is understood here that the C. P. R. Co. have come to a definite understanding with the Government in the matter of placing a line of fast steamers for Atlantic service, and that the service will be in operation in 1893.

The statement of exports for November is not so favorable as some recent months, the total exports being $11,829,924, as compared with $16,203,075 in November of last year. The falling off in goods the produce of Canada is $2,330,929 and in produce of other countries $2,042,222. The falling off in both cases is principally in agricultural products, the shipments of which in November last year were exceptionally large, and the price of wheat then, it must be remembered, was about 30 cents a bushel more than it is now.

Taking the five months of the fiscal year, however, the outlook is still very encouraging, the total exports of goods, the produce of Canada, showing an increase of $5,256,942. The produce of other countries, however, shows a considerable decrease, being $3,251,793, which is wholly in agricultural products, which shows that the amount of American grain which found an outlet through Canada this year was very considerably less than last year.

The value of goods entered for consumption in November was $9,797,979, an increase of $1,378,263 over last November. For the five months the total entered for consumption was $52,066,414, an increase of $3,572,277 over same period last year.

As the imports show an increase, the duty collected naturally does so too. The amount collected for November was $1,580,873, and for the five months $8,926,818, showing an increase of $814,098.

To-day's Canada Gazette will contain the formal notice of the calling to the Senate of Hon. Messrs. Angers and Kirchhoffer, and of the election of Mr. McInerny for Kent and Hon. W. B. Ives for Sherbrooke.

Chief Justice Sullivan has been appointed administrator of the Government of Prince Edward Island during the absence on leave of Lieutenant-Governor Carvell.

Notice will appear to-morrow of the appointment of F. C. Thompson, postmaster of Sherbrooke, as assistant postoffice inspector of the Montreal postal division of Sherbrooke, and of Hon. J. G. Robertson as postmaster of Sherbrooke.

William Moyes of St. Mary's has been appointed Collector of Customs.

LOST HER REASON.

Discovered That She Was Married to Her Father.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—The Sun's cable from London says: Polite society is just now discussing with bated breath one of the most shocking scandals of the many that have sullied its history. The scandal will soon occupy the attention of the divorce court in the form of a petition for the nullification of a marriage which was performed Dec. 14, 1890, by the Rev. Edward A. Chichester, Vicar of Dorking, Surrey.

The social scandal had its origin in 1874, when Aline Marian de Hoghton, the unmarried daughter of Sir Henry de Hoghton, baronet, was delivered in Milan, Italy, of a female child, the father of which was Alfred Arelius Clark, a wealthy man who moves in the highest circles.

Clark refused to marry his victim. The birth of the child was kept a secret, and the mother returned to society, nobody being the wiser as to her shame. She married in January, 1875, an Irish gentleman of good family named Fitzgerald. She spent the greater part of her time until her death, a few years ago, on the Continent. Her betrayer meanwhile had married.

There is reason to believe that the mother heavily dowered her daughter born at Milan. It is not disputed, at any rate, that Clark posed before the world as the girl's guardian.

In 1887 Clark brought his illegitimate daughter from a French nunnery to Little Hampton, where they lived at the Beach Hotel as guardian and ward. In 1890 Clark's wife died. Some months afterward he proposed marriage to his supposed ward and actual daughter, and was accepted.

The marriage took place in London, and father and daughter thenceforward lived together as man and wife. In March, 1892, the girl, when only 18 years of age, gave birth to a baby boy, and in July following the unhappy child-mother discovered that her husband was her own father. The awful discovery nearly deprived her of her reason.

Actor Townsend Dead.

HAMILTON, Dec. 24.—John Townsend, the veteran actor, died last night. Three of his children survive him. They are Florence, Mrs. Allen of Toronto; George of Toronto, and Harry, who is an actor. The remains will be interred on Sunday afternoon with Masonic honors.

The career of this genial man has been a checkered one. Less than 40 years ago he was in the heyday of prosperity in the British metropolis, and was a noted entertainer of the nobility at his country home in Greenwich, as well as a prince among the benevolent. His popularity got him the nomination for the representation of that city in the Imperial Parliament, and he was elected, defeating his titled opponent by a large majority. His victory, however, was dearly won. It cost him a fortune; it left him bankrupt, and he had to seek on the stage, at home and abroad, that livelihood which might easily have been earned by him if he had remained out of public life. For some years the aged actor lived in a humble way in Hamilton, eking out an existence by the teaching of elocution. When that failed him he received assistance from kind friends, who took compassion on him in his straits. The ending of honest John Townsend's life is a sad illustration of the ups and downs of the human race.

FOUND A CLAIM IN THE SAFE.

Peculiar Circumstances in Connection With a Case of Alleged Perjury.

TORONTO, Dec. 24.—John Bethel, for many years a carriage builder was arrested last night by Detective Harrison on at the corner of Elizabeth and Albert-streets, a warrant charging him with perjury. He was released on two sureties of $200 each. To the officer he said he owed a firm in Brantford which had lately become insolvent. The party making the charge of perjury against him had bought the assets of the bankrupt firm and claimed the debt owed by Bethel. Bethel made an affidavit that his note was not in the safe the complainant bought, and it was because of this statement that he is charged with perjury.

VERDICT FOR $130

Against the Nurseryman Charged With Pretty Sharp Dodges.

CHATHAM, Ont., Dec. 24.—The spruce tree case of Gray and Wilson was resumed yesterday before Judge Bell. The jury brought in a verdict for the plaintiff for $130.

The judge took the question of costs into consideration. Mr. Wilson states that he will appeal the case.

Wilson was charged with taking orders for boxes of trees, each box to contain 100, and that he jammed in several hundred in a box and worked a skin game on his customers.

SUING FOR DAMAGES.

Mrs. Grimason Who Had Such a Thrilling Experience on Suspension Bridge.

TORONTO, Dec. 24.—Mrs. Grimason, who had such a thrilling experience at Suspension Bridge last September, through her solicitors, Messrs. It will be remembered that Mrs. Grimason slipped through the bridge and would have lost her life had it not been for the bravery of her companion, an Irish clergyman, who was a delegate to the Pan-Presbyterian Council.

LOOKING FOR HIS FATHER.

The Queer Predicament of a Canadian Boy in Buffalo.

TORONTO, Dec. 2.—Little Jimmie Smith of Toronto told Patrolman McGuirk a queer story when he met him in Main-street, Buffalo, last night.

Jimmie is 14 years old. A week ago his father went to Buffalo to get work as a carpenter. He left a wife and seven children in Canada and soon sent back to have Jimmie come on. His wife wrote Monday and the boy arrived yesterday. The letter had stated that Smith was boarding at 81 South Division-street. The boy had been there, but his father was not known at the house.

One of the boarders went with Jimmie to the postoffice and the letter written by Mrs. Smith Monday was found there. The boy was given a supper and lodged at the police station.

ON FIRE WITH ECZEMA

Terrible Sufferings of Little Baby. Seven Doctors and Two Hospitals Fail. Cured by Cuticura.

My baby boy, 5 months old, broke out with eczema. The itching and burning was intense; the eczema spread to his limbs, breast, face, and head, until he was nearly covered; his torturing agonies were pitiable to behold; he had no peace and but little rest night or day. He was under treatment at different times at two hospitals and by seven doctors in this city without the least benefit; every prescription of the doctors was faithfully tried, but he grew worse all the time. For months I expended about $3 per week for medicines, and was entirely discouraged. I purchased CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP and CUTICURA RESOLVENT and followed the directions to the letter. Relief was immediate, his sufferings were eased, and rest and sleep permitted. He steadily improved and in nine weeks was entirely cured, and has now as clear a skin and is as fair a boy as any mother could wish to see. I recommend every mother to use it for every Baby Humor.

A CONTEST IN THE NORTH RIDING.

It was generally supposed, and not without apparently good reason, that the seat in the Commons for North Hastings which was vacated by the translation of the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell to the Senate, would not have been contested by the Opposition at this time.

Less than two years have elapsed since the constituency pronounced upon the policy of the Conservative party; and although, owing to the lamented death of Sir John A. Macdonald and the retirement of his successor, Sir John Abbott, because of ill health, there have been two changes of Government in the interim, there has been no alteration in the policy which the people so emphatically endorsed in February 1891. Moreover, so largely has the strength of the Conservative party in Parliament been added to during the present year, that no change in the principles upon which the dominant party have governed the country so successfully since 1878 can be brought about during the life of the present Parliament. Such being the case, we feel justified in saying that no good purpose can be served by forcing a contest upon the electors of North Hastings at the present time. However, a section of the Grit party have thrown down the gage of battle and the Conservatives of the riding have with alacrity accepted the challenge.

Our friends have in Mr. A. W. Carscallen a candidate who is able, honest, energetic and in every respect fitted to make a highly satisfactory representative. He has ever been a true Conservative, an untiring worker for the party, and he is popular in every part of the riding.

We ask the party to stand by him to a man, to work unceasingly in his behalf, and by polling every vote in his favor, to roll up such a majority on polling day in support of their candidate as to demonstrate that North Hastings is unalterably loyal to British connection and unalterably opposed to annexation under the name of "Unrestricted Reciprocity," or "Continental Union," to which the Grits and their candidate, Mr. Peter Vankleek, are fully committed.

CHRISTMAS GREETING.

At this season of the year, we throw off ambition and strife as a garment, the season awaking in us a better life, as we live over again in memory the happy Santa Claus days of childhood; and we are once more children at our mother's knee.

Each year, as we grow older, the season becomes more retrospective—the sleeping child's hand, which was clasped so tightly, is being relaxed, and we mentally cry "who next?" as we live for a time at the graves of those who were with us in joy and gladness last Christmas day, whilst they will spend to-morrow alone in the silent tomb. Again, other homes have been blessed by the babe's first cry, and the laughter of childhood will ring out merrily as that old charmer the baby's stockings for the first time, and the other children will not be forgotten, their bright, sparkling faces testifying to the happy return of that day which should speak alone "peace and good will to all men."

In the joy of happy homes, the absent ones will not be forgotten, for have not the mails been busy for weeks carrying back and forth tokens of remembrance from those far away but near and dear to heart. Gifts are accompanied by loving letters, in some cases more or less humorous, to cover the gloom of a Christmas from home. A letter from a boy to his parents which we have seen was written in Coster style, and read, "De big book's fur you; see! de little book, de Canuck book, is fur de grandad; de collar and cuff case is fur de Guvnor, and de silk wipes are fur de kid; see!"

Thus the spirit of humor accompanies the gifts, with joy and hope crowning all. We would fain list good-bye to the year that is nearly gone, frighted as it has been, with joys and sorrows, and so, as Tiny Tim observed, "God Bless Us, Every One."

A GREAT STRIKE.

One of the Richest Silver Veins in the World Discovered in Barrie Township.

It Rivals the Famous Mines of Australia and Nevada.

Twenty Assays Gave an Average of 72 oz. 10 Dwts. 9 Grs. in Silver to the Ton of 2,000 Pounds.

It came to our ears a few months ago that Mr. John McKee of this city had made a very important discovery of silver-lead ore in the township of Barrie, in the county of Renfrew. Hoping to gain some information from Mr. McKee anent the "find," we called at his office, but were disappointed, he was not willing to afford us any news whatever, as his patents to the land had not been issued. We are now able to give our readers some particulars and facts of a discovery that bids fair to rival the celebrated Broken Hill silver lead mine, of New South Wales, and the Elkhorn silver lead mines of Montana.

It was known a long ago as 40 years, that the Indians in the back country were using lead bullets which proved to be rich in silver. Some of us can remember a gang of counterfeiters were tried and convicted in Belleville and sent to Kingston Penitentiary some thirty years ago, and it is supposed these men found their silver lead to what is now the Township of Barrie.

About 4 o'clock on Saturday last two teams were seen unloading their freights at Mr. McFee's store. We stepped into the store and enquired what the freight was. Mr. McFee informed us he was just unloading a little silver lead ore from his prospect. That gentleman is very modest about the quantity he has got in his office, but there are no less than two tons of silver-lead of a very high grade. Mr. McFee says he had not the least trouble in getting this amount, for the vein is over 15 feet wide and is full of rich ore. It appears that Mr. Lawson, lately from London, England, with whom Mr. McFee is interested, suggested getting out a good quantity to prove to the world that there is some good mineral in the back country. Accordingly this gentleman started off for the woods and, getting three sleighs and four men, dug out the mass of fine ore now lying in Mr. McFee's store, also a little over two tons. The greater part of the samples are solid galena jamesonite, some pieces as much as 250 lbs. One fine piece of ore and gangue weighs some 800 lbs, and it is rather amusing to see the boys rolling this nugget indoors.

Many were the questions asked about the mineral, and a great deal of interest was taken by passers-by, but they could get no satisfactory replies to their numerous questions. We heard Mr. Lawson say to Mr. McFee, "I have found a useful man in Belleville; let me call him in as an expert in smelting." Mr. McFee asked, "Who's that?" to which Mr. Lawson replied that some wise man had said he would rather have the silver that it cost to reduce Mr. McFee's ore than all the silver in the ore itself. They laughed between themselves, and would further like to know if the above would-be expert knows anything about smelting operations.

It is exceedingly gratifying to us to know that after so many years prospecting that Mr. McFee has at last struck a very rich find indeed. We have gathered the following facts and give them to our readers who, we know are, always eager for the latest Ontario mining news.

Fist and foremost we will deal briefly with the geology of the district immediately surrounding Mr. McFee's discovery. We gather that the "country," to use a miner's phrase, in which Mr. McFee has made the above discovery is crystalline limestone and dolomite of a fine "keenly" looking nature, running approximately east and west and bounded on the north by slates. The slates and limestones are probably of the lower silurian age.

The vein is over 15 feet wide, and runs a little north of east and south of west, or nearly east and west.

Towards the east the vein disappears under a lake and to the west it is entirely in limestone, and here it has proved of extraordinary value.

All mining men are agreed that the most valuable deposits of silver-lead yet discovered are in crystalline limestone. Not such a limestone on which Belleville is built, but a limestone approaching marble in structure and altogether of an older formation, to any limestone under our city.

The parties interested have found the foot-wall which is composed of argillaceous slate and lies at an angle of 60 deg. to the north, and they have dug across the vein 10 or 15 feet without coming to a hanging wall, hence their reason for saying the vein matter is over fifteen feet wide. The gangue is stained with copper carbonate, both green and blue, "malachite and azurlite."

In addition to a fine granular crystalline galena the vein carries considerable bodies of jamesonite, which is a lead sulphantimonite, and blend, a sulphide of zinc.

Galena often occurs in a very pure state, but it is more generally contaminated with other metallic sulphides.

These are either pyrite, arsenopyrite, chalcopyrite (copper), bournonite, etc., as associated minerals; or silver, copper, zinc, iron, nickel, etc., forming isomorphous compounds with the lead sulphide. Galena is also almost always argentiferous. The amount of silver contained in galena is often said to be dependent on the enclosing rock; thus crystalline rocks would be favorable to a high percentage of silver, and unchanged sedimentary strate unfavorable.

The gangue of Mr. McFee's find is eminently a crystalline rock, and the galena, as we always observe, carries a high percentage of silver. Occasional specimens of galena carry as much as 2,000 oz. of silver to the ton of ore.

It has often been said, and may sometimes still be heard, that coarse grained galena is poor in silver, while fine granular varieties give high assays.

Gold to the extent of 2 dwts. was found in some of the assays.

A good deal of prospecting work has been done, and the vein has been traced for a distance of about a mile. To the east it falls into the lake, and towards the west it runs into the bush, and has not there been followed any further, on account of the timber on the ground.

On his first visit to Barrie to procure ore for assay Mr. McFee unearthed within a few inches of the surface enough ore to fill a waggon. Some of this ore has been assayed by Prof. Donald, of Montreal, and gave the handsome return of 99 oz. 15 dwt. 5 grs. of silver. A Sudbury assay gave 80 oz. silver, and a Malone assay yielded 113 oz. 5 dwts. 3 grs. of silver per ton.

The ore to be seen in Mr. McFee's office is fine granular crystaline galena of a beautiful metallic lustre, and there is sufficient gangue still adhering to the ore to prove that it came out of a crystaline limestone, a formation so eagerly sought after by expert miners for rich silver lead. We saw other lots which were composed of both sulphide and carbonate of lead.

Meeting a Mr. Lawson, an English mining engineer, some months ago, Mr. McFee showed that gentleman the ore. The expert said: "The ore is excellent, but I would also like to see the country from which it came, and if possible get some samples and make my own assays." Accordingly the two started off to Barrie in company. The expert directing the operations, he told off two or three men to dig. The work had not been carried on for more than 15 minutes, when the expert got enough ore to fill a sack. This he took away with him, and to be sure of arriving at a fair average value of the vein, he made no less than 20 assays, which gave the handsome return of 72 oz. 10 dwts. 9 grs in silver per ton of 2,000 pounds.

A small syndicate was then formed and is composed of Mr. Lozier and John McFee, of this city, and H. E. Lawson, M.E., of London England, for the purpose of acquiring lands in Barrie. These gentlemen have taken up some 5,000 acres of land, which is a piece of territory include some seven miles of the vein and of sufficient width to mine to a great depth before getting out of their boundary, as the vein dips to the north at a high angle.

The above named gentleman now propose sinking shafts and driving levels on the vein, with the view of offering the property to a wealthy English Syndicate in the spring. On referring to a copy of the New York Mining Journal of Sept. 10th, we see that the value of the Broken Hill ore, including lead, was £6. 11s. 11d. or about $33 00 per ton.

Taking Mr. Lawson's assay, as it is the lowest, the Barrie ore is worth to day with the lead $110.55 per ton.

The cost at Broken Hill was about $18 50, and the profits about $14 05 per ton. The Barrie Company estimate that they can mine, mill, and smelt a ton of ore for about $7 00, a great contrast to even successful Broken Hill.

Since the establishment of the Broken Hill mine, 984,349 tons of ore have been treated, and 56,312,245 ozs. of silver and 151,945 tons of lead produced, the net amount received being some $41,000,000.

The shareholders have received to date, $31,000,000.

The Elkhorn mine in Montana is a silver-lead property of great value. The average net return per ton is a little over $100. The vein varies from 12 inches to 4 ft. in width. This mine up to date has paid in dividends $846,000, and is capitalized at $1,000,000. We do not know definitely, but believe the cost of working at Elkhorn is $41 per ton.

Labor in Barrie can be had at $1 25 per diem of ten hours. Fuel can be procured for $1 per cord, and timber is on the land. Water is plentiful, and the property is on 2 20 miles from Kaladar station of the C.P.R.

A branch line could be cheaply run into the property in about 14 miles. All these advantages keep the cost of working a mine at a low figure. At Elkhorn and Broken Hill, the wages are more than double the wages in Barrie, and the price of fuel four times the price it can be purchased in the above township.

Even take the Kootenay district in British Columbia, where these silver ores are found, the cost of working them is so high, that a number of the mines operating there at a loss would pay handsomely if situated in Barrie.

Besides, the Barrie ores are richer than 3 5 of the Kootenay ores. We doubt if any district in the world can produce an ounce of silver as cheaply as it can be produced in Barrie, seeing the advantages in Barrie are so enormous.

At Broken Hill an ounce of silver costs 58c. In the United States an ounce costs somewhere about 92c, but in a great number of mines it runs as high as $1.50. In Barrie an ounce of silver can be produced at considerably under 30c, 20c being more like the figure. This is on account of the large rich vein and other advantages.

It is these silver lead ores that have made Leadville the important city it is. These ores it is that built up Silverton, a city of 20,000 2 thousand inhabitants, at Broken Hill in a few months. We see that out of 57 silver mines in the States, no less than 43 are dividend paying, which is a good sign for the great silver-lead discovery that Mr. McFee has made.

We must congratulate our townsman, Mr. McFee, on his good fortune, and hope that, after his 23 years experience of the back country, that gentleman has at last discovered a mine which will bring capital to Ontario and fortune to himself; and we trust—as indeed there is reason for hoping—that the silver lead mines of Barrie will eclipse any yet discovered in the world.

Bethlehem.

O! little town of Bethlehem,
How still we see thee lie!
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by.

Yet, in thy dark streets shineth
The everlasting light,
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee to night.

O! morning stars together
Proclaim the holy birth!
And praises sing to God the King,
And peace to men on earth.

For Christ is born of Mary,
And gathered all above,
While mortals sleep, the angels keep
Their watch of wondering love.

O! Holy child of Bethlehem,
Descend to us, we pray!
Cast out our sin and enter in,
Be within us to-day.

From hymn by the Rev. Phillips Brooks.

To the Municipal Electors of Murney Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

I BEG to respectfully ask for your votes and influence to secure my return as one of your representatives.

During the year I have been honored with the chairmanships of two important committees for the whole of the time, and a third—the Executive—for the last half of the year.

You are the judge whether I have attended faithfully to my duties conscientiously.

Whatever works for the city's good, if possible from the standpoints of economy and prudence, are the objects of my aim. I renew my pledges of attention to duty and fidelity to our city's welfare, and remain

Yours obediently,
J. E. WALMSLEY.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RESPECTFULLY solicit your vote and influence for Mayor of the City of Belleville for 1893. I was born in Belleville and have lived amongst you all my life, and am personally known to the most of you. I have been an Alderman in the City Council for four years, and during that time have endeavored to represent you a straightforwardly and faithfully.

My platform is economy in City affairs. If elected I will exert myself to further the best interests of the city.

Yours respectfully,
FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of My Native City:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

FOR years past I have had the offer of support for the City Chair, but at the present time to many of my old friends have brought more pressure to bear than I can decently with stand. I have been asked to stand for the highest position that the citizens can confer on any one. Among the men who offer me their support are to be found Irishmen, Englishmen, Dutchmen, Frenchmen and now and then a Scotchman, besides a good many Canadians. To the electors I am no stranger. I have been a member of the City Council for the greater part of a quarter of a century and during that time have done what I felt was for the best in'erest of the city and will continue on the same line if successful at the coming election. I am in favor of strict economy in city affairs and decrease of our indebtedness. At the nomination I will freely give my views on the situation, and with much respect ask that when you mark your ballot you will not forget

A. T. PETRIE.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

HAVING been requested by a large number of influential electors of the city of Belleville, to offer myself for Mayor for 1893, I have consented to do so, and now respectfully solicit your votes and influence. I have resided in the city six years, three of which I have served in the City Council and School Board. If would respectfully refer you to my work therein. I come out as a business man, having had 20 years business experience in different parts of Canada, which is of great service to any one in filling the civic chair. I have chosen Belleville as my home, and have invested all my capital in and around the city, and my interests being centred here, I will, if elected, use all in my power, as I done heretofore, to advance the best interests of the city.

I strongly urge the reduction of the number of Aldermen, and shall use every endeavor to carry into effect the proposal made by me to the Council in respect to it last year.

I have also in view the grave necessity of getting the city in the best sanitary condition possible to enable us the better to cope with disease or the cholera epidemic should it reach us next year.

Yours,
HARRY HOWELL.

When King James the first wrote his "counterblast to tobacco" the royal pedant knew nothing of the "Myrtle Navy." If he had, instead of wasting his brains over his curious production, he would have filled his royal pipe with it, and would have taken a royal smoke, he would then have been prepared to admit that with regard to the injurious effects of tobacco, it all depended on what tobacco you smoked.

We do know of any preparation that has caught the public favor in so short a time as Dodd's Kidney Pills, but when we consider that three-fourths of the Canadian people are afflicted with kidney troubles in some form or other, and that Dodd's Pills are a quick and permanent cure for all these troubles, the large and increasing demand can scarcely be wondered at. NORTH RIDING NOMINATIONS.

Messrs. Carscallen and Vankleek in the Field for the Commons.

HON MR. BOWELL CASTIGATES THE "MACHINE POLITICIAN"

Able Speeches by Messrs. Northrup and Larke.

(From our special Correspondent.)

MADOC, Dec. 23, 1892.

The acceptance of a seat in the Senate by the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, vacated the seat in the Commons which that gentleman has occupied for the past twenty five years, thus rendering a new election necessary.

With the usual love for fighting forlorn hopes, the Grits again induced their thrice defeated candidate, Mr. Peter Vankleek, to enter the field a fourth time, with no other prospect than to be again knocked down. The surprise among his personal friends is, that he should allow himself to be made a stool-pigeon of so often, by men who have no other object in view than to have, as they say, "a fight," and prevent an election by acclamation. It is also a marvel among the Grits that their general schemer and manipulater, Mr. Thos. Cross, does not enter the field and try his hand; the knowing ones, however, reply, "He knows too much," and will not allow himself to be led to the slaughter whilst he can find a victim like Mr. Vankleek to be impaled in the shambles of public opinion. Mr. Cross is wise in his generation.

Failing to raise the needful in Madoc, when the hat was carried round, Mr. Arthur Coe was despatched to Toronto to see what could be done. The result of that visit was developed at the nomination by the appearance on the platform of that wire puller, or as what Mr. Charlton properly designated him "MACHINE POLITICIAN," James D. Edgar.

The Masonic Hall was filled, and after the announcement by the Returning Officer that Mr. Carscallen and Mr. Vankleek had deposited their nomination papers, and that polling would take place on the 30th inst, Mr. James White was asked to take the chair, and the battle of words began, Mr. NORTHRUP, M.P. for East Hastings, leading the van in an admirable speech of half an hour, during which he handled the questions of the day in a masterly manner. He was followed by J. D. EDGAR, Esq., M. P. for West Ontario, on behalf of Mr. Vankleek, who, unfortunately for that gentleman, who had been posing as "Independent," announced the fact that he came from Toronto to speak in favor of the Liberal candidate, Mr. Vankleek, whose views and opinions were in accord with the party to which he (Edgar) belonged. This announcement was received with derisive laughter and cries of "No more pretending," "Now we know where you are." Mr. Edgar wasted his half hour in floundering attacks upon the National Policy. Mr. Larke, of Oshawa, followed, and for half an hour kept poor Edgar upon the gridiron, and broiled him until there was little left of him but his portly person; and when he rose to reply—for another half hour was given him—he gave evidence of being in an exceedingly uncomfortable frame of mind. In attempting to answer Mr. Larke, he was, to the great disgust of the large audience, caught in an attempt to misquote and misinterpret the resolutions moved by Sir Richard Cartwright in the House of Commons—which literally drove him from the subject he was discussing, when he launched into an attack upon the Government on the position it had taken on what is known as the Caron charges.

Time being called, Mr. Bowell stepped forward, and received a perfect ovation from his old friends and supporters. I shall not attempt even a synopsis of what the hon. gentleman said. Suffice it to say that for over an hour the vast audience listened to the scathing he gave Mr. Edgar, with frequent outbursts of approval and delight. The retort by Mr. Bowell, that Edgar was not the man to prate about "purity" in any form, when it was known that he was allied with the Mercier-Pacaud gang of Quebec, who had literally robbed the public treasury of that Province, and used the money so obtained in debauching the electorate, and in trying to defeat the Lonstion Government. He continued to deal with the western M.P. without gloves, pointing out that he had been defeated six times by unsympathetic electors, when Mr. Vankleek unfortunately interrupted by asking him how many times he (Mr. B) had been defeated. The retort was sharp and pointed. "Once," replied the hon. gentleman, "in 1863 by the same tactics which he (Vankleek) was now pursuing. Then the Protestant horse was mounted and because he (Mr. Bowell) refused to adopt an impracticable platform, he was defeated," and now the sneaking question being asked in private of the electors by Vankleek and his friends was "How do you like your Papist Premier?" Mr. Bowell then administered to the gentleman and those who were raising that cry a castigation not soon to be forgotten by those who heard it. The retort brought the blood to the cheek of the questioner, but he remained as mute as a dummy. When Mr. Bowell sat down a vote of thanks was given to the chairman and three rousing North Hastings cheers for the Queen, and the meeting ended, the Grits lamenting having brought the "machine politician" into the ridings, he having stripped the flimsy covering with which it was attempted to cover the true political character of the Grit candidate.

There is little doubt of the result of the election, by a large majority, if Mr. Carscallen's friends only put their shoulders to the wheel—and I doubt not they will do it.

To-day's Market.

Owing to the severity of the weather the market to-day was not largely attended. Poultry was offered for sale in considerable quantities and good prices were realized.

The Market Building.

Complaints were general to-day, and not without cause, as to the uncomfortable condition of the interior of the market building. Those who were offering produce for sale and also buyers were much inconvenienced on account of the cold, there scarcely being any warmth within the building. This is not as it should be, and those who are in authority should see to it that it is properly heated.

Asked for Poison.

It was reported to the police last night that a man who gave his name as Sharp, went into a drug store in the city during the evening and asked for strychnine. When questioned for what purpose he desired the article, he said he wished to poison himself. He was accordingly refused. It is thought that this is the man who is wanted for robbing Mrs. Bridget Horrickson, of Frankford. The police instituted a search for the man, but were unable to locate him.

Gratifying to All.

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasing liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup Company.

North Hastings Election.

The Conservatives United—An Active Campaign Entered Upon.

The Grits of North Hastings in the pending election placed a candidate in the field, in the hope of catching a snap verdict. They expected to find the Conservatives napping, divided by local jealousies and other causes, which would place them at a disadvantage. Such, however, is far from being the case, for the party are united upon the popular nominee Mr. Carscallen, whose candidature is being heartily and enthusiastically supported throughout the riding. In the face of opposition the Conservatives are thoroughly united and have entered upon the campaign in earnest. Mr. John Caskey yesterday started north and will conduct an active and thorough canvas for Mr. Carscallen in the Township of Madoc. Other prominent members of the party have also buckled on the harness and a short and decisive campaign has been entered upon. That Mr. Carscallen will be elected by a rousing majority, there is no doubt, and the Grits will learn that they have no hold upon the riding of North Hastings.

A Christmas Entertainment.

The annual Christmas entertainment of St. Andrew's church was held in the lecture room of the church last evening. A large number were present and an excellent programme was presented. In the course of the evening the young ladies of Mrs. Maclean's Bible class presented her with a handsome present. A carefully worded address was read by Mrs. Gibson, and Mrs. Maclean, though taken by surprise, made a feeling reply. After the rewards for good attendance, etc., were distributed among the pupils the evening's entertainment was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

Is There no Law to Reach Him?

John Walker, the grain buyer, has been at his old tricks again. Last night he went home drunk and turned his wife and children out in the cold, and they were compelled to seek shelter with friends. His oldest son naturally tried to protect his mother, and to-day the neighbors were annoyed by a quarrel between father and son. Mr. Thomas Thompson took Mrs. Walker to his house, in order that she might get warm, and the cursing of her husband was something astonishing. We would like to know if there is a law to protect defenceless women and children?

Death of a Popular Lady.

INGERSOLL, Dec. 23.—Mrs. J. W. Upper, one of Ingersoll's most esteemed residents, passed away suddenly last evening. About 10 days ago she caught a cold and inflammation set in. Medical skill was of no avail. Deceased was a daughter of the Rev. Dr. Gardiner, of Belleville, formally pastor of Charles street Methodist church in this town. Before marriage Mrs. Upper was a teacher in our public school for several years, and leaves a large circle of friends who mourn her sudden departure.

Christmas Cheer.

The Sons of England of this city have not forgotten their poorer countrymen at this festive season. To-day the committee distributed Christmas cheer to eleven English families, all they could learn of that were in distress. One family, consisting of the parents and 13 children, received the following: 50 lbs. flour, 11 lbs. of sugar, 1 lb. tea, 2 lbs. raisins, 2 do. currants, 5 do. rice, 15 do. beef, and a bag of potatoes. Other families smaller in number, received in proportion.

His Services Appreciated.

Mr. A. Brignall has been leader of the choir of John street Presbyterian church for some time. Last night a deputation consisting of Messrs. T. Ritchie, U. E. Thompson, J. Forin, and Prof. Coleman waited upon Mr. Brignall at his residence, and presented him with seven handsomely bound volumes of poems by noted authors. The presentation was made on behalf of the congregation. Mr. Brignall, although taken by surprise, made a suitable reply.

It is Here.

Christmas is here, and we hope all will have a happy one. We, at the Oak Hall have every reason to be happy, and we are happy. We have enjoyed the greater part of the winter trade with us is over and we have experienced the largest business we have ever known. We extend our best thanks to our customers for their continued confidence in us.

the damp and clammy feeling of an old-fashioned air tight waterproof, or to buy a porous and comfortable Rigby rain proofed garment, and by opposing the former end your discomfits. To be comfortable and dryly clothed, and by being comfortable to know we end our chances of cold and the thousand natural shocks that flesh is heir to, is a consummation devoutly to be wished. To wear a rubber coat, to hermetically seal ourselves up, perchance to die, aye there's the rub, for in that sleep of death what dreams may come when we have shuffled off this mortal coil, must give us pause, for who would bear the whips and scorns of climate, the Autumn rains, the Summer showers, the Winter's grippe, when he might his quietus make with a trifle of coin? Who would these ills bear, to sit grunt and sweat under a rubber coat, when Rigbys can be had at every corner.

To the Electors of Ketcheson Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—I RE-SPECTFULLY ask your votes and influence as a Candidate for Alderman for 1893. I am in favor of the reduction of Aldermen to at least fourteen. to be elected by the whole city—the present wards to remain intact. I will support all measure which as a citizen I think to be in the best interest of the present position and future progress of this City, believing neither in undue municipal extravagance nor in false economy.

THE WAY OUT of woman's troubles is with Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Safely and certainly, every delicate weakness, derangement, and disease peculiar to the sex is permanently cured.

Out of all the medicines for women, the "Favorite Prescription" is the only one that's guaranteed to do what is claimed for it. In all "female complaints" and irregularities, periodical pains, displacements, internal inflammation or ulceration, bearing-down sensations and kindred ailments, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

So certain to cure every case of Catarrh is Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy that its proprietors make you this offer: "If you can't be cured, permanently, we'll pay you $500 cash."

SHOP EARLY
And often this week. Thursday and Saturday the farmers will demand a good share of our attention. Our display don't include raisins or tea, pills or perfumery, books or dolls, but if you want a piece of SILVER WARE, a LAMP, a dinner or tea set or anything in china or crockery why see us—that's where we shine. So much better choice in such a store as this than places where there's a little of everything and not much of anything. 9 hanging and 5 parlor table lamps sold Saturday. This shows how the main stream of trade keeps to the old channel. Open every night this week.

Blotches Cured.

DEAR SIRS,—In 1890 my body was covered with blotches and I was at last induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters; by the time I had used the bottles of it I was completely cured, and I cannot speak too highly of it.

MRS. JAMES DESMOND, Halifax, N. S.

Made With Skill,

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skilful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

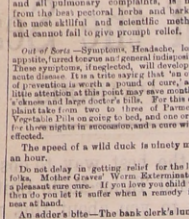

Out of Sorts—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure,' and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

The speed of a wild duck is ninety miles an hour.

Do not delay in getting relief for the little folks. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is a pleasant cure cure. If you love you child why then do you let it suffer when a remedy is so near at hand.

An adder's bite—The bank clerk's lunch.

For Over Fifty Years
MRS WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world.

SCANDAL ON SCANDAL

A DEPUTY'S ASSERTION ABOUT THE CANAL AFFAIR.

The French Government is Prepared to Defend the Republic—A Vote of Confidence Carried By a Large Majority—A Journalist Denies Being Bribed.

PARIS, Dec. 24.—The Chamber of Deputies this afternoon voted confidence in the Government by a large majority.

There was another lively scene in the Chamber of Deputies to-day when Premier Ribot presented himself to answer the interpellation of M. Millivoy relative to the charge that money advanced by the Panama Company had been used in the service of the Government. M. Ribot spoke firmly and decidedly and was evidently fortified by the manifest sympathy of a majority of the Chamber.

M. Ribot said that the object of the questioner was to pile scandal upon scandal. [Cries of "No!" "No!" from the Boulangists.] The Government, pursued M. Ribot, has always been opposed to such shameful tactics, and he added, "The Government is prepared to defend the republic."

Of the names of the men compromised in the scandal, the witnesses declared that M. Constans had given to the President a list of 100 deputies who were implicated.

M. Maret, editor of The Radical, denied that his paper had been bribed. He spoke scornfully of the attacks that had been made upon his paper and declared that those attacks were not merited.

Rene Blanc, a journalist who had been examined by Magistrate Franqueville, was then called to the witness stand, but declined to testify, referring the committee to testimony given before the magistrate.

A sub-committee from the Parliamentary Investigating Commission sat to-day this afternoon at the offices of the Panama Canal Co., 17,000 counterfoils of bonds "payable to bearer." The Commission will meet daily during the Christmas holidays.

DR. HERZ NERVOUS.

He is to Have a Visitor Who Wants Important Documents From Him.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—Dr. Cornelius Herz, who is so greatly implicated in the Panama Canal scandal, and who is said to be suffering from nervous prostration, is still confined to his bedroom at the Burlington Hotel. He receives only intimate friends.

M. Andrieux, it is said, is coming to London from Paris to obtain from Dr. Herz a certain document showing that 104 members of the French Chamber of Deputies had received bribes from the lobbyist Arton amounting altogether to 1,350,000 francs.

M. Andrieux testified before the Panama Committee yesterday that he had seen such a document in the possession of Dr. Herz.

The Paris correspondent of The Daily News says: When Count Jules de Bornes charged the cabinet with complicity in the Panama Canal corruption the Chamber became like a military mine whose general had given the order: "Every man for himself." Every man interrupted the speaker, shouting, declaiming and shaking his fists, and the tribune seemed to be in danger of being sexied and the occupants expelled.

The Paris correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says: The Chamber gave a merciful majority for the simple reason that a government defeat would have left it with no Christmas holiday in a state of anarchy and chaos. M. Wilson, who is believed to have a share in the present campaign, was soon to-day in the lobbies of the Senate.

M. Floquet upon leaving the Chamber seemed to be ill and broken, yet he was saluted by everyone present. Should the Chamber be dissolved for the with, M. Floquet would be enabled to escape the abuse of his unscrupulous adversaries. Many voters, grateful for his long and faithful service, because of one act of inadvertence at a trying moment. No greater example of the uncertainty of politics has ever been given. The accumulation of evidence threatens to delay De Lesseps' trial until April. The Belleville works incessantly eleven hours daily.

His office is guarded by sentries, who allow nobody to approach. So far he appears to credit the explanations of the accused senators and deputies. M. Proust is looking very ill; the proceedings threatening against him very keenly. The rejection is much discussed whether President Carnot is to blame for his failure, when his learned life facts, to bring the delinquents to justice. It is supposed that he was too much amazed and bewildered to take decisive steps.

The Paris correspondent of The Times says: M. Ribot won a more signal victory than ever, but not without fear having been incurred all about him. Boulangism has overshot the mark.

The Vienna correspondent of The Times says: In replying to the query of a Vienna paper Goblet telegraphs that the situation is painful, but not perilous to the Republic.

A Prince Jugged.

VIENNA, Dec. 24.—Prince Alois Schwarzenburg, a member of one of the most ancient families of Austria, has been tried by court martial and sentenced to four months' imprisonment for absenting himself from duty without leave to make a pleasure visit to Italy.

A Bismarck Party.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—The Berlin correspondent of The Times, discussing the new German political party, which is still in embryo, says the party has grown out of the triumphant progress of Bismarck last summer through Munich, Kissingen and Kiel. The party will consist of Bismarckian enthusiasts, and its program will favor hi-metallism, anti-semitism and a progressive colonial policy; in short, consistent opposition all along the line to the Emperor.

ported by the Government.

ROME, Dec. 24.—All the cardinals at present in Rome waited upon the Pope Friday and tendered him the usual Christmas congratulations. In reply to the good wishes for the church and himself, His Holiness said that the signs of a gathering storm were visible to all observers of moral and religious conditions. The European situation was pregnant with ruin and disaster, and this condition could only be brought to an end by the healing virtues of the church, which herself was being violently assailed.

In the course of his remarks the Pope referred to the Freemasons, whom he condemned as a malignant sect, who were never true to the people, but who, unfortunately, were supported by the Government.

His Holiness concluded by bestowing the apostolic blessing upon the whole world.

Gale on the Irish Coast.

QUEENSTOWN, Dec. 24.—A violent gale is blowing all along the coast last night. The steamship City of Chester, which arrived off the harbor at a late hour, proceeded for Liverpool without stopping to transfer her mails in the usual way.

Will Travel Without Portfolio.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—Secretary of State Foster will resign his portfolio before leaving for Paris, where he goes to act as agent for the United States before the Behring Sea arbitrators, who are to meet Feb. 23. As only three weeks will elapse between the date of the Secretary's departure and the end of the present administration, the vacancy will not be filled. Assistant Secretary Wharton will act during the interim.

Flouring Mills Burned.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Dec. 24.—The extensive planing mills and sash and door factory of J. M. Green, this city, was burned to the ground about 1 o'clock Friday morning. The loss will be very heavy, as the bulk of machinery and completed stock stored in the building was destroyed. Estimated loss over $10,000; insurance about $5000.

A KANAKA CREW

Murder the Captain and Cook His Corpse For a Feast.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24.—Advices from the South Seas of some bloody events have been received. The Kanaka crew of the French vessel Constantine murdered the captain and mate, looted the vessel and turned her adrift. She went on a reef and became a total wreck.

M. Fanin, owner of the Constantine, was shot Oct. 5, as was also Captain Marie, whose corpse was cooked for a feast. Four Kanakas who attempted to rescue the captain were massacred.

While the vessel named Three Cheers was at Fead Island an attempt was made to arrest the chief and his son, who murdered a trader named Core. When Captain Stade of the Three Cheers demanded the chief he was shot dead by the latter's son. Captain Stade's murderer was subsequently captured and shot.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely IMITATE THE ORIGINAL IN APPEARANCE AND NAME. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Cold in the head has induced unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take any imitation dealers may urge upon you. For sale by all druggists or sent post-paid on receipt of price (50c and $1.) by addressing Hor & Do," Brockville, Ont.

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

A YACHTING DISASTER.

TEN LIVES LOST IN A SUDDEN SQUALL.

Twenty-Three Invited Guests Accompany the Owner of a Yacht on a Pleasure Jaunt to Sydney Harbor—All Were Thrown Into the Water.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Dec. 27.—A sad accident occurred here yesterday to a party of merrymakers, resulting in the death of 10 of them. The owner of a yacht made up a party of his friends to take a sail, and 23 persons accepted the invitation. All went well until the mouth of the harbor was reached.

Here a severe squall struck the yacht, and before any preparation could be made to meet it the vessel capsized. The squall passed away as quickly as it had come, and vessels in the vicinity bore down to the upturned craft. They succeeded in picking up 13 persons who were struggling in the water, but 10 of the party were not seen after the yacht turned over.

SEVERAL PROBLEMS.

A Congress of Catholics Called to Propose Practical Reforms.

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—The call for a congress of the Catholics of the United States to be held in Chicago during the World's Fair was issued yesterday. It is signed by Archbishop Feehan, chairman of the committee on organization, and William J. Onahan, secretary.

The congress will be convened Sept. 4, 1893, and will be presided over by Cardinal Gibbons. Among the subjects that will receive the attention of the congress are the "Social Questions" as outlined by the Pope in his encyclical, "Catholic Education," the "Independence of the Holy See," the "Rights of Labor," the "Duties of Capital," "Pauperism and the Remedy," "Trades Combinations and Strikes," "Immigration and Colonization," "Intemperance," "The Condition and Future of the Indians and Negroes in the United States," "The Condition and Future of the Negro Race in the United States," and "The Work of Women in Religion and in the World."

The call says the congress must be prepared to propose practical reforms. It will not suffice that it shall have been the medium and opportunity for the delivery of clever essays and eloquent addresses on the various themes. Much more will be expected from it.

A BAD WRECK.

A Passenger Express Train Hurled Down an Embankment.

DENVER, Dec. 27.—The Chicago express on the Santa Fe road, which left here at 11.30 last night, was derailed about two miles east of Hillside while running at a high rate of speed. The passenger coaches and Pullman sleepers were hurled down an embankment 50 feet high and landed in a heap at the bottom.

The overturned cars immediately caught fire, and it was with the greatest difficulty the imprisoned passengers were rescued from a frightful death. It is stated that two unknown boys, said to reside in Denver, were fatally injured. A number of passengers and several of the train crew are reported injured, but none were killed. A relief train with physicians and surgeons was sent from here, and rendered assistance and relief to the injured. The accident is attributed to spreading rails.

THAWING DYNAMITE.

A Man's Leg Blown Off and His Scalp Removed.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 27.—A frightful explosion of several sticks of dynamite occurred in the Megallan mining district yesterday. Fred Bailey and W. Black, miners, had placed dynamite in the stove to be thawed out. The sticks exploded and the shanty was blown down. Black escaped with only serious cuts and bruises over his body, but the injuries that Bailey received were frightful.

His legs were blown off and his scalp was torn off. He also received terrible cuts on the head and a flying piece of stone. He will die. Other houses in the vicinity were also destroyed.

MAKING PROGRESS.

Cholera is Finding More Victims From Day to Day.

HAMBURG, Dec. 27.—Two children, living in the Borgesch Strasse, fell ill of cholera on Thursday and yesterday two more in the same house with them were stricken.

The Eppendorf Hospital is treating 38 cases of cholera, of which eight are of an exceedingly virulent type.

There was one death from cholera at the hospital Sunday. Without doubt the disease is making steady although slow progress. General uneasiness prevails, especially in mercantile circles, which are still under the burdens of last fall's losses.

A Brass Trust.

WATERBURY, Ct., Dec. 27.—The preliminary work in the formation of a gigantic brass trust is nearly finished. It has taken much time to intercept all the brass concerns in the movement, but most of them have now agreed to join the trust.

A Broken Conduit.

TORONTO, Dec. 27.—The new steel conduit which supplies the city waterworks has broken, and the pipe has risen to the surface of the bay. Toronto people are now using one-third bay water mixed with sewerage.

Wants $100,000 Bonus.

OTTAWA, Dec. 24.—President Van Horne has written Mayor Durocher that the C.P.R. will make a new entrance into Ottawa by bridging the Ottawa west of Gatineau Point and tunneling Parliament Hill, making the depot near the mouth of the Rideau Canal, if the city will grant a bonus of $100,000. He threatens to sidetrack the city if the bonus is not granted.

Brought Four Prisoners.

SANTA FE, N. M., Dec. 27.—The troops sent from Fort Wingate to Zuni-Pueblo returned with four prisoners who some time ago tortured and murdered two other Indians for witchcraft. All is quiet at Pueblo.

Badly Knocked Out.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—In a prize fight for $200 between Billy Welch and Joe Daly at the Nonpareil Athletic Club, Welch scored five knock-down blows in the wind-up. That settled Daly.

Burned to Death.

PITTSBURG, Pa. Dec. 26.—John Purdy was burned to death in the Wilmerion lock-up yesterday. He was arrested for being drunk. At 3 o'clock this morning the lock-up was discovered to be on fire. Purdy was the only inmate.

Mrs. Langtry Dangerously Ill.

LONDON, Dec. 27.—Mrs. Lily Langtry, whose condition was reported yesterday as having favorably passed the critical point, has suffered a serious relapse.

IT WAS $6715

That Was Stolen from the Express Co.'s safe in Parma.

SARNIA, Dec. 27.—The Sarnia authorities secured search warrants yesterday and went through the premises of Ernest Clarke, the former agent, and James McCann, the present assistant of the Canadian Express Co. They were looking for evidence against these persons for the robbery committed Tuesday, but no trace of money or implements could be found. The theory that seems likely to prove correct is that the theft was committed by one or more professional crooks. Last night it was discovered that a stranger purchased a piece of sheet brass similar to the key found at the time of the robbery from Barrie's pumping shop. The manner in which the robbery was committed, the familarity manifested with the details of the express office and the smooth escape of the guilty ones, all sustain the theory that professionals did the work. Young McMann, the assistant agent, is cool and straightforward in his answers, and Clarke, the ex-agent, offered his assistance within an hour after the crime. The robbers evidently went to Agent Cook's house at night and effected an entrance, obtained an impression in wax of the key and have been living in Sarnia a month or two perfecting the job.

The exact amount of money stolen was $6715, in four packages. The largest package belonged to the Bank of Montreal and contained $4000, in $20 bills. The Traders' had one package, containing $1000, and the Bank of Commerce two packages, one containing $1300 and the other $415.

ST. JOHN'S CATHEDRAL

The Greatest Church Structure Projected in America.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—The corner stone of the Cathedral of St. John, a Protestant Episcopal Church, was laid yesterday. It is to be the greatest church structure ever projected in America. The site is in one of the most conspicuous places on Manhattan Island.

The design is of the round arch Gothic order, planned in many details after the early Christian churches, and following notably the Santa Sophia Church at Constantinople and St. Mark's at Venice.

The grounds cover 2825 feet.

The building, when ready for use, will have the following dimensions:

	Feet.
Total length	320
Total width through transept	206
Width of front	192
Height of front (exterior)	141
Height of front tower	248
Height of flanking towers	198
Height of central tower	445
Height of dome (interior)	253
Width of nave	92
Span of central tower	96
Length of choir and transept	154

Wealthy, Old and Dead.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 27.—Jacob Henrici, sr., trustee of the Economic Society of Economy, Pa., died yesterday aged 88. The society of which Father Henrici was leader is composed of about 500 people, who are worth between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000. They make up the town of Economy, about 36 miles west of Pittsburg.

Father Henrici was president of the Economy Bank of Beaver Falls, a director in the Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railway, and other large corporations.

The Economite Society made all their money by farming.

A Nasty Accident.

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—Last night Mrs. S. B. Mitchell entered a cable car without noticing that her foot had become entangled in a coil of telegraph wire. When the car started and the wire was made taut Mrs. Mitchell was thrown from her seat through the door and against the rear platform of the car. Before she could be liberated her leg was so cut by the wire that amputation may be necessary.

Still Harder Luck.

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 27.—Dr. T. M. Fenwick will perform a critical amputation on a convict at the penitentiary. The man fell from one of the buildings a distance of 65 feet and had both arms broken. The arms will be taken off.

The convict, named Bruce, comes from Simcoe, and is an M.A., a graduate of Trinity University, Dublin. He was sentenced a couple of weeks ago for larceny, having only been released a few weeks previously. He is now on his fifth term and has been sentenced under the names of Johnston, Macdougall, Wallace and Bruce.

Blaine is Improving.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—"Mr. Blaine is getting along nicely," was Dr. Johnson's reply as to the condition of Blaine's health last night. Mr. Blaine's house was brilliantly lighted this evening. There was everywhere manifested a cheerfulness not observable in members of the family for many day.

Accommodates Him.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 27. — Yesterday while a frightful snow storm was raging, with men and women going to their work was crossing the Great Northern tracks, a switch engine came along and struck it amidships. Seven of the passengers, six men and one woman, were hurt, one at least, Charles H. Armstrong, a carpenter, being dangerously wounded. For some reason the conductor did not warn them of the approaching switch engine.

Killed by Dynamite.

OTTAWA, Dec. 24—Michael Curren, a laborer, was killed in a ditch yesterday. He struck a stick of dynamite with his pick. His face was terribly smashed.

In Favor of Reprisals.

BERNE, Dec. 27.—The rejection of the French Swiss commercial treaty by the French Chamber of Deputies is bitterly resented here. There is a unanimous feeling in favor of reprisals.

"I Cured Mother."
A Man Made Happy.
GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can say to you, my case was a bad one, and I can only say that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I wish you success with your med cine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.
Signed, MELVILLE B MARSH,
Aberdeen, P. Q. General Merchant.

The profection of God being infinite, to become God-like means infinite growth.

Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicinal herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to yield almost at once. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Pudding with a hair in it is sweetness wasted on a dessert hair.

Dyspepsia Indigestion is occasioned by want of action in the biliary ducts, loss of vitality in the stomach to secrete the gastric juices, without which digestion cannot go on; also, being the principal cause of Headache. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills taken before going to bed, for a while, never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr. F W Ashdown, Ashtown, Ont., writes:—"Parmelee's Pills are taking the lead against ten other makes which I have in stock."

In nearly all the markets of German cities fish are sold alive.

EXPLOSION IN DUBLIN.
The London Police Were Warned About Dynamite Outrages.

DUBLIN, Dec. 27.—At the inquest in the case of Detective Synnott, who lost his life by the explosion at Dublin detective office, a number of witnesses testified. The expert on explosives, Mr. Dolberne, expressed an opinion that the explosion was one of either dynamite or nitro-glycerine.

That the explosion was of incendiary origin is thus proved, and not from any gas accumulation, was considered evident from the fact that small pieces of metal casing, which had evidently been part of the infernal machine, were found and marked.

The coroner's jury rendered a verdict that the explosion was due to explosion of a high class explosive substance placed in court by a person whose identity was unknown to the jury. It was recommended that the authorities provide for the family of Detective Synnott.

The London police recently received a vague intimation of a possible renewal of dynamite outrages, and extra precautions were at once taken to guard against injury being done to public buildings. It is supposed that the dynamiters thus thwarted decided to make Dublin the scene of their outrages.

Secretary Asquith was busy at the Home Office yesterday and unusual activity was displayed at Scotland Yard.

BISMARCK'S CHRISTMAS.
He Mixed the Spirits and Spices for His Guests.

HAMBURG, Dec. 27.—Prince Bismarck celebrated Christmas Eve with his family at Friedrichsruhe. The Christmas tree on which all the presents were hung was a gift from a farmer whose land adjoins the Prince's estate.

The Prince's presents from abroad were opened by the Princess and hung by her on the tree without his having seen them. The cards and letters of congratulation, which came from every capital in Europe, filled an entire basket at the foot of the tree. All of the family servants were called in and each received two presents, one from the Prince and another from the Princess. Several guests passed the evening with the family.

Prince Bismarck was very exceptionally good spirits and made the bowl for the company with his own hands.

Frozen to Death.

SCHENECTADY, N.Y., Dec. 27.—Yesterday morning the frozen body of a man was found in a field near Rexford Flats, four miles east of this city. He was an unknown, supposedly insane person, who had been rattling windows, peering in and cutting up many other strange antics at night for a few days previous.

His Eye Burned Out.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Dec. 27.—John Hausberger was horribly burned at Hopewell schoolhouse last evening while acting as Santa Claus. In a Christmas entertainment his dress of cotton caught fire and also his celluloid false face. The fire cooked his face and burned out one eye, and in the panic several persons were injured.

SADLY SCALDED.
Horrible Work Done by the Explosion of a Colliery Boiler.

HALIFAX, N.S., Dec. 27.—One of the largest boilers in the Victoria Collieries, Cape Breton, exploded yesterday, killing George Long and injuring five others, some fatally. All are frightfully scalded, the flesh hanging in strips from their bodies.

Massive stone blocks and bricks were hurled within a radius of 100 yards. Seven other boilers were displaced and completely disabled and their foundations levelled. Not a portion of the building in which the boilers stood remains. The end of the exploded boiler was found 150 yards distant.

Hundreds of workmen were working right on the spot, and how they escaped is miraculous. The entire mines will have to close for a month.

BABY ONE SOLID SORE
Tried Everything without Relief. No Rest Night or Day. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

My baby, when two months old, had a breaking out with what the doctor called eczema. Her head arms, feet, and hands were each one solid sore. I tried everything, but neither the doctors nor any thing else did her any good. She could get no rest day or night with her. In my extremity I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES, but I confess I had no faith in them, for I had never seen the sores worse, but I continued to use the RESOLVENT for a little while, and now she is as fat a baby as you would like to see, and as sound as a dollar. I believe my baby would have died if I had not tried CUTICURA REMEDIES. I write this that every mother with a baby like mine can feel confident that there is a medicine that will cure the worst cases, and that medicine is the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

MRS. BETTIE BIRKNER, Lockhart, Texas.

Cuticura Remedies
Cure every humor of the skin and scalp of infancy and childhood, whether torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, or blotchy, with loss of hair, and every impurity of the blood, whether simple, scrofulous, or hereditary, when the best physicians and all other remedies fail. Parents, save your children years of mental and physical suffering. Begin now. Cures made in children are permanent.
CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies of modern times, are absolutely pure, and may be used on the youngest infant with the most gratifying success.

BASELESS HOPES.

The Grits are basing their hopes on North Hastings. Mr. Peter Vankleek was feted out of his retreat to uphold the annexation standard; the faithful in Toronto "came down handsomely" with the necessary cash for the deposit, after Belleville had been canvassed in vain; the malodorous Edgar was sent down to orate at the nomination; and the Globe has devoted an editorial article to the contest.

The Grit organ informs its readers that Mr. Vankleek is the gentleman who in 1891 "pulled down Mr. Bowell's majority from 1041 to 206," and concludes that "with such a candidate the party ought to make a good fight." Now, as is known to the Globe, the opposition to Mr. Bowell in 1887 was purely factical, hence his majority was abnormally large. Leaving out that year, Mr. Bowell's average majority in the other five contests was 242, so that Mr. Vankleek's "pulling down" was hardly sufficient foundation for the "great expectations" into which the Globe would fain delude its party, in the hope that their courage would thereby be stimulated.

The Grit organ thinks that "a reverse in an agricultural constituency like North Hastings" would cause the Government to modify the N.P. and reduce the coal oil duty. Considering that this very coal oil duty was fixed by the Grits, when in power in 1877, the Globe's denunciation of it now is, to say the least, remarkably cool. As to the N.P. the Conservative party are willing to face the issue, as the country has prospered under that policy as it had never before done. The facts were thus ably set forth by Mr. J. F. Wood, Controller of Inland Revenue, in his speech at Brockville a few days ago: He said that in some departments of commerce dullness reigned, that in some branches of agriculture depression prevails, but there never was a period in the history of this or any other country of which the same remark might be made with truth, and there has seldom been a time when the observation was so little justified as now. Wheat and barley are abnormally low in price, but they are low the world over, and they are made low by causes over which the Government has absolutely no control. It is difficult, too, to dispose of the inferior classes of horses, partly because of the high duty established by the McKinley bill, but principally because the introduction of electricity as a motor in street railways has enormously lessened the demand for the common grade of horses. Otherwise the farmers of Canada are enjoying larger opportunities for making money by the practice of thrift and economy than ever before. All dairy products, all animal products, all garden truck, and all cereals, save wheat and barley, bring remunerative prices, while the cost of living is apparently less than in the past. Furniture, clothing, implements, tea, sugar, and other foods not produced on the farm are cheap beyond parallel, so that the margin of profit, the balance between income and outgo, in the working of a Canadian farm to-day is as great, to say the least, as at any preceding period. Then if other staple industries are considered, lumber, mining, fishing, manufacturing, it will be found that some of them are exceedingly prosperous and singularly profitable, while in all the development has attained its highest dimensions in the year now drawing to a close. Mr. Wood supplies many interesting and pertinent statistics confirming this assertion. The value of imports into Canada during the last fiscal year exceeded that of the preceding year by seven and a half millions; the total shipping employed in our domestic and foreign commerce increased in 1892 by two million tons; the export trade was larger by twelve million dollars, the expansion in sales to Great Britain being especially marked, and in the first four months of the current fiscal year a further large gain in the value of exports has occurred. These figures assuredly are proper and safe barometers of the state of trade, of the material condition of the country, and they afford no warrant for the jeremiads of the Liberal press. Then if we examine the returns of the note circulation of the banks, which are, perhaps, the very best test of the volume of domestic trade, equally gratifying results are shown, the circulation having in October shown the highest point in the history of the country. These and many other apposite facts are adduced by Mr. Wood to confirm the contention that the people of Canada continue to enjoy a high degree of prosperity, in spite of an occasional check, like the decline in wheat, which is worldwide in operation, and against which no fiscal policy can prevail.

The Controller of Inland Revenue had something to say, also, upon the subject of debt and taxation, in respect of which he trod upon strong ground. Over a period of six years, ending with 1892, the public debt has augmented only $9,000,000, by far the lowest rate of progression in any period since Confederation, and in the same years the expenditure upon capital account has been close upon $26,000,000. The significance of such figures is obvious. It is tantamount to an addition of twenty-six millions to the assets of the country, concurrently with an increment of only nine millions in the liabilities. But that is not the whole story. The cost of carrying the debt, in other words the burden on the tax payer, is actually less to-day than it was six years ago. Then it cost the country $2,062,000 for interest on the public debt, now it costs only $8,677,000, so that the people have actually been relieved, as respects the burden of the debt, since 1887.

With a policy under which such results have been achieved, with so excellent a candidate as Mr. Carscallen, the Conservatives of North Hastings will dash down the edifice of baseless hopes of the Grits, and that by a sweeping majority.

AMUSEMENTS

BY WITS OUTWITTED.

"By Wits Outwitted," the new comedy which will be seen at Queen's Opera House, December 29th for an engagement of one night only, is the story of an old merchant grasping after gain outwitted by his nephew, whom all the time he thought he was instructing in a clever stratagem. The plot hinges on the eagerness of a Spanish father and mother, though wealthy themselves, to marry their daughter to a rich, but gruff and thoroughly repulsive old slave trader. The scene is laid in Spain, there ought to be opportunities for effects that are novel, inasmuch as so few plays on the contempory stage deal with Spanish life. The plan open at Rigg's Music Store, prices 25, 50 and 75c.

Temperance in the Schools.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union at their meeting Dec. 23rd passed the following resolutions:

Resolved, that the Union desires to convey to John Johnston, Esq., Inspector of Public Schools for South Hastings, their deep sense of his many courtesies, his kindness in preparing special examination papers for the schools on Temperance, the prize he has given for two years, and the deep interest he has exhibited in the temperance movement in the Public Schools. Also,

Resolved, that the thanks of the Union are hereby given to the teachers of the Public Schools in the city, who have so successfully taught the principles of temperance to their pupils. Also,

Resolved, that the thanks of the Union are hereby tendered to S.A. Gardner, Esq., Principal of the Central School, for the prizes he has given during the last two years in connection with the subject of Temperance as taught in the public schools and for the warm interest he has taken in promoting temperance in the schools.

New Law Firm.

Consequent on the death of N. G. Bigelow, Esq., Q.C., M.P.P., the eminent law firm of Bigelow and Smyth has been dissolved, and another formed under the title of Mowat, Smyth and Kingston. The personnel of the new firm is Mr. H. N. Mowat (for several years assistant city solicitor of Toronto), Mr. R. G. Smyth, who was Mr. Bigelow's partner and one of the many students who have studied law in some of our city offices and have gone to "the hub" of law in this province, Toronto, and made their mark there, Mr. Smyth having been a few years ago a student in the office of the late Geo. D. Dickson, Q.C. The junior partner, Mr. Geo. A. Kingston, is a gentleman well known and a great favorite in some circles in this city. A son of one of our most esteemed friends, Charles Kingston, Esq., of Rawdon, he studied law with Messrs. Clute and Williams, and now after a couple of years spent in Toronto, enters this partnership. We wish Mr. Kingston and the new firm every success.

THE DEED WAS HORRIBLE

A MAN COMMITS TRIPLE MURDER AND SUICIDE.

A Minister First Gazed On the Horrible Sight—Father and Daughter Lay Dead —The Mother Was Dying—The Grandmother Was Speechless.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 27.—Henry C. Varnum and his little adopted daughter Florence were found dead in their home yesterday. His wife died on the way to the hospital. Her mother is not expected to live.

Rev. E. W. Phillips, in whose church Mrs. Varnum was a singer in the choir, called on the Varnums and found the door open. He entered and found Varnum and his wife lying on a bed and covered with blood. Florence lay dead in a cot. Mrs. Varnum's mother, Mrs. Wright, lay speechless in another room.

An iron door hanger and iron strap showed how the deed had been done, and Varnum was stabbed by his own knife.

The deed was done on Sunday morning. It means murder and suicide by Varnum.

Christmas Holiday.

Good Cheer And a Good Time in the Public Institutions.

A merry, merry Christmas, for the deaf and dumb, and a perfect unalloyed holiday was that enjoyed by the officers and pupils of the Institution for the D. & D. yesterday.

The corridors and dining-room were handsomely festooned with evergreens, picked out with garlands of the same, and bows, vascettes and fancy figures in tissue paper of the the three national colors, red, white and blue. The season's greetings in the neatest of green letters, in frames of pine branches, ropes were arranged to meet the eye at every turn, and served on more than one occasion to economize the finger spelling, as a pupil or an officer would point to them on shaking hands with a comrade or a guest.

After a short service in the chapel at about 10 a.m., the pupils filed into the girls' study-room and took seats at each end and side, surrounding a platform heaped with gifts. There were boxes and bundles and bags, books, sleighs and letters from the loving ones at home. Supt. Mathison took the part of Santa Claus distributing agent and gave a short address of greeting in the midst of which the Hon. Mr. Bowell, Mr. Jamieson, Mr. Chas. Holton and ladies of their families arrived in time to witness the distribution. The three gentlemen were introduced and made some happy speeches, after which the officers and teachers present proceeded to hand over the longed for gifts into the eager hands of the wide eyed children here and there a little mute jogging off a box large enough to hold himself, and its contents (after assimilation).

Then away to dinner and right speedily the long tables were cleared of their loads of good things, not the least of which were the abundant turkeys and immemorial "trimmings."

The afternoon was devoted to the overhauling of boxes and bundles, comparison and trial of the various toys and good things and ice-boating, though the cold prohibited much of that.

The evening was given up to a grand assembly of officers, pupils and a few visitors in the great dining hall, where with games and romps and a revel in fruit, nuts and candy the hours from half-past seven to ten o'clock stole all too swiftly by, and with a joyous "good night and pleasant dreams," the day of days, glad Christmas, was numbered with the past.

Among the guests of the day and evening were, Senator Bowell, Mr. and Mrs. McClellan, Montreal, Mrs. Lightfoot and daughter and Mr. Hutchinson, of Toronto, Mr. Ballagh, Starkville, Miss Anderson, Bethany, Mr. J. J. Jamison, Mr. and Mrs. Holton, Miss Holton, Mrs. Deol and other friends, and relatives of pupils.

TABERNACLE XMAS. TREE.

For some weeks past the Tabernacle Sunday school have been preparing for their annual Christmas night entertainment, and last night some five hundred of an audience enjoyed a delightful programme. Santa Claus had been busy, and three trees were loaded with good things for the scholars. The school is in a flourishing condition, new scholars are being brought in every Sunday, and altogether this church is to be congratulated upon the great interest taken in the work of the school by the officers, teachers and scholars.

AT THE GAOL.

With his usual liberality, Mr. Appleby provided Christmas cheer for the unfortunates and law breakers under his charge. The supply was bountiful and the "guests" enjoyed the treat with great satisfaction.

They Got it at Last.

For many years scientists tried to concentrate the blood, flesh and bone making qualities contained in the oil of the Norwegian cod. They only partially succeeded. But by new chemical processes, rendered feasible by electrical forces, the life giving properties of the oil have all been captured and are safely imprisoned within that famous remedy which is being talked about all over the country, known as "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil." Physicians acknowledge that this is the greatest discovery, or rather the perfection of a discovery, ever given to the world. To say that it cures consumption by making blood, flesh and bone for the patient is quite enough. It is a remedy that positively needs no puffing. Many young people have been saved by its use. In big bottles 50c. and $1.00, at all Drug Stores.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best thing in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; it attacks headache in one minute; lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Why not try it to day? Large bottles 25 cents, sold by druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's nerve cure—Nerviline.

Decreasing The Death Rate.

The mortality among consumptives has been materially decreased of late years by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Phthisis, Bronchitis, Abscess of the Lungs, Pneumonia and Throat Affections are completely subjugated by a timely use of this excellent pulmonic. Palatable as milk. Sold by all Druggists at 50c. and $1.00

The North Riding.

A Rousing Conservative Meeting at Cox Hill—Able Addresses by several Gentlemen.

COX HILL, Dec. 26, 1892.

A rousing meeting was held in the interest of A. W. Carscallen, the Conservative candidate for North Hastings, in the town hall here. Considering the very short notice given it was surprising to note the large number of electors present, the sitting capacity of the hall being fully occupied. Geo. Orr, Esq., J.P., ably discharged the duties of chairman of the meeting.

Short spirited addresses were delivered by H. Corby, M.P., the popular organizer of victory, Major Hulme and John Caskey, Esq., in support of the policy of the Dominion Government, and the candidature of Mr. Carscallen. The enthusiasm of the meeting was unbounded, and at the conclusion of the speeches the following resolution, indicative of the prevailing sentiments, was carried by a standing vote:

Moved by Dr. Harding, seconded by Thos. Nugent: Whereas, we, the Liberal Conservative electors of the Township of Wollaston, here assembled, desire to express our unbounded confidence in the policy of the Dominion Government under the leadership of Sir John Sparrow Thompson, a policy that has since its inauguration some fourteen years ago by our late lamented statesman, Sir John A. Macdonald, unerringly promoted the material advancement of Canada by developing her unrivalled natural resources at home and raising the standard of her credit abroad, besides cultivating a patriotic self-reliance among her sons and strengthening the ties that bind her to the great Empire of which it is her pride and glory to form a part. Be it therefore resolved that in the contest now pending in North Hastings to fill the seat vacated by our late representative, Hon. M. Bowell, we heartily endorse the candidature of Mr. A. W. Carscallen, the nominee of the Liberal Conservative convention recently held at Madoc, and we pledge ourselves to use every lawful means in our power to secure his election on the 30th inst.

The meeting broke up with cheers for the Queen, the speakers and A. W. Carscallen.

The work of organization was then taken in hand, committees were appointed, and all precautions taken to have every available Conservative vote in the subdivision polled on the 30th inst. The sturdy yeomanry of Wollaston may be relied upon to do their duty on election day.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN;

HAVING been requested by a large number of influential electors of the city of Belleville, to offer myself for Mayor for 1893, I have consented to do so, and now respectfully solicit your votes and influence. I have resided in the city for 25 years, three of which I have served in the City Council and School Board. (I would respectfully refer you to my work therein.) I come out as a business man, having had 30 years business experience in different parts of Canada, which is of great service to any one in filling the civic chair. I have always been Belleville as my home, and have invested all my capital in and around the city, and my interests being centered here, I will, if elected, do all in my power, as I done heretofore, to advance the best interests of the city.

I strongly urge the reduction of the number of Aldermen, and shall use every endeavor to carry into effect the proposal made by me to the Council in respect to it last year.

I have also in view the great necessity of getting the city in the best sanitary condition possible to enable us the better to cope with disease or the cholera epidemic should it reach us next year.

Yours,

904t HARRY FOWELL.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of My Native City:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

FOUR years past I have had the offer of support for the Civic Chair, but at the present time I so many of my old friends have brought more pressure to bear than I can cope with, I stand I have been asked to stand for the highest position that the citizens can confer on any one. Among the men who offer me their support are to be found Irishmen, Englishmen, Dutchmen, Frenchmen and now and then a Scotchman, besides a good many Canadians. To the electors I am no stranger. I have been a member of the City Council for the greater part of a quarter of a century and during that time have done what I felt was for the best interest of the city and will endeavor on the same line if successful at the coming election. I am in favor of strict economy in city affairs and fearless of our indebtedness. At the nomination I will freely give my views on the situation, and wish in such respect ask that when you mark your ballot you will not forget

A. T. PETRIE.

Belleville, Dec. 20, 1893.

MAYORALTY

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RESPECTFULLY solicit your votes and influence for Mayor of the City of Belleville for 1893. I was born in Belleville and have lived amongst you I my life, and am personally known to the most of you. I have been an Alderman in the City Council for 3 years, and during that time have endeavored to represent you straightforwardly and faithfully.

My platform is economy in City affairs. If elected I will exert myself to further the best interests of the city.

Yours respectfully,

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE.

To the Municipal Electors of Murney Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

FOR the third time I respectfully ask for your votes and influence to secure my return as one of your representatives.

During the year I have been honored with the chairmanships of two important committees for the whole of the time, and a third—the Executive—for the last half of the year.

You are the judge whether I have attended faithfully to duty and acted conscientiously.

Whatever works for the good of the wood, if possible from the standpoints of economy and pund nos, are the objects of my aim. I renew my pledges of attention to duty and fidelity to our city's welfare, and remain

Yours obediently,

Cold Days.

These are very cold days and those who have to be out without sufficient clothing to keep them warm, must suffer. Do you know that it does not require a large amount of money to be properly dressed? At the Oak Hall you can get a splendid suit or overcoat for $5.

Gratifying to All.

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasing liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup Company.

Mining Notes.

We learn that the Belleville Syndicate, who already own a large tract of silver-lead lands in Barrie, have taken over the Peterborough Company's land. This consists of 465 acres adjoining the Belleville Syndicate's property, and there is a good strong vein on the newly acquired land, 24 inches wide and assaying $87 to the ton.

Cased by His Employees.

On Christmas eve the employees of Mr. C. H. Vermilyea, the genial proprietor of the Oak Hall clothing house, presented him with an address and a handsome gold headed cane. Inscribed upon the head of the stick was the following: "Presented to C. H. Vermilyea by the Oak Hall staff." Although completely taken by surprise the recipient made a felicitous reply. After the presentation refreshments were partaken of.

A Young Bigamist.

Samuel Crozier, who is accused of bigamy, was brought before the P. M. this morning, but was remanded for one week. It appears that although Crozier is but 25 years of age he has been married three times. He was first married to Miss Downey of Carleton Place, who died about one year after marriage. In Sept. 1891, he married Miss Lenna Neill of Carleton Place and on the 4th of July last he married Mattie Solmes at St. Ola. The two last wives are living.

John St. Church.

Special Christmas services were held in this church on Sunday. The Rev'd J. L. George delivered eloquent sermons both morning and evening; the text of the morning discourse was Luke ii. 10. In the evening a praise service was given, which was very much enjoyed by the large congregation. Two Christmas anthems were sung, in which Mrs. Ingram, Miss Coleman, and Mr. Fox took a leading part, and Miss Miller, of Toronto, gave a sacred solo, in a charming contralto voice, undoubtably the best singing ever heard in the church, which is noted for good music. The whole service was a great success, and a very fitting one to close the year with.

Death of a Popular Manager.

After a lingering illness Mr. Thos. Halls, manager of the Gas Company, died on Saturday night. The deceased was born at Lambeth, near London, Ont., about 38 years ago. He remained home until about 7 years ago, when he went to Toronto, where he remained for some time. In May, 1891, when Mr. W. H. Pearson took control of the gas works here, Mr. Halls came to Belleville to assume the management. Although a stranger, by his courteous and kindly manner he made many friends, being esteemed by all with whom he came in contact. Some months ago he was seized with a fatal illness. He left a wife and one child. The remains were yesterday morning taken to Lambeth for interment.

A TRIANGULAR CONTEST.

Three Candidates in the Field for the Mayoralty.

Ald. Fowell, Ald. Wallbridge and Ex-Ald. Petrie Nominated—A Contest in Each Ward for Aldermanic Honors.

Nominations for the office of Mayor and Aldermen for the coming year were held yesterday. It being a holiday, there was a large attendance. That for Mayor took place in the City Hall between the hours of 10 and 12 o'clock. The City Clerk, Mr. D. B. Robertson was returning officer. At that hour the hall contained a great number of the electors. The following nominations were made:

Ex-Ald. P. J. M. Anderson moved, seconded by Mr. W. H. Lingham, that FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE be Mayor for 1893.

Moved by Mr. John Thompson, seconded by Mr. Hugh Walker, that ALLAN T. PETRIE be Mayor for 1893.

Moved by W. Connors, seconded by Harry Gordineer, that DANIEL COLLINS be Mayor for 1893.

Moved by Simon Sheehan, seconded by Edward Deacon that THOMAS LUSCOMBE be Mayor for 1893.

Moved by Wm. Clarke, seconded by W. Tennant that JAMES BROWN be Mayor for 1893.

Moved by James Wallace, seconded by Jas. St. Charles, that HARRY FOWELL be Mayor for 1893.

Moved by Geo. Dulmage, seconded by Isaac Frost that NELSON LINGHAM be Mayor for 1893.

Moved by W. H. Carter, seconded by Jas. McGuire, that E. G. PORTER be Mayor for 1893.

Moved by Daniel Collins, seconded by John McKeown, that CURTIS BOGART be Mayor for 1893.

At the hour of 11 o'clock nominations were closed.

Ald. Wallbridge was the first speaker and was well received. He appeared before the electors as a candidate for mayor. Ald. Fowell, one of his opponents, was comparatively a stranger in the city, having lived here but 5 or 6 years, and besides he did not own any property here. Ald. Fowell's business, he contended, was a detriment to the mechanics of the city, as all the articles he sold were manufactured elsewhere. Had Ald. Petrie been in the field as an earlier date he (the speaker) would in all probability not have been a candidate. He would, however, remain in the field. There were important matters which would engage the attention of the Council the coming year. The question of sewerage would, no doubt, be brought up. It was of great interest to the citizens. It would cost in the neighborhood of $143,000. He did not think the city was in a financial condition to construct a system of sewerage. Upon certain streets we did need sewerage. Those who derive the benefit should be asked to pay for the same by frontage tax. It should be done. The street railway matter was another of interest. He did what was in his power to further this railway. We should have this and he would endeavor to obtain it if elected Mayor. He had served four years in the Council and had tried—to the best of his ability—to promote the city's interest. We should curtail expenses as much as possible. We should do everything to reduce our taxes. He was born in Belleville and lived here all his life.

Ald. Luscombe stated that he was not a candidate for the Mayoralty.

Mr. Hugh Walker spoke in support of ex-Ald. A. T. Petrie, who, he said, was one of the oldest residents of the city. For 25 years Mr. Petrie was a member of the City Council, and his record was blameless.

Ex Ald. Petrie said that for years past he had been offered the nomination for Mayor, but he had declined. For a period of over 20 years he had been in the Council. He was born upon Meyers' Creek, and had always resided here. He had endeavored to do his duty. He had not forced himself upon the electorate, but came at the call of his friends. He had endeavored to keep down expenses—also to lower the taxes, which he considered were too high. Had Mr. Wallbridge been an old resident of the city and an old Councillor, he (the speaker) would not be in the field. Ald. Fowell was a stranger here comparatively, and the goods he sold were manufactured outside of the city. Under these circumstances he (the speaker) contended that he was most fairly entitled to the position of Mayor for 1893. In conclusion, he appealed to the electors to support him.

Ex Ald. Collins was called upon, and stated that he was not a candidate for the Mayoralty. He retired in favor of Allan T. Petrie. Ex-Ald. Petrie was a man who had done what he could for the interest of the city, and was also an honorable man.

Lt. Col. Brown was called upon, but declined the nomination. He retired in favor of ex-Ald. Petrie.

Mr. St. Charles spoke in favor of Ald. Fowell. Had Mr. Petrie, however, been in the field earlier, he, the speaker, would have been one of his supporters. Mr. Fowell was a business man and should be supported.

ALD. FOWELL was next called upon. His only sin, apparently, was that he was a stranger here. He came to them as a business man, having had considerable experience upon business lines. He had been one year in the School Board and two years in the City Council. The two candidates against him had stated that he, the speaker, was a stranger here. What capital he had, he had invested in the city, and it was his intention to remain here. He paid taxes to the city, amounting to $150 per year. He had asked a manufacturer of this city to manufacture buggies and sleighs for his business. He was prepared to-day to give a contract for $10,000 worth of goods to be manufactured in the city. He was paying out from $2,000 to $3,000 yearly in wages. This money was scattered about the country but the great majority of it was expended in this city. Whilst a member of the Council he had done what he could for the city's interest. He had been the means of having a lock kept of the lighting of the gas and electric lights and as a result $30 was saved in a short time because the lamps were not properly lighted. A health inspector of the city was paid $300 a year. During the past year the Inspector died and instead of another being appointed the chief and police officers did the work, which was a saving. This was accomplished through his efforts. Whilst chairman of the Fire Committee the past year he had made improvements which were of much value, notably the purchasing of a hose waggon and superior hose. He was in favor of a reduction of the number of Aldermen from 21 to 14 and elected by the whole city vote. He was also in favor of a street railway being constructed. If elected Mayor he would do all he could to promote the city's welfare.

Ald. Lingham stated that he was not a candidate for the Mayor's chair.

Mayor Bogart was called upon, and returned his thanks for being nominated. He was not a candidate this year for re-election. He had been in the Council six years as an Alderman, and one year as Mayor; during that period he had filled many important positions, having been chairman of various committees, including the Executive. He thanked the electors for placing him in the Mayor's chair last year by acclamation.

The proceedings were brought to a close by cheers for the Queen and the candidates.

Aldermanic Nominations.

As will be seen below, there will be a contest for Aldermanic honors in each Ward. This, with three candidates in the field for Mayor, will make the contest an interesting one. The nominations were as follows:

Through the Ice.

A Team, of Horses drowned. A Narrow Escape from a Watery Grave.

On Saturday evening Mr. James Collins, Mr. Alexander Leslie and wife had a narrow escape from drowning. The parties came to the city on Saturday from near Northport, with a team and a sleigh. They came across the ice on the bay, but returning home the same way the ice gave way letting the horses, sleigh and contents into the water. Both horses, which were valued at $125 each, were drowned, besides the loss of a cutter, sleigh and several other things to the amount of $125. All three parties had a narrow escape for their lives, and had it not been for the cutter, which was fastened between the sleigh, Mrs. Leslie would have been drowned.

The Mayor, Ex-Mayors and Aldermen.

His Worship the Mayor, C. Bogart Esq., Ex Mayors the Hon. B. Flint, G. S. Tickell, J. J. B. Flint, Nelson Lingham, W. J. Diamond, Esqrs., and Aldermen H. Fowell, W. Hopkins, D. Foster and F. M. Clarke, all of whom are members of Bridge Street congregation, were invited to Bridge Street Sunday School last Sunday—the Mayor, the Hon. B. Flint, Messrs. J. J. B. Flint, and W. J. Diamond, briefly addressed the school, presenting the season's greetings, and congratulating it on the continued prosperity. It was with special pleasure the school again welcomed and listened to the Hon. Senator Flint, who although now 88 years old, retains his strength as well as to be distinctly heard in all parts of the large school room. This school is now seventy years old, and two gentlemen have been its Superintendents for nearly sixty years, the Hon. Mr. Flint for 40, and Mr. Wm. Johnson for 20 years.

IRREGULARITY.

Is that what troubles you? Then it's easily and promptly remedied by Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They regulate the system perfectly. Take one for a gentle laxative or corrective; three for a cathartic.

If you suffer from Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Sick or Bilious Headaches, or any derangement of the liver, stomach, or bowels, try these little Pellets. They bring a permanent cure. Instead of shocking and weakening the system with violence, like the ordinary pills, they act in a perfectly easy and natural way. They're the smallest, the easiest to take—and the cheapest, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get.

Until New Year's Day

We will continue to sell Perfume Cases, Toilet and Cut Glass Bottles, Portmonies, Wallets and other Holiday Goods, at Invoice Cost, in order to reduce our stock, before our annual balance. These goods were purchased with cash in the lowest markets, and will be found very much below the usual prices

To the Electors of Ketcheson Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RESPECTFULLY ask your votes and influence as a Candidate for Alderman for 1893. I am in favor of the reduction of Aldermen to at least fourteen to be elected by the whole city—the present wards to remain intact. I will support all measures which as a citizen I think to be in the best interest of the present position and future progress of this City, believing neither in undue municipal extravagance nor in false economy.

Blotches Cured.

DEAR SIRS,—In 1890 my body was covered with blotches and I was at last induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters; by the time I had used 3½ bottles of it I was completely cured, and I cannot speak too highly of it.

MRS. JAMES DESMOND, Halifax, N. S.

Made With Skill.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skillful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

Out of Sorts—Symptoms. Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a true saying that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

The speed of a wild duck is ninety miles an hour.

Do not delay in getting relief for the little folks. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is a pleasant cure sure. If you love your child why then do you let it suffer when a remedy is so near at hand.

An adder's bite—The bank clerk's lunch.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world.

BROOKE'S DAUGHTER.

BY

ADELINE SERGEANT,

Author of "A True Friend," etc., etc.
(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

"Oh, you're not sure about the house," said Miss Brooke. "Well, I'm sorry for you, Sarah. I'll send in a plumber if you think that would be any good."

"No, ma'am, don't; but if it will not be inconvenience you I should like to put a few tracts in Miss Lesley's room, so that she can look at them sometimes instead of the little book of Popish prayers that she has brought with her."

Miss Brooke wondered for a moment what the book of Popish prayers could be; and then remembered a little Russia bound book—the well-known imitation of Christ which she had noticed in Lesley's room and which Sarah had doubtless taken for a book of prayer. It would not have been at all like Miss Brooke to have cleared up the mistake. She generally let mistakes clear themselves. She only gave one of her short, clear, rather hard laughs, and told Sarah that she could put as many tracts as she pleased in Lesley's room. Lesley shortly afterwards found a bundle of these publications in her room, and, as she rather disliked their tone and tendency, she requested Sarah to take them away.

"They were put there for you to read," said Sarah with stolid displeasure.

"By my aunt!"

"Your aunt knew that I was going to put them there. And it would be better for you to sit and read them rather than keep scribbling books you get out of master's library. Your poor perishing soul ought to be looked after as well as your body."

"Take them away, please," said Lesley, wearily. "I do not want to read them; I am not accustomed to that sort of book." Then, the innate sweetness of her nature gaining the day, she added, "Please don't be angry with me, Sarah. I would read them if I thought they would do me any good, but I am afraid they will not."

"Just like your mother," said Sarah, sharply. "She wouldn't touch 'em with the tips of her fingers, neither. And a maid, and all that nonsense. And dressed from France. Deary me, this is a sad upsetting for poor master."

"I don't interfere with your master," said Lesley somewhat bitterly. "He does not trouble about me—and I don't see why I should trouble about him."

She spoke almost below her breath, not thinking that Sarah would hear or understand; but Sarah after blundering out of the room—with an indignant "Well, I'm sure!"—went straight to Miss Brooke and repeated every word, with a few embellishments of her own. Miss Brooke came to the conclusion that Lesley was very indiscreet to take servants so much into her confidence, and that she was inclined to rebel against her father's authority. But it seemed good to her to take counsel with Mrs. Romaine in this emergency; and Mrs. Romaine soon found an opportunity of pouring a sugared, poisoned version into Caspar Brooke's too credulous ears. So that he became colder than ever in his manner to Lesley, and Lesley wondered vainly how she could have offended him.

The sole comfort that she gleaned at this time came from the Kenyons. Ethel called on her, and won her heart at once by a peculiarly caressing winsomeness that reminded her of some tropical bird—all dainty coquetries and shy, sweet playfulness. Not that Ethel was in the least bit shy, in reality; but she had a very tiny touch of the stage habit of posing, and with strangers was probably prided as being a little shy. But in spite of this little affectation, and in spite of a very fashionable style of dress and deameanor, Ethel was true-hearted and affectionate, and Lesley's own heart warmed to the tenderness of Ethel's nature before she had been in her company half an hour.

"You know that you are not a bit like what I expected you to be," Ethel, she said sagely, when the two had talked together for some little time.

"What did you expect?" said Lesley, her face aglow.

"I hardly know—something more French, I think—a girl with airs and graces," said Ethel, who had herself more airs and graces than Lesley had ever dreamed of all her life; "nothing so Puritan as you are!"

"Puritan, after so many years in a French convent!"

"Yes, Puritan; no word suits you half so well! There is a sort of restrained life and gladness about you and it is the restraint that gives its attraction! Oh, forgive me! I'm speaking too frankly; but when I see you I forget that I have not known you for years! I feel somehow as if we had been friends all our life!"

"So do I," said Lesley, surrendering herself to the spell, and letting Ethel take both her hands and look into her face. "But you are not like the English girls I expected to meet! I thought they were all cold and stiff!"

"Have you ever seen an English girl before, dear?"

"Yes, but I have had no English girl friend. I never talked to an English girl before, as I am talking to you."

"Oh, how charming!" said Ethel. "And I never before talked to a girl who had lived in a convent! We are each a new experience to the other! What a basis for friendship!"

"Do you think so?" said Lesley. "I should have thought the opposite—that what is old and well-tried and established is the best to found a friendship upon."

She spoke half sadly, with a memory of her parents and her own relations with her father in her mind. Ethel gave her a shrewd glance, but made no direct reply. She was a young woman of marvellously quick intuitions, and she saw at once that Lesley's training had not fitted her to take up her position in the Brooke's household sympathetically.

When she went home she turned this matter over in her mind a good many times; and was so absorbed in her reflections that her brother had to ask her twice what she was thinking of before she answered him.

"I was thinking of Lesley Brooke," she answered promptly.

"A lively subject. I never saw a girl with a more melancholy expression."

"Well, of course, as yet she hates everything," said Ethel, somewhat evasively.

"Hates everything! That's a large order," said the young doctor.

They were at dinner—they dined at six every day on account of Ethel's professional engagements; and it was not often that Maurice was at home. When he was at home Ethel knew that he liked to talk to her, so she abandoned her own studies.

"Well, she hates the fog and darkness, and the ugly buildings and the solid furniture of Mr. Brooke's house, which dates back to the Georgian era at the very least. I'm sure that she hates Sarah. And I shouldn't like to say that she hates Doctor Sophy—Ethel always called Miss Brooke Dr. Sophy—but she doesn't like her very much. She is awfully shocked because Doctor Sophy smokes cigarettes."

"Quite right of Miss Lesley Brooke to be shocked," said Maurice, but then laughing. "However, she need not despair; there is always old Caspar to fall back upon."

"Ethel pursed up her lips, looked at her brother very hard, and shook her curly head significantly.

"Do you mean to say," cried the doctor "that she don't appreciate her father!"

"I don't think she understands him. And how can she appreciate him if she doesn't understand!"

Maurice laid down his knife and fork, and simply glared at his sister. He was an excitable young man, and had a way of expressing himself sometimes in reprehensibly strong language. On this occasion, he said—

"Do you mean to tell me that the girl is such a born idiot and fool that she can't see what a grand man her father is!"

Ethel nodded. But her eyes brimmed over with mirth.

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

Four Doses Cure a Cough.

GENTLEMEN,—My little boy was troubled with a very bad cough, and a lady friend advised me to try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. I got it at once and can truly say I did not give more than three or four doses until his cough was gone. I have never been without it since, as I find it the best for troublesome coughs.

NICKEL NAVAL ARMOR.

CANADIAN MINES FURNISH THE GREATEST SUPPLY.

Trade With the United States Has Awakened British Experts to Make an Investigation—An Interesting Account of the Mines.

SUDBURY, Ont., Dec. 28.—This is the place where the United States Navy Department obtains its nickel for the manufacture of nickel-steel armor plates. The town is merely a clearing in the woods, but it stands on the Canadian Pacific main line, is the junction from which a branch runs to the Sault, connecting with the Minneapolis and Pacific lines, and is the centre of the richest mining district in Canada.

Copper was discovered here during the construction of the Canadian Pacific. A number of Cleveland and Akron capitalists became interested, and on sending samples of the ore for analysis to the Orford Company of New York it was found that nickel was mixed in large quantities. This "find" was confirmed by the analysis of the Vivian Refining Works at Swansea, in Wales, and before long large tracts and Commodore Folger were put in possession of specimens of nickel steel. Up to this the world's supply of nickel, used principally in making nickel silver spoons, forks, coins and plated ware, had come from the Lancaster Gap mine in Pennsylvania, owned by Joseph Wharton, and from the mines in the French penal colony of New Caledonia. The New Caledonia nickel is found in beds of serpentine, but the veins are shallow, and in miner's parlance not persistent. The ore is mined by primitive methods, convict labor being employed as well as native and Chinese labor, and carried many miles to the blast furnaces, where it is fed with Australian coke and coal. The cost of transportation alone is a heavy item and the fuel is dear. The ore is smelted in order to produce a matte. Nickel matte bears the same relation to refined nickel that pig-iron bears to refined iron and steel. In 1882 the average price of nickel in the United States was about $1 a pound. The American production was under 300,000 pounds. The price in England was somewhat less, the English supply coming from New Caledonia, the mines of which were opened in 1876. The development of the Sudbury deposits has reduced the price to 50 cents, and when appliances for treating the matte have been established on a large scale, refined nickel can probably be bought for 25 cents or less.

Specimens of wrought and forged nickel were exhibited by Mr. Wharton at the Philadelphia Exhibition in 1876. The metal was discovered in 1751, but had seldom been seen in its pure state until Mr. Wharton took hold of it. The use of nickel as an alloy of steel gave it great economical importance. The compound is tougher and much more ductile and elastic than steel itself, and does not rust under water. Engineers have used nickel largely in the manufacture of gun barrels, but the real credit of "bringing out" nickel steel belongs to the Bethlehem Works at Washington. The experiments with armor plates instituted by Mr. Tracy soon attracted attention in England. At first the English ordnance people were disposed to ridicule pooh the extraordinary results obtained at the Indian Head proving grounds, but the British Admiralty virtually admitted that Mr. Tracy had taught it something—a confession not often made by that body. In a presentation speech by Lord George Hamilton for the guidance of Parliament in voting the appropriations for the Navy it was stated that the armor plates of nickel-steel "combined resistance to perforation with freedom from serious cracking," and that extensive orders had been given for nickel armor as the best protection of new battleships. Lord George added that, while nickel steel was superior to ordinary steel when used in thicknesses of three or four inches, "the experiments with greater thicknesses do not at present place it in so good a relative position," but it is understood that his successor has found a 10½ inch plate, such as that used by Mr. Tracy, superior to a 12-inch plate of ordinary armor steel. Admiralty agents have recently visited Sudbury to consult with the Vivian people, who have a mine and smelting works.

The McKinley tariff admits nickel ore and matte free, repealing the old duty of 15 cents per pound. Nearly the whole product of the Sudbury mines has thus far gone to the United States for armor plate purposes. Seven mines have been opened, and others worked to a limited extent. Nickel-bearing ore has also been found near Ottawa. The experts say that the supply in the Sudbury country is practically inexhaustible; they speak of six or seven hundred million tons being in sight, and predict that in a few years 20,000 tons of nickel will be produced annually. Much depends on the Dominion Government.

The ore is both roasted and smelted. In building a roasting heap a layer of fine ore is placed on a bed of clay and gravel, and covered with 18 inches of dry pine. Another layer of ore is put on, and then more pine. There are openings for draughts at the sides and ends, and sticks set upright throughout the heap serve as flues. Each heap is kept burning for a month, sometimes for two, these containing the largest proportion of sulphur and iron requiring the longest and fiercest combustion. The furnaces are of the Herreshoff patent. They are round pots of steel, with a water space of two inches between the outer and inner plates, and cast iron bottoms protected by fire-brick. They are slightly oval in form, with a diameter ranging from three feet or so to six feet and a half, and are nine feet in height. A cast iron hood with a water-jacketed settling pot that rests on wheels. A charge consists of 2000 pounds of ore and coke—the latter equal to one of coke. The matte bubbles out, causing a series of sharp reports, and is cooled in the pots and shipped for refining works. From five to eight tons of ore go to the making of a ton of matte. The matte contains from 20 to 40 per cent. of nickel, the other components being copper, iron, sulphur, cobalt and slag. Experiments have been made with new furnaces in the hope of increasing the richness of the matte, so as to save expense in transportation. The contract between the United States Government and the Carnegie and Bethlehem works, where the armor plates are made, calls for 3½ per cent. of nickel in the steel. Thus an ingot of 60 tons of nickel steel, sufficient to make two plates of the regulation size, contains about two tons of nickel. The plates are forged under steam hammers, bent to shape with hydraulic presses, and cut with saws and planes to fit the place designed for them on the warship. There are no refining works in Canada.

All the untaken mineral lands in this region belong to the Crown, and the Crown means the Government of the Province of Ontario. Until lately the land, including everything on the surface and everything below, was sold out-and-out at $2 per acre, without any conditions as to working being imposed on the purchaser. This led to the wholesale grabbing of land by speculators. In 1890 an act was passed attaching working conditions to all conveyances from the Crown from that date and exacting a royalty of 3 per cent. on nickel. The royalty does not take effect until seven years after the issue of the patent. Leases can be had at a low figure, and a good deal of land is being taken up by lease. Prospectors have found gold, silver and platinum, but nickel and copper are and will continue to be the chief sources of mineral wealth. The average assay value of the ore is about 3 per cent. of nickel, but a certain amount is lost in smelting. Labor is cheap and there is an abundance of water and of wood for roasting. Connellsville coke is used in the furnaces. It is brought in by the Canadian Pacific and the cost is heavy. There is no coal in any part of Ontario.

The nickel ore—nickeliferous pyrrhotite is the technical name—is found in the midst of rocks of different characters belonging to different horizons, but greenstone seems to be the parent rock. The first tract is 70 miles from southwest to northeast by 50 from southeast to northwest. All through nickel and copper are found together, and it is supposed that the deposits are equal in point of depth to their horizontal extension. But this is only guess-work. There appears to be no reason why nickel steel should not be used in the making of cannon, small arms, cutlery, boilers and other articles in which strength, malleability, capacity to take a polish and freedom from rusting are valuable properties. For the present, however, armor plates occupy the field.

A BAD TUMBLE.

An Amateur Fireman Put His Trust in an Icy Roof.

PORT HOPE, Dec. 28.—As the congregations were going churchward on Sunday night, an alarm of fire was sounded, and Street Surveyor William Ray's house in King-street was found to be on fire.

Prompt application of water by the old reliable hand bucket line was effectual in preventing any great damage. The fire started through a defective chimney flue.

As the last bucket was thrown on the person who was holding the bottom of the ladder, considering that his usefulness was gone, left his post.

The natural consequence was that Capt. Henning was "rolled off" from the icy roof as soon as the stability of the ladder was questioned.

Capt Henning had a severe fall, a distance of nearly 14 feet, upon the frozen earth. He was insensible, but soon rallied. No bones were broken, but he got severely bruised and will be off to remain under the doctor's care for a few days.

OIL CAN AND CAP.

Marked the Spot Where a Boy Went Through the Ice.

RENFREW, Ont., Dec. 28.—On Monday Eugene McCarthy, Griffith, left his son, a lad of 14, at the store of George Smith, Renfrew, and went to look at the skate till he returned. But he was a much longer time than expected; and the boy started to walk home up the river, carrying a coal oil can and some other small articles.

When the father arrived home, the boy was not there; but no alarm was felt, as it was supposed he had stopped at his uncle Comingsford's, whose house was nearer the river. Next day Mr. McCarthy started early for Renfrew.

As the boy did not turn up, the mother grew anxious and sent a neighbor in search. He found the boy's cap and the oil can beside a hole in the ice; and it is supposed that the little fellow had broken through the ice and been drowned.

After South American Trade.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The new steamship Coya, which is now on its way to this port from Swansea, Wales, is the first of a fleet of six vessels which will soon begin to make regular trips between New York and the coast of South America by way of the Straits of Magellan. This line is solely for freight. Steamers will take the place of the sailing craft in the service by way of Cape Horn between New York and Chili and Peru.

Two Tanneries Burned.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 28.—The William Brecken Leather Co.'s tannery and that of Conrad Bros., located at the foot of Sherman-street, were burned yesterday.

One fireman was killed, another is missing and two men are lying badly injured at the hospital.

The plant of the Brecken company was valued at $500,000 and that of Conrad Bros. at $400,000. Both were partly insured. It is supposed the fire was incendiary.

Three Matadors Gored.

QUERETARI, Mex., Dec. 28.—The holiday fetes in this city are in progress. At the bull fight yesterday afternoon several serious accidents occurred. Three matadors were terribly gored by the enraged bulls and several fine horses were killed during the performance. The sport was pronounced a great success by the large audience. Many thousands of dollars were wagered on the fights.

Must Not Return to the U.S.

BUFFALO, Dec. 28.—William Ward, who was jailed for a year for bringing two women here from London for immoral purposes, has been discharged and ordered to remain out of the country forever. Ward is an Englishman and was a resident of Toronto.

Fight With Bandits.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 28.—A fierce fight between soldiers and bandits has occurred near Tulquistelgo, in the State of Mexico. After an all-day struggle six of the bandits were killed and the two others, who had been wounded, were captured.

An Idaho Snow Slide.

BOISE, Idaho, Dec. 28.—A Hailey special says a snow slide struck the Bullion engine-house of the Narrow Gauge Mine at Deer Creek and wrecked a concentrator mill at Wardville. Henry Glass, who was in the engine-house, was instantly killed.

Peary's Expedition.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 28.—Lieut. Peary, the Arctic explorer, has engaged a ship at St. John's, N.F., to take him on another expedition in search of the North Pole.

Rebel Successes.

BUENOS AYRES, Dec. 27.—The rebels in Rio Janeiro, the Capital of the Argentine Republic, have defeated the provincial troops a number of skirmishes and have seized the towns of Mercedes and Caseros and the railway lines from that district.

Blaine's Condition.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—At 9.30 o'clock last evening, Mr. Blaine was reported as resting easy and that his family anticipated no fear of an uncomfortable night. Some time afterward his family retired.

Left But One.

SNOW HILL, Ala., Dec. 28.—Fire broke out here last night and destroyed every business house in the town except one. The total loss is $25,000; insurance about one-half.

"I Cured Mother."
A Man Made Happy.
GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was caused, unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have terrible dreams, and my life became very miserable as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can eat anything, my case was a bad one, and I think that I am safe in saying may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of B.B.B. Being strong and well I am adapted for the care of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything, and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I wish you success with your med cine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.
Signed, MELVILLE B MABEE,
Abercrn, P. Q. General Merchant.

The profession of God being infinite, to become God is to mean infinite growth.—Davis.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicinal herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the throat, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives easy rest to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, and the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are afflicted with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The pleasant and agreeable way children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such ease that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Pudding with a hair in it is sweetness wasted on a desert hair.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion is occasioned by want of action in the biliary ducts, loss of vitality in the stomach to secrete the gastric juices, without which digestion cannot go on; also, being the principal cause of Headache. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills taken before going to bed, for a while, never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr. W. W. Ashtown, Ashtown, Ont., writes:—"Parmelee's Pills are taking the lead against ten other makes which I have in stock."

In nearly all the markets of German cities fish are sold alive.

The same wind that brings a cloud will bear it away again.

VERY DARING ROBBERY.
ON A LEADING STREET IN TORONTO AND IN DAYLIGHT.
Extraordinary Story Told By a Queen Street Jeweler—His Store Entered By Three Men Armed With Revolvers, Who Gag and Tie the Jewelers.
TORONTO, Dec. 28.—One of the most remarkable cases ever reported to the police authorities came to light yesterday. A. H. Dewhurst & Bro., manufacturing jewelers on 41 King-street east, own a retail shop at 184 Queen-street east, which is under the management of A. Frank Davis. William Mitchell, a lad, assisted him in the store. They both reside in the West End and have come down to business together, reaching the store at 8.10 a.m. yesterday. What followed is told by them as follows: They proceeded to make ready for the business of the day, and while this engaged three gentlemen entering. As they entered Davis was behind the counter taking out the more valuable portion of the stock out of the safe and placing it in the showcase. The boy was in the window cleaning it. Each of the three men produced a revolver, and covering Davis and the boy, ordered them into a room at the back of the shop. The two shop assistants were then securely bound with ropes and gagged with handkerchiefs, which the robbers stuffed into their mouths and tied in place with strong cords. One of the men then stood guard with his revolver over the captives while the other two went through the safe. They found about $200 in cash and a few small sums in packages belonging to the St. Clarens-avenue Methodist Church, of which Mr. Davis is treasurer, and $1.80, the property of the Sunday school of that church. Having secured the money they filled their pockets with all the jewelry they could lay their hands on. The small satchel in which they carried his lunch was taken possession of by the robbers, who transferred their plunder to it. The two men who had made the collection took the well-filled satchel and went out by the back way, leaving their confederate behind to prevent his prisoners freeing themselves and giving the alarm. He continued to keep guard for about three hours before after the departure of the two. Then he managed to release the bonds from door and left the man and the boy struggling to free themselves from their bonds. Finally by a prodigious effort young Mitchell succeeded in getting his hands free, and after that it did not take long to loosen the ropes which held him fast. He rushed to the front door, opened it and then returned with a knife, with which in a couple of seconds he slashed asunder the ropes that held Davis. The manager ran into the street, gave the alarm and then proceeded to police headquarters.

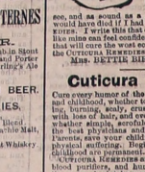

SEVERE REVENGE.
A Railroad Man Killed While Seated Beside His Bride.
BRINKLEY, Ark., Dec. 28.—Yesterday afternoon George E. Moody entered a passenger coach of a Valley Route train where James Koorus, another railroad man, was sitting beside his bride of two weeks. Raising a double barreled shotgun, Moody said: "You won't take back what you have said, will you?" and emptied both barrels into Koorus' face and body, killing him instantly.

Moody then boarded an engine and attempted to run it off. As there was not enough steam up, and he was captured.

Prefer.ed to Die Intestate.
HORNELLSVILLE, N.Y., Dec. 28.—When the supposed will of Joseph Church of Alleghany, who died a few days ago leaving an estate of $250,000, was opened by the following in his own handwriting was found: "I have destroyed my will. If a man like A. W. Miner cannot make a will that will stand law, I don't propose to try it and have my heirs quarreling over its provisions."

The will of A. W. Miner, one of the wealthiest and most careful business men of western New York, was the subject of a week's contest recently in the Alleghany County Court Church left a wife but no children.

BABY ONE SOLID SORE
Tried Everything without Relief. No Rest Night or Day. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

My baby, when two months old, had a breaking out with what the doctor called eczema. Her head, arms, feet, and hands were each one solid sore. I tried everything, but neither I nor the doctor any-thing else did her any good. She was a perfect fright day or night. Then I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES, but I confess I had no faith in them, for I had never seen any child cured. To my great surprise, in one week's time after beginning to use the CUTICURA REMEDIES, the sores were well, and she continued to use the Remedies for a little while, and now she is as fat a baby as you would like to see, and as sound as a dollar. I believe my baby would have died if I had not used CUTICURA REMEDIES. I write this that every mother with a baby afflicted with sores may know that there is a cure, and that medicine is the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY DEC. 28

THE DUTY OF THE HOUR.

It is the duty of every supporter of the Government who is a voter in North Hastings to go to the polls on Friday, the 30th inst., and mark his ballot in favor of Mr. A. W. Carscallen, the nominee of the Conservative convention.

Mr. Carscallen has proved his ability as a business man, as a municipal representative, and as one of the leaders of his party in the constituency. He is entitled to support on those grounds; and as the upholder of British connection and Canadian interests, in opposition to a policy which Sir John A. Macdonald denounced with his latest breath as "veiled treason" and which the Hon. Edward Blake no less forcibly condemned and still condemns, he ought to have the support of every loyal man, irrespective of party.

The open annexationists, who are really less dangerous than the advocates of political union by way of unrestricted reciprocity, have started a newspaper organ in Toronto, and are falsely boasting through the Yankee newspapers, that Canada is all but ready to throw off her allegiance to Britain and enter the Union. The time is therefore opportune for stamping this falsehood as it deserves by burying Mr. Peter Vankleek, the unrestricted reciprocity candidate, under an overwhelming majority.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for Constipation and Headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family medicine. It is said to be the Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and it made for use by pouring boiling water into the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy with ladies for clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c and $1.

Order of the World.

Mr. Harper, who is one of the supreme officers of this society, is in the city, registered at the Queen's hotel. He will this (Wednesday) evening at 8 p.m. address the members of the order, and others who wish to attend in the A.O.F. hall, opposite the Caldwell block. He will give full information as to the working of the order, the security afforded, etc. Mr. H. is thoroughly posted, and will answer any questions asked him. The lodge in this city is one of the largest here, although only organized last March.

Congratulations.

Mr. Wm. Johnson was to-day, for the twenth year in succession, returned to the Board of Education for Ketchcson Ward. Mr. Johnson has never, although a very active member of the Board, had opposition. The past is eloquent of Mr. Johnson's usefulness in the cause of education and of the public's appreciation of his services. We congratulate our esteemed friend on the auspicuous occasion.

Separate School Election.

Nomination for Separate School Trustees was held to-day at noon in the school house on John street. Monsigner Farrelly presided. The following were elected by acclamation: John Hendrick, Murnay Ward; P. Gillick, Coleman Ward; P. Meagher, Samson Ward; B. Trualsch, Foster Ward; F. Dolan, Ketcheson Ward; D. Deacon, Bleecker Ward; F. Flynn, Baldwin Ward.

The North Riding.

The campaign in the north riding is progressing favorably for the Conservative candidate, Mr. A. W. Carscallen. Two large meetings were held yesterday, one in the township of Rawdon and another at the village of Stirling. These were addressed by Senator Bowell, Mr. Larke and H. Corby M.P. Much enthusiasm is manifested throughout the riding, the party are united and prepared to give a good account of themselves on Friday next.

The Best Blood Purifier.

They Got it at Last.

For many years scientists tried to concentrate the blood, flesh and bone making qualities contained in the oil of the Norwegian cod. They only partially succeeded. But by new chemical processes, rendered feasible by electrical forces, the life giving properties of the oil have all been captured and are safely imprisoned within that famous remedy which is being talked about all over the country, known as "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil." Physicians acknowledge that this is the greatest discovery, or rather the perfection of a discovery, ever given to the world. To say that it cures consumption by making blood, flesh and bone for the patient is quite enough. It is a remedy that positively needs no puffing. Many young people have been saved by its use. In big bottles 50c. and $1.00, at all Drug Stores.

Decreasing The Death Rate.

The mortality among consumptives has been materially decreased of late years by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Phthisis, Bronchitis, Abscess of the Lungs, Pneumonia and Throat Affections are completely subjugated by a timely use of this excellent pulmonic. Palatable as milk. Sold by all Druggists at 50c. and $1.00

BROKE A SHAFT AT SEA

THE STEAMER NOORDLAND HAS A NARROW ESCAPE.

Terrible Storm Raging—Bitter Cold Weather—People Tossed About Like Nine-pins—All the Crew Manned the Pumps—A Steamer Sighted—Towed Into Port.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—The Nordland's shaft is broken. The Ohio took her to Queenstown.

The voyage of the Nordland was tempestuous almost from the hour of leaving Sandy Hook. The wind blew almost a hurricane, and the ship had much difficulty in making headway through the waves.

Some of the passengers were so apprehensive of danger that they could not be induced to retire at night and sat about the saloon dozing at intervals and ready with their clothes on to take to the boats in the event of an accident, although boats could have lived only by a miracle in the terrible seas.

The Nordland labored along successfully until Thursday evening. It was a bitter cold night and the passengers were congratulating themselves on gradually nearing the end of their stormy voyage. At 9.20 p.m. a tremendous crash was heard and the vessel quivered from end to end.

The passengers who were sitting up were tossed about like nine-pins, several of them being thrown to the floor. Three terrific blows resounded, one after the other, as if the vessel was being struck by a gigantic hammer, which indeed was the fact. The fright of some of the people was pitiful to behold.

They rushed hither and thither and delayed the officers in their efforts to get at the cause and extent of the disaster. Capt. Nickels knew well enough what the sound meant, and with a reassuring word to the passengers he hastened to investigate personally. The engines raced furiously, while the broken shaft—for that proved to be the danger—seemed about to crush the ship at every concussion.

Water rushed in the tube, menacing the stokehold and the engine room, and panic-stricken passengers thought for a while that the vessel was about to sink. Several minutes elapsed before the word was given for the engines to stop.

The Norland lay helpless, tossed by the gale, and as the water rushed in there seemed imminent danger of sinking. The pumps were manned and put to work, every man of the crew being summoned to duty. For 24 hours continuously the pumps were kept at work and the water prevented from gaining on the vessel.

The excited passengers, finding that they were not in instant peril of being swallowed up by the waves, regained courage and patiently waited for a steamer to tow them into port.

At that time the Noordland was 400 miles west of Queenstown. The crippled steamer was sighted by the steamship Ohio, which left Philadelphia on the same day that the Noordland left New York and needed assistance was at once extended.

The voyage to Queenstown in tow was attended by much difficulty, and the continuous stormy weather made it necessary to navigate with caution, but the Noordland arrived without further accident. An examination showed that the fracture of the shaft was six feet inside the stern.

The steamer Noordland was towed into Queenstown harbor by the steamer Ohio at 7 o'clock this evening. All the passengers were on deck waving hats and handkerchiefs and cheering. Anchor was dropped and the passengers were removed to shore by a tender. All showed signs of the anxiety which they had suffered.

Some of the elderly steerage passengers were hardly able to walk. Several women fell on their knees and cried the moment they were landed.

Fred Kotz, a first cabin passenger, now stopping at the Queenstown Hotel, told his experience last night as follows:

The first two days out of New York were fairish, although part of the time a heavy sea was running. The weather then grew rapidly worse. On the night of the accident we were making about 12 knots an hour. The ship was rolling heavily, and most of the cabin passengers were below sick. Five or six of us were in the smoking room talking about how we should pass Christmas in Antwerp, when there was a terrific crash and we were thrown from our seats into a heap on the floor. The vibration of the ship almost shook us from our feet as we started for the door. It seemed as if a gigantic hammer was pounding the ship's bottom.

When we got outside we saw the captain coming from the engine room. The passengers came running on deck, half-dressed and white from fear.

We surrounded the captain and he told us that the main shaft was broken, but there was no immediate reason for alarm. The other officers who were not busy below walked about among the passengers incessantly, and tried to encourage all to believe that there was no danger. In a few minutes we learned that the engineers, at great risk to their lives, had found two stay plates and plumber blocks had smashed the gland of the engine. The bulkhead, however, had been kept tight. The vessel pitched and rolled terribly, so that we saw we could not trust to the boats in case the worst came.

We were just becoming calmer when we saw the crew rushing through the steerage, carrying bedding, mats and carpets to be stuffed into the tunnel box. We all knew then that water was coming in.

Nobody slept that night. The women sat crying in the cabins and the men crowded the smoking room to play cards and talk over the situation. We all were badly frightened. The vessel rolled terribly and with every roll came a tremendous thump as if a piece of shaft was loose and smashing things in the hold. The sails had been spread, but they did not steady the ship noticeably. We knew that we were far from the track of transatlantic steamships, and most of us on that night would not have guessed that our chances of life were more than two in five.

The crew worked heroically, at the pumps for the 24 hours after the accident, and at the same time the engineers were busy at the shaft, fixing plugs and trying to prevent further influx of water.

Eventually word was sent out that the flow of water had been checked. We had plenty of food and water, and therefore with fairly favorable weather would have been able to hold our own for some time. As the sea was still too rough, however, for any lifeboat, we were a gloomy lot.

Friday was uneventful. The tables were laid as usual, but few cared to eat. At 2 o'clock on Saturday morning the lookout yelled, "Light ahead." Everybody turned out and listened eagerly for the next word.

"She's a steamer," was the next call. We all shook hands and cheered and many ran about shouting for joy. We were all crowded on deck the rest of the night watching the Ohio's lights. At daylight she stood by and passed a hawser. At that time, as I learned subsequently, our after-peak was full of water, and despite their expressions of confidence the officers of the ship were intensely anxious.

The Ohio began towing us very slowly.

The strain caused by heavy seas was too great, however, and after five minutes the hawser broke. Before another hawser could be passed nine hours elapsed. The second broke, as also did the third. On Sunday morning another hawser was fixed, and as the weather had improved meantime they held until we reached harbor. We proceeded about seven knots an hour. At Daunt's Rock the hawsers were shortened off.

The steamship Ohio proceeded to Liverpool this evening. Most of the steerage passengers who went ashore were taken back later and will live aboard the Noordland until final orders are received from London as regards their transport to Antwerp.

Probably the Noordland will be repaired temporarily here and then will proceed to Antwerp, where she will be completely overhauled.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:
HAVING been requested by a large number of influential electors of the city of Belleville, to offer myself for Mayor for 1893, I have consented to do so, and now respectfully solicit your votes and influence. I have resided in the city six years, three of which I have spent in the City Council and School Board, (I would respectfully refer you to my work therein,) I come out as a business man, having had 30 years business experience in different parts of Canada, which is of great service to any one in filling the civic chair. I have chosen Belleville as my home, and have invested all my capital in and around the city, and my interests being centred here, I will, if elected, do my best for all. I done heretofore, to advance the best interests of the city.
I strongly urge the reduction of the number of Aldermen, and shall use every endeavor to carry into effect the proposal made by me to the Council in respect to it last year.
I have also in view the great necessity of getting the city in the best sanitary condition possible to enable us the better to cope with disease or the cholera epidemic should it reach us next year.
Yours,
HARRY FOWELL.

To the Electors of My Native City:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:
FOR years past I have had the offer of support for the Civic Chair, but at the present time too many of my old friends have brought more pressure to bear than I can decently withstand. I have been asked to stand for the high est position that the citizens can confer on any one. Among the men who offer me their support are to be found Irishmen, Englishmen, Dutchmen, Frenchmen and now and then a Scotchman, besides a good many Canadians. To the electors I am no Orangeman. I have been a member of the City Council for the greater part of a quarter of a century and during that time have done what I felt was for the best interest of the city and will continue on the same line if successful at the coming election. I am in favor of strict economy in city affairs and decrease of our indebtedness. At the nomination I will freely give my views on the situation, and with much respect ask that when you mark your ballot you will not forget
A. T. PETRIE.
Belleville, Dec. 20, 1893.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:
I RESPECTFULLY solicit your votes and influence for Mayor of the City of Belleville for 1893. I was born in Belleville and have lived among you; my life, and am pecuniarily known to the most of you. I have been an Alderman in the City Council for four years, and during that time have endeavored to represent you straight forwardly and faithfully.
My platform is economy in City affairs. If elected I will exert myself to further the best interests of the city.
Yours respectfully,
FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE.

To the Municipal Electors of Murney Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—
FOR the third time I respectfully ask for your votes and influence to secure my return as one of your representatives.
During the year I have been honored with the chairmanships of two important committees for the whole of the time, and a third—the Executive—for the last half of the year.
You are the judges whether I have attended faithfully to duty and acted conscientiously.
Whatever works for the city's good, if possible from the standpoints of economy and prudence, are the objects of my aim. I renew my pledges of attention to duty and fidelity to our city's welfare, and remain
Yours obediently,
J. E. WALMSLEY.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR.
We wish all our friends a very Happy New Year.
No doubt you all wish your friends the same, but there is no plainer way of making them happy than by sending some little token which always gladdens the heart of both sender and receiver.
Perhaps you saw a good many things in our place at Xmas time you would have liked to buy but felt you could not afford it, if so don't let it trouble you any longer, if any of the same goods are still in stock which you fancied we will make them so cheap that you will never feel the loss.
We don't believe in carrying Stock over, so just about give certain goods away,

Christmas Tree.

The annual entertainment of the Sunday School in connection with Emmanuel Reformed Church, was held last night in the Oddfellows' Hall, and was largely attended. A Christmas tree was the principal object of interest to the children, it being laden with gifts to them from their teachers and friends. A good programme was presented, after which refreshments were served.

Purchase of Valuable Properties.

Some of the quarries contain stone of a superior quality. They have also invested in mining properties in the same township.

Back-Ache.

Back-ache is caused by sick kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills will remove it. By their peculiar action on the kidneys, they impart activity and benefit the system by purifying the blood. You cannot have pure blood with diseased kidneys; health's existence depends upon their natural condition; they are the governors of the system. continual disorder results in kidney consumption, which is Bright's disease.

Bought on Her Bridal Trip.

And Her Husband Now Declines to Pay for His Wife's Purchases.

CORNWALL, Ont., Dec. 24.—The action of Morgan v. Allen, tried at the sessions, created considerable interest, being one brought by the well-known firm of Henry Morgan & Co., Montreal, against Mrs. Dr. Allen for $1800 for dresses and mantles supplied to her. It seems, as alleged by the defendant and corroborated by the plaintiff, that some of these goods were purchased by her while on her wedding trip with Dr. Allen and in his presence. The balance was afterwards purchased by her while on a visit to Montreal. The goods were charged in the plaintiff's books to Dr. Allen, but after the defendant left the doctor he refused to pay for them and gave a bond of indemnity to the plaintiffs to bring this action against his wife. It is therefore really an action of Dr. Allen against his wife, although sued in the name of Henry Morgan & Co. The case lasted a whole day and was listened to with considerable interest by a great many townsmen on account of the well known parties connected in it. Both Dr. Allen and his wife were present in court and gave evidence. The jury rendered a verdict in favor of the defendant. The action was therefore dismissed with costs.

[Mrs. Allen was formerly Mrs. P. D. Conger, of this city; and later of Toronto.]

SOCIAL & PERSONAL

Hon. C. H. Tupper, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, has gone to North Hastings to speak on behalf of Mr. Carscallen.

Miss Margie Heudrie, daughter of John Hendrie, this city, wholesale grocer, Hamilton, Scotland, is visiting her uncle, R. Wisherspoon, G.T.R., engineer, city.

Mr. A. Hodson, a member of the firm of Hodson Bros. is in the city.

Mr. R. B. Richardson, manager of the Bank of Montreal, returned to the city at noon to-day accompanied by Mrs. Richardson.

Ald. C. Polson, who was on Monday elected Mayor of Kingston by acclamation, was for a number of years a resident of this city.

Mrs. (Rev. Dr.) and Miss Fowler, of London, Ont., are revisiting friends in the city, and are the guests of Mrs. M. B. Robin, John street.

Mr. S. W. Lazier, formerly of the city post office, is now at Queen's, Charlotte Island, engaged as a missionary teacher by the Methodist church.

Mr Calhoun, secretary of the Y.M.C.A., Lindsay, after spending the Xmas holidays here, has returned home.

Public School Nominations.

The public school nominations for trustee took place at noon to-day in the various wards of the city. In two of the wards opposition was offered to the retiring trustees. The nominations were as follows:

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

MY DEAR SIR,—With reference to the cases of Messrs. Hoskins, Hagerman, and FOX, tried before me for infringement of the Cheese Act, I beg to say that my reference to the provisions of the Act were not intended to apply to the defendants in the above cases. They are all respectable men, and I believe their statements that they were not guilty, were true. Any disparaging remarks relative to the above Act in my recent communication upon the subject, were not intended to apply to the gentlemen above named.

Christmas Entertainment.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—A very pleasant Christmas entertainment was held in the West Methodist church, Plainfield, on Thursday night, 22d inst., in connection with the Sabbath School. Provisions were supplied in abundance by the lady friends of the church. The chair was taken about 7 o'clock, and the visitors were entertained for about two hours by the young people of the church with music, dialogues and recitations, well rendered; stirring addresses were delivered by Rev'd Messrs. Sing, of Foxboro, and McCauley, of Thomasburg. About 9, Santa Claus made his appearance in the shape of a little old man, dressed in fur from head to foot, with a long white beard; and although the night was clear and cold, he looked as if he had come a long way, for his cap showed signs of coming through a snow-storm. He came in with a magnificent boat well loaded with presents for the little folks,—also the older ones. The presents were useful, as well as ornamental; they varied from pipes and tobacco, boxes of potatoes, and up to a gold watch. After the presents had been distributed, the usual votes of thanks were given, and the entertainment was brought to a close, all well pleased. Yours, &c.,

Dec. 26. E. N. GOULD.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

MR. EDITOR,—Our fair young city has a hearty, firm neighbor in loyal old Kingston. Whether it be affinity of blood or reciprocity of regard, a stay with its warm hearted people is sure to make leave taking decidedly painful. It may be that Cupid having more than once operated in both these fair fields, a closer sentiment has thereby been engendered. Be this as it may, the cordiality with which your correspondent was greeted at a last transient visit, shall leave this Christmas one full of unmixed joy and happy reminiscence. But who does not at this time of general gladness, home gatherings, forgiveness and love, find comfort, hope, and cheer? Christmas! The very word is joyous! It is of music incomparable to the dreaming pillow of childhood. It is a poem that sings of return, of hearth, of mother. True, a tear—this silent panegyric of the heart—may, perchance, tell of an absent one, yet love's tears are sweet. Empires, kingdoms, nations, may, therefore, rack in the throbs of chaos or revolution, but a father's home for those to whom such a blessing is still spared, shall not cease to be the objective point of filial affection at this time of peace, concord, and happiness.

We assisted at service in the Cathedral, which, with its late improvements and superb front, invites comparison with the proudest structures of the kind on the continent. From the ceremonies and general manner in which everything was conducted, it is easily seen that a master spirit is behind it all, lending divine worship all the splendor it should have, and impressing the faithful with the dignity of their calling.

But the man was soon after the christian. To turn the sublime celebration into an occasion of high living pure and simple, would be sadly to depart from the intention of that august mystery. I confess, however, that after failing prostrate at the crib of the Infant Saviour, and having conscientiously attended to the fish regulation of the last few weeks, I was not indifferent to the sentenus that betokened a change of programme as we stepped under the hospitable roof. Time is swift-winged, nevertheless, and we had much to part. But the pleasant faces, merry prattle of the children, and friendships old and new, I shall long continue to think of with my best and happiest recollections.

27th Dec., 1892.

Electors of Murney Ward.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

On nomination day the question was asked of the writer, "What was done with the appropriation of $400 made to apply on Catharine St. drain?" In addition to reply then made, I submit herewith certified copy of the only action in reference thereto, in year 1891, which I trust will prove our contention; that no interest of the ward was neglected by your representatives.

Yours faithfully,
J. E. WALMSLEY.

To all to whom it may concern:

I beg to certify that during the year 1891, the petition for the extension of the Catherine street drain was "laid over for further consideration" by the then Council, and that no appropriation was made in that year in regard to that work.

Election of Officers.

There was a large meeting of the brethren last night, and a very interesting meeting was held, several visitors being present including one from New York City. The election resulted as follows:

P.M.W., S. E. Haight; M.W., W. E. Vandervoort; Foreman, W. E. Bonter; Overseer, J. H. P. Young; Recorder, H. W. Smith; Financier, J. W. London; Receiver, H. A. Dean; Guide, G. B. Denyes; I.W., J. W. Johnson; O.W., — Phillips; Rep. to Grand Lodge, S. E. Haight; Alternate do., Geo. Denmark; Medical Examiners, Drs. Clinton, Cook and Walker.

After the election Bro. Cunnington introduced Mr. Hooper, who favored the brethren with several selections on the piano. Addresses were given by the two candidates who were initiated, also by the visitors. Four other applications were received.

Orange Blossoms.

A very interesting event took place in Elinton on the 21st, when Miss Evelyn Matthews, eldest daughter of the late E. J. Matthews, was married to Arthur R. Crabtree. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. G. Hudgins in the Methodist church at 7 p.m. R. E. Jones, Esq., gave the bride away. Bride's maids were Misses Annie Bryden and Estelle Matthews. The bride was dressed in a handsome cream colored fabric, and the maids of honor were dresses of corresponding richness. Fred Jones and Fred York did the honors for the bride groom. After the ceremony was completed about fifty sat down to a sumptuous feast provided by R. E. Jones, uncle to the bride. Mr. Crabtree is a young man, lately from England, and deserves credit for pluck and perseverance in capturing a young lady of fortune and musical talent. They intend to commence a mercantile business in the spring.

Sidney Nomination.

The electors of the Township of Sidney met at the Town Hall, on 26th Dec., 1892. The old Council were elected by acclamation. The following received nominations: Capt. Jno. Graham and H. G. Bleecker for Reeve, Elias Ketcheson for 1st Dep. Reeve, John Shaw for 2nd Dep. do. For Councillors, W. G. Ketcheson, R.W. Meyers, Jno. A. Chisholm, and J. A. Harry, all of whom retired in favor of the old Council. After the returning officer had made his declaration, the chair was taken and ably filled by Mr. Elias Ketcheson. The Frankford cornet band was in attendance, and gave some fine selections, after each speaker. The affairs of the Township were thoroughly discussed by the Reeve, Deputy Reeves and Councillors, after which a vote of thanks was tendered to the band and the chairman, when all dispersed, well satisfied with the proceedings.

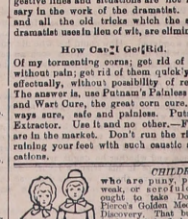

AMUSEMENTS

BY WITS OUTWITTED.

The writer of the high class comedy "By Wits Outwitted," which will be seen at Queen's Opera House on Thursday Dec. 29th, is a representation of the new school of dramatic authors recently formed. The new school of dramatists hold that on the stage, as everywhere else, want of decency is want of sense, that horse play and suggestive lines and situations are not necessary in the work of the dramatist. Puns and all the old sticks which the sterile dramatist uses in lieu of wit, are eliminated.

How Can I Get Rid

Of my tormenting corns; get rid of them without pain; get rid of them quickly and effectually, without possibility of return! The answer is, use Putnam's Painless Corn and Wart Cure, the great corn cure. Always sure, safe and painless. Putnam's Extractor. Use it and no other.—Frauds are in the market. Don't run the risk of ruining your feet with such caustic applications.

CHILDREN

who are puny, pale, weak, or scrofulous, ought to take Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That builds up both their flesh and their strength. For this, and for purifying the blood, there's nothing in all medicine that can equal the "Discovery."

In recovering from "grippe," or in consumptive coughs, from pneumonia, fevers, or other wasting diseases, it speedily and surely invigorates and builds up the whole system. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it sets at work all the processes of digestion and nutrition, rouses every organ into natural action, and brings back health and strength.

For all diseases caused by a torpid liver or impure blood, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Scrofulous Skin, and Scalp Diseases—even Consumption (or Lung-scrofula) in its earlier stages—the "Discovery" is the only guaranteed remedy.

If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

Blotches Cured.

DEAR SIRS,—In 1890 my body was covered with blotches and I was at last induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters; by the time I had used 3½ bottles of it I was completely cured, and I cannot speak too highly of it.

MRS. JAMES DESMOND, Halifax, N. S.

Made With Skill

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skillful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

Out of Sorts.—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure,' and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

The speed of a wild duck is ninety miles an hour.

Do not delay in getting relief for the little folks. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is a pleasant cure cure. If you love you child why then do you let it suffer when a remedy is so near at hand.

BROOKE'S DAUGHTER.

BY

ADELINE SERGEANT,

Author of "A True Friend," etc., etc.

(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

'Then she deserves to be shut up for life in the convent she came from!' said the doctor. 'I wouldn't have believed it! Is she blind? Doesn't she see what an intellect that man has? Can't she understand that his abilities are equal to those of any man in Europe?'

'We all know of your admiration for Mr. Brooke, dear,' said Ethel saucily. 'You had better go and expound your views to Lesley. Perhaps she and her father would get on better then.'

Maurice was silent. He sat and looked aghast at the useless thus presented to him. That Caspar Brooke—his friend, his mentor, almost his hero—should not have been able to live with his wife was bad enough! That his daughter should not admire him seemed to Maurice a sort of profanation! Heavens, what did the girl mean! The mother might have been an aristocratic fool; but the girl—she looked intelligent enough! There must be a misapprehension somewhere; and it occured to Maurice that it might be his duty to remove it.

Maurice Kenyon was a born knight-errant. When he saw that a thing wanted doing, his heart echoed until he could do it. A Celtic strain of blood in him showed itself in the heat of his belief, the impetuosity of his actions. In Ethel this strain had taken an artistic turn; but the same nature that urged her to dramatic representation urged her brother to set to work vehemently on righting anything that he thought wrong. There never was a man who hated more than he to leave a matter in statu quo.

Although Ethel said no more concerning Lesley's misunderstanding of her father, He was haunted by the echo of her remarks. He could not conceive how a girl possessed of ordinary faculties could possibly misprize her father's gifts. Either she was a girl of extraordinary stupidity or she was wilfully blind. Perhaps there was no one to point out to her Caspar Brooke's many virtues. But they (thought Maurice) lay on the surface, and could not possibly be overlooked. The girl must have been spoiled by her residence in a French convent; she must be either stupid, frivolous, or base. Then how could Ethel care for her? Surely she could not be so stupid; she could not be so base—she might be frivolous; but Maurice could not go so far as to think that his sister Ethel would like her the less for being a little frivolous. Yes, that must be it; she was frivolous—a soulless butterfly, who plued for the galeties of Paris. How awfully hard for a man like Caspar Brooke to have a daughter who was merely frivolous.

The more he thought of it—and he thought a good deal of it—the more Mr. Kenyon was concerned. No doubt it was no business of his, he said to himself, and he was a fool to worry himself. But then Brooke was his friend, in spite of the disparity of their years; and he did not like to think that his friend had such a heavy burden to bear. For, of course, it was a heavy burden to a man like Brooke. No doubt Brooke did not like to show it was a burden; strong men did not cry out when their strength was tried. But a man with his power of affection, his tenderness, his depth of feeling (as Maurice thought), must be troubled when he found that his daughter neither loved or comprehended him.

Maurice reflected that he had seen this extraordinary girl once. She had been standing at the window one day when he had Ethel's ears feeding that pampered poodle of Ethel's, Scaramouch, and he had been struck by the grace of her figure, the queenly pose of her head. He had not observed her face particularly, but he believed that it was rather pretty. Her dress—for his practised memory began to furnish him with details—her dress was grey, and if he could judge aright, fashionably made. Yes, a little French fashion plate—a doll, powdered, perhaps, and painted, laced up, and perfumed and clothed in dainty raiment, to come and make dismay in her father's home! It was intolerable. Why did not Brooke leave this pestilent creature in her own abode, with the insolent, aristocratic friends who had done their best already to spoil her life!

Thus he worked himself up to a high pitch of passionate excitement on his friend's account. It never occurred to him that Caspar Brooke might not at all be in need of it. It did not seem possible to him that a father could feel indifferent as to the opinion of his child. And perhaps he was right, and Caspar Brooke was not quite so indifferent as he seemed.

It must be the girl's fault, Maurice thought, to his own relief. Could anything be done? Could not he set Ethel to talk to her? But no; Ethel was not serious enough in her appreciation of Caspar Brooke. Mrs. Rosaline. She would praise Mr. Brooke, no doubt; but Kenyon had a troubled doubt of Mrs. Rosaline's motives.

Doctor Sophy! Well, he liked Doctor Sophy immensely, especially since she had given up her practice; he liked her because she was so frank, so sensible, so practical in her dealings. But she was not a very sympathetic sort of person; not the sort of person, he acknowledged to himself, who would be likely to inspire a young girl with enthusiasm for another.

If there was nobody else to perform a needed office, it was your plain duty to perform it yourself. That had been Maurice Kenyon's motto for many years. It recurred to him now with rather disagreeable force.

Why, of course, he could not go and tell Brooke's daughter that she was a frivolous fool! What was his conscience driving at, he wondered. How could he, who did not know her in the least, commit such an act of impertinence as to tell her how much he disapproved of her? It would be the act of a prig, not that of a gentleman.

Of course he could not do it. And then he began at the beginning again, and consoled with Brooke in his own heart, and vituperated Brooke's daughter, and wondered whether she was really incapable of being reclaimed to the paths of filial reverence, and whether he ought not to make an attempt in his friend's favor. All of which proves that if any man deserved the name of a Don Quixote, that man was Maurice Kenyon, M.R.G.S.

Ethel unconsciously gave him the chance he secretly desired. He wanted above all things to make Lesley's acquaintance, and to talk to her—for her good—about her father. And one afternoon his sister begged him, as a great favor to her, to go over to Mr. Brooke's house with a message and a parcel for Lesley. He had been introduced to her one day in the street, therefore there could be nothing strange in his going and asking for her, Ethel said. And would he please go about four o'clock, so as to catch Miss Lesley Brooke at afternoon tea.

Maurice told himself that it would be an importunt thing to talk to her about her family affairs, and that he would only stay three minutes. At four o'clock he knocked at the door of Mr. Brooke's chocolate brown house, and inquired solemnly for Miss Brooke.

Miss Brooke was not at home.

'Miss Lesley Brooke then!'

Miss Lesley Brooke was in the drawing-room. Maurice went upstairs.

CHAPTER XI.

BROOKE'S DISCIPLE.

Lesley was sitting in a low chair near a small wood fire, which the chilliness of the October day made fully acceptable. She had a book on her lap, but she did not look as if she were reading; her chin was supported by her hand, and her brown eyes were gazing out of the window, with, as Maurice Kenyon could not fail to see, a slightly blank and saddened look. The girl had been a fortnight in London, and her face had paled and thinned since her arrival; there was an anxious fold beneath her brows, and her mouth drooped at the corners. If her old friends—Sister Rose of the convent, for instance—had seen her, they would hardly have recognized this spiritless, brooding maiden for the joyous 'Lisa' of their thoughts.

HAMILTON, April 20, 1892.

I was doctoring for years with physicians for a scaly and severe affection of the scalp, they told me it was eczema, but gave me no permanent relief. I was also troubled with excessive dandruff, which would drop from my head like snow flakes. Hearing of Anti Dandruff I used it, and from the third application felt more relieved than for years; when half of the bottle was used the eczema and scaly eruptions had disappeared and have not returned since; dandruff was thoroughly removed, the itching of the scalp stopped, and for an elegant, clean and useful hair dressing Anti dandruff has no equal.

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl spilled it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

GENTLEMEN,—My little boy was troubled with a very bad cough, and a lady friend advised me to try Hagyard's Pectorial Balsam. Our endeavors to make the Fair headquarters for Christmas supplies is more marked this fall than at any previous time. Our store, though large, is not sufficient to accommodate the great crowd at Christmas times. We would therefore urge you to look over your selections now while the stock is complete and avoid the crush at Christmas time. We have just received 100 cases of foreign goods, such as albums, dolls, tooth brushes, hair brushes, purses, fancy china cups and saucers, tea sets, toilet sets, perfumery, hair tonics, odd sets, glass tea sets beautifully engraved; our assortment of American glassware must be seen to be appreciated, and we have also been able to offer such bargains in albums, ladies' work boxes, perfume cases, shaving cases, brush and comb cases, games from 5c up, playing cards from 5c up, beautiful white holiday cards all the latest styles from 40c up. We have something new in dolls' chairs, dolls' cradles, children's easels and cutlery, strong and durable at lower prices, novels by the best authors 10c worth 25c, pocket knives and table cutlery an endless variety to choose from. But, perhaps, one of the greatest drives is a special line of extra quality writing paper, 5 quires (120 sheets) for 10c. We will not attempt to enumerate further, but would invite you to call at

For Scrofula
"After suffering for about twenty-five years from scrofulous sores on the legs and arms, trying various medical courses without benefit, I began to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and a wonderful cure was the result. Five bottles sufficed to restore me to health."—Bonifacia Lopez, 327 E. Commerce st., San Antonio, Texas.

Catarrh
"My daughter was afflicted for nearly a year with catarrh. The physicians being unable to help her, my pastor recommended Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I followed his advice. Three months of regular treatment with Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's Pills completely restored my daughter's health."—Mrs. Louise Rielle, Little Canada, Ware, Mass.

Rheumatism
"For several years, I was troubled with inflammatory rheumatism, being so bad at times as to be entirely helpless. For the last two years, whenever I felt the effects of the disease, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and have not had a spell for a long time."—E. T. Hansbrough, Elk Run, Va.

A BATTERED SATCHEL

CONTAINED MATERIAL FOR A ROMANCE ON THE PLAINS.

Came Out From England to Make a Name for Himself—He Starts for the Pacific Coast and His Father Fears That He Perished En Route.

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—At the sale of unclaimed parcels of the Dominion Express Company in August last Mr. C. N. Bastedo of 129 McCaul-street purchased several parcels, among them a small and battered grip. In the grip he found a leather writing desk, which contained a number of photos and letters addressed to Ed. Brice, section man, Crowfoot, Alberta, and other places in the Northwest Territory. Many of the letters were from his father and relatives in England, and Mr. Bastedo ascertained that the owner of the grip was undoubtedly the son of Edward Brice of 5 Halford-street, Leicester, England. The letters contained numerous enquiries as to why the son had not written, and among the papers was found an indenture of apprenticeship to a harness maker in Leicester, England.

Enquiry at the offices of the Dominion Express Company showed that the grip had been sent from Donald, N.W.T., to Siccimousie, B. C., on March 16, 1891, with instructions to hold it until called for by sender.

Mr. Bastedo communicated with the father, who seems to be a man of some education, and yesterday received a reply in which the father says of his son:

"He, with our full consent and best wishes, sailed from England in April, 1890, to endeavor by perseverance and industry to make a home in the Northwest. We received letters at frequent intervals from him, in which he told us of his doings and the places he had been working in; he mentioned Boissevain, Medicine Hat, Gretchen and also Calgary, from which place we received his last letter in January, 1891. From thence we heard from another source that he had gone on to Siccimousie, B. C. We can gather no further information of him, which makes us fear something serious has befallen him, as he was not of strong constitution, so that the exposure in farming and other outdoor pursuits would probably be too much for him."

Any information as to his whereabouts would be gladly received by Mr. C. N. Bastedo, or the lad's father, whose addresses are above given.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Will Not Probably Assemble for Several Weeks.

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—It is not likely that the Ontario Legislative Assembly will be called together until towards the end of February, as it will take several weeks longer to get the chamber in the new Parliament Buildings in the Park in readiness for occupancy.

Meantime the buildings present a lively scene.

Carpenters, plasterers, tile-layers mingle with Cabinet Ministers, officials and citizens having business in the departments in their new quarters. The Ontario Cabinet now holds its meetings there, and the whole building has an atmosphere of newness and briskness. The battered furniture which has been brought from the old Parliament Buildings, however, detracts slightly from the general "spick and span" effect.

The chamber will undoubtedly be completed before the next sitting of the Legislature. The dimensions of the chamber will be 65 feet by 80 feet, and the height of the ceiling is 51 feet.

The chamber will be in the centre of the building and south of the main corridor or the mezzanine or second floor, and thus immediately above the main entrance and lighted from three sides. The speaker's dais will be at the southern end, immediately in front of the reporters' gallery. The dais is 11 feet long and of carved mahogany. Immediately behind the speaker's chair the lion and unicorn of England are carved in bas relief, while above the coat of arms three dates are cut, 1792 in commemoration of the opening of the first Parliament; 1867, the year of Confederation; 1892, for the year in which the new Parliament buildings are supposed to be completed. Two Gothic lions carved at the top of mahogany pilasters surmount the whole.

The press gallery at the head of the chamber covers its entire width and will be large and roomy. The seating of the gallery has not yet been arranged.

On either side of the chamber facing east and west will be the ladies' and visitors' galleries, which will together seat about 500 people. Each gallery is the entire length of the chamber and will contain five tiers of seats, which will be elegantly fitted up in mahogany and sycamore with plush cushions.

The Government members will occupy the east side of the chamber and the Opposition the west side. No definite announcement has been made on the subject, but it is generally understood that the old seats will be brought up from Wellington-street for the use of members. The decorations will be elegant and artistic. A members' hat and coat room on the same floor will be panelled and fitted with 116 compartments in walnut. Each compartment will contain hat and coat hooks and locked drawers for the members' use.

The grand staircase which leads up to the ante-room of the legislative chamber is of great breadth and beauty of design, giving an effect that is rich but not cumbrous. In the new building the third floor will be known as the first floor, and the second floor as the mezzarine floor.

At the extreme west end of the main corridor the Library will be situated, which is being fitted in quarter-cut white oak. The Library will be completed in 10 days, and it will be quite possible to get the books in by the end of the second week of January.

A gallery runs around three sides of the room, and an iron railing will keep the vandal public from meddling with the books. The members' reading room is close at hand, and is finished in white ash. The building contains four elevators, two in the centre and one in each wing.

The various departments will all have their quarters in the east wing. On the ground floor on the south side of the corridor Hon. A. S. Hardy and his Department of Crown Lands will be placed; opposite on the north side the Minister of Agriculture will be pleasantly quartered.

On the mezzanine floor the Attorney-General's Department and the Cabinet Council Chamber are to be found to the south of the corridor; the Provincial Secretary will be placed opposite. On the third floor the Minister of Public Works and his staff are now established on the south side, on the north side the Provincial Treasurer, the Audit office and Registrar-General's Department are located.

Scared by a Burglar,

HAMILTON, Dec. 29.—Shortly after 1 yesterday morning Mrs. Cooper, 18 Park-street south, was rather startled by seeing a man at the door of her bedroom. At first she thought it was her son and spoke to him. The man backed out of the door, holding a dark lantern behind him and made his escape.

Mrs. Cooper went to her son's room and told him that there was a burglar in the house. The police were telephoned for.

The officers searched the house, but could not discover that anything had been stolen.

THE CZAR'S ENEMIES

Discovery of Another Plot to Assassinate the Ruler of Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 29.—Numerous arrests continue to be made at Kieff of persons suspected of Nihilism. Nine more officers are among those imprisoned either under suspicion or direct charges of connection with a conspiracy against the Czar. The Russian authorities believe that they have unearthed a widespread plot, in which a number not only of the lower officials, but also of those of higher rank are involved and several officers having positions of trust and confidence near the person of the Czar have been put under surveillance, although not under arrest, being given leave of absence from duty until the suspicions resting upon them are verified or disproved.

The extent of the plot is not yet known, and there seems no doubt this time of its genuine character, although it is not certain that the motives of the plotters are Nihilistic.

There is much discontent in the army with the prolonged period of peace and many of the officers think that the Czar is too pacific in his disposition. These is no longer an outlet for these warlike spirits in subduing the tribes of Central Asia.

All these have been brought thoroughly under Russian subjection. The Russian empire was never more peaceful, so far as external enemies are concerned; the murmuring among the army officers ambitious for glory and disappointed in their hopes of promotion is correspondingly great.

It is no secret that there was bitter disappointment in military circles seven years ago, when the Czar had to bring his autocratic authority to bear to prevent his generals from plunging into a war with Great Britain and Afghanistan, and the spirit of impatience among the Russian officers has been increasing since.

For these and other reasons the authorities at St. Petersburg are greatly apprehensive as to the extent of the conspiracy developed at Kieff, and much excitement prevails both in official circles and among the public.

Meantime the persecution of the Jews goes on more earnestly than ever, the leading prosecutor being the Grand Duke Sergius, brother of the Czar and husband of Queen Victoria's granddaughter, Elizabeth. As Governor of Moscow he seems determined to turn every Jew out of the city.

The Jewish population of Moscow has already been reduced from about 80,000, when Sergius became Governor, to about 30,000, and the number continues to decrease under the added rigor of penal laws and the intolerable severity of that enforcement.

By a new law which has recently been put in force, only 10 out of 100 Jewish lawyers in Moscow and St. Petersburg are allowed to practice, while in Warsaw and Russian Poland this liberty is wholly denied.

The Moscow University shuts its doors against Jews, and it will not be long before the Conservatoire does the same. The severe treatment of the Jews is having a ruinous effect upon real estate and other interests, at least 30,000 lodgings being empty in Moscow.

The most pitiful scenes are witnessed among the crowds of Jews at the railway stations. Men and women over 80 years of age, half-clad little children crying and praying in the cold.

Their sufferings are viewed with utter indifference by the Russian authorities, and any non-Jewish residents who display kindness towards them risk being put under suspicion.

The soldiers detailed to assist the police in guarding Jews treat them with the greatest brutality and frequently prick the unfortunates with their bayonets if they attempt to leave the stations in which they are penned.

The officers do not like the work of guarding Jews, which they look upon as beneath their dignity, and this also is a cause of some discontent among the military.

Would Cross the Border.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The Liverpool correspondent of The Daily News thinks there are no grounds for believing that the steamship companies will give up their steerage trade. They expect, he says, that the United States Government will relax shortly the stringent quarantine regulations when it has been shown how much easier it is to watch a few seaports instead of the whole Canadian frontier.

Ancient Bi-metallism.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The Times publishes a letter from Max Muller remarking upon the researches of Prof. Brugesche to prove that the ratio of gold to silver in ancient Egypt was 1 to 12½. Dr. Brandes has shown, he adds, that in Babylonia the ratio was always 1 to 13⅓.

Cholera at Hamburg.

HAMBURG, Dec. 29.—Two new cases of cholera and one death were reported yesterday.

King Frost at Niagara.

NIAGARA FALLS, Dec. 29.—Should the cold weather continue there will be an ice bridge in a day or two. The spectacle is one of the grandest seen for years, the monstrous ice formations being beautiful beyond conception, and the glitter from the myriad facets dimming the beauty of the rainbows.

The atmosphere effect is very peculiar, vapor like steam arising continuously, and giving a remarkably weird effect in the twilight.

Something of a Fight.

LAREDO, Tex., Dec. 29.—News was received here last night that the Mexican soldiers, 250 strong, and revolutionists 300 strong fought on Monday at Los Animas, Texas. Thirteen soldiers and a score of revolutionists were killed. Many were wounded on both sides.

Strike of Glass Workers.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—A strike among the stained, mosaic and opalescent glass-workers is in progress in this city. In consequence the work rooms of every ecclesiastical and decorative glass establishment in New York are deserted.

Doesn't Believe in Celibacy.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Constantinus Papayani, a Greek Catholic priest, arrived here yesterday on the steamer Normandie. He is looking for his wife and four children, who are residing in this city, and will take charge of the congregation of the Greek Catholic Church of New York.

Father Papayani is about the only example in America of a Catholic priest with a wife and family. He moves about attired in the regulation black gown of the Greek denomination and cloverleaf hat.

Chicago's Waterworks.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—The new waterworks tunnel has just been completed. It is a wonderful piece of engineering skill. Being constructed four miles into the lake, it is thought that the water will be entirely free from the city's drainage.

Its capacity is 130,000,000 gallons per day, though so far the pumps which fill the mains from it have a capacity of only 55,000,000 gallons. The work has been in progress for four years, and the total cost is $1,000,000.

"It Cured Mother."

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.
Signed, MELVILLE B MARSH,
Aberdeen, P. Q. General Merchant.

The prefection of God being infinite, to become God-like means infinite growth.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicinal herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Pudding with a hair in it is sweetness wasted on a dessert hair.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion is occasioned by want of action in the biliary ducts, loss of vitality in the stomach to secrete the gastric juices, without which digestion cannot go on; also, being the principal cause of Headache. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills taken before going to bed, for a while, never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr. F W Ashdown, Ashdown, Ont, writes:—"Parmelee's Pills are taking the lead against ten other makes which I have in stock."

In nearly all the markets of German cities fish are sold alive.

THE STEAMER UMBRIA.

She Is Now Five Days Overdue and Yet Not Reported.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Conjecture as to what has happened the long over-due Cunarder Umbria is all that can be indulged in. That she has met with an accident is agreed in shipping circles, but just the nature, extent and seriousness of that mishap will not be known until she is spoken by some ship or until she arrives.

At midnight the Umbria was five days overdue, not a word having been heard from her since she was sighted off Fastnet light, outward bound, 11 days ago.

TIRED OF LIFE.

A Canadian Girl Lay on a Suicide's Bier on Christmas Eve.

BUFFALO, Dec. 29.—Blanche Sherman, alias Minnie St. Clair, who went to Rochester from Toronto and then came to this city two years ago, attempted suicide Christmas Eve by taking poison.

The attempt was but partially successful, as the girl lingered until late last night, when she died.

She is said to have been the daughter of very respectable parents in Canada and was about 21 years old.

Anarchy in Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 29.—At 2 a.m. yesterday a bomb was thrown into the main building of the south side plant of the Milwaukee Street Railroad Company. There was a tremendous explosion, and in a moment the interior of the building was in a blaze.

In a few minutes the fire was beyond control, and in less than an hour the entire plant was consumed, entailing a loss of $510,000. Who the man is who threw the bomb is not known. He is supposed to be the fire bug who has started fully a dozen other disastrous fires within a month.

THE DEACON CASE.

The Husband Has Applied for an Absolute Divorce.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Edward Parker Deacon, who shot Emile Abeille in Cannes, France, because of alleged intimacy with his wife, has brought action in the Supreme Court for an absolute divorce from his wife, Florence Deacon, on the ground that Mrs. Deacon is now residing in France.

Judge Lawrence has given permission that the summons be served by publication.

In his complaint Deacon gives a number of occasions on which he declares he is informed his wife committed adultery with Abeille. He also makes general allegations that she has committed adultery with other men during the past two years, but no names are given. The complaint was sworn to before the Commissioner of the State of New York at Paris.

A COMICAL SPILL.

A Runaway Horse Makes an Elderly Lady Turn a Somersault.

MONTREAL, Dec. 29.—At midday yesterday a sleigh belonging to Mr. Hanson, insurance agent, while turning into St. James-street from St. Lambert-hill, struck the sidewalk and capsized, throwing its two occupants out upon their heads. The horse promptly ran away, and dashed into a sleigh in which Madame Dumaine, an elderly lady, was sitting.

Madame Dumaine was flung a complete somersault on to the sidewalk, but fortunately she was not seriously hurt, and later on was able to return to her home.

A Consul's Keen Scent.

MONTREAL, Dec. 29.—American Consul Smith reported to his Government that the sanitary condition of Three Rivers offered a foothold for cholera next spring. The council of that town have denied the truth of the report. It was stated that the consul would sue the council for damages, but he denies it.

BABY ONE SOLID SORE

Tried Everything without Relief. No Rest Night or Day. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

My baby, when two months old, had a breaking out with what the doctor called eczema. Her head, arms, feet, and hands were each one solid sore. I tried everything, but neither the doctors nor anything else did her any good. We could get no rest day or night with her. In my extremity I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES, but I confess I had no faith in them, for I had never seen them tried. To my great surprise, in one week's time after beginning to use the CUTICURA REMEDIES, the sores were well, but I continued to use the RESOLVENT for a little while, and now she is as fat a baby as you would like to see, and as sound as a dollar. I believe my baby would have died if I had not tried CUTICURA REMEDIES. I write this that every mother with a baby like mine can feel confident that there is a medicine that will cure the worst eczema, and that medicine is the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

TO THE POLLS.

Reports from the North Riding indicate the return of Mr. A. W. Carscallen by a good majority. It is the duty of every supporter of the Government who is entitled to vote in North Hastings to go to the polls, cast his ballot and make the majority as large as possible.

AN ABSURD CONTENTION.

In his labored reply to our Minister of Finance, the U. S. Secretary of State said:

The Government of the United States does not claim that Behring sea is a mere claumm and does not seek to restrict the legitimate freedom of the ocean, but in the language of Mr. Blaine, it does claim that the law of the sea is not lawlessness. It holds that the fur seals born and reared on the Pribyloff is'ands, and on which they spend a large part of their existence and to which they return with unvarying regularity, represent a large and valuable industry, which should not be permitted to be exterminated by the hot-blooded and inhuman methods of the Canadian poachers, and it has every confidence the tribunal of arbitration will so decide the vital question at issue.

As reasonable would it be for Canadians to claim that the ducks and geese, the snipe, woodcock and other migratory birds, which are born and reared in our territory and on which they spend a large part of their existence, and to which they return with unvarying regularity," and, as well, the fishes which spawn in the winters within our territory, should not be shot by American sportsmen or taken by American fishermen.

Secretary Foster may not see the absurdity of his claim of property in the fere naturæ which frequent the territory of his country after they have passed beyond its bounds, but others cannot fail to do so.

A PARALLEL CASE.

The Herald and that hostility to the United States was implied in Imperial Federation. Mr. McGeun denies thir, and then proceeds to give a practical illustration of the truth of our statement. He trots out, as every other advocate of Imperial Fed-ration does, the bogey of the United States being only deterred from gobbling Canada by fear of the British lion. This is akin to the stories told by nursery maids to check the wilfulness of children. It is quite as ridiculous and quite as untrue. Mr. McGeun cites the past aggressions of the United States in Mexico as a sample of what is in store for Canada. He is not exact in his history, for Texas was an independent nation ten years before she became a State of the American Union; and it was an attempt to re conquer her by Mexico that precipitated the war of 1847. In New Mexico and California events followed much the same course as in Texas. They were outlying provinces of a country which, torn by dissensions and civil wars, was the sport of dictator after dictator. Continual anarchy reigned in them, and as the American element grew stronger in each, a revolutionary movement began which had practically won the independence of these districts before the United States as a nation took any steps to secure them.—Montreal Herald

One friend of the Herald has fallen into the common error of falsifiers, namely that of proving too much! He states, correctly enough, that Texas became "an independent nation ten years before she became a State of the American Union." The true history goes on—Mexico tried to reconquer her, the United States interfered, went to war with and defeated Mexico, and gobbled up Texas.

The Herald goes on—"In New Mexico and California events followed much the same course as in Texas." Yes, these provinces achieved a quasi independence; they were weak in themselves, had no powerful protector behind them, and they were gobbled up just as Texas was, and as Canada would surely be if the protection of the British flag were once withdrawn—for it is absurd to think that a nation of five millions, without either army or navy, and with an accessible frontier of many thousand miles, could maintain a permanent existence against a hostile nation of sixty millions, provided with all the means and appliances of aggressive warfare, and whose animus is shown by the following, among many other evidences supplied by a New York paper: "In addressing the graduates of West Point military academy the other day Mr. Elkins warned them that it ay may be called to bear the flag of their country nearer the polar regions than any of their predecessors."

AMUSEMENTS

The following is a clipping from the Daily World, British Columbia "Between 500 and 600 people assembled in the Market Hall on Saturday evening, the occasion being the third of the people's popular concert series; and but few, we are certain, went away disappointed, for the anticipations which had been formed of a musical treat were fully realized.

Then came the event of the evening, the debut of Miss Matie A. Diamond, who sang 'Aprezr, love, at the window,' in a manner to at once stamp her as a very valuable addition to the musicians of the city. Her rendition was enthusiastically received, and encore demanded. Miss Diamond is a native of Belleville, Ont., and received her musical education in Boston. She is possessed of a splendid rich and flexible soprano voice, which she holds under absolute control. She takes the highest as well as the lowest notes with perfect ease. The reappearance of Miss Diamond was heartily applauded. Her contributions on this occasion were 'Calm as the Night,' by Carl Bohm, and 'Zellar's Tyrolean Nightingale Song,' both of which were sung with exquisite taste, being deservedly and raptur ously applauded. Miss Diamond's first appearance in the Terminal City was a grand success. She is a young songstress, who cannot fail to charm those who listen to her sweet, bird like warblings.

The Belleville Skating Club.

Our reporter visited the rink of the above club yesterday, and found a large number taking advantage of the good ice and fine weather. It is much larger than the rink of last year. There is a large dressing room for gentlemen, well heated and lighted, to the right of the entrance, and to the left a dressing room for ladies. It is well lighted with electric light and lamps, and is under the care of Mr. A. Legaln, the genial caretaker of last year's rink. It is supplied with everything necessary for a first class rink. The game of hockey, so popular in Canada, will be indulged in by the sports, who have organized a club. The game will be played at times not to interfere with the skaters. The committee are to be congratulated upon the success of their efforts.

A Happy Event.

Last evening was the occasion of a happy and pleasing event at the residence of Mr. Wm. Gibson, when Miss Jennie Gibson, so well and favorably known, was united in marriage to Mr. George Lloyd, traveller for Messrs. Young & Co. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large company by Rev. A. L. Geen, P.D. The bride looked charming; she was attended by her sister, Miss Maude Gibson, the groom being assisted by Mr. Benjamin Gibson, of Kingston. After the ceremony, the company sat down to a sumptuous feast. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and valuable presents. The happy couple left by train. May peace, prosperity and happiness attend them.

They Got it at Last

For many years scientists tried to concentrate the blood, flesh and bone making qualities contained in the oil of the Norwegian cod. They only partially succeeded. But by new chemical processes, rendered feasible by electrical forces, the life giving properties of the oil have all been captured and are safely imprisoned within that famous remedy which is being talked about all over the country, known as "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil." Physicians acknowledge this is the greatest discovery, or rather the perfection of a discovery, ever given to the world. To say that it cures consumption by making blood, flesh and bone for the patient is quite enough. It is a remedy that positively needs no puffing. Many young people have been saved by its use. In big bottles 50c. and $1,00, at all Drug Stores.

AN EXTRADITION CASE.

GEORGE VICKERS RETURNED TO CANADA UNDER PRESSURE.

Detective Rogers Brings Back from Michigan a Mitchell Music Dealer Who Has counted $3000 Worth of Forged Paper in Five Years.

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—Government Detective Joe Rogers returned to the city yesterday after lodging in the Stratford jail George Vicars, a former music dealer at Mitchell, who fled after forging notes aggregating $5000 which he discounted with J. W. Cull, a private banker in that town.

Vicars, who is 55 years of age, had been carrying on his forgeries for a period of five years. His plan was to forge the names of farmers to notes for small sums and discount the notes with Banker Cull, Pamcombe and Watson and others. He escaped detection for years owing to the fact that he would pay or renew the notes as they fell due in the early part of his forgery career. Finally, when exposure could no longer be postponed, he fled to Hillsdale, Mich., where he was arrested. He refused to return voluntarily and boasted that he would die before crossing the border.

Vicars was arraigned before Judge Vance at Port Huron, and his attorney made a stubborn fight against extradition, even having a charge of bringing stolen money into the United States lodged against his client in order that he could be held on this charge and the extradition proceedings dismissed. Detective Rogers blocked this game, however, by explaining that the crime of forgery was not larceny under the laws of Canada—that the money was not stolen and that Vicars could not, therefore, be charged with bringing the proceeds into the United States. At this stage the prisoner and his counsel held a consultation, and the latter threw up his brief.

Rogers then had a talk with Vicars, and as a result the accused agreed to return voluntarily without awaiting the result of the extradition proceedings, and he was safely lodged in Stratford jail yesterday, where, if he does not follow the example of the last man who was extradited and temporarily lodged there and take leg bail, he will remain until the assizes.

SHOT HIMSELF.

Carelessly Sends a Ball Through His Brain.

MONTREAL, Dec. 29.—The loud report of a revolver, followed by the screams of a woman in the house No. 181 Bleury street, about 12.30 o'clock yesterday noon, attracted a crowd, and several bystanders rushing into the dwelling found a young man lying behind the door between the kitchen and bedroom, face downwards on the floor, while beside him lay a 38-calibre self-acting revolver. The cries heard were those of an aged woman who was alone in the house with the unfortunate boy.

She threw herself on the body of her prostrate son until strong but kindly hands gently removed her and then raised the young man carefully. A bullet had crashed through his brain and he was dying. Someone telephoned for the Notre Dame hospital ambulance, but before its arrival the victim had breathed his last. Dr. Ethier examined the body and then had it placed in the ambulance and taken to the hospital. The name of the unfortunate is John Thomas Kenny, aged 19 years.

Yesterday after dinner he dressed, preparatory to going to the Theatre Royal. A young man who resides close by visited him and Kenny took out a splendid looking revolver to show him. After the visitor departed, Kenny began to clean the loaded weapon and was standing in the door talking to his mother and unconsciously looking into the muzzle of the weapon.

He had his hand on the trigger and handling it carelessly. Suddenly he pulled it accidentally and the bullet entered his head at the base of his nose, causing death in about ten minutes.

Young Kenny was a sober and industrious boy.

DYNAMITE ACCIDENT.

Two Barrels Explode and Cause Considerable Destruction.

LONG ISLAND CITY, Dec. 29.—By an explosion of dynamite in Fourth-st. yesterday morning several lives were lost, many people injured and much property destroyed. Two barrels of dynamite had been taken to a lot in Fourth-street, where a tunnel shaft is being excavated, and while they were being thawed out they exploded.

The explosion was so terrific that nearly every building in Jackson-avenue, from Fifth-street to Borden-avenue, was either destroyed or badly damaged. The structures include the postoffice and Sylvester & Co.'s factory. A fire immediately started in the debris and is now burning.

By 10 o'clock the dead bodies of the following were recovered from the ruins: Mary Graden, aged 19, of 27 Jackson-avenue; Mrs. Soccori, wife of Peter Soccori, a barber, 27 Jackson-avenue, and Henry O'Brien, clerk, 25 Jackson-avenue.

Among the injured are: William Krepp, of Greenpoint and John Palmer of Williamsburgh, both of whom were at work in Gray's refrigerator factory opposite where the explosion took place; Minnie Davren, aged 19; John W. Davren, reporter; John Davren, Mrs. Maher and John Maher, all of Jackson-avenue. Patrick McEntee, a fireman, employed on the tunnel, was terribly injured and will probably die.

A block of four story tenements is now on fire from the upsetting of stoves. The postoffice was almost entirely demolished. The windows of every building within half a mile of the explosion were blown out.

IS HE MAD?

A Hamilton Man Has Wandered Away Without Saying Good-Bye.

HAMILTON, Dec. 29.—Walter H. Hamson, for some years connected with the mantle department of the drygoods house of A. Murray & Co., and one of the leading shots in the 13th Battalion, cannot be found. About a month or so ago he resigned his position and said he was going away.

He mentioned Detroit and Chicago, and said he had secured a situation, but when asked the name of the firm he always evaded the question.

He went away from the city and has not since been heard of. His wife has made all the enquiries possible, but has not been able even to discover which way he went, and it is not believed that he went west.

Hamson came here a good many years ago, and it was well known that he was well-connected in England. It was also said that his people had plenty of money. He always maintained a good appearance, and was well thought of.

There seem to be no financial difficulties connected with or at the bottom of his departure. Failing to discover anything of his whereabouts, Mrs. Hamson, in her extremity, has laid the matter before Chief McKinnon.

Court House Burned.

MUNCIE, Ind., Dec. 29.—Yesterday fire broke out in Delaware County. The elegant new court house and building valued at $300,000 were ruined.

Prince and Pauper.

NICE, Dec. 29.—Prince Victor Nakachidze, son of Gen. Bargratia, Prince of Georgia, has surrendered himself to the police of this city as he is ill and starving and wishes to be cared for. He told the police he was a Nihilist.

He was sentenced to three years' imprisonment for his connection with the Paris bomb makers, arrested and convicted in 1889. After serving out his time he was expelled from France.

Blaine Getting Around.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—"Mr. Blaine still shows improvement and the day throughout has been uneventful." The hour was 6 p.m. when this statement was made to a reporter, and Dr. Johnston had just left the bedside of Mr. Blaine. He said in addition that he did not expect to return to-night.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN;

HAVING been requested by a large number of influential electors of the city of Belleville, to offer myself for Mayor for 1893, I have consented to do so, and now respectfully solicit your votes and influence. I have resided in the city six years, three of which I have served in the City Council and School Board, (I would respectfully refer you to my work therein,) I come out as a business man, having had 20 years business experience in different parts of Canada, which is of great service to my one in filling the civic chair. I have chosen Belleville as my home, and have invested all my capital in and around the city, and my interest being centred here, I will, if elected, do all in my power, as a good businessman, to advance the best interests of the city.

I strongly urge the reduction of the number of Aldermen, and shall use every endeavor to carry into effect the proposal made by me to the Council in respect to last year.

I have also in view the grave necessity of getting the city in the best sanitary condition possible to enable us the better to cope with disease or the cholera epidemic should it reach us next year.

Yours,
HARRY FOWELL.
904f

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of My Native City:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

FOR years past I have had the offer of support for the Civic Chair, but at the present time too many of my old friends have brought more pressure to bear than I can decently withstand. I have been asked to and for the highest position that the citizens can confer on any one. Among the men who offer me their support are to be found Irishmen, Englishmen, Dutchmen, Frenchmen and now and then a Scotchman, besides a good many Canadians. To the electors I am no stranger. I have been a member of the City Council for the greater part of a quarter of a century and during that time have done what I felt was for the best interest of the city and will continue on the same line if successful at the coming term. I am in favor of strict economy in city affairs and decrease of our indebtedness. At the nomination I will freely give my views on the situation, and with much respect ask that when you mark your ballot you will not forget

A. T. PETRIE.
Belleville, Dec. 20, 1893.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RESPECTFULLY solicit your votes and influence for Mayor of the City of Belleville for 1893. I was born in Belleville and have lived amongst you all my life, and am personally known to the most of you. I have been an Alderman in the City Council for four years, and during that time have endeavored to represent you straightforwardly and faithfully.

My platform is economy in City affairs. If elected I will exert myself to further the best interests of the city.

Yours respectfully,
FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE.

To the Municipal Electors of Murney Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

FOR the third time I respectfully ask for your votes and influence to secure my return as one of your representatives.

During the year I have been honored with the chairmanships of two important committees for the whole of the time, and a third—the Executive—for the last half of the year.

You are the judges whether I have attended faithfully to duty and acted conscientiously.

Whatever works for the city's good, if possible from the standpoints of economy and prudence, are the objects of my aim. I renew my pledges of attention to duty and fidelity to our city's welfare, and remain

Yours obediently,

A HAPPY NEW YEAR.
We wish all our friends a very Happy New Year.
No doubt you all wish your friends the same, but there is no plainer way of making them happy than by sending some little token which always gladdens the heart of both sender and receiver.
Perhaps you saw a good many things in our place at Xmas time you would have liked to buy but felt you could not afford it, if so don't let it trouble you any longer, if any of the same goods are still in stock which you fancied we will make them so cheap that you will never feel the loss.
We don't believe in carrying Stock over, so just about give certain goods away,

PROBABILITIES

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—Fair weather; little higher temperature; light local falls of snow.

Not a Candidate.

Mr. H. Tammadge has handed in his resignation as candidate for Public School Trustee in Samson Ward.

Ward Meeting.

A meeting of Mr. Petrie's supporters will be held to morrow (Friday) evening at 7:30 at Kent's shoe shop, near the Grand Trunk station.

Primary Class Entertainment.

An entertainment will be held in the Sunday school room of Bridge street church to-night, under the auspices of the primary class. Programme commences at 7:30. Silver collection.

Buffalo Bill Coming.

With his Wild West Show causes immense excitement near equal to that caused by the introduction of that wholesome and pure article known as the Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. Sold by all grocers.

Will Not Canvass.

The four candidates for Aldermanic honors in Ketcheson Ward have signed an agreement that they will not canvass for votes during the contest, allowing the voters to voluntarily choose for themselves.

Slight Injuries.

Mrs. Mahoney, who resides in West Belleville, yesterday afternoon was crossing from Front to Bridge street when she was knocked down by a horse attached to a cutter. Fortunately she was but slightly bruised.

An Assembly.

An assembly was held last night in the Oddfellows' hall under the auspices of the ladies of St. Michael's church. There was a good attendance. The hall had been tastefully decorated for the occasion. Dancing was kept up until an early hour this morning, music being furnished by the Oddfellows' orchestra.

Make no Mistake.

The solid winter weather is now only started. Because it is after Christmas do not try and freeze through until next spring without the proper overcoat. At the Oak Hall you can get a wonderful overcoat at from $4 to $8. Never has clothing been so low in price as at the present time. No one need go cold.

Gratifying to All.

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasing liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup Company.

Back-Ache.

Back ache is caused by sick kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills will remove it. By their peculiar action on the kidneys, they impart activity and benefit the system by purifying the blood. You cannot have pure blood with disordered kidneys; health's every state depends upon their natural condition: hey are the governors of the system, & ontinual disorder results in kidney complaint, which is Bright's disease.

McMahon for deft.

Dead.

After a long and painful illness, Mrs. Robinson, wife of the late Rev. R. Robinson, of this city, Methodist Minister, died at the family residence, Yeomans Street, during last night. The deceased lady was a daughter of the late Jacob Freligh of Sidney. She was married to Rev'd Mr. Robinson in 1857. She was a lady of many excellencies and a model minister's wife, for while she ever looked well after her household, she was also busy in every good work. A family of two sons and three daughters are left to mourn her loss.

Christmas Gifts Distributed to all Tuckett's Employees.

Many Hearts Made Happy.

(Hamilton Times, Dec. 24.)

There was a joyous scene at the tobacco manufactory of Messrs. Geo. E. Tuckett, Son & Co., yesterday afternoon, when all the employees of the place assembled to receive their Christmas gifts.

It is a well known fact that no employers of labor in Canada are more liberal with their employees than the company named above. Every year at this season, every man, woman, and child who works in the factory are remembered, and the festive time is always looked forward to with a great deal of pleasure.

The distribution took place at 3.30 yesterday afternoon, and there were present some 300 employees, engaged in the rolling, pressing, stemming, and other departments of the magnificent establishment.

At one end of the great room where the workers assembled was a dais, beautifully decorated with flags and a splendid picture of Mr. George E. Tuckett, the kind-hearted founder of the business.

Mr. Geo. T. Tuckett, Vice President of the Company, delivered an address, in which he expressed the pleasure it gave him to meet them on the eve of another Christmas. He regretted that his father was absent, but if he was not present physically they had a good likeness of him on the wall, and he (the speaker) was sure that he was with them in spirit, as that morning he had received a letter in which Mr. Tuckett had referred in pleasing terms to the annual distribution, and wished them one and all "a merry Christmas and a happy New Year!" (Cheers.) The speaker said that a prosperous business has been done in 1892, and the outlook for the firm was encouraging. The employees had done their duty in the past, and all that the company desired was that they should continue to do so. In former times it had been the habit of the old firm to grant competing prices in the rolling department. A change has been made by the new company. It was their intention to give each of the piece hands a turkey, and every day and week hand would receive a week's wages, each stemmer would receive 50c. He closed by advising them during the coming year to be faithful in the discharge of their duties, and so maintain good feeling between themselves and their employers. Mr. Tuckett's remarks were heartily applauded.

Mr. J. W. Lamoreaux, Secretary-Treasurer of the company, also addressed the employees, speaking of the absence of the head of the firm in the kindest terms, and reminding them that provision had been made whereby any of them who felt so disposed had the privilege of taking stock in the concern. He declared that there was not another factory in Canada where the welfare of the hands was so well looked after, or where they were used so kindly. For eleven months in the year they had constant employment and the highest wages.

Excellent speeches were also made by Mr. Smith, foreman of the rolling department; Mr. Chas. Imbodon, head caser, Mr. John B. King, head of the press room, Mr. L. Slaughter, assistant foreman of the rolling department, and Mr. D. M. Cameron, of the Inland Revenue department.

Numbered tickets were then given out to the piece hands, who went below and received the turkey which bore a corresponding number.

The week and day hands repaired to the office and received the gifts of money.

Altogether the affair was one which reflected creditably on the firm and the working people themselves.

[The firm is now the Geo. E. Tuckett & Son Co., limited.]

$26,000 for a Coin.

The sum of $26,000 was paid by a coin collector for the first Columbian half-dollar. The first of these souvenirs of the Columbian exposition to reach our city was received to day by Mr. Wm. Johnson, being a new year gift to him from his friend, Mr. Thomas S. Quincey, of Chicago. It is a handsome coin, its obverse bears the face of Columbus, and the words, "United States of America Columbian half-dollar," the reverse side, Columbus' ship, the two hemispheres, 1492, and round the edge World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, 1892.

The Missing Umbria

Sighted at Sea. Disabled But Not Needing Assistance.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The steamship Galileo from Hull arrived this morning. She reports that on Dec. 25 a large steamer apparently disabled was sighted. On bearing down close to the vessel the latter exhibited three red lights, showing that she was unmanageable, but not requiring assistance. On exchanging night signals it was ascertained that the vessel was the overdue Umbria.

The Galileo's captain is of the opinion that the Umbria's machinery was disabled, and that she was lying to making repairs.

BRIGNALL & THOMPSON'S

British Trade with Canada.

A summary of the Dominion's trade with the Motherland—according to British figures—for the eleven months of 1892 appears in the London Canadian Gazette. The exports to Canada in the eleven months were valued at £4,552,300, compared with £4,591,837 last year, the slight decrease being chiefly due to a diminished business in iron and steel products. What is more interesting to us is the side of the account showing Great Britain's purchases from Canada, which were £10,281,696 against £8,988,383, an increase of £1,293,343, or about $6,000,000, equal to 14 38 per cent. Some of the increases are instructive enough:

	1891	1892
For 11 months
Flour	1,202,459	4646,739
Butter	174,043	238,565
Cheese	1,880,030	2,325,371
Wood, hewn	657,957	797,464
Wood, sawn	1,886,634	2,655,651

There are very encouraging signs here for the Canadian farmer, who has the further assurance that he is supplying a practically unlimited market. The revival in the demand for lumber is satisfactory. Canadian cheese, apparently, continues its marvellously successful progress, while, thanks to the efforts of the Dominion Government, our butter is reviving in favor.—Empire.

MARRIAGES

GIBSON—LLOYD—On Wednesday, Dec. 28th, at the residence of the bride's father Mr. Geo. C. Lloyd to Miss Jessie F. Gibson, by Rev. Albert L. Geen, F.B.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle

Any person who has used Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best thing in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothaches in one minute; lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Why not try it to day? Large bottles 25 cents, sold by druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's nerve cure—Nerviline.

THE WOMAN WHO WORKS, and is tired, will find a special help in Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Perfectly harmless in any condition of the female system. It promotes all the natural functions, and builds up, strengthens, regulates, and cures. For women approaching confinement, nursing mothers, and every weak, run-down, delicate women, it is an invigorating, supporting tonic that's peculiarly adapted to their needs.

But it's more than that, too. It's the only guaranteed remedy for all the functional disturbances, painful disorders, and chronic weaknesses of womanhood. In "female complaints" of every kind, periodical pains, bearing-down sensations, internal inflammation, and kindred ailments, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Something else that ——says the dealer better, may be offered as "just as good." Perhaps it is, for him, but it can't be, for you.

SHOP EARLY

And often this week. Thursday and Saturday the farmers will demand a good share of our attention. Our display don't include raisins or tea, pills or perfumery, books or dolls, but if you want a piece of SILVER WARE, a LAMP, a dinner or tea set or anything in china or crockery why see us—that's where we shine. So much better choice in such a store as this than places where there's a little of everything and not much of anything. 9 hanging and 5 parlor table lamps sold Saturday. This shows how the main stream of trade keeps to the old channel. Open every night this week.

To the Electors of Ketcheson Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RESPECTFULLY ask your votes and influence as a Candidate for Alderman for 1893. I am in favor of the reduction of Aldermen to at least fourteen, to be elected by the whole city—the present wards to remain intact. I will support all measures which as a citizen I think to be in the best interest of the present position and future progress of this City, believing neither in undue municipal extravagance nor in false economy.

Made With Skill.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skillful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

Out of Sorts.—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

The speed of a wild duck is ninety miles an hour.

Do not delay in getting relief for the little folks. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is a pleasant sure cure. If you love you child why then do you let it suffer when a remedy is so near at hand.

BROOKE'S DAUGHTER.

BY

ADELINE SERGEANT,

Author of "A True Friend," etc, etc.
(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

Mr. Kenyon had only one moment in which to note the significance of her attitude, for Lesley changed it as soon as she heard the name. He gave Ethel's message at once and Ethel's parcel, and then stood, a little confused and unready, for she had risen as if, when his mission was accomplished, he ought to go. Fortunately, Doctor Sophy came in and invited him cordially to sit down; rang for tea and scolded him roundly for not coming sooner; and suddenly remembered that one of her everlasting committees was at that moment sitting in a neighboring house, and started off at once to join her fellows, calling out to Lesley as she went to give Mr. Kenyon some tea, and tell her father who was in the library.

'My father is out; Aunt Sophy does not know that,' said Lesley to her visitor.

'Then I ought to go!' said Maurice smiling.

'Oh, no!'—Lesley looked disturbed. 'I did not mean to be so inhospitable. The tea is just coming up.'

'Thank you,' said Maurice, accepting the unspoken invitation and seating himself. 'I shall be very glad of a cup.'

She sat down too, veiling the real embarrassment of a school-girl by an assumption of great dignity. Maurice looked at her and felt perplexed. Somehow he could not believe that Brooke's daughter was such a frivolous girl when he came to look at her. She had a fine brow, expressive eyes and a very eloquent mouth. He wondered what she was reading. Glancing at the title of the book, his heart sank within him. She had a yellow-backed novel in her hand, of a profoundly frivolous type. Maurice was fond of certain kinds of novels, but ther swere others that he disliked and despised, and, as it happened, Lesley had got hold of one of these.

'You are reading!' he said. 'Am I interrupting you very much?'

'Oh, no,' Lesley answered smiling and shutting the book. 'Tea is coming up, you see. I am falling into your English habits, and beginning to like the hour of tea.'

Sarah brought in the tea-tray as she spoke; and even Sarah's sour visage relaxed a little at the sight of the young doctor. She went downstairs, and presently returned with a plate of small, sweet cakes, which she placed rather ostentatiously on the table.

'Sarah must have brought those cakes especially for me,' said Mr. Kenyon lightly when she had left the room. 'She knows they are my special favorites. And your father's too. I don't know how many dozen your father and I have eaten with our coffee sometimes in an evening! I suppose you are learning to like them for his sake!'

He was talking for the sake of giving her back the confidence that she seemed to have lost, for her face had flushed and paled again more than once since his entry. But perhaps he was mistaken, for she answered him with a quietness of tone which showed no perturbation.

'These little macaroon things, you mean? I like them very much already. I did not know that my father cared about them. I have been away so long'—smilingly—'that I know but little of his tastes.'

'I could envy you the pleasure you will have, then!' said Maurice quickly.

Lesley opened her eyes. 'The—the pleasure?' she said in a faltering tone.

'Yes, the pleasure of discovering what are the tastes and feelings of a man like your father,' said Maurice.

Then, as she looked disconcerted still, and as if she did not know quite what he meant, he went on ardently:

'You have the privilege, you know, of being the daughter of a man who is not only widely known, but very much respected and admired. That doesn't seem much to you perhaps!—for he thought he saw Lesley's lip curl, and his tone became a little sharp. 'I assure you it means a deal more in a world like ours—in London. It means that your father is a man of unimpeachable honesty—I mean honesty of purpose, honesty of thought—intellectual honesty. You have no idea how rare that quality is amongst public men—or literary men—or journalists. Indeed it is a wonder that Brooke, of all men—but see how he is sustering that he never wrote or said a word that he did not mean. No doubt that seems a small thing to you; it is not a small thing to say by a journalist now-a-days.'

'I don't know much about journalists,' said, Leslie 'But all you are saying would be taken as a matter of course amongst gentlemen.'

There was a snub for Maurice, and a sly hit at her father, too. Maurice began to wax warm.

'Forgive me,' he said, 'you entirely fail to understand me; and I can imagine that that you, perhaps, fail to understand your father also.'

'If I do,' said Lesley, proudly, 'I hardly need to be set right by a stranger.'

The young doctor sprang to his feet. 'I a stranger!' he said. 'I have known and appreciated and worked with Caspar Brooke for the last half dozen years—I to be called a stranger by his daughter! I don't think that's fair; I don't indeed.'

He paused and put his tea-cup down upon the table. 'If you'll only think for a moment, Miss Brooke,' he said, entreating ly, with such a sudden softening of voice and manner that Lesley sat amazed, 'I cannot believe but that you'll do me justice. I owe so much to your father—he has been a guide, a helper, and almost a prophet to me, ever since I came across him when I was a medical student at King's College Hospital, and I only want everybody to see him with my eyes—loving and reverent eyes, if you will let me say so—that I may so to everybody, seeing that love and reverence seem to have gone out of fashion! But to his daughter——'

'His daughter does not need to be taught how to love him,' said Lesley, flushing hotly, 'nor be an old friend or a comparative stranger,' said Lesley. 'She can learn for herself.'

'But can she!'—Maurice Kenyon's Irish strain, which always led him to be more eager and explicit in speech than if he had been entirely of Anglo-Saxon nationality, was running away with him. 'Are you sure that she, Miss Lesley Brooke; that you come to your father's house straight from a French convent, I believe. What can you know of English life? of the strife of political parties, of literary parties, of faiths and theories and passions? You are plunged into the midst of a new world —it can't help but be strange to you at first, and you must feel a trifle forlorn and miserable—at least I should think so——'

Lesley was in a dilemma. Kenyon's word's were so true, so apt, that they brought involuntary tears to her eyes. She could not get rid of a lump in her throat only by working herself up into a rage; she could dissipate tears only by making her eyes flash with anger. The melting mood was not to her taste. She chose the more hostile tone.

'Mr. Kenyon, excuse me, but you have no right at all to talk to me about my being miserable. You may know my father; you do not know me.'

'But knowing your father so well——'

'That has nothing to do with it. Am I not a separate human being? What have you to do with me and my feelings? You say that I do not know English ways—Is it an English way,' cried Lesley, indignantly, 'to try to thrust yourself into a girl's confidence, and intrude where you have not been asked to enter? Then English ways are not those of which I approve.'

Maurice Kenyon felt that his cause was lost. He had grown rather white about the lips as he listened to Lesley's protest. Of course, he had offended by his abominable want of tact, he told himself—his intrusive offer of unneeded sympathy and help. But it was not in his nature to acknowledge himself beaten, and to take his leave without a word. His ardor impelled him to speak.

'Miss Brooke, I most sincerely beg your pardon,' he said in tones of deep humility.

HAMILTON, April 20, 1892.

I was doctoring for years with physicians for a scaly and severe affection of the scalp, they told me it was eczema, but gave me no permanent relief. I was also troubled with excessive dandruff, which would drop from my head like snow flakes. Hearing of Anti Dandruff I used it, and from the third application felt more relieved than for years; when half of the bottle was used the eczema and scaly eruptions had disappeared and have not returned since; dandruff was thoroughly removed, the itching of the scalp stopped, and for an elegant, clean and useful hair-dressing Anti Dandruff has no equal.

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I rolled on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

GENTLEMEN,—My little boy was troubled with a very bad cough, and a lady friend advised me to try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. I got it at once and can truly say I did not give more than three or four doses until his cough was gone. I have never been without it since, as I find it the best for troublesome coughs.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

Castoria.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when every mother will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphia, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ar.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

For Scrofula

"After suffering for about twenty-five years from scrofulous sores on the legs and arms, trying various medical courses without benefit, I began to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and a wonderful cure was the result. Five bottles sufficed to restore me to health."—Bonifacio Lopez, 57 E. Commerce st., San Antonio, Texas.

Catarrh

"My daughter was afflicted for nearly a year with catarrh. The physicians being unable to help her, my pastor recommended Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I followed his advice. Three bottles of regular treatment with Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's Pills completely restored my daughter's health."—Mrs. Louise Rielle, Little Canada, Ware, Mass.

Rheumatism

"For several years, I was troubled with inflammatory rheumatism, being so bad at times as to be entirely helpless. For the last two years, whenever I felt the effects of the disease, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and have not had a spell for a long time."—E. T. Hansbrough, Elk Run, Va.

For all blood diseases, the best remedy is AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

Cures others, will cure you

Dr. Wilkin's RED BLOOD PILLS.

Nothing Like Them on Earth.

They produce a natural fresh pink color on the cheeks and lips. The most remarkable and the most perfect of all health giving remedies. The greatest of all flesh formers. They purify, enrich and strengthen the blood. The only safe, sure and certain remedy for all those distressing complaints so peculiar to the female sex. A DOWN-TRODDEN RACE

CRUELTY OF THE OFFICIALS OF THE CZAR TOWARDS THE JEWS.

Six Edicts Which Aimed To Clear Russia of Jews—Enforced With the Utmost Rigor—Driven Out of Towns—Trade Suffering In Consequence.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—The latest advices from St. Petersburg and other parts of Russia show that the persecution of the Jews and the inhumanity of the Czar's officials towards that unhappy race are greater than ever before. Edicts have been issued aiming to disperse the Jewish subjects of Russia, weaken their position and trading power and crush out their religion. These edicts are enforced with the utmost rigor in many yarts of the Empire and with severity everywhere.

The Moscow papers boast that since the beginning of 1891 20,000 Jews who have been driven to a pretended denial of their religious faith in order to escape intolerable persecution have been deported to the district of Tchernikeeve, about five miles from Moscow. There they are rigorously governed by priests of the Russian Orthodox Church, who compel them to attend the services of that church and to comply with its various rules, watching narrowly for any sign of evasion or repentance.

The police have been making a careful scrutiny of the birth papers of the Jews with a view to drive more of them out of the towns, none being allowed to reside in towns except those who are natives. Moscow has lost, in consequence of the persecution, a multitude of the most valuable residents. Many of the Jewish tradesmen and artisans who have been driven from Moscow have gone to Lodz, a place a few hours by rail from Warsaw, and which has rapidly risen to a population of 125,000, most of them Jews. Under the impulse of Jewish skill and industry Lodz is fast becoming an important manufacturing centre, the factories there being busy night and day and the manufacturers having orders for three months ahead.

Trade in Moscow is on the other hand collapsing through the loss of Jewish capital and labor, which had no small share in building up and maintaining the industry and prosperity of that place. While in Moscow under the barbaric administration of the Grand Duke Sergius the persecution of the Jews was for the time being somewhat relaxed, and throughout Russia generally the ill-treatment of Jews is not on as large a scale as in Moscow, although severe and most intolerable everywhere.

The regulations especially and universally enforced throughout Russia are those limiting the residence of Jews within certain fixed localities, the prohibition of Jewish artisans from working in places beyond the control of official boards of trade, and the restriction as to unauthorized synagogs, it being forbidden to Jews to worship in any but an authorized synagog.

The condition of Jews, except in Lodz and a few others, is becoming steadily and rapidly worse, particularly in the case of those who have no means to bribe Russian officials.

WHAT OF THE FUTURE?

A Priest Who Becomes a Benedict And Talks Church Reform.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—According to The Sun's Washington correspondent there is quite a sensation over the outrage and consequent disaffection from the Catholic church of Dr. Snell, private secretary to Bishop Keane of the Catholic University and lecturer on comparative theology.

The Doctor has always been a loyal supporter of the church, but after mature deliberation, and some assistance from Don Cupid, he has finally cut loose. The Doctor's bride is Minnie Gilbert Sprague, daughter of a Presbyterian clergyman, and the ceremony was performed by the President of Havard University.

Dr. Snell has a leaning toward theosophy, but refuses at present to talk. He declares that the study of Eastern religions will have an undoubted effect on Christianity.

The Street Car Fire.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 30.—Henry C. Payne, vice-president and manager of the Milwaukee Street Railway Company, has made a written statement, based on the testimony of employees, in which he admits the fire in the company's barns yesterday was not incendiary.

Since the cold weather set in the employes at night have been running the cars into the barn without withdrawing the fire from the heater. The origin of the fire is now accounted for in this way.

Milwaukee Terrorized.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 30.—The Mayor of Milwaukee offers a $2500 reward for the arrest of the persons who started any of the recent fires or who will start any in the next 30 days.

The city is terrorized, and 100 special policemen are to be added to the force.

It seems certain that there is a gang of incendiaries, probably Socialists, here determined to operate.

The Greed For Gold.

DENVER, Dec. 30.—A terrible battle, in which over 100 shots were exchanged, took place at the San Juan mining camp on Tuesday.

The direct cause of the trouble was the discovery of large nuggets in the bottom of a small stream. Each man claimed that he had first located the ground, and to settle the dispute guns were brought to bear.

There were over 40 men engaged, and few if any escaped unhurt. Eleven were killed.

Ice Blockade in Europe.

BERLIN, Dec. 30.—Navigation on the Rhine, Elbe and Main Rivers has been stopped by floating ice.

A Bunch of Accidents.

RUMFORD FALLS, Me., Dec. 29.—Yesterday was remarkable in this town for its list of fatal accidents. Richard Swan was terribly mangled by the explosion of a dynamite cartridge. William Falvey and Lewis Berry of Quebec drank wood alcohol and died. Thomas Burgess, farmer of Peru, went into the woods with his ax; later he was found dead under a tree he had cut down, which had fallen upon him. A row occurred between an American laborer and some Italians, in which one of the latter was badly cut with an ax in the hands of the American.

A Fatal Collision.

CHICAGO, Dec. 03.—Four persons were killed and twice that number injured yesterday by the collision of a Pittsburg and Fort Wayne passenger train with a heavily-loaded street car at the junction of 47th street and Stuart avenue. The engineer of the train and the two watchmen at the crossing are under arrest pending an investigation of the accident.

A Comedian Dead.

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 30.—Bob Slavin, the comedian, died suddenly yesterday. He was one of the most popular minstrels in the country.

A REVOLUTION COMING.

Ecuador Has a President Who Is as Despotic as Balmaceda Was.

PANAMA, via Galveston, Dec. 30.—Ecuador is in a condition of unrest and there is strong reason to apprehend an approaching revolution. The situation is very like that of Chili before the uprising against the dictatorship of Balmaceda.

The President has assumed almost despotic power, overriding alike the constitution and the laws. He has used the vast power in the most drastic manner, annuling the financial and customs laws passed by Congress and leaving the executive work without a semblance of legality.

The President is now practically a dictator, and there is reason to believe that a revolution will shortly break out with a view to establishing a constitutional government.

THE CARTAGE QUESTION.

Drygoods Merchants Wait Upon the Railroad Authorities.

MONTREAL, Dec. 30.—A deputation of the drygoods section of the Board of Trade, consisting of the president, Mr. R. L. Gault, and Messrs. James Ogilvie, Stuart and P. P. Martin, waited upon Mr. George Olds, general traffic manager of the C.P.R., and Mr. John Burton, general freight agent of the G.T.R., in reference to present cartage grievance.

The drygoods men complain that owing to the recent separation of the cartage from the freight in the railroad accounts they are compelled to pay cartage to their warehouses upon goods bought, freight prepaid, in the West, and they ask the railroads to return to the old system, under which the freight and cartage were included on the one charge and the goods delivered free at their own doors.

To this the railroad representatives replied that freight rates had been steadily declining for some time past, while the cartage rates were the same as ever. Hence they were unable to include the cartage in the freight without advancing freight rates. This latter course was impossible, because the tariff sheets and schedules are already printed and could not at present be altered.

Under these circumstances only one course is open to merchants purchasing goods from Western factories on the old terms—that is to pay the freight and cartage themselves and charge back the amount against the invoice. In this way the goods will practically be delivered free at their warehouses, same as heretofore, although it will involve a little extra trouble on their part.

A BAD SON.

Chokes His Father to Get Money on Which to Sport Around.

MONTREAL, Dec. 30.—A young man named Joseph Leclerc, son of one of the wealthiest manufacturers of this city, was placed under arrest at the instance of his father on the subsequently brought before Judge Dugas, who sent him to jail for six months.

The charge was for stealing money and clothes belonging to his father and brothers. Joseph is the "black sheep" of the Leclerc family. On Tuesday he met a friend who wanted a good time, and to get money in order to be accommodating, determined to get money.

Going to his father's office, he demanded money, but was refused, whereupon he seized the old gentleman by the throat and threatened to choke him if he did not produce the cash. Help came from the factory and the young man was sent away. Later, however, he again visited his residence and there stole a watch and several coats.

The police were notified and Deputy High Constable Lambert soon found the ingrate and he was lodged in the cells at the Court House. Judge Dugas gave the prisoner a severe lecture and concluded by sending him to pass the winter in Valley's.

A Bride-Elect's Long Journey.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 30.—News has arrived of the marriage at Bombay, India, on Nov. 21, of Rev. Norman Russell, formerly of this city, now of the Canadian Presbyterian Mission at Mhow, Central India, to Miss Minnie Hodgins of Toronto. Miss Hodgins traveled all the way from Toronto to meet her future husband at Bombay. The groom is a son of Mr. James Russell of this city.

Premier Taillon's Opponent.

MONTREAL, Dec. 30.—At a convention of the Liberals of Chambly County, held at Longueuil yesterday, Antoine Rocheleau was chosen as Liberal candidate to oppose Premier Taillon in Chambly.

Mr. Rocheleau accepted.

Fire in Quebec.

QUEBEC, Dec. 29.—Reid, Craig & Co., paper manufacturers, St. Paul-street, were burned out at 4 a.m. yesterday. The fire crossed the street and laid two houses in ashes, the inmates escaping in their night clothes. Then A. B. Dupuis' biscuit factory went. The loss is $100,000.

Too Stormy To Transfer.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—The White Star line steamship Germanic, Capt. Nichol, which left New York Dec. 21 for Liverpool, which was sighted off Rosslare this afternoon, was unable on account of a heavy gale to land passengers or mails at Queenstown and proceeded direct for Liverpool.

Concession to Female Convicts.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—A despatch to The Standard from Moscow says: It is reported that the Minister of Justice has decided to exempt female convicts in Siberia from flogging and from wearing manacles and to substitute punishment by restricted diet and isolation. The decision of the Ministry awaits the sanction of the Imperial Council.

French Alliance Disparaged.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 30.—The Novoe Vremya has made a concession by publishing an article, apparently inspired by high authority, in which the French alliance is disparaged.

Two More Suicides.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Two more players at Monte Carlo gaming tables have committed suicide. One was a young American, who lost $17,000 belonging to his mother and which she had entrusted to his care.

Deaths from Cholera.

HAMBURG, Dec. 30.—Two deaths from cholera have occurred in Altona, a suburb of this city.

Five cases of a disease suspected to be cholera have been discovered among the Portuguese national here. Soldiers belonging to neighboring garrisons have been forbidden to visit Hamburg.

Fled From the Officers.

LONG ISLAND CITY, Dec. 30.—No more deaths have resulted from yesterday's dynamite explosion in the tunnel works in this city. McIntee, foreman of the tunnel works, whose carelessness is supposed to have caused the disaster, and who was placed under arrest, has escaped.

Floods in California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 30.—Reports from the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys show that the damage by floods will be above $1,000,000. The Capitol City is safe, but all along the river fine wheat land is covered with water.

"Is Cured Mother."

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life become very miserable as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of acquainting others of the great qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. My lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

Signed, MELVILLE B. MARSH,
Aberfoyle, P. Q. General Merchant.

The profection of God being infinite, to become God-like means infinite growth.

Bickle's Anti Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medicinal herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, whooping cough, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use, and other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are affected with colds, coughs, inflammation of the lungs, sore throat, quinsey, and sore throat, this Syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from these causes is truly appalling. It is so palatable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Pudding with a hair in it is sweetness wasted on a dessert hair.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion is occasioned by want of action in the biliary ducts, loss of vitality in the stomach to secrete the gastric juices, without which digestion cannot take place. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills taken before going to bed, for a while, never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr. F. W. Ashdown, Ashdown, Ont., writes:—"Parmelee's Pills are the best I have ever sold against ten other makes which I have in stock."

In nearly all the markets of German cities fish are sold alive.

The same wind that brings a cloud will bear it away again.

DYNAMITE IN BRITAIN.

DETECTIVES SHADOWING MR. GLADSTONE TO PROTECT HIM.

Secretary Asquith Also Guarded—Major Le Caron, the Fenian Spy, Given a Job on the Dublin Explosion Affair—Belief That There Is a Band of Conspirators.

DUBLIN, Dec. 30.—The Imperial authorities have directed Scotland Yard to take the spy, Major LeCaron, into the employ of the Government for the purpose of tracing out the guilty parties connected with the Dublin explosion.

The authorities appear to be so strongly convinced that the Dublin explosion, by which Detective Sergeant Ivon lost his life, was part of the work of a band of conspirators that they have sent a detective to Biarritz to keep guard over Mr. Gladstone and to protect him from outrage. Mr. Gladstone has not been made aware of the precaution taken, as it is known that the authorities would especially needed to employ No Private Work, during all diseases coming from Watery Blood, or from Vitiated Humors in the Blood, and also in Debility and Build up the Blood and Strengthen, when Broken down by overwork, mental worry, excesses and indiscretions. BABY ONE SOLID SORE

My baby, when two months old, had a breaking out with, what the doctor called eczema. Her head, arms, feet, and hands were each one solid sore. I tried everything, but neither the doctors nor anything else did her any good. We could get no rest day or night with her. In my extremity I tried the Cuticura Remedies, but I confess I had no faith in them, for I had never seen them tried. To my great surprise, in one week's time after beginning to use the Cuticura Remedies the sores were well, but continued to use the Resolvent for a little while, and now she is as fat a baby as you would like to see, and as sound as a dollar. I would have died if I had not tried Cuticura Remedies. I write this that every mother with a baby like mine can feel confident that there is a medicine that will cure the worst case of skin disease, and that the Cuticura Remedies.

MRS. BETTIE BIRKNER, Lockhart, Texas.

Cuticura Remedies

Cure every humor of the skin and scalp of infancy and childhood, whether torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, or blotchy, with loss of hair, and every impurity of the blood, whether simple, scrofulous, or hereditary, when the best physicians and all other remedies fail. BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, DEC. 30

A LITTLE MORE THAN KIN AND LESS THAN KIND.

"Our friends across the lakes are working themselves into a perfect ferment of apprehensive indignation because of the Canadian Government building three revenue cutters for the protection of our commerce on the lakes. The Buffalo Times sees in this fact an insidious attempt on the part of Great Britain to establish an ironclad fleet on these inland seas, while the Express magnifies these harmless little vessels into "marine monsters."

Not only this, but General N. A. Miles (whom we suppose to be one of the army of some thirty thousand generals, colonels, majors, and captains, whom the United States could put in the field at short notice), sees in this action of our Government not only an infraction of the treaty of 1817—and therefore the equivalent of a declaration of war—but a standing menace to every United States city and town on the great lakes. He also states that "the British navy has 35 protected cruisers, 18 unprotected cruisers, 20 torpedo vessels, 54 gun vessels, 2 armored vessels, 6 despatch vessels and 5 armed steamers of draugh light enough to allow their passage through the Welland Canal," and that "England can send a large fleet of light draught war vessels up the St. Lawrence River into the great lakes and could burn every town from Duluth to Detroit."

The gallant General is in error, both as to his facts and inferences; in the first place there is no violation of the treaty of 1817. By that instrument each nation is permitted to maintain on the lakes one armed vessel and three revenue cutters; the United States have exercised that right from the date of the treaty, while the British-Canadian Government have allowed their right as to the cutters to lie dormant; but certainly the disuse of a right does not extinguish it, and the right of the Canadian Government to maintain three revenue cutters on the lakes is as perfect to day as it was on the day on which the treaty was ratified. The gallant General's military acumen seems as much at fault as his historical knowledge. As a strategist he ought to know that Britain is not likely to risk her vessels on a route where a few pounds of dynamite, skilfully applied, would not only bar their advance, but cut off their retreat, and leave them lying helpless in the dismantled canals, exposed to attack and deprived of the chief element of defence, free locomotion. It is not likely that Britain will ever go to war with the United States, unless under the most extreme provocation. If, however, a war should be forced upon her, her ports would most likely be to employ her navy to capture or destroy the United States merchant vessels in all parts of the world, to blockade her coasts, and possibly to bombard some of their maritime cities on the shores of both oceans. Let us hope, however, that a better spirit, the spirit of peace and good will, may actuate the rulers of both countries, and that the world may be spared the spectacle of an internecine conflict between nations so intimately connected by the ties of a common ancestry and a common language.

Literary Notes.

The Canadian Sportsman, Toronto, has issued a highly creditable Christmas number, which contains a picture of Mr. James McGuire's horse "Nutgrove."

THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL.

The social laws which govern girls at the theatre, opera and concert, form the third of Mrs. Burton Harrison's excellent papers on "The Well-bred Girl in Society," in the January Ladies' Home Journal, and Mr. W. Dean Howells fitly supplements this article with his story of American girl life, "The Coast of Bohemia," which gains in brightness and spirited action as it proceeds. All through the issue there is that brightness of entertainment and those evidences of careful editing which have made this magazine what it is, and brings to it each month an army of 700,000 readers. "One dollar for one year" is the motto of the Journal, or rather of its publishers, the Curtis Publishing Co. of Philadelphia.

Mayoralty 1893.

For faithful service in the past
Each citizen his vote should cast,
And not let wisdom go to waste;
Which is upon experience based.

The man who builds upon a rock
Is well prepared for every shock,
While he that runs his chance in air,
By every gust tossed here and there,

Will surely some day reach collapse,
And then that little word, "perhaps"
Will just about have lost its charm,
And many more will share the harm.

The only what they might expect,
Just hastened by their own neglect,
Expound this riddle, keep who can,
Why "Allan Petrie" is the man.

An Unseemly Fight.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—The Herald's correspondent from Kingston, Jamaica, says that as the result of a conflict on the 16th inst. between citizens and soldiers of the West India Regiment at the conclusion of the annual race meeting, 14 men were seriously wounded and one woman is reported to have died from the effects of the injuries received. The row began through a quarrel between a soldier and a civilian on the race track.

"Happy and Jolly"

The children of the City Mission had a glorious time last night at their annual Christmas festival, the building being literally jammed to the doors with as happy a company as it is possible to imagine. The gifts from many donors among the business men and friends, more than filled a large sail boat. Santa Claus honored the occasion by his presence and with much more than usual kindness, liberally bestowing useful and fancy gifts in great profusion, in addition to bags of candies and cakes to each of the children. It was a happy, jolly, never-to-be-forgotten time. Mrs. Schuster desires to return the sincere thanks of the teachers, as well as herself for the abundant supplies of all kinds that were sent in by so many, that we have not space here to enumerate their names, but they will appear in the annual report in February.

ANARCHISTS IN FRANCE.

AN EXPLOSION SIMILAR TO THAT IN DUBLIN.

Windows Smashed and Woodwork Damaged—Fragments of Castiron Found Scattered About—The Police Had Two Pounds of Explosive Material.

PARIS, Dec. 30.—An explosion at half-past 1 o'clock yesterday in the hall leading to the suite of offices between the ground floor and the first story of the prefecture of police has caused a sensation. The authorities are not decided as to whether the explosion was the work of Anarchists or merely an accident caused by a leakage of gas. Investigation is being held. The explosion caused no fatality, but windows were smashed and woodwork damaged.

An investigation of the premises by experts has led to the discovery that the explosion was undoubtedly the work of Anarchists, who had placed in the Entresol a bomb heavily charged with chlorate powder.

Fragments of castiron, which had formed the shell of the bomb, were found scattered about the place. These were fitted together as well as could be done and showed that the bomb had been of sufficient size to contain two pounds of explosive material. The explosion was badly planned. Had it occurred at an earlier hour there is no doubt that many persons would have been killed.

The Paris correspondent of The London News, referring to the explosion at the Prefecture of Police, says:

Suspicion points to a dismissed official known to have access to the box containing the office cleaning requisites, made to imitate an upholstered seat, upon which, it is clear, the infernal machine was placed.

The concierge says that he is certain that no infernal machine was there the evening previous. It appears that the intention was to injure the sub-director of the town police.

The fragments of the infernal machine show that it was made of hammered iron, nine inches long and was charged with chlorate powder, gunpowder and small nails.

The wall for an area of 12 yards was completely peppered by the nails.

Four applicants for employment called at the office on the previous evening appointment and sat on the box while waiting. Anyone frequenting the building might have learned from the gossip of the servants engaged in Girard's laboratory, located in the basement, sufficient to enable him to make such a machine as that which exploded.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.

The Number Has Steadily Increased in Spite of All Efforts.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—One of the most interesting portions of the statistical report just issued in connection with the work of the Interstate Commerce Commission is that relating to the number and character of accidents upon the varied railroads of the country.

Attention has frequently been directed to this very important matter, and all sorts of recommendations have been made with the view of diminishing the frequency of these casualties. But in spite of all efforts in this direction the number of accidents has steadily increased. For the year ending on June 30, 1891, the casualties were greater than for any previous year.

Of course the greater part of these accidents befell the employes of the railroads. Of 7029 killed during the year, 2060 were employes and only 293 passengers. The same ratio is kept up in the list of the injured. Of a total of 33,881 persons injured on the railways, 26,140 were employes and 2972 were passengers.

It must be remembered that the increase in the number of employes killed and injured is due, in a measure, to the fact that more men are employed. In the year 1891, for example, 784,282 men were employed, an increase of 34,984 over the preceding year. This large increase necessarily exposes more men to the risks and perils of railroad life, while at the same time devices for the protection of the men do not keep pace with the growth of this large army.

A classification of the accidents for the year shows that the greatest danger lies in the coupling and uncoupling of cars. In 1891 415 employes were killed, and 9431 injured in this work. It is apparent, therefore, that one of the means for lessening the number of accidents to railroad men must be some device which will remove the element of danger in coupling and uncoupling cars.

This has been partly met by the automatic coupler. Some states have passed laws requiring the use of this device, but many railroads refuse to employ the automatic coupler, and it is difficult to compel the use of it by legislation. Many deaths and accidents on the railroads are caused by employes falling from the trains.

This is another of the perils to which brakemen especially are exposed. The slightest carelessness on the part of the brakeman as he runs along the top of the train may be fatal. No doubt these accidents will continue to be frequent until the air-brake is generally adopted.

When freight trains are provided with this form of brake, the necessity of running from one car to another will be done away with. Here is a fine field for the inventiveness of the American. If he can do anything to diminish the extent of this annual sacrifice, he will indeed be conferring a great benefit upon the public.

Fire at Palmer's Theatre.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—The watchman at Palmer's Theatre discovered fire under the stage at a quarter past 5 o'clock yesterday morning. Just as the watchman rushed from the theatre to give the alarm a man was seen to leave the office of Thomas E. Eckerson, real estate agents, who have offices under the theatre in 30th-street, and threw a blazing book into the street.

He then returned to the office and looked himself in. A cabman who noticed the man's actions informed the police, who arrested the man. In the floor was found a heap of burned papers, which seemed to show that a fire had been kindled by some one in the office.

Suicide at Thedford.

MARKHAM, Ont., Dec. 30.—News has reached here of the suicide by hanging of Herbert Clarke, eldest son of John Clarke, a farmer living at Thedford. The young man, who was aged 22, had been low spirited for some time past.

Fire in Orillia.

ORILLIA, Ont., Dec. 30.—A fire yesterday destroyed the Coldwater-street Skating Rink, Thomas Phillips' residence and a few adjoining buildings. Losses partly covered by insurance. Incendiarism is suspected.

Lieut.-Gov. Royal.

OTTAWA, Dec. 30.—Mr. C. H. Royal has been appointed Lieut.-Governor of the Northwest Territories.

Murdered and Cremated.

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30.—The station house at Brighton, five miles east of here, was destroyed by fire yesterday. The remains of Miss Lucy Ayers, the telegraph operator and railroad agent, were found burned almost to a crisp in the ruins. It is evidently a case of murder and arson. Miss Ayers was reported to have had considerable money.

Two Negroes Lynched.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 30.—Lewis Fox and Adam Grippson, two negro murderers, were lynched in St. Charles parish yesterday.

Differences Settled.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 30.—The differences between the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad officials and the Grievance Committee of the Brotherhood of Trainmen have been settled by the signing of a wage scale which makes an average increase of from 6 to 16 cents per day.

How Can't Get Rid.

Of my tormenting corns; get rid of them without pain; get rid of them quickly and efficiually, without possibility of return! They Got it at Last.

For many years scientists tried to concentrate the blood, flesh and bone making qualities contained in the oil of the Norwegian cod. They only partially succeeded. But by new chemical processes, rendered feasible by electrical forces, the life giving properties of the oil have all been captured and are safely imprisoned within that famous remedy which is being talked about all over the country, known as "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil." Physicians acknowledge that this is the greatest discovery, or rather the perfection of a discovery, ever given to the world. To say that it cures consumption by making blood, flesh and bone for the patient is quite enough. It is a remedy that positively needs no puffing. Many young people have been saved by its use. In big bottles 50c. and $1.00, at all Drug Stores.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN;

HAVING been requested by a large number of influential electors of the city of Belleville, to offer myself for Mayor for 1893, I have consented to do so, and now respectfully solicit your votes and influence. I have resided in the city six years, three of which I have served in the City Council and School Board. (I would respectfully refer you to my work therein.) I come out as a business man, having had 20 years business experience in different parts of Canada, which is of great service to any one in filling the civic chair. I have chosen Belleville as my home, and have invested all my capital in and around the city, and my interests being centred here, I will, if elected, do all in my power, at home heretofore, to advance the best interests of the city.

I strongly urge the reduction of the number of Aldermen, and shall use every endeavor to carry into effect the proposal made by me to the Council in respect to it last year.

I have also in view the grave necessity of getting the city in the best sanitary condition possible to enable as the better to cope with disease or the cholera epidemic should it reach us next year.

Yours,

96d HARRY FOWELL.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of My Native City:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

FOR years past I have had the offer of support for the Civic Chair, but at the present time two many of my old friends have brought more pressure to bear than I can decently withstand. I have been asked to stand for the highest position that the citizens can confer on any one. Among the men who offer me their support are to be found Irishmen, Englishmen, Dutchmen, Frenchmen and now and then a Scotchman, besides a good many Canadians. To the electors I am no stranger. I have been a member of the City Council for the greater part of a quarter of a century and during that time have done what I felt was for the best interest of the city and will continue on the same line if successful at the coming election. I am in favor of strict economy in city affairs and decrease of our indebtedness. At the nomination I will freely give my views on the situation, and with much respect I ask that when you mark your ballot you will not forget

A. T. PETRIE.

Belleville, Dec. 20, 1893.

MAYORALTY.

To the Electors of the City of Belleville:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I RESPECTFULLY solicit your votes and influence for Mayor of the City of Belleville for 1893. I was born in Belleville and have lived amongst you all my life, and am personally known to the most of you. I have been an Alderman in the City Council for four years, and during that time have endeavored to represent you straightforwardly and faithfully.

My platform is economy in City affairs. If elected I will exert myself to further the best interests of the city.

Yours respectfully,

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE.

To the Municipal Electors of Murney Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

FOR the third time I respectfully ask for your votes and influence to secure me return as one of your representatives.

During the year I have been honored with the chairmanships of two important committees for the whole of the time, and a third—the Executive—for the last half of the year.

You are the judges whether I have attended faithfully to duty and acted conscientiously.

Whatever works for the city's good, if possible from the standpoints of economy and prudence, are the objects of my aim. I renew my pledges of attention to duty and fidelity to our city's welfare, and remain

Yours obediently,

J. E. WALMSLEY.

The funeral of the late Mrs. (Rev.) Robinson will take palace to-morrow afternoon at 2 p.m. Service at the house at the house at 1:30 p.m.

The Opera House.

The comedy By Wits Outwitted was produced at the opera house last night before a small house. The play was but fairly placed upon the boards.

A Handy Diary.

The North American Life Assurance Company have issued their annual Pocket diary. We have to thank their agent here, Ald. E. H. LaRoche, for a copy.

Municipal Election.

LIMERICK.

Fire in Hungerford.

The residence of Wm. Brown, 11th con. Hungerford, was burned on Wednesday, 28th inst. The inmates were turned out in their night clothes. Mrs. and Miss Brown had their feet and hands badly frozen.

Cheap Overcoats.

The Oak Hall wish to call particular attention to the lines of men's overcoats they are selling at $4. This may seem a remarkably low price to get any kind of a coat for, but just call and see this bargain. These are intended for men who think they cannot afford to keep warm.

Police Notes.

In police circles it is exceedingly quiet. But one arrest has been made this week, namely, a drunk.

Last night four tramps were sheltered.

An officer last night answered a call to the City Mission, as some boys were creating a disturbance. No arrests were made.

The Curling Rink.

The ice at the curling rink is now in good condition, and a number of the members are availing themselves of the opportunity of curling. The prospects are that the present season will be one of the best in the history of the club. A large membership has already been obtained, and much interest is manifested.

Gratifying to All.

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasing liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and is abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup Company.

Successful Revival.

The revival services that have been going on at Norham, for the past three weeks, conducted by Mr. A. W. Vermilyea, of Belleville, were brought to a close on Thursday of last week, the result being that some fifty or sixty have been added to the church in that place. — Campbellford Herald.

District Intelligence.

Norman Muchall, of Lakefield, who shot himself on Friday last, died on Wednesday evening from the wound inflicted. Despondency was the cause assigned for the act.

Thirteen tons of turkeys, geese and ducks have been shipped from the Cobourg station during the past few weeks.

Several car loads of evaporated apples were shipped from Picton last week.

Launch of the Revenge.

England's Last Addition to Her Fleet of First-Class Battle Ships Now on Water.

The first-class screw battle ship Revenge was successfully launched last week at the Armstrong Yard, Jarrow on Tyne. The English Naval Defence Act of 1889 authorized the construction, among other vessels, of eight battle ships of the first class. Four of these were promptly laid down in the Royal dockyards. The Royal Sovereign was launched at Portsmouth on February 26th, 1891; the Renown, or, as she is now called, the Empress of India, was launched at Pembroke on May 7th, 1891; the Hood was floated at Chatham on July 30th, 1891, and the last of the four was launched in February at Pembroke. The other four were given to private firms.

The Revenge is one of these, and was built at the same yard as the Resolution, which was previously launched. Her dimensions are as follows: Length, 380 feet; breadth, 75 feet; draught, aft, 27 feet 6 inches; displacement, 14,150 tons; freeboard forward, 19 feet 6 inches; freeboard aft, 18 feet; indicated horse power, natural draught, 9,000; indicated horse-power, forced draught, 13,000; speed, natural draught, 16 knots; speed, forced draught, 17½ knots.

The vessel is of steel throughout, and is built on the longitudinal system, the stern, sternpost, rudder, shaft, brackets and ram being formed of steel castings. The hull is divided into 220 water-tight compartments, thereby reducing to the fullest extent the risk of danger to bottom plating from rock and torpedoes, and rendering it practically unsinkable.

There is a double bottom extending throughout the engine room and magazine spaces. The inner bottom is raised at the centre of the ship and forms a flat for the magazine, which extends from the inner bottom to the lower deck. The engine and boilers are placed on each side of the magazine, and are separated by longitudinal bulkheads extending the whole length of the magazine space. Longitudinal bulkheads at the side extend throughout the machinery space and form coal bunkers and wing spaces. On the platform decks and lower decks, is placed the auxiliary machinery for the working of the ship, including steering engines, electric engines, and hydraulic pumping engines, as well as a fully equipped workshop and numerous store rooms. The officers and crew are accommodated on the belt and main decks. The officers, accommodations consist of handsomely fitted cabins, situated aft, the superior officers being located on the main deck.

The main armament consists of four 67-ton breech-loading guns of 13½ in calibre, with a training of 120 degrees on each side of the centre line. The auxiliary armament consists of the following, viz: Ten 6-inch 100 pounder quick-firing guns, four in armor casements on the main deck and six on the upper deck; sixteen 6 pounder quick firing guns, four on upper deck and twelve on main deck; nine 3 pounder quick-firing guns, four in military tops and five for boats; two 9 pounder R. M. L. field guns; eight 45-inch five-barrelled machine guns; seven torpedo tubes, four on the broadside, one at the stern and two submerged.

SOCIAL & PERSONAL

Miss Lena and Mr. Albert Vandevoort entertained at home on Tuesday evening last about 50 of their young friends. Miss Lena making a delightful young hostess, and the music all that could be desired. The party was a decided success—one of the events of the season.

Rev. W. H. Barnes, formerly pastor of Emmanuel R. E. church here, has been formally assigned by the Bishop of Ontario to the parish of Tweed.

Miss Minnie Lingham, of Belleville, is spending the Christmas holidays with friends in this city.—The Rev. W. J. Muckleston, of Christ church, Ottawa; the Rev. Geo. R. Beamish, of St. James church; and Rev. William H. Barnes, deacon, of Tweed, are mentioned as possible successors to the Rev. M. M. Harding, in the curacy of St. George's cathedral. All are members of the Brotherhood of St Andrew.—Kingston News.

Miss Heard of Oshawa College and Miss Domill are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Domill of the front of Sidney.

Mr. Angus Dickson is spending the holidays with his mother.

Mr. B. F. Dickens left this morning to accept a position in a large wall-paper house in Chicago.

Corporal Wilson, formerly of the 49th Battalion, who is at Stratford in the G.T. R's employ, was in the city to-day.

Lieut. Howard, of "Gatling gun" fame, was in the city to day.

Mr. Austin Conley, the genial clerk of the Huffman House, will shortly sever his connection therewith, to accept a lucrative position as travelling salesman for Mr. Robt. Turner, of Toronto. Mr. Conley has been with Mr. Huffman for upwards of 8 years, and is well known abroad.

Christmas Tree.

Christ Church congregation held their annual Festival and Xmas Tree in the Oddfellows' Assembly Hall last night. The idea which was conceived this year of making it a free entertainment was a great success, the hall being crowded, many going away for want of standing room.

The children held the floor for the first part of the evening and rendered several recitations. The second part of the programme was a magic lantern exhibition kindly given by Mr. S. G. Retallack.

The last part was the one in which the children take especial delight. Mr. Cooksman, the superintendent, having compliimented the school on its steady growth during the past year, wished all a Happy New Year, and introduced Santa Claus, who appeared on the scene and in his own jovial way presented the two trees loaded with Xmas gifts to the children.

The meeting closed by singing the Doxology, and all departed saying they had spent a pleasant evening.

How to Live 100 Years.

Health with many years may easily be attained. Temperance, Abstinence and care in food are taken as conditions. Always use Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder in biscuits cakes &c. and that part of food will be all right. Sold by all Grocers.

An "At Home."

On Tuesday, at Mr. George Ball's, the congregations of Roslin and Thurlow met, and spent a very enjoyable evening. The most pleasing features of the evening was the presentation of a beautiful fur coat, from many warm friends, to Mr. S. S. Burns, B.A., student of Queen's University, who labored during the summer months with them. After partaking of a fine spread provided by the ladies, the party of over 75 went home, satisfied with having been well entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Ball and family.

Fast Railway Travel.

Belleville, Chicago via G.T.R. in 17 hours, 10 minutes. Passengers for Chicago can leave Belleville by the Grand Trunk Railway Limited Express 4.20 a.m., and arrive in Chicago the same evening at 9.30. Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—Now that the battle for municipal honors has fairly commenced, we only hope that the voters will not go it blind on polling day. I am satisfied that much of the material they have to select from is not all that we would wish, and reminds me very much of the $450 rotatory scrub broom lately purchased for the city's use, entirely unsuited for the duties which they have to perform. Many an unfortunate "put up job" was perpetrated in the past, for which we are now suffering, many an argument was most cunningly embellished, and many a dollar was freely spent, for which the parties interested were fully recouped, to get the ratepayers to support some visionary project which was going to enhance the value of their property, most of which are vacant tenements and likely to remain so for many a day, only goes to show that care should be taken to select those men of good judgment to manage our affairs in the future. Away with spendthrifts and those who seek the position of either Alderman or Mayor for self-gratification and the delusive honor it may bestow on some vain and empty natures, regardless of the interests of the city or its future prosperity.

We have now arrived at the time when the greatest vigilance must be exercised, municipal superfluities dispensed with, and rigid economy practiced for at least a few years, so that much of our little holdings may not become entirely worthless.

In the present contest my choice rests with Allan T. Petrie for Mayor, whom I hope to see elected by a handsome majority. He has not only a prior claim for long and faithful services, but his votes in the Council were never at variance with the best interests of the city, a man of good parts and sound judgment, honorable in his dealings and full of municipal experience. Elect him by all means. He is the most deserving, possessing all the qualities required for the position.

AN OLD RESIDENT.

Belleville, Dec. 30, 1892.

Royal Black Knights.

A Royal Black Knight Preceptory was duly organized near Ivanhoe by Right Worshipful Sir Knight Robert Robinson, Past Grand Master of Ontario East, on the evening of Nov. 24, under a special Dispensation granted by the Most Worshipful Grand Master of British America. The following Sir Knights were elected office bearers for the current year:

Sir Knights Wm. Hagerty, W.P.; Wm. Burnett, D.P.; James Tanner, Chap.; W. B. Tanner, Reg.; John Tanner, Treas.; J. A. Potts, R. McDie, Censors; Samuel Tanner, Mark Murray, S. Bearers; Thos. Cook, Pursuivant; Amos Morgan, Lecturer; Jas. Bateman, Tyler; Jas. Coutts, J.T. Bateman, Charles Sweet, Com.

Among those who assisted in the mystic ceremonies were Sir Knights W. H. Craig, Tweed; Jas. Brown, A. Free and Geo. Robinson, Thomasburg.

This will, in all probability, be one of the strongest Preceptories in Ontario East in a very short time, owing to the known zeal of all its members and the abundance of material in the neighborhood.

Orange Elections.

L.O.L. No. 425 held their annual meeting in the Orange Hall on the 6th Dec. '92, when the following officers were elected and installed:—Geo. Francis, W.M.; Samuel McGuire, P.M.; Matthew Tummon, Chap.; Wm. Martin, R.S.; Thos. Reynolds, F.S.; Rich'd Downey, Treas.; Jas. Harvey, D. of C.; H. Williamson, Lecturer. Committee: J. J. Stevenson, 2 W. Tweddy 3 Jno. Williamson, 4 Jno. Stout, 5 Arthur Jones.

IVANHOE L.O.L. NO. 435,

At their December meeting elected the following officers for the current year:—Alex. Harvey, W.M.; H'y Wallace, D.M.; J. H. Fleming, Chap.; W.B. Tanner, Rec. Sec.; W. W. Collins, Fin. Sec.; J. B. Fox, Treas.; Wm. Chambers, D. of C.; W. H. Rollins, Lecturer. Committee: Jas. Rollins, Jas. Gunning, Robt. Rollins, F. Fitzpatrick, Alex. Melaroy. This Lodge meets every second Monday in each month. Visitors cordially invited.

The President of the Institute of Chartered Accountants at Ontario Business College.

Mr. H. W. Eddis, F.C.A., of Toronto, President of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario, is in the city, auditing the books of the Hastings Loan Comp'y. Accompanied by the Rev. Amos Campbell, one of the directors of the Company, Mr. Eddis visited Ontario Business College yesterday afternoon, and addressed the students. From his experience of forty years as public accountant, Mr. Eddis gave his audience valuable information and advice, which were highly appreciated, and acknowledged by a vote of thanks.

Mr. Eddis alluded to the splendid reputation of Ontario Business College, demonstrated in the audience before him, which included students from all sections of Canada, and the United States, the West Indies, and the United States. He also congratulated the students upon the fact that one of the Principals, Mr. Johnson, has the honor of being the first Vice-President of the Institute of Chartered Accountants. The Rev. Mr. Campbell also made a brief speech, which was well received.

What the Smallest Can Do.

The entertainment provided by the members of the primary department of Bridge Street Sunday school in their rooms last night was a delightful one. This was the programme:

Chorus, We are soldiers of the cross; prayer, Rev. Mr. Baker; address, Hon. B. Flint; chorus, Long ago on Christmas night; recitation, Emma Chislett; chorus, Jesus once was a little child; recitation, Fred Wallace; chorus, Hark! the bells are ringing gay; recitation, Fred Harwood; recitation, by twelve little girls; chorus, A star shone in the heavens; recitation, Ethel Walton; Trio, Reva, Effie and Emma Chislett; recitation, Percy Reeves; recitation, Little housekeepers, by ten girls; recitation, Madeline Young; chorus, Please roll your hands; recitation, Mabel Vermilyea; recitation, by some boys; recitation, Susie O'Flynn; chorus, Three cheers for old December; chorus, We wish you all a Happy New Year.

Before the last number on the programme was announced in walked Santa Claus, followed by three attendants carrying large baskets. The surprise of the children and their joy, as he made a speech to them and proceeded to give each of them a pretty cup and saucer, an orange and bags of candies, was worth going some distance to see. The audience showed their feelings of gratitude to the clever and indefatigable teachers of the Division, Miss Minnie Jones, Miss Mary Yeomans, and Miss Edith Jones, by a very enthusiastic vote of thanks.

An Enormous Serpent.

The largest serpent of which accurate measurements have been taken and noted was an anaconda, which Dr. Gardner found dead and suspended to the fork of a tree during his travels in Mexico. It was dragged out into the open by two horses, and it was found to measure thirty-seven feet in length. Inside of it were found the bones and flesh of a horse in a half digested state, and there was no doubt that it had swallowed the animal whole. Dr. Gardner and other travellers say that anacondas, pythons and boas attain a length of over forty feet, but there is no recorded instance of one having been encountered longer than that which has been mentioned, though many persons have seen serpents alive which they estimated to be of considerably larger size.

Tea Meeting.

A tea meeting was held at the Presbyterian church at Roslin last night which was largely attended. Mr. Hugh Walker of this city presided and gave an address. The ladies of the congregation provided a bountiful supper, after which a platform meeting was held. Addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Wilson, Rev. Mr. Rattray, Rev. Mr. McCauley, Mr. Burns and W. B. Northrup, M.P. Miss Robertson of this city gave two recitations and Mr. McIntosh two songs which were heartily encored. Mrs. Dr. Walker also sang and a duet was given by Miss Falconer and Mr. McIntosh and Messrs Rutherford and A. Gillen. The choir of St Andrew's church were also present and gave two choruses. Proceeds amounted to $130.

The Salmon Pack.

Official returns of the British Columbia salmon pack show a decrease of 89,414 cases, as compared with 1891, and various causes are assigned for the decrease; 1892 was an off year for the Fraser River, and the canners' combine restricted the pack on the Skeena. A large amount of fresh salmon is also exported. The total pack is 221,767 cases. The Fraser River pack is 68,132 cases: Skeena River, 20,000; River Inlet, 19,153; Naas River, 26,250; Gardner's Inlet, 6,000; Albert Bay, 4,292; Lower Inlet, 8,000. Only 19 out of 22 Fraser canneries were working this season.

Decreasing The Death Rate.

The mortality among consumptives has been materially decreased of late years by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Phthisis, Bronchitis, Abscess of the Lungs, Pneumonia and Throat Affections are completely subjugated by a timely use of this excellent pulmonic. Palatable as milk. Sold by all Druggists at 50c. and $1.00

Buffalo Bill Coming.

With his Wild West Show causes immense excitement near equal to that caused by the introduction of the wholesome and pure article known as the Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. Sold by all grocers.

Back-Ache.

Back-ache is caused by sick kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills will remove it. By their peculiar action on the kidneys, they impart activity and benefit the system by purifying the blood. You cannot have pure blood with disordered kidneys; health's existence depends upon their natural condition; they are the governors of the system, continual disorder results in kidney consumption, which is Bright's disease.

NO QUARTER will do you as much good as the one that buys Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. This is what you get with them: An absolute and permanent cure for Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Sick and Bilious Headaches, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels. Not just temporary relief, and then a worse condition afterward—but help that lasts.

Pleasant help, too. These sugar-coated little pellets are the smallest, the easiest to take, and the easiest in the way they act. No griping, no violence, no disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation.

They come in sealed vials, which keeps them always fresh and reliable; a convenient and perfect vest-pocket remedy. They're the cheapest pills you can buy.

SHOP EARLY

And often this week. Thursday and Saturday the farmers will demand a good share of our attention. Our display don't include rakings or tea, pills or perfumery, books or dolls, but if you want a piece of SILVER WARE, a LAMP, a dinner or tea set or anything in china or crockery why see us—that's where we shine. So much better choice in such a store as this than places where there's a little of everything and not much of anything. 9 hanging and 5 parlor table lamps sold Saturday. This shows how the main stream of trade keeps to the old channel. Open every night this week.

Bruises Cured.

DEAR SIRS,—In 1890 my body was covered with Boils, and I was at last induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters; by the time I had used 3½ bottles of it I was completely cured, and I cannot speak too highly of it.

MRS. JAMES DESMOND, Halifax, N. S.

Made With Skill.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skillful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

Out of Sorts.—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure,' and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bill. For this complaint take from two to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

The speed of a wild duck is ninety miles an hour.

Do not delay in getting relief for the little folks. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is a pleasant cure cure. If you love you child why then do you let it suffer when a remedy is so near at hand.

BROOKE'S DAUGHTER.

By
ADELINE SERGEANT,
Author of "A True Friend," etc., etc.
(By permission of John Lovell & Son, Montreal.)

"I see that I have made a mistake—but I assure you that it was from the purest motives. I don't'—forgetting his apologetic attitude for a moment—"I don't think that you realize what a great man your father is—how good, as well as great. I don't think you understand h him. But I beg your pardon for seeming to think that I could enlighten you. Of course I cannot like impertinent interference to you. But if you knew"—with a tremor of disappointment in his voice—"what your father has done for me, you would not perhaps be so surprised at my wanting his daughter to sympathize with me in my feelings. I had no idea"—this was intended to be a Parthian shot—"that my admiration would be be thought insulting.'

He bowed very low, and turned to depart, craving for nothing but nothing would induce him to enter that drawing-room again; but Lesley, pale and wide-eyed, called him back.

"Stay, Mr. Kenyon,' she said, fixing her her scat.

He halted, his hat in one hand, his fingers still on the knob of the door.

"I never meant to say,' said Lesley, confronting him, 'that I was incapable of sympathy with you in admiration for my father. With my feeling toward him you have nothing to do—that is all I am not angry because you express your own sentiments, but because—'

She stopped and bit her lip.

'——Because I dared divine what yours might be?' asked Maurice, boldly, and with an accent of reproach. 'Is it possible that yours can be like mine? and am I to blame for saying so? How can you estimate the worth of his work? You, a girl fresh from school? I know it is very rude to say so, but I cannot help it. If you were more of a woman, Miss Brooke, if you had had a wider experience of life and mankind, you would acknowledge that you could not possibly know very much of what your father had done, and would be glad of the opportunity of learning!

This was just the speech calculated to make Lesley furiously angry, and it was with great difficulty that she restrained the words that rose impetuously to her lips. She stood motionless and silent, and Maurice mistook her silence for that of stupid obstinacy, when it was the silence of wounded feeling and passionate resentment. He went on hotly, for he began to feel himself once more in the right.

'Of course you may know all about him; you may know as much as I who have lived and worked at his side, so to speak, for the last six years! You may be familiar with his writings; have you seen the Tribune every week, and you may know that wonderful book of his—The Unexplored I mean—not the essays—by heart; there may be nothing that I can tell you, even about his pallant fight for one of the hospitals last year, or the splendid work he has set going at the Macclefield Buildings in North London, or the way in which his name is blessed by hundreds—yes hundreds of men and women and children whom he has helped to lead a better life! You may know all about these things, and plenty more, but you can't know—coming here without having seen him since you were a baby—you can't know the beauty of his character, or the depths of his sympathy for the erring, or the tremendous efforts that he has made, and is still making for the laboring poor. You can't know this, or else I'd tell you, Miss Brooke, what you would be doing! You would be working heart and soul to lighten his burdens and to relieve him of the incessant drudgery that interferes with his higher work, instead of sitting here day after day reading yellow backed novels in a drawing room.

And then, in a white heat of indignation, Mr. Maurice Kenyon took his leave. But he did not know the consternation that he had created in Lesley's mind. She was positively frightened by his vehemence. But she had never seen an angry man before—never been spoken to in strong masculine tones of reprobation and disgust, such as it seemed to her that Maurice Kenyon had used. And for what? She did not know. She was not aware that she had behaved in an unfilial manner to her father. She did not realize that her indifference to her pursuits and bowldered books, had told Mr. Kenyon far more than she would have cared to confess about the state of her feelings. For the rest, Ethel's words had Maurice's vivid imaginations were to blame. And angry as Lesley was, she felt with a thrill of dismay that Mr. Kenyon's discourteous words were perfectly true. She did not appreciate her father's work as she know anything about him. All that she had hitherto surmised was bad. And here came a young man, apparently sane, certainly handsome and clever, although disagreeable—to tell her that Caspar Brooke was a hero, a man among ten thousand, an intellectual giant, an uncrowned king. It was too ridiculous; and Lesley laughed aloud—although as she laughed she found that her eyes were wet with tears.

CHAPTER XII.
"THE UNEXPLORED."

Lesley retained for some time a feeling of distinct anger against Maurice Kenyon, even while she came to acknowledge the truth of divers of his words. But the truth, she told herself indignantly, was no justification of his brutality. He was horribly rude and meddlesome and intrusive. What business was it of his whether she gave her father or not the meed of praise that he deserved? Why should she be lectured for it by a stranger? Maurice Kenyon's conduct—Maurice Kenyon himself—was intolerable, and she should hate him all the days of her life.

And in good sooth, Maurice's behaviour is somewhat hard to excuse. He certainly had no business at all to attack Lesley on the subject of her father's feelings and work, and his mode of attack was almost ludicrously wanting in judgment and discrimination. But that which tact and judgment might perhaps have failed to effect, Maurice's sledge hammer blows brought home to Lesley's understanding. He was to blame, but he did some good, nevertheless. When the first shock was over Lesley began to reflect that her own world had been a narrow one, and possibly there were others equally as good. And this was a great step to a girl who had been educated in a French convent school.

Part of Lesley's inheritance from her father and a part, of which she was quite unconscious, was a singularly fair mind. She could judge and balance and discriminate with an impartiality which was far beyond the power of the ordinary woman. Being young now her impartiality was disturbed by little gusts of passion and prejudice; but the faculty was there to be strengthened by every opportunity of exercising it. The faculty had been stirred within her when Lady Alice had first told her of her father's existence; but she had tried to stifle it as an accursed thing. She held it wicked to be anything but a partisan. And now it had revived within her, and was urging her to form no rash conclusions, to be careful in her thoughts about her new acquaintance, to weigh her opinions before expressing them. And all this in spite of a native fire and vivacity of temperament which might have led her into difficulties but for the counterbalancing power of judgment which she had inherited from the father whom she had been taught to despise.

So although she raged with all her young heart and strength against Mr. Kenyon's construction of her feelings and motives, she had the good sense to ask herself whether there had not been some truth in what he said. After all, what did she know about this stranger's forefathers, whose every actions he judged so harshly? She had heard her mother's story, which certainly placed him in a very unamiable light. But many years had gone by since Lady Alice left her husband, and a man's character might be modified in a dozen years or so. Lesley was willing to go so far. He might even be repentant for the past. Then Sister Rose's words came back to her. She might become the instrument of reconciliation between two who had long been divided!

HAMILTON, April 20, 1892.

I was doctoring for years with physicians for a scaly and scurvy affection of the scalp, they told me it was eczema, but gave me no permanent relief. I was also troubled with excessive dandruff, which would drop from my head like snow flakes. Hearing of Ant-Dandruff I used it, and from the third application felt more relieved than for years; when half of the bottle was used the scurvy and scaly eruptions had disappeared and have not returned since; dandruff was thoroughly removed, the itching of the scalp stopped, and for an elegant, clean and useful hair dressing Ant-Dandruff has no equal.

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have now been troubled since.

Four Doses Cure a Cough.

GENTLEMEN,—My little boy was troubled with a very bad cough, and a lady friend advised me to try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. I got it at once and can truly say I did not give more than three or four doses until his cough was gone. I have never been without it since, as I find it the best for troublesome coughs.

A Serious Accident.

A little girl named Edith Hogle last evening was playing in the Merchants' bank, sliding down the banister. She lost her hold and fell to the floor, a distance of about 20 feet. The injuries sustained were of such a character that her life is despaired of. Dr. Walker was called in attendance.

A COMPLETE VICTORY.

Mr. A. W. Carscallen Elected by a Large Majority.

Great Rejoicing at Marmora Village—Speeches by the Successful Candidate and Others.

Great interest was manifested in the city yesterday, in the Parliamentary election which was in progress in North Hastings. A number of our citizens have votes in the riding, and both parties worked energetically. The excitement in various parts of the constituency was great, it having been thought by many that the contest would be close. Such, however, has proved not to be the case, as the Conservative candidate, Mr. A. W. Carscallen, has been returned by a majority which, when all the returns are in, will be in the vicinity of 450.

A large number of the citizens assembled at the telegraph offices in the city and as the returns began to arrive it was apparent that the Conservative candidate was elected. At about 8.30 sufficient polls had been heard from to place the result beyond a doubt. Much satisfaction was expressed by a majority of those present.

AT MARMORA.

At the village of Marmora last night the enthusiasm knew no bounds. As soon as soon as it was apparent that Mr. Carscallen had been elected, a grand torch-light procession was organized participated in by an immense concourse of the electors of the village and surrounding neighborhood, who had gathered to hear the returns. The procession was headed by a brass band, and the successful candidate was drawn through the village in a large sleigh. The scene was an inspiring one, cheer after cheer rending the air, as the triumphal procession proceeded on its way. Mr. Carscallen was taken to his residence, where a halt was made. Here he delivered a short address, thanking his friends in the riding and others who had stood by him in the contest and worked so energetically to achieve the grand victory, which had been won. They had labored not in vain. He appreciated their services, and it was his intention to do all he could to retain the confidence which had been placed in him. The speaker was at times cheered, and at the close was loudly applauded. He was followed by the President of the Liberal Conservative Association for North Hastings, Mr. W. E. Gladney, of Marmora, who made a short and acceptable speech. Mr. Geo. H. Pope, of this city, also made an address congratulating the member elect and the electors upon the result. The proceedings were brought to a close after cheers had been given for the member, the Queen and others. The whole village, men, women and children, apparently turned out to do honor to Mr. Carscallen.

The returns as received are as follows:

Majority for Carscallen 404, with Mayo and Carlow, Dungannon, Herschel and Monteagle, which about tied each other last year, to hear from.

Amongst those who contributed most largely to the victory were Messrs H. Corby M.P., W. B. Northrup M.P., Hon. M. Howell, Mr. John Cankey, Mr. R. C. Hulme, Mr. J. S. Larke, Mr. Geo. H. Pope, W. W. Pope, John Taylor and J. E. Halliwell.

The Member for North Hasting

A Sketch of the Career of Mr. A. W. Carscallen, M. P.

Mr. A. W. Carscallen, member-elect for North Hastings, is a descendant of the U. E. Loyalists. His grandfather was a captain in the British army. When coming to America he settled at the spot where Albany now stands, and in 1787, with that great army of U.E. Loyalists, having forty acres of land confiscated for his allegiance to the British throne, came to Canada, and settled at Fredericksburg, where the member for North Hastings and his father were born, the latter of whom served in the rebellion of 37. Mr. Carscallen is 48 years of age, and came to the County of Hastings 36 years since. He has since made Marmora his home, where he was for a time engaged in business with Mr. Bleecker, and later with Mr. Gladney. Mr. Carscallen has always been interested in the lumber business, and is now largely interested in the development of mining, besides carrying on a private bank at Marmora. Personally Mr. Carscallen is the embodiment of a self made "Canadian boy." Cheerful and enterprising, he is deservedly popular with all his acquaintances.

Bachelor's Ball.

The young bachelors of the city last night held their annual assembly, which proved to be a brilliant affair. It was held in the large hall in the Ashley block and was attended by a large number. The hall had been tastefully decorated for the occasion. Invited guests were present from Toronto, Montreal, Kingston, Brockville, Madoc, Stirling, Picton and other places in this vicinity. Dancing was maintained until an early hour this morning. A midnight supper was served by Messrs Dickens & Son.

Election of Officers.

The following were last night elected office-bearers for the ensuing year, for the Sunday School of Holloway St. Methodist church: Supt., Prof. G. A. Swayze; Ass't Supt., Prof. Canfield; Sec'y, P. Harrison; Treas., J. G. Vandusen; Librarian, M. Dulmage; Ass't do., W. Young; Organist, Miss M. A. Thompson; Ass't do., Miss F. Dafoe.

The Civic Election.

On Monday the electors of the city will be called upon to exercise there franchise, and by their votes choose those who for the next year will guide the destinies of the city. The contest will, no doubt, be a lively one, as, in addition to their being three candidates for Mayor, there will be a contest in every Ward.

A Gallant Rescue.

For several days the two keepers of the Beacon light house at Oswego had been imprisoned by the ice. Last Sunday they ran up a flag of distress and a relief party was organized headed by Capt. John Gowan, of the Reliance, and Capt. Frank McMaster, of the Allandale. They started in a small boat and after a terrible battle of three hours with the ice and waves, succeeded in landing the suffering men, who had been without food for two days.

Mayoralty, 1893.

The mag professing enterprise
Should have it well diffused,
And not just centred in himself,
To be by him abused.

There is a man with the pretence
Now seeking to be Mayor,
But if the folks use common sense
He never will get there.

To the Electors

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—It has been currently reported through the city that Mr. Fowell has made offers of contracts with the leading carriage firms.

Having called on the different firms, I find that Mr. Fowell has merely asked for quotations—nothing different. In my opinion, it was simply an election dodge.

RATE PAYER.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—Being an elector, and having attended the nomination for Mayor on Monday last, I was not only surprised but disappointed at the unfair manner in which Ald. Wallbridge and Mr. Petrie attacked their opponent, Mr. Fowell, and were it not for the unfairness being made by the supporters of these two gentlemen of the arguments (if such they can be called) there used by them against Mr. Fowell, I would not encroach on your valuable space, feeling satisfied that any one having an opportunity, as I had on nomination day, of observing their conduct in contrast with the manly, straight-forward, business like conduct and utterances of Mr. Fowell, must condemn them. Mr. Fowell was then a stranger to me, and my sympathies up to that time were with one of the other two, but the unmanly conduct of themselves and some of their friends won me to Mr. Fowell. I think I am safe in saying that nine-tenths of the remarks of these gentlemen and their friends were directed to abuse and belittling Mr. Fowell, the same tactics used in the past to drive other business men from our city, and to prevent others coming here.

Their principal charges against Mr. Fowell were, that he had set up in business in opposition to some one else, that he owned no real estate and was only six years a resident of the city.

Now, Mr. Editor, are any of these good reasons? If no new business men come into our city, how is the business of the city to increase? Must we do business with those who are here first and pay whatever prices they may ask and turn a cold shoulder to any new comer who may set up in opposition, simply because others are here first, or is it an advantage to the city to encourage men to invest their capital in business here, to encourage them in the occupation of some of the vacant stores in our city (of which, alas! there are yet too many) and payment of the taxes thereon, to encourage them to occupation of some of the vacant houses (of which, alas! there are also too many), and payment of taxes thereon, to encourage them to employ some of our idle citizens to assist in carrying on their business and to take advantage of the abilities of successful business men (whether new comers or old ones), to assist in handling the city's business? It seems to me the latter is the proper course for citizens having the welfare of the city at stake to take and Mr. Fowell is a man of this class, successful in his own business, paying a large amount of rent and taxes, employing labor, circulating his capital.

No doubt both these gentlemen are older residents and wish the city well, but being an old resident and well-wisher are not the necessary qualifications for a good Mayor. It requires a man of business experience, a man who has sufficient faith in the city to invest his capital in business in it, and who at a time when business is to be done knows how to do it and does it and not occupy his time in attacking his neighbor. It is a qualification and ability to fill the office and the slide talk of Ald. Wallbridge and Mr. Petrie in running down the business of Mr. Fowell is only a weak attempts to direct attention from their unfitness for the office and to gain an advantage by undue means.

Mr. Fowell showed clearly in his address that he had accomplished more in two years in the Council than either of the other two had in their boasted long service, being a practical illustration as to who is the better man for Mayor.

Give us more business men in the city, give us more capital invested in business and let us in turn encourage the business man and get the benefit of his business, experience in handling the city's business and this we can do by electing Mr. Fowell Mayor.

ANOTHER OLD RESIDENT.

SOCIAL & PERSONAL.

Dr. Davies is in Detroit.

Mr. Lewis Benmore has been confined to his room for several days.

Miss Minnie Weese, of Kingston, formerly of this city, is spending a few weeks among friends here.

Dr. Burdett, who unfortunately broke his leg recently is at the hospital. He is progressing favorably.

Mr. John Sprague, M.P.P. for Prince Edward county, was in the city to-day.

Miss Wallace, of Napanee; is the guest of Miss May Diamond, Belleville.—Mr. Jas H. Hill, of Belleville, spent Christmas with his family at the residence of Mr. Philip Embury.—Mrs. John George and Mr. John Fretheham, spent Christmas in Belleville with her daughter, Mrs. Walter Fanning.—Mr. Eugene Richardson, of Belleville, and wife, spent Christmas and a few days this week with friends in town, the guest of her father, Mr. S. McL. Detlor.—Beaver.

A Painful Accident.

Mr. John Taylor, of this city, yesterday afternoon met with an accident which deprived him of a finger. He was getting off the train at Madoc village, when by some means a hook attached to a chain at the station platform caught upon a ring which the gentleman wore upon the small finger of the left hand, and drew the ring down the finger lacerating it in a terrible manner. He was taken to Dr. Dafoe's office, where it was found necessary to amputate the finger at the second joint.

John Street Church.

A most interesting and delightful Sunday School entertainment in connection with this church took place last night. The singing and recitations by the children were excellent. Mrs. Ritchie, Mrs. Fax, Miss McKay, and Miss Vorce had, evidently, given much time and attention to preparing the young people for the evening. Mr. Sinclair, the Superintendent of the school, presided, and spoke of the way in which the Sunday School may be assisted by the parents of Scholars. Handsome prizes were presented to Misses Edna Sutherland and Annie Denmark for good conduct, and attention to lessons. The offer of a prize to every scholar correctly repeating the catechism was renewed by Mr. Forin and Mr. Tannahill. The evening was a very pleasant one

Wishes to express his thanks to the public for the very liberal patronage given him during the past year,

And to wish all a most Happy New Year.

SHOP EARLY

And often this week. Thursday and Saturday the farmers will demand a good share of our attention. Our display don't include raisins or tea, pills or perfumery, books or dolls, but if you want a piece of SILVER WARE, a LAMP, a dinner or tea set or anything in china or crockery why see us—that's where we shine. So much better choice in such store as this than places where there's a little of everything and not much of anything. 9 hanging and 8 parlor table lamps sold Saturday. This shows how the main stream of trade keeps to the old channel. Open every night this week.

Of Importance to Teachers.

At a meeting of the County Board of Examiners, held in Madoc on December 27th, the following resolutions were adopted:—

1. That all applicants for the renewal of Third Class (Provincial or District) certificates authorized by Section 52 (Sub-Sections 1 and 2) of the regulations of the Education Department, shall, before receiving such renewals, be required to pass the professional examination at the close of the Model School term.

2. That applicants whose efficiency as teachers cannot be certified to by their inspectors, shall, in addition, be required to spend another season in the Model School.

3. That applicants for renewals who have passed the Junior and Senior Leaving Examination and who are recommended by their respective Inspectors as efficient and progressive teachers, will, at the discretion of the Board of Examiners, be granted renewals without again passing the Third Class professional examination.

New Year's Re-union.

Next Monday, being the fourth anniversary of the opening of the Free Reading Room and Parlor in connection with the Young People's Christian Association of Bridge St. Church, a reception will be held from 3 to 10 p.m. to which all our citizens and visitors in town are earnestly invited to come. The Association has not been in the habit as does it intend, to ask any financial or other aid, as it does not need it, but it very naturally looks for and expects the appreciation of the better class of our people; and in order that this may be done the re-union on Monday will be held. Kindly bear in mind and drop in if but for a few moments. Refreshments served from 3 to 8 o'clock.

Every Month.

We have now closed the year's business and the sales are away ahead of any year in the history of the Oak Hall. Every month shows a substantial increase. We find that it pays in the long run to sell good clothing. Our customers may depend that during 1893 we intend being even more particular about getting nothing but the best class of made up clothing.

Decreasing The Death Rate.

The mortality among consumptives has been materially decreased of late years by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Phthisis, Bronchitis, Abscess of the Lungs, Pneumonia and Throat Affections are promptly subjugated by a timely use of this excellent pulmonic. Palatable as milk. Buffalo Bill Coming.

With his Wild West Show causes immense excitement near equal to that caused by the introduction of that wholesome and pure article known as the Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. Sold by all grocers.

Back-Ache.

Back-ache is caused by sick kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills will remove it. By their peculiar action on the kidneys, they impart activity and benefit the system by purifying the blood. You cannot have pure blood with diseased kidneys. Your health's existence depends upon their natural condition; they are the governors of the system, continual disorder results in kidney consumption, which is Bright's disease.

VOLUMES COULD BE WRITTEN,

filled with the testimony of women who have been made well and strong by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

It's a medicine that's made especially to build up women's strength and to cure women's ailments—an invigorating, restorative tonic, soothing cordial, and bracing nervine; purely vegetable, non-alcoholic, and perfectly harmless. For all the functional derangements, painful disorders, and chronic weaknesses that afflict womankind, the "Favorite Prescription" is the only guaranteed remedy.

It must have been the medicine for most women, or it couldn't be sold on any such terms.

Isn't it likely to be the medicine for you? Sold by druggists everywhere.

Made with Skill.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the modern successful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints, is made from the best pectoral herbs and barks by the most skillful and scientific methods, and cannot fail to give prompt relief.

Out of Sorts—Symptoms: Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, will develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that 'an ounces of prevention is worth a pound of cure,' and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take 2 or 3 of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. Very little to be taken, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

A FATAL DUEL

Krupp's Resident Agent Shot and Killed by An Officer.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 31.—Major Gillain of the Guards and Eugene Vanderbergen, Krupp's resident agent, fought a duel in a private garden on the Bois de la Cambre last night.

Vanderbergen was shot through the heart and died instantly.

The two men had been on bad terms for several months in consequence of their rivalry for the favors of a notorious woman. On the first exchange of shots Gillain's shot was wide. The second exchange Vanderbergen fell dead without a word or sigh.

Vanderbergen was exceptionally popular among officers and business men in this city, and the announcement to-day of the manner of his death has made a painful impression in military circles.

Gillain is considered to have been blameworthy throughout the affair and he probably will receive more than the nominal sentence passed usually upon military duellists. The woman in the case has disappeared.

THE PARIS EXPLOSION

A Former Boulangist Agent Arrested On Suspicion.

PARIS, Dec. 31.—M. Hutin, formerly a Boulangist agent, has been arrested on suspicion of having caused the explosion at the Prefecture of Police yesterday. He is believed to have been the instrument of the remnant of the Boulangist party and the Royalists in the matter, and to have proposed the inauguration of a reign of terror like that of last spring in order that in the accompanying confusion the republic might be wrecked.

Although no information can be obtained directly or indirectly from the police, it is plain that they have been working to-day more industriously upon clues pointing to the ultimate responsibility of some parliamentary party than upon any presumptive evidence implicating Anarchists.

INDIA'S DESIRE.

The National Congress Favor Home Rule —Silver Question.

CALCUTTA, Dec. 31.—Seven hundred delegates were present at the meeting of the Indian National Congress at Allahabad. A resolution was presented expressing regret that the people of India were not allowed to elect representatives to the council of the Viceroy.

The resolution was referred to a committee, but the manner of its reception showed the increasing popularity of the movement for a national Indian legislature.

Another resolution was introduced asking the Indian Government not to deal with the currency question before the public had been enabled to discuss the report of the Herschell committee on the subject, and a resolution was also presented demanding the separation of judicial from executive functions in Indian officials.

EXPECTED ACQUITTAL.

The Imprisoned Panama Canal Directors —Are Not Worrying.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—The Paris correspondent of The Daily News says: The reports of M. De Freycinet being involved in the Panama Canal scandals are melting away from lack of evidence. All that can be said against him is that he wrote amiable letters asking assistance from Dr. Herz in his candidature for the presidency to succeed M. Grevy. The investigating committee has demanded the letters.

The imprisoned Panama Canal directors are still confident of acquittal.

Cornelius Herz, the German Hebrew connected with the Panama scandal, is still in London and has made preparations to stay all winter.

Labor Troubles In Germany.

BERLIN, Dec. 31.—In obedience to a Socialist clerical proclamation 8000 Saarlouis colliers have struck work, and it is expected the strike will spread.

The great brewers of Berlin, Brunswick, Magdeburg, Hamburg, Hannover and other places have formed insurance associations to protect themselves against losses due to boycotts and strikes and to enable them to take concerted action in combating the boycotting tactics of Socialists.

The German textile manufacturers have adopted a resolution never to re-employ strikers.

Cholera in France.

PARIS, Dec. 31.—Cholera continues to spread in the north of France. In the town of Gravelines, near Calais, three deaths and one new case were reported on Wednesday and three deaths on Thursday.

Several streets in which the disease is especially prevalent have been closed by the town authorities.

A Prince's Play-toy.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 31.—Elsa Roge, an actress, committed suicide by shooting Friday because her lover, Prince Sayn-Witt, decided to abandon her.

Lynching in Alabama.

GREENVILLE, Ala., Dec. 30.—John Hipp and Charles Kelly, both white men, the alleged murderers of Lee Collender, C. S. Armstrong of Butler County, were taken out of jail last night by a mob and lynched.

The Homestead Poisoning.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 31.—Informations have been made against several other persons implicated in the poisoning of the non-union workmen in the Homestead mill. The name have not yet been made public.

An Odd Gift.

PARIS, Dec. 31.—Alphonse de Rothschild has given 1,000,000 francs for the benefit of the women accouched in Paris Hospital.

SLAVERY AGAIN.

An Italian Arrested for Selling a Woman to a Fellow-Countryman.

NIAGARA FALLS, Dec. 31.—James O'Neil, an Italian padrone here, has been arrested for trafficking in women. An Italian named Jack Parma paid $27.00 for Annie Moggs. She returned to O'Neil and complained of the treatment she had received from Parma.

Parma complained to the police and had O'Neil arrested. Parma asked where his woman was, and O'Neil, before the court, told him if he would pay $5.00 he would tell him where he could find her. O'Neil is supposed to have a partner in New York, who sends him ignorant girls, and those who are told that good husbands will be provided them.

Sold His Wife for $25.

JAMESTOWN, N.Y., Dec. 31.—Charles Madden and Dora Curray of Titusville were married in this city two months ago. On Thanksgiving Day Mrs. Madden received a dispatch calling her to Titusville, where she met Fred Gilson, for whom she formerly kept house. They were married and the woman shortly afterward returned to husband number one in this city. Negotiations have since been pending, and to-day Mrs. Madden went to husband number two at Titusville, Madden having relinquished all claims upon her on receiving $25 from Gilson.

Fiet to Burn a City.

BUENOS AYRES, Dec. 31.—A plot to burn up this city was discovered a few days ago, and a number of policemen and firemen were arrested on the charge of being connected with the conspiracy.

The plan of the conspirators was to set fire to the city in several different places at once. They had selected as places at which to apply the torch some of the principal buildings, including the Customs House, the police office and the Archbishop's Palace. The object of the conspiracy was plunder.

Widowed and a Maniac.

CRUSOE, O., Dec. 31.—William Mountain, an oil well driller employed by the Standard Oil Co. at Camden, Ind., was instantly killed yesterday afternoon by the explosion of a shot gun. His wife upon being notified became a raving maniac.

HAMILTON, April 20, 1892.

I was doctoring for years with physicians for a scaly and scurvy affection of the scalp; they told me it was eczema, but gave me no permanent relief. I was also troubled with excessive dandruff, which would drop from my head like snow flakes. Hearing of Ayer's Anti-Dandruff I used it, and from the third application felt more relieved than for years; when half of the bottle was used the eczema and scaly eruptions had disappeared and have not returned since; dandruff was thoroughly removed, the itching of the scalp stopped, and for an elegant, clean and useful hair dressing Ayer's Dandruff has no equal.

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and to her surprise the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

Four Doses Cure a Cough.

GENTLEMEN,—My little boy was troubled with a very bad cough, and a lady friend advised me to try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. I got it at once and can truly say I did not give more than three or four doses until his cough was gone. I have never been troubled since, as I find it the best for troublesome coughs.

DALTON'S FAIR
FRONT STREET.

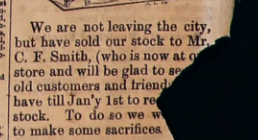

Santa Claus' Headquarters.

Our endeavors to make the Fair headquarters for Christmas supplies is more marked this fall than at any previous time. Our store, though large, is not sufficient to accommodate the great crowd at Christmas times. We would therefore urge you to make your selections now while the stock is complete and avoid the crush of Christmas time. We have just received 100 cases of foreign goods, consisting of almonds, dolls, tooth brushes, hair brushes, purses, fancy china cups and saucers, vases, jewellery, handsome lemonade sets, glass ware beautifully engraved; our assortment of American glassware must be seen to be appreciated. Never have we been able to offer such bargains in albums, ladies' work boxes, jewel cases, perfume cases, shaving cases, brush and comb cases, games from 5c up, playing cards from 5c up, beautiful whisk holders all the latest styles from 49c up. We have something new in dolls, dolls' dress goods, children's extension tables, sets of furniture, toy picture books, pansy books, magic lanterns 40c up, steam engines, skates, dolls' carriages, children's sleds and cutters strong and durable at lower prices, novels by the best authors 10c worth 25c, pocket knives and table cutlery an endless variety to choose from. But, perhaps, one of the greatest values is our special line of extra quality writing paper, 5 quires (120 sheets) for 17c. We will not attempt to enumerate further, but would invite you to call at before purchasing, where you can buy good goods at less than bankrupt prices.

Remember the place.
